

Bloodline 1001

Chapter 1001: Battle With Gisodinym

Gustav was still able to move to the side in mid air as he landed on the creature's arm and began sprinting across it.

[Sprint Has Been Activated]

The creature was aware of the presence on his arm and proceeded to wave its second gigantic hand, trying to swat Gustav like a fly.

Gustav leapt upwards at this time as a gigantic milky colored sword appeared in his grasp.

He stabbed the sword forward as his body flew towards the forehead area of the creature.

At this same instant one of the creature's crystallized vine like tail swung towards Gustav from the right.

It looked like it was too fast and was already centimetres away from making contact with Gustav when he spotted it.

Zwwhiiii!

Before it could make contact, Gradier Xanatus appeared beside Gustav's with his palm straightened and swung out.

Bam!

Gradier Xanatus's palm that was covered with a blueish glow, slammed into the vine causing a mettalic clang to ring out.

"You may be faster but I have better reaction speed," Gradier Xanatus voiced out after repelling the tail.

"I had it," Gustav stated as the gigantic twenty feet atomic sword stabbed into the forehead of the Gisodinym.

The creature made a low grunt as the atomic blade only managed to pierce its forehead for about half a feet.

For a creature as large as this, that was barely a flesh wound. Gustav was astonished at the resistance of this creature's body.

It was so tough that atomic disintegration found it hard to get rid of its skin even when he used enough force with the blad.

Fwwhiiii!

The creature's hand came crashing forward with the intention of slapping Gustav off its face again.

Gustav swung forward and placed both feet on the Gisodinym's face before pushing backwards with force.

A small flesh ripping sound rang out as his body flew backwards while he pulled the atomic sword out of its forehead.

Ashy goo oozed out of the small wound for a bit while Gustav managed to dodge swing of the creature's hand.

He paused after dodging and swung out his arm once more with intensity. The blade cleaved through the creature's wrist area but only cut in lightly.

The creature made another loud noise as it swung its arm around while Gustav's atomic blade was still stuck in its sturdy skin.

Gustav let go of the atomic sword to avoid being swung away while the Atomic sword disintegrated into light particles.

However he had underestimated the strength of the creature.

Fwwhooooshhhh!

Even after letting go, the wind generated from the swing of Gisodinym's palm was so fierce, Gustav found himself getting tossed across the place by a force that was twenty times worse than a tornado.

Gradier Xanatus was currently behind the creature and at the moment his hand was swinging towards its neck area.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

His palm which was still gleaming with blue light slammed multiple times into the neck of the creature causing loud sounds of collision to ring out.

Gisodinym was about to take opportunity of the winds tossing Gustav around and send a critical attack towards him when Gradier Xanatus's attacks hit.

While it only felt like a pebble kept hitting him at his neck area, it was nevertheless disturbing.

Gisodinym made a loud growl as it reached out to grab Gradier Xanatus who managed to escape its swing by a hair length.

Gustav managed to stabilise himself at this point but Gradier Xanatus was in danger.

Multiple of Gisodinym's tail was headed towards him from all sides and Gradier Xanatus wasn't quick enough.

Bam! Bam!

He managed to react in time and slam his palm into three of them, repelling them. However the fourth one was only inches from slamming into him from above when Gustav arrived before him.

Swhiiiihhhhh!

The atomic blade in his hand slammed heavily into the tail cutting halfway through before sending flying in the opposite direction.

"Yes, I'm still faster and so is my reaction speed," Gustav voiced out causing Gradier Xanatus to chuckle.

"We might not be able to beat it but stalling it is possible," Gradier Xanatus voiced out as the thrusters beneath his feet blasted out intensely causing him to fly towards the left with speed.

The massive arm of the creature had appeared in between both of them in the next instant.

"Stall it for what? If we cannot beat it, we might as well have lost the battle," Gustav voiced out as he flew forward.

"Stall it for long enough till the world government makes a decision about the fate of this city," Gradier Xanatus answered as he brought his fist down upon the hand of the creature.

Bang!

The creature's arm swayed downwards from the hit and Gustav proceeded to stab another gigantic atomic sword into Gisodinym's shoulder. He positioned it so well, it stabbed more than three feet deep into the joint area.

Gustav still didn't let go of the blade even after he sensed the second hand of the creature swatting towards him.

"Hyaaaahhhhhh!" He screamed out as he increased the size of the atomic sword while it was still embedded in the shoulder area of the creature.

Zhiiiiiiizzhhh!

The atomic sword grew from twenty feet long and three feet wide to sixty feet long and seven feet wide.

At this point it had stabbed more than ten feet deep into the creature's body which made it easier since it was already embedded into its body.

However at this same moment the other hand arrived behind Gustav.

Bang!

Gradier Xanatus arrived in time and managed to stop it from going further as Gustav kept increasing the length of the atomic blade.

Gustav's hand trembled intensely as he expended lots of energy while still pushing further.

Gradier Xanatus that had managed to stop the hand of the creature in the meantime was also trembling even while mustering all the energy he could.

"Are you there?" Gradier Xanatus asked while a groan escaped from his lips.

"Almost..." Gustav answered as sweat dribbled down his forehead.

Chapter 1002 Gisodinyum Uses A Familiar Ability

Swwhiiii! Shwwhhiii! Swhhiii! Swwwhhii!!

The four tails of the creature came swinging at them in the next instant and with both of them being preoccupied with what they were doing, there was no way to stop this.

Suddenly a muscular lady in orange patterned MBO uniform appeared from above.

"Kyaahhh!"

She screamed out as she unleashed two fists covered my massive metallic gauntlets while falling from the air.

Bang!

She slammed into the first tail and propelled herself up with a metallic board that just appeared in mid air.

Bang! Bang! Bam!

She moved extremely quickly, leaping from place to place as she punched the tails of the Gisodinym away.

It sounded like metal was colliding with another metal as her smooth black metallic gauntlets slammed into Gisodinym tails.

After the crisis had been averted, Gustav's body transformed into that of a mixture between the Demonic Bunny and the mutated Boar.

This wasn't with the power of combination as Gustav could combine two of his transformations without having to use them.

His arms budged intensely as his muscles expanded. He forcefully pushed the atomic sword deeper into the creature as he also expanded it.

"Kyaaaahhhhhhhh!" He yelled out as he pushed forward while Gradier Xanatus restrained the second arm and the officer that had just arrived dealt with the tails.

Gustav was increasing the atomic sword size to the extent that it had already stabbed more than halfway through the joint area of Gisodinym and it would completely cut through in a little more time.

