

Black Plain 1301

Chapter 1301 Caught In The Act

While Minos was having fun with Ivy, the news that he had beaten Lance had already reached the sect master.

"What? Did he truly do that?" Oswald laughed as he relaxed his back into the support of his armchair.

"Yes, sect master." The person who had heard the nervous explanation from one of the Terry family members nodded affirmatively. "It seems that young Minos has made a scheme to destroy Lance's reputation."

"First, he made Lance see him in bed with Ivory and then used his allies within the sect to spread rumors and gossip regarding what happened in that situation." He said, talking about the rumor the Terry family had made up.

To control the damage that today's rumors had already done to Lance's reputation, the Terry patriarch ordered his family to spread stories of Minos planning such a thing.

According to them, the incident had been something minor. Still, Minos' men had increased it by making nasty comments about Lance's figure.

Even the people who had seen what had happened, almost all of them had been visited by people from the Terry family, keen to keep the true story between them.

So even if the very rumor that the Terry family was already spreading, it would be hard to prove otherwise once these people got on their side!

"What?" Oswald heard that and could not believe it. "That doesn't make sense. Minos hasn't even decided to vie for the position of my successor. Then, why would he try to ruin Lance's reputation?"

"Hmm, that's what I thought..." That man placed one of his hands on his goatee, imagining that this rumor must indeed be false. "Anyway, the Terry family demands punishment for Minos breaking the sect rules and beating Lance."

"Punishment? They are not even bothering to judge the matter and already want to go for punishment?" Oswald didn't like that. "Tell these people they first need to show how my grandson is guilty. Until then, there's nothing to discuss!"

"Uh, about that. I heard that they have already sent people to arrest Minos." The sect master's subordinate said in a low voice as he remembered that.

"What?" Oswald stood up from his armchair. "Send someone to stop them!"

After saying those words, he headed toward the estate of House Terry. At the same time, his subordinate sent his orders to some elders on duty.

...

Almost at the same time, the wives of Minos were still in the sect master's house, together with Angelica and Patience.

They were quietly talking about their lives, listening to tips from the older woman there while playing and eating.

They were not yet aware of the stories spreading through the sect since no one there had left in the last few hours, and no one had come to inform them of anything either.

But Maisie had left this place some time ago after receiving a message from her friend earlier when Ivy was listening to the discussion between Lance, Ivory, and Minos.

Unfortunately, Maisie had not left when she received the message, as she had only heard it a few minutes ago.

Maisie said nothing to her daughters-in-law or family, as it would not be nice to worry them with her son's lustful acts. So even though she knew that something between Minos and Ivory had happened, she went to that woman's residence in secret to not worry her son's wives.

...

'I hope I'm not late...' She thought as she arrived at the side of Ivory's house and noticed the broken glass around the garden of that residence.

Arriving there, she looked for Minos but did not find his spiritual fluctuation inside that house, only Ivory's and that woman's friends.

She knocked on the front door, hoping her former rival could help her.

"Maisie?" One of Ivory's friends opened the door and saw the beautiful figure of Minos' mother, immediately surprised that this person appeared there for them.

Ivory and the other beauty inside that house ran over there upon hearing this woman's name. Still, this blonde was not so surprised at her rival's appearance there.

"Ivory..." Maisie pressed her teeth together as she saw the eyes of that blonde, smelling her son on such a person. "You really are a slut! How did you have the nerve to seduce my son?"

Ivory was not offended, knowing that this was the expected reaction of a mother upon discovering that her rival had slept with her son...

Who would like to have an enemy close to their children?

No one would, so this blonde woman would not be offended by Maisie's reaction!

Instead, she smiled and said. "Did I seduce him? I think it was the other way around... He won me over and 'ravaged' my body." Her eyes sparkled as she thought about how to tease this woman. "But I must say, Maisie, you gave birth to a real man! Every inch of him..."

"Shut up!" Maisie almost slapped that blonde woman, not wanting to know what Ivory had done to Minos or how well-endowed her son was. "Tell me where he is! I don't want to hear what you did to delude my son!"

Ivory laughed, enjoying seeing the expression on Maisie's face. "I don't know where he is now. When things calmed down, your friend, Ivy, took him to her house."

"Ivy? Why would she do that?" Maisie asked.

Ivory smiled, even more, remembering Minos' abilities. "If I were you, I would run, hehe. Maybe you still have time to stop it from happening." She said as she winked at her rival.

Maisie did not like Ivory's teasing, but she did not consider it impossible for that to happen between Ivy and Minos. She knew that woman was beautiful and liked to flirt, so for someone with her son's personality, staying close to her without wanting to go deeper would be a real challenge.magic

'Damn it, Ivy! I hope you haven't done anything irreparable...!' She ran to her friend's house.

...

Meanwhile, Minos and Ivy were still in the yard of this woman's residence, both naked on the edge of the bathtub there.

Ivy was on top of this man, with her flower fully connected to his rod, receiving his seeds while pouring out her nectar of love.

At the same time, as she was controlling her little flower to massage Minos' rod, he was sucking her tits, extremely satisfied.

And while he was doing this and she was moving, this woman had a smile on her face, watching Minos' face with satisfaction.

'I hardly had anything to teach him, hehe. It seems Minos has been having fun with some very experienced women in the northern region...' She smiled as she finished her long and pleasurable experience with him.

"Ahhhh~" She moaned again, but before she could do anything else, she heard someone coming behind them.

"IVY!"

"What do you think you're doing?" Maisie's voice reached the ears of both of them.

Chapter 1302 Strange

When Maisie walked into the yard of her best friend's house, she immediately saw the most immoral scene of her life.

Her best friend was on top of her son, both naked, his rod almost all the way inside Ivy's wet cave.

But besides this image that she had never imagined she would see, the smell of sex in that place was powerful, which went against logic since this was an open area.

However, this only made Maisie more confident that these two had been doing this for hours, probably since the time Ivy had sent the previous message.

Noticing all this in a split second, Maisie turned red with anger as she approached those two while shouting at her friend.

"Ivy!" She said through her teeth pressed against each other as that green-haired woman finally looked back in surprise.

"Maisie!" Ivy said but did not get off Minos, having just opened her mouth in surprise and looked back.

Minos was also surprised and stopped sucking on this woman's breasts while looking in his mother's direction.

"Ivy, how could you? Minos is my son! You are my friend!" That beautiful brown-haired woman said this, barely able to take her eyes off the way Ivy's breasts were on King Stuart's face.

Because of their size, it would not be impossible for those twins to suffocate someone!

But precisely because of that, men generally loved Ivy as the feeling of sleeping with a woman with her measurements was the best.

"Don't talk like that. Minos and I were just getting to know each other. What's wrong with that?" Ivy said, a little embarrassed by the situation but still all over him.

