

Bloodline 1051

Chapter 1051 The Contact Challenge

Everyone had looks of confusion on their faces as they heard that but Matilda's eyes widened with as her face displayed a look of astonishment.

"You remembered?" She voiced out with a tone of disbelief.

"Of course I did," Gustav responded with a slight nod.

A smile appeared on Matilda's face as her eyes turned teary.

"But there will still be a few processes I'll have to go through to make that happen which would also involve asking for practically an army since its a war... but if the MBO doesn't give permission we'll have to do this on ourt own," Gustav explained.

"What exactly are we talking about here?" E.E inquired.

"I'll brief you all in the future since its quite the long story or maybe Matilda will do the honors," Gustav responded.

"I'll be going on a lot of intergalactic travels after IYSOP so this will be killing two birds with one stone," He added.

Everyone felt the coming days will be a whole lot interesting with Gustav in the picture. He was always running into crazy situations or crazy situations were coming to find him.

“Endric will be joining the platoon so you all will be the first members of my platoon as well as its leaders,” Gustav announced.

“Oh?”

“Interesting,”

“That’s cool,”

Everyone was surprised Gustav was finally letting Endric in but they were all in support of this. Endric would be a great addition to the team since he wasn’t in anyway weak.

The kid still had the highest potential amongst all of the MBO cadets while Gustav was seen as the best Mixedblood of this generation.

They felt both brothers would undoubtedly shake the universe in the future.

“Anyways I’ll get the form required to recruit you all into my platoon so you all make sure to put in the required details so we can get this whole process over with as soon as possible,” Gustav voiced out.

The days went by very quickly and during this time Gustav had managed to get everyone of them to officially join his platoon.

No one was below the Lance rank in their group so it was easy to deal with the process of adding them to his platoon.

During this time they had checked out different missions they could undertake either as a group or in singles. There were still three weeks left before the IYSOP training began so Gustav reckoned they could complete low starred missions in that duration and improve their chances of increasing their ranks.

While doing this they were also having daily training with Gustav.

It was the job of the leader of a platoon to watch out for the officers under them and make sure they kept growing and increasing in strength. It was Gustav’s job to train them now since they were already out of the MBO and made sure they remained ever ready for missions.

Another week had gone by at this point and today was another day they were training together within one of the training structures in the second base.

Gustav stood in the middle of a plain grounded area with everyone surrounding him.

Anyone that can land a hit on me can skip training for the next week.

"That's a dangerous offer Gus," E.E voiced out with a light chuckle.

"Even if you're stronger than all of us, at least one person is guaranteed to successfully land a hit," Teemee voiced out next.

"And who says that one person is gonna be you," Gustav responded with a daring look and a smirk.

"Ouuu, that was sharp," Ria stated with a burst of laughter.

"Challenge accepted," Teemee said with a decisive tone.

"That's good... none of you, including you Elevora will be able to touch me," Gustav voiced out next.

"I will make you eat your words Gustav," Elevora said with a serious look.

"I'm counting on it," Gustav still maintained the smirk on his face as he voiced out.

“You have no idea how fast i have become do you?” Angy voiced out as she felt neglected.

“Your speed means nothing Angy, you are weak,” Gustav stated in response.

Zzzzhoowwwhhhs!

A third horn grew out of Angy’s forehead as her energy expanded intensely.

“I will touch you before you even get the chance to blink,” Angy voiced with a triggered tone.

“That was phrased a bit too suspiciously,” E.E said from the corner.

“You all can put in your best efforts, use your best ability and practically anything at your disposal but you have five minutes to try and make contact with me,” Gustav explained while setting up a timer.

Everyone took battle stances at this point as they prepared for Gustav to give the go ahead.

“After five minutes I will attack if no one has managed to make contact with me,” Gustav announced.

They all fanned out, giving Gustav space but still surrounding him.

“Your time starts now,”

Gustav’s mouth was still open from saying now which proved he just finished the sentence yet Angy had already arrived in front of him.

Swwwhuiii!

She shot her fist forward with a smirk on her face as everything around her had turned slow.

‘This is gonna hurt but you deserve it my love,’ She said internally without a shred of remorse.

However in the next instant Gustav’s mouth that were still wide opened closed up as his eyeballs which were initially still focused up ahead, moved downwards.

The instant his eyes locked on Angy he moved to the side.

Swwosshhh~

Angy's figure blasted past him with intense speed generating winds across the place.

Everyone else had wide eyes as they spotted Angy far behind Gustav, meanwhile they were still in the same position as before because Gustav just started the timer. They already knew what happened and charged forward to attack Gustav as well.

A vortex appeared behind Gustav just as Angy was speeding backwards which ended up making her appear in a different place while E.E's hand phased out of it.

Chapter 1052 Encirclement

With the lightning Blitz, Gustav could travel over six hundred thousand feet in an instant but Angy could do the same and even better when she had activated the third horn mode.

Despite it being an instant which meant less than a second, Angy had already caught up to him within milliseconds and was about to make contact with him in the lightning state.

Gustav had to cancel the skill midway and reappeared back more than a hundred thousand feet away.

Angy couldn't easily cancel her speed and ended up moving past another hundred thousand feet before stopping.

Everyone else in the previous position all had looks of disbelief as they saw both of them disappeared.

They quickly began charging after Gustav despite not being as fast.

E.E opened up a vortex closing in the distance quickly while Angy began to speed back and Gustav also turned backwards and sped off leaving her to chase him.

At this point only around thirty seconds had gone by but even with these few thirty seconds, they had come to realise it wouldn't be so easy catching Gustav.

"Lets surround him and attack at the same time, someone is definitely bound to touch him," Aildris voiced out to the rest.

"Tell that to Angy too," E.E stated.

Aildris opened his eyes at this point causing the entire vicinity to turn into black and white.

He turned into a circular wave and disappeared. Reappearing right in front of Angy and latching onto her due to one of his abilities.

"We have to attack at the same time," Aildris voiced out the instant she stopped running.

swwoosshhhh~

Gustav had reappeared in another position at this point and they were all charging in his direction once more.

Ria stomped on the ground causing himself to sink into it as it began to take him forward in Gustav's direction as well.

Vera threw seeds to the ground and caused a forestry type of vegetative environment to sprout in a couple of seconds.

Vines and multiple spiky branches sprouted out at her command ready to attack Gustav. Meanwhile Elevora third eye had been revealed and was ready to fire destructive beams at Gustav.

They all surrounded Gustav from every direction and slowly closed in on his position. They waited for Aildris signal to attack.

