Chapter 321: Crafting the Forest Heart! Su Ping's Botanical Garden!_2

However, after reaping such a bountiful harvest, Su Ping found that such an ordinary botanical garden simply wouldn't do justice to his numerous plant-based Pet Beasts. Even I feel uncomfortable looking at it, he thought.

He was very pleased with the exquisite design of the Heart of Water, so the 'Forest Heart' of this botanical garden naturally can't be handled carelessly either!

Fortunately, at the moment, they had only erected the fences around the barren mountain and the adjacent part of the Heart of Water lake, without actually starting construction. It wasn't too late to make changes.

Take the Longevity Banyan, for instance: a colossal, magnificent tree that formed a forest from a single trunk spreading over a hundred meters. It was simply not suited to be placed alongside various other smaller, low-level plant-based Pet Beasts, let alone some ordinary fruit trees.

Furthermore, creatures like the Longevity Banyan and the King Gunpine didn't enjoy living in groups, preferring some individual space.

Thus, Su Ping glanced up at the night sky, then immediately took out his phone and, making some quick decisions, began placing calls:

"Uncle Guan, get all those designers who've worked with us before from the gardens and bases."

It was just getting dark. Heart of Woods is a rare major client, and as a good client who isn't short on money and has few demands, shouldn't a competent design company be on call whenever needed? Su Ping mused.

And indeed, they were. Upon hearing there was more work, the various groups of designers arrived less than an hour after Su Ping had sat down on the hillside and chatted with these plant-based Pet Beasts that had temporarily taken root there.

They came fully equipped, bringing a plethora of equipment: infrared scanners, mechanical drones, panoramic simulation sand tables, and all sorts of other miscellaneous gear.

In the meantime, Su Ping had, during this time, figured out the demands of the Commander Level Pet Beasts he had brought. Simultaneously, he had organized the classifications of these Pet Beasts recorded by Li Shu.

Including the Life Ancient Tree, there were eleven Pet Beasts at the Advanced Commander Level or higher.

The Life Ancient Tree was easygoing.

The Old Tree had no particular requirements for its living conditions; anything would suffice.

As for the other ten, their demands were quite diverse, truly a case of 'each showing their own special prowess.'

The Sky-reaching Vine was relatively easygoing. Previously, this Sky-reaching Vine, whom the Old Tree called 'Little Vine,' had no special requirements and could even proactively assist with the base's defense, showing great potential to become a model Pet Beast employee for Heart of Woods.

Rouge Powder Peach Blossom Smile preferred to live in places with more flower Pet Beasts, where it could constantly smell its favorite floral scents.

This requirement wasn't difficult to fulfill; in fact, they could even lay out a garden within the 'Forest Heart' centered around the exceptionally beautiful Rouge Powder Peach Blossom Smile.

The King Gunpine's demand was quite interesting: it wanted to stand at the highest point of the botanical garden.

Although this two-hundred-meter-tall tree already resembled a signal tower, it still seemed unsatisfied.

However, the King Gunpine had its own justification. It could perceive the entire base and a vast surrounding area from the highest point on the mountain. If anything happened, it could provide a timely warning.

Regarding this, 'Little Vine,' the Sky-reaching Vine, expressed its dissatisfaction: With me here, what kind of situation could possibly arise?

Nevertheless, Su Ping also acknowledged the King Gunpine's request and its utility.

As for the Longevity Banyan, its needs were also manageable.

It required that, within a one-kilometer radius, apart from the esteemed Life Ancient Tree, there should be no other large plants or plant-based Pet Beasts.

This was understandable, as the Longevity Banyan's ability to form a forest from a single tree made it extremely dominant in competing for sunlight.

But the Longevity Banyan also had its justifications and benefits. Its fallen leaves were an Elite Level resource: 'Longevity Banyan Leaves.'

This was an extremely valuable resource, not only usable in Magic Potion preparation but also directly processable into tea that could extend one's lifespan with regular consumption.

The Longevity Banyan promised to provide Su Ping with ten to twenty kilograms of leaves each month.

Moreover, its vast canopy could provide shade and was highly aesthetically pleasing.

This single Longevity Banyan alone could add great diversity to Su Ping's enterprises.

These Longevity Banyan Leaves could be used for interesting projects; Su Ping didn't need to actively collect and sell them himself, but could allow visiting tourists to interact with them.

Apart from the Longevity Banyan and Rouge Powder Peach Blossom Smile,

the Flame Morning Glory was relatively special. Although its temperament was enthusiastic and generous, it didn't have much output. As a special plant that grew on mountain rocks, it didn't have any particular environmental requirements.

It would just hang on the mountain cliff, purely as an ornamental feature.

It was somewhat like an added bonus.

However, the Flame Morning Glory didn't mind, so Su Ping didn't concern himself with it further.

Besides those, the Blade Ginkgo was a real pain.

It didn't have any specific habitat requirements.

It could even provide ginkgo fruits, another Elite Level resource, 'Iron Apricot Fruit.'

The name 'Iron Apricot Fruit' was quite abstract, but its effects were excellent. As a Metal Element resource, it was very beneficial for these types of Pet Beasts.

However, the price and condition were that it needed to be irrigated with over twenty kilograms of molten iron each day.

To cultivate this thing, they would even need to build a high-temperature forging room.

Of course, overall, it was still worth it, just a bit troublesome.

Then there was the Laurel Tree.

The cultivation requirements of the Laurel Tree weren't difficult.

It didn't want to be exposed to sunlight and needed a shaded area, a place where it could come out at night to bask in the moonlight.

Chapter 322: Crafting the Forest Heart! Su Ping's Botanical Garden!_3

The laurel tree could gather the power of moonlight. In a certain sense, this made it different from the others. The biggest difference was that the resources it produced were Commander Level! Indeed, the 'laurel blossoms' that fell only once a year, on the fifteenth of August, were its main product. These blossoms contained a large amount of moonlight energy and were extremely beneficial for Pet Beasts of that affinity. Su Ping had actually encountered this before; the Moon Wolf Lin Lei had brought, from the Moon Wolf pack, had been particularly fond of these laurel blossoms. Su Ping naturally wouldn't refuse such a precious request from what was essentially a money tree.

There were three remaining: the Mist Pine, the Dragon-Patterned Bamboo, and finally, the Hundred Birds Wutong Tree.

