Chapter 361 Chapter 361 Olivia immediately regretted her words as they left her lips. As Tyler left, she felt stranded on a deserted island. He halted a few paces away and said, "Remember, you shouldn't interfere. She does not need pity." How could Olivia not? As an outsider, she couldn't just watch Ana being sad. She thought she'd be heartbroken if that were her mother. However, recalling that Ana was fighting Naomi, her conflicted expression vanished.

It was true-Olivia shouldn't interfere, nor did she have the right to. She was merely a pawn in this war, unable even to protect herself. "The only thing you can do now is to give birth to the baby. You have no right to interfere in anything else." Olivia was rendered speechless. The blush of humiliation slowly faded from her cheeks. After a long pause, she finally spoke, "I understand." Tyler's shadow reflected grimly on the floor. He frowned, withdrawing his cold gaze from her.

This time, he truly left, heading to the bathroom Having just returned home, Tyler would typically head out again after showering, a routine born of his recent hospital stays. Olivia listened to the sound of water. Tyler didn't take a shower today, emerging only after washing his face. Water droplets adorned his face, dampening half of his shirt. He casually tossed his tie onto the table, his gaze flat as he addressed her. " won't be around for a while.

Behave yourself here." Just then, Linda entered to start packing. Olivia watched, puzzled about his sudden departure. Tyler didn't elaborate, merely seating himself on the couch as he waited. Olivia's shadow wavered on the floor like a feeble, dark cloud. Once Linda had packed some clothes, she approached the couch. "Should I pack your daily necessities from the bathroom?" "Please do," Tyler responded. Turning to Tyler, Olivia asked, "Are you moving out?" Her tone remained calm.

Tyler met her gaze. "I'm going on a business trip." Upon hearing that, Olivia proposed, "Then, why don't I move back home?" Chapter 361 2/2 Tyler, engaged with Linda, appeared not to hear Olivia. He glanced at her, asking, "What did you say?" Thinking he hadn't caught her words, Olivia repeated, "I'll go home. I'm more comfortable there." Ignoring her suggestion, Tyler instructed Linda to fetch his bags and got up from the couch.

Perplexed, Olivia pressed on, "Tyler-" He stopped in front of her. "Nothing should happen to the baby." His implication was clear: she needed to stay. Search the website on Google to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Chapter 362 Chapter 362 Tyler didn't elaborate further. He simply left the room with Linda trailing behind, carrying his bags. Olivia fell silent once again. Linda turned her head to glance at the room before hurrying to catch up with him. Tyler would be away on a business trip abroad for the next few days, leaving Olivia to tend to matters at home. The Harris Group had teamed up with the local embassy on an infrastructure project.

Their projects were primarily government-linked, with 80% of national infrastructure initiatives falling under the Harris Group's purview. The overseas project was particularly important, requiring Tyler's presence to discuss details with the local government. Upon arriving at the hotel that evening, Tyler checked in and received a call from Naomi. She knew that he was on a trip, asking if everything went well.

Standing at the balcony, Tyler stared at the big palm tree nearby as he said, "Mm-hmm, I'm here. Everything is going well." "That's great," she responded. "The weather's fantastic here." After a brief chat, they hung up. The next morning, while Tyler was on his way to meet with embassy officers, Linda received some news on the way. She stared at it blankly. He asked while checking the document, "What's wrong?" He didn't look up but noticed her reaction.

She said, "Bad news, sir." Tyler looked up upon hearing her words, then extended his hand toward her with calmness. She passed him her phone. As he glanced at the screen, emotions swirled in his eyes. There were some pictures of Olivia and a man. They stood close in a corridor, bathed in romantic light, seemingly sharing a kiss. Another picture showed the man gripping her wrist as they departed. The headline read: [The New Mrs.

Harris Is Allegedly Cheating] None of the images clearly revealed the man's face, only his profile. They were blurry, with only Olivia's face in focus. Linda said, "It's chaotic over there, sir." Though the man's features were obscured, Tyler recognized him instantly-it was Claude. Olivia had been having nightmares for a few days, confused as to why. She woke up tired, surprised not to find Alisa waking her. She thought it was strange. She checked the time, it was already 10 A.M.

