Finally up?" Xaden asked from the living room area, his head tilting to look at me over the couch. He smirked. "Had a fun night?"

I rolled my eyes, opening the fridge and taking out the milk and some frozen blueberries. "When did you get back?" I asked, opening the milk and chugging down a huge gulp without making.

"Around one-ish, had to put the pizzas in the fridge befo cy spoil o had to cover my ears with five pillows. V really got a set of on her," he snorted, standing to his feet. I smirked because he not wrong. My girl was very loud last night and I was proud I was the one to be blamed for it.

Xaden makes his way over as I take out the blender from the box. A sudden sharp pain in my temples made me wince, closing my eyes as I wait for the throb to leave. When it's gone. my eyes peeled open and Xaden is already staring at me with a look of concern. "Did you overdo the wolfsbane doses last night?"

I shook my head no. "I took the right amount to calm my wolf down so I wouldn't awaken the need to mark her." Xaden doesn't seem convinced and looks at me skeptically. With a sigh, I reassured him. "I got this brother, no need to worry."

Xaden shook his head. "Not to worry about my little brother sacrificing himself all for the sake of love?" he uttered sarcastically. "You know what this will do if you overuse it right?"

I ground my teeth, and opened the bag of blueberries, tossing them in the blender while I avoid looking at Xaden. "I am well aware." I grit

“You’re going to do more damage than good when she finds you dead one day brother.” By the sound of his voice I know he was growing frustrated and furious. “What do you expect me to tell her then? How her lover couldn’t control himself and said f*ck all the complications with being mated with a human and decided to be with her at the risk of his own life?”

I snapped my eyes to his and glared, seething silently. ” You tell her nothing.” I snapped. “Or so help me I will rise from the dead and drag you down with me.” I pointed a finger at his chest in warning. ” You may be older but don’t forget who beat your *ss more than five times during pack practice.”

Xaden jaw popped. “And don’t forget who always have your back no matter what. I am not the bad guy here Xade, I don’t want to bury my little brother.

His words had me relaxing my stiff shoulders, sighing knowing that he was right. He was only concerned for me like a normal brother would be. If the tables were turned, I would be too.” I know,” my voice has lost the tough edge. “But it’s inevitable at this point.” SEARCH THE website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

My death. That’s where my future will be going. I can’t bring myself to fear it because I chose her and I would do it again. No matter how much time we have left. I promise I would hold her with both hands. and never let go until my last breath.

Xaden let out a grunt. running a hand through his hair and causing it to be messy. “This would have been easier and avoidable if you had not kickstarted the bond when you slept with her. You were doing well, why did you give up?”

Naden was right. I was doing well with avoiding marking her by being with other females to calm my very lustful beast. I was more drawn to Melissa because she always smelt like Avery, so it was easier to picture Avery's face whenever I am with her.

Not my best of choices but that had been the only way. I could not have taken wolfsbane to calm my wolf at that time since the wolfsbane was too powerful and could potentially kill my wolf if I overdose. I want to point out he was only a few years older than me and wasn't old at all, but hold my words back by biting my tongue. "But I'm also serious Xade, you know how this ends."

I nod, my eyes moving off his and looking down the hall where my girl is still fast asleep in my bed. "It ends with us." I whispered. It won't matter if my end will be tragic, as long as it ends with us I am okay with that

Avery's pov

My fingers brush the empty space beside me. searching for the warmth from Xade. My eyes peeled open when I skim across cool sheets. I blinked, adjusting my vision to the sun filtering through the window. and rolled on my back, wincing from the aches of my muscles.

The memories of how my muscles got to aching in the first place flooded my mind and a creeping blush splotched on my cheeks.

head Every touch. every whisper. every feeling lingered vividly making me capture them and keep them safely locked as one of the best memories of us.

I let out a soft sigh, stretching and yawning. I welcomed the sweet ache between my thighs, a reminder of Xade being between them last night until the wee hours of the morning. I held the sheet to my naked chest as I sat up and looked around the room.

The shirt I had on last night is carelessly at the very far corner of the room while the boxer he had given me is even further. I swung my le legs over the side of the bed and planted my bare feet on the floor, releasing the sheets around me and walked over to the scatters clothes.

After I got dressed and ran my hand through my wild hair to tame it. I stepped out of the room. There's a delicious smell of heated up pizza that made my belly growl.

I know it was no longer morning and I also knew I missed my class. but right now I could not seem to care.

The aroma of the pizza pulled me to the kitchen where I found Xade pulling out the slices from the microwave. His eyes snap to mine. instantly and a soft smile spreads across his face as his eyes twinkle with warmth and fondness.

Good afternoon baby.” The sight of him, shirtless and wearing only a pair of sweatpants, made my heart flutter and my lower stomach to swirl with heat. Baby... will I ever get used to him calling me that?

He looked so delicious that I grew hungry for something else entirely. Good afternoon. I thought you’d be at the gym.” I returned his smile, flushing as I made my way over to him, my eyes shyly on his lips.

No energy to train today, you took all last night,” He grinned, placing the plate with the pizza down on the countertop, and with his other arm, he pulled me flush against him.

“You look so good in my clothes,” he whispered, leaning in to feather his lips against mine.

I remember when I wore his clothes before we were even what we are now, he would always mention how I look good with his stuff on. Those flirting and teasing, little touches back then... had he meant all of them and I hadn’t noticed?