Of these three, the Mist Pine required an aquatic environment. It could generate mist, which stimulated aquatic plants and increased underwater oxygen content, improving the living conditions for aquatic Pet Beasts. This was also simple to arrange. The edge of the Forest Heart bordered the lake of the Heart of Water. The Mist Pine could enter the water if it wished, or it could simply extend its roots into the water from the shore.

The Hundred Birds Wutong Tree, true to its name, wanted to be surrounded by avian Pet Beasts. It also released a special scent that would attract birds to build nests nearby.

However, it was the Dragon-Patterned Bamboo that surprised Su Ping. It had been quiet until then, but then it made a demand that almost threw out Su Ping's back. This creature wanted to be irrigated with dragon blood!

Dragon blood!

Regardless of whether it was a Western or Eastern dragon, unless it was a Sub-Dragon Species, the racial upper limit of such creatures was at the Emperor Level or even higher. And yet this mere Commander Level Dragon-Patterned Bamboo wanted to be irrigated with dragon blood.

In the end, without Su Ping even needing to act, the Life Ancient Tree, in a rare display, gave the bamboo a slap. Then it told the bamboo to get to work improving the soil of the barren mountain.

The Dragon-Patterned Bamboo sounded very impressive, but in reality, its combat abilities were quite average. It was a dual-element Earth and Wood Pet Beast. Its greatest contribution to Su Ping was its ability to slightly aerate the soil and improve its quality, which would prevent soil erosion and ensure good soil quality for all other Plant-based Pet Beasts.

Thus, the ten Commander Level Pet Beasts were accounted for: Sky-reaching Vine, Rouge Powder Peach Blossom Smile, Longevity Banyan, King Gunpine, Flame Morning Glory, Blade Ginkgo, Dragon-Patterned Bamboo, Laurel Tree, Mist Pine, and Hundred Birds Wutong Tree. All the requests of these ten Pet Beasts had been met. Su Ping also made a significant summary based on his interactions.

Through his conversation with the Longevity Banyan, Su Ping learned that four of them—Rouge Powder Peach Blossom Smile, Longevity Banyan, Blade Ginkgo, and Hundred Birds Wutong Tree—were not averse to human presence. As long as people didn't overstep, they were even willing to interact more. Therefore, they could be developed into Pet Beasts that interacted with tourists. Flame Morning Glory, King Gunpine, and Dragon-Patterned Bamboo, on the other hand, neither rejected nor particularly liked human proximity. They were the type that could be approached and admired, but no further interaction was possible. Beyond these, the Mist Pine and the Laurel Tree preferred solitude and disliked being near any other living beings. They could only be admired from a distance and not approached.

As for the Sky-reaching Vine? Su Ping was convinced that no person or Pet Beast would actually want to observe this little fellow. Its abilities, just as it had said, were indeed best suited for practical applications like guarding the property.

Clearly, from an industry perspective, Rouge Powder Peach Blossom Smile, Longevity Banyan, and Blade Ginkgo were undoubtedly well-suited for development as additional attractions. Su Ping nodded in agreement with this, quite pleased with the prospect.

If they perform well, the future botanical garden's targets might just depend on these three.

These three could be used to successively create a flower garden, a Longevity Banyan interactive area, and then a picking forest centered around the Blade Ginkgo.

As for the Hundred Birds Wutong Tree, I still don't have any development ideas for it yet.

As for the others, they could serve as supplementary attractions and add to the park's overall appeal, placed in the botanical garden's observation area on the barren mountain.

For those like the Mist Pine and Laurel Tree that didn't want to interact with humans, the Mist Pine, for example, could be placed in that secluded area where the forest met the water. The Mist Pine could release mist, creating an ethereal, fairyland-like atmosphere that would also naturally deter outsiders from entering.

As for the Laurel Tree... it could be placed together with the Life Ancient Tree.

Additionally, apart from these ten Plant System Commander Level Pet Beasts, there were also over twenty other species, totaling more than a thousand low-level Plant-based Pet Beasts. These included Daorong Poplar Trees, Summit Snow Cedars, Mountain Ginseng, White Jade Lychee Trees, Azure Jade Grapevines, Spiral Orange Trees, and more. There were fruit-bearing types, battle-type forest-guarding Pet Beasts, and other uniquely beautiful Plant-based Pet Beasts. One could say there was everything needed.

How to allocate these Plant-based Pet Beasts was another issue. And Su Ping handed this issue over to the designers who had arrived.

After hearing everything Su Ping had said, all the designers nodded. The distinct areas and care locations for the ten top Commander Level Plant-based Pet Beasts had to be established, each with unique features. Furthermore, the entire mountain forest, including the extensions of the barren mountain woodlands connecting to the Lingxi River, required renovation. All of these were tasks for them to research and work on.

"Mr. Su, it's late, and we've all been briefed on the situation. Could we go back and discuss this among ourselves?" a designer suggested.

Su Ping waved his hand. "Discuss it right here."

Several groups of designers looked troubled. Although they had absolute faith in the guest room accommodations at the Heart of Cloud, still...

However, their troubled expressions were quickly interrupted by Su Ping's next words. "Room and board are covered. Whichever company comes up with a design that satisfies me first will receive an additional reward of 500,000 yuan per designer, on top of the fees. Of course, I won't let the rest of you toil in vain."

He was making it clear that money was no object!

Pingyun was practically printing money for him. I can't just be a hoarding capitalist, sitting on cash and waiting for it to lay eggs. It needs to flow back into the market in other ways to keep the economy stable.

As expected, upon hearing this, everyone's eyes lit up. Money talks. With a client who clearly wasn't short of cash, they were ready to pull an all-nighter.

Watching the design firms, their competitive spirits now clearly ignited, Su Ping smiled, informed Lao Guan, and finally returned to the cultivation base in the Heart of Woods area.

Now that the Forest Heart's matter was settled, he could finally start to properly investigate Old Sha's condition.

Chapter 323: Blinding Technique Awakens! Skill Fusion in Progress!

Old Sha returned to his Heart of Woods form, head held high and chest puffed out, spirits soaring, his stride full of pride. From this day on, he was Monarch Level! What did Monarch Level represent? His master—Su Ping's grandfather, Su Zhongguang—was only Monarch Level when he died. Of course, by that time Su Zhongguang had already reached Monarch Peak. But no matter what, Old Sha was now a Monarch too. These little wolf cubs would have to show some respect when facing him!

