

Bloodline 1031

Chapter 1031 I Created My Own Planet

Miss Aimee proceeded to call out different objects and items and they all appeared in an instant, proving that she had way more power than she had ever had at this moment.

The main problem was still getting out of here which was in the middle of nowhere but Miss Aimee felt she could spend this time trying to grasp the full extent of her power.

In a week more than a million things were floating in this space with her and most of them had been created instantly. Miss Aimee just had to imagine whatever she wanted to create so long as it was a non-living thing and it would appear.

There were skyscrapers floating across the place, small buildings, rocks, appliances and so many other things.

“Vanish!” Miss Aimee voiced out.

HZZZZIIHHHH~

Every single thing she created during this time frame suddenly disappeared.

“My energy... is finite but it is almost infinite... I would never be able to deplete it even if I was to keep creating things for one year straight...” Miss Aimee muttered but at this point, a thought appeared in her mind.

“I should try that...” She muttered as the picture of a flying creature appeared in her mind.

Zhiiiiinnnnzznn~

A bright white light began forming in front of her and in a few seconds, a dove appeared.

“...It... worked...” Miss Aimee muttered with a look of disbelief as she saw the creature flapping its beautiful wings in front of her.

Pla! Pla! Pla! Pla!

It flew around her beautifully and perched on her left shoulder.

“I can... create life?” Miss Aimee’s head was still reeling in shock.

She proceeded to touch the creature on her left shoulder gently as it made some bird noises.

The place seemed less lonely as the dove brightened the mood up a bit. However, this whole scenario was short-lived as the dove began to make a weird pitched sound.

Miss Aimee didn't understand what was happening at first till the bird began to flap weakly and began to fall from the air.

She grabbed it and finally understood, "It's dying..." She voiced out.

"No air..."

The creature ended up dying after a few more seconds and Miss Aimee allowed it to vanish as well.

Zhiiizzhhhhhzzh!

It turned into a white light and phased into Miss Aimee's body in the next instant. This didn't happen with the others so Miss Aimee realised that she would only lose a noticeable amount of energy when she created something with life or something very massive.

Miss Aimee had another thought at this point and decided to create something that had never been done before by any Mixedblood that ever lived.

'...For living things to stay alive they need an environment that is conducive for them... they need air, they need an ecosystem... sky... and land...' As these thoughts appeared in her mind her eyes turned completely white and her body emitted a powerful discharge of energy.

Zhiiiiinnzznznennnnhhhhhhh~

Miss Aimee could feel herself losing energy at this point but she knew exactly what was happening so she didn't stop it.

Out of nowhere rumbling sounds began to ring out as something was forming underneath her.

"I started creating my own planet..." Miss Aimee paused her narration at this point.

"You created this?" Gustav voiced with a surprised tone as he turned to look around.

"Yes... it wasn't easy and took a lot of time but I managed to get it done," Miss Aimee stated in response.

Gustav's mouth was wide open at this point as he looked around. He could see some birds flying in the distance and due to his perception, he could sense flowing waters some distance from here.

From what Miss Aimee narrated he knew that the air he was breathing right now was also created by Miss Aimee since this unknown dimension was void of air.

It was a crazy situation to fathom altogether and Gustav was having a hard time taking it all in.

“Did you finish it yet though?” Gustav questioned.

“I am not finished yet but I am done with the size and outlook, just need to put a few other things in place,” Miss Aimee responded.

“So the phenomenon was because you were creating a planet and life within this dimension and it was expanding at a rate that was ripping the fabric of space apart...” Gustav felt everything made sense now as he put things together.

“It affected the outside world?” Miss Aimee questioned with a clueless tone.

“Yes... we were worried something dangerous was happening...” Gustav responded and then proceeded to explain how things had been recently.

He told her about the phenomenon in space which was linked to her planet’s creation.

“Interesting... it started around the same time I started creating a Sun...” Miss Aimee voiced out.

"You were creating a Sun?" Gustav stated in shock.

"A planet cannot exist without a source of light dummy," Miss Aimee stated.

'The heatwave... The sun she was creating is the true reason behind it,' Gustav pieced everything together at this point and turned to stare in a direction.

"The cracks... They're in the process of forming a sun... we were walking right into a Sun," Gustav nearly facepalmed as he spotted the cracks far in the sky that were now changing colour and closing the gaps in between.

"So it turned out I just needed to create a planet and a Sun to burn through space and get out of here," Miss Aimee chuckled lightly as she also pieced some things together from Gustav's narration.

"How did you even save me?" Gustav questioned.

"I felt your presence..." Miss Aimee stated before proceeding to narrate what happened a few hours ago.

"Arrrrghhhhhhhhhhh!"

While Miss Aimee was on her planet in the midst of the creation, she heard a yell. The voice sounded too familiar for her to ignore.

She turned to stare towards the western sky at this point where the Sun was being formed.

Thooosshhhh~

She took off into the sky in the next instant.

Chapter 1032 I Killed Him

She turned to stare towards the west sky at this point where the Sun was being formed.

Thooosshhhh~

She took off into the sky in the next instant and appeared right in the midst of the cracks that still spread on farther than expected.

She was unaffected in the slightest by the heatwaves, but as she traveled further she noticed the rips in the sky and a part of the area the cracks covered transitioning into a different place.

"Space..." Miss Aimee instantly recognised this to be space the further she flew.

It was surprising to her because she had no idea the cracks had already breached through space from out of this dimension.

She heard the yell once more and stared forward. This was when she spotted a figure holding onto a head sized cylindrical object while floating in place with their body ripping apart and mending at the same time.

"Gustav?" Miss Aimee had a look of shock as she recognised the figure to be Gustav.

'He can't take anymore of this,' She noticed and quickly sped forward once more.

The moment she arrived in front of him she noticed he was on the verge of losing consciousness.

Pah!

Miss Aimee snapped her fingers and in the next instant a bright barrier covered the both of them up, shielding him completely from the heatwave.

The energy he was absorbing stopped flowing in at this moment and Gustav's eyes finally closed completely as he fell forward.

Grab!

Miss Aimee grabbed hold of him, hugging Gustav to her body.

A beautiful smile appeared on her face, which was a very rare scenario. Miss Aimee proceeded to stroke his hair softly as she continued holding onto him while they descended from the air.

Gustav was a head taller than Miss Aimee but she still managed to hold onto him like he was a baby.

She was curious about the whole space issue but she decided now wasn't the time to check that out and placed Gustav's head on her laps upon landing.

She noticed he was badly damaged and most of it was from within which was the worst form of damage so Miss Aimee began to transmit energy into him from herself.

Coupled with his own healing ability, Gustav was able to heal quickly and regained consciousness in three hours time.

"That is what happened..." Miss Aimee finished narrating how they got to this point.

"So you had no idea, you had broken out of this dimension the whole time?" Gustav voiced out.

"Yeah... so how is earth?" Miss Aimee questioned with a slightly curious tone.

"I killed him," Gustav voiced in response like he already knew what Miss Aimee was referring to with that question.

"Oh?" A smirk appeared on Miss Aimee's face as she heard this.

"So that bastard is finally dead eh? Too bad I wasn't able to kill him myself. Did you torture him though?" She proceeded to ask.

"Hehe did more than that," Gustav responded with a slight chuckle.