Not only that, she had fully lowered herself over Minos' crotch and swallowed his rod, doing this so her friend would not see too much of her son...

Minos felt how 'worried' Ivy was as his rod was squeezed tightly by this woman. 'Don't tell me she's horny? What a naughty woman!' He thought about it as he looked at her breasts.

"What's wrong?" Maisie noticed Ivy did not seem intent on getting off Minos and asked. "Look at that. You're still fucking him! How dare you do that in front of me?"

Ivy turned red and said. "It's not like that. I'm just protecting you. It wouldn't be good for you to see your son naked like that..."

Maisie closed her eyes and remembered seeing Minos and Abby in this young man's office years ago.

While she was silent, Ivy took the opportunity to speak. "Come on, Maisie. Don't get irritated. You know I would never do this to hurt you. I was curious about little Minos and how he grew up."

"But now I can tell he's grown into quite a man!" She smiled. "You should be happy, Maisie. Minos no longer needs teaching and can handle women without being tricked!"

Minos felt strange hearing this as Maisie opened her eyes to look at this friend who had crossed the line.

Maisie usually did not care who Minos got into bed with, although she preferred him to stay with just Abby, Ruth, and Gloria. But she did not want her son to sleep with either an enemy of hers or a friend.

So in this situation where he had done both on the same day, she felt terrible, as if both Minos and Ivy had betrayed her.

In her view, it was wrong for her friend to have sex with her son!

"Minos, how did you do this to your mother? You already knew that Ivy and I are friends." She looked at him. "You did it to provoke me, right? Why don't we talk instead? You don't have to be like that."

Minos had even thought of doing it to tease Maisie. But Ivy was too hot, and he had done that with her more out of desire than for that other reason.

As for Ivory, besides her being beautiful, he wanted to affect Lance's mind.

So in neither case had he done it to affect his mother.

"Not really. It just happened." He commented in a low voice, feeling as if Ivy was trying to make him cum.

She blinked at him as she saw the look in his eyes, so he closed his eyes so he would not see his mother there.

Meanwhile, Maisie sat down on a wooden bench and started crying, feeling terrible about the whole thing.

Hearing her friend's sobs, Ivy stopped what she was doing with Minos and got off him, going to Maisie's side to comfort her.

At the same time, Minos opened his eyes and regretted that Ivy had stopped when he was almost there and sighed.

"I'm sorry, Maisie. It was just a casual thing. I didn't think it would hurt you..." Ivy hugged her friend, bringing Maisie's face to her breasts.

Minos then quickly put on his underwear and saw his mother crying. But before he could escape from there, Ivy said. "Come over here. Hug your mother."

"Uh?" Minos looked back and noticed the serious expression on Ivy's face and whined.

Maisie looked at him and saw that her son was no longer naked, feeling relief at not seeing her child's manhood.

He then approached those two, stopping right in front of them.

Seeing this, Maisie stood up and ignored her naked friend, quickly falling into her son's arms, and hugging him tightly, something she had not done in a long time.

"Minos..." She smelled him, trying her best to ignore Ivy's odors on this young man's body.

Feeling this embrace, Minos at first did not show much affection. Still, due to Ivy's encouragement, he hugged his mother back, squeezing Maisie in a bear hug.

While this touching moment was happening in the middle of the yard of Ivy's residence, a noise came from the entrance of that place, and then three Spiritual Saints appeared there.

"Minos Stuart! We are here to arrest you for your crimes!" One of them shouted before they appeared on the roof above that house.

But when they got there, they immediately noticed the strange situation of the people in that place.

Minos was shirtless, hugging his mother, Maisie. Meanwhile, Ivy had only her panties protecting her body, something she had just put on while those two were hugging.

Seeing this and smelling the odors in the air, those three people, two men and a woman from the Terry family, could not help but open their mouths in shock.

'What was going on here?' The woman there felt her face heating up, while the men could not keep their attention away from Ivy's beautiful breasts.

'Giants!'

Gulp!

"Hey, who do you think you are breaking into my house?" Ivy asked without any shame as she quickly put on her bra and began to get dressed.

...

Chapter 1303 A Junior Disagreement 1

The people there were silent for a few moments as they watched Ivy getting dressed and Maisie and Minos moving away from each other.

One of them broke free of the 'spell' that forced him to look at Ivy's chest and return to his reason. "We're here to arrest him." He pointed at the young man putting on his shirt. "It's time for you to take responsibility for your crimes, Minos."

The woman in this group kept looking at Maisie and Minos, wondering what immorality had or would happen there.

Gulp!

'What were they doing? Don't tell me that...' She felt her body heating up but tried her best not to blush even more as she imagined what would have happened if they had not arrived and gotten in the way of the situation.

'Damn it! If we had taken another 15 minutes or so, we could have seen something amazing...' She imagined as her breathing rose in level and a slightly strange smile appeared on her face.

One of her companions noticed this and asked in a low voice. "Are you okay, Sharon?"

"Hmm?" She looked at that fellow and tried to disguise it. "It's nothing. I just remembered something."

That man did not believe her, but since he did not have such a perverted mind as hers, he ignored such a person and turned his attention to Minos, Ivy, and Maisie.

'It looks like the sect master's daughter caught her son and best friend in the act...' He thought of this as he analyzed the situation correctly and saw the expression of unhappiness forming on Ivy and Maisie's faces after his colleague's words.

"Arrest Minos? What is this nonsense you are talking about?" Maisie put her earlier sadness aside and questioned these people as she stepped forward.

Ivy was also surprised and said. "Is this because of Lance? Know that he was the one who caused all that. Minos was having fun with Ivory when your young master interfered in their affairs."

"Tsk!"

"That's not true." He said, promptly starting to use the narrative invented by the Terry family. "Minos wanted to damage Lance's reputation to eliminate his only competitor, and he set the whole thing up to hurt us."

"Oh? Is that right?" Minos laughed upon hearing such a thing, finding it interesting how this family wanted to handle the situation. "I wanted to damage Lance's reputation? That can only be a joke. What reputation does Lance have?"

Hearing that, Ivy wanted to laugh, but given the seriousness of the situation, she kept silent, watching those people give Minos an ugly look.

"Don't try to play games with us, Minos. We know very well of your plans, and your words will not fool us." The other man there said while that woman put her fantasies aside to become more serious.

She then said. "Let's not make things difficult here. Don't embarrass your grandfather. Surrender peacefully, and we'll end this as soon as possible."

Just as Maisie was about to defend her son, Minos began to laugh, drawing the attention of everyone there and even a few newcomers who had not yet shown themselves.

"I am impressed with my influence every day, hehe." He said in a confident tone. "I haven't even shown interest in this sect, but the powerful Terry family is already trembling with fear that they won't even have a chance to dispute with me..."

"Imagine what will happen if I change my mind?"

