Betrayed By Everyone Loved by Four Chapter 121

This vacation has been everything I could have ever dreamed, and more. It's been amazing since day one. I'm not surprised Leo had events planned for us every day. He's kind of controlling, but it's also sweet.

I can tell that Leo really put thought into things. It wasn't lost on me that he made sure to fit a little something in for everyone. Lots of water time for Milo. Leo just happened to bring Atlas's guitar when he forgot it. He even made sure we stopped at this specific store in town that Oliver apparently loves. They sell a lot of really cool vintage things like records, jewelry, toy cars. Really cool stuff.

Leo also made sure to make the vacation all about me. I know he's doing it on purpose to really push the 'i love you', and 'we're serious about this relationship' thing. I'm going to have to have a conversation with him soon. As soon as we get back. Which means that I get to soak in as much of this treatment as I can for now. Once we get back I need to tell Leo that this isn't necessary. I know that they all love me. That they will never leave me.

Our relationship is weird, but I like it. We just... fit together. I've realized that for a while now. It took me some time to be more comfortable, and in the open with it, but I am now. And it didn't even take me that long.

I think that I always know that it was right with them. I questioned what we had because of society's standards. They reassured me over and over that I was doing nothing wrong, and they were right.

People might not understand this, but they don't have to. It's about us, and what makes us happy. I know that now.

They all make me happy. Very happy. I have not a single worry in the world that they might find someone better, or throw me away. They have more than proven to me that I am important to them, and that they really love me.

Honestly, I can't believe that Leo still feels the need to do all of this. It makes me so happy that he thinks of me this much. Although, it also makes me annoyed. I must not be doing something right.

I want to make them all as happy as they make me. I've been trying so hard lately too. Ever since Leo's birthday I realized that I need to pay more attention to them.

That's why I had the conversation with Atlas and Oliver. I told them that they should be able to do whatever they want to each other. Honestly, it doesn't bother me at all if they are with each other. I mean, it's just the two of them. My teddy bear and my schnoogems. Honestly, it's kind of hot to think about too.

I told them all of that, and that I hoped they can find comfort in each other the way that they do with me. I meant every word too. We are in a relationship with each other, not just me with each of them.

I think they've been feeling better about it. I know Atlas has for sure. He's been stealing kisses from everyone every chance he gets. Even Milo is getting used to it.

Although, I have noticed that Oliver has been hesitant. He blushes any time that Atlas gives him 'speical attention'. I know they've been doing stuff. They send me videos. Maybe they just need a push.

I've been making sure to give Milo more attention as well. He's been acting a bit strange lately. Not in a bad way, just.. different. I just don't want him to have any doubts, or question anything between us. So, I just made sure to stick to his side a bit more. Which is what lead me to want to skii.

Bad decision on my part.

I haven't got to spend as much time with Leo though. He's always around, always touching me still. We are definitely all sleeping together every night. I just feel like we haven't had much time to just enjoy each other's company. Until last night that is. Leo and I smoked that joint. We had a nice talk about our future. It was mostly me day dreaming about what life could be like, but I still loved it.

Then Leo fucked me against the picnic table. Twice. Then on the kitchen table, the kitchen counter, two of the sofas in the living room, on the stairs... And then I may or may not have convicned Leo to wake our others up for more fun. I think I have a s*x problem.

"Are you even listening Millie?"

Milo's voice interrupted my thoughts.

"Huh?" I asked.

"What were you thinking so hard about angel?" Oliver teased.

My cheeks flamed.

"Uhm, nothing." I said, and then cleared my throat.

"Well, I asked you if we could take you somewhere." Milo said.

"Yeah sure." I stood up from Leo's lap. "Where are we going? Are we all going?" I asked excitedly.

Milo chuckled at me.

"Yes we are all going. It's a surprise though, come on." He said.

Milo grabbed my hand, and pulled me towards the dock. I looked back to see the others following us. I'm getting more excited. Are we going for a romantic boat ride?

I got on the boat, and the others followed me. Oliver sat down first, and pulled me into his lap. I snuggled against him, as Atlas sat next to us. They kissed each other on the lips, and I smiled.

"Next time use tongue." I whispered to them.

Oliver blushed, while Atlas gave me a big lopsided grin. I giggled at the two of them. They are so cute, and I really love teasing them.