"Tell me all about it,"

-Planet Mendologas

Slash! Bang! Bam! Boom!

Sounds of explosion and collisions rang out as a battle between a group of mixedbloods and beast was playing out.

These beasts had dark mist emitting from their eyes, claws and skull but they were physical enough to take damage.

There were more than twenty of them ambushing this group of four but these four were strong enough to hold their own and had been doing well so far in dealing with the beasts.

Elevora swerved to the right in mid air as a six legged beast leaped towards her. She spun with her leg stretching out which in turn slammed into the back of the creature.

Bang!

Another one was sent crashing down. It slammed into a fellow beast and Elevora went on to fire a destructive beam from her forehead to finish them off.

E.E on the other side, conjured up multiple vortexes in front of these creatures sucking them in and letting them get tossed across the place.

Bam! Bam! Bam! Bam!

These beasts kept slamming into each other as the vortexes were positioned in a circular format across the place making it so the beasts were pulled into another vortex the moment they got out of one.

E.E would occasionally attack some using physical combat after incapacitating them with the pulls of the vortexes.

pan,da n<0,>v,el The captain on the other side sent out destructive circular waves with both arms. With every fist he sent out, a wave was blasted across the place that transfered the damage to the other beasts in the vicinity.

He could focus on one beast and other beasts would be getting damage from the attack he was inflicting on the beast. The strange waves made sure to transmit the damage from the attack all across the place.

Davidson on the other hand had transformed into a gorilla like creature with golden colored furs and glowing white eyes. His physical strength had been greatly improved and he could shoot flames from his mouth.

He pounded these beasts from place to place while showering them with flames as well.

In a few more minutes the battle ended and all that could be seen around them were multiple corpses of these beasts.

"This makes the seventh swarm we've faced," E.E voiced out.

"What's wrong boy scout? You running out of energy?" Davidson questioned with a slightly ridiculing chuckle as he transformed back into his original form.

"Far from it..." E.E responded with an unbothered tone.

"He dealt with more of the beast's than you did though," Elevora voiced out as well causing Davidson's smile to fade.

In the battles so far, there wasn't a doubt that Elevora was the most powerful here with the way she was finishing each creature with a single or two attacks.

They were quite the power group but she had even taken care of creatures that attacked from their blind spots while still dealing with the ones in front of her so Davidson didn't want to get on her bad side.

"We're close... I can see the wall," Captain Spark voiced out as he looked up ahead.

"Let's keep moving then, we've been here for too long," Elevora voiced in response.

"Hold on, since I can see the wall too, I can get us there," E.E voiced out before conjuring a vortex.

Zhooooonnn~

A purplish vortex opened up in front of them and they proceeded to jump in.

In the next instant, everyone arrived before the gigantic wall that was over ten thousand feet tall.

"We're here," Captain Spark voiced out.

"There are creatures lurking on the walls... it will be a battle if we're climbing up," Elevora stated as she looked up.

"Can you get us to the top?" Captain Spark inquired as he stared at E.E.

He didn't want them to spend time trying to scale the wall while also having to battle creature's since they had spent a lot of time in this hole.

"I can't see the top but since I know how high the wall is then yeah... I'll just project my vortex that far," E.E voiced out before proceeding to open up another vortex.

At the same time he did this, a loud beast cry reverberated across the vicinity.

"That's the strongest creature here... It has noticed us," Elevora voiced out as she turned around.

"How strong?" Davidson questioned.

"Just get into the vortex," Elevora voiced out before pushing him forward.

"You go next," Captain Spark voiced out but before he knew what was happening Elevora pushed him in as well.

At this same time the sound of beast paws stamping on the ground became increasingly loud and in the next instant a gigantic beast about twenty feet large appeared right behind them.

Elevora and E.E were left but there was barely enough time. Elevora stared at E.E and was about to push him in when the vortex suddenly turned red.

Zzhiiiznnnnn~

Both of them instantly got sucked in while the creature charged forward as well.

Bam!

The fell to the ground which was atop the wall and the vortex above them hadn't closed up yet.

Grehhhrrrrhhhhh~

A loud creature yell was heard as the head of this gigantic creature poked through the vortex in the next instant.

"Idiot," E.E stared at the vortex and stretched out his right hand before clenching it.

Xhinn~

The vortex closed up in the next instant and a massive decapitated head fell to the ground with blood oozing out.

"No matter how powerful a creature is, they're bound to die with that type of foolishness," E.E voiced as Elevora gave him a hand and helped in pulling him up.

"Did you really try to push me in and face it yourself?" E.E voiced with a slight chuckle.

"If that is what is required to save you, I would do it again," Elevora stated in response without batting an eyelid.

E.E who had always been confident looking suddenly turned shy at this moment as he stared at Elevora from behind who had begun walking away after saying that.

Chapter 1033 Aildris And Glade's Situation

E.E who had always been confident looking suddenly turned shy at this moment as he stared at Elevora from behind who had begun walking away after saying that.

He proceeded to follow after them as well as they headed to the checkpoint.

"You've been here this whole time?" Aildris voiced out to a yellow skinned lady in front of him.

"Yeah, its been almost three weeks now," She responded while looking around with a worried look.

"We're here to take you back you'll be fine," Glade voiced out.

“He needs more help than I do, since we ran out of healing supplements to help him,” The yellow skinned girl said while pointing at the other person who was laying on the ground.

There was an unconscious guy on the floor with a red rocky like hair and multiple bandaid wrapped around exposed part of his skin.

It was obvious that this person had been severely injured due to the multiple bloodstains on different parts of his body.

Both of them were clad in MBO uniforms signifying that were officers as well.

These two were none other than the officers from the previous group who were said to have met their end here while embarking on the mission.

Glade and Aildris had managed to locate them after searching for a long time in an area called land of shadows.

It was very difficult for them to get to this place but according to calculations from the co captain, it was triangulated that this could be one of the areas where the only two who survived might be hiding out.

They previously checked two other areas based on their closeness to the rock structure where the device was hidden but they didn't find them there.

Fortunately they were hiding in this dangerous land that was said to be overrun by shadowy creatures without physical bodies.

“Did you also run out of bloodline energy?” Aildris questioned.

“Yes and I am finding it hard to recover because of my injuries so we’ve been hiding in this shed within the land of shadows all this time,” The yellow skinned female responded.

“There will be a spacecraft arriving in t minus 007 hours. We just need to make sure we get to the checkpoint in time,” Aildris stated while moving towards the other male officer and lifting him onto his shoulder.

“Get on my back,” Glade voiced out to the lady who proceeded to do as required.

“What about the mission?” The lady officer asked after getting on Glade’s back.

“The others are handling it. We’ll all meet back at the checkpoint,” Aildris voiced as they began moving out of this shed like structure.

The female officer had managed to build this when they arrived here and despite it being really lousy looking, it was good enough for them to hide within.

“Glade, let’s move,” Aildris voiced out before charging forward.

Zwwowssshhhhh~

A red aura like energy surrounded Glade and in the next instant she also blasted forward with immense speed, catching up with Aildris.

This particular area had some weird looking root like plants growing out of the pitch black ground.

These roots were around ten to fifteen meters long which was practically the same size with trees on earth but they looked a lot different from trees. However one could consider this a Mendologa forest with the way it looked.