Resting for a moment on the bed, feeling dizzy, she eventually got up and washed. Arriving at the stairs, Alisa approached with an awkward expression. "Ma'am, Ms. Ana is asking for you at the dining table." Olivia was puzzled. Was Ana asking her for breakfast? Shouldn't she be done eating and taking her walk outside now? After a moment's thought, Olivia headed downstairs. Ana sat at the table, staring at her. "Mom," Olivia called out. Chapter 363 Chapter 363 1/2 When Olivia called out to Ana, the latter snatched the newspapers from the table and hurled them at her. "What's this!" she exclaimed, her anger evident. Olivia lowered her head to see the newspapers at her feet, standing frozen in place. Ana couldn't believe the ridiculous situation unfolding before her, especially involving the daughter-in-law she had been so proud of. "Who is that man in the pictures?" she demanded.

Olivia stared blankly at the images printed on the newspapers. How had anyone gotten hold of these pictures? At the cafe the other day... She had so many questions flooding her head. Ana sat there, her gaze fixed on Olivia, waiting for her response. After a long silence, she erupted, "Say something!" The sight in the newspapers was a shock. Her cherished daughter-in-law, captured in a photograph with another man, had evidently overstepped bounds. One could say that Olivia had cheated.

Ana had so much hope for her, yet she was flirting with another man as Mrs. Harris? Olivia looked up and said, "It's not like that. We didn't..." "Who is he?! Tell me now! Why would you do that? Are you playing games?" "No, Ms. Ana. I'm really not." "Then tell me what exactly happened. I'll hear you out as long as you can explain yourself." Ana's voice reverberated through the dining hall, so loud that Olivia's ears rang-she felt like she was losing her hearing.

Suddenly, the sound of an engine roared from outside. A maid burst in, addressing Ana, "Ma'am, Mr. Keith is home!" The news had caused a stir. Just a few days ago, Ana and Olivia were in the headlines, and now this scandal unfolded as everyone was learning about Olivia. One could imagine the storm brewing outside. Even the Harris Group felt the impact of the scandal. Naturally, Keith, who was away, was informed and hurried home. Ana's gaze darted towards the door at the announcement.

She rose from her chair immediately. Olivia followed her gaze and spotted Keith's car in the courtyard. Everything happened too fast. Olivia's face drained of color as she watched. Chapter Keith entered, his expression grim as he stepped out of the car. Ana happened to reach the living room as he entered. As they faced each other, he demanded, "What's going on?!" His gaze bore into Ana with fury. She understood his reason for returning.

Coldly, she responded to his anger, "How would I know what happened?" "Enough with your nonsense. Aren't you neglecting your duties by allowing this to happen at home?!" Ana scoffed. "You come home to interrogate me over this? What am I to you? Is it my responsibility to handle this?" "Didn't you choose her yourself?" His words hit Ana hard. "Yo-" Keith didn't engage further and headed straight for the dining hall.

Chapter 364 Chapter 364 Ana watched Keith leaving for the dining hall, her expression growing colder. Meanwhile, inside, Olivia was drenched in cold sweat, listening intently to the approaching footsteps. Keith approached her and asked, "What happened? When was this taken?" Everyone knew it was recent since they recognized her attire. Olivia's fear of Keith outweighed her fear of Tyler. She lowered her head, trembling, and closed her eyes in silence.

"Did we mistreat you so badly that you felt compelled to do this?" Keith was taken aback by the news. He couldn't fathom that Olivia would take such a drastic step. He began to question her purity, especially considering their shotgun wedding. He had misjudged her. Ana had chosen such a woman from among many. Furious, he instructed Ben, "Get Tyler back home. He needs to handle this!" Ben came over as soon as he heard him. "Sir, he's on a business trip.

"I'm afraid he can't return by today." "Call him now then." Ben realized how serious it was. "Yes, sir." The dining hall fell silent suddenly, leaving Olivia feeling exposed and publicly shamed as every gaze bore into her. The piercing stares felt like lashes against her skin. Standing behind Keith, Ana frowned deeper, her heart sinking with each passing moment. Just then, Maisy entered, exclaiming, "What's going on here?"

Is this a trial?" Tyler received Ben's call just as he reached the embassy. "Come home immediately. There's been an emergency." He remained silent for a long moment before finally disconnecting the call. Turning to Linda, he instructed, "Prepare the jet.". Knowing the news must have caused a stir in the city, Linda dared not contemplate the challenges awaiting them at home. "And the project..." She didn't dare to finish her question. Ana and Keith looked at Maisy.

Chapter 364 2/2 Maisy couldn't believe her beloved Olivia could be involved in such a scandal. That was why she said that when she entered. Approaching Olivia directly, she declared "Try to lay a hand on her if you dare." "Mom, it's not that simple. This is serious. We've never faced such a scandal before with any daughter-in-law!" Keith was concerned that Maisy didn't know the gravity of the situation. "Save it.

