

Bloodline 1041

Chapter 1041 Back On Planet Earth

"I just knew you'd be okay kid," Gradier Xanatus voiced out within the spacecraft.

He had a look of relief now that he had truly confirmed Gustav was alive.

Gradier Xanatus was amongst the officers sent to humbly request Miss Aimee's visit to earth and his spacecraft was specifically the one bringing them back at the moment.

"You did a lousy job of keeping him safe," Miss Aimee voiced out from the other end.

Gradier Xanatus froze in place as he heard that.

"Erm young Miss, Gustav is quite the trouble finder... he never listens," Gradier Xanatus explained.

"I would have shred earth to its very last atoms if anything had happened to him," Miss Aimee voiced with a nonchalant look.

Her tone didn't sound very serious but Gradier Xanatus was well aware of how she nearly destroyed Burning Sands City because Gustav was missing. They knew just how capable she was especially now that she was way more powerful than before.

"It's nobody's fault except mine. He tried his best but yes like he said, I wanted to investigate the situation despite its danger because I could sense a connection... and I was right," Gustav voiced out, trying to calm Miss Aimee.

They glided through space for less than an hour before arriving back on earth. By the time they did, it was already nightfall.

There were tons of MBO officials awaiting their arrival the moment they landed. It had already spread all across the MBO that the person responsible for the new planet was Miss Aimee.

The world government had not made it public yet because they still wanted to have a meeting with Miss Aimee before they could decide on how to proceed with things.

—

The meeting began almost instantly and Gustav had to wait in a secluded area as he wasn't allowed to participate. It was only for MBO higher ups and about two world government leaders were present at this particular location.

Gustav didn't mind staying out of it because he knew Miss Aimee would be able to handle any situation herself.

This meeting was taking place within the MBO tower in Plankton City so Gustav decided to move around after a while.

"Officer Crimson," Someone called out to him while he was walking along a corridor.

"Yes?" Gustav responded while turning around.

"There's someone looking for you," The female officer who called out to him stated.

"Huh?"

"Actually they've been looking for you for the past three days now but you were off planet so I asked him to wait,"

"Who?"

— — —

Within the board room where the meeting was going down, questions were being thrown out occasionally.

"Just relax oldies, my planet poses no threat to earth. It will maintain its current distance from earth and there will never be a confrontation in the future," Miss Aimee voiced while rolling her eyes.

-“How did you manage to achieve such a feat?”

-“Will you still be a part of the MBO?”

“If you’re asking if I would still protect earth when it’s necessary then nothing to worry about. My planet and earth will be allies,” Miss Aimee voiced out.

-“How about letting earth commandeer your planet? We’ll share the resources it has to offer,”

SILENCEEEEE~

“What did you just say?”

A sudden powerful pressure suddenly descended upon the entire place as Miss Aimee voiced out.

~~~~~

“What did you just say?”

A sudden powerful pressure suddenly descended upon the entire place as Miss Aimee voiced out.

Ghbbbbbllllllhhhh~

The entire MBO tower began quaking intensely as this pressure radiated from Miss Aimee, causing every single person to stare at her with looks of reverence.

-“Well... Erm... Your planet...”

The higher up Officer who had just voiced that out stuttered he felt the immense pressure radiating from Miss Aimee.

They would usually not fear her since Jack power was undoubtedly seen as the highest in the past but now it seemed like a different case.

The majestic and ethereal aura Miss Aimee gave off was truly like being in the presence of a deity. If she could create a planet now, no doubt she could make everyone here disappear in an instant if she wanted to.

She was practically on par with Jack at the Alpha rank and now she had achieved the Beacon Rank.

What they didn't know was Miss Aimee was really restraining her presence at this point and releasing it fully would cause the destruction of earth in an instant.

-“I think what Grand General Kurtis meant to say was Earth would very much like to be in acquaintance with your planet,”

One of the higher ups quickly voiced out with a respectful tone, causing Miss Aimee to calm down.

“Better... I like the sound of acquaintances,” Miss Aimee said before standing to her feet.

“This meeting is over,” She stated before proceeding to walking towards the exit.

The higher ups sat in place for minutes with looks of relief on their faces as some of them bashed the other higher up.

-“Grand general Kurtis are you crazy?”

-“Instead of showing Earth's selfishness why don't you come up with better cooperation ideas,”

-“She created a planet and is practically a Goddess now, best not to try and piss her off,”

Grand General Kurtis had a disgusted look as he heard them speak, 'Hypocrites... didn't you all agree to attack her planet a few hours ago.

Miss Aimee had left to go look for Gustav at this point while the rest of the MBO officers within the tower were left to wonder why the entire building was quaking a while ago.

—

"Hmm, so you just need me to sign some documents?" Gustav questioned.

"Yes or I'll be put back in camp till I reach the age of 16," Endric responded.

"I denounced the Oslov name though so legally we're not related," Gustav reminded.

"Then you can act as a guardian... please," Endric begged.

"...okay," Gustav finally gave in and collected the required documents from Endric.

It took a couple of minutes for him to finish but he proceeded to pass them to Endric afterwards.

Chapter 1042 Terrible Omen

"Thank you," Endric voiced in response after retrieving them.

It turned out Endric had been in the tower waiting for Gustav's return since he left on the mission off planet. Since he was an MBO cadet and Gustav's little brother he was very much allowed to wait here.

"Alright then we're done here," Gustav voiced out as he turned around to leave.

"I got something of yours recently," Endric stated before Gustav could take a step.

"Hmm?" Gustav muttered as he turned around.

"It's yours but you can't use it just yet," Endric added.

"Then what's the point?" Gustav questioned.

"Just come with me..." Endric voiced out as a glowing green dot appeared on his forehead.

"To where?" Gustav questioned.

“Husarius,” Endric called out and a bright green glow engulfed them in the next instant.

Miss Aimee who was approaching this area from the south spotted a glimpse of Gustav and Endric before they disappeared.

“Oh? Two two fixed their relationship?” She voiced with a tone of amusement.

“He really has grown in every aspect... especially mentally,” A smile appeared on her face as she muttered.

The Gustav she knew would not let Endric be within five steps of him and both of them would always be trying to kill each other.

If would seem Gustav could let go of past grudges and she felt this was another thing that made him different from her since she couldn’t do the same.

---

“Where is this?” Gustav asked as they appeared in an unknown plane.

All that could be seen was darkness and green glowing strides all around. However up ahead Gustav spotted a golden platted armor resembling a vest floating in mid air.

This vest oozed forth with a type of energy that caused this space to quake occasionally. Gustav could tell that it was sealed yet it was immensely powerful.

“That is the Cosmic Armor said to be amongst the most powerful armors in the universe with multiple boons attached to it,” Endric voiced out.

“For hundreds of thousands of years beings from all across the universe have been trying to acquire it so they could use its power... it is overly powerful and in the hands of the wrong person can cause great havoc. I managed to acquire it recently with Husarius help of course after a difficult and dangerous travel to another dimension,” Endric explained.

“Hmm and you say it’s mine?” Gustav questioned as he moved closer to it.

“Yes it is yours... As you probably already know, you’re not in anyway normal. Your existence is a very abnormal one and despite this armor existing for as long as it has, it does belong to you,” Endric responded.

Gustav stepped forward and stood right beneath the floating armor.

“But I can’t use it,” Gustav stated.

“No, not right now you can’t,” Endric replied.

"It's too powerful for me and I'd probably be blown to bits if I tried to equip it," Gustav voiced out.

"Precisely," Endric responded.

"*sigh* As expected..." Gustav raised his left palm as recalled Cohilia.

Cohilia's power was still trapped within him and he was unable to access it despite them saying the power belonged to him.

"So how many more items are left to acquire?" Gustav also recalled that there were supposed to be more of his things scattered across the universe.

