

Bloodline 1081

Chapter 1081 Analysis Booth

"Hope and pray to your ancestors I never meet any of you in the next phase... if not... I promise you'll be meeting them untimely," Angy seemed very angry as she spouted out these words causing everyone to stare in her direction with shock.

"Ugh..? Do you really think you're strong enough to take any of us on?" Ighor states with an unyielding glint in his eyes.

"We shall see," Angy stated in response before turning around.

"Don't be surprised if the battle ends before you realise it," Her voice trailed off as she closed in on her teammates.

"We're just as pissed about what happened but yours seem... worse," Falco said with a bothered tone as Angy arrived before them once more.

Angy's frown deepened as she heard this, "What they did was unforgivable and I will find a way to make them pay,"

They were about to ask Angy to narrate her side of the encounter when a loud announcement reverberated across the waiting hall.

<"THE TABLE OF POINTS FOR THE PREVIOUS PHASE WILL NOW BE DISPLAYED,">

After this announcement played out a number of holographic screens appeared in mid air all across the waiting hall.

On these screens, the table of scores for the previous phase was displayed. Every participant proceeded to check for their scores on this point table.

#####

<NAME> <POINTS EARNED>

Asbestos F. 2900

Rosalin V. 2850

Indred L. 2850

Aildris R. 2750

Emmanuel E. 2750

Endric O. 2750

....

#####

-"Man some of these guys are real beats... just how many of the mixedbreeds did they slay,"

-"Damn it! I can't find my name amongst the top hundreds,"

-"There seems to be only two hundred names listed on the table when we're well over four hundred participants,"

"How am I at 101... I was so sure I'd be amongst the top ten at least,"

Voices of confusion, elation and disbelief rang out in the background as the participants checked the scoreboard.

Some of them were really surprised that some participants managed to acquire over two thousand points.

Since a lot of them worked alone, they had to deal with mixedbreeds they could handle which were around level 80 to 89.

This would ultimately grant them around 30 to 100 points per kill but of course they couldn't discard of such mixedbreeds instantly so it would still take time to accumulate points.

If they wanted to deal with mixedbreeds around the level of 90 and above which would grant them points ranging from 300 - 700 per kill, it would take a lot of time to kill just one since they were by themselves.

Even if the participant was powerful enough there were still factors like recovering energy and the likes that would ultimately slow them down after they manage to take one down.

Given the timer, it would still be very difficult for a powerful lone mixedblood to get up to two thousand points but one of them managed to get almost three thousand points proving just how strong he was.

Aldris and the others were also being talked about. It could be determined that they worked together seeing as they all got the same number of points but the other participants were shocked at how many powerful mixedbreeds they had to kill to accumulate that many points since the points were split amongst them equally after every kill.

"Since we're this high on the scoreboard, they're most likely beneath us," Teemee voiced as he also spotted his name.

"Looks like they stopped hunting for mixedbreeds to hunt for us instead," Aildris shook his head at the shallowness of the opposing MBO team.

"But they're strong... besides their unnecessary want for conflict some of them would really be a great addition to the main force for IYSOP," Falco admitted.

"Indeed but with such mindset cooperation will almost be an impossibility and carrying such shallowness personalities might hinder since we don't know what we will encounter at IYSOP," Aildris stated.

"Power isn't everything... I remember losing badly to my brother everytime we fought after he became strong because of my shallowness. Despite my strength I could never overcome," Endric voiced out as well while recalling his flaws.

"They're still in for now..." Angy said with a look of dissatisfaction.

"Hmm?"

Zing! Zing! Zing! Zing! Zing! Zing!

Participants began to disappear very quickly causing the number of people in the waiting hall to dwindle.

In the next few seconds only two hundred participants were left. The hall that already looked very spacious due to its massiveness despite it holding over four hundred people now looked even more spacious than before.

The numbers had practically been halved now that only two hundred participants were left.

Everyone left in the massive hall had managed to stay in the top two hundred with the points they gathered in the last phase.

"Yep they're still here," Ria stated.

"As expected... now we just need to see what the next phase holds for us," Aildris responded with a look of interest.

<"THE FINAL PHASE OF THE SELECTION WILL BE STARTING SHORTLY...">

The voice was heard once more and everyone turned to stare at a direction in the hall as golden light gleamed from up ahead.

Thhiizzzihhhhh~

? A platform opened up below and two people appeared from within.

One was dressed in an all white outfit and the other was dressed in a green laboratory wear.

"The final phase of the selection will be based on three things..." The man in white voiced out.

Everyone recognised this voice to be that of the person who had been making announcements since.

He didn't bother introducing himself which led everyone to believe he was just in charge of the selection.

"First, your bloodline rank... second, your bloodline potential and third your current overall strength based on the first two..." He proceeded to voice out next.

This caused everyone faces to lit up with interest as they wondered how the final phase was gonna be.

Zzhuiiiuuunnnh!h!

The golden glow they spotted up ahead turned into a kind of booth and opened up.

"One after the other you will be stepping into the analysis booth..."

Chapter 1082 Disqualification

"One after the other you will be stepping into the analysis booth..." The man in white voiced out once more.

"The only requirement for the final phase is getting ranked amongst the top forty-six but of course the higher you rank the better your chances of being on the main IYSOP participation team," He continued explaining.

-"Weren't there supposed to be fifty slots?"

A loud voice questioned from the background.