She's pregnant, so shut your mouth." Maisy didn't listen to what they had to say, ordering a maid, "Take her to the room to rest." She was protecting Olivia, prohibiting anyone from interrogating her. Keith wanted to protest further but felt helpless, left to seethe silently. In order to stop the chaos, the maid rushed to Olivia. "Let's go, Ma'am."

Chapter 365 Chapter 365 Olivia felt utterly exhausted, as if she were floating in the air. The maid's words seemed elusive to her. She stared at her for a moment, then silently followed with her head towered. Ana kept staring at her, while Keith wore a grim face. Tyler arrived at the airport at 2 A.M. Many journalists were waiting outside to get an update of the news. He left in another car, boarding the plane through the other channel. The house was in dead silence when he arrived.

The maids greeted him, and Linda followed him out of the car, carrying his bags. They had been dealing with the news the entire day. Keith remained upstairs, while Ana sat silently on the couch downstairs, not greeting him when he entered. Naturally, he didn't look at her either, heading upstairs directly. Olivia remained in her room, where she had stayed since Maisy sent her upstairs that morning. Alisa happened to come out when Tyler arrived upstairs.

She called out to him, "Sir." He said, "You may leave." She left, not daring to say more. Once inside, Tyler shut the door firmly, more forcefully than usual. Downstairs, the maids listened intently, puzzled by the tension. Ana watched, still confused by the recent events. Everything felt like a mystery to her. Olivia sat beside the bed, her earlier fear now replaced by a numbing calmness. Though she should have greeted Tyler, she remained motionless, her eyes calm. Tyler approached her.

"Is there anything that you'd like to say?" He had rushed home immediately upon receiving the news, instructing his men to handle the project in his absence. His question lacked any trace of anger, delivered in his usual calm demeanor. However, Olivia replied, "I don't think I should explain myself." "How do you want me to handle the trouble you've stirred with Claude?" he asked. She fell into silence. Tyler didn't need her response.

"I'll resolve it once you confirm you didn't do it," he spoke calmly, without any questioning tone. Unexpectedly, Olivia said, "It's the truth." He was taken aback by that. Anger appeared on his face. "I don't care how your family or the world perceives me. What you saw on the news is true." Tyler grabbed her shoulders, pulling her close as she spoke. She almost hit him. Already weakened, especially now with her pregnancy, she looked at him after standing still forcefully.

"Was my warning not enough? Must you get yourself involved in that?" "I don't know what to say to show how sorry I am to be stirring trouble to the rightful Mrs. Harris. Now that I'm pregnant, why don't we use this as an opportunity to divorce? We'll both be liberated. Can we do that?" All Olivia desired was freedom. She believed she could escape her confinement through this scandal. Perhaps it wasn't such a terrible prospect after all. Chapter 366 Chapter 366 "Divorce?" "Yes, divorce." Olivia sounded certain. Tyler looked at her and then asked, "This is what you want?" She replied, "Our marriage is just to get a child. Now that we are about to have it, we don't have to continue with this charade." "I guess you've considered this for a long time?" "What do you think? Tell me what more can I do? I'm the Mrs. Harris who cheated. Tell me what I can do to make things right?" Tyler looked stoic.

"You think getting a divorce will calm the storm out there?" "It's all my fault. I hope you can think about it." "Think about what? Getting a divorce to cancel out that you were cheating? Or are we getting divorced so outsiders can see how complicated our family is?" He sounded sarcastic, but after that, he let go of her hand. Olivia lost her energy but still managed to keep herself calm. Tyler put some distance between them and looked merciless. "Stay in the house until the rumor dies down.

I'll solve the issue between you and Claude." He then walked away. Olivia stood there and suddenly felt empty. She took a few steps back and fell onto the couch. Olivia couldn't sleep that night, consumed by uncertainty about what was unfolding outside. She gazed into the night sky, feeling suffocated by the darkness. Suddenly, her phone buzzed, displaying Claude's name on the screen. She jolted but didn't answer it. This was unusual, and she wondered if Claude was behind all this.

She had no idea what was happening. Her phone kept ringing until it ran out of battery. Olivia didn't walk over to it even when that happened. The next morning, the house was still quiet, unlike how it usually was. Tyler sat downstairs, awaiting his subordinate to return with information. Chapter 366 2/2 Keith told him, "What do you plan to do? I know you're busy, but you should pay attention to what happens in your family too. You're also responsible for what happened!

This has never happened in our family." After that, he slammed the glass he was holding onto the table, and the coffee splashed out onto the table. Initially, Tyler was silent, but then after a prolonged pause, he said, "This is all a misunderstanding. I'll take care of it and clear things up." "Misunderstanding? The pictures were fake? Yesterday's paper is still on the table. Take a good look and tell me if it was just a misunderstanding."