However, after some thought, Old Sha felt that things were not much different from before. After all, these little wolf cubs had already been quite respectful towards him. Previously, he was the head of the wolf pack inside the Heart of Woods, and that hadn't changed.

This is the invincibility and loneliness of the powerful, Old Sha sighed to himself. It seems I'll have to communicate more with the old trees in the Forest Heart botanical garden behind the mountain in the future, he thought.

Under the astonished gazes of those two Forest Wolf feeders, Old Sha saw his young master returning at last.

"AWOO..."

Old Sha wagged his tail, his face a mask of fawning affection. This is my beloved young master!

Su Ping smiled, rubbing Old Sha's ever-growing body, and said directly, "Come with me."

While Li Shu and Guan Lili looked on in amazement, Old Sha and Su Ping entered the lab.

Su Ping glanced over. As expected, the Eye of Truth showed that Old Sha's three major Skills of the Sun Formula were all perfectly at the Perfection stage. But still, the qualitative change he wanted to see hadn't happened yet. It was the seed of a Super-Rank Skill, as Old Liu had pointed out.

Su Ping then hooked Old Sha up to a Life Energy Detector and began to closely monitor Old Sha's condition.

Old Sha was somewhat puzzled, but soon he didn't care about it anymore. Because something new had appeared in Su Ping's hands: a speck of condensed sunlight, like a stone, that brightly illuminated the lab.

Old Sha was all too familiar with it. It was by consuming this very thing that he had completed his final Evolution and become the Wanmu Wolf he was today! Yes, this was the Sun Crystal. Even now, he occasionally reminisced in his dreams about this special resource treasure.

Now that he was seeing it once again, Old Sha was ecstatic, and drool began to drip from his mouth. Indeed, my young master cares for me the best!

Su Zhongguang? Su Anyong? Forget them! At this moment, Old Sha had cast them all from his mind. He kept his eyes firmly fixed on the Sun Crystal in Su Ping's hand.

I'm such a sensible wolf, he thought. I know this thing is priceless. Normally, a few of those smiling sunflower seeds are a huge treat for me. Now that I see this again, I think I understand what my young master wants to do!

But Su Ping, aiming for a breakthrough in one go, naturally wouldn't rely solely on the Sun Crystal. He hadn't ordered the Forest Heart. However, he had previously asked Dong Muyun to prepare a large quantity of Sunlight Spring Water, which was now ready. A large bathtub, shaped like a giant petri dish, appeared. This was customized by Su Ping.

At the same time, he pressed a button, and several giant lamps on the environmental simulator device lit up. Light, akin to sunlight, burst forth, bathing Old Sha and the contents of the bathtub in its rays.

Old Sha seemed to understand. While still attached to the Life Detector, he stepped into the bathtub filled with Sunlight Spring Water. Then, he continued to watch the Sun Crystal in Su Ping's hand eagerly.

Su Ping already had a hypothesis. For Skills specific to a Race lineage like the Wanmu Wolf's, they would usually be learned naturally over time, unless they had rare triggering conditions as difficult as Paperman's 'Paper Body Joint.' This was the case for individuals like Erzhuang in the Legion. This kind of Skill comprehension didn't need to be troublesome. Even if a Skill hadn't been comprehended during growth, one merely needed to find resources for the corresponding Skill Cultivation and apply targeted methods to achieve comprehension. The Wanmu Wolf's Blinding Technique was undoubtedly like this.

Activating the power of sunlight naturally required material resources related to sunlight. Su Ping had thought he might need this for Cultivation after announcing the news of the Wanmu Wolf. He hadn't expected to use it for this first. But this was fine too.

Without hesitation, after recording Old Sha's data from the adjacent Life Detector, Su Ping handed the Sun Crystal directly to Old Sha. Meanwhile, the Sunlight Spring Water he was soaking in began to slowly seep into Old Sha's body. Under the simulated sunlight, the workshop suddenly became as bright as day.

Old Sha, unable to wait, swallowed the Sun Crystal.

Afterward, Old Sha's originally bright green eyes suddenly shone like the sun, flaring with light. He then closed them, and his body slowly sank into the Sunlight Spring Water.

Su Ping held his breath at that moment, his eyes glued to the nearby Life Detector, fearful that Old Sha might experience some unforeseen complications. When Erzhuang had released his terrifying power, there had been certain differences compared to Old Sha's situation. All three Skills of the Sun Formula had been at the same Level, allowing the 'water' within the 'pipes' to connect and flow through completely, without blockages from mismatched sizes.

Secondly, there was the mastery and acquisition of the Blinding Technique. Of course, if one were to argue, Second Strong had been trying its best to protect its master back then, choosing to step forward when its master was on the brink of life and death. However, this theory wasn't very plausible. Second Strong wasn't an unintelligent wild beast. Su Ping also believed that during the Legion's combat exercises, its master had definitely told the little guy that it wasn't a life-or-death struggle, so why push so hard? Therefore, this theory about its manifestation was, in Su Ping's assessment, unrealistic.

Moreover, various situations could occur in Pet Beast cultivation; perhaps some Pet Beasts were cultivated in an unanticipated instant, like the Paper Body Joint. But Pet Beast cultivation still had its fundamentals. The appearance of Super-Rank Skills was based on very strict foundational prerequisites. For instance, with Second Strong, its three Skills had not reached the Perfection Level, and a sudden power surge combined with an overload might have been required for it to achieve a breakthrough. However, if a Pet Beast had reached Old Sha's current level, where all Skill level requirements were met, then needing a sudden power surge would clearly be unscientific. Pet Beast cultivation also had to adhere to scientific principles. For Su Ping, all conditions concerning Old Sha had already been met, so there was no reason to expect any further surprises.

As Su Ping was contemplating this, the values on the Life Detector finally began to slowly change. The most noticeable was the Energy fluctuation. Old Sha's Energy value began to surge, rising from the previous 91% to 93%, then 97%, 102%, 111%, and onward.

It was unclear if it was an illusion, but within the already quite bright Sunlight Spring Water, under the illumination of the simulated sun lamp, a ray of light intensified further. At the same time, Old Sha's heartbeat and pulse also started to slowly increase. However, its life wasn't in any danger. This made Su Ping nod slightly, relatively satisfied. After Old Sha advanced to the Monarch Level, its ability to digest Monarch-grade resources also clearly improved by a tier. Its digestion and absorption of the Sun Crystal have become quite proficient!