Milo started up the boat, and we were on our way. The boat just cruised down the water. Milo hasn't taken me this far down though. Eventually, Milo slowed the boat down. I turned to him, and furrowed my brow. Milo only smiled in return. At one point we slowed down a lot. We came to a wall of willow trees. I thought we were going to stop once we got close enough, but then we didn't. And I am starting to panic.

"Uh, Milo.." I trailed off.

"It's okay babygirl. Trust us." Atlas said.

I leaned back against Oliver, and Atlas put his hand on my thigh. I do trust them, but.. This is kind of scary. Are we really about to run into these trees?

We aren't going fast, but still. Won't the boat sink, or something? What would we do then? Swim back to the house? Why would they even do that?

My heart rate skyrocketed the closer we got. Milo turned the boat off completely, and we coasted right into the tree. I shrunk back against Oliver, and squeezed my eyes shut. I'm just waiting for the crash. Only.. it didn't come.

I popped one eye open just as we passed through the flowing leaves of the willow trees. Both of my eyes opened, and I looked around. Atlas and Oli chuckled at me, but I ignored them.

This.. was not what I was expecting. The lake keeps going after the trees. Almost like a hidden area that no one knows about. At least, it seems that way. There is not another soul out here.

It's not a huge area. Enough for the boat to cruise in, and turn back around. The area is surrounded by willow trees. I didn't even know there were so many over here. There is even one in the middle of this little lake.

With the setting sun in the background, this place looks like something out of a fairytale. There are even lily pads with tons of flowers. The water looks just as beautiful in here as the rest of the lake.

I turned to look at each of my boyfriend's faces.

"This place is.. stunning, amazing, beautiful, otherworldly." I said. "Thank you for bringing me here."

Oliver kissed my cheek at the same time that Atlas leaned in to kiss my lips.

"We've been waiting to bring you here for a while." Oli said.

"You have?" I asked.

"This is where we wanted to ask you to be our girlfriend." Milo said.

I turned to look at him. Milo has a serious look on his handsome face. It isn't often that happens.

"That was obviously ruined, thanks to our bad decisions." He said.

"And obsessive ex girlfriend." I grumbled.

"Exactly." Oli said amused.

"We wanted to bring you here, explain our relationship, and then all be together for the first time." Leo told me.

I guess I ruined that huh?" I said with a forced laugh.

Leo reached across the seat to grip my chin. He pulled me forward, and I frowned at him. Leo only smiled back at me.

"You didn't ruin anything. Our relationship still worked out. Besides, after last night, I might have other plans for this place now." He said with a wink.

I blushed.

Does he mean that.. he plans to propose to me here one day? A slow smile spread across my face. Leo really does plan that I'm sure. I know that we were just fantasizing about our wedding last night. We've done it before when it came to kids. I didn't think he was serious then either, but now.. Maybe that could really all become reality for us.

"This place kind of looks like that scene from the Notebook." I said as I looked around. "The sunlight through the trees is almost a nostalgic feeling too. I really like it here." I told them.

"The Notebook?" Milo asked.

I rolled my eyes.

"Boys." I mumbled under my breath.

Oliver chuckled under me.

"It's a movie. A chic flick." He told Milo.

"We'll have to watch it together sometime." Milo said.

I smiled as I turned to face him.

"Really?" I asked.

Milo returned my smile.

"Of course baby. Anything for you." He said.

I giggled as I turned back to the scenery.

"All that's missing is the swans." I said.

"Swans?" Leo asked.

Oliver chuckled again. He turned his head to Milo, and gave him a nod. I gave them a confused look.

"Look up." Atlas whispered in my ear.

Milo honked the horn of the boat as I looked up at the trees. Hundreds of birds flew out of the trees. All kinds, all colors. I gasped loudly as they flew all around, out of the tops of the trees, and any other area they could. None of them came low enough to reach us, but the sight of all of them flying around is amazing.

It took several minutes for the air to calm down. Some of the birds stayed on the branches to watch us. I smiled brightly like a child as I turned to the guys.

"I can't believe you waited until the last day to show me this place." I said.

They all looked to Leo, so I did too.

"We were having fun doing other things. I couldn't find the time." He said.

I gave him a bored look.