"So you all plan to attack me at the same instant... pretty good plan," Gustav said with a smile.

At this point over one minute had passed and there were still over three minutes left so they still had time.

"Good plan right?"

“At least one person will touch you even if the rest of us fail,”

Aldris and E.E voiced out as they prepared to attack.

“Not a bad plan but you all will still fail,” Gustav said with a smile.

The group wondered where this confidence was coming from because logically speaking no matter how strong Gustav was, there were up to ten in number so at least one person would be able to touch him even if it was just a little.

Aldris was a bit suspicious that Gustav still had something up his sleeves but this didn't stop him.

He gave them the signal and Angy grabbed hold of Teemee. She flung him forward with her inhumane speed while everyone else dashed forward at the same speed.

They arrived before Gustav in no time and hands could be seen stretching towards Gustav's body from every direction.

One was heading towards his belly, another towards his chest, nape, face, back, chin, back of his head, butt, thighs, sides and arms.

Every side was covered and there was not a single open spot that Gustav could exploit.

Even if he cranked up his speed by a whole lot, he would definitely make contact with someone while trying to get out of this encirclement.

Angy appeared above him in the next instant as well with her leg swinging down from above with the intention of kicking his head as well.

It looked they would make contact with Gustav and there was no hope of getting out of the current predicament.

A smirk suddenly appeared on Gustav's face once more as his eyes displayed a scarlet with a mixture of gold glow.

His lips parted elegantly as he voiced out a single word.

"Stop!"

FWHWWOOOSSHHHHHSMMMMM!

Golden outburst of energy blasted forth from his being, spreading across the vicinity and in the next instant as everyone's body paused in mid air.

They all had looks of astonishment and disbelief in their eyes as their bodies just paused in place. They had lost all control over their bodies except for their eyeballs which could only look around. Besides that they were unable to break out of this unusual hold spread by the unfathomable energy that had just burst forth from Gustav's figure.

'What the hell?'

'How is this even possible?'

'How is he doing this?'

'What in the world?'

They all had these thoughts circulating in their minds as they couldn't wrap their heads around how this was happening.

Gustav slowly moved forward and sideways, shifting out of their encirclement after a few seconds.

He moved towards their back and brought out a device to take a picture of everyone paused in place. He was standing behind while they all paused behind with a space in the middle of their encirclement.

“This is a nice picture,” Gustav voiced out after checking it and proceeded to keep his device.

“I warned you guys you wouldn’t be able to touch me,” Gustav voiced out after a bit of silence.

They all still couldn’t speak so they remained in place silently.

“There’s still three minutes left... just hold on I’ll release y’all after the time is up,”

After saying this, Gustav could sense that they were struggling to free themselves even more.

However, Gustav knew just how powerful his Yarki was now so the possibility of anyone of them getting out of it was zero percent. Especially when they were all Echo ranked Mixedbloods.

Chapter 1053 Revealing Cosmic Superiority

He moved towards their back and brought out a device to take a picture of everyone paused in place. He was standing behind while they all paused behind with a space in the middle of their encirclement.

“This is a nice picture,” Gustav voiced out after checking it and proceeded to keep his device.

“I warned you guys you wouldn’t be able to touch me,” Gustav voiced out after a bit of silence.

They all still couldn't speak so they remained in place silently.

"There's still three minutes left... just hold on I'll release y'all after the time is up,"

After saying this, Gustav could sense that they were struggling to free themselves even more.

However, Gustav knew just how powerful his Yarki was now so the possibility of anyone of them getting out of it was zero percent. Especially when they were all Echo ranked Mixedbloods.

Before he absorbed Gisodinym's Cosmic Superiority his Yarki was already having effect on Kilo ranked Mixedbloods so no doubt it was way more powerful right now than before.

Gustav was currently not just using his Yarki but also another ability attributed to Cosmic Superiority.

Yarki would only make their movements pause and cause their knees to buckle so they'd be on the ground but this other ability caused every single one of them to pause in mid air as well.

Angy who had leapt upwards was suspended in mid air as well as Ria.

It was truly a funny sight.

The rest of the three minutes went by in a flash and Gustav finally deactivated his Cosmic Superiority.

Plop! Plop! Plop! Plop!

Everyone began falling from the air like sacks of rice.

“Ugh!”

Some of them groaned as they picked themselves up from the ground and stared in Gustav’s direction, waiting for an explanation.

“What the hell was that man?” E.E was the first to yell out impatiently with a shocked tone.

“Pfft,” Gustav couldn’t control the urge to laugh after seeing the look on his face.

“Alright alright time to school you guys a little,” Gustav stated, causing their attention to be focused on him even more.

“What I just used there is a power called Cosmic Superiority. As you can see it rendered you all immobile at my command... this is a privilege owned by Cosmic Superior beings all across the universe,” Gustav explained.

“You mean... there are others that can use this power as well?” Elevora asked with a tone of fascination.

“Yes but there are very few all across the entire universe... probably less than my ten fingers. That’s how rare Cosmic Superior beings are and anybody could be blessed by the cosmos and achieve Cosmic Superiority no matter what Planet they come from,” Gustav answered.

“Cosmic Superior beings literally defies universal laws with their power and are above normal supernatural beings who can be bent to their will no matter how powerful,” He added.

“How long have you had this?”

Aildris questioned.

“I’ve had this since... before we began our first year in camp,” Gustav replied with a smile.

“That means you could have won any battle easily,”

“You could have been winning fights instantly if you made use of it,”

Teemee and Ria voiced out with tones of realisation.

Everyone had similar looks on their faces as they wondered why Gustav never made use of this.

"I would but I had to keep it hidden that I had such a power," Gustav stated.

"Does it work on everyone and anyone?" E.E inquired.

"It has a limit on the amount of levels a being is stronger than the user. I wouldn't be able to successfully use it on someone like Miss Aimee but beings lower than her level or four levels and above higher than I am would be slightly affected. Still I can use it on a number of people that are stronger than me and easily overturn the situation while those who are weaker than me have no chance of fighting against it," Gustav explained.

"It would be way crazier if it could work on anyone... you would instantly become the most powerful person in the world," Angy voiced out.

"It's already crazy that he has such an ability in the first place... why did you decide to reveal it to us now?" Falco questioned.

"Because i have been hiding a lot of my abilities from the world all this time... I had to keep them hidden to stay safe but I can't keep doing that forever... I intend to stop hiding my abilities and put them on full display during IYSOP. We'll be meeting very powerful opponents with lots of experience. Thousands of years old and very strong... if I hold back, I'm sure we'll lose," Gustav clarified.