Gisodinym growled with a loud voice as he got tired of these disturbances while also feeling that this bunch were about to deal great damage like the insect earlier.

The massive diamond shaped golden colored item embedded in its chest area suddenly glowed up.

"It's about to use it... Disengage!" Gradier Xanatus yelled out.

"I'm almost there!" Gustav shouted out in response as he kept pushing.

"Disengage right now!" Gradier Xanatus yelled out but still didn't let go of the creature's arm because he knew Gustav would be affected.

Gustav could sense a familiar energy as the massive diamond shaped item embedded in the chest of the creature glowed up but he couldn't put his thumb on the exact source of this familiarity.

Suddenly a spectrum of energy travelled from the edges to the middle of the massive diamond energy and in the next instant...

Thewwooosshh! Drriiiinnnnnnznzn!

A golden wave travelled forth from the creature, spreading across the surroundings.

"Ugh!"

"Ugh!"

"Ugh!"

This wave travelled across the entire vicinity, surrounding even the army of infected and the MBO officers all battling on the wall as well as the ground.

"I can't move!" The lady who was about to throw a fist earlier voiced as she stood on a metallic board.

Gradier Xanatus also paused in place, "I told you to disengage..."

"You mentioned this power... How come it affects even everyone on the battlefield?" Gustav voiced out as he also froze in place unable to keep pushing the atomic sword forward.

His hand hung on the hilt of the atomic blade as his body just froze in place while every other person on the battlefield ranging from the infected to even the MBO officers paused in place as well.

"Why do you think the creature is way dangerous than its supposed to be? This is just one of its overwhelming power," Gradier Xanatus voiced in response.

He had wanted them to get far enough so they wouldn't be affected by this power when it was activated.

'This is... Cosmic Superiority,' Gustav eyes widened as he realized why he felt this energy was familiar.

("Yes it is,") The system answered from within.

'How?' Gustav said internally with a surprised look.

("Who said only Mixedbloods or other supernatural aliens were capable of achieving cosmic Superiority? Even beasts can achieve it if they're blessed and chosen by the cosmos,") The system replied.

"Ugh!"

Gradier Xanatus made a loud groaning sound as Gisodinym grabbed hold of him. Bone cracking sounds began to ring out as he squeezed Gradier Xanatus in his massive hand.

It proceeded to grab hold of the other officer with its other hand as well while Gustav was still hanging from the massive atomic sword still embedded in its shoulder.

It seemed to have decided to ignore Gustav in the meantime while wanting to deal with these two first and leave Gustav for last.

Within the city they were wondering why the everywhere had gone silent.

They had no idea it was due to this massive mixedbreed putting everyone including the millions of infected into a frozen state.

Gustav had a conflicted expression as he watched the creature slowly crushing both of them in its hand.

He was unable to move, channel his bloodline or even use any ability in this state just like the others. There was only one thought crossing his mind right now and that was the only option he had.

He had initially decided he was never going to make use of his Cosmic Superiority since this was not only a battlefield filled with thousands of officers but they would also be affected by it if he was to use it.

However there seemed to be no other option at the moment as Gradier Xanatus would meet his end if Gustav decided not to act at this moment.

He now understood why Gisodinym was feared and Gradier Xanatus saw it as an impossible mission to win...

"Let's see whose Cosmic Superiority is more powerful..." Gustav muttered as he closed his eyes.

Suddenly....

Zhiinnn~

A mixture of pinkish and reddish energy blasted forth from his frame the instant he opened his eyes.

A crossed shaped glow could be seen in his pupils as the powerful energy blasted forth from his frame causing Gisodinym to step back back in disbelief.

Not only was Gustav's Yarki abnormal it had effects that Gisodinym's Yarki didn't have.

Gisodinym could feel a weird urge building up from within which caused it's knees to nearly buckle.

It felt the urge to kneel like it was in the presence of a superior being, however it fought back with its own Yarki.

Chapter 1003 Gustav Vs Gisodinym

It felt the urge to kneel like it was in the presence of a superior being, however it fought back with its own Yarki.

The wave of golden energy blasted forth from its chest area again trying to battle with that of Gustav's.

However, the instant Gustav activated his Yarki, he regained the ability to move. He let go of the atomic sword and slowly elevated as he stared down at the creature.

'How is he able to move?' Gradier Xanatus wondered internally with a look of shock.

This was the same as the other female officer as well as the many officers on the battlefield that could spot him.

'Someone is moving?'

'How is he unaffected?'

'What was that energy he just released?'

'What did he just do?'

Such thoughts ran through the minds of many officers as their eyes were locked in Gustav's direction.

Gustav's yarki was not taking full effect due to Gisodinym's yarki clashing with it. Both Yarki's were currently fighting for supremacy however one effect that was prevalent was everyone still standing with the inability to move.

The domineering wave of Gustav's yarki made everyone's feet buckle as they found they falling to the ground on their knees.

The infected and the officers were all affected by this but the burning effect was currently not taking place.

"Let them go," Gustav voiced in a low but very strong tone.

The Gisodinym found itself slowly releasing its grip around Gradier Xanatus and the other lady subconsciously.

It made a loud growling sound as the diamond item in its chest area glowed intensely and suddenly shot out a golden beam of destruction.

Gustav raised both his arms and crossed them to block the beam that had suddenly blasted forward.

Iro silk grew out of his body and made a covering around him just in time.

BANG!

He had not expected this and was shot thousands of feet backwards upon collision as the iro silk surrounding him shattered to pieces instantly.

Gustav slammed into the east side of wall, creating a massive hole within.

The power of his Yarki weakened after this hit and the Gisodinym regained complete control of itself.

'It is able to attack with its Yarki?' Gustav said internally as he slowly picked himself out of the hole.

It was as if he had not just taken massive damage. His entire body was drenched in blood and his bones were making loud cracking noises as he slowly pulled himself out.

("Gisodinym is at the Parallel stage of cosmic Superiority,") The system revealed.

'That is why it has more Cosmic Superiority related abilities...' Gustav felt it made sense now.

However what didn't make sense was how Gustav's Yarki was still causing Gisodinym to nearly submit even when Gisodinym was supposed to be at a higher level.

Gustav injuries had began to heal despite how grievous they were but the Gisodinym was not interested in giving him time to heal up completely.

Zhhhhhhoooooooooommmmm!

It had shot out another golden beam.

Gustav wanted to move out of the way but he knew that if he did that, the wall would be destroyed along with everyone standing on it in this particular area.

