

Bloodline 1071

Chapter 1071 A Work Station?

At this moment, E.E, Ria and Teemee stepped forward as well and proceeded to stand opposite the other three.

Despite their height, the others did not back down and stared up at the opposition with intense expressions.

Falco face turned dark as tattoos appeared all over.

"Ehhh! Who are these low life scums displaying their weakness!" Dark Falco yelled out as he also stepped forward.

They all stopped Endric from facing these four as they felt the need to protect him as Gustav's little brother.

"Hmm hahahaha," The short one began laughing hysterically after a brief silence.

"Good good show off... if you know what's best for you work with us to make sure every single private organization participant fail in the next phase. They shouldn't be here in the first place because the chance to represent the planet should belong only to the MBO," He added.

"Pass. We'll only focus on successfully getting through the next phase. You guys can do whatever you want," Aildris turned their offer down instantly.

"Do you guys wish to be isolated from the others? If you fail to work together with your fellow officers to eradicate the scums that shouldn't be here we shall offer you the same treatment as them," The bulky girl voiced out next.

"We're not interested in joining you to ambush others except the instructions for the next phase centers on that, which i highly doubt," Aildris declined once more.

"Shirama let's go," The short officer voiced as he turned around.

"Aye Yonda," Shirama responded as she also turned around.

"If we ever get pitted against each other in any of the next phases, you guys are dead meat," Shirama added as he walked away.

"Nice to meet you too," Aildris stated with a smile as he waved while they walked away.

"There we go... making enemies again," Falco voiced out as he regained control from his alter ego.

"Man up," Teemee said in response while tapping his shoulder.

"sigh y'all are really getting influenced by Gustav's ability to attract trouble," Falco facepalmed while speaking.

"Sorry about that," Endric apologised.

"You're not to blame for the behaviour of others," Aildris said in response.

The whole situation of turning on the others just because they're not a part of the MBO just didn't make sense to Aildris.

It was a competitive selection so he felt it was understandable if they were pitted against each other due to conditions or instructions. In that case he wouldn't hesitate to do what needed to be done but he decided he won't be a part to what these ones were planning just for the sake of leaving the slots open to just MBO officers.

"We'll need to watch out though. Hopefully the next phase will be favourable enough so we don't get jumped by our fellow officers," E.E stated.

"I'm sure we're not the only ones who refused them so it won't be that bad but we definitely have time be careful," Aildris responded with a look of contemplation.

"THE SECOND PHASE WILL BE STARTING IN THIRTY SECONDS,"

A loud voice rang out in the next instant.

----- ing here, he was glad he found this place.

'They certainly have more places like this... interesting,' A smirk appeared on Gustav's face as he moved out.

-

"So we can't go down there?" Gradier Xanatus questioned Gustav after he arrived within the aircraft.

"No. The traps will be triggered the moment any presence is detected. I'm afraid you guys can't get any data from there especially since they already fled," Gustav explained.

"Daum... what a waste..." Gradier Xanatus voiced out with a slightly disappointed look.

"I did get something though..."

Chapter 1072 Childish Sheila

"Daum... what a waste..." Gradier Xanatus voiced out with a slightly disappointed look.

"I did get something though..." Gustav disclosed causing Gradier Xanatus face to light up with a look of interest.

"Which is?" Gradier Xanatus questioned.

"Hold on..." Gustav said as he placed his index finger on his forehead.

("I'll transfer the little data I was able to retrieve without activating the trap,") The system voiced in his mind.

After a few seconds a holographic screen within the aircraft popped up and multiple rows of data began displaying along with a few footage.

"How did you get this?" Gradier Xanatus questioned with an awe stricken expression.

"That is not important... focus on the data and you guys can make plans based on what is revealed from there," Gustav responded.

"I'll get some people to analyse it so we can find out more on the Genxodus," Gradier Xantus nodded.

"Keep me posted... might not be able to get them today but I plan to destroy them," Gustav stated as he took his seat.

"Today was a really long day... I wanna go home and rest now," He added as he strapped in.

Gradier Xanatus strapped in as well and the aircraft proceeded to lift off into the sky after a couple of seconds.

Gustav had decided he would go back to dealing with his issues and the matters he had to work on in the meantime. Getting rid of the Genxodus wasn't a one day work and he was well aware of that.

He still had multiple things he had to take care of before IYSOP began so he didn't really have much time. However he did decide that if he completed the things on his list earlier, he would definitely join the IYSOP training before it ended.

There was nothing wrong with training since there was no such thing as over preparation. Being more prepared increased Earth's chances of winning anyways.

'The selection should have begun by now... I trust they'll do well,' Gustav said internally as he heaved a low sigh of relief.

He knew there was nothing to be worried about since they even had Endric as an addition on their side. So long as they weren't pitted against each other, Gustav didn't doubt that they would all get into the main team.

"So the higher the level of Mixedbreed we get rid of, the higher the points?"

Within an isolated room an unknown dark skinned girl questioned.

"Seems like it..." A guy seating beside her responded.

On a large screen in front of the three people seated here, they could see multiple participants moving around in a particular location.

Within this location, they would occasionally bump into Mixedbreeds and battle with them.

"Ahhh its so boring to sit here and just watch," She voiced out with a dissatisfied tone next.

"Sheila sigh can't you just sit in one place without complaining for a second?" The other guy spoke once more.

"Meh unlike you I like fun. You love boredom too much Vin," Sheila shrugged while voicing out with a ridiculing expression.

"Tch, I'll just ignore you for the rest of the selection," Vin said while closing his eyes and folding his arms.

"Hehehe Vin Vin," She jumped up from her seat at this point and moved towards him.

His face scrunched as he felt a finger poking at his face.

"Oy oy Vin Vin Vin you can't ignore me hehehe," She laughed childishly as she poked his face repeatedly.

She moved to the left and poked his forehead, then moved to his back and poked the side of his neck. At this point his face was squeezed up as he displayed a look of annoyance.

"Heyyyy!" He grabbed her finger at this point as he opened his eyes.

"Stop being a nuisance," He shouted.

"Huhuhu you're no fun Vin hehehe," She chuckled repeatedly as she proceeded to withdraw her finger.

"I'll just play with the beautiful sis instead hmph!" She said while turning to the side to stare at the other girl who had been here all this time.

It was a very beautiful girl with three pigtails and a violet colored hair tie wrapped around her forehead.

She had been seating here silently this whole time watching the holographic screens that displayed the participants going through the second phase.

Sheila moved towards her and reached out to try and poke her but the moment she did, the girl turned to the side to stare at her.

"Eekk her eyes look scary," Sheila paused her movement as she voiced out with a frightened tone.

"But I still wanna play with her," Sheila added as a smile appeared on her face and she reached out to try and poke the girl once more.

"If you're bored you could go and join them... I'm sure they'll be willing to let you join the selection," Elevora voiced out causing Sheila to pause.

"Hmmmmmm," Sheila placed her fingers on her lips as she dawned a contemplative expression.

"That sounds fun but they're too weak, I'd destroy every one of them," She voiced out and added a playful chuckle afterwards.