"You mean to say there are more crazy abilities you have besides this?" E.E questioned.

“This is the cream of the crop but yes i do have more i never revealed openly except in very dangerous situations,” Gustav responded.

They all stared at Gustav like he was a monstrous existence at this point. They felt it now made sense how he came out of so many situations without dying.

They couldn’t imagine how IYSOP would go with someone like Gustav on their sides but at the very least they weren’t so tensed as before.

Time was relative for planets all across Galaxies in the universe and they knew this. While no one beyond the age of twenty was allowed to participate in IYSOP due to the Earth’s rotation around the sun which took 365 days, for other planets it could take thousands of days or hundred of thousands of days before their planet would finish revolving around the sun.

Their own twenty years would be equivalent to thousands of years for earth which of course would make the opponents way stronger in some places.

The time thing was truly beneficiary for some planets and bad for others but nothing could be done to change this. This was how it always was.

Chapter 1054 Teaching Countermeasures

“Are you not bothered the MBO or the world government would see you as a threat when you start to reveal these abilities you’ve been hiding all this time?” Aildris questioned.

“They can get wary but they cant lay a finger on me... at least not anymore,” Gustav said with a tone of relief.

‘Its finally time to stop hiding,’ He said Internally as the bloodline energies within his body began chiming in response like they were ready for the show Gustav was going to pull in the upcoming IYSOP.

“Anyways now y’all understand why I said you’d never be able to touch me,” Gustav chuckled at this point.

“No fair,”

“That’s too powerful,”

Angy and Glade voiced out together. Angy really felt her speed was now useless.

The others didn’t complain but it was obvious they were still having a hard time comprehending just what type of power this was.

“Which brings me to the other reason I used it against you all here,”

Their attention was once more focused on Gustav as they heard this.

"I want to teach you all how to fight against the power of Cosmic Superiority," Gustav added.

"What?"

"But didn't you just say it was..."

"I know what I said..." Gustav cut them short.

"But it's not impossible... someone has broken free from the power of my Cosmic Superiority before," Gustav revealed.

They all had astonished expressions as they heard that. The energy surge from Gustav earlier rendered them so useless that they had all discarded the thought from their heads that it could be fought against.

"And no this person was not overly powerful than I was at the time. I was also weaker as well but the point is, it's possible," Gustav added.

"We don't know what we will meet in IYSOP and the chances of battling with a other Cosmic Superior being is not zero percent so I want to teach you all how to fight against Cosmic Superiority before the date for IYSOP arrives," Gustav explained his point of reasoning.

“How though? It feels impossible,” Teemee asked.

“I will start by using the lowest powered outburst of my Yarki... we’ll have to start from there so you guys can familiarise yourselves with how it feels to submit to the power,” Gustav replied.

Everyone had fired up looks on their faces at this point as they looked forward to the teachings.

“We’ll still be training normally and conducting missions in the process too,”

—

The group went on to discuss the last mission Teemee, Falco and the others went on that involved the Genxodus.

Falco stated that wanted them to go on group missions that involved the Slarkov terrorist group. However Gustav was not too interested in them at the moment. He told them they would spend a lot of time if they focused on such a mission and they didn’t really have that kind of time at the moment.

The whole situation of uprooting the terrorists from Earth will take a lot of time and Gustav was sure it wouldn’t be an easy task so he didn’t want to get involved. Yung Jo related situations had given him too much trouble so he had decided he would leave this one in the hands of other MBO officers.

His focus was now on intergalactic travels which would be a constant thing for him in the future.

In a flash another week went by and during this time some members of the platoons had competed solo or duo missions.

As more missions were completed by members of the platoon, the merit of the platoon would increase. Platoons always received what was called reputation points from these merits and it decided their ranking in the MBO.

Platoon ranking was a thing in the MBO and at the moment Gustav's platoon was below two thousand on the ranking.

He didn't really care about this because his platoon was still new. They had other priorities in the meantime.

After a few more days of training Endric returned from his solo mission and joined them.

At this point the platoon now consisted of eleven members besides Gustav.

The platoon with the lowest number of members in the MBO and it was generally made up of new generation MBO officers. It had garnered quite the ridicule and laughs from other MBO but Gustav didn't care about any of those at this point.

They were truly just starting out and their focus was on other things so they could be less bothered about their platoon being a laughing stock in the meantime. IYSOP was approaching and IYSOP training was beginning in a few days.

Endric only joined Gustav and the others to train for a few more days before it was finally time to leave the second base for IYSOP training.

—

“Niagra Icelands,” Endric voiced out.

“Interesting choice of location... although I’ve never been there,” E.E stated before chuckling a bit.

“Just don’t get beaten by a non MBO officers, the selection for main team members come first,” Teemee voiced out.

“The main issue would be the others who have already been officers for more than a year despite being only twenty years old or lesser,” Falco said with a logical tone.

“It’s best we check out Niagra Icelands well because knowing the location properly can be advantageous,” Matilda voiced out as well.

"I doubt we'll be having the participation battle in the open though," Angy said with a contemplative expression.

The group was seated together in the living room the night before the IYSOP training would officially begin. They were discussing how things would be in the training location which was called Niagra icelands.

"What do you think Gustav?" Matilda questioned, causing everyone to turn and stare in Gustav's direction.

"I think you lots should stop arguing and just go to bed. Your flight leaves by 7 in the morning and you'll be dragged into the selection battle that will determine whether or not you'll be on the main team... The only thing that should be on your minds is getting a spot on the main team," Gustav voiced out.

Chapter 1055 Unexpected Welcome

"And yes your selection battle will most likely be in the open but since its an Iceland area, it will only be advantageous to mixedbloods with water type abilities so expect the disadvantage but work through it and win..." He added.

The entire place descended into silence for a bit as their faces shown look looks of contemplation.

"Dinner?" Gustav said as he stood to his feet.

"Yeah,"

“Count me in,”

“I’m famished,”

They all voiced out one after the other.

“Let E.E cook for you guys then,” Gustav said with a mischievous look.

“Really?” E.E voiced out with an excited tone as he stood to his feet.

“No way!”

“Definitely not!”

“I refuse to eat poison in the name of dinner,”

Teemee, Aildris and Falco voiced out strongly.

Endric had a look of confusion on his face wondering if he missed something.

“Come on guys, I promise I’m a better cook now,” E.E said with a pleading tone.

“No!”

“No!”

“Oh hell no!”

“Bahahahaha,”

Everyone bursted into laughter at this point.

—

The night went by very quickly and the next morning arrived. The group packed their things and left to the second base revetment.