My cheeks flamed as he pulled away to stare down at me with adoration, fingers playing with the ends of my hair as he smiled. You’re so adorable when you blush,” he chuckled and pulled me in, his lips feathering across my ear which caused me to shiver and squirm.

After all that we did last night you’re still shy.” he teased, one of his hands snaking down my bottom and squeeze.

I buried my face on his chest, murmuring “Stop,” as I swatted his chest lightly with my palm. He chuckled, squeezing my bottom once more and planting a soft lingering kiss on my head. I sighed, curling my arms around his midsection as we just stayed there hugging each other.

Until my growling belly decide to break us apart. A soft laugh pushed out of Xade’s mouth, the vibration of his chuckle on my cheek. He released me, teasing. “Hungry huh?”

I gave him a sheepish look and his eyes twinkled as he turned to grab a slice of pizza off the plate. I gasp when I see a quick flash of his back marked with red claws that I am very certain I had inflicted.

My fingers brush against them. "Oh my God Xade, did I do all of this?"

"You marked him pretty good last night huh tiger?" Xaden said somewhere in the living room area, making my eyes widen in surprise. Had he been here all along and now just noticed him? I flushed in embarrassment, my tongue getting tied.

Xaden groaned, fake gagging. "The sexual tension is unbearable and gross, you two need to get a room! Wait never mind, those poor neighbors need a break from hearing you both last night."

Avery's pov

As Xade pulled up in front of the dorm building, I turned to face him and gave him a shy smile. "Thanks for the ride," I said while reaching for the door handle but his fingers wrap gently around my upper arm and stopped me in my tracks.

I spin to face him, my brows furrowing. "You forgot something." a teasing little smile draws charmingly on his lips.

His lips connect with mine before I could finish my words, causing a bloom of warmth to spread throughout my body and my heart to flutter. His lips are soft and gentle against mine, as if he's savoring the taste of me like I am doing him.

But all too soon the kiss ends, leaving me breathless and wanting so much more. My eyes flickering open to meet his eyes which were swirling with yearning and love. He pinched my chin softly, his thumb brushing my lower lip. "I love you Avery."

My breath hitches. I don't think I will get used to him saying those words too. His eyes flicker from my tingling lips to my eyes as he whispered." You don't have to say it back yet. I'll wait."

I shook my head, because I do in fact love Xade, always have and it was about time I admit those words I had been hiding from him for years. But something holds me from saying them. Perhaps fear of him not actually meaning his.

Admittedly there is still a nagging feeling of this being unreal and just

His eyes lit up and he had a boyish grin that brought me back to our younger days when we gave a bit of trouble. I can’t believe that young boy I admired from afar now craved me the same way I craved him.

But will this craving last?

The thought makes me frown and Xade notices. “I mean, there’s no rush.” he blabbered on, looking so adorable that makes me smile once more and giggle and I reach out to gently caress his cheek, feeling the warmth of his skin and slight stubble beneath my fingertips.

“I know,” I whispered.

He leans into my touch, sighing. “Go now before I really do kidnap you.”

I grinned and drop my hand, but he grasp it and brought it back. “One more kiss?” his eyes gleaming with mischief. I giggled softly and nod, leaning in to brush my lips against his. In seconds it grows more heated.

He kissed my nose and then fully pulled away, his eyes on my lips. “I should go,” I said breathlessly, my heart racing as I try to compose myself.

I picked up my pace and slowed down once I got to my dorm room. My brows furrowed, seeing the crack in the door. Why is the room open?

Then I heard it, a shatter and my heart lurches in my throat. I run to the room, opening the door with fear curling in my stomach. But the sight that greets me makes me freeze in my place, my blood growing cold.

The first thing I notice is the messed up room, my clothes scattered on the floor, some looking torn and dirty. My books look ripped, pages everywhere in the room and my sheets are also scattered to the floor messily. The room is chaotic.

I have never seen Melissa look this angry before. Her eyes were red, the veins on her forehead popping out, the look in her eyes. She looked terrifying.

“Don’t you f*cking dare!” her voice was now a higher pitch, almost like a banshee that caused my ears to ring. My heart pounded in my chest. each beat feeling more furious as the seconds tick on by “Little miss innocent and perfect.” her voice took on a pitch of a taunt as she walked back to my side of the room that had already been a mess. She grabbed my snow globe, the one Xade had given me for Christmas years ago and my heart dropped in the pit of my stomach.

Oh no.

“Melissa please don-

“Xade!” I squealed as I ducked behind my makeshift snow wall. Xade was aiming to hit my face with a snowball.

I can hear his cheery laughter, loud and happy. “Why are you hiding V? It’s just a little snow.” he teased and as I peeked behind the wall I saw him making the ball to throw at me. I narrowed my eyes, trying to figure out a way to win this little snow fight..

I nodded and we raced to head to my house." Wait." Xade gripped my arm before I could walk to the foyer. I turned around, a little confused. He beamed. "Wait here, I want to give you the gift I bought."

My brows furrowed. "But we aren't opening gifts yet until everyone gets here."

Xade just smiled. "This gift isn't for everyone to see, it's for you alone." Then he left, quickly running to the living room area to get the gift. He returned seconds after, his face already flushed as he approached me shyly.

His arms are behind his back, hiding the present. I beamed, butterflies fluttering in my stomach wildly. "Here," he says softly, revealing his hand grasping a present wrapped terribly with gift paper. I giggled, throwing my hand over my mouth.

Xade sighed, rolling his eyes. "I tried," he said sheepishly, handing me the poorly wrapped gift that I took happily, my entire body flushing with warmth.