The Terry family group members watched him as they clenched their fists. But Minos' words had a power that made them listen to him.

Minos then became more serious. "Don't blame me for that fool's incompetence. If he is weak and unable to handle situations like that and still suffers from rumors, then he is not good for the leadership position."

He did not know about the rumors circulating. Still, it was not hard to imagine this was the problem since one of those people cited Lance's reputation and the fact that Minos was acting to degrade such a thing.

People had witnessed their misunderstanding, and the secrecy of such a thing would not be kept. Unlike this situation in which the sect master's daughter and grandson were caught in strange circumstances, no one who had seen Lance early would hold back from talking about that.

None of those people in Ivy's house would dare let rumors about the sect master's daughter and grandson spread, given the danger of retaliation. But Lance was weak, and his support was not so decisive. Then, people would talk about the previous situation out of fear.

From then on, it would be natural for some people to increase the rumors and question Lance's abilities.

Minos perceived all this easily, so he did not need to listen to the rumors to know the motivations of these people.

"If you insist on this path, you will only embarrass yourselves." Minos gave this friendly warning, showing these people not to test him.

Hearing all this, Oswald's envoys finally showed themselves, appearing on the side of Minos and those two women.

At this instant, Ivy and Minos were already adequately dressed, and the odor of sex had disappeared in that area.

Then one of the newcomers laughed and said. "Minos said it all. Don't embarrass yourselves anymore. This situation is embarrassing enough for the Terry family."

Another of them, someone from level 75, then commented. "Harding, go back from where you came. The sect master has already said that there will be no punishment of any kind for Minos unless you have proof of a crime he committed."

Upon hearing this, those three felt frustrated as they looked intensely at the young man who had stood before them and spoken the previous words without hesitation. magic

What Minos had said was true, but they would never publicly assume that Lance was emotionally fragile regarding Ivory. Meanwhile, this family could not allow rumors and questioning to spread, so they would naturally not accept the situation because it was the truth.

"Humph!"

"We'll see!" The leader of that group tidied his clothes and said that before angrily leaving that place.

One of Oswald's envoys then said. "Don't stress too much, Harding. That is just a junior disagreement. Don't damage the reputation of an entire family just for that."

But none of those people would heed that good advice, and so they all ran back to their headquarters, angry at Minos and the defeat they had suffered.

As for Minos and that group, they soon left that estate, with Ivy staying behind and Maisie accompanying him and those men to a meeting with Oswald.

...

Meanwhile, the sect master had just arrived at the site of the Terry family in that sect, a little angry about this unnecessary situation.

Due to his bad mood, he could not help but feel part of his innate ability get a little out of control and oppress the people in that area!

"Sect Master..."

Chapter 1304 A Junior Disagreement 2

Seeing the expression on the sect master's face, the Spiritual Saints in the vicinity of the Terry estate did not need to feel his ability to know he was angry.

But still, countless people in that area were feeling sick at the moment, barely able to keep their consciences in front of this man.

Even the patriarch Terry, who ran over there upon sensing such a thing, looked at Oswald seriously, feeling the mental weight of having to endure such a thing.

So how could the weaker ones there, far from his level 78, feel even remotely well?

"Sect Master, please calm down. Let's talk in my office." He said to Oswald while gesturing with one of his hands.

"Jeffrey, what kind of nonsense were you thinking? You think I don't know what happened, and I'm just going to let you get on with your plans?" He asked, speaking softly but having the full attention of the people in the surrounding area.

"Sect Master, Minos has played dirty against Lance. He is targeting our young master's reputation, so we can't just accept that." Jeffrey said this in a determined tone, knowing that this man in front of him was angry but that he had to defend his family.

That was not a mortal matter, so he would not back down without managing to at least lessen the damage to Lance's reputation this night.

"Targeting Lance's reputation?" Oswald said this, looking up with a strange smile on his face. "What kind of bullshit is that? You heard from my grandson a few days ago what he thinks of himself and his possibilities..."

"Then tell me something, Jeffrey. Minos, someone who doesn't respect even us elders, would pay any attention to Lance? That is simply absurd!"

Patriarch Terry clenched his fists upon hearing that, knowing it was true. But still, he could not give up.

Minos had not yet decided to become the master of this sect, so he had to do his best to put Lance in that position.

Even if Maisie was still there to compete for such a thing, times had changed, and perhaps if Lance competed with her again, he could get an advantage.

At the same time, even if Lance did not become the future sect master, performing well in a contest for the successor position in an organization was an important thing in itself. After all, in competing for such a thing, the person in question would make important contacts and alliances for his own family.

That is, even if Lance were to lose again to Maisie or even to Minos if he did well in the contest, the Terry family could gain something!

Furthermore, a new candidate from this family could have an easier time in the future, and the chances of this organization nurturing a new sect master would be greater!

Therefore, even though it was ridiculous, he had to side with Lance, his third-generation nephew.

"Still, sect master. Lance was humiliated and beaten for no reason. Minos manipulated him, and so this young man deserves at least a punishment!" He exclaimed as people in the surrounding area admired his determination to protect his own family.

Oswald closed his eyes, and his eyebrows drew together tightly. He muttered. "Are you going to cause all this trouble just because of a junior dispute? I don't know if I need to tell you this, but Minos has a very vindictive personality. So I'm afraid it's not a good idea to do that. What if he decides to 'take over' the sect? Are you prepared for the consequences?"

"The consequences?" That blond man's eyes narrowed.

Minos' grandfather then said. "It's hard to have to admit, but Minos will be stronger than that old man in the future. So he will most likely have the power and influence to do whatever he wants. In that case, do you want to antagonize him for so little? The boy is just doing business for the Black Plain and having fun..."

Oswald did not wait for Jeffrey's response and said. "Forget about that problem and let the young people settle their own affairs. If you get directly involved, what will you do if you lose to a 31-year-old lad? Will you hide under a rock?"

"Jeffrey, I am saying this to you because I am your friend."

That old fellow looked at Oswald and clenched his fists, knowing that, indeed, something like that would be highly embarrassing.

But before he could say anything, Minos' group arrived at that place, as they had been directed to do when they went out to look for the sect master's grandson.

"Sect master, we're back." One of them said, while the others looked at the surroundings and saw that the people from the Terry family from the previous situation were also there.

"Hmmm." Oswald nodded to that person as he massaged his beard and suppressed his innate ability.

Minos noticed this and saw the people in the area with expressions of relief on their faces. "That's his innate ability?" He muttered before looking at his mother and asking. "Is your innate ability the same as that old man's?"

Maisie smiled at Minos and said. "Yes, I inherited my father's powers. As for Angelica, she is like your grandmother. She doesn't have a combat ability."

"It is not for nothing that the people in this sect wanted you as his successor..." He commented, noting that she must be pretty strong given how good that skill was.