While Aildris and Glade sped forward across this land of shadows some weird black streaks could be seen moving from root to root.

“One on your six,” Aildris voiced out.

Glade suddenly spun around at this time as a four feet long red sickle appeared in her grasp.

Fwhiiii~

She swung it out and it phased right through a shadowy figure that just leaped from a tree.

However the moment it passed through, a suction force came from the sickle which ended up pulling the shadowy figure into it as it repeatedly spun across the air.

Glade had already turned right back around after throwing the sickle so she never stopped running forward.

As they sped through the mist of these multiple root like trees, more of these creatures attacked from every angle and Aildris who was able to grasp every aspect of his surroundings due to his heightened senses from closing his eyes, informed Glade of every position these creatures were appearing from.

It was easier for Glade to deal with them as the lady on her back held onto her body so Glade didn't have to be bothered about her hands being occupied.

Aildris on the other hand had to hold onto the unconscious figure of the male officer properly so he was quite handicapped in the situation of these attacking shadowy figures.

Fortunately Glade was able to deal with every single one of them as they dashed across this territory.

"Be careful not to awake the big one," The lady officer voiced out.

"Big one?" Glade and Aildris voiced at the same time with looks of confusion.

In the next instant the entire vicinity began quaking heavily.

Ghhbbbbbllllhhhhbbb~

The dark roots vibrated intensely as this quake went on for a couple of seconds.

"Shit!" The lady voiced out.

"What's wrong?" Glade questioned as they kept running.

"You guys just woke it up... the big one," She voiced in response.

"What is the big one?" Glade questioned.

"Look behind you," Aildris stated.

Glade turned around and could see dark strings pulling out of the ground in some areas as the ground spilt open.

A massive circular shaped shadowy figure with multiple dark strings attached to its frame that acted as arms and legs could be spotted reaching out from the ground.

“Move away!” Aildris yelled out as he leapt towards the left.

Glade managed to leap towards the right in that same instant and a dark line cut through their middle before slamming into the ground in front.

Bang! Krrrrrychhh~

The ground instantly split open upon the collision and dark flames burst forth from the cracks.

Both of them instantly felt the temperature increase by a couple thousand degrees. The flames had not made contact with them, yet they felt like their skins were being cooked by the temperature increase it was causing.

“You couldn’t tell us about the big one before?” Glade voiced out with a tone of wariness as they kept running forward looking to escape this creature.

“My bad... there’s actually three of them but hopefully we only have to deal with this one,” She voiced with an apologetic tone.

“Glade, jump!” Aildris yelled out once more.

Both of them proceeded to jump upwards in the next instant and two dark strings from the creature’s body slashed across their previous position below.

It ended up ruining a couple of roots due to its powerful destructiveness and once more dark flames oozed out of anything the strings made contact with.

“Jade, can we beat this thing?” Aildris was starting to get mad from the intense heatwave.

“You’d have to be at least Kilo rank to kill it... but you two are a rank below like me,” The injured female officer responded while shaking her head.

“I’ll take my chances,” Aildris voiced out before opening his eyes.

Zhuuuuzzhhhhhzznnnnn~

The vicinity instantly turned colorless, leaving things transparent unlike how it would be before with everywhere turning black and white.

“Glade, catch,” Aildris voiced out as he leapt into the air once more, towards Glade’s direction and dropped the unconscious body he was initially carrying.

Glade caught the body of the unconscious officer and leapt continued running forward as Aildris turned around.

"I'll catch up with you later," Aildris voiced out as his beautiful eyes stared in the direction of the circular shadowy creature.

It made a weird squealing sound after seeing that one if it preys had stopped to face it. Moving forward slowly the creature stopped several feet away from Aildris, sizing him up while also trying to intimidate him.

After staying in position for a bit and seeing that Aildris did not buckle it charged forward once more.

"Color separation..." Aildris muttered softly as he joined his index and middle finger together.

As the creature leaped across the air towards Aildris while firing out its multiple dark strings towards him, he stabbed forward with his two fingers...

A weird phenomenon happened in the next instant as a multicoloured glow appeared at his conjoined fingertips while they stabbed forward.

A group of four in dark suits could be seen approaching an area behind a mountain.

Three of them were males while the fourth was a female.

"We've finally arrived," E.E voiced with a tone of relief as they arrived behind the small green colored mountain

"Took you guys long enough," A familiar voiced was heard from up ahead.

"Angy... as expected you got here first," E.E voiced with a light chuckle as he moved towards her position.

"Been here for hours wondering when you guys would get here," Angy voiced with a slightly frustrated tone.

Chapter 1034 Something Doesn't Seem Right

Angy was currently seating on a small rock up ahead and had a slightly bored look.

"You're truly as fast as they say you are," Co captain Davidson voiced in surprise after finding out she had been here for hours.

“How long till the spacecraft arrives?” Angy questioned.

“One hour left,” Davidson responded.

“What about Aildris and Glade?” She questioned while looking around.

“They must be close by... I should be able to contact the command from here and let them know of our status so we don’t have to spend any longer time in this dump,” Co captain Davidson stated as he began tapping on the device in front of him.

It turned out they were unable to contact the command since they had acquired the device or this whole situation would have ended already.

This checkpoint was the only place that made it position for their connection to reach outerspace so they could finally give a report.

“Why don’t we wait for Aildris and Glade to be back with the other two first,” Angy voiced out.

“Because as soon as they know we have acquired device, nothing stops them from taking further actions so the more we delay, the longer they have to stall,” Captain Spark explained.

“Hey its actually connecting,” Davidson voiced as the call started going through.

"They're coming," E.E suddenly voiced out as he spotted figures approaching from the east area.

Everyone turned to stare in that direction as they heard that.

"Hold up..."

"Something doesn't seem right,"

Elevora and E.E voiced at the same time.

"Hands off the communication device!" A feminine voice resounded from up ahead.

"Uh?" Davidson voiced in confusion as the group approached.

As they got closer, they could see that some unknown lady and guy had their hands wrapped around the necks of Glade and Aildris.

"I have the life of your teammates in my hand and yes they are unable to access their bloodline abilities at the moment so don't expect them to over power me," The yellow skinned lady voiced out.

"Aren't you two supposed to be from the other team?" Elevora voiced with a confused tone.

"They are long gone hahaha foolish mixedbloods," The lady voiced out as they moved closer to the group.

"I and my subordinate took over their bodies a long time ago and deceived these two into bringing us here so we can take back what you stole from us," The lady voiced out while increasing the grip on Aildris throat.

Aildris had a look of disappointment on his face as he heaved out a sigh. He felt like he had truly let the team down at this point.

"They can't fight back and none of you can get to us in time to free both of them before they are killed... if you try any nonsense at least one of them will die," The yellow skinned lady voiced out.

- "Come in Retrival Squad! Have you completed the mission,"

A loud voice was heard from the communication device.

"Disconnect now or they die," She voiced out once more while holding Aildris neck and lifting him.

The other officer who was also supposed to be unconscious all this time was actually okay. He was holding onto Glade who had turned all weak as well since they were unable to activate their bloodline energies.

It was all a ploy and their minds had been taken over by unknown Mendologas.

It was obvious that the Mendologas who took over their minds were elders since they were capable of doing such.

-“Retrieval Squad! Come I....”

The call was disconnected before the sentence could be completed.