However, Su Ping quickly thought of something annoying. Now that it's advanced to the Monarch Level and its absorption is enhanced, could it be that the effectiveness of the Sun Crystals will also decrease? After all, a single one of those is worth tens of millions. If I could save a few, I definitely would.

The brightness continued. The Sunlight Spring Water in the huge bathtub slowly became as clear as plain water, while Old Sha's fur and branches, under the lamplight, seemed to reflect a dazzling golden hue. It was dazzlingly eye-catching. The scene he had witnessed during the Legion's combat flashed through Su Ping's mind. At that time, the Wanmu Wolf, bathed in sunlight, had appeared white, almost transparent. Now, Old Sha's body was golden yellow. Under the light, it looked even more like a golden sculpture.

Su Ping watched Old Sha's condition while observing the changes on the Life Detector. Old Sha's Energy value continued to climb. However, the speed of the climb, compared to before, had become even more gradual. Finally, the upper limit of its Energy seemed to reach a threshold. Reaching 150%, it then began to recede.

And at this moment, Old Sha suddenly opened its eyes. Its eyes were no longer their previous deep green but had become extremely bright, lively, and vivid. The next moment, a flash of light burst before Su Ping's eyes. For a moment, Old Sha's eyes seemed to transform into large sun lamps. But it was only a brief flash; as if sensing Su Ping was right in front of it, the light abruptly ceased.

Su Ping revealed a slight smile. It was a success! The resource-intensive method really is effective. Sure enough, when Su Ping looked again with his Eye of Truth, Old Sha indeed possessed a new Skill: Blinding Technique (Beginner).

Su Ping once again looked at the experimental data. However, he didn't rush to remove the monitoring equipment from Old Sha, instead asking directly, "Old Sha, do you feel anything?"

Old Sha looked a bit confused. Clearly, the question was somewhat difficult for it. Undoubtedly, even among Pet Beasts of the same Level, there are differences. Su Ping didn't know how the Life Ancient Tree, a Monarch Peak Pet Beast, managed to speak human language, but Old Sha was still unable to do so. It could only let out a howl, which served as its response.

Su Ping's brows furrowed slightly. Then, without a second thought, he commanded, "Prepare to activate Sunlight Absorption, Photosynthesis, and Heart of Woods Energy, then unleash the Blinding Technique with all your might!"

Old Sha was taken aback. This is the laboratory, after all! Even though it isn't the most precious one for Magic Potion decomposition and configuration, it's still home. I'm not a shorthaired snow dog; I don't have a talent for wrecking the place! However, Old Sha executed Su Ping's orders even more thoroughly than a Pet Beast bound by a Soul Contract. Since its young master had commanded it, Old Sha had no reason to hesitate.

As Su Ping stepped out of the laboratory, a dazzling light burst forth from the laboratory's windows and doors, instantly illuminating the entire Heart of Wood Cultivation Base as if it were daytime. All the light emanated from the Old Wolf inside that laboratory.

HOWL!

The piercing wolf howl, under the night sky at the Heart of Woods base, seemed especially grating.

However, all the guest rooms in Heart of Cloud had excellent soundproofing, and everyone outside had already grown accustomed to these low, powerful roars.

Su Ping's gaze narrowed slightly.

This was pure light, pure glaring brightness; consequently, it possessed no great force and caused no damage or destruction to any equipment.

The Life Detector at the side continued to record any changes in Old Sha.

However, no sooner had Su Ping re-entered the lab than his eyes narrowed a fraction.

Old Sha's eyes were not closed. But, its body had undergone a change.

Specks of light appeared on its body, like fireflies drifting all around it.

And on its body, streaks of light, alternately bright and dim, also appeared, as if short-circuited light bulbs were flickering rapidly.

This strange situation made Su Ping's heart clench. He quickly glanced at the Life Detector beside him and only then sighed in relief.

There was no change in Old Sha's vital signs. The changes were still in the energy fluctuations.

These fluctuations were even more exaggerated and bizarre than when it had just swallowed the Sun Crystal.

Because they were completely irregular.

It even made Su Ping momentarily suspect that this damn thing was broken!

69%, 85%, 108%, 115%, 98%...

The energy amplitude fluctuated, changing almost every second.

Su Ping licked the corner of his mouth.

At this moment, it was impossible not to be nervous.

But, he had no other choice. Things had already started, and it was clearly impossible not to see it through to the end.

However, just as Su Ping hesitated on whether to add more Sunlight Spring Water and continue feeding Old Sha Sun Crystals, the flickering on Old Sha began to slow down.

Even the constantly fluctuating energy readings on the Life Detector slowed, finally stabilizing at the most saturated value: 100%!

However, the firefly-like specks of light flickering on Old Sha's body showed no sign of stopping, from beginning to end.

They continued to flicker intermittently, as if real fireflies were helping Old Sha constantly emit light from its body.

It was miraculous and eerie, yet it filled Su Ping with an indescribable anticipation.

He didn't know how a Super-Rank Skill was supposed to emerge.

But regardless, even Su Ping hadn't anticipated things reaching this stage.

He activated his Eye of Truth and looked at Old Sha before him.

Old Sha's eyes were still as bright and spirited as ever, but it seemed to be sensing some special changes occurring within its body.

It didn't notice the shift in Su Ping's gaze and thus didn't resist the scan from his Eye of Truth.

[Wanmu Wolf (Wild)]

[Current Level: First Stage Monarch]

[Racial Potential: Monarch Ninth Rank]

[Skills: Sunlight Absorption (Special Fusion in progress), Photosynthesis (Special Fusion in progress), Heart of Woods (Special Fusion in progress), Blinding Technique (Special Fusion in progress), Tree Prison

(Proficient), Wooden Body (Beginner), Language of Nature (Skilled), Life Magnetic Field (Beginner), Wolf King Majesty (Skilled)]

The feedback from the Eye of Truth had completely vanished.

But Su Ping still stared blankly ahead, his gaze seemingly fixed firmly on Old Sha, and for a long time, he clearly hadn't snapped out of his daze.

Even though he didn't understand the formation process of a Super-Rank Skill, at this moment, with the Eye of Truth providing the most accurate feedback on the Pet Beast, he saw those five special characters: 'Special Fusion in progress!'

Fusing what? It was self-evident!

However, even after Su Ping had somewhat recovered his senses, he still hadn't fully processed it.

