

The Rise of the Black Plain #Chapter 2211 New Progress - Read The Rise of the Black Plain Chapter 2211 New Progress

Chapter 2211 New Progress

The first few days of Minos' group in Kilburn passed quickly, without any major incidents or level advancements for the group's Spiritual World personnel.

The first few days of Minos' crew in Kilburn had basically been about getting used to the place, learning more of the local language, and discovering more of the opportunities available in this city.

Although Kilburn wasn't the most interesting place for the Zocarro group to grow up, this simple place had a lot of opportunities for people as "backward" as they were.

That could be seen in Accan's shop, where resources that would make the strongest in the Spiritual World fight to the death for them were sold at 'affordable' prices.

Obviously, the price of 5th-grade items in this place wasn't low, and only those at the end of the 10th stage or beginning of the 11th stage would have a chance to gather the capital needed to buy them. But unlike the Spiritual World, where someone would only agree to negotiate for a Divine Medicine in a very drastic situation, it was possible to buy such things in this place in shops all over the world.

Kilburn was just a small city in a relatively remote area of Zocarro where there weren't even any Gods. But even there, some shops sold such impressive resources!

There were other local opportunities that might be of interest to Minos's group, such as professionals who could create special resources through their skills, fighters who were willing to demonstrate different fighting styles, and so on.

There were other local opportunities that might be of interest to Minos's group, such as professionals who could create special resources through their skills, fighters who were willing to demonstrate different fighting styles, and so on.

Realizing the value of the place to them, the group spent a few days learning about the local opportunities while improving their language skills.

After just one week, the group already had a completely different view of Zocarro than when they left the area where they had been for six months. New novel chapters are published on

And with that, the group got to work, gathering resources, collecting coins, and producing what they needed to further advance their forces.

None of the group made any progress in their first few days in Kilburn, but that was about to change!

...

'Unfortunately, I can't go back to the Spiritual World now. Otherwise, I'd crush those bastards!' He clenched his fists as he remembered Isabella.

However, he was in no hurry. He had a great opportunity ahead of him, and he could raise his level a few more times before returning to the Spiritual World!

He then left the place his group had been using as a meditation area and quickly caught up with Ruth, who had already finished her meditation and was currently in the middle of level 93!

"Congratulations on your breakthrough, Minos." She said as she hugged him while hearing similar words from her husband.

"You will reach level 94 in about three years at the most, Ruth. That's fantastic progress." He smiled at her, imagining how her skills would become more effective for their entire group as they continued on this journey.

He and she were the youngest and most talented of the group. They also had Divine Physiques, so their abilities and cultivation speed were far superior to everyone else in the group.

Even though the others were also getting stronger, they were improving at a slower rate than them, which might allow Ruth to become more influential in the group over time.

As someone who had a very interesting ability to save lives, Ruth naturally had high expectations for her strengthening.

"Everyone in the group has improved. Only Maximilian and the three group members who were previously at level 99 haven't advanced to the next level. But they are all stronger." She commented to him.

Minos nodded as he looked at the rest of the group. Except for those four people who were still cultivating but were unlikely to be able to advance, everyone else in the group had improved their cultivation.

Even the alien from The Adamant Land who was in the group had advanced and was now at level 93.

Why had Minos' group cultivated even this enemy? He was the official guinea pig of the group, and Emperor Stuart thought he could help them when they finally went to The Adamant Land. So, they kept him alive and even gave him opportunities to advance.

Apart from him, Ruth, and Minos, everyone else in the group was between level 97 and 100, with seven Demigods currently at level 99 and three of them already at the peak of that level.

They wouldn't be able to advance to level 100 now, but as soon as the group had a chance to stop for a longer retreat, Minos and Ruth were sure that these three could become Sovereigns/Gods!

Chapter 2212 Zocarro's Deeper Information

After everyone in the group finished their breakthroughs and left their meditation states, they took a day to test their current abilities and note their new specialties.

In the Spiritual World, this wouldn't be necessary for ordinary breakthroughs, but for breakthroughs with special features that would allow cultivators to improve rapidly, they always needed to do some reconnaissance training.

That was not hard to understand. After all, if you improve too fast, you might lose the calibration of your strength and end up using much more or much less strength than you should in certain situations.

But a simple few hours of training could easily solve this problem, and soon after the group's training day, they met for a special purpose.

To discuss the group's departure from Kilburn!

...

It was evening in the Kilburn area, and by this time, Minos' group was gathered in an area near the local forests that surrounded the city.

There, they had a large fire going while everyone in the group was sitting on rocks or logs around it, some with cups in their hands, others with fruit and roasted meat.

They weren't just there to eat but to talk about something of the utmost importance to the group: their departure from Kilburn!

So the group's most important members were already talking about important things after they had just started this meeting.

Maximilian said. "Regarding the peculiarities of Zocarro I've tested, I've come to some conclusions about this place. The space here is more difficult to manipulate than in the Spiritual World. We might even be able to create wormholes here with a little effort, but traveling through them would be dangerous.

It also means that Spatial Kingdoms can hardly be created by mere Go... By mere Sovereigns. I don't rule out the possibility that there are special spaces here, but stronger cultivators would have to be behind those regions."

Minos agreed, having already noticed that it was indeed more difficult to manipulate space in this world. But that wasn't all he had noticed. "We have to consider that the passage of time here is different from that in the Spiritual World." He added to Maximilian's words. "I can't say exactly how much, but I find it easier to control time here than in our world."

"Couldn't that be because you're stronger?" A level 98 Gorgon asked.

Minos immediately denied it. "No. I can estimate how much I would be able to manipulate time if I were in the Spiritual World with the powers I have today. But I still can't justify how much I can currently manipulate time without taking into account a difference in the passage of time from here compared to our world."

Maximilian didn't doubt Minos' abilities and asked. "What is your impression? On which side does time pass more slowly?"