Pah!

Slapping his hand on the wall, Iro silk suddenly spread out from the point of impact to every other part of the wall.

As if Gustav wasn't satisfied with this, his body temperature suddenly dropped instantly and thick frost spread across the wall acting as another protective barrier.

Zing!

The Jiko Hakai Katana appeared in his grasp in the next instant. He tightened his hands around it and swung in a vertical format.

Zhwwiiiiinnn~

A large reddish arc cut across the air, carrying destructive power with it as it headed in the direction of the incoming golden beam.

Despite its size being similar to a mountain, the golden beam was at least ten times more larger than it was.

Boooooom!

Both destructive attacks met each other mid way which caused a phenomenon where tiny rifts were formed in mid air for a bit.

The reddish arc contended well with the golden beam and even managed to get rid of it to a certain extent but the beam was too powerful.

Despite reducing in power it kept shooting forward with intense speed.

Swwooosshhh!

At this point Gustav flew upwards.

Bang!

The golden beam slammed into the protective layers Gustav had created before the wall and tore through them.

It was finally stopped by the main wall after it had lost more than eighty percent of its power, however it still managed to blast a hole in the wall.

Gustav flew forward, causing Gisodinym to target him. This way the next attack would not be directed at the wall.

The diamond shape item embedded in its chest glowed up once more as it fired more beams at Gustav.

Swwooosshh! Swwooosshh! Swwooosshh! FWWOOSSH!

Fortunately Gustav wasn't taken by surprise this time so he was able to dodge every single attack despite its immense size.

As he flew in the direction of the Gisodinym once more, he let out more energy from his Yarki.

Swwwwiiiiihhh!

The waves spread from him once more causing Gisodinym to quickly let out its energy from Yarki as well.

Baaamm!

Both energies clashed once more and began pushing against one another.

Everyone in the vicinity felt immensely uncomfortable as the two domineering and irregular energies clashed.

The Gisodinym pushed forward as it flung Gradier Xanatus and the other female officer away. It had realised at this point that Gustav was the true threat so it was willing to do whatever it took to get rid of Gustav.

It swung its massive hand forward in a bid to swat Gustav downwards. The jiko hakai katana in Gustav's grasp swung out at the same time.

Slash!

A massive cut was left on the arm of the creature as Gustav flew to the side to dodge the attack. He was still way faster than the creature and so long as it was using physical attacks Gustav was sure he would be able to dodge unless he ran out of energy or was preoccupied with something else.

Chapter 1004 Fight Lost?

Swwoosshhh! Swwoooooosh! Slash! Slash!

Gustav kept dashing across the place as he repeated left injuries on the body of the creature.

Gisodinym was slowly starting to weaken from Gustav's constant pushing with the Yarki.

It couldn't understand how Gustav's Yarki was so domineering that his own couldn't match up despite how it was supposed to be stronger.

Its tails flew from all direction as it kept throwing attacks at Gustav.

Gustav proceeded to grab hold of one of its tails after dodging three of the.

Just the tip of one of its tails was thrice Gustav's size, yet he managed to make contact.

He would have dodged but he wanted to test out a theory.

"Keeeuuuccchuuhh!"

Gisodinym yelled out as its tail began disintegrating into ashes. This was something atomic disintegration was able to achieve yet Gustav's Yarki was having such an effect.

'Looks like it still works, so long as I make contact,' Gustav noticed as he held his palm forward.

One of Gisodinym's tail had completely burned off at this point. It grew warier of Gustav after Gustav performed that action.

The diamond item in its chest glowed up once more as crystallising purplish shards began growing out of its skin.

It began covering the creature from head to toe which would serve as an armor.

Gustav wasn't going to wait around for it to complete this process. He charged forward in mid air as a massive atomic sword appeared in his grasp.

'I need more speed and power before it covers its entire body as well as its injury...' Gustav thought in less than a second as an idea appeared in his mind.

'Activating it might take a lot of energy but if its only for an instant, I won't run out of energy,' Gustav said internally.

[Ultimate Combination Has Been Activated]

His body transformed speedily as he stretched the massive atomic sword forward in the direction of Gisodinym's left shoulder.

Zzzzhooooooooooooonnnnnn!

His figure cut a silver and crimson streak across the air as he instantly arrived before Gisodinym.

Thrrriihhhh!

A loud ripping sound rang out as he directly stabbed through the large tear already around the creature's shoulder.

Gustav's whole figure tore through and what was heard in the next instant was a large thump.

Bam!

Gisodinym's left hand which was more massive than that of a skyscraper fell to the ground, causing a land quake from its high mass.

"Ghhrrrruuuuuuhhhhhhhhhhh!!!~"

It roared loudly in pain as its arm fell off its shoulder. Ashy colored goo flowed out like a fountain as the creature stepped back subconsciously.

The arm that had initially been crystallising with the purplish shards began to return to normal as its source of power was disconnected.

Gustav had finally managed to strike the blow he initially wanted to. With the injury he had inflicted initially, he was able to successfully sever its arm from its shoulder. ~~It~~ ~~was~~ ~~able~~ ~~to~~ ~~successfully~~ ~~sever~~ ~~its~~ ~~arm~~ ~~from~~ ~~its~~ ~~shoulder~~. ~~It~~ ~~was~~ ~~able~~ ~~to~~ ~~successfully~~ ~~sever~~ ~~its~~ ~~arm~~ ~~from~~ ~~its~~ ~~shoulder~~.

Gustav deactivated Ultimate Combination in the next instant so as to save energy as the massive atomic sword disintegrated as well.

Gisodinym swung out once more with its right hand as it noticed Gustav flying towards it.

Maneuvering downwards, Gustav dodged and made contact with its arm from underneath.

However now that the rest of its body had been crystallized it was unaffected by Gustav's touch that would have caused its arm to be turned to ash due to the effect of Yarki.

There was only one part of its body that was not covered by this crystalline purplish shards that acted as a armor...

"It's head," Gustav muttered as he swerved from side to side dodging the more of the creature's attacks.

Gustav flew upwards at this point, surpassing Gisodinym's height in the sky.

Fwwhiiiiihhh!

He kept ascending with intense speed till he had climbed a height of over a hundred thousand feet.

The Gisodinym wondered what Gustav was up to but with its inability to fly it couldn't go after Gustav. However the creature was well capable of leaping high and it already had the intention of doing so.

It still wasn't fast enough as Gustav paused after reaching a particular height in the sky.