“Pass over what you stole right away,” The yellow skinned lady voiced out.

“Don’t do it,” Aildris yelled out but her hand tightened around his throat more causing him to start coughing uncontrollably.

“I have no sympathy for earthlings! If you foolishly wish for his death, then disobey,” She voiced out once more.

‘This is bad, this is very bad,’ E.E said internally as he thought of a way out of this.

They all had worried looks on their faces as they wondered how they would get out of this situation. They didn’t want all of their hardwork to go to waste but at the same time they couldn’t let Aildris and Glade die.

There was no guarantee that they wouldn’t be killed here also after they gave them what they wanted. It was really a problematic situation.

-Earth

“BREAKING NEWS! THE SPACE AGENCY HAS UNCOVERED A NEW DISCOVERY!”

“IT HAS BEEN REVEALED THAT A NEW PLANET HAS APPEARED... IN THE MILKY WAY!”

“IT IS TOTALLY CONFUSING AND UNBELIEVABLE HOW SUCH A THING JUST HAPPENED BUT CURRENTLY THE PLANET HAS BEEN REPORTED TO BE ON THE MOVE!”

“IT IS ESTIMATED TO BE ON A COLLISION PATH TO EARTH AND WILL ARRIVE WITHIN FOUR DAYS!”

“EVERYONE IS EXPECTED NOT TO PANIC AS THE WORLD GOVERNMENT WILL BE GIVING A STATEMENT ABOUT THIS SITUATION SOON ENOUGH!”

“IT IS ALSO EXPECTED THAT THE BARRIER SURROUNDING THE EARTH WILL PROTECT THE EARTH FROM ANY FORM OF IMPACT FROM THE COLLISION,”

“HOWEVER THERE HAS BEEN A HUGE SCARE AS IT HAS BEEN REVEALED THAT THE PLANET IS THRICE THE SIZE OF THE EARTH WITH A NEW SUN THAT IS FOUR TIMES HOTTER AS WELL,”

“BREAKING NEWS! IT HAS BEEN REVEALED THAT THE PLANET IS EXPANDING FURTHER ON ITS COLLISION COURSE TO EARTH AS WELL AS ITS SUN,”

“IT JUST SPROUTED A NEW MOON!”

“THE MBO ARE SAID TO BE INVESTIGATING THE CURRENT SITUATION AND THE WORLD GOVERNMENT WILL BE ADDRESSING THE SITUATION SOON.”

In the last three days the news had been mostly passing across this catastrophic information that was causing a big disturbance across the earth.

The earth had just survived a worldwide cataclysmic event and now it looked like another one was about to happen.

A lot of people didn't doubt the capacity of the barrier surrounding earth but at the same time the planet approaching was said to be three times larger. This was ringing warning bells in their heads.

Currently the MBO was getting lots of queries and disturbing calls from the world government and even the people themselves.

-Space

"Yes sir it just passed us by,"

- "Why have you not made contact yet,"

"We tried to... the problem is not the speed, the problem is the energy waves it spreads across the vicinity. It makes it impossible to get close,"

"Are you telling me you lots missed it again? What are you doing up there then?"

"Sir, I'll send you a data of the energy readings,"

After a few moments of silence...

-“What? How is this even possible?”

“We need an Alpha ranked Mixedblood... no other mixedblood will be able to come close to this moving planet,”

-“Alright, I’ll get back to you,”

“We need to be quick on this sir, In one day time it will arrive at Neptune’s orbit and no doubt destroy the entire planet with how fast its moving and its size... that’s if the planet Sun doesn’t even end up burning Neptune to a crisp and you know what Planet is next after all the other planets have been razed through sir,”

“Understood Officer Xanatus... this will be settled in a bit,”

After this, the communication was cut and Gradier Xanatus was left standing in the spacecraft with a bothered expression.

‘It wasn’t till I arrived here before I realised it was a planet appearing out of nowhere with a recently formed Sun... we have been sending researchers over to inspect a Sun all this time,’ He thought as he moved forward.

‘There’s still a possibility the kid survived... he could even be on the planet... I hope he is as unkillable as I think,’ Gradier Xanatus arrived at the pilot’s area before issuing a command.

“We’re still going after the planet... but keep a considerable distance from it,” He voiced out.

“Yes sir,” The main pilot voiced out as the engine of the spacecraft started once more.

They went on to turn around and sped forward.

Zhooooooooonnn~

Gustav had been gone for over three days but it wasn’t until Gradier Xanatus arrived at space before the planet was spotted.

Before they could approach, the planet began moving. No one understood the dynamics of this as it was moving just as fast as a spacecraft despite its size.

Even with that, the planet should be affected by moving at such a speed, yet it was still in a good condition according to the reports of the space agency inspecting all the way from earth.

The advantage a spacecraft had over the planet was being able to enter wormholes without issues due to size. The ones created by the MBO that would make them travel faster could not expand to the size of the planet so it couldn’t travel as fast as the spacecraft.

However some wormholes were still getting generated from its speed and it would be unaffected in the slightest even after going through those ones.

It took some time but the spacecraft Gradier Xanatus was within began to catch up to the planet.

Chapter 1035 A Goddess

A massive blazing spherical structure could be seen moving at very insane speed. One couldn't actually tell how the the planet looked from this direction due to how much it was blazing intensely but for some reason this blaze wasn't even damaging the planet.

"I need to find out if the kid is still alive..." Gradier Xanatus voiced as stood in a part of the spacecraft while checking out the planet from afar.

"Can we get a scope in that would get a picture of the planet in closer range?" Gradier Xanatus questioned.

"Have you thought of a name though?" Gustav voiced out while laying on a bed of flowers.

"Nope," Miss Aimee who was laying right beside him responded with an unbothered tone.

“Want to help come up with a name?” She proceeded to question him.

“Nah, I’m bad with names. Maybe you should name it after yourself... Aimee Planet has a good ring to it,” Gustav voiced in response.

“You weren’t kidding when you said you were bad with names,” Miss Aimee said while shaking her head.

Gustav proceeded to shrug casually as he stared at the beautiful scenario of large flying creatures playing in the sky.

“So you’re basically a god now?” Gustav voiced out with an astonished tone.

“Goddess... hmm the term seems too religious but I’ll take it,” Miss Aimee said in response.

“But hey, don’t you think people of earth will be worried with the planet getting closer to earth?” Gustav said with a slightly troubled tone.

“Nah I won’t get too close... it will still be as far away as the Sun is from Neptune... and then I’ll position my own sun in the other direction,” Miss Aimee stated.

“How long will that take?” Gustav inquired.

"In half a day we should get there," Miss Aimee responded.

"You wanna eat something?" She proceeded to ask.

"Nah I'm good... hold on," A thought appeared in Gustav's mind as he sat up and turned to stare at Miss Aimee.

"You can create anything... that means you can create food too but what happens when I eat the food you create? Will it serve its original purpose or disappear after reaching a particular point within my body?" Gustav questioned with a serious look that nearly had Miss Aimee Cackling.

"I have no Idea actually... I haven't tested that since I don't feel the need to eat anymore to stay alive," Miss Aimee responded with a clueless look.

"Hmm, does this make you the strongest Mixedblood now?" Gustav questioned.

"Maybe, maybe not... I can tell Jack was holding back in his fight against me the last time because both our strengths was capable of causing the earth irreparable damage if the fight went on so i have never fought him at full strength even back then.