~~~~~

"Four more... that's as much as I can tell you for now. I can't give you any more info beyond that," Endric clarified after answering before Gustav could respond.

"Sure sure," Gustav stated as he raised his hand to touch the armor.

"Nice place you got here kid,"

A feminine voice suddenly resounded from behind.

Gustav paused as he heard that and turned around.

“Miss Aimee?” He voiced with a tone of disbelief.

“How did you get here?” No one was more surprised than Endric.

This was a space created by Husarius and even as a crystal Husarius was so powerful due to the sacrifice of all his kinsmen. This place practically existed in a private dimension.

“Doesn’t matter,” Miss Aimee stated as she moved forward.

Zhinn~

A green glowing crystal phased out of Endric’s forehead in the next instant and floated to Miss Aimee’s front.

"This one is no longer a normal being... her existence has surpassed the threshold of every supernatural existence on earth.... and this isn't even her highest potential. She has the capacity to become even more powerful than this..." Husaruis voiced out lengthily as it floated in front of Miss Aimee.

'...Its too bad she's...'

"What are you supposed to be?" Miss Aimee said with an intrigued tone as she stared at the floating talking crystal.

"That's Husarius... he used to have a body and be a... its a long story but he is in league with Endric and he revealed a bit to me about my true identity," Gustav voiced out.

"True identity? You've really been holding out on me eh kid?" Miss Aimee responded with a suspicious tone.

"I've been out of camp for months but you were awol... if not I would have told you everything," Gustav said while shrugging his shoulders.

"What is that?" Miss Aimee questioned with a curious tone while pointing at the armor.

"It's very powerful," She added while scrutinizing it's appearance.

“It is said to be amongst the most powerful tools in the universe and according to them, it belongs to me but I can’t equip it just yet,” Gustav stated in response.

“Uhuh another thing you’ve gotta tell me in great detail... at least you and the other kid are getting along now,” Miss Aimee stated after arriving beside Gustav.

“We’re not... he’s not... it’s just a necessary partnership,” Gustav voiced out.

“Oh is it now?” A smirk appeared on her face as Miss Aimee questioned.

Endric was turned into a third wheel here as Gustav and Miss Aimee began to argue back and forth with each other.

“Are they fated?” Endric questioned.

“Intertwining fates yes... but I sense a terrible omen,” Husarius tone sounded heavy as he spouted out.

Chapter 1043 Low Chances

“What do you mean?” Endric said with a troubled tone.

“Something has changed... a tide has been triggered and we are now arriving at an intersection that branches in different paths... only one of these paths leads to a future without tragedy... as for the others... not so much. While some are not filled with so much tragic events, just a single tragic event could cause so much catastrophe in his life which could eventually lead to a dark awakening..." Husaruis voiced out lengthily.

"Its confusing," Endric stated in response.

"The fates always are..." Husaruis heaved a low sigh.

"What are the chances of following the path without any tragic event?" Endric questioned.

"A few minutes ago... it was 0.3% but it has decreased even further now... it's 0.1 and it keeps decreasing by the minute..." Husarius answered.

"WHAT?" Endric could not help but voice out in shock.

"What is it?" Gustav voiced out as he turned around with a confused look.

"Keep it from him or anyone else or the situation will worsen," Husarius quickly cautioned.

"Oh nothing I was just practicing for something," Endric voiced in response.

Gustav's eyebrows creased as he heard that. His face shown a look that made it seem like he was saying 'A bit weird to be practising such in a place like this' but Gustav brushed it off and turned back around to keep observing the armor.

"What is causing this? There must be a reason why it keeps decreasing," Endric questioned with a low but concerned tone.

"There is but I haven't figured it out... If I was to guess I'd say it must be the same thing that caused multiple future branches to appear... originally there were only two paths but now there are more than ten of them... whatever caused the branches to increase is also reducing the possibility of following the non tragic path," Husarius explained.