"Only forty six slots are currently vacant... sixteen slots for the main team and thirty for the substitutes. Being top sixteen after the booth analysis ranking results are displayed automatically puts one in the main team..."

It went without a saying that one hundred and fifty four participants would be eliminated here today. Also getting to top forty would not guarantee being a part of the main team so it was a really tough competition at this point.

The participants from private schools and organisations numbered in about seventy with six of them still being in the game while twelve had been eliminated with the previous phases.

The rest were all young MBO officers within the required age bracket.

"It's a bit disappointing we won't be getting the chance to clash with them before the selection ends," Teemee said with a tone of dissatisfaction.

"Tch! I'll find a way to deal with them if they get in as well," Angy seemed like she wasn't letting the issue go.

"We can't really do anything about it," Aildris said in response.

"We'll see about that," Angy stated.

"Relax Angy... don't do anything stupid," Falco voiced out.

"What did they do to you?" E.E was also mad too since he was the first to get attacked but he felt Angy's situation might have been way worse.

Angy's gritted her teeth in frustration as she turned silent.

"First Participant... Vera G..." They called out Vera's name and she proceeded to walk towards the front.

So far Vera had not shown any expression or really contributed in their anger even though she also joined in the battle initially. She would assist when needed but she wasn't really as concerned with the rest of the group unless Gustav was involved.

So far everyone thought she probably tied with her opponent during the battle but they had no idea that she actually won the fight even though her opponent looked absolutely okay and was currently with the rest of his teammates.

Vera arrived in front of the golden booth and moved inside immediately.

Zzzhiiisshhh~

It closed up and glowed even more brighter which made everyone assume it was currently reading.

A large screen appeared above and information began playing out.

"BLOODLINE RANK..."

<<<<Peak Falcon>>>>

-"Haha she's just a Falcon rank,"

- "This is her final stop,"

- "She won't be going any further I'm sure,"

The background voices were surprised that anyone below Echo rank was still in the selection.

Currently almost everyone left was in the Echo rank.

"BLOODLINE POTENTIAL..."

It took an instant to reveal the bloodline rank but took some time for the bloodline potential to be calculated.

<<<<S>>>>

Gasping sounds rang out as Vera's bloodline potential was revealed.

There was no doubt that a bloodline potential trumped a bloodline grade however a lot of low graded bloodlines would never be able to reach this high.

Having such high potential would no doubt give Vera more points.

"Make sure to activate your bloodline energy to the fullest while it's calculating your overall power so there won't be any mishaps..." The loud voice of the man in white rang out and even Vera heard the instruction within the booth.

"OVERALL POWER..."

The instant her overall power began calculating she activated her bloodline half-assedly.

<<<<102,990...>>>>

<<<<189,000...>>>>

It began calculating...

<<<<279,452...>>>>

"Hmm..." Vera could see the numbers slowing down as they reached three hundred thousand and finally decided to activate her bloodline fully for an instant.

The numbers suddenly increased speed, closing four hundred thousand very fast.

<<<<421,902...>>>>

She reduced it a moment later as she recalled Gustav warning about her activating her full abilities despite her only releasing the energy.

It finally finished calculating displaying a score of nearly five hundred thousand points.

<<<<484,000>>>>

No one knew how power was graded so they had no idea if this was a high score or not.

After the analysis was completed Vera walked out and moved to the side per the instruction of the man in white.

The next name was called and a male participants in white and black outfit moved forward.

"BLOODLINE RANK..."

<<<<Beginner Echo>>>>

"BLOODLINE POTENTIAL..."

<<<<A>>>>

"OVERALL POWER..."

"Arrrggghhhh!!!!!"

A loud yell was heard as the participant unleashed his bloodline energy to the max to avoid getting a low score.

The numbers calculated speedily and in a bit revealed his score.

<<<<467,000>>>>

The multitude of participants were surprised at this outcome seeing as his overall power was lesser than Vera's.

Even he was shocked at this outcome thinking he would at least get over five hundred thousand if not six hundred thousand.

"There must be a mistake somewhere," He voiced out with a tone of disbelief as the booth opened up.

"Robin Hawks... step out of the booth," The man in white instructed.

"I need to take this again, I can't get less than her," He voiced out with a tone of dissatisfaction.

"You have only one chance, there are no do overs," The man in white stated with an unfazed tone.

"I'm sure I can get higher! It doesn't make any sense that I have lessee!" He yelled out with a frustrated tone.

"Step out out of the booth or risk disqualification," The man in white stated.

"I ca..."

Zing!

Robin Hawks disappeared in the next instant.

"Disqualified..." The man in white said with an unbothered tone causing the other participants in the vicinity to shake their heads in pity.

One less participant meant they were now a hundred and ninety nine.

"Next participant..."

Another name was called out and the next participant moved forward cautiously. Since Robin Hawks had been used to set an example, no one would dare complain if they got a lesser score than expected.

The people in charge of the selection were chosen by the world government so there was no doubt of inaccuracy.

The third phase continued on as names were called randomly everytime.

Even after mutiple participants were done with theie analysis, the overall power of Vera was still surprising to say the least.

This was because after sometime it had been determined that the average overall power of beginning Echo rank was around 350,000 to 380,000. Vera overall power was a little beyond that.

"Batard Diya..."

"BLOODLINE RANK..."

<<<<Mid Echo>>>>

"BLOODLINE POTENTIAL..."