Gustav followed them but he was actually heading to a different location. He got into a separate aircraft from theirs and left the base.

The group also left after a bit. They were being flown towards Niagra Islands while Gustav was heading towards his mansion in one of the desert areas.

'It's been a while since I last visited there... but at least I'll be able to enter seclusion without any issues now,' Gustav thought as he sat in the aircraft.

He still had transportation issues and was unable to find a level seven dimensional bracelet after checking for the past three weeks.

Gustav had also gone from base to base just to see if he could find any but it was to no avail. Not even level 5 dimensional bracelets were available because dimensional bracelets were always a rare commodity as a whole.

Gustav had made contact with the grand general in charge of the second base some time ago and asked if it was possible for it to be made but he mentioned their partnership with Jo technologies had been cut off.

Despite the controversial issues, Jo technologies was still the best in then world and they were specifically in charge of creating these types of gadgets and tools for the MBO.

The new technology companies could not hold a candle to them and in the meantime were still trying to reach that height so it was tasking for them to creating cutting edge gadgets or weaponry like Jo technologies.

In the case of the Dimensional bracelet, Gustav had placed a custom order for a level seven bracelet with the new technology company the MBO was in league with however they told him he would have to wait for many months as they were not sure they were capable of replicating it accurately.

Gustav didn't know whether to wait for them or just use the favour he had with Grand Commander Shion to acquire a new one.

Anyhow things went, he had to make sure he did something about the whole situation soon.

—

In a couple of hours Gustav arrived at his house with the MBO aircraft. This area was a closed off city at the edge of a desert.

It wasn't a large city and was only fairly popular so it barely got attractions from the rest of the world.

Gustav's mansion was butter colored with a few red carvings at different spots. It had a runway and parking hangar for aircraft. Aside this there were also a few garages and two hover cars were parked within.

The mansion was very large with an exquisite design and multiple balcony areas with luxurious looking windows.

There was also a waterfront and bright lights with a small statue in front of a floating blood above the palm of a lady with wings.

Every area just looked absolutely beautiful no matter the angle one stared at it from.

The instant Gustav got off the aircraft he felt something was off.

The aircraft took off in the next instant since they had already fulfilled their orders of dropping him off and they greeted Gustav respectfully while taking off.

Gustav nodded at them but adopted a calm face as he moved towards the house.

“Welcome Sir Gustav, what are your orders,”

As the main door slid open, a bot moved towards him while voicing out.

Gustav took off his jacket and passed it over to the bot and proceeded to unbutton a few of his upper buttoned t-shirt before moving towards the living room.

He heaved a heavy sigh that sounded like he was tired before moving towards the sofa. The living room was massive with a big holographic tv switching on the moment he arrived within.

The tiles on the floor were made of rare glass materials that made it look like one was standing on the surface of the ocean.

Gustav sat on the sofa and leaned backwards as he pushed his body down a bit.

He closed his eyes as his face adopted a relaxed state in his current position.

Moments turned into seconds and seconds turned into minutes. At this point it looked like Gustav had passed out on the sofa.

All of a sudden...

Zhiiiiinnn~

Four silver colored humaid looking technological suits appeared out of thin air all around the sofa Gustav was sitting on.

The instant they appeared around the sofa, Gustav opened his eyes but at the same moment but they were each holding onto the ends of a golden glowing net that was spread across the entire sofa area above Gustav.

The moment they released their grasp from the net it fell and covered Gustav up completely.

ThirrrisshhhH~

Sizzling sounds rang out as four bolts connected to the floor from the four corners of the net, trapping Gustav in place.

Chapter 1056 I Shall Welcome Them With Open Arms

Gustav looked around and spotted more of these silver colored mettalic suits appearing out of thin air.

-“Target, Gustav Crimson, has been acquired,”

One of them voiced out as he moved to Gustav’s front.

Their voices sounded tweaked with a mixture of raspy and robotic.

There were more than eight of them in the living room at this point and he knew there were people within these technological suits.

‘Its sealing my bloodlines and the suits they use completely hides from the superhuaman senses of a mixedblod... although I did sense their presence to an extent,’ Gustav analysed internally.

"Interesting cutting edge technology," zhe voiced out as he tried getting out of the net.

- "It is futile... even an Omega ranked mixedblood will have their bloodline sealed if they were trapped in one of these,"

Another one voiced out as they spotted Gustav trying to get out of the net.

"Oh I know its truly a good piece. I intend on acquiring it so I will not be damaging it in anyway," Gustav voiced in response.

- "You won't be getting out of it either," Another one of them voiced out.

- "Prepare to transfer the target out of here," The leader commanded.

"sigh These fools never learn... but its good," Gustav stated while shaking his head as he spotted the figures moving closer to him.

"Genxodus... y'all didn't do your research well enough before trying to abduct me," He added as he sat up properly.

- "Its no surprise you know who we are but you are still not getting out of..."

The leader was still speaking when Gustav stood to his feet and pulled the net off himself with a casual expression.

The leader; Թ Ռ Թ

The others; Թ Ռ Թ

They couldn't believe their eyes as they saw Gustav get out of the trap without stressing.

Their brains had not clicked fast enough to act when Gustav uttered a single word...

Tremble!"

The tone and intense power in his voice spreads across the vicinity causing every single one of them to buckle.

They were unable to struggle against the unfathomable power as they began to drop to their knees.

Plop! Plop! Plop! Plop!

Gustav held the net in his hands and scrutinized it for a bit, ignoring the kneeling bunch in front of him.

Thanks for the gift... This will certainly come in handy," Gustav voiced out before keeping it in his storage device.

Step! Step! Step! Step!

He slowly began to step forward majestically as he walked past some of them, all of who were still kneeling on the ground unable to free themselves from the hold of his power.

I see you brought company," Gustav voiced out as his senses traveled more than a radius of fifty thousand feet.

He could sense the approaching aircraft from the north.

I shall welcome them with open arms as well," He added with a smirk.

They all felt chills crawl down their spines as they heard this but they were unable to warn the rest of their comrades even if they wanted to.

They all felt chills crawl down their spines as they heard this but they were unable to warn the rest of their comrades even if they wanted to.

Two whitish aircraft could be seen flying above a desert area with very quick speeds. The yellow sands could be seen far and wide across the place but in a few seconds, a small city could be spotted up ahead.

All of a sudden...

-“Emergency! The team in charge of acquiring the targets have been compromised!”

-“Emergency! The team in charge of acquiring the targets have been compromised!”

-“Emergency! The team in charge of acquiring the targets have been compromised!”