"What can we do about it?" Endric asked.

"For now, wait. One thing about the fates is, the more you try to influence according to your desired outcome the worse its most likely to become... There are beings in the universe such as myself capable of not just connecting with the fates but tampering with them as well but we all make sure to refrain from doing so because there will always be an inescapable future consequence," Husarius voiced in response.

"I'll keep checking for now so just wait until I have something for you... but I must ask you... are you ready to get your hands bloody for the sake of your brother?" Husarius questioned.

Endric stared at Gustav from behind at this point as memories began playing in his mind. Playing as kids to growing up as enemies and him really being amongst the villains in his big brother's life.

"I have failed him in the past... I will do everything to atone for all the wrong I have committed. So long as I am able to keep him safe and away from pain I'll do anything. He has suffered enough already," Endric said with a sentimental tone.

"Hmm... alright then. Prepare yourself because you might have to do some really troublesome things to keep that motive," Husarius added.

"Hnm." Endric nodded in response.

'Hey when am I going to be strong enough to Equip this?' Gustav questioned internally.

("You'd have to be close to the Alpha rank...") The system responded.

'Damn... that's still very far away... Is there even any item I own that I can use with my current level of strength?' Gustav questioned.

("Hmm just one,") The system replied.

'Which is?' Gustav questioned once more.

("Good try... you know I can't reveal that until we arrive at the time frame where they are recovered one after the other,") The system responded.

Gustav; 'Tch,'

"Let's go," Gustav voiced out as he turned around.

"Too bad you won't be able to make use of it in the meantime but it's gonna destroy this dimension eventually cos this place is not strong enough to hold it," Miss Aimee voiced out.

"Hmm? I can sense the space trembling as well," Gustav paused his movement as he turned around once more.

"It needs to stay here till you're strong enough to Equip it or every single crazy being looking for it all across the universe will come after it. Its like putting a target on our backs cos it let's off a signature energy that will help them in pinpointing its location," Endric explained.

"Hmm I see," Miss Aimee said with a tone of understanding as she snapped her fingers.

Pah!

An invisible field of energy was instantly erected around the armour.

Gustav instantly sensed the powerful energy spreading from the armor decrease drastically.

"I just put a barrier around it... This space will be able to hold it without problems now," Miss Aimee voiced out.

"Oh, nice," Gustav exclaimed before turning around once more.

"I'm participating in IYSOP... I'll join you in retrieving the rest or at least help," Gustav said as he approached Endric.

"That would be a great help but I believe you have some other matters to attend to after IYSOP... there are other things you have to scour the intergalactic space for but if you can help, there will be one where I will require your assistance," Endric statement made it seem like he knew everything about Gustav's plans even though Gustav hadn't mentioned anything to him.

'He definitely knows about my five years quest,' Gustav thought.

("The crystal... Husarius knows everything so its normal that Endric does as well,") The system responded.

"Which one am I supposed to join you in retrieving?" Gustav questioned.

“I’ll tell you when the time comes... You need to be with your entire team too. When the time comes they will be of great help and receive some boosts known as the entitlement. As the time candidate I need to make sure everything goes according to plan. That is my duty,” Endric said with a decisive tone.

Chapter 1044 You Wanna Add Me To Your Platoon?

Gustav had no doubt about Endric being on his side at this point.

Everything that had been happening so far along with the system and Husarius also making some revelations proved that Endric was committed to helping him prepare for whatever was to come.

The kid had truly become capable in the past year.

At the same time Gustav could sense that Endric was closing in on the third step of Echo rank which was pretty strong and fast.

‘How powerful do I have to become before I can Equip the armor?’ Gustav questioned internally.

(“You’d have to be close to the Alpha rank...”) The system responded.

‘Damn... that’s still very far away... Is there even any item I own that I am can use with my current level of strength?’ Gustav questioned.

("Hmm just one,") The system replied.

'Which is?' Gustav questioned once more.

("Good try... you know I can't reveal that until we arrive at the time frame where they are recovered one after the other,") The system responded.

Gustav; 'Tch,'

"Let's go," Gustav voiced out as he turned around.

"Too bad you won't be able to make use of it in the meantime but it's gonna destroy this dimension eventually cos this place is not strong enough to hold it," Miss Aimee voiced out.

"Hmm? I can sense the space trembling as well," Gustav paused his movement as he turned around once more.

"It needs to stay here till you're strong enough to Equip it or every single crazy being looking for it all across the universe will come after it. Its like putting a target on our backs cos it let's off a signature energy that will help them in pinpointing its location," Endric explained.

"Hmm I see," Miss Aimee said with a tone of understanding as she snapped her fingers.

Pah!

An invisible field of energy was instantly erected around the armour.

Gustav instantly sensed the powerful energy spreading from the armor decrease drastically.

"I just put a barrier around it... This space will be able to hold it without problems now," Miss Aimee voiced out.

"Oh, nice," Gustav exclaimed before turning around once more.

"I'm participating in IYSOP... I'll join you in retrieving the rest or at least help," Gustav said as he approached Endric.

"That would be a great help but I believe you have some other matters to attend to after IYSOP... there are other things you have to scour the intergalactic space for but if you can help, there will be one where I will require your assistance," Endric statement made it seem like he knew everything about Gustav's plans even though Gustav hadn't mentioned anything to him.

'He definitely knows about my five years quest,' Gustav thought.

("The crystal... Husarius knows everything so its normal that Endric does as well,") The system responded.

"Which one am I supposed to join you in retrieving?" Gustav questioned.

"I'll tell you when the time comes... You need to be with your entire team too. When the time comes they will be of great help and receive some boosts known as the entitlement. As the time candidate I need to make sure everything goes according to plan. That is my duty," Endric said with a decisive tone.

Gustav had no doubt about Endric being on his side at this point.

