

The Breaking Point of Love

Chapter 824

The message Miles had sent Trevor on the day Locket Tech ran into trouble wasn't answered until the following afternoon.

Even then, Trevor's reply had been extremely brief. "I'm fine. I can handle it myself."

Beck asked, "Should I message him and ask?"

"Sure."

Beck took out his phone and sent Trevor a message. "Things are mostly sorted out now, right? When do you think you'll be back?"

Miles's gaze drifted back toward Celeste.

Tonight, just like before, Celeste was still at the center of attention.

After sending the message, Beck also looked over at her.

He had been genuinely shocked by what happened at Philip's banquet. Afterward, he'd actually considered messaging her to ask how she was doing.

But he knew he had no right to concern himself with her feelings, so in the end, he hadn't sent anything.

Now, seeing her handling conversations about work with ease, seemingly unaffected by what had happened, he finally felt reassured.

Miles noticed that Beck was also looking at Celeste. Without thinking too much about it, he couldn't help saying, "I still can't believe she's one of YodaVision's founders, and that she became Zachary's student long ago. Every time I think about it, it still feels like a dream."

"Yeah." Beck had found it just as unbelievable at first. So, he understood exactly how Miles felt.

Suddenly, Miles remembered something he'd forgotten to ask. "By the way, do you think Trevor knew about Celeste and YodaVision? And that she was Zachary's student?"

Beck hesitated before shaking his head. "I don't know either."

He had actually wondered about this a long time ago.

If Trevor knew that Celeste was Zachary's student, then he should have known how capable she was.

After all, Wynn had originally wanted to get into YodaVision because of the company's programming language.

If Trevor knew how much of a gap there was between Celeste and Wynn in terms of capability, then

Logically he should also know that with Wynn's capabilities,

Zachary would never have accepted her as a student.

And yet, he had gone out of his way several times to make things happen for Wynn when she wanted to become Zachary's student.

If that was the case, then perhaps he really hadn't known about Celeste's achievements.

But if he hadn't known, then why hadn't he shown any surprise when Matthias revealed at Philip's banquet that Celeste was Zachary's student?

Could it be that he simply disliked Celeste so much that no matter how brilliant she was, he still didn't think much of her?

"I can't figure it out either," Miles said.

"I used to think that if Trevor knew, told us. But he's never told us anything about Wynn's

background even after all this time

"Yeah."

Perhaps it was simply too difficult for him to talk about. After all, Wynn's background really wasn't something that was easy to explain.

Meanwhile, Celeste was still talking with the other guests when her phone suddenly rang.

She glanced at the caller ID and answered.

After hearing what the person on the other end said, she replied, "Okay, I understand. I'll be there right away."

After hanging up, she exchanged a few quick words with the people around her before hurriedly turning to leave.

Beck's eyes had been on her the entire time. So, he quickly followed after her when he saw her suddenly leave.

"What happened?"

"Hannah said something happened with Jordyn. She refuses to eat and won't even leave her room."

Beck stiffened. "I'll go with you."

"You don't have to. I—"