"Next time, force us away like you do any other time." I complained.

Leo smiled while the other's chuckled.

"I'll remember that for next time." Leo said.

"Does anyone else know about this place?" I asked.

Atlas shrugged.

"Other people live around the lake, but we've never seen anyone come here before." He said.

"Not that we have spent a lot of time here at once. Ususally we only come to smoke, or take a breather, and then we leave." Milo said.

I stood up from Oliver's lap, and stripped my shirt over my head.

"What are you doing princess?" Leo asked.

"I want to swim here. This place is gorgeous." I said.

"You don't have a suit on." Oliver said.

I already wiggled out of my shorts.

"You gonna go in your underwear babygirl?" Atlas asked.

I reached around me to unhook my bra.

"My boyfriends just showed me the most amazing place on the planet, and you think I'm not going to get naked for all of you? Yeah right." I teased as I threw my bra at Atlas.

"What if someone sees?" Atlas complained.

"Guess you all should join me. Ya know, to protect my body." I giggled as I tossed my panties at Milo.

I jumped off the front of the boat into the water. When my head broke the surface I looked up to see all their faces. I giggled as I swam around.

"You guys coming, or what?"

Betrayed By Everyone Loved by Four Chapter 122

"Why are you ringing your hands like that?" Oliver whispered.

My eyes snapped to him in front of me.

"Pay attention." I scolded quietly.

"How am I supposed to do that when my angel is a bundle of nerves behind me?" He argued. "How can you even tell from in front of me?" I asked.

"It's rolling off of you in waves babe." Evie said from next to me.

I frowned at her.

"Don't call me babe." I said.

"Don't call her babe." Oliver said at the same time.

Evie chuckled, and rolled her eyes.

"She's right though. It's rolling off of you. What are you even so nervous about?" Oliver asked.

I rung my hands again as I stared into Oli's bright hazel eyes. Today is our graduation walk. The day is finally here. We get to walk across that stage. In front of everyone.. All of these people.. Family, friends, teachers.. Oh man I think I might be sick. "It's just.. What if I trip and fall? What if they forget to call my name? What if I walk too fast, and forget to shake someone's hand?" I rushed out in a whisper.

Evie laughed getting the attention of several people around us. Oliver glared at her, and I elbowed her gut. Then I turned back to my boyfriend.

"Millie, it's just graduation. You will be fine." Oliver assured me.

"I don't know. She is wearing heels, and I have never seen Millie wear heels." Evie said.

I turned my head to scowl at her.

"You're not clumsy are you?" She asked.

My scowl deepened as I narrowed my eyes harder at her. Evie snorted, and had to cover her mouth to hide her laughter. I crossed my arms, and rolled my eyes at her.

"Did you wear a dress under that too? Oh man, you better not trip and fall. I can just imagine Leo's rage if everyone here got a peak at your panties." Evie teased.

My eyes went wide, and my face went pale. I'm staring straight ahead at Oli, but I see nothing. Oh no.. What if that does happen? That would be so embarrassing!

"I think I'm gonna be sick." I mumbled.

"Evie, shut the hell up." Oliver growled at her.

"Sorry, it's just so funny, and easy." Evie said.

"Yeah, laugh it up, you a*s." I told her.

"Millie, it is going to be fine. You are going to walk across that stage, shake those hands, and take your diploma. Then we are all going to go out to eat with our families, together." Oliver said. I nodded to him, trying to soak up some of his confidence in me.

"Honestly Millie, you've been through a lot scarier things. That court case had of been much more nerve wracking than this, and look how well you handled that. You got this girl." Evie said. I nodded.

"You're right. That was way worse. I'm nervous for nothing." I said.

"Exactly." She said.

I looked up at Oliver, and he gave me a reassuring smile. Before he could say anything more, the speaker started to announce graduates to stand. Then he started calling names.

Oliver and my last names start with H, so it was a while before we were called. When they called our rows though, we all walked to line up next to the stage. We will walk across, and then take our seats again. "Oliver Harrison"

I watched as Oli took the stage. He shook the hands of the important people we've never met. Then Oli was handed his diploma. When he turned it around to show the crowd.. I wasn't the only one to cheer insanely. "Whoaaa!! Go Oli!!" I shouted as I clapped.