<<<<A>>>>

"OVERALL POWER..."

<<<<542,900>>>>

This happened to be the first Echo ranked participant who had gotten beyond the 500,000 points for overall power.

She happened to be amongst the opposing team that had battled with Aildris and the rest initially.

She specifically fought with Vera and everyone thought it ended with a tie.

The booth analysis continued as more mid Echo ranked participants were analysed as well.

A few more of the participants from the opposition team Aildris battled earlier were also called forward.

Some of them had lesser scores than Vera and a few still had higher.

It wasn't looking very good for Vera as about six of participants had surpassed her in overall power which was where most of the score will be based on at the end.

'Maybe I should have unleashed more...' Vera thought but still didn't show much concern.

"Falco...." Falco's name was called and he proceeded to move forward as well.

"BLOODLINE RANK..."

<<<<BEGINNER ECHO>>>>

"BLOODLINE POTENTIAL..."

<<<<A+>>>>

This was the first time they were seeing an A plus but the witnessing participants weren't too fazed considering they had already seen an S ranked potential.

Falco was a bit surprised considering his bloodline potential was initially just "A" two years back when they got tested in the MBO camp.

'Looks like bloodline potential can increase?' He was a bit surprised finding out this information but he questioned what the requirements were for an increase.

"OVERALL POWER..."

"Let's do this..." Falco voiced out as tattoos appeared all over his body and his dark bloodline energy seeped out intensely.

"HAHAHAHAHAHAHA!"

Dark Falco began laughing hysterically as the tattoos spread even wider than normal, his eyes turned pitch black and dark mist was emitting from the tip of his five inches claws.

'Huh??? Why is there so much darkness all of a sudden...' Unbeknownst to Falco a terrifying dark figure was forming from his shadow behind.

It kept growing in size as dark energy seeping out of Falco.

'I feel... cold... I want to... destr...'

'Huh what is going on...?' Falco regained his senses and put Dark Falco on a leash in the next instant.

His dark energy rescinded and he noticed the points had finished calculating within the booth.

<<<<601,001>>>>

'That's more than I expected,' He said Internally with a slightly surprised expression shelving what just happened a while ago.

-"Is there a glitch?"

Chapter 1083 Shocking Analysis All Over

- "How the hell does a beginner Echo rank get a higher point than a mid Echo rank?"

Voices of dissatisfaction reverberated across the vicinity as Falco stepped out.

- "The machine needs to be checked and he needs to redo!"

Another dissatisfied voice was heard from behind.

"The analysis booth is accurate. There shall be no redos," The man in white voiced out with another powerful tone, causing the place to quieten.

They just had to accept it because no one was willing to get disqualified but they still couldn't believe it.

Pah!

E.E gave Falco a high five as he arrived before them.

"Nice one," They all complimented Falco as the analysis continued.

More of the participants went forward one after the other, including a the others from the group they battled.

"Shirama P..."

"BLOODLINE RANK..."

<<<<Mid Echo>>>>

"BLOODLINE POTENTIAL..."

<<<<A+>>>>

"OVERALL POWER..."

<<<<584,952>>>>

"Phinx A..."

"BLOODLINE RANK..."

<<<<Mid Echo>>>>

"BLOODLINE POTENTIAL..."

<<<<S>>>>

"OVERALL POWER..."

<<<<604,952>>>>

Phinx was another participant that brought shock to everyone's faces. Not only did she have a potential S rank bloodline but also got points beyond Falco in Overall Power who was initially the highest.

"Angy V..."

"BLOODLINE RANK..."

<<<<Beginner Echo>>>>

"BLOODLINE POTENTIAL..."

<<<<A+>>>>

"OVERALL POWER..."

<<<<602,201>>>>

Angy's stats were nonetheless surprising as well.

"Matilda..."

"BLOODLINE RANK..."

<<<<Peak Falcon>>>>

"BLOODLINE POTENTIAL..."

<<<<A+>>>>

"OVERALL POWER..."

<<<<524,520>>>>

"Ria..."

"BLOODLINE RANK..."

<<<<Peak Falco>>>>

"BLOODLINE POTENTIAL..."

<<<<A>>>>

"OVERALL POWER..."

<<<<472,100>>>>

"Asbestos F..."

"BLOODLINE RANK..."

<<<<Beginner Kilo>>>>

"BLOODLINE POTENTIAL..."

<<<<A+>>>>

"OVERALL POWER..."

<<<<792,452>>>>

This was another analysis that had broken the record so far.

- "Its that number one dude from the last selection,"

The participants recognised the name after seeing the analysis. It was no wonder this person came first place seeing how high their overall power and bloodline rank was.

He gapped the initial highest with over a hundred thousand. The most surprising aspect was this person wasn't a part of the MBO.

He was from a private organization as he seemed to be in a uniform wear.

- "Powerful bastard,"

Some of the MBO officers were obviously unhappy about this as they watched him return to his group's encirclement.

The analysis continued...

Rosalin V.

"BLOODLINE RANK..."

<<<<Peak Echo>>>>

"BLOODLINE POTENTIAL..."

<<<<A>>>>

"OVERALL POWER..."

<<<<624,526>>>>

The number two became in the last phase of the selection became the second highest in overall power but was still being gapped with over a hundred thousand points.

"Fildhor I..."

"BLOODLINE RANK..."

