

Beautiful 197

Chapter 197: The past

Su Ruomei spoke about her life event. Similar to the urban literature, after kicked out of the military, Su Ruomei clashed with Su family later after she had a hard time finding similar jobs such as in the police force.

The family of the person she had feuded with destroyed every official path she liked to take. Even a small job was annulled because of their intervention.

Because Su Ruomei was merely from a side branch and the opposition's action didn't cross her family's red line and their strength wasn't something to ignore, her family did nothing.

Not mentioning, if she was personally attacked, the family might take some action to protect her, but it was her companion instead, who didn't have any background.

They wouldn't offend others since the cost outweighed the benefits. The real clash between her and the family began when they decided on her life without any consultation.

Since she lost her values, she was put into arranged marriage, to drain her last worth. Her close cousin luckily informed the news so that she was able to escape forced confinement.

Her action enraged the decision makers of Su family and her parents were probably powerless to defend their daughter. They froze her bank account and cut off her finances.

Borrowing money from her sisters in the army, she made it out of the capital and searched for a job to survive. Jiang Yu followed her every step without any reluctance, feeling guilty of the event.

Provinces after provinces, the two went through ups and downs together. They had tried various works and encountered problems—most of which were due to her prior enmity.

Until they reached Province N, where they were relieved from suppression. As ridiculous as it might sound, as the most notorious region, it was a safe haven for those to escape from powerful family pursuits.

No connection made sense here unless the executive politicians participated. Even though the family against Su Ruomei was powerful, they couldn't sway the circle in Province N.

Su Ruomei met Ling Qingyu, when the cold businesswoman encountered a small gang mugging her belongings. Like the hero rescuing the beauty, except this time was the heroine, Su Ruomei dealt with the ruffians, without breaking any sweat.

From then on, Ling Qingyu wanted to hire Su Ruomei and persuaded her. Su Ruomei agreed, with the promise that also included Jiang Yu.

On the other side, the sisters Su Ruomei had left behind weren't happy. Of course, Su Ruomei found out that not all deserved to be her true companions.

Some pretended to be a stranger and some tried to step over her. Su Ruomei discovered rights and wrongs. They should have made friends with her on purpose due to Su family background but now the situation didn't seem good for her, so they parted ways.

Fortunately, her true sisters existed providing as much help as they could during her difficult journey. In fact, her fellow soldiers weren't in a better condition.

After she left, they were also targeted because of their relationship with Su Ruomei. That was the reason, some drew a line to clear out the friendship.

So, among the female soldiers, who were comrades of Su Ruomei, a few decided to protest and achieved some success. The high leadership noticed and immediately rectified the situation.

Perhaps, the influence spread too fast, the higher up dared not land a hand on the female soldiers when the heat was high. The investigation deterred many dandy figures, who tried to exploit women. Many were also arrested and pressed charges—their ending likely to end in jail.

However, after the public attention went elsewhere, the leaders who staged the protest were expelled because the higher-ups couldn't accept the instable factors in the military. Of course, whether it was to deter others from following suit remained a mystery.

These female soldiers lost their jobs but they also achieved the justice they desired. They were saddened from being discharged but Su Ruomei had never forgotten them.

After she worked in Ling Qingyu's company, she recruited more bodyguards from her old teams and comrades. The group met again and was firm like rock, in their camaraderie. They had survived a tribulation together.

Under Ling Qingyu, the security guards' work was satisfactory and faced no problems. They cherished the job very much.

Every old member of the guards had desired to serve the public, like in the military or police.

Ling Qingyu's move to allow them to become SWAT officers was highly received by them. Their love for Ling Qingyu went up too. They looked forward to the future days.

Listening to Su Ruomei, Ling Qingyu sighed at the struggle. Who would have thought behind the current peaceful atmosphere under her, the guards also suffered society injustice.

At last, fate had made them work under Ling Qingyu and they were living very well now. The regret had gone now that a new opportunity was before them.

Well, even though it seemed like a fake one, Yang Qingyue had given a word; so, it became official.

Ling Qingyu looked into Su Ruomei's eyes. "How outrageous these families are? Don't worry, with me here, their hands can't reach me. As for revenge, believe me, give me time until I strike them hard to collapse."

"You don't need to pay attention to them, Sister Ling. I'm fine working here and I already castrated that bastard. And because of them, I met you." Su Ruomei said.

"That is fate. But that doesn't mean, I'm fine, hearing my friends suffer. Now that the girls have become my family members, I can't stand by, not especially after hearing the events." Ling Qingyu said.

Jiang Yu bobbed her head up and down. Her eyes were firm and glad at Ling Qingyu's decision. She was the only one who accompanied Su Ruomei and knew how they had survived but Su Ruomei didn't want to disrupt the smooth life she hardly found; she might expressed anger and dissatisfaction but vengeance was out of her mind.

Seeing Su Ruomei's silence, Ling Qingyu said. "That's my decision. You don't need to worry about me because I can fight them too currently but that would be a Pyrrhic Victory. As time goes by, it'll become an easy task."

"You really don't need to do this, Sister Ling. I have trust in you, you'll soar like a phoenix. By then, it'll be my time to judge them. You've told me, mercenary formation will be one of our goals. Now we have completed the first step." Su Ruomei replied.

Ling Qingyu understood what she meant. There was no need for her to seek vengeance and risk everything, when surely in the future her peerless strength no longer required a thought.

"I like your idea but I can't hold a bad breath inside. I must let it out. Stop thinking too much and worrying, I have my own measure. You know what my titles are." Ling Qingyu paused as her phone buzzed. It was from Zhao Xiurong.

Ling Qingyu stood up and rubbed Su Ruomei's shoulders. "So, I have your back and you have mine. That's how a team works. I have a business to attend to; so please excuse me."

Ling Qingyu nodded at Su Ruomei and Jiang Yu, and exited the room. She answered the call. "Hello, Sister Zhao."