"I think time passes more quickly here than in the Spiritual World. I don't know the exact ratio, but I believe that for our companions in our world, little time has passed since we started our journey". Minos replied sincerely.

"If that's the case, then our chances of returning to the Spiritual World in time are much better than we thought before." One of the robots in the group said. "Even if it takes us longer than we'd like here, it might not be that long for the people on that planet."

After everyone understood these initial points, the group moved on to the next topics.

"I discovered that it is possible to advance from level 99 to level 100 in this world without the help of a Divine Medicine. However, such a cultivator would need to have a Golden-grade talent to achieve this feat. Anything less would require cultivation with a Divine Medicine." Someone informed the group.

"Some ants say that many beings from Zocarro can become stronger by devouring beings from other races. Not only that but this type of creature can also be considered a great nutrient for those in search of strength..."

"Zocarro has two large continents separated by an extremely dangerous sea. Our continent is rumored to be the weaker of the two, while the other is home to many Divine Journey beings. Unfortunately, the sea that separates these two continents is considered a disaster area.

Supposedly, even the Supremes have trouble traveling through this area and are not guaranteed to make it all the way from one side of the world to the other...". Visit n0\(v\)eLb\(i\)n.comeLb(i)n.com) for the best novel reading experience

Several people added important information about this world to the group, improving everyone's knowledge of various aspects of Zocarro.

"As difficult as it is to use wormholes in this world, I've heard that there are special places in the major cities that can be used to quickly reach other parts of the continent.

I've even heard there is a way to travel to another continent quickly. The problem is that there are many requirements to access such a method..."

"I heard a rumor about the situation of space explorers. According to a traveler I recently came in contact with, Zocarro has special paths that lead to a gigantic city on an artificial moon of this planet. From there, it is possible to find transportation to various parts of the solar system we are in and even to other parts of the galaxy."

When someone mentioned this, the whole group turned their attention to this level 99 individual.

"How did we get there?" Maximillian asked.

"That's the tricky part. There are only two ways to get to this artificial moon. One is to go to the largest city on the other continent. The other is to travel to an island in the far north of the continent we're in."

Geographically speaking, Minos' group was at the southern end of Oqia, the continent they were in.

It would take them at least 15 years to reach the far north!

Not only would it take a long time to get there, but it would also be difficult to get to such an island since that area was the only viable route to the other continent.

There, traveling to the other continent was extremely dangerous, but it was possible to travel to the other continent. Nowhere else in the world could people travel very far by sea before encountering all sorts of catastrophes.

The group had already learned the basics of the world map of this world and the continent they were on to know how far and dangerous it would be to reach such a place.

Everyone was silent for a moment until Minos tried to be positive. "Let's not be too negative about it. Traveling to such a place would take a few years, even if we don't stop to take care of other things on the way. That means we'll be very different from what we are now when we enter that dreaded sea.

So let's keep that possibility in mind and think about our departure from Kilburn to Examire first. It might not be such a problem for us to reach that island in the future."

Chapter 2213 Going to Examire?

After the group of Minos talked about their possibilities, they decided to leave some future issues for the future and not worry too much about them right now.

Having possibilities, no matter how difficult they were, was better than nothing!

So the group focused on what was immediately in front of them but kept their hopes alive of one day leaving Zocarro and returning to their plans to prevent the Mechanic Empire from winning the War of the Worlds.

The group agreed to leave Kilburn within three days of that night's meeting.

In those days, before leaving for Examire, the group would finish their business in Kilburn and gather the resources they would need to make such a journey.

They already had most of the necessary items and resources, including maps and vital information for the journey they would soon begin. But there were still small items they would need to buy or gather nearby.

The group wasn't in a hurry, so they wouldn't leave Kilburn until everything was taken care of!

...

Three days after the all-night meeting that determined the group's departure from Kilburn, Minos and his people were already preparing to leave this strange place where they had spent the last few weeks.

Minos and his people were now walking through the central streets of Kilburn, heading for the exit that led to the path they would follow to Examire.

But they weren't alone. With them were Strin, Accan, and two other natives of the area who had been working with the group over the past few weeks.

They were all very happy that Minos' group was leaving because even though this group hadn't caused any local problems, they were still strangers in the house of these ants.

Strin instructed Minos as he opened the map of the region of the continent they were in. "When you get to Littlemere, look for a shop that sells language crystals. Even if there is a possibility that you can learn other languages in other ways, believe me, use language crystals. That is the safest way to learn a new language, and you can master a language in a matter of minutes.

A language crystal costs an average of 200 qilnats, which I admit is a lot. But it can be used indefinitely as long as it is not destroyed. A single crystal can be useful for your entire party to learn a new language, which will make things much easier for you on your new journey.

There are shops in Littlemere that sell language crystals for at least four of the continent's common languages. If you just want to go to Examire, a Uteri language crystal will be enough. But if you're going to explore the continent or stay here longer, I don't think it's a bad investment to buy all four types of language crystals."

"800 Qilnats, huh?" Maximilian heard that and made a pained expression.

A single qilnat was equivalent to thousands of high-grade Spiritual World crystals!

Their group had worked for weeks in an area where they were the strongest, and yet they had only managed to gather 2,000 qilnats.

Accan understood this would be a high cost, but he said to the group. "I wouldn't pay for this if it were just for me. But since many of you are traveling together, it's not much. Besides, it will give you knowledge of many of the common languages of the continent, which could save you from being tricked or even falling into traps. Follow current novels on nov/3lb\(\(in\).\(co/m.(co/m)

Eventually, these crystals can be shared within your group and used to teach many people these languages. All you have to do for this to work is to pass on our language to those who will be learning these other four languages".

The language crystals didn't work miracles. They easily passed on new languages to those who used them, but only if that being already knew one of the existing languages on that continent. Otherwise, there would be no compatibility between the crystal and that being's knowledge, and it would be worthless.