Elevora didn't bother responding after hearing this and turned to face the screen afterwards.

"What's the headtie for sis?" Sheila questioned with an intrigued expression as she began running her fingers across the headtie on Elevora's head.

"Sis?" Elevora said with a look of confusion.

"Yesssss you're my sis neow we'll work together in the future," Sheila said with a look of enthusiasm as she grabbed Elevora's hands and held them together to her chest with a caring look.

"Sis, I can tell there is immense power hidden underneath that headtie, we'll conquer planets together!" Sheila voiced out with an intense look.

"...okay," Elevora retained an expressionless look as she answered.

The situation was all too weird to her but she neither disliked or liked it so she remained neutral.

"Sheila don't bother the young lady," Vin voiced from the side after hearing Sheila's incessant babblings.

"Meh you didn't wanna play with me so sis will do a better job," Sheila voiced out with a look of defiance as she stared in Vin's direction.

Both of them began arguing back and forth and Sheila proceeded to move towards him and bit his ear after their argument turned heated.

'What a strange girl...' Elevora could not help but say this internally.

It was still a shock to her that Sheila was one of the two people who she sensed to be Kilo ranked earlier.

It turned out the others might be lucky since Sheila already had a reserved slot on the main team like her and Gustav so she didn't have to participate in the selection.

Vin was also reserved a slot so that made it four of them who were reserved a slot from the very beginning. Vin and Sheila seemed to be familiar with each other as Vin didn't seem bothered about her personality like he was already used to it.

Unfortunately Vin wasn't the other mixedblood who was Kilo ranked. Elevora had already sensed his bloodline to be at the peak of Echo rank which was higher than hers but still not up to Kilo rank.

She was a bit surprised that the other Kilo ranked was not reserved a slot whereas herself and another Echo rank were given slots.

Despite Gustav being an Echo rank as well she didn't question that he got a spot specially because Gustav could not be compared to normal mixedbloods so his case still made sense.

Thinking about it, the only way she could make sense of her own case was the fact that she was younger. Sheila and Vin were both officers in the MBO and had been in service for up to a year so there was no doubt that they were at least twenty year old.

Despite Sheila acting all childish, it made sense how she was a Kilo ranked being up to twenty years old. What she said about destroying the others if she entered the selection was not in anyway false as she wasn't just a Kilo ranked but a third step Kilo ranked.

She was no doubt the most powerful Mixedblood participating in IYSOP with the exception of Gustav since they couldn't judge Gustav prowess by normal means.

The most powerful was definitely between them both.

Elevora decided to stop thinking about this for now and focused more on a particular part of the screen.

'They're doing well so far... I hope they make the main team,' She said internally as she watched.

"That's a level 69 Furry Giant successfully dealt with," E.E voiced out as he stared at the corpse of the creature on the ground in front.

"It only gives a hundred points," Falco added.

"That's ten point each since there's ten of us," Angy clarified.

"Not enough, we have to find more powerful Mixedbreeds... That way we'd get better points when there collective effort in putting it down," Aildris voiced out.

Chapter 1073 The Second Phase

"Not enough, we have to find more powerful Mixedbreeds... That way we'd get better points when there collective effort in putting it down," Aildris voiced out.

They all agreed with Aildris point of view and proceeded to move forward.

This phase of the selection was one where individuality was a better option. This was due to the fact that killing certain levels of mixedbreed brought about points.

When they dealt with the mixedbreed together, the points would have to be shared amongst them but if a person was to deal with a Mixedbreed solo all the points would go only to that one person.

The reasons they still decided to do this as a team was not only because combined effort made it easier to get rid of higher leveled Mixedbreed but because anyone of them could bump into the officers they met in the waiting room earlier.

Meeting them individually would be a problem but if they were together when that happened, they could easily watch each other's back.

The four had a large group of MBO officers they had managed to sway so there was no doubt that meeting individually would end up bad for anyone from their team perhaps besides Angy since she was pretty fast.

They just decided they would have to deal with higher leveled mixedbreeds together especially since it wasn't very wise dealing with one without a team anyways.

There was no limit to how many points the participants could accumulate, neither was there an announcement on the number of points needed to proceed to the next phase.

It was obvious that only the participants that had managed to accumulate the highest points before the timer ran out would successfully move on to the next phase.

Currently they still had over twenty two hours left since it was a twenty four hours long phase.

The ribbons that were initially in their grasp was now wrapped around their wrists and displayed a screen which had numbers on them.

This screen happened to be displaying the timer as well as the points accumulated by the participant wearing it.

It also had one more function which was the detection of nearby mixedbreeds with its level.

"Level 57 Knoix Mixedbreed up northwards," Falco voiced out.

"Too low, we're skipping," Aildris stated as they made a small turn to alter their direction.

They were currently on a sparse forest path with some trees scattered across the place but the further they travelled the sparser the forest turned.

Each of the trees here were the height of high rise buildings with a bunch of silver purplish leaves all around the branches. These branches had turned into a canopy that almost completely blocked out the rays of light from above.

It was as if they were moving in darkness currently but mixedbloods of their level all had honed senses so this wasn't a problem.

The location of the current phase had some really weird terrains but they still had over twenty hours to figure things out.

They kept running for a few more minutes before they got another mixedbreed on the radar.

"A Level 92 Tar bird mixedbreed," Falco announced.

"It might be a bit inconveniencing since it is capable of flight but we can defeat it... that's 500 worth of points," Aildris voiced out.

Everyone nodded in response ready to engage as they charged forward past a few trees.

They spotted a massive nest strung together and held from multiple angles by vine looking threads. This nest was really as gigantic as multiple buildings joined and there was no doubt that the Tar Bird Mixedbreed was a large one.

"THHAAIIIIIIHHHHHH~"

A loud shrieking sound reverberated all across the vicinity as the creature sensed the presence of intruders.

The nest shook vigorously as a head with a massive beak peered through the top. The bird had two massive black eyes by the side of its head and two smaller red ones side by side in the middle.

Its head was dark and murky looking. It stood up completely and raised its wings which were extremely gigantic as well. Its entire body had red glowing lines around while black patches that looked very thick covered most parts.

"Yosh, everyone let's do this," E.E shouted as he opened a vortex the instant the creature flapped its wings.

Everyone spread out in the next instant as the creature blasted forward.

Fwwhooosshhh~

Heavy winds spread across the place with a single flap of its wings, causing the trees around to arc and leaves to be blown across the place.

"THHAAIIIIIIHHHHHH~"

The creature landed where they stood initially but everyone had managed to move from that spot on time.

E.E had gone through his vortex arriving hundreds of feet in the air. He began free falling towards the creature as he stretched forth his hand to open another vortex.

Swwwwoosshhh~

Angy was speeding around the creature increasing its ire and confusing as it found it difficult to react to her speed.

Dark Falco had taken over and was charging towards the creature from behind while Endric was preparing a telekinetic attack from the left.

Glade had conjured her massive red glowing sickles and flung them from the right. Teemee was charging forward as well as a reddish light surrounded his figure.