He had originally thought that, even if it were a fusion, it should have involved the three skills from the sun formula he had researched.

But unexpectedly, Blinding Technique was also included in the fusion?

But on second thought, it made sense.

The three skills of the sun formula: Sunlight Absorption was for absorption, Photosynthesis for conversion, and Heart of Woods for transforming it into Energy and Life Force.

But ultimately, it seemed a method utilizing a sunlight-based skill was needed to unleash it.

Only then would a perfect skill chain be formed.

It was just that, at this final stage, there was surprisingly no further requirement for skill level.

Fortunately, there was no such requirement. Otherwise, Su Ping reckoned, if he had to raise Blinding Technique to Perfection Level, the prerequisites for this Super-Rank Skill would have been utterly absurd.

Setting aside other factors, it would likely be very difficult to achieve within a year.

After all, Blinding Technique didn't have that many linked targets for Old Sha to use for leveling it up.

But soon, Su Ping discovered that, damn it, he had been a bit too optimistic.

Old Sha had already jumped out of the bathtub, full of vigor.

Aside from the specks of light on its body and its two eyes that shone like searchlights, it was no different from before.

But man and wolf stared at each other like this for an entire night. Just maintaining the Eye of Truth had nearly exhausted all of Su Ping's spiritual power.

Those five damned characters, 'Special Fusion in progress,' showed no sign of disappearing.

It was still fusing.

How long is this thing going to take to fuse?

However, Su Ping also noticed that Old Sha would take a short nap for a few minutes every so often.

But constantly staring like this wasn't a viable solution, was it?

And after staring all night, if it completed the moment he left, wouldn't that be a terrible loss?

So, Su Ping thought for a moment and finally decided to give in.

Damn it, he had existing experience to draw upon. Why was he stubbornly enduring this here? Wasn't he just asking for trouble?

Continuing to endure like this indefinitely wasn't a solution either.

Therefore, Su Ping glanced at the sky, where the fish-belly white of dawn was beginning to appear. He then finally picked up his phone, found Vice President Liu's number, and dialed it.

Chapter 326: Revolution! The Arrival of the Crown Wolf Emperor's Evolution!

It wasn't yet dawn, and the center of the Breeder Association in Jianghai was extraordinarily peaceful.

However, inside the laboratory of the Breeder Association, it was still bustling with activity.

Several figures were rapidly checking the numbers on the instruments, and the sounds of Wolf Howls could be heard from time to time.

Among these people, the one leading was none other than Liu Fuhai.

He had not left all night and had been in his office the entire time.

This was his routine.

Ever since the nominal chairman of Jianghai Province went to the Imperial Capital and did not return, his work as the vice chairman had never ceased.

Fortunately, while other territories grew busier in winter, things at the Breeder Association were conversely quieter, giving Liu Fuhai a little respite.

Therefore, he finally had some time to come to the exclusive laboratory of the Association to continue researching his experimental direction, which had not yet succeeded:

The Super-Rank Skill combination of the Snow Wolf's Evolutionary Body, the Icefang Whitewolf.

After the last announcement of failure, Old Liu was originally disheartened.

But when he saw the Wanmu Wolf's Super-Rank Skill Seed that Su Ping possessed while in the Legion, Old Liu's hopes were rekindled.

If Su Ping could do it, why couldn't he, after so many years?

Should he switch to experimenting with other Pet Beasts? Clearly, that was even more impossible. The energy required would be immense, and unless he was incredibly lucky, he likely wouldn't see much progress within five years.

Naturally, it would be better to continue studying the Icefang Whitewolf.

Clearly, Old Liu was genuinely unwilling to give up.

Besides, he had gained some experience from Su Ping this time.

As a result, after sifting through numerous ice- and snow-based Skills, Liu Fuhai actually found a few that might have a chemical reaction with the Icefang Whitewolf's Special Skills.

For example, there is a Super-Rank Skill combination well-known to many: Heart of Elements.

Previously, Qin Xiaoxue and Su Ping had both mentioned this Skill.

And Heart of Woods is one of the combination Skills that make up Heart of Elements.

Among the other combination Skills, Heart of Gold, Heart of Water, Heart of Fire, and Earth's Heart are also needed.

Even some Wind Heart or Heart of Thunder could, to some extent, help piece together Heart of Elements.

But what creature could cultivate five or even more Heart of Elements Skills?

From an Attribute standpoint, this was already impossible. Creatures with so many Attributes did exist, but such Pet Beasts hardly needed Cultivation.

Moreover, some Super-Rank Skills cannot be simply fused and combined just because they have been cultivated.

The Level of the Skills, their degree of association, and even the Pet Beast's Talent and comprehension were all potentially critical factors with significant influence.

Under such circumstances, the difficulty of fully developing a cultivatable Super-Rank Skill is unimaginable.

Otherwise, cultivating a Super-Rank Skill wouldn't be considered venturing into the Domain of a Breeding Master.

"Teacher, there's no direct reaction between the Snow Swallowing Technique and the Icefang Whitewolf's Frozen Bloodline Skill..."

After everything was completed, Liu Fuhai's eyebrows knitted together again as he listened to the words of a subordinate Snow Wolf Breeder.

Although he had anticipated the result, Old Liu was still somewhat disappointed.

Where on earth was the path to the Snow Wolf's Super-Rank Skill?

The Icefang Whitewolf's Frozen Bloodline Skill had so much potential.

According to his years of conjecture, it definitely had the potential to combine with other Skills to form a true Super-Rank Skill.

But it had failed again.

Liu Fuhai sighed, glancing out the window.

The darkness outside had already quietly faded, replaced by the pale light of dawn. This sight seemed to lift his spirits. He then turned to encourage the other Breeders, whose faces also showed unspoken disappointment:

"Alright, discovering clues about Super-Rank Skills isn't that easy, is it? Otherwise, wouldn't everyone be able to succeed? We still have plenty of time. Let's go for breakfast first! After breakfast, we'll look for another opportunity to try again."

The laboratory door was opened.

No one said much because they knew that the person having the hardest time right now was actually Liu Fuhai.

After all, this was all Liu Fuhai's hard work; they were only there to lend a hand.

And as expected, after everyone left, Liu Fuhai sat in his chair, his brow deeply furrowed.

Looking at the Snow Wolf before him, his brow furrowed. They had spent a good month and a half with this Icefang Whitewolf. Their goal was to cultivate it and teach it the Special Skill 'Snow Swallowing Technique.' Yet, even after successfully cultivating the Skill, they still hadn't found the slightest connection between it and other Skills.