Minos thanked the beings for their advice. "Let's keep their words in mind." He looked at Maximilian. "We'll probably collect a lot of resources on our way, so let's not think these crystals will take up almost half of our reserves."

Strin nodded at Minos and said. "Otherwise, be careful on your journey. The path I have shown you is relatively safe for people of your strength. But I've never gone further, so from this place on, you'll be traveling through a place that may or may not hide many dangers."

Minos and Maximillian looked at Strin's directions on the map.

It wasn't that Strin didn't know the paths beyond the point he had indicated. He knew the area up to that point, like it was part of his body. He knew the nature of the danger and even the stones on the path between Kilburn and that point.

From that part of Minos' group's route, he knew about the rumors and what the route looked like. Still, he didn't know very well what kind of being was acting in the area, nor did he know the current condition of the road.

The roads in Zocarro were similar to those in the Spiritual World. They were basically paths opened by travelers, usually created in ownerless areas where beings of all kinds could pass through without offending anyone.

But precisely because they were ownerless areas, the roads usually had the presence of all kinds of beings who acted without bothering to follow laws. This made such places dangerous for people who didn't know their way around!

Strin pointed this out to warn the group that the things they had heard about the road to Examire over the past few weeks only applied up to that point. From that point on in their journey, they could trust the map and the areas to avoid, but everything else was uncertain. Only by traveling and experiencing the route could they understand exactly what they would have to deal with.

"Thank you for everything, my friends from Kilburn." Minos thanked them as soon as their group reached the city exit.

The ants said nothing, just nodded as they watched Minos' people make gestures of thanks and then turn to leave.

"They're finally leaving..." Accan commented to his companions there, relieved that everything had ended well.

"What do you think will happen to them? Will we hear from them again?" Strin asked.

One of them said. "No, if they don't turn around and come back here in the next few days, we won't see them again."

Accan commented. "Either they'll die, or they'll run into opportunities and problems that will only push them further away from us... If you ask me, I don't think they'll make it to Examire."

"Sigh, the journey there is really very dangerous..."

As they chatted, they returned to the city at the same time that Minos' group began their journey to Examire!

Chapter 2214 'Safe' Area

After leaving Kilburn, Minos' party traveled for a few weeks without any major problems.

Strin had helped them a lot with some very precise instructions on this first part of their journey to Examire. Following the ant's advice, they would have two to three months of peace on their journey, as the area they would pass through during that time would be relatively quieter than the rest of the journey, while Strin knew all the important points.

The party knew what to avoid and where to go, what times of day they could travel, and where best to stop to rest, gather wild resources, or even venture out to explore the area.

Following Strin's recommendations for the first few days of their journey, the group found exactly what this ant had told them they would find. As a result, they didn't get involved in battles like the one against the level 100 parasitic root, let alone harass the creatures in the area they passed.

They had also avoided a few traps during this time and had reached the current point where they were already approaching the end of the area Strin had led them deeper into.

They hadn't stopped in a city similar to Kilburn during this time, as that would have been more dangerous than camping in the woods. According to Strin, the only reason they had no problems in Kilburn was because they were not only stronger than the average locals but also because he accompanied them. But they could quickly get into trouble in a place where no one would escort them and where there might be Sovereigns in the area.

Some beings would take advantage of them and commit crimes and then blame those crimes on the space explorers who were notorious for such acts.

If they encountered such a situation on their own, they would already be in so much trouble that they might not be able to achieve their goal of reaching Examire!

So the group remained cautious until that day, traveling quickly through this area so that they knew exactly what dangers lay ahead.

...

It was night in the region Minos' party was traveling through, but the sky wasn't as dark as it was in the Spiritual World's nights.

The night in Zocarro was 'only' a 20-hour period in which the brightness decreased by 50% to 60%. On the other hand, the day lasted 30 hours and was characterized by a bright pink sky with a luminosity about 100% of that of the Spiritual World.

Maximillian stood up from where he was and looked at the egg with interest as a golden glow emerged from inside it, escaping through the ever-widening cracks in its now thin shell.

As everyone raised their guards and circulated their energies, ready to act if anyone undesirable appeared because of the egg, they all saw the egg's shell explode.

A white mist spread out from the inside of the item, while a golden glow from it became more and more intense as a terrifying sensation emanated from it.

"What is that?" One of the level 99 Demigods in the group asked as he felt like a God was standing right in front of their group. Visit n0\(v\)eLb\(i\)n.comeLb(i)n.com) for the best novel reading experience

Even Minos and Maximillian looked at the thing hidden under the glow and the nearby mist, and both sensed an impressive power emanating from it.

But neither of them was surprised. That was an egg of Panvuter, from the same era as the giant skeletons scattered throughout the Spiritual World.

Even the ancient Gods of the Spiritual World had many unknowns about these things, so they already expected that whatever happened to this egg would not be normal.

They both looked at it expectantly, but as soon as the mist around the strange thing disappeared, the group saw what looked like a golden insect flying at high speed toward Minos.

"Shit!" He tried to swerve, but the thing was too fast.

In an instant, the insect-like thing crashed into the middle of Minos' back while Ruth and the robots there flew closer to him, worried.

Maximillian frowned but was soon even more surprised to see the creature suddenly integrate itself into Minos' spine and then make large golden wings emerge from the man's back.

"Aaaaagh!" Minos screamed in agony as his arms spread wide, the giant golden wings on his back moving more or less in the same way as his arms.

"That..." Maximillian wondered, trying to understand how something like this could happen and, more importantly, what it meant.

Chapter 2215 Absorbable Weapon

While everyone in Minos' group looked at him with concern, the majestic golden wings integrated into his being, gradually making him feel less pain and more aware of what was happening.

'Is that thing integrating itself into my body?' Minos asked himself as he felt the despair of a moment ago fade away and his sanity gradually return.