I never knew the full extent of his strength and he never knew mine that time but I have a feeling he might have been slightly stronger... just a hunch tho..." Miss Aimee stated out.

“But I am a whole lot more powerful than I used to be... I am no longer a normal Mixedblood again since what happened, still... I can’t assume I am stronger if I never knew his full strength,” She added.

Gustav had a look of contemplation as he heard that...

“If you’re stronger now, you may have ruined some things for me,” Gustav muttered.

“Huh? You cheeky brat you should take pride in the fact that your teacher is the strongest,” Miss Aimee voiced out before grabbing his left cheek and pulling it.

“Ouch, ow, ow,”

“How am I ruining things for you by getting stronger you dollophead?”

“No no I meant oh wonderful great master I am delighted at your newfound power,”

“That sounded so fake,”

Miss Aimee pulled on Gustav’s cheek even more and tackled him to the ground before sitting on him.

Gustav was unable to free himself for a long time despite trying to wriggle away like a snake.

After a bit they both started laughing again and one could tell that they had both genuinely missed each other despite not saying it outright.

“Does this mean you’ll never step foot on earth again since you have your own planet now?” Gustav questioned.

“Since my body integrated with the infection, I retained the positivities but got rid of the negativities... The earth will no longer be uncondusive for me... Maybe I’ll visit every once in a while,” Miss Aimee said with a contemplative expression.

“That would be nice,” A smile appeared on Gustav’s face as he stated.

“So how does it feel to be a Goddess...?”

While the earth was reeling in fear and disaster of the incoming planet, Miss Aimee and Gustav were here chatting and laughing unbothered.

Hours later Gustav was sitting by a corner meditating and channeling his bloodline. At least that was what he told Miss Aimee when what he was actually doing was checking some stats.

[Quests]

<Locate Dimension six in planet Humbad>

[Duration]

<Five years>

[Progress]

<39.80/100%>

<2 Years>

...

<Become The Most Powerful Mixedblood On Earth>

[Duration]

<Five years>

[Progress]

<34/100%>

[Time Elapsed]

<2 Years>

...

'How has it not changed?' Gustav wondered internally as he stared at his strength progress.

He was expecting it to have reduced since Miss Aimee had gotten to such a level of power which was why he mentioned earlier that she may have ruined things for him.

'Does this mean Miss Aimee is still weaker than Jack?' Gustav felt it didn't make sense because no matter how Miss Aimee tried to downplay her strength nobody else in the history of Mixedbloods had managed to create their own planet.

It was no small feat and he had also been in the presence of both of them so he could sense an unfathomable level of power that wasn't present initially in Miss Aimee and never present in Jack.

'Hold on... she mentioned something about not being a normal mixedblood again after integrating with the ashy infection,' This thought began to circulate in Gustav's mind.

'Does this mean... The stats don't count Miss Aimee as a Mixedblood anymore so there are no changes?'

("Looks like you figured it out,") The system suddenly voiced in his mind.

'So I'm right?' Gustav stated.

("Partly... there are two reasons why Miss Aimee's new found strength did not affect the stats... First she's a different type of Mixedblood after the integration with the ashy infection... secondly she created her own planet so that practically means she's no longer an earthling...") The system explained.

'I guess that makes sense...' Gustav responded internally.

He heaved a sigh of relief after this whole realisation. His progress wasn't affected and won't be except Jack suddenly got a huge boost in strength.

The thing about being weaker was the fact that his improvement rate was faster than theirs because the stronger they became the harder it was to advance.

They were the strongest in the entire galaxy and even across the universe Miss Aimee and Jack had always been considered amongst one of the strongest.

Gustav was ecstatic about this as well because even though Miss Aimee now had her planet and would be away most of the times, he now had someone on his side who was potentially the most powerful in the world.

This was a huge win for earth as well because Miss Aimee having her own planet wouldn't stop her from protecting earth.

--

A few hours later Gustav opened his eyes as he sensed something. He stood up and turned to look in Miss Aimee's direction.

"Someone is coming," Miss Aimee voiced out as she stood in place.

A blinding bright light covered her in the next instant and she was clad in a long silver outfit. It looked majestic and overbearing as she stood in place like a true deity because that was what she was at the moment.

Gustav who was still awestruck and about to ask who sudden spotted a massive blue glow in the northern skies.

It looked like a massive beam, penetrating the planet's atmosphere from space.

It shot down with intensive destructiveness like it was ready to destroy the planet.

Miss Aimee looked up with a nonchalant expression before raising her hand.

Zhiiiizzhzh~

An invisible saucer like barrier suddenly appeared hundreds of feet above them and blocked the attack.

Bang!

The sound of collision as it hit spread across the vicinity heavily and caused the entire environment to start quaking.

Gustav could feel the immense pressure radiating from the attack and he knew this wasn't the type of battle he could get involved in.

He turned to the side as he sensed something.

"Miss Aimee," He voiced out.

"Don't worry..." Miss Aimee said as she snapped her fingers.

A dome suddenly appeared around Gustav as multiple invisible saucer like barriers appeared all over the vicinity.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

Seven more blueish destructive beams descended from above with instantaneous speed all slamming into the multiple barrier that Miss Aimee had created all across the place.

Chapter 1036 Sudden Attack

Despite all these attacks getting blocked, the speed of the planet's movement had slowed down a little due to its intense power.

Miss Aimee looked upwards and began to float across the air.

Her entire figure was still glowing intensely as she rose into the sky.

"Stop being a bother," She voiced out with a light tone that surprisingly travelled so far, it reached space.

The person responsible for the multiple attack flew across space, following up with the movement of the planet. He heard the voice and his face squeezed up.

He was clad in a blue jacket and hat. His eyes glowed blue completely and his body had a destructive aura oozing from it.

"So you are the one responsible for this? Halt the movement of this planet right now or I will destroy it," He voice out with a loud voice as well from the upper atmosphere of the planet.

"Destroy? You're a million years too young to successfully do so," Miss Aimee's voice travelled out from the planet to space once more.

This Mixedblood who was obviously an Alpha ranked instantly got incensed as he heard that.

“Starlight Enhancement!” He voiced out with a loud voice, causing all the stars within range across space to start oozing out a stream of energy.

These energies flowed towards him from every direction of space as his body glowed up with a more destructive blue aura.

A massive blue circular like beam which looked as gigantic as the Earth’s moon appeared below him.

Zing! Zing! Zing! Zing! Zing!

That wasn’t the end as multiple others appeared as well and surrounded the planet from every corner.

In a few over thirty of them had appeared and one could tell that even a single one of these destructive circular beams was capable of wreaking immense havoc.

“It would be unwise on your part to keep this up. Any further act to damage my planet will be seen as a maliable act and I will not hesitate to destroy you,” Miss Aimee’s calm but very loud voice drifted into space once more.

The Alpha Mixedblood totally ignore her warning and his hand that was raised initially, swung downwards.

Fwwhiii! Fwwhiiii! Fwwhiiii! Fwwhiiii!

All of the moon sized blueish beams hurled down towards Miss Aimee's planet with intense speed, ripping through space as they carried destructive energy along with them.

Miss Aimee Planet suddenly came to a stop at this point as a whitish barrier appeared and surrounded the entirety of the planet that was three times the size of earth.