<<<<Mid Echo>>>>

"BLOODLINE POTENTIAL..."

<<<<A>>>>

"OVERALL POWER..."

<<<<599,999>>>>

"Teemee..."

"BLOODLINE RANK..."

<<<<Beginner Echo>>>>

"BLOODLINE POTENTIAL..."

<<<<A>>>>

"OVERALL POWER..."

<<<<575,290>>>>

"Yonda V..."

"BLOODLINE RANK..."

<<<<Peak Echo>>>>

"BLOODLINE POTENTIAL..."

<<<<A+>>>>

"OVERALL POWER..."

<<<<686,900>>>>

The leader of the opposing team Aildris and the other battled initially finally had his booth analysis.

He had become the second highest in overall power. There was no doubt that if there wasn't a Kilo ranked participant, he would be the highest since he gapped the other Peak Echo ranked mixedblood with over forty thousand points.

"Aildris R..."

"BLOODLINE RANK..."

<<<<Beginner Echo>>>>

"BLOODLINE POTENTIAL..."

<<<<A+>>>>

"OVERALL POWER..."

<<<<671,420>>>>

'No wonder he was able to contend with me... these guys are beasts,' Yonda thought inwardly as he compared Aildris overall power to his Bloodline rank.

Despite Aildris being a Beginner Echo ranked, his overall power was still higher than a lot every other Peak Echo ranked besides him.

He was appalled because others in their group had high overall power compared to their bloodline ranks.

Chatters was heard from allover as the participants found it hard to believe this analysis once more but couldn't really complain about it.

At this point almost the entire two hundred participants had gone through the booth analysis....

After a few more participants, it was finally Endric's turn.

"Endric O..."

"BLOODLINE RANK..."

<<<<Beginner Echo>>>>

"BLOODLINE POTENTIAL..."

<<<<SS>>>>

His bloodline potential was the first shocking aspect as they stared with disbelieving eyes.

- "How is that even possible?"

- "I think I recognise that name?"

- "Isn't he the little brother of that monster Gustav?"

Chatters could be heard in the vicinity as the analysis booth began to calculate Endric's overall power.

"OVERALL POWER..."

- "I think he was said to be the youngest Zulu ranked in history,"

- "It makes sense and also doesn't make sense at the same time.

...

<<<<681,200>>>>

Endric's overall power was finally revealed causing everyone to gasp in surprise again.

Another Beginner Echo ranked who was more powerful than a peak Echo ranked. Yonda was the only peak Echo ranked who had a higher overall power and he only surpassed Endric with around five thousand points.

Chatter! Chatter! Chatter!

"FIIIIUUUFFFFHHUUU~"

E.E whistled as he stared at the analysis.

"My boy is on some black force energy," He added with a delightful tone.

"He even surpassed Aildris in overall power," Matilda couldn't help but voice out.

Usually there wasn't a hierarchy of power amongst them since they were all friends. However if there was, Aildris was practically seen as the second in command after Gustav while E.E was the third even though he was closer to Gustav.

With this new revelation it looked like the hierarchy of power had been toppled since Endric just surpassed everyone, being second in overall power. E.E and Aildris were not bothered about this instead they were even glad seeing that he had fast and unhinderable growth.

"What's to be expected from a brother of that monster hahahaha," Teemee began laughing as he voiced out.

Endric walked out of the booth and approached them. High five and fist bumps began going round once more as they cheered Endric on.

Endric was all smiles seeing the way they treated him when he was just a new entry to the ground. He couldn't help but have inexplicable feelings in his heart.

'So this is what it's like to have genuine companionships... Big brother is truly lucky. I have to make sure they stay together,' He silently made a vow in his heart.

The entire place was still a bit loud due to Endric's results even though the analysis continued.

Chapter 1084 Results

At this point it had already spread that he was the little brother of Gustav. There was not a single person here who didn't know Gustav so they felt the result wasn't so unbelievable anymore.

-'So both brothers are monsters,'

Similar thoughts ran through everyone's mind.

After a few more minutes the third phase finally came to an end.

"Everyone has been successfully analysed. Now its time to reveal the results," The man in white stated.

Before the ranking board was revealed, the participants already knew who the top three were. It was impossible to forget as their analysis results were stuck in their mind.

Some of them already knew they wouldn't make the cut while some were not so sure since up to two hundred participants were involved.

Zhooooooooonnn~

The holographic screen ahead changed and the ranking board was revealed.

Analysis Ranking

1. Asbestos F.

2. Yonda V.

3. Endric O.

4. Aildris R.

5. Emmanuel E.

6. Tareek B.

7. Rosalin V.

8. Trunks K.

9. Phinx A.

10. Angy

11. Falco

12. Fildhor I...

Everyone stared at the ranking with keen eyes trying to find their names.

The names in the top ten positions were as expected. These ones had truly done phenomenal in the third phase. Their stats proved they were the top of the brunch.

"Daum I'm at 15th..." Teemee voiced as he spotted his name.

"You should be glad. It was a tight one," Ria said with a smile.

"I am," Teemee responded.

Despite being a bit disappointed that he was way beneath Endric, EE and Aildris, he was still glad that he made it to the main team.

"What about you?" Teemee questioned Ria.

"sigh check the rankings," Ria said with a slightly crestfallen tone.

Vera also checked for her name after the top sixteen since she already felt she wouldn't be amongst the top 15.