Oswald then said to his grandson. "Minos, promise the Terry family that you have no interest in damaging Lance's reputation and will not play dirty."

'I've done that already...' Minos closed his eyes and laughed. But then he said. "Well, I don't need to act to damage his reputation. He can do that on his own... But I promise not to act if he doesn't bother me."

The people in the Terry family did not like Minos' teasing, but they could only accept his promise since Oswald was there.

"And what will you do about young Lance's current condition?" The patriarch asked as he clenched his fists in anger. "You have seriously injured him."

Minos then replied. "What I did was little. You should teach him not to threaten strangers in the future. If there is a second time, he will not end up in one piece."

"What? How dare you?"

"Arrogance!"

"Sect Master, that child has no manners!"

Several people at the entrance of that family shouted in disgruntled tones.

Oswald then asked. "Threatening?"

"He threatened my family and I showed him a little bit of what happens to fools like him," Minos replied, causing his grandfather to look in Jeffrey's direction.

"I guess the situation is settled, huh?" Oswald said. "Lance provoked this himself, so there are no question marks here for you to seek punishment for Minos, Jeffrey."

"But..."

"Enough!" The sect master said aloud. "I will not get involved since this is a matter for the younger ones. Then do the same. End of business!"

And with that, the situation 'was' resolved just before the three relatives left that area together, leaving the angry patriarch Terry behind.

...

Chapter 1305 Last Days In The Grey Clouds Sect

As they were leaving from there, Oswald looked at Minos and praised him. "You did very well to show your dominance. Lance was annoying you too much without you even competing with him..."

"Hmm."

"Anyway, what were you two doing? I didn't think you two were coming here together."

Hearing this, Maisie remembered the situation and felt the disappointment of catching her best friend in the act with her son. "Ivy called me to her house because of the previous problem, and that's how we met and came here." She told her father.

Minos remained silent, following them to the residence where his wives were waiting for him.

"Is that so?" Oswald noticed the blush on his daughter's face and that Minos had the aura of a new woman on his body. 'Hmm, it looks like Ivy doesn't forgive anyone...' He internally laughed but did not demonstrate his thoughts to Maisie.

He had also experienced dating his mother's best friends in the past. So it was not hard for this elderly figure to understand Minos and Maisie's situation and not to demonstrate his thoughts to his daughter.

But he could not help but feel more pleased with Minos, as they had many things in common.

While Oswald added another point for Minos in his judgment, this young man was thinking about his affairs in this sect.

'It's almost time for my group to return...' He considered the deals he had already made and what was left for their commitments in the Empire to end. 'I just need confirmation of these last deals I have already negotiated, and it will be time to leave!'

'I will finally be able to return to the Black Plain!' He smiled, imagining how much that place had improved in the meantime and what he would have to do on his return.

'I'll still have more than six months to travel, but in less than a week, I'll probably be free of responsibilities until my group arrives in Albano.' Minos looked at the months he would have in front of him. 'After that, I'll see some business in that state while I search for the God of Death's inheritance.'

His main reason for stopping by Albano was to help Abby finish fulfilling the Goddess of Life's mission. But as he would pass through such a state anyway, Minos already had in mind to try to do business regarding array masters techniques in Albano.

He could try to settle such a matter with Vogel through Elen, who was still in that state. But his position in that state was still too fragile. Even with his almost unstoppable ascension to power, it had yet to happen, and his powers would be limited even when that happened.

So he thought it might be simpler to negotiate directly with the West family, which already had an agreement with the Black Plain.

However, if that did not work, he would try his last card with that state when the Spiritual Church finally crowned him.

Anyway, with these matters in mind, Minos quickly arrived at his grandfather's house accompanied by those two people.

Upon arriving at that residence, they gathered to eat and talk about the day's problems, with Oswald and Maisie not talking about some of Minos' doings so as not to irritate Abby, Ruth, and Gloria.

They knew he had slept with more than one woman in the last hours. Still, they all preferred not to talk about it, especially when they were surrounded by people other than themselves.

At the end of the day, Minos had his fun, but he always returned to them, rarely showing interest in others in front of them and loving them in unique ways.

The others would come and go in his life, but they were side by side with this man, with a kind of attention that no others had. So they accepted such behaviors from him, even if they always acted to limit him.

...

In the blink of an eye, days passed...

After the incident earlier with Lance, most of Minos' deals with this sect were approved, and only the deals with array masters were refused.

With this, Minos spoke with Talia and arranged that when all the techniques he ordered in this sect and throughout the Empire were ready, she would pick them up and take them to the Black Plain.

Since this was an excellent justification for her to go to that region, Ruth's older sister accepted this request from Minos without any problems.

On the other hand, in the last few days, Isabella had appeared in the Gray Clouds Sect and spent some special moments with Minos, which only they and his wives had any idea what it was really about.

The rest of the people in the sect only considered this visit a good sign for the possible future sect master. After all, such a person needed to have a good relationship with the future sovereign of this state.

But to the unhappiness of some people in the sect who wanted to meet the princess, among them Lance, Isabella did not seem to be interested in anyone other than Minos.

With that, the princess' brief passage through this area naturally impressed and annoyed different people, including Minos himself...

But such was life. He had put his hands where they should not be, and now he could only bear the responsibility for such actions!

In the end, Isabella returned to the capital, promising to see him in the northern region. At the same time, he had some peace of mind to be with the other women he had in this sect on his last day there.

Maisie had not liked Ivy and Minos' relationship. Still, in the end, these two continued anyway and she sort of accepted that there was nothing she could do about it.

What could she do if her friend and son were two perverts?

She at least convinced herself that soon Minos would return to the northern region, and her relationship with Ivy would not change much. On the contrary, perhaps it would even help her in the future concerning her son, who had already become a little less rough with her during this period.

As for Ivory, her and Minos' agreement was already in place, and they had had their experiences when they had time in the last few days.

The incident with Lance had changed nothing for them, and everything had gone peacefully after that night.

The only notable thing had been Lance's attitude upon waking up, not having changed at all concerning Ivory and having his resentment for Minos increased considerably.

But since he had woken up only a day before the time of departure of Minos and his wives from this sect, he did not even have time to cause any trouble.

So, after the group of four had said goodbye to Kara, who had not yet advanced to the 7th stage nor had time to have fun with Minos, the four left this area of the Gray Clouds Sect!

There was still plenty for them in this state, but their strength still needed to be improved, so they would not get too involved in local affairs. However, Minos already had his eyes set on the Saints Killing Sect and the matters concerning the Spiritual Church.

Other than that, he had a year to make up his mind about the future of that sect. After saying goodbye to his family in this place, he left on Maida's back along with his wives.

"Time to have some fun..." He remarked to them as they took off from that city.

