

The Breaking Point of Love

Chapter 828

The Breaking Point of Love

Trevor, Beck, and Miles still had work to deal with, so after spending two days on the island, they returned to the city.

The next day, Trevor went back to the Fleming Group to discuss a potential business partnership.

After Trevor had been busy for two days, word that he had already returned from his business trip reached Harvey.

The Lockets and Shaws had been having a difficult time these past few days. As soon as he learned that Trevor was back in the country, Harvey immediately told Wynn, "I heard Trevor is back."

Before Wynn could react, Linda immediately brightened. "He is finally back? Then does that mean we can-"

But Harvey's expression remained grim as he looked at Wynn. "I heard he actually came back two days ago."

Until now, Wynn had been repeatedly trying to contact Trevor without getting any response. They had assumed it was because he had too many things to deal with.

But now he was already back from his business trip for two days. Yet, he still hadn't contacted Wynn.

Wynn, Lilian, and the others immediately understood what Harvey was implying. Wynn froze for a moment, her hands clenched tightly as she remained silent.

It was only after seeing the grim expressions on everyone's faces that Linda realized what Harvey meant. Trevor had returned from his business trip, yet he hadn't contacted Wynn.

The smile on Linda's face immediately faded, replaced by panic and confusion. "Trev hasn't given Wynn any response since this whole thing happened. And now he's back from his business trip, but he still hasn't contacted her. Does that mean..."

No one answered. The certainty and confidence they'd had just a few days ago were gone.

After all, even if Trevor couldn't publicly step in to resolve the Locket family's crisis because of the Fleming Group and Lincoln's career, he could still have contacted Wynn to reassure her and put their minds at ease.

But Trevor had done nothing. He hadn't even sent her a single message.

Wynn said nothing. She got up and went upstairs.

"Wynn-" Harvey started after her.

But Lilian reached out and grabbed his arm, shaking her head to signal that he should stop.

Wynn didn't respond. Once she reached her room, she took out her phone and called Trevor.

The call went through, but no one answered. After the call ended automatically, she tried again. However, there was still no answer.

Caet

Wynn didn't keep calling. She just sent him another message after while. Are you back from youre business trip? Do you have time to go out for a meal?"

After sending it, she waited. But even after a long while, there was still no response.

Harvey and Lilian both knew that Wynn had probably gone upstairs to contact Trevor.

It was much later when Wynn finally came back downstairs. Her family took one look at her expression and knew that Trevor had probably still given her no response.

That night, hardly anyone from the Lockets and Shaws could fall asleep.

The next day, Patricia finally couldn't help saying, "Wynn, why don't you try contacting Beck and Miles?"

Wynn remained silent.

Because these past few days, it wasn't just Trevor. Beck and Miles hadn't contacted her either.

Her silence told the others everything.

Although Beck and Miles had seemed to have a pretty good relationship with Wynn, they were much closer to Trevor.

But Wynn felt that the reason