"Hmm 32..." She said with an emotionless tone. She could be less bothered about it so long as she made it on whether or not it was the main team.

"I am at 14th place," Glade voiced out with a joyful tone.

She was just right above Teemee on the ranking. Everyone was still disgusted by her presence but they tolerated it since she was practically a slave now who couldn't go against them.

"Good for you," Matilda responded.

"How about you Matilda?" She questioned.

"Unfortunately I'm at the 19th position... sub team," She raised her shoulders as she voiced out.

"Cheer up guys, even though Gustav mentioned we should all make it to the main team, we did our best. Everyone still got onto the team," Angy said with a supportive tone.

"That's true. Be it substitute team or main team, we all still managed to qualify. Out of the thousands that participants we made all it to the top forty-six," Aildris lightened the mood up with his words.

"Gustav would still be proud of everyone and you all should be proud of yourselves too," E.E raised a thumb up as he added.

So far seven of them managed to make it to top sixteen while the other three were below but managed to qualify for the substitute team.

Their group still managed to take up a large portion of the main team, especially with Gustav being a part as well.

"By now everyone should know of their fate." The man in white voiced out.

Looks of disappointment and disbelief were present all over the faces of multiple participants while some looked elated.

"The selection has officially come to an end," He added.

Zing! Zing! Zing! Zing! Zing!

In the next instant multiple people began disappearing. After a few seconds, only forty six people were left.

They stared at each other with scrutinizing looks. Out of all the private organizations, only a few were left. Three people from the private organizations had managed to make it into the main team while ten made it into the the sub team.

The rest were all MBO officers. This had shown how capable the private organizations were as well.

"Before we move further... within the next six months of training, there will be opportunities for sub team members to get into the main team," As the man in white announced, Ria face brightened up.

'I will have a chance?' Hearing this lifted his mood as he swore to make use of this opportunity.

'I just need to switch sides with her... easy...' Vera said internally.

Matilda was also preparing to make use of this opportunity as well.

"I advise you main team members to train hard and improve if you don't wish to switch places with anyone on the sub team," The man in white added again.

"Now, the sub team members shall be transported to a different location. You lots are gonna be trained separately," He proceeded to snap his fingers after this.

Pah!

The thirty qualified sub teammates dissappeared one after the other.

Zing!!!!!!!

After they were all gone, only the sixteen that made it to the main team were left.

"Congratulations on getting into the IYSOP team. You lots are bestowed with the opportunity of representing our planet in the near future. I trust you'll make us proud," The lady who had been standing beside the man on white all this time, finally spoke.

"The training will begin tomorrow but before that..."

Zzhiinnn~

A part of the ground opened up by the side and she gestured at them to move towards it.

"Meet the rest of your teammates first," As she added this, the others recalled they were supposed to be a group of twenty.

"Looks like we're meeting the rest of the four that got in with special privileges," Shirama voiced with a tone of interest as her massive body made stomping sounds on the floor with every movement.

"They better be strong enough or I won't stand for this," Yonda stated with a fired up tone.

Angy couldn't stand their incessant babbling but she didn't have a choice for now.

They stood on a platform that took them directly down the hole. In the next few moments they arrived in a dark space with glass walls.

Chapter 1085 He Is Going To Be On The Same Team With Us?

They stood on a platform that took them directly down the hole. In the next few moments they arrived in a dark space with glass walls.

Upon arriving here, three people were seated at the corner.

"So these are the infamous special candidates," Yonda voiced out as they stared at the three.

One was a pale skinned male with what deemed like stones embedded into his forehead area in a lined up format.

The one in the middle was a dark skinned girl with a beautiful but small frame. Her hair happened to be very dark and long.

The third one by the side was a purple haired extremely beautiful girl with three pigtails and a headtie covering her forehead.

"These are Vin, Sheila and..." While the woman introduced the three Matilda voiced out from the side...

"Elevora," A smile appeared on her and everyone in the group face as they spotted Elevora.

"You guys managed to make it. Good job," Elevora stated with an encouraging tone.

"Looks like they know each other," Shirama said to Yonda from the side.

The others were a bit surprised that they were in league with someone who was deemed powerful enough to skip the selection process. They were already aware that Aildris, E.E, Endric and the others were already a type of group.

Since they were already a powerful bunch, it was even crazier that they still had another teammate of this calibre.

"Only five of us made it to the main team so it won't be wise to earn their ire," Phinx said with a low tone.

"They can't do anything to us. It won't be allowed," Yonda was unbothered unlike the rest of his teammates.

"...they didn't make it," Matilda voiced out as the gang reunited with Elevora.

"I saw... they'll manage to make it to the main team eventually I'm sure. You guys really put up a fight though. I knew you'd be able to push through," Elevora said.

"Hmm those two seem pretty strong I can sense it but this one is just an Echo ranked... how does she qualify to skip the selection," Fildhor yelled with a look of dissatisfaction while pointing at Elevora.

"Hmm?" Elevora turned to stare at him after hearing that.

"Fildhor..." Yonda tried to call his attention to stop him.

"She's just a Mid Echo ranked like me! this must be some type of joke," Fildhor shouted out once more disregarding Yonda's call.

"Then do you wish to duel her?" The man in white asked from the corner.

"Before you answer that think very carefully... if you lose to her, you're not just off the main team disqualified from being a part of IYSOP at all," He added.

"I will..." Just as Fildhor was about to give his answer, Yonda dragged him to the side.