Another half month's painstaking effort had gone down the drain, and they had to start searching for new possibilities all over again.

Although he was used to it, Liu Fuhai still felt somewhat helpless.

He couldn't help but think of that brat.

What a pity that brat's Pet Beast research hadn't continued in the direction of Wolf Pets. Even if he didn't want to research the Forest Wolf, he could have tried other Wolf Pets!

If that brat had researched the Icefang Whitewolf, perhaps he could indeed have proposed some interesting ideas and possibilities.

Unfortunately, instead of focusing on his proper work, he'd gone off to research that disgrace among Undead Pet Beasts, the so-called Paperman.

The most infuriating part was that he actually made a breakthrough.

He managed to successfully evolve his mutated Paperman.

This made Old Liu realize that it was even more unlikely for the kid to change his mind and go back to studying Wolf Pets.

He just didn't know what that kid would think if he faced such a situation.

As he pondered, a phone call came through.

Liu Fuhai slightly frowned at the early morning call but quickly relaxed.

Speak of the devil, and he shall appear.

Liu Fuhai's overnight worries vanished, replaced by a smile. "Hello, Su Ping," he said.

Since the last attack, they hadn't really had a chance to talk.

Liu Fuhai really wanted to have a longer chat with this kid.

Unfortunately, the kid had no sense of propriety and dropped a bomb right away: "Old Liu, do you want to come over to the Heart of Woods? Old Sha—that is, the Wanmu Wolf's Super-Rank Skill—seems to be starting Skill Fusion."

「A moment later」

Liu Fuhai stared at Old Sha before him.

Even though he had calmed his breathing countless times on the way, upon seeing the state that had appeared in records before, his chest still began to thump rapidly.

This kid wasn't bullshitting him on this matter!

The Wanmu Wolf before him seemed entirely normal. Yet the specks of light, the special aura, and many other aspects all resonated with descriptions in some Breeder Books.

Old Liu let out a long breath.

There was no longer any trace of fatigue or disappointment in his eyes.

Even though he himself had failed, Jianghai had truly produced an extraordinary person!

He gave Su Ping a complicated look before speaking, "The Cultivation manual for Super-Rank Skills states that once all the Combo Skills for a Super-Rank Skill meet the required conditions, they will enter the Skill Fusion state.

"The duration of this state depends on the strength and complexity of the Super-Rank Skill being fused! Usually, it ranges from three to fifteen days. During this time, the fusion can be completed!"

Su Ping was speechless. Damn it, so I just wasted my entire night staring blankly at Old Sha with him? Purely a waste of time?

However, Su Ping could afford to wait, and Old Liu clearly could as well.

"There's still over half a month until Lunar New Year. You little rascal, after this year's Breeder Competition, you're going to be famous!"

Liu Fuhai sounded somewhat emotional, sighing.

Su Ping didn't show much reaction to such emotions, simply offering a faint smile.

Over half a year ago, Su Ping first contracted Xiao Qing. He lit up the Forest Wolf Catalog in the Myriad Spirit Beast Atlas and saw that his own Heart of Woods Magic Potion could be perfected with experience. Su Ping already knew then that one day he would be renowned throughout the world.

In this era where everyone was a Beast Tamer, Breeders were considered the cornerstone of the nation's development and the advancement of Beast Tamer civilization.

The status of every Breeder was the best proof of this.

Although a powerful Breeder didn't necessarily become a powerful Beast Tamer, Su Ping knew that he had already taken the first step. But it was merely the first step. He had to develop as both a Breeder and a Beast Tamer; both aspects needed to be strong. Of course, success in the former would naturally reflect in the latter.

Thinking of this, Su Ping's anticipation for the Breeder Competition grew once more.

"What's the specific situation with this year's Breeder Competition? Have you received any insider information?"

Old Liu chuckled, "What insider information could there be? Every province is keeping a tight lid on things! At this point, not many people know what these guys are planning to reveal at this year's competition.

"However, news from our side has likely already spread! After all, many people saw the Wanmu Wolf during the Legion's event."

At this, a mischievous smile touched the corners of Old Liu's mouth.

For some people, a new Evolutionary Body was naturally precious. However, an Evolutionary Body like the Forest Wolf, which had reached the Elite Level and climbed even further—especially an Evolutionary Body whose Racial Potential allowed it to ascend two Levels—was particularly significant.

Often, in the Breeder Competition, while a new Evolutionary Body could secure a decent ranking, practicality was also crucial. If these were low-Level Pet Beasts evolving from the Ordinary Level upwards, such discoveries, whenever they appeared, almost always represented an improvement that could affect the nation's destiny.

New foundational Level Evolutionary Bodies marked a fresh blue ocean. They offered ordinary low-Level Beast Tamers more choices for advancement, and among them, some would surely rise to prominence.

The more options available, the greater the likelihood the country's foundational strength would grow.

So, to many, the Wanmu Wolf was indeed powerful. Winning first place in the Legion's competition was enough to prove its potential. But the problem was, it still wasn't enough! To take first place under such conditions still seemed difficult.

But would these people know? Would they know that this Forest Wolf Evolutionary Body, this Wanmu Wolf, possesses the potential for a Super-Rank Skill?

An Evolutionary Body with the potential for a Super-Rank Skill was on an entirely different plane than other ordinary Evolutionary Bodies—worlds apart.

Chapter 328: Revolution! The Arrival of the Crown Wolf Emperor's Evolution!_3

This point became clear from the Wanmu Wolf's dominance in the Legion's martial competition, leveraging the Sun Formula to suppress the other Pet Beasts.

I'm really looking forward to seeing the expressions on those bastards' faces!

At this moment, Old Liu couldn't help but reveal a sly grin.

It was finally Jianghai's turn to hold their heads high; he had been waiting far too long for this day.

Therefore, the more he looked at this young man in front of him, the more he liked what he saw.

However, as if suddenly recalling something, Old Liu abruptly spoke up, "Regarding that incident last time, Mu Hang knows about it too, and he asked me to tell you he's sorry."

Su Ping was slightly surprised, then smiled. "I know, it's not his fault!"

From Leng Ye's Soul Search, it was clear that Mu Hang had nothing to do with this matter from beginning to end. Otherwise, with Leng Ye's principle of rather killing in error than letting one escape, he surely would not have shown mercy.