Chapter 1306 The Reason For The Name

While Minos and his wives were leaving the Gray Clouds Sect, Lance met with some of his elders in another part of that organization's headquarters.

He had a terrible look on his face, feeling wronged.

How would it feel to see the woman you love with another man, then get beaten up by that person, and wake up days later to find that nothing had happened to that person?

It would be terrible, right?

But the case in question was worse than that. After all, Minos was not punished, continued to have sex with that woman, and lived like a king while poor Lance suffered in a coma.

The bastard who brutalized him after defiling sweet Ivory had enjoyed his time with various women in the sect. He even had no problem with his wives when he came home smelling the scent of others.

In addition, he still gained the full attention of the princess, who treated him as if he were equal or even superior to her. magic

Lance knew practically everything that had happened to Minos in these days, and this knowledge disturbed him immensely!

This world was just too unfair!

How could someone as vile as King Stuart be so lucky while he, a great person, suffered in his interactions with the female sex?

To make matters worse, upon awakening from his how, this young blond had realized that his reputation was in tatters, with many questioning his ability for leadership.

Therefore, the look on his face was terrible, and he could not simply stand by while Minos did whatever he wanted!

"Elders, you all must assume my intention in gathering you here..." He said in a deep tone, while his face was dark as night.

The people there knew this blond individual very well. Some of them had even worked with Lance for several decades. So they did not need to hear from his mouth what his intention was.

"Young master, we understand your feelings. But it would not be good for us to act openly." One of the more sensitive ones there advised, feeling that dealing with this issue would be a headache.

Lance clenched his fists and said. "I know, I'm not a fool... Let's leak the information about his passage through our city and his return to the northern region to the Saints Killing Sect."

Lance's eyes cooled, and an evil smile appeared on his lips. "I've heard that some of the families in that sect hate him. So let's allow them to know that the opportunity has arisen."

"They will do the rest for us!"

"Oh?" The people in that place, a dark office, opened their mouths in realization, noting that even though Lance was emotional, he could still make good choices.

The Saints Killing Sect was their enemy. But it would be best if such a force dealt with Minos without them having to get involved. On the other hand, even if their plans went wrong, King Stuart could eliminate people from an enemy force of the Gray Clouds Sect.

In other words, it was a win-win situation for them!

Thinking like that, no one there saw any problems following Lance's idea.

"So what shall we do, young master?" Someone asked.

Lance then replied. "Send a message to the battlefield between our sect and that organization. Let that information fall where there are some of our fallen disciples."

When someone died on the battlefield, the items of such a person would be collected by the victors nearby.

So by sending clues to the battlefield, particularly where the dead were, Lance would find a way to communicate the passing of Minos to his enemies without taking much risk.

The only risk for him would be that no one would value this information, but this was extremely unlikely since all information was relevant in a war.

Thus, he was confident in his plan and eventual climb to power!

'This way, I will regain all my prestige!'

...

After leaving the Gray Clouds Sect, Minos and his wives traveled for a few days through the east of the Flaming Empire, passing through the region that gave this state its name.

In this part of the Empire was a mountain range with intense volcanic activity. There were whole areas, more significant than the Black Plain, totally on fire.

But the flames in this region were not concentrated in just one area. No, they moved around a region, completing the cycle every decade, renewing the vegetation where it passed, making room for new life to emerge.

Unfortunately, this cycle prevented the emergence of common items like medicines or items focused on many possibilities. But this negative point did not come without a benefit. That was a region loved by cultivators who focused their skills on flame-influenced techniques.

Suppose someone who used a fireball technique trained in this place. Then such a person would be able to advance their understanding much more easily by training there than if they did so in the Endless Snow Mountain Range. This other place was ideal for cultivators with ice-influenced techniques.

But even though they were training while passing through this hard-to-find region in other parts of the continent, Minos' group was not there to gain comprehension.

Besides having the Spatial Kingdom on their side, none were training techniques compatible with that particular place.

So for them, this passage in this region was just tourism. But, at the same time, they continued strengthening themselves and getting to know this state.

But during the days of travel, Abby had finally advanced to level 62, while Ruth was close to reaching level 63.

As for Gloria, she was entirely focused on mastering her techniques, having already stopped cultivating her soul so as not to advance a stage by accident.

For the rest, her belly continued to grow, with her becoming more and more maternal as time passed.

Maida and Kyla did not advance in those days. Still, the two spiritual beasts were taking advantage of the fact that they had returned to their travels, returning to having fun on the continent.

That was particularly true for Kyla, who felt very comfortable in this region of active volcanoes and could not help but enjoy the hot springs.

...

"Ahh, this place is wonderful..." Gloria exclaimed in satisfaction as she closed her eyes and relaxed in a large natural hot spring where her family was.

High up on a mountain in that burning part of the Flaming Empire, their group had stopped to rest for a while and found a good hot spring.

There, the women and beasts did not miss the opportunity to convince Minos to take a few hours of rest for them to relax in this burning paradise.

The view from that place was stunning, and the feeling of the waters was superior to massages. So they soon took off their clothes and relaxed in that hot spring, which was the size of the central square of Dry City.

"It's really comfortable, big sister..." Kyla commented as she closed her eyes and was also inside the hot spring, with her fur entirely inside the water.

As they casually chatted, Minos asked. "Do you know of the reason this region burns eternally?"

...

Chapter 1307 Graveyard

Hearing Minos' question, Abby and Ruth showed in their looks that they had no idea why, but Gloria seemed to have something in mind.

"Reason? It was a major incident in that area over a million years ago when a Demigod used a flame technique to punish an enemy in that area." That redhead said as she massaged her belly into the water of that hot spring.

Minos smiled as he heard what Gloria had learned from the Church. "Actually, it wasn't like that. That place was like that even before Henricus Longus was born, over 5 million years ago."

"What? How can that be?" That pregnant woman exclaimed.

Gloria trusted her husband, but she also believed in the Church. So she could not help but find his answer strange.magic

"I haven't heard that with the families of the Empire. That is information from the Church." She said just so he would know that this was official, not a story propagated by rumor or anything.

Minos smiled and closed his eyes. "I can imagine. But that doesn't change the fact that this is a lie. This place here is not so different from the Endless Snow Mountain Range in the northern region."

Abby's eyes widened as she recalled her and Minos' passage through the Endless Snow Mountain Range years ago.

Minos then continued. "This place is a graveyard of giant skeletons, a place sealed using the fusion of flame techniques of 13 ancient Demigods."

"What?" Gloria exclaimed. "Are there skeletons here too?"

Minos nodded and said. "Hmm, according to legend, this place was created by an enemy organization of the Immemorial Graves Sect. But unlike that place that had to have people to watch over and renew the seal, this place was created to be forever like that."