He turned upside down to face the earth as he activated a skill.

[Lightning Blitz Has Been Activated]

Thriihhhh~

Electric arcs were generated as Gustav's figure suddenly blurred.

Zhhoooooooooooooooooooo~

His figure disappeared instantly as a lightning arc cut through the sky and appeared a hundred miles below instantly.

Gisodinyrn who was about to leap upwards to go after Gustav suddenly saw him appear right above him with a weapon in hand.

Gustav stabbed downwards with the jiko hakai katana the moment he arrived above Gisodinym's head.

Thrrriihhnnn!

At the same moment a protective energy phased out of the diamond like item embedded in Gisodiny's chest.

A transparent golden colored barrier suddenly appeared around Gisodinym's head at the same instant Gustav's blade was about to make contact with its head.

Claaaanngggg!

A loud sound of collision rang out as the jiko hakai katana slammed into the barrier. A stream of energy that was sent forth from the katana suddenly redirected back upwards.

Boom!

The force from the energy of the collision slammed heavily into Gustav sending him flying backwards as he spiralled in mid air repeatedly.

Bone cracking sounds rang out as Gustav vomited out a mouthful of blood while still getting blasted backwards from the destructive energy.

Gisodinym made another weird sound as cracks appeared all over the protective barrier that surrounded its head at the last second.

It ignored that and charged after Gustav's body.

"Giiaarrhhhhh!" It yelled out as it raised its hand and grabbed Gustav's body before slamming him into the ground.

Boooooommm!

Massive shockwaves spread out as infected and officers alike were affected by the impact of Gustav slamming into the ground.

It jumped upwards and landed on the exact spot it slammed Gustav into.

Boom!

This once again created rupturing waves as the creature's attacks caused the earth to split apart.

A massive crater had been formed where Gustav's figure was slammed into.

Chapter 1005 I Can't Lose Consciousness Right Now!

The creature didn't seem satisfied and wreaked even more havoc with its last arm.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

Sounds of collision rang out repeatedly as it punch and stomped upon the same area.

The crater created had spread across more than twenty miles at this point and multiple infected along with MBO officers and even AI bots had fallen into it.

Gustav's status was unknown after more than five minutes of repeated pounding but the creature seemed to have been satisfied after doing this continuously so it finally stopped.

The whole place once more descended into silence as the creature stood in place with its golden aura getting stronger with every passing second.

It looked forward in the direction of the wall that had cracks all over right now with multiple parts having holes.

It began stepping forward without releasing its Yarki. Its intention was to get rid of the wall now that no one was standing in its way, including the infected.

Stomp! Stomp! Stomp! Stomp!

With every movement it crossed more than a hundred feet and was getting closer to the wall. It wasn't in a hurry as it moved but it was still very fast and would get to the wall in less than ten seconds.

Despite only having a single arm currently, Gisodinym would still be capable of ruining the city without anyone to stop it.

Gradier Xanatus had repeatedly called for backup since he could still speak even though he was unable to move his body.

However, the aircraft that were closing in on the city found themselves unable to move further after reaching the affected areas of both Yarkis.

They couldn't attack nor move so it was useless.

The Gisodinym arrived a few feet away from the wall in no time and paused for a bit.

Just as it raised its hand, it felt a presence from behind.

"Hey,"

It quickly turned around as this familiar voice drifted into its ears but the moment it did...

Puucchiiii!

A four feet sword with reddish blade stabbed through what was left of the protective barrier surrounding its head and cut into its forehead.

It was merely a needle due to the Gisodinym's large size but in the next instant it burst forth with immense destructive energy.

"Hyaaahhh!"

Gustav yelled out as he poured energy into the jiko hakai katana and pushed forward as much as he could.

Thrrriihhhh!

A blast of Crimson light shone forth as the jiko hakai katana ripped through Gisodinym's forehead.

Its forehead made a loud sound as Gustav tore further into it and infiltrated the creature's skull.

The energy blasted forth into its head wreaked havoc within and in the next few second...

Zzhiiiiiii!

Gisodinym's golden eyes slowly turned dim as it fell over.

Boom!

A loud sound rang out as Gisodinym fell to the back, causing another massive shockwave to spread across the environment.

Gustav who was within its forehead was holding his breath as his entire body was covered in brain matter and blood.

He pulled out the jiko hakai katana from a wall section within Gisodinym's brain after he confirmed the creature was dead.

He stood in place for several seconds despite knowing that he had won the battle because of an unexpected reason...

[Does Host Wish To Absorb This Parallel Being Cosmic Superiority?]

'What is this? I can absorb Cosmic Superiority?' Gustav was pleasantly surprised as he saw this notification.

("Well you've never fought a Cosmic Superior being so its understandable that you had no idea you could,") The system responded.

"It didn't make it easy as well..." Gustav had to admit that this was the craziest battle he had gotten into.

("Retract your Yarki,") The system stated.

Gustav's eyes widened as he realized that his Yarki was still activated. Now that Gisodonym was dead, the full effects of his Yarki would have returned and everyone on the battlefield would be suffering burns. ~~Ra~~NŌBΞξ

Zzhooooonnnnn~

He quickly retracted it, causing the entire battlefield to return to normal as everyone found themselves in control of their body functions once more.

"I'm almost out of energy," Gustav muttered with a look of urgency.

("Are you going its absorb the Cosmic Superiority or what?") The system questioned.

"Of course," Gustav answered.

"So long as it helps me to regain a bit of my energy because this battle is far from being over," Gustav stated.

[Host Has Decided To Absorb This Parallel Being Cosmic Superiority]

("Uhhh about it helping you to regain your energy...") The system voiced with a weird tone.

[Absorbing Cosmic Superiority]

"Huh? What is it?" Gustav had a feeling of foreboding as he heard this.

His entire figure brightened up with a golden glow within Gisodinym's head as he began absorbing its Cosmic Superiority.

Gustav began to feel weird as he absorbed Gisodinym's Cosmic Superiority.

"Hey system what is it you wanted to mention?" Gustav asked once more with a tone of urgency as he could feel that something wasn't right.

("You'll be losing consciousness in a few...") The system revealed.

"What!?"

"No! I can't,"

Gustav voiced out with a worried tone as he spread his perception across the vicinity.

He could tell that the battle between the infected and the officers had continued after he retracted his Yarki.

"I can't lose consciousness right now!" Gustav said with a high tone.