"As if that's powerful enough to stop my rain of destructive balls," He voiced out as he watched the balls collide with the barrier and let out destructive energy.

Boom!

Boom!

Boom!

Boom!

Booom!

Boom!

Destructive ripples were spread across space upon collision as the massive moon sized beams exploded with intensity.

The man stood in place with a look of gratification as he felt he had handled the situation.

However in the next few moments his eyes widened with a look of disbelief. As the destructive waves cleared, the planet was still whole without even sustaining a single damage.

The barrier that had surrounded it at the last second was not even cracked in the slightest, neither was there a scratch on it.

He couldn't believe his eyes as he stared at the planet.

"Did I suddenly turn weak?" He muttered with a tone of confusion.

"No fool but you're weak against me," He heard a feminine voice from right beside him.

The instant he turned to the side with widened eyes, a hand had already stretched out to grab him by the throat.

“Didn’t I warn you to stop, Fred?” Miss Aimee questioned as her hand tightened around his throat.

“...Ai...mee..?” He had a look of disbelief on his face as he saw who it was.

‘How did she appear beside me without me realising? Isn’t she reported missing? How is she related with this whole emergency situation?’ He had so many questions running through his mind at the moment.

“I have no ties to you so I have no problem in destroying you right now but I am considerate enough to not cut down Earth’s strength so I’ll spare your pathetic life,” Miss Aimee voiced out before letting him go.

He breathed in and out heavily after she had let go of his neck.

‘How did I suddenly lose all my strength the moment she grabbed me? It doesn’t make sense... our strengths weren’t too far apart initially but now it’s like she has unfathomable power,’ This thought ran through Fred’s mind as he pondered on what could be the answer to these his multiple questions.

“Get out of here before I change my mind,” Miss Aimee stated as she began to float downwards towards her planet.

“Wait... please wait,” Fred called out quickly before she was out of sight.

“What is it?” Miss Aimee questioned with an hostile tone.

“No one had any idea that you were responsible for this... they are just worried that this is a threat to earth,” Fred tried explaining.

“No need to be worried... I have almost arrived at my desired destination before you interrupted the journey,” Miss Aimee voiced before flying downwards.

Zwwwheiiii~

She left him floating there with loads of questions still running through his mind. He was really interested in asking her but he knew better than to try and be invasive again after what had just happened.

Fred was considered the third most powerful Mixedblood after Miss Aimee and Jack. It was always debatable about who was more stronger between Miss Aimee and Jack amongst the MBO but Fred was undeniably third place.

However he didn't used to be that much weaker than Miss Aimee even though he was still weaker.

He initially wasn't on earth but he was requested to arrive as soon as possible by the higher ups due to the impending doom they presumed was approaching.

He had reached here as soon as he could especially after he heard Jack was still on a mission several galaxies away and Miss Aimee was still Missing.

Chapter 1037 Overpowered

He was the closest Alpha ranked Mixedblood to earth so he answered the call and got briefed on his way here.

The plan was to halt the planet before it reached Neptune's orbit so earth would be safe and since he was powerful enough to destroy an entire planet like Aimee and the others, this was definitely a mission he was capable of completing successfully.

Unfortunately he had no idea that this was what he was gonna meet here.

Zhiiiiinnn!

The planet began travelling at insanely fast speed again right before his very eyes as he floated in space.

In a few, it had completely disappeared out of sight despite its massive size and how it was blazing intensely.

'Time to head back,' He decided to head back to earth at this point to give them the report.

Fwwwwhoosshhhh~

He turned and flew forward with intense speed as well.

—

"An MBO officer?" Gustav voiced with a slightly disturbed look.

"Yes," Miss Aimee responded as she took her seat outside a small crystalline looking pool she created recently.

"I told you they'd probably be bothered," Gustav voiced out with a frustrated tone.

He had warned Miss Aimee earlier that, at the speed she was moving the planet with the area in space she intended to occupy, the earth would most likely be worried a planet was approaching them.

Miss Aimee shrugged it off mostly because she didn't really care and now this Alpha had incited a battle that caused residue destructive waves to blast him to smithereens.

"Don't worry I handled it," Miss Aimee said with a non challant expression.

"Of course you did... I hope you didn't kill the poor dude," Gustav said while shaking his head.

"I was tempted but nah... I pardoned his weak ass," Miss Aimee responded with a light chuckle.

"You call that weak...?"

Gustav's eyes turned hollow as he voiced out.

"Then what would you call me?" Gustav questioned with a ridiculing tone.

"My baby... the teacher's pet... my apprentice... a super weakling... which one do you prefer?" Miss Aimee questioned.

Gustav; "... 'Fuck you miss Aimee... I'll become strong enough to overpower you one day,'

"Sure, hehe," Miss Aimee responded like she could read Gustav's mind.

-Earth

-“Are you saying the young Miss had been behind this the whole time?”

“Yes, I met her about thirty minutes ago and she protected the planet from all my attacks,”

-“We noticed it stopped for a bit, was that you?”

“She did that herself to face me... I... am not powerful enough to face her,”

-“Is she an hostile?”

-“Has she finally turned against earth?”

-“What exactly is her motive?”

Within a board room will multiple MBO higher ups, Fred could be seen standing in front as he narrated his experience to them.

"She hasn't turned against earth, she has almost reached her destination... the planet should stop moving soon,"