"Idiot... she's a mid echo ranked," Yonda reminded.

"And so am I, she is weaker so I will defeat her," Fildhor responded with an unyielding expression.

"Fool, did you forget the overall power analysis of the rest of her peers? Did you forget that one of them has almost the same points as I did despite being a Begginer Echo ranked?" As Yonda voiced this out, Fildhor's eyes widened.

"If they deemed her worthy to skip the selection despite her being a Mid Echo ranked, there is a high probability her overall power would surpass mine. Are you truly willing to risk it? If you're sure you can defeat me then you should," Yonda pointed out.

Fildhor thought about how it all made sense. A Begginer Echo ranked from their group was more powerful than an average peak echo ranked and she happened to be a Mid Echo ranked which meant she'd definitely be more powerful than an average Kilo ranked.

He gulp down saliva upon realising he would have gotten himself kicked off the team which meant he wouldn't even be able to represent his disqualified brother.

"What is your decision?" The man in white questioned.

"Hmph! As much as she would lose to me, I am not interested in a duel," He voiced out.

"Then there shall be no further complaints or penalties will be issued out," The man in white could see through the bluff but he was less concerned.

"Wasn't there supposed to be four candidates who skipped the selection though?" Asbestos questioned from the side.

"Indeed... the last or rather first teammate will most likely be unavailable for the training season but he will definitely be available when it's time to leave planet earth for IYSOP," The man in white announced.

'Gustav...' The others already knew he was referring to Gustav.

-"Huh? That doesn't sound right,"

-"Wasn't it supposed to be a mandating six months training?"

-"Wouldn't this affect our coordination as a team if we don't train together?"

Some of them voiced out their dissatisfaction after the announcement.

"Do not concern yourselves with these... he is busy with important tasks and doesn't necessarily need drilling like you lots. Unless you can defeat him, I will not be listening to any complaints," The man in white stated.

"Who the hell is he anyways?" Yonda also questioned with a dissatisfied tone.

"He is... Gustav Crimson," The man in white revealed.

- "Huh?"

The eyes of the candidates besides Aildris and the others widened as they heard the name.

'That guy is going to be participating?'

'He's going to be on the same team with us?'

The name Gustav Crimson was quite popular worldwide so it was impossible for everyone here to not have heard of him.

They still couldn't believe their ears.

"Are you satisfied now? Or would you like to voice out your complaints on his qualification?" The man in white questioned after noticing the looks on their faces.

- "Who knows what his analysis would have been if Gustav Crimson had participated in the selection?"

- "The first Major ranked MBO officer under the age of twenty years... that can only be accomplished from completing multiple high ranked missions,"

- "Hmm we'll be able to gauge his strength from close range when he finally shows up,"

Some of them voiced out their thoughts.

Chapter 1086 And So It Begins

While Gustav was very popular for some of his feats which included saving the world, they were still doubtful of how powerful he was.

They knew he was unaffected by the machines that sealed bloodline energy which made sense to assume he'd take care of the situation easily since he still had his abilities.

They felt his strength couldn't be gauged that way since everyone else had lost their abilities and he was the only exemption.

"I don't hear any objections," The man in white stated.

They kept quiet at this point as no one wanted to stupidly underestimate him. He had been garnering popularity way before the incident and some of them were aware of that.

"Ekkk I'd have someone strong enough to play with," Sheila voiced with a look of excitement.

"This girl... he won't be available," Vin voiced in response.

"Wouldn't it still be problematic for him not to show up at all?" Another one of the candidates asked.

"Maybe... but the world government has enough faith in him and they don't wish to force it upon him to attend. He can decide to show up if he wants to or not," The man in white explained.

"Tch! Such privilege..." Yonda couldn't help but voice out.

Aldris and the others felt like confirming Gustav's decision not to attend training but they left it. He would still be showing up anyways according to him and they were unbothered about the whole coordination thing because they had battled alongside Gustav many times so it wasn't an issue for them.

The man in white and the other lady led them out of the room towards a massive landscape.

They arrived in an artificial space where they could see a large mansion like building atop the tip of a massive rock.

Surrounding it was a body of water. Far to the east were all kinds of weird looking landscapes with different features. Thunderstorms, volcanoes, whirlwinds, tornadoes and all sort of craziness.

Towards the east they could sight an endless dark pit spitting out deadly pillars of flames and flesh ripping winds.

To the north they could spot all sorts of beasts scattered across the place with a living forest that made moved. The trees, leaves, grasses and even the ground were all alive. It looked nonetheless dangerous.

Towards the south all that could be seen different colours of glowing planetary like rings. It was unknown what sort of encounter to expect from heading to that area but it definitely looked interesting.

In the middle of all this was where the house was located. The mansion was the only area that looked a bit normal compared to the other areas.

The other areas looked like different universes just scattered across the place.

Everyone had looks of intoxication as they scrutinized the entire vicinity.

"This is where your IYSOP training begins," The man in white stated with a strong tone.

-

...And so the IYSOP training for both the main and sub team began albeit in different locations.

The terms of getting the opportunity to become a main team member had been revealed to the sub team so they all aimed to increase their strength and meet the requirements as soon as possible so they'd be able to climb their way up to the main team.

They had six months of time to make this happen or they'd most likely be on bench during the IYSOP unless something irrefutable happened to one of the main team members.