A message was being passed across within both aircraft. The person who was voicing this out was like a commander and didn’t give any other explanations besides the other team being compromised.

-“Turn around and head back to base right now!”

-“Turn around and head back to base right now!”

The commander voiced out once more causing the pilots and a few other members of the Genxodus within the aircraft to display looks of confusion.

Sir what of the others?” One of the pilots voiced out through the communication system.

-“Forget about them and head back right now!”

The commander yelled out once more.

The pilots decided to follow instructions at this point and started turning both aircraft around.

However at the same momemt a wind breaking sound rang out heavily.

THRRRIHHHHHZZHHHHHH!

It sounded like the skies were being split in two as a figure was spotted bursting through the clouds at insane speed.

Beep! Beep! Beep! Beep! Beep!

The alarms within the aircraft rang out crazily as the radar gave proximity alert.

However they barely had enough time to react before the object or rather person approaching arrived right in front of the aircraft on the left.

Bang!

A loud sound of collision rang out as the aircraft paused in the air.

-“I can’t move!”

-“We’re stuck! We’re stuck!”

They found out they were unable to completely turn around or even move anymore no matter how much they tried.

-“Oh My God! Its him!”

-“He has us in his grasp!”

-“Echo Two run!”

The pilots as well as the other Genxodus members within the aircraft yelled crazily.

They had already spotted the figure with dirty blonde hair and black t-shirt on the cams holding into the aircraft from the side.

The other aircraft had completely done a 180° turn at this point and sped forward crazily.

Gustav who was holding onto the other one, ripped it in two halves by pulling from side to side.

Aarrrrrghhhhh!”

Kiaarrrrhhhhhh!”

The passengers and pilots yelled like pigs being slaughtered as they fell from the skies crazily.

Activate your suit!”

One of them voiced out as they fell through the air.

Gustav who had ripped the aircraft in two didn't even wait around for the ones falling from the air, he had already sped forward with immense speed.

Swowossdhhhshshhhh~

He bolted across the sky crazily, parting the clouds with his speedy figure.

The aircraft that thought it had gotten away suddenly saw a figure appear in front of it in the next instant.

Chapter 1057 From Oppressors To Oppressed

Bang!

Gustav's palms were pushed forward and the aircraft collided with it, causing the aircraft to instantly pause in mid air.

The part of the aircraft with Gustav palms on them, had a big dent due to the sudden pause in mid air.

“Come on now, you just arrived where do you think you’re going?” Gustav questioned as a wide grin appeared on his face.

“What kind of host would I be if I didn’t give you lots a bit of entertainment,” He added as he held the aircraft in place.

Chills ran down the spines of the pilots and everyone else within the aircraft at the moment.

Not only did this type of aircraft weighed almost five hundred thousand kilograms and with how fast it was moving, the amount of destructive force it was carrying was enough to crash through tons of high-rise building without its momentum reducing.

They had heard about how powerful Gustav was for his bloodline rank but they felt the information given was too inaccurate compared to how powerful he truly was.

The pilot within gritted his teeth as he pushed a button within the cockpit causing more thrusters to appear behind the aircraft.

Zhiiiizzhhhh~ Boom!

The thrusters shot out like crazy and these were supposedly supposed to increase the speed of the aircraft by ten times its original speed.

To their utmost surprise and disbelief, Gustav remained in front of the aircraft unyielding.

“Time to join your companions on the ground,” Gustav voiced out before pushing his fingers deeper into the outer covering of the aircraft.

He pulled both hands towards the side, ripping the entire spacecraft in two.

“Arrrrrgghhhhhh!”

“Kiarrrrhhhhhhh!”

The Genxodus members yelled out as they fell through the air.

Gustav remained suspended in mid air as he stared at the falling figures.

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

His sight phased forward with intense speed reaching the area he had ripped the first spacecraft apart.

He spotted some of the Genxodus members fully clad in the same technological suits as the others he dealt with in his living room.

“This was a really wonderful welcome by the way,” Gustav muttered with a smile as he dashed across the sky once more.

Fwwhiiiiiii~

The Genxodus members who had started flying were helping out the others who didn’t have the suit.

The instant they spotted Gustav fast figure flying in their direction from up ahead, they activated their weapons system.

Thwhii! Thwhii! Thwhii!

Multiple blue colored lazer beams shot out speedily.

“Rubbish,” Gustav muttered as he pushed his hand forward.

A gravitational force spread forth from his being which ended up deflecting the multiple projectiles headed for his direction.

Gustav arrived in front of one of them in the next instant.

“Stay down,”

He voiced out while sending out a fist.

Bang!

His fist collided with the chest of this Genxodus members, blasting a hole through his suit as he plummeted downwards with the person he was carrying.

Gustav proceeded to charge towards the next one and in a matter of moments, multiple blasting sounds rang out.

Bang! Bang Bang! Bang!

In the blink of an eye the entire sky was clear of these white suited members. All of them had fallen into the desert sand below.

Gustav turned around at this point and bolted across the air once more.

The same scene as earlier played out as some of these Genxodus members also activated the technology suits to help them in descending from the sky slowly.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

In a couple of seconds, Gustav had cleared the skies in this particular location as well and every single Genxodus members had plummeted to the desert sands below.

Gustav finally floated downwards at this point towards the assailant.

“It’s time for you lots to follow me back... oh well I guess you can’t so I’ll be taking you all back with me,” Gustav smiled cheekily as he stared at them.

Some of them were trying to pull themselves out of the sands and some had already passed out.

However, none of them were seriously injured as the sand had cushioned their fall like Gustav expected.

[Gravitational Displacement Has Been Activated]

The Gravitational force around him suddenly changed as these Genxodus members began to float. Some of them were pulled out of the sand by the Gravitational Displacement and even some of the desert sand floated into the air.

“Let’s go boys,” Gustav stated as he charged forward once more.

All of these figures were firmly grabbed in place by his Gravitational Displacement as he flew forward with multiple bodies floating in the air after him.

He arrived at the other place where he dealt with the others and the same thing happened.

Gustav proceeded to fly into the air in the direction of his home as the other floated in the air along with him.

—

“Looks like my living room has been redecorated,” Gustav voiced out as he stood within his living room with a slightly astonished look.

There were headless bodies everywhere with blood splattered across the floors, walls and his sofas.

The bodies of the Genxodus members lay on his floor while still clad in the technological suit but headless.

The ones he had dealt with were outside all incapacitated but the ones he left here that tried to abduct him were all dead.

Gustav squatted and stared at a part of the blood puddles mixed with brain matter.