("There is nothing you can do about it... do you know what it means to absorb a Parallel Being Cosmic Superiority? You're already defying all the laws of the cosmos and this is the greatest defiance of all... stopping the Cosmic Superiority from returning to the Cosmos so another being might be granted with the blessing...") The system explained.

At this point Gustav was already starting to get drowsy. No matter how much he tried to fight the sleepiness, his eyelids kept shutting subconsciously.

"Stop... Absorbing... I... can... do that... later..." Gustav listed as he staggered while trying to keep himself standing.

("I am afraid the process cannot be stopped after it has began,") The system disclosed.

("See you in three days... Gustav,") The system added.

"Shiii...ttd," Gustav cursed under his breath before he his eyelids closed completely and he fell unconscious.

Chapter 1006 The Weird Internal State Of Gisodinym's Skull

"Shiii...ttd," Gustav cursed under his breath before he his eyelids closed completely and he fell unconscious.

His body retained its glow after he had fallen face down within the head of the Gisodinym.

"Yaaaaaahh!"

"Kiaarrhhh!"

"Hyaaahhh!"

Outside the Gisodinym's head, battle cries rang out as the MBO resumed their fight against the infected.

Every single person had scorch marks on different parts of their bodies due to Gustav's yarki before he retracted it. Some Infected had even been scorched nearly to ashes since some of them didn't have bodies that were as sturdy as that of the MBO.

Gradier Xanatus flew across the battle field, occasionally hurling down attacks as he charged forward.

"Gustav!" He yelled out as he flew across the air while looking down.

All he could see from up here was the devastation caused by the battle between Gustav and the Gisodinym.

Earth had split to the point where one would wonder if this was a battle between two beta ranked. There were craters all over the place that extended to even the borders of Gildian City behind.

Both infected and MBO officers had lost their lives due to the fight between these two and even the wall that were erected around the city had nearly been torn down completely.

Everyone witnessed these two put everyone in a state where they were unable to move through out the duration of their battle.

Gustav who was supposed to be an echo ranked battled with a mixedbreed was so powerful in the past and had its power even boosted by the infection yet he still came out on top.

An infected mixedbreed that was beyond level 100 yet an echo ranked mixedblood won against it whereas Kilo and Delta ranked mixedbloods were unable to intervene.

Gradier Xanatus had so many unanswered questions running through his mind and one of them involved how Gustav was able to use the same type of power Gisodinym was mostly feared for and even used it in a more powerful state.

However even if he had these questions he knew he would never be able to get any answers if Gustav remains missing.

The infected were not going to wait or give them chance to do a proper search so Gradier Xanatus took it upon himself to find Gustav.

The battle was won but Gradier Xanatus feared it was not without a cost, especially after Gustav's presence disappeared the moment Gisodinym met his end.

The female officer that had initially joined them had gone back to battling the infected. Just because Gisodinym had been unexpectedly taken care of didn't mean the fight was over.

Gisodinym was just one part of the threat, the other part was not any less dangerous since there were more than six million infected pushing their way forward in a bid to overrun the city. ~~Řa~~~~N~~~~Ö~~~~b~~~~E~~~~S~~

"Gustav!" Gradier Xanatus yelled out once more as he headed towards the corpse of the Gisodinym.

He suddenly recalled something as he closed in on the gigantic corpse in the distance.

The source of this content is FREEWEBNOVEL.COM.

'The infected come back to life if their bodies are not properly gotten rid of,' He said Internally before flying and landing on the head of the corpse.

"We need to completely disintegrate its body!" Gradier Xanatus yelled out to those on the wall.

The officers on the walls with abilities that were capable of completely getting rid of Gisodinym's body began to jump down from the wall.

"Huh?" As Gradier moved around its head area, he noticed that there was a glow coming from the hole that was created in Gisodinym's forehead.

Everyone knew the cause of this hole was Gustav's killing blow but no one knew he never came out of it.

"Gustav?" Gradier Xanatus spotted the unconscious figure laying within the massive hole on the forehead of the creature.

Ashy goo was still pouring out of the forehead like a fountain and some flowed over Gustav as his glowing unconscious body just laid there.

Gradier Xanatus quickly moved in and tried to retrieve Gustav's glowing unconscious body.

He lifted Gustav over his shoulder and headed out the hole but then he noticed he was unable to get past the entry point.

"Huh what is happening?" He wondered out loud as he felt himself getting stopped by an invisible force.

Gradier Xanatus put Gustav down and swung his palm forward. He had expected to get stopped by the invisible force but this time his hand moved past the entry point freely.

A look of confoundment appeared on Gradier Xanatus's face as he picked Gustav up once more and tried to make his way out.

Zhooom!

He was stopped by the invisible force once more. Gradier Xanatus placed Gustav's glowing body down once more and the same result as earlier repeated itself.

Unfortunately no matter how much Gradier Xanatus tried to get Gustav's body out of the creature's head it was to no avail.

He had even tried creating another exit point but it brought about the same results. At this point Gradier Xanatus was sure that something was going on and he attributed it to the glow on Gustav's body.

He noticed that as time passed, Gustav's unconscious body was crystallising with golden shards.

'Whatever is happening to him right now I'm sure it's not negative,' Gradier Xanatus could tell as he scrutinized Gustav's frame.

He decided to move out at this point.

"Do not touch the creature till the glow there has dimmed... After it does, retrieve officer Crimson's body and keep him somewhere safe," Gradier Xanatus voiced out before turning around to head back into the battlefield.

The nine officers that had just dropped from the wall to take care of this task had looks of confusion on their faces as Gradier Xanatus moved further away from here.

However a command was a command and they had no right to question it at such a crucial moment when they knew Gradier Xanatus had to busy himself with preventing the infected from breaching the wall.

-MBO Camp

In a grassy filled field void of people...

"I must say you did a splendid job,"

Chapter 1007: The Gang's Determination

A greenish looking crystal floated in front of a young teenage boy with black curly hair as it glowed repeatedly while a masculine voice was projected from it.

"I almost died," Endric voiced out in response.

"True but you did a splendid job regardless," Husarius stated once more.

"Acquiring the vest makes 20 percent of your mission complete. Its a huge leap," Husairuis added.

"I sensed so much power in the vest... are you sure the dimension you locked it away in will be able to prevent its energy from seeping out?" Endric inquired with a slightly worried look.

"It will keep it sealed in the meantime... the only thing you should be worried about is getting rid of its residue energy lingering around you. That could potentially cause you to be in great danger," Husarius warned.

"Why so?" Endric questioned.