Matilda had taken on a silvery armor form beside him and held out a Lance that was radiating with immense energy.

Aldris was the only one leaping towards the creature from up front with his eyes closed.

The creature could tell it was getting flanked from all angles despite Angy confusing its senses by speeding around it.

It spread out its wings and flapped once more in a bid to move but the massive vortex E.E had opened up appeared right below it.

Zzhhhrrrrhhhhh~

The vortex closed up around the legs of the Tar Bird trapping it in place.

Fwwhoosshhh~

Even after flapping its wings, it was unable to get out of E.E's vortex that had trapped it in place.

At this same instant the multiple attacks arrived before it.

Endric's wave of telekinetic wall rushed forward and slammed into the creature from the side multiple times causing loud sounds of collusion to reverberate across the vicinity.

Glade's sickles increased in size as they travelled forward, becoming more than forty feet in length each before colliding with the body of the mixedbreed.

Ria who had been conjuring multiple massive boulders sent them forward with intensity causing them to crash repeatedly into the creature's back.

Aildris, Angy, Matilda and Teemee all attacked in close quarters as they rained barrages on fists on the body of the creature after closing in on it.

After making contact with its skin, they realised how truly sturdy the creature's body was and urged for the others to keep sending attacks towards it.

E.E had landed on its back at this point but he didn't attack because he had to hold concentration for the Vortex he used in trapping the lower half of the creature's body.

The mixedbreed was not weak at all so it was very difficult to maintain this and he knew a single slip up could cause him to lose the hold so focus was necessary.

Their attacks were working but they were still far from completely dealing with the creature because its outer covering was like an armor that reduced the impact of their attacks a lot.

"THHAAIIIIIIHHHHH~"

The creature shrieked out again in pain as black smoke suddenly began phasing out of its body.

"Uh?" Everyone had looks of confusion as they spotted the black smoke phasing out of its body.

"We have to distance ourselves right now..." Falco yelled out as he seemed to be the only one aware of what this meant.

However the smoke had completely spread across thousands of feet in barely an instant and was still spreading so they had found themselves within it before they even had the chance to react.

Everyone turned around at this point to distance themselves but in the next instant...

Boom! Boom! Boom! Boom! Boom!

A series of explosions rang out across the vicinity as the smokes began exploding.

The region was instantly turned into a explosion ground as these explosions kept ringing out repeatedly.

Each one was pretty powerful and with so many exploding at once, the destructive ripples getting spread across the vicinity was no joke.

Twwhissshhh~

A silver streak strode across the region back and forth without getting affected northwards while a vortex also appeared thousands of feet away and a couple of people jumped out of it.

Black smoke also phased out but the vortex quickly closed up just as it had appeared.

E.E had opened vortexes for some of them at the moment Falco advised them to distance themselves while Angy had used her speed to escape the AOC.

Angy could move as fast as three hundred thousand feet in a single instant in her base form so she was able to carry others back and forth before the explosion could spread across the entire area.

Besides that, she was fast enough to evade the explosions so fortunately they all managed to get away from there with the exception of one person.

Chapter 1074 Telekinetic Division

Besides that, she was fast enough to evade the explosions so fortunately they all managed to get away from there with the exception of one person.

"Where is Endric?" Aildris voiced out as he looked around.

"Angy,"

"E.E.,"

Angy and E.E yelled out each other's name simultaneously.

"You didn't get him?" E.E questioned with a worried tone.

"I thought you did," Angy responded with a disturbed look as well.

Everyone turned around to stare at the AOC of the explosions.

Despite E.E and Angy getting them a far distance from the location, the impact from the non stop blasts were still spreading to their position.

The winds generated from it were causing their clothes to flap intensely as they squinted their eyes.

"Shit," Teemee voiced out as he spotted the continuous damage.

"The Tar Bird uses this ability when has been put in a position where there is no other option... It causes millions of explosions within a particular time frame and any enemy within range would be blasted to smithereens, leaving not even a single atomic body part left," Falco explained.

"Angy can you get him?" Aildris questioned.

"The explosions are currently too concentrated... if she runs in at the moment she will be affected," Falco answered before she could.

"I'll still go," Angy voiced out as she adopted a running form.

"...It's already ending," Falco stated.

"What?" Everyone voiced out with looks of confusion as they heard Falco say this.

Truly just as he had voiced out, in the next instant explosions began to reduce.

"It is expected that after this ability wears off, the Tar bird would go into a weakened state due to the high amount of energy needed to trigger such an attack. It is also expected that anyone within the concentrated vicinity would be destroyed too so..." Falco explained with a tone of implication.

"That's not..." Just as Matilda was about speaking they sensed a violet outburst of energy from up ahead.

"Huh?" Everyone was instantly on the alert.

Zzhrrrhhhh~

E.E opened up a vortex and they began to jump in.

As they arrived within a gigantic crater covering more than fifty thousand feet, they met a gigantic corpse.

A familiar figure was standing on the blackened ground, right in front of the massive creature's corpse.

The corpse was split into two halves according to what they could see and blood oozed out like a fountain. They couldn't help but stare at him with bewildered expressions.

"Endric?" E.E voiced out.

-

Sconds earlier before the explosions began Endric waved his fingers in a weird manner within the covering of the black smoke.

An invisible telekinetic dome appeared around him in the next instant and pulled all the black smoke out of the dome with him.

"Will Empowerment," Endric clasped his hands together as he strengthened the telekinetic dome surrounding his figure.

Boom! Boom! Boom! Boom! Boom! Boom!

The explosions began ringing out repeatedly causing the ground he was standing on to begin crumbling as it sank.

However even with this, Endric remained focused in keeping the dome active while the explosions kept ringing out.

His legs buckled occasionally and he was so close to losing it but he managed to scale through. This was due to the fact that even though the explosions were very destructive within a particular range, they didn't last for a very long time.

Immediately after the explosions ended, Endric got rid of the barrier and breathed in and out profusely.

Fwwwheiiii!

He waved his hands and the smoke surrounding him instantly vanished from the wind generated.

"It's in a weakened state," He spotted the Tar bird up ahead making some weird sounds as it stood in place.

Its entire flesh seemed like it was wriggling as well which also depicted that its skin might be softer than before.

"Time to die," Endric eyes turned silvery blue as he joined his right index finger to the middle one and raised it.

A burst of energy was sent forth from his being as he charged himself up causing the creature to be alerted. However the others were alerted as well upon this outburst of energy.

The creature raised its wings as quickly as it could, ready to flap it and run away but Endric was quicker.

"Telekinetic division," He voiced out as he raised his hand with the two fingers joined together.

He flung it down in the next instant like he was swinging at someone with a blade.

Fwwwheiii!

An Intense and sharp telekinetic line cut forward crazily, causing the grounds to split open with cracks as it traveled towards the creature.

Upon collision, it instantly cut through the creature from the middle of its head down to its rear area. The attack kept traveling forward for another three thousand feet destroying everything in its path before it stopped.

The creature that had managed to flap once, only had both halves of its body ascend into air for a few feet before they fell back towards the ground with blood gushing out intensely.