But as he felt his entire skeleton change to accommodate those wings, he felt the tattoo of seraphic wings on one of his hands react to what was happening to him.

'I didn't expect you to come up with something so interesting, young man.' The voice of the seraph Minos had met before came to his mind, startling him as he felt his consciousness being taken to a place similar to where he had met such a being.

'You... Can you talk to me?' Minos asked as he saw the seraph amidst the clouds of the white area where his mind was.

'More or less. I left something in you so we could communicate when it was time for you to act, but I don't have much time. My energy is not significant.' The remaining fragment of that being's soul said. 'Anyway, what you've just defeated is an absorbable weapon. High-level bodies usually create weapons like this under special conditions. They can connect with living bodies and become extensions of beings like you, young man.'

'More or less. I left something in you so we could communicate when it was time for you to act, but I don't have much time. My energy is not significant.' The remaining fragment of that being's soul said. 'Anyway, what you've just defeated is an absorbable weapon. High-level bodies usually create weapons like this under special conditions. They can connect with living bodies and become extensions of beings like you, young man.'

You're fortunate. You probably found the last valuable thing from your world before you came to this other place. And that thing even recognized you as its master, haha, congratulations. You've done it very well.'

'This... What's that for?' Minos felt that the entity in his mind could answer him.

Unfortunately, this being was already disappearing, as it had to preserve itself in order to help Minos fulfill his mission in the future.

'You will find out. But don't worry. It will be completely under your control.'

These were the last words of the remnants of the seraph in the wing tattoo before Minos left the brief illusion it had made him see to return to reality.

But even with many doubts in his mind, as soon as he saw the place where his group was, he felt very calm and confident in the seraph's words.

This creature had already given him something very powerful that had guaranteed him immediate revenge against Isabella's murderer. So he didn't doubt at all that these wings would not hurt him and would become part of his power!

"Oh?" n0ve(l)bi(n.)co/m

"Is that possible?"

"Fantastic!"

"What can it do?"

"Isn't it dangerous, Your Majesty?"

Several people in the group expressed their doubts and questions. In contrast, others felt this should be considered an important step forward for the group.

Minos said. "It is not dangerous to me. It has no conscience. Those wings just flew to me because they probably sensed a familiar aura. But by integrating itself into my body, it is no different from one of my arms or fingers."

Minos had spent a long time trying to control the Time around this thing before giving up and putting it aside before finishing his preparations for the war.

Most of them knew that, so they didn't doubt it and imagined that the wings saw Minos as their main body, where it should be.

Maximilian was the only one who didn't like it so much because he felt that it might be of more use to him. But he didn't say anything; he just watched curiously to see what Minos would be able to do.

Now, Minos was probably stronger than him, so he could only be curious to see Emperor Stuart in action.

And that wouldn't take long!

While the group was talking about what had just happened, powerful auras appeared nearby, coming towards them!

"Stay alert! Enemies are approaching!" Minos himself was the first to notice.

"Tsk! As expected! Those wings have attracted attention!" Maximilian said as he turned to face the approaching creatures.

Chapter 2216 Demonstration of Power

When Minos alerted his group, they all turned their attention to their surroundings while already using their energies to activate their Soul Avatars or other forms of combat.

Ruth activated her innate ability and didn't hesitate to connect her powers to the people below level 96 in her group, the ones she could do her best for now.

Meanwhile, Maximillian saw the group of creatures that had begun to move toward them due to the attractive energy fluctuation of the wings now integrated into Minos' body.

Two dozen creatures of different races, between levels 96 and 100, appeared quickly on the horizon from six different directions.

Some looked like the insects Minos' group had encountered in Kilburn. In contrast, others resembled the parasitic root they had killed months ago.

A creature that looked like absorbent cotton was one of the first to approach Minos' group. It stopped when it saw that the object that had drawn its attention to this place had already merged with someone else.

"Space explorer, you were really quick! I've never seen an absorbable weapon integrate into a being so quickly!" The being that looked like absorbent cotton said.

Meanwhile, a creature that looked like a giant fly, 3 meters tall, with a three-pointed horn on its head, looked at Minos and threatened. "Space explorer, give up your life and the absorbable weapon, and I'll give you a quick death."

Maximillian looked at the level 100 being, who seemed slightly stronger than him.

Minos frowned as he saw not only the level 100 but also the group of enemies that had quickly surrounded his group.

These creatures spoke the same language as Strin's people, so everyone in Minos' group understood the threatening words that came one after the other in the next few moments.

Minos then said seriously. "What if I give it to you? What will you do? These wings can only be used by one person at a time."

Minos already knew that these wings could be given to others, but he would die when they separated from his body. That meant it could only belong to one person at a time, and these beings couldn't share it.

"Nice try, space explorer." One of the other Sovereigns commented with a humorous tone. "But let's not fight each other until you are dead!"

"Oh? I'm afraid you'll have to fight for that." Maximillian opened his mouth as the people in Minos' group felt the tension in the air rise.

But none of them really feared their opponents, as if their chances were slim. The opposing group was strong and numerous enough to worry them, but they weren't weak, and they had Minos and Maximillian on their side.

"Then you can leave your corpse together with the wingbearer!" Shouted a green insect that looked like a butterfly over 6.5 meters long.

The butterfly flew towards Minos' group, releasing a gray powder toward the space explorers.

"Tsk!" Minos moved and quickly flew into the back of one of the weakest insects in this group, a level 98 being.

Even though he was only level 94, and the beings of this world had stronger cultivation bases than those of the Spiritual World, Minos was able to steal the cultivation base of even level 98 beings.

No one in the enemy group thought he would be crazy enough to fly at them just because he had the wings he had just absorbed. As soon as they saw Minos appear behind that level 98 being, some backed away cautiously while others attacked him with full force.

"Die, alien worm!" One of them shouted as it 'spat' a spear-sized stinger in Minos' direction.