"The lingering residue energy could attract entities from all over the world that have all longed to acquire the vest of dumbledore. A lot of them wield power beyond your comprehension but locating the vest always eluded them. If I wasn't helping, you would have gotten lost in universe trying to find the vest," Husarius explained.

"On the bright side, they won't try infiltrating earth even if they sense it as earth is a formidable force to behold but the moment you leave this planet with the lingering energy still surrounding you, you place a target on your back and trust me... these mad creatures will not hesitate to chase you to the ends of the universe just to make sure they acquired the vest," He added.

Endric nodded with a look of understanding as he heard this.

"How do I get rid of the energy?" Endric proceeded to ask.

In another part of the MBO Camp a group of nine could be seen standing together in a garden like area as they discussed.

"The IYSOP training is starting in two month and we're getting out of camp in a month's time," Angry voiced with a contemplative look.

"Did every single one of us manage to reduce our term here in camp?" Elevora questioned.

"Yes," E.E answered as he threw a glance at everyone of them before smiling.

"Y'all be showing them who's boss," He added.

"So everyone of us will get to complete a mission at the very least before IYSOP begins," Aildris pointed out.

"That's great... Gustav has already gotten way ahead of us in MBO ranks, we have to close in the gap as soon as possible," Falco stated.

"My rival is just too powerful. I will give my all to surpass him or close in the gap," Ria said with a look of determination.

"Come on guys let's show the world that this generation of mixedblood will be taking over in every aspect," Teemee added.

"I can't wait... whatever it takes to be at Gustav's side," Vera said with a dreamy look causing Angy to shoot her an intense glare.

Vera didn't care about that and feigned nonchalance even after noticing that.

"We won't be able to achieve any of that if we don't increase our rank and get even more powerful," Matilda voiced out.

"Gustav is always working hard and it works for him so we have to work twice... no thrice... no four times as hard if we ever have any hope of coming close to his level of strength," Glade spoke this time.

"Hey, she might be a puppet but she's right," E.E stated.

"E.E!" They all voiced out at the same time as they stared at him.

"What? Did I say something wrong?" E.E asked with an innocent expression.

"Don't say that out loud," Falco whispered.

"Anyways I'm suggesting a joint training... No breaks for the next month," Aildris broke the brief silence caused after Glade stared at everyone with a confused expression.

"We're going to be pushing ourselves beyond our limits," Aildris added.

Everyone had a look of determination as they heard that and began agreeing to the joint training, Elevora included even though she had already achieved the Echo rank.

Flicker! Flicker! Flicker!

Within what looked like a hospital ward, the lights suddenly began flickering as a bed with a patient on it started to float.

"Get a doctor down here!" One of the nurses yelled through a communication device as she sighted this scene.

The person on the bed had their eyes closed but their hand and toes fingers would occasionally make small movements.

"Third time in the last three days... he needs another shot," The nurse yelled out through the communication device once more.

- "How is it that even after moving him into the special suppressive room, he is still able to do this?"

"I have no idea just get down here," The nurse voiced out in response.

Gbbhhhllllhhbblll!

The entire vicinity began trembling as the bed in this ward floated further upwards and flickering lights flickered with even more intensity.

"Be quick if you don't want him destroying the entire building in his sleep!" The nurse yelled out once more as the force from this incident began pushing her backwards, causing her uniform to bloat due to wind.

In a few moments a doctor came dashing in with a massive instrument in his hands that was almost too heavy for him to carry.

Two other male nurses came in with him and tried assisting as he moved this instrument in the direction of the floating bed.

A part of the floor popped out and began lifting them to the height this unconscious patient had attained.

"Open his mouth," The doctor yelled to one of the nurses as they moved the instrument closer.

The instrument which looked like a four feet large funnel was about to open up beneath and empty its contents in the mouth of this patient.

At the last second, the patient suddenly opened his eyes.

Grab!

The doctor and nurses displayed a startled expression as he grabbed hold of the instrument and stopped it from moving forward.

"What are you doing?" He asked as he slowly sat up.

Chapter 1008: Charlie City

"What are you doing?" He asked as he slowly sat up.

"He's awake," The doctor voiced out with a tone of astonishment.

The nurses had similar expressions on their faces after the patient opened his eyes and spoke.

The energy circulating around the place also suddenly stopped.

Bang!

The bed landed back on the floor with a loud crash. As everywhere returned to tranquillity the patient slowly ripped the wires attached to his body to monitor his vitals.

"Officer Crimson... how do you feel?" The doctor asked as the extended floor descended.

"Me? I'm good," Gusav responded as he looked around.

"Are you sure? No weird feeling? Ache, pain or whatever?" One of the nurses voiced out.

"I am okay... never felt better," Gustav reassured while clenching and unclenching his hands as a test.

He could see the worried looks on their faces slowly reduce as he also spotted the instrument in the doctor's grasp.

'Looks like its been three days already,' Gustav said internally.

"Have I been here all this time?" Gustav inquired out loud as he wondered why they would place him in a medical institution.

"Yes sir. You passed out on the battlefield in Luchan City and you were brought in by the MBO..." The doctor revealed.

'The battle... ' Gustav recalled the battle with the infected and was overcome with great worry as he wondered how it ended.

"...We have tried our best to keep you under control in the last three days but even as medical practitioners we had no idea if you would regain consciousness or not," The doctor continued speaking.
rânÖßËŞ

"Under control?" Gustav voiced with a confused expression as he heard this.

"Yes under control,"

"Why?"

"You see you've been emitting unstable energy at certain periods for the last three days and during those times you destroyed several structures whilst being unconscious. We had to place you here to repress the energy and even keep you under a medicinal dosage anytime it spiralled out of control again... it has been most stressful but we're glad you've regained consciousness,"

The doctor explained causing Gustav's face to show a look of understanding.

'My body must have been adapting to the Cosmic Superiority... Being unconscious all this time, my body must have been merging the power completely with me to make it entirely my own,' Gustav analysed internally as he stood to his feet.

"Hold on Officer Crimson you just woke up, where are you going?" The doctor asked.

"Where else? I'm leaving of course," Gustav responded.

"I'm afraid we can't allow that," The doctor voiced out as he moved to stand in front of Gustav.

"You're still unstable and innocent people might be put in danger if any of your energy tantrums begin again," He added with a pleading look.

"I am perfectly fine. Now that I've regained consciousness nothing of the sort is going to happen," Gustav said with a reassuring tone while walking past the side of the doctor.

"They asked me to inform them the moment you regain consciousness. Can you at least hold on till they arrive here?" The doctor asked.