Endric eyes returned to normal at the same instant a vortex appeared behind him.

"Endric," He heard a familiar voice call out to him.

He turned around at this point and spotted the calvary.

"Are you alright?" Aildris questioned.

"Never been better," Endric responded with a slight nod.

"I took care of the creature," He added.

"We can see that," Angry said as she moved forward to inspect the creature.

"The points... they updated," Teemee stated as he stared at the ribbon strapped to his wrist.

"Fifty points," Ria confirmed.

Everyone else nodded as well as they had also gotten equal points from the creature getting destroyed despite Endric being the person who landed the finishing blow.

Now it looked like Endric was strong enough to take care of such high leveled Mixedbreed himself .

"Falco you know better about the Mixedbreeds than anyone else so warn us ealier about such situations next time," Aildris said.

"I didn't think we'd inflict enough damage on it within such little time that would cause it to use that, my bad," Falco responded with an apologetic tone.

'I didn't remember till I saw the smoke... Gustav is way more knowledgeable than I am in the mixedbreed aspect though,' These were Falco thoughts internally as he recalled Gustav was responsible for making Falco learn more about Mixedbreeds.

This was mostly due to Falco looking for an answer for having Dark Falco within him and Gustav put him up to study in all parameters.

"Everyone has around four hundred points now..." E.E voiced out.

"Let's keep moving then... we still have a whole lot to hunt and a high number of points to accumulate," Aildris urged as he began to move forward.

They all followed after him with looks of enthusiasm.

Within a large warm bath, Gustav heaved a sigh of relief.

"At least the house has been repaired," He muttered as he leaned his back against the wall within the bath.

The soapy water reached a little above his abs and his chest was on display.

There was an occasional golden spark in the middle of his chest but it would dissappear the instant it gleamed so it was barely noticeable.

("What do you plan on doing about the Genxodus?") The system questioned.

"You live in me... read my mind," Gustav responded.

("I don't want to go through the trouble... you guard your thoughts a lot these days,") The system stated with a irritated tone.

"Oh? Hahaha that's just my mental state getting more powerful," Gustav clarified.

("I would still have access to your inner thoughts even though it proved very difficult but now it's like I can't even invade anymore...") The system pointed out.

"Of course... that's my inner mind. Man needs a little privacy lurker," Gustav chuckled as he voiced out.

("Hmph! I live in you, there shouldn't be any privacy at all,") The system voice had turned sour as the girly tone turned shrill.

"Haha no..."

"Tch!"

"Anyways... I don't really have plans for them at the moment. With the information we got the last time and my analysis of the current status, its up to them to make investigations," Gustav began voicing out.

"As I have mentioned before, they most likely have other work stations underground just like the last one and these work stations will not be abandoned because they have no idea I already found one of them... the MBO just needs to find the locations now. I will be able to act after they have done so," Gustav added with a tone of interest.

("Hmm, so till that time, it's back to working on the space device and Scientist Zil's research?") The system inquired.

"Precisely," Gustav responded.

"Especially since you have failed to give me more information on the incoming doom so I'll have find out myself," Gustav added.

("Patience... I will reveal something to you after the IYSOP,") The system disclosed.

Chapter 1075 Non Stop Grinding

("Patience... I will reveal something to you after the IYSOP,") The system disclosed.

"Meh that's what you keep saying," Gustav responded with a dismissive tone.

("Remember what I told you about not revealing so much as it would draw the timing of events even more closer than before,") The system stated.

"Sureee... which also means I have to figure most of it out myself," Gustav mumbled with a look of dissatisfaction.

("Tch!")

Gustav ignored the system for the rest of the time he was in the bath. There was still so much he didn't know but he also still had lots to do within the time frame.

He was just glad he knew what steps to take in the mean time. He wasn't stuck... yet.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Boom!

Another hole was blasted through a massive spider with whitish look and sizzling lava like blood began drizzling out of it.

There were ten people gathered around it unleashing powerful attacks of all sorts which had inflicted multiple damages on them.

The creature that looked battered due to their attacks with multiple holes in its bod and a couple of its legs missing.

After another hole was blasted through the creature it finally fell to the ground in defeat. Its legs twitched for a bit before the creature finally stopped moving.

"That's another sixty points," Endric voiced out as he fell from the air and landed right behind the corpse.

Everyone else checked their ribbons and could see their points went up by sixty. It was a join effort so the points were shared equally.

Not too far behind them were the corpse of other large creatures similar in look to this one. They mostly looked smaller than this particular one even though they were all large.

Multiple holes, cracks and craters could be seen all across the vicinity which depicted they had really wreaked havoc upon this place.

The corpses scattered across left a pungent smell across the air.

Plop!

"Blerrgghh!" E.E fell to his knees as he emptied out the contents of his stomach.

Angy who was standing beside him squatted and rubbed his back as he kept emptying out the contents of his stomach.

"Sorry man," Falco voiced as he moved closer.

Everyone had a sympathetic look on their face as they spotted E.E puking. They already knew the reason for this.

"No worries, I'll become numb to it soon," E.E said as he breathed in and out profusely.

A bottle of water appeared in Angy's hand in the next instant and she passed it along to E.E.

"Thanks," E.E said before drinking.

"Where the hell did those bastards come from anyways?" After sipping a particular volume from the bottle, E.E voiced while standing to his feet.

"It's a colony," Falco responded.

"Uh? Isn't colony a term used for a group of ants?" E.E questioned with a confused tone.

"Not the point here... emphasis on group," Falco stated.

"They almost got the jump on us..." E.E said while heaving out a sigh of relief.

"In the meantime don't use your vortexes to rip a being from the inside out," Aildris proposed.

"Hmm? Why not?" E.E asked.

Aldris stared at him like he was hinting, 'Are you really asking me that right now?'

"Oh this? Nah I'm good... I'll have to get used to it anyways," E.E waved it off like it was nothing.

"It's detrimental... I can sense it," Aldris voiced in response.

"Nope it's not," E.E worded with a light chuckle while shrugging it off.

Aldris face lit up with a look of suspiciousness before he spoke again.

"Alright then... but still, take it easy," Aldris advised.

"I'm am as unkillable as a cockroach, don't worry about me," E.E brushed it off once more.

"A cockroach would be killed with a single stomp though," Falco voiced from the side.

"Shut up Falco, why you ruining my moment?" E.E yelled out with a look of distaste.

"Just stating facts," Falco replied.

E.E; "..."

"Anyways we all have over four thousand points each now... should we take a little break or keep grinding for points?" Aildris questioned while glancing at everyone.

"Wasn't it announced that there are a limited number of Mixedbreeds?" Matilda questioned.

"That is true," Falco added.

"Yeah but do you guys wanna take a break to recover your energies? We've not stopped for over fourteen hours now," Aildris questioned.

"I wanna keep going,"

"Me too,"

"There's no need for break,"

"We're strong enough to handle the entire twenty four hours,"

They voiced out their answer one after the other causing Aildris to nod. After they all agreed to keep going, Aildris turned to stare at E.E again.