Everything that had been happening so far along with the system and Husarius also making some revelations proved that Endric was committed to helping him prepare for whatever was to come.

The kid had truly become capable in the past year.

At the same time Gustav could sense that Endric was closing in on the third step of Echo rank which was pretty strong and fast.

Endric was not in anyway weak. He never was even when he was younger and now that he had received training Gustav didn't doubt his capability.

'Maybe I should add him to my platoon,' Gustav had this thought in mind.

~~~~~

Although Miss Aimee was that fast it still couldn't be compared to Gustav's speed as he was still practically a new officer yet he was already at the Major rank.

Gustav was still a nineteen year old young man so he still had a lot of potential as did Miss Aimee but now she was no longer a part of Earth's forces.

She was now beyond a world leader... she was a creator... a Goddess and she could make changes to whatever she wished to with a flick of her wrist.

They chatted for some time as they had dinner and after they were done, Miss Aimee stood to her feet.

"It's time to go," She voiced out as she moved towards the balcony of the building.

"You're leaving already?" Gustav questioned like he had forgotten he spent the last six days with Miss Aimee.

"I'll be back to see you every once in a while and you can also come visit from time to time..." Miss Aimee said as a glamorous smile appeared on her face.

"We both have a lot to do anyways. You need to focus on your plans and missions and I need to develop my planet better," She added.

"You've sure been smiling a lot these days," Gustav said with a suspicious expression.

"Did I ever tell you how lonely it was for me in that dark dimension I was trapped within," Miss Aimee said as she moved closer to Gustav almost making contact with him.

"I never thought I could feel loneliness... I thought those emotions were fleeting, long gone and I would only feel numb for the rest of my days since after my mother's death..."

"...turns out I was wrong... the first person I thought of was you..." Miss Aimee said as she placed her hand on Gustav's left cheek.

"I used to think I really had nothing to lose in this life anymore but I couldn't be more wrong... You Gustav have become more important to me than I ever thought was possible and while I was away I wished for nothing more than to see this cheeky face of yours again..."

Chapter 1045 Emotional Goodbye

"...and I was concerned it would never happen if I didn't find a way to leave," Miss Aimee's smile turned even more radiant at this point.

“So don’t blame me for smiling this way after seeing you again because it was all I wished for at a certain point in time,” She rubbed Gustav’s cheek even more affectionately before turning around.

“Alright time to go now for real... see you soon kid,” Miss Aimee didn’t even wait for him to respond before she blasted off into the sky.

Gustav was left there looking awestruck for a couple of seconds before his mind trailed back to reality.

“See you soon Miss Aimee,” His face had turned a bit red as he reached out to touch the same part of his cheek Miss Aimee caressed.

The bond between both of them was way higher than Gustav realised and he honestly couldn’t imagine how things would have gone if Miss Aimee never found a way to return or if he never found her.

Miss Aimee had become so important in his life that she was no less than family to him just like Boss Danzo was. They really loved him the way family never was able to and he couldn’t deny the fact that he loved them as well despite portraying the non emotional expression most times.

Gustav stared at the sky for a few more minutes after Miss Aimee had gone before heading back into the apartment.

It had already been revealed all across the world that the planet initial heading for earth had stopped in a part of the Milky way.

Not a lot of people on earth knew Miss Aimee but when it was revealed that the planet was created by a mixedblood, the people of earth were astonished.

The mixedbloods, Humans and even Slarkovs were finding it difficult to believe that piece of information. Not only was the Mixedblood able to create an entire planet with a little bit of life but also moved the planet from the edge of the Milky way to another location.

It was unheard of and really left people wondering if this was a good or bad thing. A lot of them felt this was good since earth would have an extra place to stay if anything ever happened to earth and they also felt since one of their own was this powerful, earth would have extra security and protection.

Meanwhile some felt it was too much power for one person since she was literally god now. What would happen if she suddenly went crazy, it would be so easy for her to wipe lives off the face of planets.

At the very least the government managed to stop the spread of panic and announced that they were in collaboration with the new Goddess and she had ensured she would remain a friend to earth and offer help or protection when needed.

Miss Aimee had done a little video recorded announcement where she addressed the world because she didn't want to be interviewed by any press. She still hated being around people.

The whole hype wouldn't be dying down anytime soon as all media outlets were talking about it and it kept trending across social media platforms.

It had also been revealed during this time that Miss Aimee was the teacher of Gustav and this further boosted the ideology that she would never turn against earth since Gustav had saved the planet on more than one occasion.

"Its been a week now... time to get back to the equipment I was building," Gustav muttered as he cleared the dining table.

"Aishh my dimensional bracelet is destroyed... transportation would be a lot more difficult now," Gustav said with a frustrated tone as he recalled his dimensional bracelet got destroyed by the heatwave.

"I'll need to get another level seven... I guess it's time to call in a favour," Gustav muttered as he moved back and forth.

The dimensional bracelet was a level seven which was the rarest of all dimensional bracelets on earth.

At the Gustav acquired it, Grand Commander Shion had mentioned only five were manufactured since the time of its creation since the materials used in creating a level seven was super rare.

Gustav knew he wouldn't be able to get it again if he decided to check any of the MBO's weapon vaults in the different MBO bases.

His plan right now was to cash in the favour Grand Commander Shion owed him and asked for another level seven dimensional bracelet.

("You really want to use the favour on this?") The system questioned.

"I really need my flexible means of transportation back... it has saved my life so many times. Especially since I can't move as far in an instant, it is a great tool," Gustav voiced in reply.

("Not disputing the fact that it is, I'm saying look for other alternatives to getting it or at least try to see if you can get it to be recreated or something, instead of cashing in your favour like this...") The System explained.

"Yes I already thought of that but just in case it doesn't work out I'd have to cash in my favour... C

Grand Commander Shion would do whatever it takes to get me another one but till then I guess," Gustav voiced as he took care of the dishes in the kitchen.

"I should get back to creating the space equipment in the meantime," After tidying up the entire place, Gustav decided to leave.

This part of the city was quite secluded from the open parts of the city to make sure Miss Aimee enjoyed her stay here without disturbance from anyone.

Now that she had left Gustav would have to relay this to the higher ups since they still thought she was on earth.

— —

Minutes later Gustav was back in his room and proceeded to open the spatial room where he kept the Sacred Jewel before leaving earth the other time.

Chapter 1046 Work Continues

“Good boy, you’ve done well,” Gustav voiced as the he rubbed the shiny surface of the Jewel after it floated towards him.

“Yeah you really would have been a great help if I took you with me but it was an impromptu mission... at least I’m back in one piece,” Gustav kept rubbing its shiny surface like it was a pet while voicing out.

This was because the sentience within the Sacred Jewel was growing stronger as the light within its translucent circular frame kept getting bigger.

This was why communication between both of them was better even though the Sacred Jewel couldn’t speak. Gustav could understand it quite well and it could understand him as well.

“I have something for you,” Gustav voiced as he snapped his fingers..

Zing~ Zing~ Zing~ Zing~ Zing~

Multiple whitish glowing orbs appeared all around Gustav in the next instant.

They exuded so much energy, the space was slightly affected due to that.

The light within the Sacred Jewel began to blink repeatedly as it spotted the glowing white orbs. From the looks of things, it was excited.

“Go on, enjoy the meal,” Gustav said while tapping it a few more times.

The sacred Jewel proceeded to fly towards one of the orbs and began to absorb the energy within.

These orbs were filled with the energy Gustav had absorbed during the expansion of the cracks in space.

The Sacred Jewel was only compatible with some types of energy and this type of energy happened to be amongst the energy it could consume.

It would only get stronger the more it devoured energy so Gustav made sure to feed it when he acquired energy that suited its taste and luckily these ones did.

Gustav proceeded to move towards the equipment they were building so he could continue from where the Sacred Jewel had stopped.

—

Time passed by very quickly and the next day arrived. Gustav wanted to remain in this space for all time till he was done with what he was working on but the gang was arriving today.

E.E, Aildris, Angy, Elevora, Glade, Falco, Vera, Ria, Teemee and Matilda were all arriving back at the second base.

Gustav would have to go over there eventually. Especially when he had not even set eyes on E.E, Angy and the others for months.

Luckily Falco and the rest who went on the Genxodus raid mission were also done on their side. It would have taken longer but as soon as the group was notified of the MBO's arrival in the city a lot of them fled.

The MBO officers sent there were still able to get some of the Genxodus members so the mission wasn't a total bust but with the information they had acquired so far, things were gonna get even more difficult in the future.

Endric had gone on a solo mission two days back and probably wouldn't be arriving back within two weeks to a month time.

His situation was similar to Gustav's. The higher ups had seen his stats and knew what he was capable of so they didn't hesitate to send him on missions higher than a normal new MBO officer could handle.

"It's been a while since I visited my house... Maybe I should take them there," Gustav voiced out loud.

Gustav had gotten a very large mansion from the world government back then when he saved the earth from Yung Jo clutches. This house was located in another city because Gustav didn't want it to be anywhere close to Plankton City.

If that happened, the world would know where he lived and he knew staying in his house privately would be impossible.

There would always be paparazzis or tons of fans at his doorstep each day which would be a major turn off for him.

Gustav's house was located in another city close to one of the largest deserts in the world. He knew this way, he would have privacy and since he wouldn't go there everytime it would be very difficult for him to get spotted by anyone.