- "So you're saying the planet belongs to her?"

~~~~~`

"So she implied..."

- "We should take this as an attack on earth and deploy forces to stop her right away.

- "I agree, she must have turned and became an enemy of earth now.

- "Gentle men, let's relax a bit, according to Fred she hasn't arrived at her destination,"

- "Will you take responsibility if we decide to wait and eventually she doesn't stop at where she claimed she would?"

- "Will you take responsibility for slow inaction because the earth might get destroyed before we're able to act,"

-“There won’t be any responsibility to take when we’re all dead,”

-“I don’t see any reason why she would want to destroy earth in the first place,”

-“Can we just hold on and find out how long till she arrives at her expected destination?”

-“Let’s take action right away,”

The board room turned rowdy as some of the higher up proposed for action to be taken immediately some decided to stick to waiting.

-“Sirs, I believe the young Miss had never acted nefariously against the earth before so yes she deserves the benefit of the doubt,” Gradier Xanatus who happened to be in the meeting with them, voiced out.

He was allowed to join the meeting as he had been in charge of the investigation since the whole situation began weeks ago.

However since he was still in space, he joined the meeting in holographic format. He was still watching over the planet.

“Officer Xanatus makes a good point,” Fred voiced out as well after seeing the higher ups argue all this time.

Internally there was a reluctance building up especially after seeing how powerful Miss Aimee was. He knew her personality all too well so he knew that if she was coming to destroy earth she wouldn’t hide it.

She would say it confidently that she wanted to do that because she wasn’t the type to fear anyone or lie about anything. It would be a grave mistake if they were to cross her with how powerful she was at the moment.

Fred was a bit disappointed about the higher ups because their thoughts right now should be on how to make her more of an ally instead of a foe.

-“Officer Xanatus, do you have eyes on the planet at the moment?”

“Yes I do,” Gradier Xanatus responded.

-“And how fast is it moving?”

Gradier Xanatus went on to reply them with the data.

-“And that doesn’t ring bells to some of you? She obviously has the intension of destroying us all for unknown reasons,”

-“We need to act right now so earth doesn’t suffer any crippling damage,”

The higher ups began to argue again about which step to take and they decided, more apha ranked Mixedbloods will be sent to stall the planet’s movement while more troops are gathered to take Miss Aimee down.

Since Jack was currently unavailable they had to gather multiple Alpha ranked to match his strength. They still didn’t believe Miss Aimee was stronger even after Fred’s narration.

“Sirs...” Gradier Xanatus suddenly interrupted their planning.

-“What is it officer Xanatus?”

“The planet is slowing down,” He voiced out.

-“Huh? Are you sure?”

Chapter 1038 Unkillable

“Yes, it’s slowing down at the moment and it’s still at least a thousand light years away from Neptune’s orbit. It’s sun which was also travelling is two thousand light years behind it and is also slowing down,” Gradier Xanatus reported.

“Turns out the young Miss was saying the truth when she mentioned she would soon arrive at her destination,” Gradier Xanatus pointed out as he noticed the awkward expression on the faces of the higher ups.

He didn’t care and just wanted to point out more things so as to leave them embarrassed about the fact that would have made stupidly drastic decisions under the guise of protecting earth.

-“Keep watching the planet and report to us the moment it comes to a stop,”

One of them voiced out.

“Yes sir,” Gradier Xanatus responded respectfully.

After a few more minutes the whole meeting ended and they decided to watch out for when the planet would stop moving.

Gradier Xanatus stood in his spacecraft as he heaved a sigh of relief. The spacecraft was moving at the same pace with Miss Aimee’s planet at the moment.

They were keeping a safe distance away but Gradier Xanatus still made sure to keep eyes on them.

“This means the kid is probably still alive...” Gradier Xanatus muttered with a look of relief.

With how Fred had narrated the whole scenario with Miss Aimee, Gradier Xanatus was sure she wouldn’t let Gustav just die like that especially in a situation that she was related with.

“You’re truly unkillable kid,” At this point Gradier Xanatus just had to accept it.

Gustav had been in so many life or death situations and no matter how much the favor was against him, he always managed to come out alive.

Gradier Xanatus just hoped that whatever charm or luck was working for Gustav kept working because there was no doubt that he would be in more crazier and dangerous situations in the future.

*****

-Earth

“I can actually spot it from here,”

“Me too,”

“It looks like a daystar,”

“The MBO is definitely doing something about it so we don’t have to worry,”

A group of five could be seen sitting atop a mountain discussing with one another.

In the southern skies, a shining dot in the sky was visible. It seemed like this was the planet they had mentioned was approaching in the news.

“I’m surprised it’s not just a moving planet but a moving sun as well... we should be seeing two dots then but it’s just one. Who knows which one is visible rn,” Falco voiced out.

“I’m guessing it’s the Sun... According to what I’ve heard, it’s twice the size of ours and four times hotter so definitely it will be shinning brighter across space,” Matilda stated.

“I know this is interesting and all but I can’t wait for the next raid... it’s fun to be out in the field once again,” Teemee voiced out with a look of anticipation.

~~~~~

"I know this is interesting and all but I can't wait for the next raid... it's fun to be out in the field once again," Teemee voiced out with a look of anticipation.

"I will smash those Genxodus fuckers hahaha!" Ria yelled out with a fired up tone.

"Shut up and stick to the team next time, we were almost killed because of you last time," Teemee said while landing his fist on Ria's head.

"Ouch! I just wanted to get rid of them," Ria said with a low tone.

"Stick to the formation and plan so they don't see our group as useless," Falco voiced out as well.

"The next should be the last raid in this city... there's nowhere else to check for now," Maltida said with a contemplative expression.

"Vera, you still have our backs during the raids right?" Teemee questioned.

"Sure," Vera responded with a slightly disinterested tone.

They had been on this mission for about a week already and since the time of the start, they had been going on raids with other MBO groups.

The MBO had received intelligent information about a location where some members of the Genxodus group seen as Slarkovs terrorists were conducting an operation.

Since they arrived in this city, they had been conducting raids and flushing them. The MBO had stated that they preferred for the members to be captured alive but if killing was the only option available due to getting in precarious situations, they could take the action.

However it was stated that you got more points for getting them alive instead of killing them. So far, Teemee, Falco and the others had managed to get a couple of Genxodus members alive.

This was very difficult as every member had sophisticated pieces of technological suit that wasn't in the market. These pieces were unique and made their combat power and strength levels increase by a whole lot.

Slarkovs were similar in strength to humans but these suits made them capable of going toe to toe with Mixedbloods so the raid had been rather difficult and there had been multiple crazy scenarios.

It was confirmed that this was a Slarkov terrorist group as every single member they had come into contact with was a Slarkov. The aim of this group remained to eradicate the Mixedbloods on earth so it was impossible for the MBO to reason with them without a scuffle breaking out.

It was like the members had been brainwashed because every single one of them had immense hate for Mixedbloods and would rather die than to leave them alive.

So far more than a hundred of their members had been captured and over two hundred killed. Even with this numbers, the intelligence the MBO received stated that there were at least ten times more.

Some of the major problems was not knowing the main base of this group and how they recruited members. Red Shadow, Gradier Xanatus and Gustav who were amongst the first to encounter this group were sure they didn't have high numbers at the time.

Now the MBO intelligence had revealed that they were now numbering in the thousands according to an interrogation.

Chapter 1039 Raiding Genxodus Members

There was no doubt that Slarkovs and even humans existed with deep hate for Mixedbloods mostly because those without bloodlines are seen as lower lifeforms. The issue now was how were they getting recruited.

What secret channel were the Genxodus using to get across to potential Slarkovs and turn them into members.

No one seemed to have figured this out yet and the world government as well as the MBO knew well enough that the longer it took to weed them out the more this group would grow in numbers.

The population of Slarkovs and humans were not so high compared to mixedbloods, they merely managed to occupy ten percent of the world's population but if that ten percent managed to band together with the crazy advantage in technology they had, it would be a great issue.

It was already difficult to weed them out now that they weren't so high in population, one could wonder how insane it would be if they all came together.

"Should we join them on the next raiding mission after this one?" Matilda questioned with a curious tone.

"As interesting as that would be, I don't think we get to pick our next mission ourselves," Falco responded while shaking his head.

"Gustav said something about how we needed to complete this mission properly so he could add us to his platoon," Teemee stated.

"Maybe after we do this and successfully get added into his platoon we could ask him to get us assigned for this type of mission again," Matilda voiced out.

"Or we could do it with the full squad including my rival," Ria added as well.

Vera eyes beamed up with interest as she heard Gustav's name getting added to the conversation.

"According to what I've heard from the other groups, he was involved when the whole thing started so it wouldn't make any less sense if he decided to get involved," Falco stated.

“Didn’t he mentioned he was going to be busy with something though?” Teemee questioned with a contemplative expression.

“Also IYSOP training is starting in a month from now so we can’t be involved in this till the end,” Matilda voiced out with a tone of realisation as well.

Vera’s expression turned sour once more as she heard that. They were lucky every single one of them got drafted for IYSOP so they could still work together in that aspect too.

However, according to what they heard, there were still more than hundred potential candidates being drafted from all across the world, not just from the MBO.