"Whatchu looking at me for? I told you I could keep going," E.E voiced out before proceeding to open a vortex.

"Let's go," He voiced out before going through it.

They all proceeded to follow after him.

The second phase of the selection had been ongoing for close to fifteen hours at this point and they hadn't taken a single break in hunting down the mixedbreeds.

They had destroyed Mixedbreeds ranging from level 50 - 98 during this time frame.

The creature they had just handled a while back was a level 98 Mixedbreed and although it had been difficult to defeat especially since it had many underlings, they were able to pull it off.

This was mostly due to E.E who went on a killing spree by opening Vortexes within most of these creatures when they were put in a precarious situation.

Everyone witnessed how truly powerful E.E could be and his capacity to destroy anyone within moments.

Since the Mixedbreeds in this location they were transported to were limited they wanted to make sure they gathered enough points before the other participants made them scarce.

E.E, Aildris, Endric and the others kept moving from place to place across the location, slaughtering mixedbreeds and gathering more points as the time passed.

They occasionally bumped into other participants in groups during this endeavour but they made sure to head to another location upon seeing if they spotted team was taking care of the mixedbreed they were after.

Time went by very quickly and before everyone knew it, only around an hour was left before the second phase would come to an end.

The group was still moving around at this time and they hadn't come across another Mixedbreed in the last thirty minutes of moving around this region.

"Maybe we should take that break now," Glade suggested.

"Hmm," E.E had a contemplative look on his face.

"There is a possibility every mixedbreed in this region has been killed already," Endric voiced out.

His analysis didn't seem wrong as the limited number of mixedbreeds has already been stated earlier.

With over four hundred powerful Mixedbloods put together in a secluded location like this, total annihilation before twenty four hours was a possibility.

"I still have a lot of energy left though," Teemee stated.

"Me too," Ria voiced out.

"And me,"

Most of them added.

"The issue is with finding a mixedbreed... if we keep checking and we don't see anyone in the next five minutes, we'll be taking that break," Aildris said.

He also wasn't out of energy so he was okay with them still checking but if the mixedbreeds had been completely slaughtered, he felt there was no point.

They kept moving forward and Angy speed across the vicinity checking for creatures around.

Swwoosshhh~

A little after three minutes, she appeared in front of everyone and voiced out.

"There's one up ahead,"

Everyone stared in the direction she pointed at and proceeded to start heading northwest.

Angy sped up once more getting ahead of them and they activated their bloodlines ready for battle.

They kept moving for about twenty seconds at full speed and despite not being as quick as Angy they were still pretty fast.

"Hmm? Where is it Angy?" Matilda questioned after noticing Angy's figure had disappeared.

They found themselves on a spacious area void of trees but still surrounded by the forestry areas.

"Where is the Mixedbreed? I still can't sense the presence of any creature around here," E.E voiced with a confused expression.

"Guyys something is..." Matilda didn't get to complete her statement as the ground began quaking intensely.

"What's going on!?" Falco yelled out with a look of confusion.

The ground suddenly leveled and began sinking quickly.

Aildris, Endric and E.E who had the quickest reactions in the group leaped upwards the moment the ground began quaking initially.

However, the instant they did so a massive reddish colored cube appeared around the vicinity.

Bang!

They all slammed into the solid frame of the barrier that suddenly appeared along with Falco and the others who had reached a bit slower.

They were all affected, with the exception of E.E.

He had created a vortex and pulled himself out of the AOE very quickly.

Chapter 1076 Unexpected Ambush

As he appeared quite the distance away he noticed everyone else was trapped within.

He didn't waste time questioning what was happening at the moment and proceeded to open a vortex that could help the others leave that area.

The instant he opened a vortex, he spotted a gigantic shadow looming over him.

He looked up and spotted two massive arms joined slamming down towards him.

E.E wasn't able to react to this quickly as he was focused on the Vortex.

Bang!

The two fists attached to the top of the arm slammed into him heavily from above causing, flattening the entire vicinity from the impact.

Krrrrrryychhhh!

A crater was instantly formed from the impact of the blow which caused shockwaves to spread from the vicinity.

The vortex he opened within the entrapment that had been set for them disappeared the instant the blow was received.

"Damn it's gone," Falco voiced with a tone of frustration as he noticed the vortex had disappeared a moment after it appeared.

They were currently all at the bottom of the pit that had been created after the ground got leveled with the exception of just a single person.

One person managed to get into the vortex before it could disappear.

Boom!

The sound of the impact from the blow on the surface caused the underground to tremble as well.

"We have to get out of here as soon as possible," Not knowing what was going on above, Aildris voiced with a tone of urgency.

"Let's hope they will be okay till we get out of here," Matilda voiced with a hopeful tone as everyone prepared to attack the barrier tripping them within.

Above the surface E.E felt like he just got rammed through by multiple mountains as he his opened his eyes.

His sight was still very blurry as his eyes flickered.

'What is going on?' He questioned internally as he slightly raised his head while laying on the ground.

"Take him instantly before he saves the others!"

At the same instant the loud voice was heard, he spotted a figure descending towards him with force. E.E was not in a state to evade the incoming attack which closed in on him in an instant.

Bang!

Another loud collision rang out as shockwaves spread across the vicinity once more.

"Hmm?" The figure that was descending let out a surprised expression as he found himself blocked, inches away from making contact with E.E.

The man with an ashen white face, ram horns and a seven foot tall frame with muscular bearing turned to the side as he sensed something.

Bang!

An invisible wall driving at insane speed slammed into his figure sending him flying.

His entire figure spiralled multiple times in mid air before slamming into the ground and tearing cracks across it.

"Are you okay?" Endric voiced from the side as he approached E.E.

"Yeah... I didn't expect that," E.E rubbed his head as he stood to his feet.

"Where the hell did these guys come from?" E.E yelled out as he noticed they had been surrounded.

"It's them," Endric stated as he spotted familiar figures.

The edges of the crater was currently surrounded by up to eleven mixedbloods clad in MBO uniforms.

Out of these twelve, four were familiar faces which were none other than the four they had met in the waiting room before the second phase of the selection began. Yonda, Shirama and the twin brothers.

Endric had just attacked one of twin brothers a while ago to after saving E.E from getting crushed but they were completely outnumbered in this situation.

"He managed to send Ighor flying with just a single attack... we can't underestimate the Newbies," The other twin brother voiced out.

"Deal with the dark one instantly before he frees the others," The shortest who was also the leader of the gang, Yonda, yelled out.

E.E eyes squinted as he stretched his hand forward in a bid to conjure a vortex but at the same instant one of the enemies appeared right beside him.

This opponent had long dagger like claws that were already sweeping towards E.E hands in a bid to cut them off.

Endric eyeballs shifted to the side as he followed the attack with precision. He turned with his right palm straightening while also thrusting it forward.

Even though the other person seemed faster and was close to successfully landing the attack, Endric didn't even need to make contact with them.

A telekinetic force blasted forward from his palm, slamming heavily into the opponent.

Bang!

"Ugh!"