However, at that moment, Minos' cultivation jumped to the peak of level 96. At the same time, his wings glowed with the extra power circulating in them.

The wings covered Minos' entire body, easily protecting him from the attack of the level 100 being. Then, as the beings who were mainly attacking Minos looked on in amazement, Emperor Stuart moved his wings against the being that looked like a fly with a crown on its head, causing pointed feathers to fly at high speed toward it.

The fly wasn't slow, so Minos' attack didn't hit it. However, every one in its group realized it could have died to the space explorer under wing control!

"Shit! That guy is stronger than we thought!" Said the level 100 cotton as it used its powers to target Minos' allies.

If they couldn't influence Minos, they would have to use this group of space explorers to weaken him!

But Maximilian was there, and with the support of the thirty or so members of the group, he countered these opponents by targeting them. "Today, we're going to make a big harvest of insect corpses!"

"Shut up!" One of the 10th-stage enemies shouted.

However, at that moment, Minos looked in the direction of the creatures under level 100, and with a single wave of his hand, he caused them all to explode under the pressure of his powers.

The four Sovereigns nearby felt the bodies of their temporary allies or even tribe members explode and quickly changed their behavior.

"Bastard!" One of them shouted as Minos glared at them hatefully.

"You think you can act against my companions before me?" Minos said, remembering Isabella's death. "It will never work again!"

He moved, quickly crossing the space between him and one of the Sovereigns as his wings slashed toward the center of one of those beings' bodies.

Maximilian used his trident to attack one of the level 100 opponents, ignoring the insect bodies that fell in the surrounding area.

Minos wasn't strong enough to make those bodies explode and disappear completely. He managed to kill all the 10th-stage enemies so they could leave large body parts behind.

Minos' allies also quickly ignored the falling body parts in the area and joined forces to attack one of the enemy Sovereigns, trying to make it difficult for these beings to escape or even threaten their leaders.

Minos got close enough to his target's body while using his techniques to try to prevent his opponent from escaping.

Previously, Minos couldn't affect level 100 beings with his normal techniques. But at this moment, he could finally steal his targets' energy with the Devouring Art while also affecting them with other techniques.

"Die, insect!" Minos shouted as he attacked the level 100 creature with several swords.

Just as the creature was about to defend itself against Minos' 'normal' attacks, the young man's wings moved as if their tips had extended from under his arms. ReAd latest chapters at n0v\(e\)lbin.co/mlbin.co/m) Only

The two tips of the wings penetrated the central part of the insect's body and hit it hard.

"Shit!"

Chapter 2217 End of the Battle

In the blink of an eye, two of the enemy Sovereigns were killed by the actions of Minos and the 30 or so members of his group there.

After killing the first enemy by using his wings to surprise the insect, Minos moved to the enemy his people were attacking.

With his high speed, which was even superior to Maximillian's, he quickly caught up with his group's opponent and took advantage of the bad timing of this opponent, who was facing so many high-level tenth-level beings, to perform another movement of his wings.

At the moment of his attack, both of his wings opened as wide as possible before several feathers burst out like energy swords, slashing at Minos' opponent.

Semi-transparent wings of energy ten times larger than the pair of wings appeared behind Minos and then moved toward the opponent as if they were hands about to clap.

The level 100 Sovereign felt Minos' attacks, but while he tried to dodge the feathers that could kill him if he was hit, he ended up not being able to escape the two giant wings that pressed down on him with the intention of crushing him.

The moment the two wings touched each other, the man's body was pressed hard.

He screamed for a second, but soon after, his temporary allies saw a lot of blood oozing out from under those semi-transparent energy wings.

In an instant, his aura was gone. As the energy wings gradually disappeared, they all saw his body crumpled here and there but with countless punctures all over his body.

When the two energy wings pressed him, the feathers of the wings moved to positions where they acted like piercing blades.

The wings were unable to crush the creature, but the feathers pierced its body in many places until they reached its vital organs.

Thus, another level 100 creature had died, while Minos' strength had only been reduced by 50% since the beginning of the battle.

Ruth's power was connected to him, but not only that, while he was still standing, the black rings of the Devouring Art absorbed the energies of the other two remaining level 100 creatures that were attacking them.

One of them, Maximilian, was putting up a fierce fight, while the other was already being attacked by Minos' remaining companions in the area.

"Wretches! You will pay for this day!" Said the Sovereign whom the Demigods of Minos' group were attacking.

He wasn't from the same tribe as the level 100 individual fighting Maximilian, so he didn't hesitate to turn his back and flee at high speed, fearing that he would still end up dying there.

Minos was no longer in his best condition. Still, it was possible that the battle would end with this human group winning, leaving no witnesses alive.

Minos saw that it was moving and thought about following it. However, he didn't know if he could kill this enemy and help Maximilian deal with the remaining Sovereign.

As much as Maximilian was in a fierce battle with his level 100 opponent, the creature native to Zocarro had the upper hand in the fight, as it was the less exhausted part of the conflict.

Thinking that it was more important to eliminate this Sovereign fighting Maximilian, Minos let the fourth level 100 insect escape as he moved against his ally's opponent.

When he appeared behind the last remaining enemy, Minos used his wings to defend himself while displaying the current power of the Divine Sword.

Maximillian immediately felt less pressure when Minos moved and soon began to dodge and defend less and pressure his opponent under the sight of the Divine Sword's third move.

In addition to Minos, his companions joined the fight against this last opponent, quickly surrounding it from above, below, south, east, west, and north.

Those with support-type powers focused their energies on helping Minos, as they would hardly be able to influence someone with Maximillian's cultivation base. Visit n0\(v\)eLb\(i\)n.comeLb(i)n.com) for the best novel reading experience

As for the others, they attacked with everything they had, sending out attacks to disrupt the enemy and create any kind of distraction that would benefit them.

At this rate, the battle didn't last much longer, and soon Maximilian found room to strike a fatal blow, using his trident to pierce the cotton's body and end the creature's life.