~~~~~

"I should probably get a private aircraft too," Gustav voiced as he moved out of the space.

He didn't know if he was rich enough to buy that because he hadn't checked his account balance in a long time.

All this time the MBO had been providing everything he needed and he didn't need much.

Gustav took out his device at this point and checked his bank account balance.

"Those are a lot of zeros," Gustav muttered with a surprised expression.

("Four hundred and twenty seven million rads,") The system voiced in his head.

"Yeah... its more than i expected. Last time i checked it was less than fifty million," Gustav voiced out but then he realised it was normal for him to have this much.

Not only did he have his Crimson hunting agency that had now expanded to other cities he also had a business collaboration with one of the richest in the city, Sir Gon, as so money was streaming in from more than one source.

Besides this, the pay for being a Major ranked MBO officer was not little so he did have multiple streams of income.

'Daum, I'm really a multi millionaire,' Gustav said with a tone of realisation internally.

This made Gustav remember when he wanted money so much back then and now that he had it, he wasn't spending much.

'I should really take a day off to spend as much money as possible,' Gustav knew just how much he usually got busy with one issue or the other so he knew he needed to take a vacation sooner or later.

He realised his life had gotten too serious to the point he was not having enough fun despite having all these much benefits.

"But there's the equipment i have to build, investigate more on the Planetary displacement, IYSOP, there's the items I have to join Endric in recovering..."

Chapter 1047 Reunion

"...help Matilda find that princess and who knows how many more issues I'd encounter along the line..." Gustav was incapable of having an headache anymore but he felt he would be if he was human.

The list of things he had to do was choking and he realised this was why he might never have the time to enjoy the wealth he had gathered.

("I agree it's a long list... what will you do?") The system questioned.

"Even if there is no time I still need to find a way to create time... One of these days I'll have a vacation. Problems are unending so if I keep pushing my time to relax backwards it will never happen..." Gustav voiced out in response.

“But for now, I’ll still have to push it backwards,” He added before walking out of the room.

Gustav was heading to the second base at this point. The dimensional bracelet would have made everything way faster but now he had to use an MBO aircraft.

‘I need to get another one as soon as possible,’ Gustav said internally.

He decided he would talk to the Grand general at the second base when he got there.