The opponent groaned and puked out blood as they got blasted away.

It was very difficult to guard against Endric's telekinetic force unless the opponent could use the same amount of force to repel it. They would have to see it coming and measure correctly they could pull it off.

"His will is very powerful, be careful," Yonda voiced out as he also approached from up ahead.

At the same instant Endric managed to blast the other opponent away another one had appeared on E.E's other side.

Endric who was ready to protect E.E so he could successfully conjure another Vortex for the others to be freed had difficulty as two other opponents flanked him from the sides.

At the same moment a red energy orb had been sent forward and others were also sending forth powerful attacks to deal with them.

Endric eyes turned silvery blue as he raised his right foot and stomped it on the ground.

Bang! Shrrroouuummmm~

A telekinetic barrier pushed forth from his frame, stirring up dust as it surrounded himself and E.E.

Bang! Bang! Boom!

Multiple powerful attacks landed on the telekinetic barrier in the next instant causing Endric to groan as he gritted his teeth from the pressure.

E.E didn't waste this opportunity and finally opened a vortex that appeared within the barricaded pit they had trapped the others in.

"Phinx!" Yonda yelled out as stood outside Endric's telekinetic barrier

Chapter 1077 Phinx Mimicry

"Phinx!" Yonda yelled out as stood outside Endric's telekinetic barrier

A lady with silver floating hair nodded as she glowed with whitish light and moved forward.

"Huh?" Endric muttered as he noticed the weird energy coming from this lady.

His eyes widened in shock in the next instant as she walked right through his telekinetic barrier unaffected.

Bam!

She took Endric by surprise as she suddenly drove a fist into his gut.

Endric was blasted backwards by punch and his telekinetic barrier instantly disappeared.

'Shit,' Endric cursed internally as his body traveled across the air from the force of the attack.

E.E had gotten surrounded once more and attacks were heading towards him from every direction.

His eyes turned serious as he pointed at he twirled his fingers.

Zhiiiihhh~

A Vortex appeared right beneath him and he sank into it in the next instant.

The multiple attacks missed as E.E dissappeared.

Endric who was initially blasted away did a flip in mid air and landed on his feet many feet backwards.

'Thanks,' He said Internally and a green glow on his forehead gleamed twice.

"He's up there!" Someone amongst the group of opponents yelled out as they pointed up.

E.E was falling from the sky but they noticed he wasn't alone.

"Damn it! He got them out!" Yonda voiced as he noticed the multiple figures falling from the vortex that had appeared up above as well.

Everyone had sour looks as they stared upwards and some of them began to send out attacks while this group was still in mid air.

Matilda's body wriggled as her body excreted silvery substance which formed a solid armor that covered her entire being up.

The instant she finished doing this, she pushed forth her palm and the same silvery substance formed a massive silvery shield below them as they fell.

Boom! Boom! Boom! Boom!

Sounds of explosions rang out as the attacks coming from below collided with her silvery circular shield without causing any effect.

In a manner of moments they landed on the ground with a loud thud right in the middle of the group of twelve that had orchestrated the ambush.

Aildris scanned across the vicinity for the enemies he had already sensed from the moment he was buried in the hole with the others.

"I thought as much... it was you guys," He voiced out as he spotted the familiar looking faces.

"What did you do with Angy?" Matilda questioned with a loud tone as her voice sounded a bit metallic due to the silvery armor covering her up.

"Oh your teammate?" Yonda questioned as he stood in an attacking format with the others.

"Where is she? She would never lead us into a trap," Falco said as his entire body began radiating with a dark wave of energy.

Everyone seemed to have figured that the person they were initially following, who lead them into a trap was not Angy.

"Hahaha you are indeed correct... that wasn't your teammate," He stated as he turned to the side to stare at someone.

He seemed to be staring at a lady with silver floating hair by his side. Her entire frame was glowing with whitish light.

She turned to the side and stretched forth her hand to touch Yonda.

Upon making contact with him, her body emitted a blinding light and in the next instant she had taken his exact image.

"What?"

E.E, Aildris and the others voiced out with looks of surprise as they witnesses this.

"Mimicry... A pseudo shapeshifting bloodline," Aildris muttered as he stared at them warily.

"As you can guess already, Phinx is able to mimic the form of anything she lays her hands on," Yonda said with a light chuckle after he noticed their confused stares.

Endric who was several meters behind had a look of understanding as he also witnessed the scene.

'She was able to easily phase through my telekinetic barrier because of this... she must have somehow mimicked its attributes...' Endric analysed.

Phinx was the one they had followed initially as it seemed these officers already got Angy after she went to scout ahead for them.

It turned out that she could also use the abilities of anyone or anything she mimicked which made the whole situation very troublesome.

Their enemies were in no way weak and there was still over thirty minutes left before the second phase will come to an end.

'How did she even manage to lay hands on Angy? They're quite capable,' Matilda wondered internally but everyone had similar thoughts.

With Angy speed it would be close to impossible to lay hands on her except they set some kind of trap that worked against her.

"Where is she? What have you done to her?" The darkness emitting from Falco's body kept increasing by the second.

"Worry about yourselves... we're about to send you incompetent officers out of this place. You don't deserve to be here," Yonda yelled out as he began to channel his bloodline energy once more.

Krrryychhh~

His right arm began making creaking sounds as it increased in size and changed to a glowing reddish color with golden lines.

Everyone one else activated their abilities as well as they prepared to deal with E.E, Endric and the others.

The group stared at each other for an instant and already decided on which enemies to handle.

Aldris feeling the intensity from the channeling of bloodlines up ahead knew it wouldn't be best for him to hold back in such a situation.

Fwwwooosshhhh~

A loud outburst of energy blasted forth as the two groups charged at one another.

It was down to nine against twelve since Angy was currently missing so three from the group would have to take on six opponents while the others handled the rest.

Aldris went for the most powerful one, Yonda, who happened to be emitting the highest bloodline energy.

"Hehe," Yonda chuckled as they approached each other and he stretched his enlarged arm forward.

"Cosmic finger," He voiced out while joining his index finger to his thumb.

Chapter 1078 Handling Two Opponents

"Cosmic finger," He voiced out while joining his index finger to his thumb.

The instant they arrived in front of each other, Yonda flicked hard at Aldris.

A surge of bright crimson energy mixed with golden streams phased out from his fingertip. The energy blasted forward with destructive intensity.

Aildris was shocked at how much power this simple attack carried and it happened to have been released at point blank range. He stopped his attack and opened his eyes at that moment.

Zhrrriuuuhhhh~

"Hmm?" Yonda let out a surprised expression as the vicinity lost color the moment Aildris eyes were open and Aildris suddenly dissappeared right before the surge could hit him.

Fwwhiooorrrhhhh~ Boom!

The energy raged on for hundreds of kilometers destroying everything in its path and leaving another area of cracks up ahead along with uprooted trees.

The others battling around had already distanced themselves from these two who were assumed to be the strongest so they don't get hit by residual energy.

Aildris appeared right behind Yonda with his palm pushing forward intensely.