When he achieved the death of this level 100 opponent who was stronger than him, Maximillian shouted in satisfaction as he felt the blue blood of his enemy on the tips of his trident.

"You're finally dead, you bastard!" This black-haired man said triumphantly as the people in his group calmed down after the intense four-minute battle they had just fought.

Battles always took place in a short period of time. Powerful cultivators were able to move very quickly and exchange a large number of blows in a short period.

However, Minos and almost everyone in his group were exhausted from this battle, and they soon used up the resources they had prepared for such moments.

"Collect the bodies and remains of these natives." He said as he took a deep breath. "Even if some of them aren't whole, every part of them is valuable to us."

The remaining alchemist, doctor, and poison master of the group began to collect the remains of their 23 dead opponents there while Minos' wings shrank and hid behind his back.

As they were now, they didn't radiate the overwhelming sensation of this weapon. But they were visible to anyone who saw Minos now.

Ruth approached him, looked at the pair of wings on his back, and asked. "How do you feel? It looks like this weapon is quite powerful."

"It's incredible." He was sincere when Maximilian approached him. "I feel like it's changed the whole quality of my being. My level hasn't increased much, but I have undergone a qualitative evolution after these wings integrated into my skeleton."

"Will they stay on display as they are now? Or can they retract into your body?" Maximilian asked curiously, sensing that Minos would no longer look like a spiritual human if he walked around with those wings all the time.

"They will stay as they are," Minos said while Maximilian looked at the way the wings were tucked away on Emperor Stuart's back.

They wouldn't get in the way of him doing ordinary things, nor were they overly conspicuous. But even from a distance, the wings on Minos' back would be noticed.

They looked like a special ornament as if they were made of metal, completely gilded.

"Can you think of an explanation for them?" Maximilian asked after he had studied the wings for a minute.

"No." Minos was honest. "I believe they belong to a winged creature from Panvuter's antiquity. But I don't know anything about such weapons, so I can't explain how it happened.

Anyway, time to go." He said when he saw that all the bodies had already been collected and his group had recovered enough for them to flee this paradise area where enemies were sure to come after them very soon.

After the battle with the group of natives interested in Minos' wings, the group from the Spiritual World traveled for 15 days, moving quickly without many stops to rest or explore the areas along their way.

They were on the run from potential enemies who had already been warned by the Sovereign who had survived the battle. Since they didn't know much about these beings, they couldn't take any chances.

If a single being above level 100 decided to go after them to avenge those deaths or to go after them because of Minos' wings, they would be screwed!

So they fled as fast as they could, taking care not to leave any traces but also not taking any chances to collect things.

Taking advantage of the fact that they were still within the area Strin had given them, they moved smoothly, finally reaching the end of the 'safe area' they had so much information about.

But that wasn't the end of their journey. With more than a year and a half of travel between the end of the 'safe area' and Examire, the group continued to follow the map they had received in Kilburn.

...

After almost a month since the battle against the beings interested in Minos' wings, he and his group had relaxed a bit. The distance they had covered in that time was not small, and they were now in an area more dangerous than the region Strin knew well.

As such, the group finally felt that they could slow down a bit, both to be more careful of the area they had begun to travel through as well as to get back to their necessary rest and cultivation.

Today, the group was stopping for the second time since the battle, a time when the group had longed to return to cultivation.

They couldn't get stronger without stopping for a while to meditate, so they couldn't keep traveling like they had been doing lately.

Since they didn't plan to enter any cities on their way until they reached at least nearby Littlemere, a place that was more friendly to space explorers than the others in the area they were in, they couldn't wait to meditate until they were in places with guaranteed safety.

They had to take their chances in forests like the one they were in, or they wouldn't be able to take advantage of the fact that they were in an energy-rich world.

The group hadn't encountered any problematic situations in the last few days, so they were more or less as tense as they had been since their arrival.

Now, part of the group was meditating, while another part was observing the surroundings, and some were eating while waiting for the group to leave the area.

However, amid the group's rest and meditation, they would soon encounter the first being above level 100 on their journey in Zocarro!

...

While Maximilian was controlling the staff and observing the surroundings of the area where the group was standing, he suddenly felt a powerful aura approaching them.

This aura sent shivers down his spine and immediately circulated his energies. He couldn't help but warn his companions who were watching the area to pay attention to this danger.

He swallowed his saliva and hid in the branches of the trees in the area, moving more or less the same way as his men, while he looked up to the sky where what appeared to be a flying boat was coming towards them.

As he focused on this flying boat, he and all the men standing around him saw a group of strange beings on this vehicle that looked very much like a cross between octopuses and humans, all of them dressed in special costumes.

But it was not the appearance of these beings that caught the attention of this group. It was the level of one of them that caused Minos' people to hide while they prepared to act if necessary.

On that flying boat was a level 104 creature!

'Shit! The difference in our levels is brutal!' Maximilian thought to himself as he saw that the difference between the levels of the 11th stage was much greater than the difference between the levels of the 10th stage.

That was obvious, but for someone who had never felt the aura of a being stronger than level 100, this man was obviously surprised. Maximilian also couldn't help but understand a little better how difficult the path to level 114, the highest of the 11th stage, would be.

If the difference between level 100 and level 104 was more than three times the difference between level 99 and level 100, he couldn't imagine how difficult it would be to reach level 114, let alone level 115, the beginning of the Supreme stage.

Thinking about it, he clenched his fists and felt a mixture of emotions.

On the one hand, he felt it might be better to return to the Spiritual World or even go to The Adamant Land, where he would be among the strongest. On the other hand, he couldn't help but think about the interesting idea of living there.

If he could cultivate there for the next 26,000 years, the time he would have to live if nothing went wrong, he would surely become extremely powerful and live much longer than if he returned to his home world.