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

His eyes zoomed in on a very small piece of unknown physical matter that looked like it could easily go unnoticed. It was as small as the size of the pores in human skin.

It was practically microscopic level but Gustav was able to point it out as something foreign that wasn't a part of the human body.

"Desensitised material size reduction..." Gustav noticed that the original size of this item had been tampered with.

He also noticed it was still missing a big piece but even despite that Gustav was able to study what was left of the item to uncover what it was.

"A bomb and a camera mixed together... that's some crazy tech," Gustav muttered with a look of fascination as he discovered what it was after careful examination.

Gustav still considered himself a man of science since he had messed with so many science related items and even studied many research's related to it as well.

This made it easy for him to figure things out in situations like this because he would link everything to what he had previously studied.

("I guess it makes sense now how they knew you were coming and started turning around,") The system voice in his mind.

"Yeah..." Gustav said as he stood uprightly.

"But how come the others I captured are not dead yet?" Gustav thought out loud as he turned to stare at his entrance.

The others he captured from the aircraft were still very much alive despite being incapacitated. If these ones also had bombs and cameras implanted in their brains, they should be dead like the ones in his living room right now.

Or so he thought...

Gustav couldn't wrap his head around why they hadn't killed those.

“Genxodus I know you can see and hear me right now... Even though there’s brain matter splattered all across my living room I can tell the cameras are still functional,” Gustav said as he chuckled lightly while speaking.

“You’ve poked the hornet’s nest... I really wasn’t intending to add you lots to my agenda but now...” A scarlet glow appeared in Gustav’s eyes as he got to this point.

“I promise to end your organisation and wipe you lots out!” He said with a powerful tone that caused the entire vicinity to tremble.

Anytime Gustav spoke like this, he would also exude streams of Comsic Superior energy involuntarily and he had no idea what this such was causing.

His Cosmic Superiority was now at least three times more powerful than before which had some boons even Gustav had not figured out yet.

“Do you recall I got rid of your predecessor who was hundred times smarter and shrewd than you lots?” Gustav said with a dangerous tone.

“Don’t worry about looking for me... I’ll come to you lots myself,” He added as his grin widened.

“Alright good chat,”

[Atomic Disintegration Has Been Activated]

“Purification,” He voiced out as he stretched out his right hand.

A milky colored glow fell from his hand onto the floor.

Zhiiiiinnnnnn~

A bright light engulfed the entire living room and in the next instant, everything within was disintegrated.

Blood, bodies, sofa, walls...

“Looks like I didn’t properly control the quantity,” Gustav said as his face displayed a ‘oops’ expression.

“Might have to reconstruct...” He added as he walked out of the house.

At this point he had already called Gradier Xanatus, explaining the current situation to him and telling him not to bring a lot of MBO officers here because he still wanted this place to remain a secret.

Chapter 1058 Increased Enmity

At this point he had already called Gradier Xanatus, explaining the current situation to him and telling him not to bring a lot of MBO officers here because he still wanted this place to remain a secret.

Gustav had to hold on and in the process he began to interrogate the members of Genxodus he abducted.

He wanted to find out why the others didn't get the same treatment with the ones he first dealt with and how their heads hadn't exploded yet.

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

Gustav looked through the skulls of these Genxodus members one after the other first while they were still unconscious.

'These four have the bombs and cams in their brain...' Gustav spotted four out of the Genxodus members who had mini cams and bombs implanted in their heads.

He moved towards them and stretched out his hand.

"These ones have to go," Gustav muttered as his palms glowed with milky colored light.

[Atomic Disintegration Has Been Activated]

Gustav proceeded to wrap his hand around the first one head and disintegrated it into nothingness with atomic disintegration.

The entire head was gone, from the brain, to the skull, to the blood and practically every tissue, nothing was left after Gustav was done.

Plop!

The headless body fell to the floor in the next instant.

Gustav proceeded to grab hold of the next Genxodus member with a bomb and cam implanted in their skull and performed the same action.

#####

In an unknown location a group of masked people watched an holographic display together.

The entire vicinity was dark and there were hundreds of them clustered in this unknown location together watching this footage.

They could see a figure with dirty blonde hair destroying heads one after the other.

The holographic screens on display would lessen by one after he destroyed a head.

-“Are we just going to sit back and watch him slaughter our kind like this?”

-“This is an unjust act against the Slakovs,”

-“Gustav Crimson is no hero! He is a villain and needs to be destroyed!”

These masked people began to yell out one after the other as the holographic screen only had one on display at the moment.

-“He must be destroyed!”

As they yelled out, the figure on screen had his hand wrapped around the head of the last person who the footage seemed to be coming from.

“Don’t worry fools, I’ll come for you lots,”

The figure on display voiced out before destroying the last head.

Tsshshshshhhh~

Static sounds rang out next as every of the holographic screens stopped displaying footage.

The crowd began to yell out the injustice that they had just witnessed and the atmosphere turned heated.

Tingggg!

A bright light suddenly landed on a particular area within this unknown structure. It fell upon a figure clad in silver colored outfit and helmet.

“Everyone relax,” The instant he voiced out, the place quietened.

“As you all know, Gustav Crimson isn’t an easy opponent...” He paused for a bit as he arrived at this point.

“Nonetheless we will make sure to get rid of him as soon as possible especially now that he seeks to rid the earth of our freedom organisation,” The unknown silver armored man voiced out once more.

“He will now be placed on our priority list however unlike this failed mission we shall send powerful mixedbloods after him,”

After voicing this out, the entire place was filled with chatters once more. Some voiced out their surprise at this sudden decision and others had different thoughts as well as opinions.

-“How can we make use of Mixedbloods when we’re trying to get rid of them?”

-“Isn’t that hypocrisy? Trying to use what we’re fighting against?”

Some of them voiced out disagreements as well.

“Relax everyone,” The silver armored man voiced out once more causing the place to quieten.

“Look at it this way... we’re using the opposition to get rid of the opposition. These idiots lack the unity we do, pay them off and they’ll be getting rid of each other without us having to put in a single effort...” He paused a bit as he got to this point, noting the expressions of the audience in front of him that were starting to look favourable.

“Those fools would easily kill their fellow species for money since they’re a corrupted bunch, we just have to use them to our advantage. This way we can even protect our kind better since it would be dangerous sending our own kind after some of them as you know we value the lives of our brothers and sisters unlike those animals,”

At this point cheers could be heard coming from every direction. With the explanation of this man in silver armor the rest of the members currently in this location wholeheartedly agreed with the method they were going to use to get rid of Gustav.