"Geez, and you guys yelled at me for getting other people's attention." Evie teased.

I ignored her, and everyone else that stared. I did that for Oli, and I don't care if I made a complete fool of myself. I plan to do it for all of them.

"Ameilia Holmebrooke."

My name was finally called. I nervously walked across the stage. I kept my head high as I shook hands. Then I was handed my diploma. I turned to show it to the crowd, and everyone cheered. Way more people than I ever thought. I almost forgot how many friends I made since starting that program. I wasn't expecting so many people to cheer for me. I need to cheer for all of them too.

Although, it was easy to make out my parents cheers. Lila's and Calebs. And especially my boyfriends. Atlas was the loudest, but he always is. I even heard Leo's shouts. It made me so happy.

Finally, I took my seat. Several people congratulated me on my way back. I blew out a sigh of relief once I sat down.

"Told you you could do it angel." Oliver turned in his seat to tell me.

I smiled at him

"I probably looked so silly." I said.

Oliver chuckled. "I thought you looked sexy as hell. Even in your royal blue robe that shows none of your luscious curves." He said.

I laughed at him.

We cheered for Evie, and every other person that was called. Shortly we will get to see our other's cross the stage. When the K's were called I got excited. Almost to Milo.

"Milo Kissenger."

Cheers erupted around us.

"Whaoooo! Yay Milo!" I screamed out as I clapped.

I can't believe how many people cheered for him. Espeically girls. Did a bunch of girls cheer for Oliver too? Am I really being jealous right now?

Milo's eyes connected with mine. Even from this far away I know he's looking at me. Milo gave me a wink, and then left the stage. I watched him walk back to his seat. When his eyes connected with mine again, I blew him a kiss.

The only bad thing about today is that I couldn't sit next to all of them for this. It would have been way better. At least Oliver is right in front of me, and Evie is next to me though. So thankfully, I am not alone.

We cheered for the rest of the K's, and all the other letters. Until finally, the N's were called. I watched Atlas rise from his seat, and follow the line. He gave me a wink when he noticed me staring at him. "Atlas Norris."

"Yay Atlas! Whoaaa! Good job baby!" I screamed out.

The cheers for Atlas seemed louder. It seems that there were a lot more guys than anything cheering for Atlas. I guess that makes sense. Since he did every single sport he could. I'm happy he has a lot of friends. Shortly after that, the W's were finally called.

"Lila Whitlock."

"Whaoo! Lila! That's my best friend!" I screamed.

"Hell yeah Lila! You go girl!" Evie screamed along with me.

Lots of other people cheered for her as well. I'm so happy for her. Thanks to that program, Lila was also able to make a lot more friends. Some of them are even going to the same college as us. We talked about getting together once a week once school starts back up.

"Leo Whitlock."

"Whaooo! Leo! Yeah baby!" I screamed.

Leo was polite when he grabbed his diploma. Only, he didn't show it to the crowd like everyone else. He just took it, and continued on the stage. I chuckled as I rolled my eyes.

Just like with the others. Leo found my eyes almost instantly before he even made it to his seat. I gave him a bright smile, and a wink of my own. Leo just shook his head at me, but I saw the corners of his mouth quirk up.

"I thought that we were going to dinner with our parents? Don't we have a reservation?" I asked.

After everyone had their walk, we were dismissed to go see our families. We literally spent over two hours taking pictures. I was getting a bit restless. It was just too much. I wanted to sit down, and I'm hungry.

Finally, we were told to head to the restaurant. Only, I was practically shoved into Atlas's car, and blindfolded with Leo's tie. Which by the way, they are all in suits with ties. I... possibly ruined my panties just by looking at them. Still though, what the hell.

"Relax will ya." Milo teased. "We are taking you for a surprise you know that." He said.

"Yeah, we asked you if you wanted to take a detour with us, and you said yes." Oliver said.

"Yeah, but.. I thought I was gonna get to eat. Or get eaten at least." I grumbled out.

I heard them all chuckle at me.

"Well, you are wearing a dress. I bet I could sneak between your legs." Milo teased from beside me.

A hand rested on my thigh, that I am pretty sure belongs to Milo. He trailed his hand up my thigh, under my dress. My breath hitched.

"You look really pretty in this dress baby." Milo whispered in my ear before licking it.