Yonda instantly sensed the presence behind him and turned around at the last moment while waving his massive human-sized hand.

Bang!

Collision was made as both palms collided sending another destructive ripples across the vicinity.

"Ugh!" Aildris groaned as he was sent blasting backwards intensely while urge to puke blood arose from deep within.

Yonda decided not to give him any breathing space and lunged forward right after him with another attack.

"Cosmic Penetration," His index finger glowed up again as he thrust it forward with intensity like he was pointing in a direction.

Aildris could sense pressure on his body like a searing heat clawing away on his skin and trying to breakthrough it before the attack even made contact. He knew that if this attack made contact with him, it would most likely rip through him.

-

On the other side E.E battled the twins, Ighor and Fildhor.

He still held a grudge for the one who had attacked him twice and would have succeeded the second time had it not been for Endric.

Ighor and Fildhor had such good synergy that it reminded him of himself and Gustav.

In this case their synergy was even better as they didn't even leave blindspots or any weaknesses to exploit while they attacked E.E together. This was to be expected since they were twins.

Eitherways, they were battling against E.E who could get himself out of any situation so long as he didn't have to worry about others so they hadn't managed to land a single hit since the battle began.

Both of them had bloodline abilities that complemented each other with Ighor being immensely strong and Fildhor defensive capabilities.

Zing~ Zing~ Zing~ Zing ~ Zing~ Zing~

E.E had already opened over fifty vortexes around them and would occasionally appear from unexpected ones to attack one of them.

Fildhor's body would extend each time and turn black, blocking every hit while Ighor would try to attack E.E the moment he appeared.

Both sides were still unable to land any attack.

E.E was quick enough to sink into another vortex once his attack missed.

'Time to separate them,'

'Time to use that so i can catch him...'

E.E and Ighor both had this thoughts simultaneously.

Ighor closed his eyes in the next instant.

"Reach...." The moment he opened his eyes he stared at a vortex several meters towards the east.

Swwwwoosshhh!

He appeared right in front of it like his body was pulled there through gravity and was about driving his fist right through the vortex when...

"Ighor!" Fildhor yelled out as a sensed something.

The vortexes suddenly turned red before his fist could phase through and in the next instant a large one appeared behind Ighor with an immense suction force.

Zzhiiiiihhhhhhhzzzh~

"Ugh!"

Ighor body lowered as he stabbed his fingers into the ground in a bid to stop himself from getting pulled into the vortex.

The suction force was so intense, Ighor could feel his skin getting ripped off his body as fought against its might.

"Ighor!" Fildhor yelled out again as he lunged forward to help his brother.

However in the same moment a vortex appeared in front of him with E.E's body flying out of it.

It was like Fildhor had anticipated this and threw a fist directly at E.E's face as E.E dove towards him.

E.E pushed his palm forward at the same moment to meet Fildhor's fist. However, before collision could be made, a small ring like vortex appeared in front of E.E's palm.

Fildhor couldn't stop his fist at this point and his entire arm ended up phasing into the vortex, disappearing along the way.

The vortex reached his shoulder area before stopping but despite the fact that his arm disappeared, he could still feel it connected to his shoulder.

This meant his arm was probably just sticking out of a vortex in another location.

He tried pulling his arm out in the next instant but E.E closed his palm into a fist, causing the vortex to tighten around his right shoulder area even more.

"You'll be losing your arm... for now," E.E voiced out as he squeezed his fist even tighter.

Claaaannnk?kk~

To E.E's surprise Fildhor's arm was not cleaved off like he expected. Fildhor's arm had taken the black solid state he had been using to defend all this time.

The vortex was finding it difficult to cleave through his arm due to the thickness.

Fildhor's threw another fist at E.E at this point thinking he had let his guard down...

-

By the sidelines, E.E wasn't the only one handling two opponents. Endric as well as Falco had to handle two opponents as well.

Endric happened to be taking on Phinx who had temporarily mimicked Yonda's form and an unknown greenscaled MBO officer who kept sending out soundwaves to interrupt Endric.

Yonda was very powerful so it was a bother having to face him alone, talk more of when his telekinesis kept getting disrupted with soundwaves.

Chapter 1079 He's Thirteen

Bang!

Endric took a fist by blocking with both arms held up since he was unable to conjure a telekinetic wall on time due to another soundwave disruption.

Krrrrycchhhh~

A cracking sound rang out as Endric arms trembled as his body traveled across the air.

'Something broke,' He said Internally as he tried to stop the trembling.

Phinx in Yonda's form appeared right above him again while sending another fist hurling downward.

'This one will put him out of commission for sure,' She thought as her fist slammed heavily into Endric in mid air.

Bang!

Collision was made and shockwaves that caused even the ground below to split was created.

'Hmm?' She felt something wasn't quite right as Endric's figure vanished right after receiving the blow.

The greenscaled MBO officer that had been sending out the soundwaves suddenly felt an intense chill down his spine as he turned around.

However it was too late as Endric's hand was already around his throat.

"Shut up!" Endric voiced out as his grip tightened and he proceeded to twist.

Krrrrrycxchhhhh!

Phinx eyes widened as she landed several hundred feet away. She was unable to stop the scene from playing out as she only spotted Endric's figure when his hand was already locked around her teammate's throat.

"He broke his windpipe?" Phinx voiced with tone of disbelief.

"How is he there? He was here... I hit him twice..." The situation did not make any sense to her. She couldn't understand how Endric was here and suddenly there unaffected after what she did.

What she didn't know was, Endric had been replaced with a fake by Husarius before he received a single hit from Phinx.

Phinx had actually been battling with a fake all this time while Endric separated himself from the mix and circled back while hiding his presence before attacking the greenscaled MBO officer.

He already knew it would be literally impossible for him to lay a finger on Phinx if the greenscaled MBO officer kept disrupting him with the soundwaves.

'But even though he broke Asiz windpipe, he doesn't know that Asiz has other ways of using his abilities...' Just as this thought came to mind, several more cracking sounds rang out.

Krrrrykkhhhhkkk~

Endric had proceeded to wrap the greenscaled MBO officer with his will and broke other parts of his body.

His arms, legs, kneecaps, ribs and a few other places, leaving Asiz unable to move.

Plop!

Asiz injured body fell to the ground but he was still very much alive.

Endric turned to stare in Phinx direction at this point.

"Now its gonna be just me and you," He stated.

Her eyes turned even more serious at this point, 'I have only one more minute of Mimicry left... I need to end it before time runs out,'

Both of them charged at each other in the next instant.

-

Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

On another side the sound of numerous clashes reverberated across the vicinity as an exchange of blows ensued between Matilda and Shirama.

Shirama was the biggest sized person in the entire opposing group.

She was looking more muscular than the twins and she was taller than them as well but she looked surprisingly beautiful with a long azure colored hair.

Matilda was currently completely clad in her silvery armor that she cojured initially. A massive silver colored Lance was also in her grasp which she continuously used to clash with Shirama who was almost twice her size.

Zhi! zhi! zhi!

Matilda would stab her silvery Lance forward occasionally with speed while also using several slashing techniques as well.