Chapter 367 Chapter 367 Tyler glanced at the table, then calmly averted his gaze. "He's probably an important friend of Olivia's." "A friend? What kind of friend gets so close to her?" Tyler fell silent, perhaps because he had nothing to say. After a few seconds, he spoke up, "I'll take care of this." Keith interjected, "The news is still on the front page. How are you going to handle it?" He glanced at his son, but seeing that had he rushed home immediately, he didn't say anything more.

When Naomi opened the newspaper that morning, she was shocked, "Olivia?" She couldn't believe what she saw. Seeing her reaction, Hillary reached for the paper and frowned as she read it. "How could this happen, Mom?" Naomi said that and immediately called Tyler. Hillary stopped her. "Don't do that yet." Confused, Naomi looked up at her mother. Though holding Naomi's hand, Hillary's focus remained on the man in the news. "That's Pearce.

Taking the paper, Naomi squinted at the blurry image of the man. She didn't recognize him at first, but he did look like Claude. Naomi frowned. Hillary looked at the newspaper and smiled. "That's nice. Olivia knows Claude Pearce. That works to our advantage." Naomi's hand relaxed, and she asked, "What do you mean?" "Olivia and Tyler are expecting a child to save you, but they're not actually married.

She has every right to be with anyone," "But now it's become a major issue..." "Ana shot herself in the foot. Olivia did nothing wrong. Ana's attempt to publicly frame her has backfired. It's only been two days, and Ana's the one who's been hurt the most." Hillary was overjoyed as she told her daughter, "Naomi, even God is on your side." Naomi looked calmer after hearing all that. Hillary placed a hand on her shoulder. "Olivia is a good girl. She's always been considerate.

I misjudged her," she admitted sincerely. Chapter 367 Naomi wasn't entirely convinced and still looked concerned. "Olivia is my sister. This could affect her future significantly... She's still so young." 2/2 Chapter 368 Ana was furious that morning and slapped one of the maids. Even Tyler and Keith, who were downstairs, heard it. Then, the maid started crying. "Ma'am, why did you slap me?" Ana yelled, "Have you all gone deaf? I asked you to bring me a glass of water. Didn't you hear?

Are you ignoring me?" "I really didn't hear you, but you shouldn't slap me for that." The maid continued crying upstairs, and Keith's expression darkened at the harshness of his wife's actions. Tyler remained silent, accustomed to her bossy attitude. Ana's fury stemmed not from the maid's failure to hear her, but from everything that was happening outside. She had invested time nurturing Olivia, believing her to be a trustworthy pawn.

Ana's kindness towards her had been genuine, yet she found herself the subject of ridicule. Ana had treated Olivia very well and helped her fit in as Mrs. Harris, yet she did such a thing. Throughout the night, anger had consumed Ana, boiling her very insides. The maid was still crying as Maisy entered and heard everything upstairs. She frowned too.

Keith ignored her and just walked away, but Maisy said, "Keith, Ana is going through menopause, Please speak to her." "Her problems are self-inflicted," Keith retorted. "Why should I bother?" Ana had chosen Olivia as her daughter-in-law, and now faced the consequences, unable to escape the situation despite her tantrum. Keith scoffed and went upstairs. Maisy then looked at Tyler. "Olivia isn't that kind of person, Tyler.

I know her very well." Tyler's expression remained icy, but he remained silent as Maisy went upstairs worriedly. Meanwhile, Ana continued to berate the maid, who sobbed quietly. Maisy stood at the door and asked, "Ana, why are you so angry?" Ana looked at her and calmed down a little. After a few moments, she took a seat on the couch. Maisy told the maid, "Go." The maid quickly got up and left the room. Maisy walked into the room and told Ana, "I know why you're angry, Ana. I'm not blind.

However, you have Chante. 368 2/2 spent enough time with Olivia and should know what kind of person she is. You should know her better than me." Ana looked over and frowned. DO "I believe Olivia is innocent, but something doesn't add up. Who stanu gain the most from this?" After pondering for a moment, Ana scoffed. Darren learned what had happened from Hillary when she returned home. He appeared angry as he exited the living room. "Darling, what's happening with Olivia? Have you talked to her?" Darren learned what had happened from Hillary when she returned home. He appeared angry as he exited the living room. "Darling, what's happening with Olivia? Have you talked to her?"