However, staying in Zocarro would mean that he would have to give up all his previous prestige and live as a relatively "weak" foreigner. ReAd latest chapters at n0v\(e\)lbin.co/mlbin.co/m) Only

Of course, he couldn't be considered weak since his power was already well above average in this world. But in Zocarro, he was in the same power range as a Spiritual Saint would be in the Spiritual World.

He would be considered an expert, but there would be many people above him who could kill him in an instant.

For someone who had once been one of the strongest in his world and had even lived with that status for a long time, it wasn't easy to make such a decision.

He watched the group pass by with many thoughts in his head, but he was relieved that the creatures on the flying boat didn't stop to talk to them or even deal with them.

As soon as the flying boat disappeared over the horizon, he warned the meditating people to leave the area, feeling that it wouldn't do to stay there any longer.

When they left the area, Maximilian and the others told the rest of the group how powerful the being that had passed them earlier was, surprising Minos and the others with existences above level 100.

That was their first "contact" with anything above level 100, but it wouldn't be their last on this journey to Examire. In the coming weeks and months, their group would encounter many more such beings and have even more direct contact than this one!

Chapter 2219 New Battle of Gods (1)

As Minos' party traveled through Zocarro, the War of the Worlds in the Spiritual World entered its fourth month.

Many battles had taken place in the months since Minos' party left, with casualties on both sides of the conflict. But during this time, the first reinforcements from the forces of the Mechanic Empire arrived in the Spiritual World, with reinforcements from both 10th-stage beings and Gods.

The new Mechanical Emperor was still in seclusion. Still, due to the losses suffered by the invading forces from the Spiritual World, the forces from The Adamant Land were forced to send reinforcements.

Of the 16 Gods who had come to this world at the beginning of the war, only 4 remained alive. Of the 50,000 or so 9th and 10th stage soldiers, only 8,000 had resisted the war so far.

Therefore, about a month and a half ago, the forces of The Adamant Land sent a new group to the Spiritual World.

These reinforcements had arrived in the Spiritual World three days ago, with about 40,000 men between the 9th and 10th stages, along with three Gods.

Meanwhile, none of the Gods of the Spiritual World had fallen since the departure of Minos' group, unlike the many 10th-stage experts who had died in those weeks.

Among the 10th-stage experts who had fallen during this period were some of Minos' acquaintances, such as Forrest, Amber Quinn, Henry Quinn's daughter, and Hannah McBride, the former Queen of the Flowers Kingdom.

In addition to them, many others died fighting the invading forces of the Spiritual World, who, despite their loss of personnel, continued to expand their territory.

Because of these territorial advances, the alien group was already targeting areas in the Central Continent, and the war in this area of the Spiritual World was becoming increasingly heated.

And with the arrival of new reinforcements, the situation was about to get even more hectic!

...

At the headquarters of the Black Plain Army...

Willow was waiting for Abby at the entrance to Spatial Kingdom when a blue-haired woman left her place of seclusion for the first time since her husband's departure.

When she met the nervous Willow, Abby got right to the point. "Where are they?"

One member of her group had just called her with the news that the enemies had launched a massive attack on the empire this morning.

Battles were raging all along the western coast of the Black Plain Empire. Still, the most worrying thing was what was happening right above the army's headquarters.

At that very moment, Vico and Aarav were doing their best to hold off the four enemy gods who had just launched an attack on the area!

Meanwhile, on the city's outskirts, the army men were fighting against the 10th-stage companions of the four Gods of the Mechanic Empire.

Willow answered the empress's question. "They're right over here, Your Majesty."

With that answer, Abby didn't hesitate to run to the place where the remains of the strongest warriors of the Spiritual World who had been killed in the last few months, but also before the war began, lay.

She said to Willow. "I will bring half of them back to life. If I bring them all back at once, they'll have less time on our side, and we'll lose them all at once."

Willow nodded to Abby before watching the blue-haired woman quickly begin her fusion of techniques to bring these beings into the world.

Since she didn't have Minos to help her make the dead understand the current situation, Abby concentrated on awakening from the sleep of death those who had died in the war. So Willow stayed by her side to ensure the safety of the Spiritual World forces' trump card while she watched the preserved bodies of many of her comrades rise from their graves in that secret area of the Black Plain Army headquarters.

Within seconds, the war dead realized their situation and quickly noticed the difference between where they had fallen and where they were now.

Some of them already knew of the existence of this place in the heart of the Black Plain Empire and quickly understood that they had died and were being resurrected by Abby.

Others, like Henry and the level 100 Sky Whale, who had died in the first battle of the war, were surprised by their surroundings but quickly realized their situation when they noticed the aura of death surrounding their bodies.

"That..." Henry looked around and soon saw Abby and Willow not far from him.

"Sorry to have to bring you back to life, experts of the Spiritual World," Abby said to everyone. "But we need your strength to deal with the aliens. I hope you can help us again before you return to your eternal sleep for good." ReAd latest chapters at n0v\(e\)lbin.co/mlbin.co/m) Only

"Tsk! Damned aliens!" The level 100 Sky Whale shouted as he flew out of the area, eager to take another enemy God to his grave.

Everyone there was eager to take revenge on their killers. As soon as Abby said her words, hardly anyone there hesitated before making their way to the outer reaches of the quasi-Spatial Kingdom of Minos' army headquarters.

Abby exhausted herself to the limit, and soon Willow brought her back to the Minos Spatial Kingdom since she wouldn't be needed in battle after what she had already done.

"I'm going to join the fight," Willow said as she said goodbye to Abby. "If I fall, bring me back so I can scare the damn aliens."

With those words, she left the place and quickly arrived at the place where a battle of phenomenal proportions was taking place.

The first battle of the War of the Worlds had been incredible. But that conflict had taken place in the faraway North Sea, where there wasn't much to destroy and create consequences for weak living beings.

This area in the Black Plain Empire was completely different from that maritime location, with nearby cities, plantations, forests, and much more.