They had also been given tags which corresponded with their numbers upon finishing the last phase of the selection.

This number also happened to represent the ranking system for the sub teammates.

To move up in number, certain requirements had to be met and when the time came, only the top five would have the chance to fight for an opportunity to be on the main team.

Even as they worked together to become stronger, it was still a competition.

-

In the middle of one night, Endric was awoken by the sound of a ringing voice in his mind.

'Endric, are you ready?' Husarius raspy voice permeated the very depths of his mind.

"Hmm?" He slowly sat up while opening his eyes.

"Is it time?" Endric questioned with a half sleepy expression.

'Yes...' Endric's forehead kept beeping with a green glow.

'The time to complete the first task necessary for navigating the fates... is now...'

Upon hearing that, Endric's eyes sharpened as he stood to his feet.

"I'm ready..."

#####

-(Four Months Later)

Within a dimly lit green colored pool, a figure could be seen seated at the bottom.

His eyes were shut with his palms placed together. Only a black shorts could be spotted on his half nude frame as he remained in the same position for a very long time.

Seconds turned to minutes, minutes turned to hours and hours turned to days yet this figure remained stationary with his long dirty blonde hair floating to the surface of the pool.

All of a sudden, an unfathomable energy began spreading forth from his being as glowing lines akin to cracks began to appear on his skin.

Prruuuhbbble~ Prruuuhhhbbbleee~

The pool began to heat up and bubble as the glowing golden and crimson cracks on his body intensified.

He suddenly opened his eyes which were brimming with intense power and immediately took a squatting posture at the bottom of the pool.freewebnovel.com

His thighs and calves bloated intensely, becoming twice the size of two massive tubers of yams.

Boooooommm!

It sounded like explosions going off as this figure leapt out of the pool instantly.

Fwwhooommm~

He had arrived thousands of feet in the sky immediately due to the intense speed.

"...If I had moved an instant later, the entire river would have evaporated..." Gustav muttered as he stared at the water body below.

From above one could sight a large green river that spread across a radius of more than four thousand miles.

It really looked like a pool existing in the middle of nowhere. However, due to his presence within and the scene that had just played out a second ago, the river reduced to half its original height.

Chapter 1087 Top Ten Thousands

"Wasn't expecting my body to produce so much heat..." Gustav raised his hand as steam phased out of his body.

The water on his body had gotten evaporated from the moment he reached the surface. Even right now his body was still producing enough heat to evaporate the river so he flew higher.

After a while his body temperature began to reduce as the glowing cracks caused his skin to harden and peel off.

After they had completely peeled off, Gustav's skin looked fresher and rosier.

"All because I reached the Kilo rank?" Gustav didn't was a bit surprised.

However, he could sense an immense rise in his strength.

("Congratulations, you're now considered to be amongst the top ten thousand strongest on earth... still a far ride from becoming number one...") The system voiced in his head.

"Ten thousand? Are there people I haven't heard of?" Gustav expected to be at least higher.

("What did you think? That you'd be amongst the top hundreds? Pffft dumbass you still have a long way to go,") The system responded.

"...about three years more hmm..." Gustav had a slightly pensive look on his face as he muttered.

Even though being amongst the top ten thousand strongest seemed like it was nothing, it was actually a great leap for Gustav.

Amongst the billions of millions of Mixedbloods on the planet and the hundreds of millions of them in the MBO he had managed to build his strength to such a level already.

Although it only got more difficult from here, this was a stopping point for a lot of mixedbloods as they found themselves unable to go beyond the Kilo rank.

"I wonder how powerful I am now..." Gustav couldn't even gauge his own strength at this point.

He would need to find a way to test it out but he risked destroying this landscape if he did so he stopped himself.

("Not strong enough... you still can't wield any of them...") The system stated.

"You don't have to remind me," Gustav squinted his eyes before turning to a direction.

"Atomic Blade," He voiced out as he spotted a mountain in the distance.

Zhiiiiinn~

An atomic blade appeared in his hand and began to grow in size immensely.

Gustav remained unmoved even after it reached a length of two hundred feet.

He raised his hand with strength and brought it down with force.

Fwwhhiii~ Slash!

A milky colored arc travelled forward with intense speed and cleaved through the mountain with ease.

Immediately afterwards the entire six thousand feet tall mountain disappeared amidst a flash of milky light.

"Hmm... that's not bad for a fraction..." Gustav muttered.

"Hmm? A call..?" A device appeared in Gustav's hand and he proceeded to answer a holographic call.

- "WHY ARE YOU DESTROYING NATURE!!!!?"

A familiar voice yelled out the instant the call connected.

- Few Minutes Later

"I guess it's time to go," Gustav stated after ending the call.

("News on Genxodus?") The system voiced in his mind.

"Yeah... there couldn't be any better timing for me to warm up," Gustav responded with an inciting look.

"I don't have my new dimensional bracelet yet... according to him, it'll be ready next week... so I have to fly," As Gustav pointed these out, a pair of bat like wings sprouted out from his back.

("You're not gonna put on some clothes?") The system questioned.

"Meh... no ones gonna see me anyways... and even if they do, it doesn't matter," After responding, Gustav's figure blasted forward in a particular direction.

Fwwoosshhhhhmmmm~

His figure parted the clouds as he flew forward with immense speed. His flight speed now was almost twice his former.

His former speed was already rivalling aircraft and now it was even higher than before.