"Don't worry, I'm going to them," Gustav said before dashing out.

Fwwwwoosshh!

Wind blew across the place as his figure disappeared.

The doctor knew well that no one could stop Gustav if he decided to leave which was why the respectful approach was necessary.

Not even the suppressive room could hold his power so they knew very well that holding him here against his will was impossible.

"Inform the MBO of his recovery," The doctor voiced as he stormed out of the room.

Fwwwwoosshhh~

As Gustav dashed through this unknown city he thought, "I didn't even ask the doctor where this is,"

Thooooooooommm~

He leapt into the air in the next instant and arrived above a tall skyscraper.

He stared down at the city from this height and in the next few seconds, a figure flew in from the west and landed atop this same skyscraper.

He was clad in an MBO outfit and had a weird expression on his face.

"I'm gonna have to ask you to return to the medical centre now," The man with a ice cube like face voiced out.

"Hmm? Why?" Gustav said while raising an eyebrow.

He still had a patient uniform on so his clothes kept flapping due to the wind.

"Higher up orders. I'll have to consider you an hostile if you refuse to adhere," The officer voiced out as he suddenly unleashed his bloodline energy.

'A Kilo ranked,' Gustav noticed instantly.

"I refuse. Now be good and tell me what city this is," Gustav stated with a nonchalant tone.

"I'll have to use force to return you to the medical centre now," The officer said with a serious tone.

"You know what? Never mind, I'll just get out of here myself," Gustav said as he reached out to touch his left wrist.

"Hmm? My dimensional bracelet..." Gustav muttered as he noticed his dimensional bracelet was no longer strapped to his left wrist.

"Your possessions were taken away. Now will you come with me or do I have to use force?" The officer asked once more.

Gustav stood there with a stupefied expression, 'How did they get it off? My storage device is missing too along with the Jewel,' Gustav made a low sigh as he placed two fingers on his forehead.

"Where are they?" Gustav asked.

"The MBO Tower in Plankton City. Its at four thousand miles east from here," The officer said with a tone that depicted there was nothing Gustav could do other than just comply.

"Four thousand miles east from here? Ah so this is Charlie City," Gustav said with a look of understanding.

"How did you..?" The officer was about to ask how Gustav figured it out since he already mentioned he had no idea where they were.

"You practically revealed it... anyone with a brain and knowledge would be able to figure it out," Gustav responded while shrugging.

'I'm pretty sure not just anyone would figure that out from the distance revealed...' The officer wanted to say this out loud but kept quiet.

Chapter 1009: You Should Have Brought Backup

"So they asked you to bring me back to the medical facility..?"

"Yes,"

"All by yourself?"

"Yes,"

"And how do you intend to do that?"

"Huh?"

"Where's your backup?"

"I don't need any backup,"

"Okay... get lost,"

Gustav turned around to leave at this point.

"Stop!" The officer yelled as he pushed his palm forward.

A burst of misty blue energy slammed into Gustav from behind freezing him in place.

"I'm taking you back whether you like it or not," He said after freezing Gustav in place and began to step forward.

"No," Gustav stated as he regained control of his movement and turned around.

The eyes of the officer widened in shock as he prepared to send out another attack.

"Tremble!"

Fwwhiiii~

A burst of whitish energy was sent forth from Gustav as he voiced out.

The officer suddenly felt overwhelmed with an indescribable feeling as his knees weakened.

Plop!

He fell to his knees and nearly bowed as well as he stared at Gustav with a look of disbelief and confusion.

"You should have brought backup," Gustav stated before turning towards the east.

[Lightning Blitz Has Been Activated]

The instant he leapt into the air, he turned into a lightning streak.

Thhrrriihhzzhhh!

The streak bolted across the air and he disappeared instantly.

A few minutes later the officer had regained control of his body and was in the presence of four other officers on the same rooftop.

"What!? you lost him?" One of them voiced out with a furious tone.

"He was too strong. He defeated me with one word," The ice cube headed officer said with a crestfallen look.

"You couldn't stop an Echo ranked mixedblood who has only been an officer for a few months after your years of experience?"

"You're gonna make us look bad now,"

The others voiced with looks of disappointment.

"We have to find him now, which direction is he headed in?" Another one of them asked.

"I don't think it matters if we go after him..." The ice cube headed officer said.

"Huh? Why?" One of them asked.

"He's not running away, he's headed to the tower in Plankton City," The ice cube headed officer stated.

"And how do you know this?" The other one asked once more.

"He wants to get his things... the tower is always swarming with officers so they can take care of him themselves," The ice cube headed officer replied. RANÖBËş

"Even if you're correct we still have to go after him to make sure he doesn't harm anyone,"

Fwwwwhoooooosshhhh!

A whitish line tore through the air as a figure flew across the skies with immense speed.

'I've never tried travel by flight... I mean I have but that was in an aircraft. Its truly interesting when I'm flying with my own power,' Gustav said internally as his figure kept parting the clouds due to his speed.

("Well at least now you can keep it up since you have a lot of energy and you're not going very far,") The system responded.

'Four thousand miles is pretty far though,' Gustav replied internally.

("Not as far as touring across the entire earth,") The system voiced.

Gustav; 'Fair point...'

[Lightning Blitz Has Been Activated]

Zhrrrrhhhhh!

Gustav crossed another six hundred thousand feet in an instant as he activated Lightning Blitz.

The cooldown had ended so he could activate it four more times before it went into cooldown mode again.

This would shorten the distance by another five hundred miles. Gustav estimated that he should arrive back in Planktok City in about thirty to forty minutes time.

He had left a huge gap between himself and the officers chasing from behind.

'What exactly happened when I was asleep? Did I manage to absorb the Cosmic Superiority completely?' Gustav asked internally.

("What do you think?") The system answered with a question.

'I feel more energized than before... more powerful... its a odd feeling that i can quite describe...' Gustav's face shone with a contemplative expression as he mentioned.

("To a certain extent you feel like reality can bend to your will?") The system stated.

'...Yeah... something like that...' Gustav confirmed.

(Hehe, it has begun,") The system chuckled as it stated.

'Hmm? What has begun?'

- "The MBO Tower

"Stand down," A man in a red colored MBO outfit commanded through a communication channel.

- "Are you sure sir? They stated that he might still be unstable and needs to be examined for a few more days before he is released," The person on the other end of the communication questioned.

"It doesn't matter. He is coming here so stand down,"

- "Understood... Sir Xanatus," The person on the other end voiced as the dialogue ended.