—

Two hours later Gustav touched down on the second base and proceeded to head to the house that was usually reserved for him and Miss Aimee.

While approaching he gathered a lot of attention as usual from the officers in the vicinity and many of them greeted him with respect.

Closing in on the house, Gustav could already hear the voices of everyone within. He chuckled a bit as he approached the door.

‘Looks like everyone’s in,’

Tsshshhsshhh!

The front door slid open as he arrived before it.

“Gustav!”

“Gus!”

“Yo Gus you sure took your sweet time hehe,”

“The major is back,”

They all yelled out from within as they spotted Gustav.

“Hey guys,” A smile appeared on Gustav’s face as he walked in.

Angy who was seated on the left side of the living room suddenly jumped to her feet and arrived in front of Gustav before anyone else could.

Gustav's found himself in the warm and soft embrace of a feminine body.

Angy's sweet smelling fragrance drifted into his nostrils as she latched onto his upper body with her legs wrapped around his spine area, his face buried into her chest and her arms wrapped around the back of his head.

Both of them were embroiled in a passionate hug right in front of everyone.

"cough cough Explicit display detected," E.E voiced from behind with a slight cough causing Matilda to pinch him.

"Ouch, come on now," E.E mumbled with an unjustified look.

"You're ruining the mood," Matilda said with a slight chuckle.

"Angy..." Gustav voiced out as she slowly released her grip from his head.

Her face had turned beet red at this point as she didn't think she was capable of doing such in front of everyone. Her body had reacted before she could think.

She let go of Gustav and dropped down quickly before speaking, "Welcome back," She said with a cute and shy tone.

"Can we welcome him like that too?" E.E questioned with a look of delight.

"I'll cut it off if you do," Angy voiced out with a threatening tone while adopting a face full of smiles.

"Cut what off?" E.E's face shone a dreadful look as he inquired.

"Try it and find out," Angy's lips curved upwards even more as she stated.

"Hehe I don't think I wanna find out," E.E response caused everyone to burst out with laughter as the atmosphere turned even merrier than it already was.

Aildris moved over to give Gustav a fist bump as well as a hug and so did E.E as well.

Vera moved towards Gustav and gave him a long hug too like they didn't just see each other about a week ago.

Gustav thought nothing of it as he proceeded to take a sit and started catching up with E.E, Aildris and the others.

The gang was back together now and how they would move progress from here was totally up to Gustav.

They went on to catch up on everything that had happened so far, the mission out of the planet and what had happened on earth while the others were away.

E.E on the others were told about the planet and how it ended up being Miss Aimee's. Everyone was very astonished and couldn't imagine how powerful she was now.

They found out Gustav was with Miss Aimee for days and asked him to tell them how everything went with her.

Gustav had to narrate a lot as well as Aildris, E.E and the others because their off planet mission sounded exciting to everyone. A lot of officers were interested in off planet missions for so many reasons.

It was also later revealed that Angy killed a person in the last mission to save Aildris. This revelation shocked the rest of the group as they never expected she would cross that line soon enough.

Being in the MBO, murder was inevitable but everyone here knew how Angy would always hesitate when it came to taking that step.

While it was inevitable that she would eventually have to kill someone, they thought it would still take longer than this.

'Is she okay?' Gustav wondered internally as he glanced in her direction.

Angy looked absolutely fine but Gustav was still a bit disturbed and feared that she might not be completely fine internally.

("Probably just hiding how she truly feels but she'll eventually get over it. There will still be way more deaths by her hand in the future,") The system responded internally.

'Hmm I guess so...' For Gustav he never really felt bad about his first kill because to him it was warranted.

It was not only a mistake but it was also initiated by the second party who had bullied him for years and made him nearly commit suicide so he felt no form of pity at the time.

Chapter 1048

Reunion

"...help Matilda find that princess and who knows how many more issues I'd encounter along the line..." Gustav was incapable of having an headache anymore but he felt he would be if he was human.

The list of things he had to do was choking and he realised this was why he might never have the time to enjoy the wealth he had gathered.

("I agree it's a long list... what will you do?") The system questioned.

"Even if there is no time I still need to find a way to create time... One of these days I'll have a vacation. Problems are unending so if I keep pushing my time to relax backwards it will never happen..." Gustav voiced out in response.

"But for now, I'll still have to push it backwards," He added before walking out of the room.

Gustav was heading to the second base at this point. The dimensional bracelet would have made everything way faster but now he had to use an MBO aircraft.

'I need to get another one as soon as possible,' Gustav said internally.

He decided he would talk to the Grand general at the second base when he got there.

—

Two hours later Gustav touched down on the second base and proceeded to head to the house that was usually reserved for him and Miss Aimee.

While approaching he gathered a lot of attention as usual from the officers in the vicinity and many of them greeted him with respect.

Closing in on the house, Gustav could already hear the voices of everyone within. He chuckled a bit as he approached the door.

'Looks like everyone's in,'

Tsshshhsshhh!

The front door slid open as he arrived before it.

"Gustav!"

"Gus!"

"Yo Gus you sure took your sweet time hehe,"

"The major is back,"

They all yelled out from within as they spotted Gustav.

“Hey guys,” A smile appeared on Gustav’s face as he walked in.

Angy who was seated on the left side of the living room suddenly jumped to her feet and arrived in front of Gustav before anyone else could.

Gustav’s found himself in the warm and soft embrace of a feminine body.

Angy’s sweet smelling fragrance drifted into his nostrils as she latched onto his upper body with her legs wrapped around his spine area, his face buried into her chest and her arms wrapped around the back of his head.

Both of them were embroiled in a passionate hug right in front of everyone.

“cough cough Explicit display detected,” E.E voiced from behind with a slight cough causing Matilda to pinch him.

“Ouch, come on now,” E.E mumbled with an unjustified look.