"Th-thank you. It's new." I told him.

Milo chuckled, and it rumbled through my body.

"I know baby. I know I haven't seen it before anyways." He said as he started kissing down my neck.

"Milo, not right now." Leo ordered from the driver's seat.

Milo pulled away from me, and I pouted.

"Such a bully." I grumbled.

"Here." Leo said.

Something was shoved into my lap. I picked it up. It's a box, that feels like..

"Eclairs?" I asked.

"Try one, and find out." Leo said.

I huffed. "How am I supposed to do that?" I asked.

"I'll help you angel." Oliver said from my other side.

Oliver took the box from me, and a moment later told me to open up. I moaned once I tasted the chocolate eclair. So good.

"Thank you boo bear." I said.

"Yeah whatever princess." Leo said back.

Oliver fed me more eclairs during our ride. I offered some up for everyone, but only Atlas and Milo ate with me. After about 20 more minutes I felt the car stop.

"We're here. No peaking Ameilia." Leo ordered.

"Alright Leo." I mocked back.

I was pulled out of the car, and dragged around. I have no idea where we are, but I can hear the sound of traffic. A moment later I knew we entered a building. Then we got in an elevator. I'm starting to feel giddy. I wonder where we are, and what they have to show me. Maybe some place for sexy time?

The elevator came to a stop, and I was pulled out. After a couple of minutes we came to another stop. I heard the sound of keys jiggling.

"Alright, are you ready princess?" Leo asked.

"Yes." I said excitedly.

The tie was removed from my eyes. It took me a second to adjust to the light of the hallway. In front of me is a black door. There is a peep hole, and the number 407 in silver on it.

I looked at Leo who is half in front of me, half beside me. Leo only smiled back. Then he pushed the door open.

I walked into the apartment, and looked around. It's very large, with an open floor plan. The entry way is cute, then it leads right to the living area. Everything is bare. No furniture, or decorations.

I walked into the living room. Hardwood floors are across the entire apartment. The walls are a plain white. The living room is spacious. One of the living room walls is half windows. I can see that there is a very large balcony off of it.

Next I saw the kitchen. It is also pretty large for an apartment. Everything looks new though. The dark wood cupboards, the marbled countertops, all of it. Milo grabbed my hand, and drug me down a hall. We stopped to see two bedrooms, and one full bath. Everything is bare. Search the (F)indNovel.net website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Then we came to a last door. Milo opened it for me, and I walked in. This is a very large bedroom. There are tons of windows surrounding it. I walked, and started opening doors. There are two closets, and a full bathroom.

Once I had thoroughly inspected the room, I turned to the guys.

"What is all of this?" I asked confused.

"This is our place." Leo told me.

My expression must show my shock.

"This? This is our place? You got us a place already?" I asked.

Leo nodded.

"I've had my eye on this apartment. It's the perfect area for all of us. It's between our schools. Even the culinary program that Atlas is going to. It's in the middle of the city, so it makes transportation easier. I got a three bedroom for the closet space, but we will be sharing this room. It even has a washer, and dryer hook up near the front door." He told me.

I opened my mouth, and shut it again. What am I supposed to say? I have no words for this. It's.. well, it's amazing. Tears filled my eyes as I stared at them.

"Don't cry babygirl." Atlas said as he took a step towards me.

Atlas wiped my tears away as they fell. He held my face in his hands. I looked up into his worried expression, and tried to gather myself together.

"I'm just so happy." I said.

"Good." Milo said as he came to kiss my head.

Milo wrapped his arms around me from behind. Oliver came to join our little hug. Then we all looked at Leo. He smiled before coming over to wrap his arms around all of us.

Leo kissed the top of my head.

"Welcome home princess."

"Where we will make memories for the rest of our lives angel."

"Just imagine all of the things I can cook for you babygirl."

"All the sex we can have cupcake."

I laughed at all of them.

"I love you all so much." I said.

"We love you too Millie." Leo said. "Now come, we need to go back, and get you fed before you start throwing a tantrum."

I laughed as I took Leo's hand. I looked around again as I was dragged out of our new apartment. My heart is so full. I never thought this would happen for me. That I would have so many friends, and such an amazing relationship. I found love in all of my darkness. Things are bright in my life now.

I'm so happy.