They were going to capitalise on the division between Mixedbloods.

#####

“You really redecorated the entire living room,” Gradier Xanatus voiced out as he stood in Gustav’s living room.

“Blame them... I still wonder how they figured out the location of my house,” Gustav voiced in response.

“Might be sloppiness on the part of the world government or with Genxodus high end technology they could easily source out the information by hacking into the government database or there could be a mole,” Gradier Xanatus listed out these options which Gustav nodded to.

“All which you have already thought about,” Gradier Xanatus noted Gustav’s expression.

“And more... but actually every single one of these options may be correct. We have Slakovs working with the world government as well,” Gustav voiced with a tone of analysis.

“So what was the reason the heads of the others didn’t explode?” Gradier Xanatus questioned as they moved outside.

A few MBO officers could be seen moving the Genxodus members into an aircraft parked in Gustav’s runway.

They were all restrained and had some mouth guards strapped to their mouth as well since it was recalled that the first Genxodus member Gradier Xanatus and Red Shadow caught committed suicide through his mouth.

Chapter 1059 Interrogation Discoveries

“These ones are slightly higher in level compared to the others,” Gustav disclosed.

“That’s why they don’t have cams and bombs implanted in their heads?” Gradier Xanatus found this answer to be a little weird.

“They have a hierarchy and in this hierarchy once you’re at a particular level, according to the leaders the trust has been established so they take out the head cam and bomb but the lower leveled ones retain the cam and bomb implanted in their heads,” Gustav explained.

“Whenever they’re on missions they send the teams mixed so the higher ups or commanders get to see footage of what is happening in the mission location which is why there were mixed in this one as well,” He added.

Gustav explained how the aircraft that was headed for his house to take him to whenever they were supposed to after subduing him, turned around before arriving here.

It was all due to the cams so they were aware of how Gustav had overpowered the others since they were watching.

"That's... hmm... how did you get them to spill?" Gradier Xanatus was surprised Gustav got this much info out of them.

"Interrogation... By reaching into theirs minds," Gustav replied.

"Did you get their location though?" Gradier Xanatus questioned.

"Unfortunately the information I have revealed to you so far come from a collection of minds. I had to take different parts of information from separate minds before joining them so I wasn't able to garner so much information... their minds couldn't take any more before I got to the part where I could retrieve information about their hideout," Gustav explained.

Gradier Xanatus had a slightly disappointed look on his face as he heard this.

"Slarkovs have normal strength like humans so they can't handle my ability like Mixedbloods... but I did get the location they were supposed to deliver me to," Gustav disclosed.

"Really?" Gradier Xanatus's face lit up with a look of interest.

“Yeah. Even though their mission ended up being a burst and they won’t be expected we could still check out that location,” Gustav responded.

“It’s definitely a good lead and the only one we have in the meantime as well,” Gradier Xanatus stated.

“Also I didn’t completely destroy the aircraft so the MBO technicians could go check out their map data to see if they can trace where they took off from,” Gustav voiced out.

“Hmm I’ll tell them to do just that,” Gradier Xanatus replied.

“What do you wanna do now?” Gradier Xanatus questioned.

“I want to head to the location?” Gustav replied.

“You definitely need a team. You don’t know what you might meet there,” Gradier Xanatus suggested.

“My team is currently unavailable so I’ll have to go myself,” Gustav said while shrugging his shoulders.

“Then let me help you gather a new one,” Gradier Xanatus voiced out once more.

“Nah, I prefer working alone anyways,” Gustav shook his head slightly while responding.

“Then let me help you gather a new one,” Gradier Xanatus voiced out once more.

“Nah, I prefer working alone anyways,” Gustav shook his head slightly while responding.

“Then I will come with you,” Gradier Xanatus stated.

“Huh?”

“I won’t back down on this one,”

Gradier Xanatus stood his ground.

“You don’t have to watch out for me every time. I’m not a baby, I can handle it myself,” Gustav indirectly turned Gradier Xanatus down.

“The young Miss will be on my neck if you’re put in harm’s way again,” Gradier Xanatus said.

“She’s millions of miles away, don’t worry you’re safe,” Gustav chuckled.

“I insist,”

“You’ll slow me down. Its safer for you to stay back,”

“What? I am still stronger than you are,”

“I’m sure you don’t believe that... besides I’m faster... oh shit I don’t have my dimensional bracelet,” Gustav suddenly recalled this.

“Which means you can’t easily escape if something unexpected happens... I’m coming with,” Gradier Xanatus closed off the argument with this.

Gustav knew they’d keep this going for two long if he still decided to argue back so he just let it end here.

“Alright, but you stay in the aircraft some distance away while I observe the location myself... I know how to remain unseen,” Gustav felt a subtle approach would be better when they arrived at the location.

Gradier Xanatus agreed to this term and they proceeded to head towards one of the aircraft.

Despite being of higher rank in the MBO than Gustav, Gradier Xanatus was starting to look like a subordinate when it came to issues relating to Gustav.

Gustav was only actually trying to protect him just like he wanted to protect everyone he considered important in his life. Gradier Xanatus happened to be one of those people and he would rather put himself in harm's ways than any one of the people he cherished because he never wanted a repetition of Boss Danzo's case.

Gustav decided to head to the location this fast instead of waiting mostly because his house was already a bust.

During the time he was away, he expected it to get fixed so he would come back to a rebounded and cleared the place.

The MBO was already taking care of the issue so he wasn't bothered. He was also rethinking whether or not to continue living there in the meantime.

After some time Gustav decided he would still live there even though the location had gotten a little compromised.

'If they want to send more people after me, it would be perfect... let them come, I will be expecting,' This thought crossed Gustav's mind as their blazed across the sky in the aircraft.

There was one thing that bothered Gustav the most. He didn't get this information from the others he interrogated with his mind so it was even more intriguing and he was interested in figuring it out.

'Why exactly are they after me?' Gustav questioned internally with a look of curiosity.

He felt this might have to do with the fact that he was responsible for ending their main sponsor and one of their founders, Yung Jo.

Chapter 1060 The Selection

Still, Gustav also felt it might be more than that and there was an ulterior motive. It was the first time he was seeing the Genxodus trying to abduct a mixedblood instead of actually killing them.

Anyhow things went now he was sure they were now on each other's radar and the two sides would not back down until one of them was gotten rid of.

#####

Chatter! Chatter! Chatter! Chatter!

In the middle of a plain ice land that spanned across hundreds of miles groups of youngsters could be seen clustered together.

They stood in place and discussed with one another causing the sound of chatters to reverberate across the entire vicinity.