“You’re ruining the mood,” Matilda said with a slight chuckle.

“Angy...” Gustav voiced out as she slowly released her grip from his head.

Her face had turned beet red at this point as she didn’t think she was capable of doing such in front of everyone. Her body had reacted before she could think.

She let go of Gustav and dropped down quickly before speaking, “Welcome back,” She said with a cute and shy tone.

“Can we welcome him like that too?” E.E questioned with a look of delight.

“I’ll cut it off if you do,” Angy voiced out with a threatening tone while adopting a face full of smiles.

“Cut what off?” E.E’s face shone a dreadful look as he inquired.

“Try it and find out,” Angy’s lips curved upwards even more as she stated.

“Hehe I don’t think I wanna find out,” E.E response caused everyone to burst out with laughter as the atmosphere turned even merrier than it already was.

Aldris moved over to give Gustav a fist bump as well as a hug and so did E.E as well.

Vera moved towards Gustav and gave him a long hug too like they didn't just see each other about a week ago.

Gustav thought nothing of it as he proceeded to take a sit and started catching up with E.E, Aildris and the others.

The gang was back together now and how they would move progress from here was totally up to Gustav.

They went on to catch up on everything that had happened so far, the mission out of the planet and what had happened on earth while the others were away.

E.E on the others were told about the planet and how it ended up being Miss Aimee's. Everyone was very astonished and couldn't imagine how powerful she was now.

They found out Gustav was with Miss Aimee for days and asked him to tell them how everything went with her.

Gustav had to narrate a lot as well as Aildris, E.E and the others because their off planet mission sounded exciting to everyone. A lot of officers were interested in off planet missions for so many reasons.

It was also later revealed that Angy killed a person in the last mission to save Aildris. This revelation shocked the rest of the group as they never expected she would cross that line soon enough.

Being in the MBO, murder was inevitable but everyone here knew how Angy would always hesitate when it came to taking that step.

While it was inevitable that she would eventually have to kill someone, they thought it would still take longer than this.

'Is she okay?' Gustav wondered internally as he glanced in her direction.

Angy looked absolutely fine but Gustav was still a bit disturbed and feared that she might not be completely fine internally.

("Probably just hiding how she truly feels but she'll eventually get over it. There will still be way more deaths by her hand in the future,") The system responded internally.

'Hmm I guess so...' For Gustav he never really felt bad about his first kill because to him it was warranted.

It was not only a mistake but it was also initiated by the second party who had bullied him for years and made him nearly commit suicide so he felt no form of pity at the time.

Chapter 1049

Spend Time With You

He also felt every other death by his hands after that was very much necessary as well since they were evil beings.

The problem with Angy's situation was the fact that the person she killed was another officer who's mind had been taken over by one of the aliens.

Not only was this person supposedly on their side, it was possible for them to be freed from the hold of the alien. Besides this Angy was someone who wasn't so open to hurting others so killing this person out of circumstance to save Aildris might have caused for internal issues for her.

These factors put together made Gustav a bit worried and he decided he would speak to her later.

The gang spent hours chatting and Gustav eventually moved to the kitchen to prepare a meal for everyone. Some of them joined to assist but Gustav didn't allow them to do much because he didn't want the flavor of any food he cooked having a different taste than he intended.

—

Time went by very quickly and before they knew it, midnight had arrived.

The house had more than ten rooms so everyone could pick their sleeping space without any issues. They had spent the entire day catching up with each other and telling some interesting stories so it was finally time to sleep.

Everyone besides Gustav was just returning from a mission so they really needed to rest.

“Alright bud, till next morning,”

“Yeah guys later,”

They fist bumped each other before heading to their rooms one after the other.

Gustav proceeded to head to his room as well and sat on his bed. He still had work to do with the equipment he was building so he was thinking of opening the spatial construct so he could continue it in the middle of the night or he would channel his bloodline.

He was currently at the third step of the Echo rank and everyone else was either at the first or peak of Falcon rank. Endric and Elevora were the only ones whose rank were close to Gustav's.

Endric was ranked in the seventh place when they were still in the MBO camp but no one was actually aware of how strong he truly was.

Endric never tried to challenge the cadets above him on the ranking and only battled openly when others below challenged. He never showed his true prowess yet he always won against the challengers.

After meeting him the last time Gustav felt Endric's strength was most likely amongst top three in their group and didn't doubt that it rivalled that of Elevora's.

It would be foolish to underestimate someone who doesn't show his full prowess because Gustav knew very well of how enemies that underestimated his strength in the past met their end.

Gustav moved towards the bed and sat on it. He was thinking of going into a few months of seclusion to properly channel his bloodline so he could get to the peak of the fourth step before IYSOP began.

However he decided he would only do this after creating the device he was currently working on.

Kom! Kom! Kom!

While Gustav was in his world of thoughts, he heard the sound of soft knocks on his door.

"Oh," He muttered as he realised who was knocking.

Gustav stood to his feet and went on to open his room door.

"Angy,"

"Gustav,"

They both voiced with tones as they stared in each others eyes.

“Can I come in?” She questioned after a brief silence.

“Sure,” Gustav moved to the side to let her in.

After closing his door, they both moved towards his bed side and sat on it.

“Its late, you should be asleep by now,” Gustav voiced out.

“Pass, I’ll do that later...” Angy responded while moving closer to him.