"In Henricus Longus' time, those flames supposedly could only be put out by a God who had mastered a technique of the opposite nature. Coincidentally, more than a million years ago, the Goddess of Water appeared, and part of the burning area was extinguished..." He remembered that the entire area of the Flaming Empire was a burning inferno at the time of that God.

He knew about the Goddess of Water because of the history books of the Spiritual Church itself. Therefore, he associated the change in that region with that person who, unlike the God of Death and the Goddess of Life, had actually reached level 100.

"Are you saying the Church did this on purpose and made up a lie?" Gloria asked, considering that the Goddess of Water had been a Supreme Pontiff of that organization.

"Hmm." He stated. "The question is whether or not the seal of this place has weakened. Unlike in the northern region, in this area, someone couldn't get close to the skeletons and see them."

"So? Are you trying to test this?" Ruth asked, knowing that her husband did not do unnecessary things.

Minos nodded. "There's a skeleton near where we are. If the seal is weak, we might be able to access it."

"And what do you want to do?" Abby frowned her eyebrows. "You didn't want to do anything in that sect in the Endless Snow Mountain Range. So why would you want to act here?"

"In the northern region, the seal is blocking those things, and I couldn't do much with those skeletons either. But here, the seal might be weakened. So even if I can't use such a thing for the moment, I'll try to take it to the Black Plain." Minos said.

Minos felt that those skeletons might have some relation to the threat alerted by Henricus Longus' soul fragment. But not only that, the energy of those bones was so intense that he could not help but imagine that such a thing could be helpful.

After all, Henricus Longus knew all this, had seen the future, and even produced techniques focused on energy absorption for his heritage... What did this mean?

Minos could not be sure since he could not see Henricus Longus' visions. But he felt that such a God had prepared his techniques to be used with these primordial bones!

He already had the Devouring Art. Chaotic Gravity could be fused with such a technique. Moreover, his 9th technique would be a sealing one, which also involved energy control.

So for Minos, the path ahead of him was obvious. Try to use those skeletons somehow!

"Isn't that dangerous?" Gloria asked Minos.

"If the seal is intact, yes. But then I won't try anything." He sincerely answered. "But if the seal is weakened, I'll be able to transport that thing into the Spatial Kingdom."

"Do you think that's a good idea?" Abby asked, worried about the possible consequences of this.

But Minos assured all his wives on that point. "Don't worry. The Spatial Kingdom is something even more stable than our world itself. So if those bones don't harm the continent, nothing will happen in the Spatial Kingdom."

Spatial Kingdoms were not just cultivation sanctuaries in areas of limited access. These places were also unique because they were utterly inviolable.

What did this mean? Well, a wormhole could not be opened from inside one Spatial Kingdom, and no one could force their way into it!

Not even a God was capable of violating this principle!

Three million years after Henricus Longus perished, a God became famous for trying to invade the Ancient Dragon Spatial Kingdom on the Beast Continent.

At that time, that man from the Divine Continent was annihilated by a mixture of lightning tribulation storms and the space collapse of part of that Spatial Kingdom.

Such a catastrophe damaged the Ancient Dragon Spatial Kingdom and created a pocket of unstable space that swallowed a quarter of that Realm.

Such a pocket of space had later turned into a famous area in the Spiritual World, which opened 'doors' into random places, sending people into a giant ruin of treasures.

No one who had entered such a thing had ever returned, but such a place was famous and was in the history books that Minos and his wives read.

Anyway, the Ancient Dragon Spatial Kingdom was partially damaged, but it still exists to this day!

Because of this, Minos knew that his Spatial Kingdom was safe and would not suffer from just one of these skeletons.

"Is that right?" Gloria asked.

"Hmm, don't overthink it. We may not even have to do anything." He said as he swam a few meters and showed them a mountain about 10 kilometers from there. "The biggest skeleton in this area is in that place. Do you want to go see it?"

The skeletons were not visible, but since Henricus Longus had located the largest of these ancient remnants, Minos knew where to find them.

So after relaxing for a while in that hot spring, the group of humans and beasts set off toward the spot Minos had shown them.

His women shared the same interests in adventures and potential developments for the Black Plain as him, so they all set off from there, eager to check out his thoughts.

However, they were not the only ones in the vicinity!

...

Chapter 1308 Attack Attempt 1

As Minos and his group headed for the mountain where one of the enormous ancient skeletons in this area was supposed to be, a group was following their footsteps at a distance.

In this group, three Spiritual Saints, two level 71 and one level 72 followed the clues from Minos' group.

Several days after the departure of Minos and his wives from the territory of the Gray Clouds Sect, Lance's group had managed to pass on the information of his passage to people in the Saints Killing Sect.

With that, the families of that sect who had orchestrated the plot with Abe Vogel to avenge their dead on the Black Plain decided to act upon coming into contact with such information. They immediately sent three of their leaders, the people who were in this group now.

Those who had orchestrated against Minos on Abe's side all these years were not members of the prominent families of that sect. Instead, they were people from average families, like the example of House Miles in the Gray Clouds Sect.

Because of this, these three people were only at the beginning of the 8th stage.

In any case, as Spiritual Saints, they were not weak, much less slow to investigate the tracks of such a careless group. Thus, they had found their way to those people with relative ease, finally reaching them this day.

"Where are they going?" The only woman there, the group leader, asked as she frowned, not understanding why these people were wasting their time in this burning place.

Besides the hot springs, there was nothing else of interest to visit in this area of the Flaming Empire. As if this was not enough, Minos' group had already spent days traveling through this area and frequented several hot springs like the one they had just left.

In addition, this place was dangerous, and none of those people seemed to have any technique or skill related to the nature of this place.

Hence, they seemed to be wasting their time in the opinion of that woman who did not know as much as Minos.

"It's bizarre..." One of the men, a person with a beard and black hair, said, seeing how Minos was indicating to Maida the place they were going.

"It looks like they are in search of something... No, it looks like they know where they are going!" The other man said, sensing that this was the case.

Just as he said this, Minos and his group stopped in front of a large mountain almost entirely engulfed in flames.

But strangely, no smoke was coming from that area, which looked like a giant rock over 100 meters high.

At that point where Minos' group stopped, there was nothing. It was just the lowest point of that burning mountain, from where the orange sky of the area seemed to blend in with some of the flames of that mountain.

The woman and the other man chasing them paid attention to the behavior of the four humans and realized that they seemed to be going to a known place, not something unknown.

'What do they want here?' The woman wondered before hearing the question from her bald companion.

"What do we do now? Do we wait to see what they are up to, or do we deal with them right away, once and for all?" Such a person asked.

Of course, he was curious to know about Minos's purpose in that place. But they were Spiritual Saints, while the opposing side had only Spiritual Emperors and even a Spiritual King... So what they might be after was probably of no value to this group.

In this case, eliminating the opponents while they had the chance might be the best alternative for them!