Old Liu continued, "In a few days, we'll probably head to the Magic Capital, and you will finally meet Lord Sang Sheng!"

Sang Sheng.

That name had been cropping up recently, but Su Ping only had a rough understanding of who she was: the wife of Qin Erlong, grandmother of Miss Qin, mother of Qin Chuan, a Saint Spirit-level Beast Tamer specializing in the Plant System, and the headmaster of the Magic Capital Advanced Beast-Taming Academy.

"Is this Lord Sang Sheng really that impressive? Compared to Leng Ye, who is more formidable?" Su Ping asked curiously.

Admittedly, comparing who is stronger is quite a silly question.

But Liu Fuhai understood what Su Ping was implying, and after contemplating, he said, "In terms of Pet Beast combat strength, Ghost Saint probably has the upper hand. However, in terms of influence, by next year, Lord Sang Sheng will likely have more!"

"Oh?" Su Ping arched an eyebrow, a look of intrigue on his face.

Noticing Su Ping's curiosity, Liu Fuhai cleared his throat and instinctively lowered his voice, "Starting next year, all education-related schools and sectors will undergo a major reform!"

Su Ping had heard about this before.

But it really didn't have a damn thing to do with him. He had already graduated. And he hadn't thought about joining the Advanced Beastmaster Academy. He could obtain knowledge from the Advanced Tamer Academy at any time, but the Heart of Woods and the abundant practical training opportunities at home were far more precious than any academy could offer.

However, now that the topic had come up, Su Ping also put on an expression of patient listening.

"Firstly, two points are already confirmed for certain!" Liu Fuhai raised his fingers and paused before speaking. "The first is that all graduates from basic Beast Taming Academies will receive a free first Contracted Beast from the Beast Master Associations all over Dragon Nation after graduation."

"What?!" Su Ping widened his eyes in amazement.

A free first Contracted Beast?

Liu Fuhai seemed to have anticipated this reaction and smiled as he said, "Of course, there are limitations. Firstly, these Pet Beasts will mostly be distributed as eggs for direct contracting. They cannot be resold, and the selection will be completely random. The vast majority will be Ordinary Level Pet Beasts; at most, only one in a thousand might have Elite Level potential or higher. They can also state to the academy that they will contract one themselves. This policy is mainly to support awakened Beast Tamers whose families lack the financial means for them to contract a Pet Beast."

Su Ping nodded in understanding.

Controlling Beasts is a high-cost industry.

Anything related to Pet Beasts is incredibly expensive.

Elite Level Forest Wolf cubs are sold for hundreds of thousands.

Even Ordinary Level ones cost tens to over a hundred thousand.

Many families struggle to afford this.

And even if they do manage to contract one, many Beast Tamers spend a fortune with little to show for it.

Now, Dragon Nation is stepping in to bridge this financial gap.

This is undoubtedly a major reform that will enhance the nation's strength.

"Secondly, the requirements for the Beast Tamer assessment will be significantly lowered. It will change from once every three years to an annual national examination! However, there's a rule: Beast Tamers over twenty years of age are not eligible to participate in this assessment! Of course, even if someone misses it for some reason but later rises to prominence, they can still apply for an individual makeup assessment..."

The assessment... that actually had something to do with him. After all, Su Ping still remembered Qin Xiaoxue telling him she would be waiting for him at the professional Beast Tamer assessment.

Su Ping frowned slightly, looking surprised at Liu Fuhai. "So, next year's Beast Tamer assessment..."

Liu Fuhai nodded. "Next year's Beast Tamer assessment will be the final one under the current rules! However, to accommodate this educational reform, this last professional assessment will also undergo certain modifications. Moreover... the higher-ups intend for this one to be a grander event, allowing all Beast Tamers who haven't yet passed the assessment to showcase the prowess of Dragon Nation's contemporary young Beast Tamers before the entire country, and perhaps even the world!"

Su Ping scratched his head.

Damn it, whenever these kinds of terms are involved, things are never simple. A grander event, huh? How grand could it be?

"You know the rules for the previous assessments, right?"

Su Ping nodded. There weren't many rules, really—just that anyone at Elite Level or above and below a certain age threshold could participate. You just had to pass a series of assessments within your local province or city.

This was why Su Ping had previously thought that even if Qin Xiaoxue hadn't yet passed the assessment, his own participation or non-participation wouldn't make much difference to her.

But it's clear now that things are different.

Old Liu paused and then continued, "This time, the professional Beast Tamer assessment will still follow the same rules. The cap is at the Monarch Level. As long as young Beast Tamers haven't surpassed the Monarch Level, they can participate. Additionally, the selection will be conducted by province! Eventually, the winners from each province will engage in one final battle to determine the ultimate rankings!"

"What the heck?" Su Ping blurted out, "Anyone below Monarch can join? As long as they haven't participated before, they can all join?"

Liu Fuhai nodded helplessly, "Yes, Monarch is a special level. Once you reach this level, you're considered an upper-class Beast Tamer. It's also hard to break through, which is why the cap is set at this level."

Su Ping was speechless. Below Monarch Level? Miss Qin really thinks highly of me. This professional assessment is next summer, and it's only been about a year since I awakened as a Beast Tamer.

Liu Fuhai continued, "However, don't dwell on it too much. Many youngsters, either delayed by various circumstances or having heard rumors in advance—like Miss Qin—have been accumulating strength, waiting for this chance to shine. Su Ping, your battlefield isn't that assessment. The domain of Breeders is what you need to focus on."

Liu Fuhai, worried Su Ping might 'stray onto the wrong path,' quickly advised him. After all, if this major assessment were the year after next, there might be a sliver of an opportunity. But if it's next year, with just over half a year remaining, trying to compete with those Beast Tamers who've been eagerly preparing would undoubtedly put you at a disadvantage. It's better not to dwell on this. With Su Ping's ability, whether or not he participates doesn't really make a difference.

Of course, for this event, I've heard the higher-ups in Dragon Nation have indeed put up quite a few treasures as rewards.

However, Su Ping fell into thought. Qin Xiaoxue's words still echoed in his ears. Moreover, if I cultivate my own Pet Beasts without a place to use them in battle, what's the point? But my strength is indeed lacking compared to those who might have been preparing for a while. I must use every resource available to me to even have a hope of competing with them!