“What I want to do now is...” Her face closed in on his till her two little horns made contact with his forehead.

pa(nd)a no vel “Spend time with you...” As she finished saying this she locked lips with Gustav.

~~~~~

Gustav slightly parted his lips and proceeded to passionately suck on Angy's lips as well.

She reached out and wrapped her hand around his neck as she pulled his body closer to hers.

Gustav hands moved towards her waist and he proceeded to rub his fingers across her slim waist down to her butt area.

Angy pushed her body on his and Gustav fell on his back as they kept kissing each other passionately.

The low sound of lips locking kept ringing out in the room continuously for more than five minutes.

Angy was currently in a tight khaki shorts and blue tank top so her smooth back was currently on display. This gave Gustav the chance to trail his fingers across them as they kissed each other.

He proceeded to move further downwards and grabbed Angy's butt. He couldn't understand why but at this time he felt they were bigger than he remembered.

Gustav began undressing Angy from her shorts, to her tank top and she helped in pulling off Gustav's singlet as well, revealing his broad chest and well chiseled body.

They stared at each other for a bit with looks of desire and fascination before locking lips once more.

In the process of beginning another passionate round of kisses, Gustav unhooked her bra, freeing her medium sized boobs and causing them to press onto his chest.

He pushed her onto the bed once more and grabbed them with both his hands before proceeding to feast on them.

Gustav placed one of her nipples in between his lips and started sucking on them.

He would occasionally switch and then swirl his tongue around them causing Angy to moan in pleasure.

She could feel her nether regions getting flooded as Gustav continued to leave trail of kisses and sucking across her entire upper body.

At this point, Gustav's member was raging hard and kept poking Angy's lower belly region.

Chapter 1050 Recruiting Everyone

She reached out to grab it with her right hand and began rubbing it with a look of ecstasy plastered across her face.

After they spent a few more minutes on foreplay, Gustav finally took Angy's panties off and spread her legs as he pointed his member straight at her nether region.

"I'm going in Angy," He muttered as he reached down and pushed forward.

Squelching sounds rang out as Angy's face squeezed up and she let out a loud moan.

"Uhgghhhmmm,"

—

The night went by in a flash and the group awoke the next morning. It was already noisy in the living room as they walked down the stairs one after the other.

"How was the night?" E.E kept asking everyone as they walked down and chatted with them a little.

"I don't need to ask you how the night was," E.E said to Gustav as he winked.

"Don't make it awkward," Aildris tapped E.E's head from behind.

"How do you guys always know?" Gustav's eyebrows furrowed as he questioned.

"That you and Angy were training hard in the midnight?" E.E voiced with a sarcastic tone.

"That was them training?" Falco voiced from the side as he pushed himself into the circle.

"Yes Falco they were training hehehe," E.E responded.

"Cool, make sure you two call me to join next time," Falco said to Gustav with a fired up expression.

"He didn't just fall for that, did he?" Teemee voiced from the side with a look of disbelief.

"Fall for what? I also wanna get stronger," Falco said with a look of innocence.

"Pfffftt,"

"Puhahhahahaha,"

"Hahahahaa,"

"Hahahaha no this is too funny,"

They bursted out laughing in the next instant causing Falco to look around with an expression of confusion.

“Make sure you call him to join you next time Gus, threesomes isn’t necessarily a bad thing,” E.E kept laughing hysterically as he voiced out.

“Shut up,” Gustav chuckled a little feeling bad for Falco.

He was just like Falco before so he could relate to not being very knowledgeable about sex.

The girls by the sides stared at the boys and some of them facepalmed when they caught on to what was happening.

“Those idiots,” Matida felt the urge to punch E.E in the spleen.

While E.E was the most fun person in their group, Matilda felt he made too many jokes.

—

Minutes later everyone was seated in place as they listened to Gustav speak.

“Yes I am currently at the Major rank and everyone of you here is still below the Lieutenant rank so you’ll be placed in squads or platoons.

Squad or Platoons are led by Captains and Majors so.

A squad can have up to thirty officers and be led by a captain while a platoon can have up to a hundred officers and is led by a Major so I can have up to a hundred officers under me.

I haven’t chose any officer yet because I only want people I trust under me,” Gustav paused a bit as he got to this point.

“I have issues trusting others and to be honest I still do but I can say to an extent, I trust every single person seated underneath this roof,” Gustav voiced out.

The only exception from this list was Glade of course but then she had been turn into Gustav’s personal sleep agent so this wasn’t really a problem.

“I wish for you all to be members of my platoon and help in choosing others with potential later in the future but I am not enforcing it... If you do not wish to be a part of my platoon you are free to say so,” Gustav stated as he paused once more.

He turned to stare at everyone one after the other.

"Nah I'm good I want us to stick together, brothers forever," E.E voiced out when Gustav stared in his direction.

"I want to be with you," Vera voiced out.

"There's no way I'm leaving," Aildris shook his head.

"I like the team and the connection we've built so no I won't be leaving either," Elevora voiced out as she smiled.

Her response was surprising to Gustav but he nodded afterwards

Elevora seemed like someone who liked to do things on her own similar to Gustav. They were both pretty much a one man army on their own so Gustav felt it would make more sense for her to climb the ranks on her own.

'Maybe in the future when she attains this rank she'll create her own platoon,' Gustav thought but for now it didn't matter.

"You don't even have to ask me, you know my answer," Angy said with a smile when Gustav fixed his gaze on her.

Everyone had agreed to join his platoon so he decided they would be the very first and amongst the leaders in his platoon if he decided to add more people in the future.

“Since everyone has decided to be a part of my platoon I will state a few of my future plans,” Gustav began voicing out.

“First off I’m participating in IYSOP so we will win this year... Before IYSOP I’d want us to participate in a mission to help you all raise your ranks,” Gustav stated.

“But IYSOP training is about three weeks away. Its mandatory we can’t miss it,” Falco voiced out.

“The entire six months can’t be without field or practical experiments... when it’s time for such situations we’ll have our mission,” Gustav answered.

They all nodded in understanding seeing how that made sense.

“But I still won’t be attending IYSOP training with you guys,” He added to clarify things.

They would have doubted Gustav could pull that off but they knew him well enough to know he could especially since the MBO had been eager for him to join all this time.

“After IYSOP I’d want us to go on a mission to help princess Darhia and her planet out,” Gustav stated.