Gradier Xanatus stood in a board room with a few other officers having a meeting.

"And you're sure he won't endanger the lives of anyone?" One of the officers here who was dressed in a high ranking outfit questioned.

"What better place for him to be than in the presence of other officers who are much stronger and can place him under control if anything goes wrong?" Gradier Xanatus said with a casual but respectful bearing.

- "Hmm I see your point,"

- "Alright Major Gradier Xanatus but you will take the blame if anything goes wrong,"

The generals accepted for Gradier Xanatus's suggestion to not place Gustav in any isolation.

The generals had no idea that Gradier Xanatus was mostly doing this because it was close to impossible to keep Gustav in a place he didn't want to be and the whole situation could end up getting messy so he had to take care of things on his own end.

Gradier Xanatus sighed in relief after all the generals left the board room.

An holographic footage appeared in his line of sight afterwards. It displayed an angle of a recording where Gustav said a word and caused the other officer's knees to buckle.

"Get rid of this footage..." He commanded.

-Forty Minutes later

"Welcome back," Gradier Xanatus voiced with a smile as a young man with dirty blonde hair walked into the board room clad in a patient outfit.

"Gradier Xanatus, you're alive," A smile appeared on Gustav's face as he walked towards Gradier Xantus with two officers by his side.

Chapter 1010 Trip Down Memory Lane

"Gradier Xanatus, you're alive," A smile appeared on Gustav's face as he walked towards Gradier Xantus with two officers by his side.

The officers besides him had solemn expressions as they stood by Gustav's side like they were escorting a prisoner.

"Leave us," Gradier Xanatus said to the officers.

They nodded with respectful look before walking out of the boardroom.

Gustav took a seat in front of Gradier Xanatus before speaking.

"Everyone has their guard up so much around me... Was it that bad when I was unconscious?" Gustav questioned.

"Yes," Gradier Xanatus answered bluntly before leaning on the side of the massive table.

"Your occasional energy disruption was on a seismic scale and even affected the battle during the fight against the infected," He added.

"Hmm, I guess it must have caused more damage than I expected," Gustav said while holding his chin.

"Anyways since I'm back now, everything is in control," Gustav added.

"I don't doubt that but the higher ups do so in the meantime don't go anywhere without me. They want me babysitting you to make sure no accidents happen. This was the bargain for your freedom," Gradier Xanatus pointed out.

"For how long," Gustav inquired.

"Till they've ascertained that you're stable and not dangerous to others," Gradier Xanatus replied.

Gustav had a slightly troubled expression as he heard this. On the bright side Gradier Xanatus was someone he was comfortable with or he would have already threw tantrums.

"Don't worry it won't be for long... but you have to be careful about how you use some of your abilities in public. You need to stay out of their eyes for now," Gradier Xanatus voiced out, hinting at the ability Gustav had used to put the Kilo ranked officer on his knees effortlessly.

"Sure sure... my possessions, I want them back," Gustav demanded.

"You will get them back but first you mind telling me what happened on the battlefield three days back?" Gradier Xanatus's face shown a look of curiosity as he voiced out.

"Don't you have something to tell me first? How did the battle end?" Gustav threw in this question as he pedalled back on his seat.

"Okay we'll trade answers..." Gradier Xanatus responded.

Gradier Xanatus went on to narrate everything that happened on the battlefield after Gustav lost consciousness.

He added the part where he couldn't get Gustav out of Gisodinym's head for over three hours and had to leave him there due to the weird golden glow phenomenon.

He went on to explain that it was only after two more hours that the officers managed to get him out and rid the place of Gisodinym's corpse.

'I could have stolen its bloodline too... what a waste,' Gustav thought internally as Gradier Xanatus got to this point.

Gradier Xanatus went on to mention how the numbers of MBO officers continued to dwindle without any hope of getting more reinforcements till the next twenty four hours. RãNó$Ě

He knew they would all be dead before then so they kept trying to come up with a solution to all this.

The MBO officers were running out of bloodline energy, AI droids were getting destroyed and even the Mixedblood machines were starting to get overwhelmed by the sheer number of infected in the vicinity.

Despite Gustav managing to get rid of Gisodinym it was a losing battle. After losing more than seventy percent of their forces, there were still over four million infected charging through.

"Red Shadow was found half dead," Gradier Xanatus stated.

"How is he now?" Gustav asked with a look of concern.

"He is fine... just like you he was taken to a medical center to get treatment and he is absolutely okay right now. He regained consciousness two days ago and is out of the hospital," Gradier Xanatus revealed.

"That's great," Gustav let out a sigh of relief.

"The same can't be said about the officer who found him..." Gradier Xanatus had a sour look as he got to this point.

"The young officer? Fola?" Gustav asked with a slightly worried look.

"Yes... Officer Fola made a sacrifice on that day after bringing Red Shadow back..." Gradier Xanatus had a reminiscing look as he voiced out.

-"We're almost out of comrades, they're close to breaching the east wall,"

A voice was heard on the communication channel.

"We can't send anyone in the meantime, we're barely holding on here too," Gradier Xanatus responded with a worried tone as he heard this.

- "We're... going to be done for in a few,"

- "Kiaarrhhhhh!"

Screams of agony rang from the communication channel along with ripping sounds.

Officer Fola had just dropped Red Shadow's bloodied and unconscious body at Gradier Xanatus's feet.

"I'll go," Officer Fola said as his body glowed up.

Grab!

"You don't fool me... I know you're almost out of energy," Gradier Xanatus voiced out after grabbing hold of Officer Fola's arm.

"I'll go you stay here," Gradier Xanatus voiced out.

"We really don't have time for this argument sir. Everyone here needs you, you have to remain in command and pull everyone together. Your death will not help anyone," Officer Fola said with a tone of defiance before jumping into the air.

Fwwhwooosshhh!

He flew speedily across the air, before Gradier Xanatus could respond.

Fola flew towards the east side and just as they mentioned some infected had began climbing up the walls. They barely had officers left in this area.

He began attacking the infected he spotted upon getting here.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

Explosions rang out as he used the last bit of his energy to join them in repelling the infected here.

"Hnnghh!"

An ashy goo slammed into his side while in mid air, causing him to fall. The infected who had sent forth this attack was blasted to pieces by another officer.

Fola breathed in and out profusely as he stared at the large number of infected still charging towards the wall from up ahead.

They had covered the entire area to the point where nothing else could be seen besides these ashy skinned zombies that had refused to die.