It looked like they were evenly matched as Shirama would dodge a few of these attacks while also sending forth hers which would in turn causes several loud collisions.

However it was obvious that Shirama attacks carried more destructive power than Matilda's.

Shirama had long claws which she used in slashing and countering Matilda attacks. These long blue claws were sturdy enough to collide with Matilda's lance without suffering any damage.

in fact, they packed so much power that a single slash would send forth sharp energies that would rip through layers of the ground before making contact.

Matilda's armor made it so she was able to tank some of the attacks.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Slash! Slash!

Afterimages were left across the place as both of them kept sending forth attacks.

Swwoosshh~

Matilda ducked evading an attack and swooped towards the left before swinging out her lance once again.

Shirama leaped upwards dodging the swing and slashed downwards as she descended.

"You're no match for me!" She yelled out as her claws turned from blue to purple.

Sshiiiiinnnn~

Chaotic arcs of sharp purplish energies slashed down from above towards Matilda in a bid to rip everything to shreds.

Matilda raised her Lance up and it transformed into a wide silvery shield.

Boom!

The sound of collision reverberated across the vicinity as the grounds split open and Matilda's frame sank with the destruction of the grounds.

-

The ongoing battle was really a crazy one and both sides were finding it difficult to defeat their opponents. Due to this, there was no opportunity to look for Angy or try to figure out where she was as everyone was preoccupied with this.

"They're really battling it out. How foolish," Vin voiced out as they watched from the screens within their isolated room.

"They don't have a choice. It was an ambush," Elevora voiced in response with a disturbed tone.

"Huhuhu maybe they're just playing. I want to join them," Sheila said with an excited tone.

"Angy..." Elevora muttered as she stared at a part of the screen.

"Oh, do you know them?" Sheila questioned.

"They're my friends. It's disturbing to watch them struggle like this but I believe they can handle it," Elevora regained her calm as she watched.

"Hmm they're not bad," Vin stated with an unbothered tone.

"That boy is cute... introduce him to me huhuhu," Sheila said while staring at a particular part of the screens on display.

"He's thirteen... your advances would be considered an act of pedophilia," Elevora revealed.

Chapter 1080 Time Up

"He's thirteen... your advances would be considered an act of pedophilia," Elevora revealed.

"Ah I see... make sure to introduce us properly when the time comes... the younger the better huhuhu," Sheila responded with a mischievous grin on her face.

Elevora; "... " 'Did she hear what I said?'

"Looks like time's up," Vin stated, causing them to turn their faces to the area where the timer was counting down.

<5>

<4>

Less than five seconds were left till the second phase would come to an end.

"They'll have to continue their battle in the next one then," Elevora said in response while letting out a sigh of relief.

The battle could really go eitherways but one sure thing was, a few of them from their group might end up losing. It was favourable that time ran out before the battle got to the point where anyone from the group lost.

Since the battle began only Endric and E.E had managed to defeat one opponent each, causing two out of the opposition group to get disqualified.

While this was good, there was no guarantee that they wouldn't lose people from their sides as well.

Bang!

Dark Falco and a gigantic serpentine mixedblood with human head clashed again for the umpteenth time before getting blasted in separate directions.

"I will rip you to shreds scum!" The dark tattoos on Dark Falco increased in length as his eyes glimmered with intense bloodlust.

"I will devour you..." The serpentine mixedblood increased in size turning his upper half even more muscular and his snake half bigger.

Swwooosshhh~

They both charged forward at this point as Dark Falco claws grew longer and sharper with dark mist emitting from them.

His stretched his arms to the side as he leapt upwards and slashed in a tilted cross like format.

The opponent opened his mouth wide in a bid to swallow Dark Falco and his attack up completely.

While by the side another opponent placed his palm on the ground ready to unleash an attack should his teammate fail.

However...

<"THE SECOND PHASE OF THE SELECTION HAS COME TO AN END!">

Before collision could be made a loud announcement rang out.

Zing! Zing! Zing! Zing! Zing! Zing!

A flash of bright light engulfed every single person battling in the vicinity and all across the unknown region as a whole...

They disappeared in the next instant causing the battles to cease.

#####

"Huh?"

Falco, E.E and the others let out surprised voices as they arrived in another waiting hall.

The attack Dark Falco was about to use had been completely negated. Every other person involved in the battle earlier too who was about sending attacks or using any type of destructive ability discovered that it had been nullified.

<"FIGHTING IS NOT ALLOWED IN THE WAITING HALL. FAILURE TO COMPLY WILL RESULT IN IMMEDIATE DISQUALIFICATION!">

A loud voice resounded in across the place.

Dark Falco tattoos slowly rescinded as Falco took back control before his alter ego could do anything stupid.

"Hey Bastard! Let me destroy that lowlife! Give me control!" Dark Falco kept yelling out to no avail.

Falco was not about to let his alter ego be the cause for his disqualification.

"Are you guys okay?" Aildris questioned as the group came together.

"Yeah," They answered together.

"Just a little bruise," Matilda said as she cleaned the blood at the side of her face.

Aildris and Endric had sustained minor injuries as well considering their opponents were amongst the toughest in the entire opposing group.

E.E was was the only one who battled two opponents without sustaining a single damage during the time. Although he expended a lot of energy and had been injured prior to the start of the group battle.

"Has anyone seen Ancy?" Falco questioned with a worried expression.

"We should ask them," Teemee said as he turned to the side where the group they had just fought with were standing.

Yonda, Shirama, Phinx and the others were also standing in a kind of encirclement like them discussing.

As they sense the malice filled glares coming from Falco and the others, they turned around as well.

"I'm here guys," A familiar feminine voice was heard from the other end, causing everyone to stare in the direction of the sound.

"Angy!" Matilda yelled out with a look of relieve and ran towards the owner of the voice.

"Tch looks Alessandro and Sarah didn't manage to finish her off," Yonda said with a frustrated tone as he spotted the figure walking in their direction.

"That's why the bastards are not here... she managed to take care of them both?" Shirama had a look of disbelief as she voiced this out.

"They shouldn't have underestimated her even though she was injured," Phinx shook her head as she said with a low tone.

"Are you okay?" Matilda voiced out with a look of worry as she arrived in front of Angy with the others.

They all voiced out their worries before asking Angy what happened. Angy looked really beaten up but it seemed like she had taken healing solutions as her looks were getting restored right before their very eyes.

"Tch not only did we lose Fildhor but we also lost three others as well," The other twin lamented at the disqualification of his brother along side the other two due to the battle as anger began to arise within him.

"If the battle had gone on for longer we would have whittled out their numbers..."

The opposing group kept speaking with disappointed looks.

"Calm down guys," Angy said with a smile as they kept throwing questions at her.

She stared at a particular direction and spotted the group responsible for setting them up.

"Hold on," Her smile disappeared as she squeezed out of their midst and began walking towards them.

"Hmm?" E.E and Aildris stared at her as she approached them. They didn't bother stopping her knowing fights were not allowed here.

Angy arrived before them and threw out an unyielding glare filled with intent.