Because of this, when Willow joined the battle in this area, she couldn't help but be struck by the sight of her surroundings.

While gods and Demigods fought over an area of more than ten cubic kilometers, the surrounding terrain was devastated, with mountaintops already completely destroyed, pieces of terrain flying away, and flames covering a large area.

At the same time, many forms of attack were flying from one side of the area to the other, and the remaining attacks that could injure people between levels 95 and 100 were escaping from the area and heading to the outskirts.

She didn't think much of the destruction around her and soon joined the group of living and dead that Abby had revived to fight the aliens.

That was the beginning of the second great battle of the Gods in War of the Worlds!

Chapter 2220 New Battle of Gods (2)

?When Willow joined the group of level 100 Sky Whale, Henry, Vico, and Aarav, the level 100 battle immediately changed.

The Spiritual World Gods' side was no longer under pressure, becoming competitive. New novel chapters are published on

The side of the Gods of the Mechanic Empire lost their numerical advantage and soon reached a situation where they couldn't force their enemies and were even a bit pressured.

"So that's the damned ability you were talking about..." Said one of the Gods who had just arrived in this world and was fighting in this war for the first time.

One of the enemy Gods who had been in the Spiritual World longer said.
"Yes, this is caused by the wife of the leader of the Black Plain Empire. She's hiding behind the defenses of this area. So if we can't get to her, we'll have to kill each of our targets twice before we can guarantee they won't cause us any more trouble."

These aliens already knew a great deal about each of the world's nations and the main secret weapons of the local forces.

They had been fighting this war for months, losing and winning battles. Among their victories, they were able to take many of their enemies into their territories and interrogate them with their advanced interrogation techniques.

As a result, they knew much about their main enemies!

Among them was the leader of the Black Plain Empire, who could temporarily bring the dead back to life.

In addition to Abby, the aliens also had other targets, such as Callie, who was trying to get to level 100 in the Spatial Kingdom of the Black Plain Empire, as well as each of the Gods of this world.

The alien forces believed that once they eliminated these people, the war would be easily resolved, so while they were fighting for territory bit by bit, they had been planning things and even making their attempts against these targets.

Now that their reinforcements had arrived in the Spiritual World, they were finally implementing their main plan, the one that targeted Abby's head!

"All right, try to ignore these resurrected Gods and focus on eliminating the living." Said one of the reinforcements fighting there.

The other 3 Gods from the Mechanic Empire group that were in this world now were attacking Elves Island and the Continent of Beasts at that moment. That was not to defeat Aerae and the level 100 dragon but to prevent those two gods from joining Vico and the rest of the forces they were facing today.

That's why the other three enemies weren't there, and neither were the two allies from the Spiritual World forces.

While the aliens were talking to each other during their attacks and evasive moves, the Gods of this world were also acting together to deal with their enemies.

"Vico, Willow, Aarav, Henry and I will take risks to create opportunities for you." Said the Sky Whale as he flew like a kamikaze close to the enemy Gods.

He and Henry were already dead and didn't have much time. As such, they both moved in a suicidal manner, not caring much about the danger of being so close to the aliens.

Even though a Demigod had resurrected them, they still had strength close to what they had in life, so the aliens were immediately annoyed by their actions.

"Fucking corpses! Go back to your graves!" One of these alien Gods shouted as he charged at the two corpses trying to deal with him and his group.

The level 100 Sky Whale transformed into his beast version and didn't hesitate to charge at the four enemies with all his might, causing an overwhelming commotion in the surrounding area.

If it weren't for the fact that the enemy Demigods and their allies were fighting far away from where the Gods were, this attack alone would have been enough to eliminate a good number of them.

The giant fin of that black Sky Whale descended on the bodies of those gods, causing the gravity on them to change and a gigantic pressure to form, sending them crashing to the ground.

The enemy Gods were distracted for a moment, each using their power forms to protect themselves from this attack that would surely hurt them all if they didn't act.

As they did so, Henry appeared in the opposite direction of the Sky Whale's attack and quickly began his sacrifice.

Dead people could make sacrifices while being revived by Abby's fusion ability. The sacrifice was something that came from the soul and energy of the living being. It didn't matter whether they were alive or temporarily revived. The sacrifice could be unleashed as long as one had energy and soul!

In this way, the newly arrived Gods of the Spiritual World realized why it was so important for them to eliminate Abby as soon as possible. If they didn't, the powers of this world would continue to have hope against them!

"Shit!" One of them shouted when he saw that today's mission had failed.

"Fall back!" Another shouted, looking for a way to escape the area.

They were stronger than the Gods of this world, so even in this desperate situation, they still had alternatives.

However, just because they had ways to escape didn't mean it would be easy!

While those two acted before disappearing forever, Vico, Aarav, and Willow teamed up to make their decisive attacks, using much of their remaining strength to attack those four.

Vico slashed his sword through the air to target one of the four. At the same time, Aarav used his special power to send giant energy snakes flying at the enemies.

Willow used her divine technique to make sharp flowers appear in the sky, while the weapon in her hand moved so fast that even other the Gods would have trouble keeping up with her movements.

Swoosh!

Boom!

Explosive sounds erupted from the area where the gods of the Spiritual World were attacking, changing the pace of this battle of the Gods, which would now be won by the local forces.

However, despite all the power on display, the enemies wouldn't lose much in this battle. Of the four Gods who launched this attack, only one would fall that day.

Whether they liked it or not, the forces of this world had to admit that their enemies were stronger than them. Moreover, it was difficult for the Gods of this world to recover here. Vico, Aarav, and Willow hadn't even recovered to their best since the beginning of the war, while the enemy's reinforcements were at their best.

As a result, the outcome was not the best they had hoped for.

While that day's battle of Gods would end with a not-so-good result, the battle of the Demigods would bring a bit more good news for Minos' forces!