At the end of the day, they would still have to defend their spots to be on the main team or being a substitute would split them up.

“Group twenty four, gather in base for the next raid briefing, t minus two minutes,” A voice suddenly called out to them from behind.

Everyone stood to their feet after hearing this and turned around.

“Let’s go,”

-Mendologas Planet

“You all did well,”

A man in dark jacket reaching the back of his heel voice out to a group of seven standing behind a small mountain.

A large spacecraft as tall as a three storey building could be seen stationed up ahead and a group of MBO officers could be seen placing a silver colored circular object into a container.

“But they’re both dead,” Angy voiced with a slightly disturbed tone.

“It doesn’t matter. If they were already corrupted, without killing the Mendologas responsible its impossible to free their minds and you fledglings are too weak to handle a true elder, talk more of two,” The man responded brushing aside the fact that there were two bodies laying on the ground by the side.

These two bodies belonged to a male and female and it was obvious that they were both dead.

One had a hole in the chest and the other had been decapitated.

"It's a pity... if there was any other method we would have taken it but since this was the only way out, there was really nothing we could do," Aildris voiced with a slightly sympathetic tone.

These two were none other than the other two left from the team sent on this mission before them. Unfortunately now the entire team had been wiped out because of the initial situation.

"Hand it over, right now," Jade yelled out with her hand wrapped around Aildris neck.

Aildris stared directly at Angy at this point and didn't utter a word anymore.

"Don't do anything stupid or you won't be able to save them both," Jade shouted out once more.

"...I could care less about what happens to Glade,"

Jade was unable to process what had just happened as she the voice she just heard sounded right beside her ear.

Swooosshhh~

It came with a burst of wind.

The instant she turned to the side she spotted Angy standing right beside her but Angy was not just standing in place. Her right hand was stretched forward.

“Bleergghh!” Jade vomited out a mouthful of blood onto Angy as she slowly stared down the hand that was halfway through her chest.

She subconsciously let go of Aildris as the reality finally hit her. They were unaware that someone in this group was capable of moving so fast.

Angy literally speed blitz her. Angy could move at over three hundred thousand feet in a second with her normal speed and they were only about twenty feet away.

This meant Angy was able to arrive right beside her in practically an instant. No one was able to follow Angy’s speed.

The other officer instantly got the cue and tried to shatter Glade’s windpipe but at the same moment the whole ruckus was caused by Angy a ring like vortex had appeared around his neck.

E.E had been secretly preparing this with his fingers swirling behind him so the moment Angy made her move, he allowed it appear.

Zhiiiiiiiiinnnn~

The vortex shrunk and in the next instant, the other male officer had been decapitated.

Chapter 1040 Angy's First Kill

Angy turned to the side and noticed that Glade was still alive.

'She got lucky this time,' Angy said internally as she turned to face E.E next.

"Good of you to save her ass," Angy said before swinging her arm around to get the blood off.

"What? Did you run all the way there without knowing I was gonna act?" E.E questioned with a suspicious look.

"It was either her or Aildris and you know who I chose," Angy responded while shrugging.

Glade had a weird look on her face as she heard that. She was speechless and felt a kind of intense hate from Angy towards her.

She had no idea why this was the case but at the very least she was glad E.E saved her.

“What was that all about?” Captain Spark could feel the weird vibe in the air after the situation was resolved.

They all ignored his question and Angy proceeded to move back towards the group as Davidson made a call to the Generals.

While it looked like she was okay on the surface, Angy was holding in the urge to puke.

‘It feels worse than i imagined... phew phew phew its gonna be fine... it was to protect my loved ones...’
She kept chanting internally as her right arm trembled from time to time.

The first person to arrive where they were on the planet was Mack.

—————

“Does this mean we’ve completed the mission?” Davidson questioned.

“Yes... leave the rest to me kids,” Mack voiced out as he took a step forward.

Fwwhiiiiihhh~

He suddenly dissappeared from their sight.

“Finally,... now we can head back,” E.E voiced as he let out a sigh of relief.

They all moved into the spacecraft in the new few moments and it took off into the skies.

They were lucky Mack had arrived the time he die because the Mendologas had clocked in on their position at the checkpoint and were approaching in droves.

However the moment Mack arrived, his presence caused them to pause in theri tracks. The only item they had as leverage against him and against their planet falling were now in the hands of the MBO.

They really had nothing to use against Mack who was more powerful than every Mendologa elder on the planet.

Mendologas were considered pretty strong in the universe but compared to earth with powerfully Mixedbloods like Jack and Miss Aimee they really didn't stand a chance.

They had breached the treaty that practically protected them from the invasion of more powerful planets with their initial actions so they couldn't call for help.

Earth had every right to do whatever they wanted to the planet since they didn't start the whole situation.

E.E and the others no longer had any business here. Mack and the others would handle taking over the planet and subjecting its people.

They had played their parts, although not without casualties, they were free to head back now.

It had been a week since they were gone and it would take another three days of journeying before they got back to earth.

They were unaware of Earth's current situation with the whole new planet issue but they would find out sooner or later.

"So this is where I get off I guess," Gustav voiced out as he looked around.

The scenery was a whole lot better than before. A few cat like animals moving about, lushy green fields and sparkling pool like lakes.

The clouds looked more beautiful than Earth's and Gustav couldn't help but admit the air here was fresher than that of Earth's as well.

"Now that you can create life... do you plan on create any human lifeforms?" Gustav questioned.

“Not at all,” Miss Aimee replied as she walked out of one of the lakes.

Her entire body dripped of wetness as the white robes like cloth she was clad in, glued to her body.

Any man that stared at Miss Aimee at this point with her beautiful but cold face and her glamorous looking body would definitely gulp down saliva.

Her majestic bearing and alluring body was immensely hot but Gustav being Gustav stared at her with an unbothered expression.

“I do plan to create other lifeforms but aside copying the looks of animals from earth, i won’t be copying any other lifeforms...” Miss Aimee voiced out once more.

“It will take some time before I achieve what I have in mind but nonetheless I will visit earth from time to time and maybe even protect those idiots when they need my help,” She added.

“I have to get off here... I have things to get back to... on earth,” Gustav listed out with a tone of difficulty.

“Why the rush?” Miss Aimee questioned.

“Earth is still a bit distant from here and I have spent longer time away than I intended to...”

Miss Aimee cut Gustav off before he could finish.

“They should be arriving at any moment so no need to rush, we’ll go together,” She stated.

“Who?” As Gustav threw this question out the answer appeared in his mind.

“The MBO?” He voiced out next.

“They’re here already,” Miss Aimee stated in response.

Gustav eyes squinted as he wasn’t sensing anything from his surroundings but after a minute he stared at the Eastern sky.

Zhooonnn~ Zhooooon~ Zhooonnn~

Several spacecraft suddenly appeared in the skies, moving towards their location.

“Are you ready to go home now,” Miss Aimee said with a smile as she turned to stare at Gustav.

Minutes later Gustav and Miss Aimee were on their way back to earth. The MBO officers had politely asked Miss Aimee for a audience on earth according to the MBO higher ups.

She wanted to use this opportunity to see Earth once more before she went back to focusing on developing her planet.

She left a barrier surrounding her planet in the meantime just in case anyone tried anything shady while she was away.

She would sense it the moment there was an issue.