The woman then replied. "Let's follow them for a little longer. What's the worst that can happen if we don't act immediately? At least let's clear up our doubts about this situation."

The other two readily agreed, feeling nothing could stop them on this fateful day!

Who could Minos use to save himself this time? A pregnant woman? Experts who were not around? Rumors about his powers?

In their view, nothing!

Therefore, they watched that group while Minos stepped forward to lead his wives.

As he stopped in front of that mountain and walked a few meters closer to the flames, Minos said. "Even though this place was built to seal the skeletons here without the need for people watching the area, that doesn't mean there isn't a useful structure here."

"In this place ahead of us, there is an entrance similar to the one in the Immemorial Graves Sect. If the seal weakens, the members of the organization behind the creators of this area should act through it to strengthen the seal." He began circulating his energies through his arms, making a few hand gestures close to the ground.

"If the seal is weakened, the passage will open for us." He murmured to his wives as he struggled to move the invisible mechanisms in that area.

"What if it isn't?" Abby questioned her man.

"Then what I am doing will have no effect, and we will leave here," Minos said, but a noise of old poles opening sounded following his words.

When such a thing happened, those individuals who were not listening to the dialogue between Minos and his wives were surprised.

Not only had a small earthquake started in that area, but the front of the mountain where Minos was crouching a few meters ago had suddenly transformed.

What looked like the mountain's base had turned into a magma field, where a very narrow passage connected to a smaller mountain within that burning mountain. Following that path, all anyone would see would be the beginning of a dark cave and nothing else.

"What the fuck... What is that?" One of the level 71 men questioned his companions in a low voice, totally incredulous at the situation.

None of them had the slightest idea that there was anything of the sort in this place that had existed for so long. So seeing Minos reveal a great secret to them, they no longer even remembered that they were there to kill such a young man.

All in their minds now was to solve the mystery of this strange place!

Minos then stood up and looked at his wives. "There are traps in this place that have been made to prevent those unrelated to such a sect from entering here. So you must move like me. Step in the same places as I do and not touch anything."

"Is that okay?"

"Yes." The three answered while the two beasts sat in front of that place, waiting since they could not walk down that narrow path.

"But how do you know where to step? Was Henricus Longus part of that organization?" Gloria questioned her husband as they started down the path to that dark cave.

"No, but he had a relationship with one of the sect masters behind the group that made this place. So he left me the memories about it..." Minos said, strolling towards his goal, being very careful.

Meanwhile, the three individuals ran towards that place, intending to enter there as well.

'Nine-tailed Fox, huh? I think I'll take that one for myself later.' The woman thought as she looked at Kyla.

They knocked out the two beasts so they would not alert Minos' group and immediately entered that place!magic

...

Chapter 1309 Attack Attempt 2

When the first of those individuals started walking along the path that Minos and his wives had already followed, such a person made a move that he should not have.

As he stepped outside the permitted area in that place, one of the traps there immediately activated, causing the magma field to move as if an earthquake were happening.

But just then, a jet of red-hot liquid came out of the middle of that magma area, going towards the man in question.

It all happened in a fraction of a second. When those three realized something was happening, the jet of lava was already about to hit their companion.

"Damn it!" Such a person screamed upon seeing that thing coming towards him and jumped forward, quickly activating several techniques to dodge the worst and defend himself from possible remnants.

None of them were foolish enough to think that such a place or that lava flow was harmless. No, they realized it could mortally wound even them, Spiritual Saints!

So none of them would underestimate such a thing or act arrogantly in front of that strange place.

Unfortunately for that level 71 man, even though he had dodged that jet in question when he went to sigh in relief, a lava wave appeared on his right side. When this happened, his friends immediately returned the way they had come, while his eyes widened in terror at the sight of the thing.

He even tried to run away when he saw it, but the path in front of him closed so fast with the falling lava that he was engulfed in flames before he could escape!

Due to the temperature of that gelatinous substance, this Level 71 Spiritual Saint did not even have a chance to scream. As a result, his body was utterly obliterated, without even leaving behind his bones or items such as a spatial ring.

Everything melted with that scalding substance, 'oozing' back into the magma field soon after.

"Hah... Hah... Hah... What was that?" The last remaining man asked the woman beside him while sweating and breathing rapidly.

Gulp!

"I think he fell into a trap." She looked back, pale with fear, as she recalled that there were three of them just now, but in a split second, one of them was wiped out.

Even that man's soul was erased from this world, leaving nothing behind to indicate that he had once existed.

As they looked back at that place, they noticed that everything seemed to have returned to normal, with the path from before becoming visible to them again.

The man then asked. "What do we do now? If we make the same mistake as Cliff, it will be the end of us. None of us are much stronger than him!"

The woman clenched her fists and said. "We have to keep going! That is the proof that such a place is valuable!"

There were a few reasons to accept the great chance of death in this world. One of them was precisely finding a treasure to turn heaven and earth upside down, something that could transform generations of a family.

In this situation, a traditional cultivator would hardly fear the danger in front of them. On the contrary, they would go to great lengths to overcome the problems in their path and harvest the best possible fruits!

Only in this way could someone change from water to wine quickly!

The man understood his partner and questioned her. "But how shall we do it?"

"Don't touch anything. Follow in the footsteps of those people from earlier." She said as she realized that some of the tracks of Minos and his wives had not disappeared with the earlier problem. "For the rest, be as careful as you can. If you don't know what to do, stay still or go back."

"All right!" He nodded, feeling that it made sense.

'Where the hell did Minos get information from this place? He even knows how to get in safely!' The woman thought about this as she made a frown, already following the narrow path in that magma field.

...

Sometime later, after sweating a lot on the path earlier, the man and woman coming from the Saints Killing Sect overcame that phase.

When they arrived at the entrance of the dark cave at the base of the mountain, they saw three paths ahead right after walking a few meters inside it.

Gulp!

"What now?" He asked his companion, seeing tracks on all three paths.

This level 72 woman also felt unsure when she saw this, but the greed in her heart was much more intense than fear.

magic

So she tried to scan the area to choose her path.

"Let's take the middle passage." She said after a few minutes.

But hearing this woman's tone, that man felt a little strange. 'What if she tries to use me as a guinea pig? She's stronger than me, so surely she might have an extra chance if she makes me take a step she wouldn't take just to test something...'

"Isn't it better if we split up?" He suggested, protecting himself from his partner stabbing him later.

If something there were valuable, such a reality would be even more likely than her using him as a guinea pig!

She looked at him and felt that such a person suspected her, which was the right thing to do in this situation. But she did not object to his speech. "That's not a bad idea either. Which way do you want to go?"

He sighed in relief and pointed in the direction he had judged to be the best. "I'll take the left entrance."

"All right, I'll take the middle one." She said before making the motion to enter that tunnel.