“There are so many unknown faces here,” Falco voiced out with a look of curiosity.

“There is no weak person here...” Matilda said while looking around.

These were all youngsters here but everyone exuded powerful bloodline energy as if in a bid to intimidate the others.

“Since 20 years is the limit we definitely have some here who are below the age of 21 but up to 20 years already... they’ve had longer time to channel their bloodlines,” Aildris analysed why some were this powerful.

Their group were amongst the set of MBO cadets that finished early so they were still around 18 years old. Some of these contenders were over two years older than they were.

Gustav was the only one that was up to 19 years old amongst them all. They were relatively amongst the small ratio of the youngest IYSOP candidates.

They had seen a few familiar faces from their set in the MBO but these were only other special classes that had completed their training session in the MBO camp.

There were also actual MBO officers who had finished from the MBO camp and had been on duty for up to a year. These even had higher ranks in the MBO.

The number of people here was in the hundreds and the number of slots left to be on the main team was only sixteen.

The main team had a total of twenty slots but four had already been occupied. Gustav and Elevora occupied two of the four slots and the other two who had occupied the rest were currently unknown.

“This is not gonna be easy,” Teemee said with a low tone.

“With these numbers, it will take at least two to three days before the selection is complete,” Aildris mumbled.

“Well at least making the substitute team would be possible for everyone here,” E.E said while shrugging his shoulders.

The substitute team had around 30 slots which made the total amount of slots with the main team included, fifty in number.

According to the announcement that had been passed upon their arrival here, those with excellent performances who were unable to make the main team would be put on the substitute team.

“What’s the point of being in a substitute team? Hmph! I must get a slot on the main team and battle alongside my rival!” Ria voiced with enthusiasm.

“There are multiple peak Echo ranked participants but I think you guys would still be able to put up a fight...” Elevora said with a tone of encouragement.

“The ones you guys should try to avoid the most are the two persons here who have already achieved the Kilo ranks,” She added.

“What?”

“Huh?”

They exclaimed with looks of disbelief as they heard that.

“There’s a Kilo rank?” Angy voiced out with a worried tone.

“Not one but two,” Elevora responded.

While they knew there were a lot of Mixedbloods with higher bloodline rank than them, they had no idea that some of them had achieved the Kilo rank.

In their group, Falco, Matilda, Ria, Vera, Teemee and Glade were still at the peak of Falcon rank so this new situation worried Aildris and the others.

Every one of them was capable of handling mixedbloods slightly above their ranks but the gap between Kilo and Falcon's rank was too large.

Even for them who had already achieved Echo rank, beating a Kilo ranked mixedblood was close to impossible.

"We'll really need to avoid them during the selection... Good thing, there's only two of them," Aildris voiced out.

"You guys just can't sense them because they're hiding it... I think they plan on taking the others by surprise," Elevora explained.

It wasn't surprising that Elevora could discern the hidden Kilo ranks since she had her special forehead eye. She was capable of sensing better than every single one of them.

Elevora was also the only person in their group besides Endric who had reached the second step of the Echo rank.

Aildris, Angy and E.E were at the first step of the Echo rank while Gustav who wasn't here was at the third step.

“So long as we work together it should be no issue scaling through the selection,” Endric who had been silently dwelling in their midst all this time finally spoke up.

“Well you heard the kid,” E.E voiced out as he wrapped his arm around Endric’s shoulder.

“We also have him here as well so there’s nothing to worry about,” He added.

“Elevora, point out the participants we need to avoid,” Aildris requested.

While they were having their group discussion, other participants were also taking note of the participants who may give them a tough time in this selection.

They didn’t notice that some of these participants already had them on their radar and decided to avoid them as well.

-“They’re friends of Gustav Crimson, I don’t think they will be easy opponents,”

A group of forty clustered in a particular area of the Iceland seemed to be holding a meeting as well.

This group were dressed like high school students in white striped uniforms. However, it was obvious they weren’t high school students, instead, they were from some private organization.

This was a common thing here since this place was filled with participants from all across the world.

-“There’s only about ten of them and we are more than forty in number, there’s nothing to be worried about,”

Another one of the members voiced out.

-“Just because they’re his friends doesn’t make them as good as he is. The Ashiras have nothing to fear since the dreaded Gustav Crimson will not be participating in the selection with them,”

This time the person who seemed to be the leader of the group voiced out. He had white flowing hair that reached the back of his thighs almost like how Aildris had extremely long hair as well.

His words struck confidence in the hearts of his subordinates. They all nodded in agreement after hearing him speak and their faces shone with decisiveness.

In other parts of this Iceland, groups could be seen clustered together as well in different outfits.

Fifty percent of the participants here today were MBO officers or cadets while the others were from different private organizations and special mixedblood higher institutions.

It had been mentioned initially that mixedbloods from all across the board would be given a chance to represent the planet in IYSOP so this wasn't a surprising situation.

They only had to hold on for now as the selection hadn't begun.

—

"Are we ready for phase one?"

Within a secluded underground region, a man in a white outfit voiced out.

"Phase one is ready for implementation sir," Amongst the people working here, a lady tapping on a holographic tab beside him responded.

Right in front of them, a huge holographic screen displayed the participants waiting for the selection to begin.

"Implement Phase one," The man in a white outfit commanded.

"What about the candidates already chosen to be on the main team?" The lady inquired.

“Isolate them,” The man responded immediately.

She nodded in response and proceeded to tap a few keys on the screen in front of her.

“Implementing phase one,” She muttered while tapping a few more times.

— —

Zing!

“Huh? Where did Elevora go?” E.E suddenly voiced out as he saw Elevora disappear with a flash of white light.

“It’s starting,” Endric face turned serious as he voiced out.

Gbbhhhhhlllllbbbbllllhhh~

The entire Iceland began quaking all of a sudden causing the participants to be on alert.

A few lines of cracks spread from one area to the other and in the next few moments, the icy ground split open.

This took everyone by surprise as they had been informed of how sturdy these icy grounds were. It was said to be capable of withstanding powerful attacks from even Kilo ranked mixedbloods yet it was suddenly splitting open.

This split separated a lot of the participants as the part of the icy ground they were standing on shifted in another direction.

Fwwwheiiiiioommm~

As the icy grounds split open, intense flames suddenly spewed out from the spaces within the splits.

This scenario took a lot of them by surprise. The flames oozing forth in multiple areas of the splits were not melting the icy ground they were positioned on yet they could feel the immense heat.

There was no doubt the flames were real due to the immense rise in temperature that was also battling with the low temperature from the icy region.