Chapter 369 Chapter 369 The first thing Darren did upon learning the news was call Olivia, but she didn't answer. Upon seeing her husband's worry, Hillary's expression turned cold. Darren realized he was overly anxious and made an effort to calm down. "You're quite worried about Olivia, but I don't see you showing the same concern for Naomi." Darren knew she was trying to be annoying, so he said, "How more should I show concern for her? This isn't a small issue.

Look at how big a storm this has caused. We're talking about the Harrises. The Harrises!" After this happened with a family like that, how would Olivia survive? No matter how nonchalant Darren usually was, this was serious. Hillary said, "Don't worry. She's pregnant, so what could they do to her? She's not very smart, though. Even if she loves Claude, she shouldn't have done this. But it's understandable because she married into that family just to save her sister. Olivia did nothing wrong.

"Although this is going to be tough, the Harrises should be the ones taking care of the situation. You shouldn't be worrying." Hillary walked inside after saying that. Darren wanted to say something but stopped as the worry on his face lingered. After Tyler spoke with Keith, his secretary awaited him while Tyler smoked in the garden. Approaching Tyler, Linda asked, "Mr. Tyler, should we issue a statement?" The situation was escalating.

Despite the Harrises' influence, it wasn't feasible to conceal everything given the current media landscape. Tyler stood by the pond, watching the water flow. Linda added, "No one knows it's Claude, but isn't it strange that his face wasn't visible in the picture? Could Claude be behind this?" Linda didn't want to speculate too much and just stopped speaking. Tyler continued smoking, his shadow looming over the pond.

After a long silence, he tossed the bud to the ground, and the smoke floated around his face. He said, "Arrange for a press conference." It was getting out of hand, so he had to say something. "Yes, sir." Chapter 369 2/2 Once Linda left, Tyler walked into the living room. His phone rang-it was Naomi. "Tyler, I read the news online and heard what happened to Olivia.

Did company fine?" He looked calm as he listened and just said, "I'm handling it." "Do you think you'll be able to lock the media out?" "No." 10 home because of this? Is the "What are you going to do then? Olivia's reputation..." Naomi sounded worried. "Tyler, Olivia is my sister. You have to help her." Tyler just continued walking as if he didn't hear what Naomi said and just let her babble on.

Sophie found out what happened that morning and repeatedly attempted to reach Olivia, growing increasingly anxious with each failed attempt. She could only hit redial as she left her home and arrived at her cousin's office in Yancey Bank. She then asked, "How were you captured with Olivia?"

Chapter 370 Chapter 370 In the vice president's office of Yancey Bank, Claude sat at his desk, watching as Sophie entered. "What's going on. Soof?" He looked calm. Sophie asked, "Have you not seen the news?" Of course, he had. A newspaper lay on his desk, but his expression hardened at her words. "I have." Sophie replied, "Do you have feelings for her?" Claude placed his hands on the desk, his demeanor gentle yet firm.

"This is none of your business, Soof." Sophie knew that Claude would haven't paid so much attention to Olivia if he didn't have feelings for her. She recalled how differently he treated Olivia from their first meeting. She had even hoped they might end up together, until Olivia's sudden marriage to Tyler dashed those hopes. But now? Sophie's worry deepened due to Olivia's ambiguous relationship with her cousin. "Why was she captured then?" The rest of them were there too.

Claude thought about that too, so he said, "I'm looking into it." "You didn't do this?" "Why would you think I did this?" "Only Olivia's face was in the picture and not yours." Claude's hands remained on the desk, contemplating the coincidence. Both he and Olivia were captured in the picture, but his face was blurred out. People might speculate that Claude was coercing Olivia, but only he knew it was a distraction, orchestrated by someone cleverly protecting themselves.

Considering this, Claude raised his brows thoughtfully. After a moment, he withdrew his hands and said, "I'm trying to determine how this happened. Go home for now." "But I can't get in touch with Olivia. Is this affecting you and Olivia?" Though Claude's face was blurred, those familiar with them could likely guess his identity, especially the Harrises. If they knew, Tyler would be the first to find out, and Sophie dreaded what might follow. "I'll get in touch with her."

"Don't worry." Claude picked up the coffee cup and took a whiff of the aroma. Chapter 370 2/2 A knock interrupted them, and Sophie turned to see Jacob Reeves at the door. "Sophie, stop pestering your cousin." Jacob had been there when Sophie left home, and now he had come after her. Sophie stood, meeting Jacob's gaze. After a tense silence, Claude addressed Jacob.

"Take her home." Jacob would follow all of Claude's requests, so he said, "Yes, sir." He then entered the office and grabbed Sophie's arm. She couldn't do anything but just follow him out of the office. A