At this thought, a determined glint flashed in Su Ping's eyes. I really have to fight for it.

In that case, I need to quickly find a way to help Xiao Qing complete its evolution, and also manage Feifei's progress.

Just then, his phone suddenly rang. Quite a few people knew his private number.

The caller this time, however, made Su Ping pause. He couldn't help but think, Speak of the devil.

It was none other than Qin Xiaoxue, the person he had just been thinking about.

What could Miss Qin want, calling me at this hour?

Still, Su Ping didn't avoid anything and directly answered the call.

"Hello, Xiao Ping! How have you been lately?"

Miss Qin's voice came through the phone, still as clear and spirited as ever.

Clearly, Qin Xiaoxue knew nothing about the incident with Qin Chuan.

"What's up? Calling me bright and early in the morning."

"Hehe, I'm mainly calling to tell you that in about ten days, Woodhead is going to evolve into a Crown Wolf Emperor! Didn't you ask me to let you know? When are you planning to come to Magic Capital? I was originally thinking of coming to your place for the evolution, but Grandpa said you'd also be heading to Magic Capital soon..."

Su Ping was taken aback. Qin Xiaoxue's Crown Wolf Emperor is already starting its evolution?

Chapter 330: Icefang Whitewolf's Frozen Bloodline

Miss Qin's phone call disrupted Su Ping's tentative schedule.

Regardless, he had to witness the Crown Wolf Emperor's evolution in ten days. Moreover, New Year's Day was just a few days after that, and the Breeder Competition was also scheduled to start around then. Of course, with the evolution still ten days away, Miss Qin's call was rather early.

Ultimately, Qin Xiaoxue promised over the phone to have someone called 'Aunt Qin' pick him up in a few days and take him directly to the Magic Capital. Clearly, this Aunt Qin had to be the same person who had brought him the Meditation Method last time.

After ending the call, Su Ping exhaled deeply. This trip would require him to stay for at least half a month. Everything at the Heart of Woods needed to be arranged properly, and he also had to complete certain tasks beforehand.

Old Liu was clearly in no hurry to leave. While they were having breakfast together at the base, the designers, their eyes red from working all night, finally arrived. Representatives from four design firms had come.

However, one night was clearly insufficient for a project like Forest Heart. So, these individuals only discussed their blueprints and preliminary concepts with Su Ping, presenting their draft designs on the virtual reality sand table. Even so, Su Ping could discern a lot.

He placed great importance on the design of his Heart of Woods. It had to be said, the four firms present were among Linzhou's top design and decoration companies. The styles of their garden and plant nursery designs were all satisfactory. If he had to pick one as superior or more to his liking, none particularly stood out. The designs, each with its own merits, left Su Ping momentarily unsure which to choose.

Soon, however, he noticed something special in one firm's design. Their renovation plan retained connections to the areas beyond Forest Heart and the Heart of Water.

During the presentation of their design concept, the designer, a man in his thirties wearing black-framed glasses, also articulated Su Ping's own idea of further expanding Forest Heart. This confirmed Su Ping's choice.

The other designs were also quite good. Some were exquisite, others grand and imposing; some were cost-effective, while others considered multiple aspects. However, none had truly grasped Su Ping's underlying thoughts or his intended direction for the future development and utilization of the surrounding land. This seemingly small detail was enough to decide the outcome.

After confirming the general design direction, Su Ping had Lao Guan see the designers out and let out a soft sigh.

Liu Fuhai smiled slightly and remarked, "You cheeky kid, your ambition is quite something! Are you planning to turn your Heart of Woods into Jianghai's top base?"

Su Ping chuckled. "I just want to research more Pet Beasts. The conditions here are decent, so I figured I'd find something constructive to do."

Liu Fuhai nodded. Then, Old Liu pondered for a moment before finally saying, "Xiao Ping, Heart of Woods started with Wolf Pets, specifically Forest Wolves. Now that you only have Forest Wolves, isn't that limiting your cultivation path? How about this: to show appreciation for your contributions to the cultivation of Forest Wolves in Jianghai Province, the Breeder Association could gift you fifty other types of Wolf Pets for cultivation, free of charge. What do you think? Ten Snow Wolves, ten Sand Wolves, ten Flame Wolves, ten Shadow Wolves, and ten Hunting Wolves each—how does that sound?"

Su Ping gave Old Liu a curious look and then, after a moment of thought, said, "Old Liu, have you encountered a difficult problem? You can tell me about it; I might be able to offer some new perspectives."

Slightly embarrassed that the young man had seen through him, Old Liu scratched his nose and said, "Well, it's not too bad. I was just thinking about your remarkable Talent. Wolf Pets have great potential. You might not know this, but that individual from Ximo, the one with good relations with the Ghost Saint, has an Evolutionary Body of a Wolf Pet as one of their primary battle Pet Beasts. Moreover, I have indeed been encountering some difficulties with my research on Snow Wolf evolution..."

Su Ping gave him a quizzical look but also sank into deep thought. His recent experiences with Plant-based Pet Beasts had given Su Ping a great deal of inspiration. The rewards from unlocking entries in the Catalog and the enhancement of his Talent effects sparked some ideas. Why did unlocking entries for Pet Beasts like Peach Blossom Smile, King Gunpine, and Longevity Banyan enhance his existing Talent, while Flame Morning Glory and Sky-reaching Vine granted him a new so-called Rain Summoning Technique? During the night, as Su Ping and Old Sha passed the time, sometimes just exchanging glances, he had developed some theories. Peach Blossom Smile, Hundred Birds Wutong Tree, and similar ones are all tree-type Pet Beasts! And Flame Morning Glory and Sky-reaching Vine are vine-type Plant-based Pet Beasts. His Talent, 'Telepathic Communication,' was obtained from the Luozisong associated with Li Shu. Naturally, Luozisong is also a tree-type Pet Beast. So, Su Ping guessed that after acquiring a Talent from a Pet Beast of a certain category, unlocking the Catalog entries of other Pet Beasts in the same category would enhance the corresponding Talent he had awakened from that type of Pet Beast. Although, broadly speaking, both tree-types and vine-types are Plant-based Pet Beasts, the differences between them are not insignificant. So, did this mean the same principle applied to other types of Pet Beasts? Like Wolf Pets, for example. Initially, Su Ping had obtained the Origin reward Talent, 'Eye of Truth,' from the Forest Wolf Xiao Qing. This was one of his most practical Talents.