But after doing so, she quickly turned back from where she came, noticing that her partner had already entered the other tunnel. 'Let's see if his way will bring trouble before I choose my own.'

After pondering her plans and stopping at that fork location, motionless, she used her soul technique to direct that part of her being into the tunnel on the left.

Doing so would not help if no one was walking ahead of her to show her the right way. So she preferred to 'accompany' her companion this way, using him as her guinea pig.

However, her journey did not last long. Only 5 minutes after saying goodbye to the level 71 man, this woman heard screams from that place.

"Ahhhhhhhhhhhhhhhh!"

"Help! Help!" Her companion's voice sounded in desperation before she even saw what was happening inside that tunnel.

'What happened? He was walking normally and suddenly started screaming...!' She pondered, but hearing that man increasingly desperate, this person felt fear and made her soul return to her body.

She clenched her fists and entered the middle tunnel, deciding to follow her instincts and not stay to see her partner's problem.

"I hope that's worth the trouble..." She muttered, sweating coldly and extremely pale, no longer remembering Minos' existence given the risks in her surroundings.

...

Meanwhile, Minos and his wives were at the end of that middle tunnel, reaching their destination!

Chapter 1310 Attack Attempt 3

"What is the point of those three tunnels? Do they lead to different areas?" Ruth asked as she followed behind Abby, who was standing behind Gloria.

That redhead looked at her husband, continuing her path without error, as she listened to him answer Ruth. "The left and right tunnels lead nowhere. One has an array of mental confusion that will make even level 89 Spiritual Sages go crazy. As for the other one, it is filled with murderous puppets, ready to fight anyone who dares to enter there."

"Gee, the people behind this place have put in many defense mechanisms, no? What's the point of that?" Abby asked.

He said. "At some point in the remote past, the sect behind this place and the Immemorial Graves Sect competed to possess every skeleton. That was their way of deciding who was the strongest and most powerful, the ability to have several of these skeletons."

"To them, that was like having many lands." He compared such a thing that was so important for sovereigns. "In any case, there have already been reports of members of these organizations stealing the other party's smaller skeletons. So these defense mechanisms serve to ward off that problem."

"But so much time has passed..." Ruth said in a low voice.

"Hmm, they made this place at a time when these mechanisms were needed. After that, it didn't make sense to change what already worked, so they left this place behind even after they put the flame seal in the area." Minos explained.

After he said that, he finally stopped his path and looked at them. "From where you are, you can relax a bit." He picked up his sword and gestured with it.

Swoosh!

"As long as you don't go beyond that space, nothing will happen." He explained, allowing his wives to sigh and walk closer to him.

As they did so, they pointed their spiritual lanterns at the walls of that place. With that, they saw that the walls there appeared to be of a semi-transparent, grayish type of crystal. But at a certain point in this cave's walls, white bones gradually rose up the walls, going all the way to the ceiling, where a giant skeleton stood above them.

Minos looked up and saw that skeleton that looked very much like a giant version of a bird skeleton. "This is a primordial beast skeleton. No one knows what species it belonged to. Still, supposedly it was from the same period as those giant humanoid skeletons in our region."

Hearing this, the three women paid attention to the size of that skeleton and the sharp teeth in the mouth of that creature, which was as big as the mountain itself they were on.

"What kind of beast was it?" Gloria wondered. "For its size, it was much bigger than an adult dragon!"

Among earthly beasts, dragons were not the largest. But considering that these beings were focused on brute force, they were the largest in their range of strength and brutality.

There were more enormous beings, but they were not focused on brute force. Some were of the sensory type, others were more defensive, but no earth race had as much strength as the dragons and as close in size to theirs.

And seeing that creature that indicated that it was pretty fierce in life, Gloria could not help but compare it with the infamous dragons.

Minos then said. "Yes. There are skeletons of other beings similar to this one that is smaller. Supposedly the children of that race were born already the size of adult dragons."

"How does a creature like that get hurt?" The redhead pointed toward some bones that looked damaged by something unnatural. "Adult dragons often have bodies so strong that nothing but old age can defeat them... What about something like that?"

Abby commented. "The people of the Immemorial Graves Sect say that these creatures have brought the apocalypse upon themselves, self-destruction."

As they were talking, footsteps came from the direction of the tunnel they entered, and they all looked back to see the arrival of that middle-aged woman.

When they saw that, they all frowned, while Minos quickly acted to erase his group's tracks near the security area.

That woman finally caught up with them and laughed, seeing the splendid skeleton on the ceiling of that place. "What a magnificent creature!" She said aloud as she felt the flow of spiritual energy in those bones.

"Hahahaha, it was all worth it! Now I have something of extreme value to take back to the sect!" She ignored Minos and the women there, laughing in greed.

Minos frowned and moved before his wives, preparing to act against this newcomer. "Who are you?" He asked. "Were you following us?"

Hearing that, she put the skeleton aside for a moment. Then, finally, she looked at Minos, her original target in coming to this place.

"Minos Stuart, I am here to take your life! You have killed many of my family, so it is time for you to pay for all you have done!" She drew one of her weapons, intending to kill that young man with one blow.

"Many people from your family? An Empire family?" Minos readily understood that this woman could only be part of the Saints Killing Sect, the only organization he actually acted against in this state.

And with that in mind, he became much colder, no longer having any doubts about what needed to happen there.

Seeing this woman coming towards him, intending to attack him, Minos bent down and put his hands on the ground, making special seals to activate the traps in this place.

The point of all the traps there was to protect what the sect behind this place wanted to keep there, so it would make no sense not to have defense mechanisms at this point.

If a lucky person arrived there by accident, anyone in this place should have the means to stop an invasion or at least make it difficult.

A seal had not always surrounded this post, so there had been people in this and other places in the past to ensure the safety of these bones.

magic

So when Minos gave his commands, the surroundings there immediately began to tremble, along with the appearance of golems on the crystal walls.

The woman in question saw such a thing and felt goose bumps, noticing the murderous intent forming in the air as those beings gained glints in their eyes, looking at her.

"What is that?" She shouted in surprise as she saw one of the golems emerging above Minos, already leaping toward her.

Seeing herself practically surrounded by these creatures, the level 72 Spiritual Saint shook with fear and screamed in desperation. "Minos, don't do this! Do you know who I am? I am an elder of the Saints Killing Sect! If you do this, that will be the end of you!"

"Am I doing anything?" Minos laughed. "You are mistaken, lady. They are the ones who will do something, not me."

As he laughed, those golems soon grabbed that woman's arms and legs, not taking long to butcher her as if she were a rag doll.

In the end, she screamed for less than 2 seconds before she even had her soul destroyed by those creatures.

Thus, the group's surprise attack from the Saints Killing Sect failed brutally, all eliminated without touching the hair strands on Minos' head!

...