The sound his speed gave off would definitely destroy a person's eardrums if they were too close and this was just a speed based on his partial transformation into a mixedbreed. It wasn't as quick as Hover.

About thirty minutes later, Gustav found himself flying above Plankton city. He finally slowed slowed down as he headed for the MBO tower.

Alarms had began blaring loudly upon his approach as the AIs interpreted it to be a threat.

It hadn't been a second since the alarms went off that he arrived right above the perimeter of the tower.

Bam!

He landed on the ground and was instantly surrounded by a bunch of armed MBO officers.

"State your business!" One of them voiced out with a powerful tone.

"It's me," Gustav voiced out as the dust he stirred dissipated.

"Officer Crimson,"

The officers voiced out with looks of surprise.

'Why is he naked?' They wondered internally while trying to hide the weird expression on their faces.

"We apologise... we thought it was a hostile force," One of them stated.

"It's fine... you're only doing your jobs," Gustav responded with an unbothered tone before waking away.

His presence attracted a lot of attention but he remained unfazed as he headed into the tower.

The MBO Tower was still looking absolutely outstanding as it pierced into the clouds above.

-

Minutes later Gustav was in a meeting with a bunch of MBO officers. He had put on some clothes after making a stop in his room within the tower.

"The Genxodus extermination group doesn't require the help of a officer outside our group. We'll deal with the problem ourselves," A man covered in blueish hides voiced out.

"Oh? And how much has dealing with the issue yourselves resulted to?" Gustav stated with a light chuckle.

"We brought more than three thousand of them into custody and killed half that number... foiled their plans on multiple occasions and in the last operation, we discovered another of their hideouts foiling all of the plans the members within had. Do you wish to hear more?" The MBo officer in blueish hides listed out.

"Bold of you to brag accomplishments to me that only came about from the information I provided," Gustav chuckled even louder at this point.

"Especially the last operation..." He added.

Chapter 1088 Cunning Insertion

"What? You had no..." The MBO officer with blueish hides was about to speak again when he was interrupted by Gradier Xanatus who was standing by the side.

"He did... Officer Colt," Gradier Xanatus confirmed.

"I thought that was intelligence from your subordinates?" Officer Colt had a look of embarrassment as he questioned Gradier Xanatus.

"He is my subordinate," Gradier Xanatus replied.

Officer Colt; "..."

The other officers in the room felt second hand embarrassment for him as he stood there for a bit stupefied.

imagine bragging to someone about accomplishments you owe to them. Not all the accomplishments were coined from Gustav's information and intelligence.

In fact, there were many of them which which had nothing to do with him but Officer Coly happened to mention a few of the recent ones which Gustav was responsible for, hence his embarrassment.

"...Still, this team was assembled by the higher ups to specifically take care of the Genxodus. He is not a member," After a while Officer Colt regained his composure.

"I have to admit, Sir Colt is right with that. The Genxodus eradication team has been specially drilled for this and he is not a part of us. The upcoming mission is a very important one where errors cannot be risked," A slim female officer with ponytail and black glasses voiced out.

"I will reveal an information that was kept under the wraps to you lots," Gradier Xanatus said with a solemn tone.

"Officer Crimson was attacked over four months ago by the Genxodus in his household... they were looking to abduct him..."

Everyone eyes widened slightly at this point as the revelation resonated within them.

'They wanted to abduct Officer Crimson? Why?' Most of them had similar thoughts in mind.

"Do you know what that means?" Grader Xanatus voiced once more.

"He is or was a target to them," Officer Colt responded with a low tone.

"Precisely... which also means they had a plan that somehow needed Officer Crimson's involvement. This also prompted most of the information you lots received. He had also hunted them on his own in the past before which led him to gather some of those intelligence," Grader Xanatus explained.

"We have to figure out what plan they had for him and knowing he is a target... if we play our cards right, we could use this to our advantage," The other female officer with glasses and a ponytail stated.

"Officer Shuri... if you're suggesting I use myself as a beacon to attract them, it won't work because all they want now is my death," Gustav chipped in.

"Oh?" Officer Shuri exclaimed in surprise.

"They have been sending assassins after him for the past couple of months," Grader Xanatus clarified.

"Hmm even with that, we could use the assassins to get information... did you capture them alive?" Officer Colt questioned.

"They never sent Genxodus members to assassinate him..." Gradier Xanatus voiced out once more.

"They have been using Mixedblood assassins who know nothing of the organisation," Gustav added.

"These Mixedblood assassins have no idea who hired them... they just put a hit list out on Gustav's head in the underground hit list with a price tag and these heartless assassins would go after him for the money," Gradier Xanatus explained.

"Such shamelessness... they call themselves a Slarkov equality organisation who wants to erase mixedbloods yet they employed the use mixedbloods for such a deed," Officer Shuri displayed an expression of irritation as she voiced out.

"...I don't think they care, as long as they achieve their goals," Gradier Xanatus pointed out.

"Anyways... I will be participating in the upcoming operation. I have decided to wipe them out," Gustav stated.

"Officer Crimson, you will only be allowed to join us in the upcoming operation if you agree to be put in a squad and listen to commands," Officer Colt proposed.

"No. I already have a squad and they will be joining us," Gustav declined instantly.

"That is the only way you will be allowed. I will not be changing my mind," Officer Colt voiced out.

"Then I guess I won't be revealing the information I discovered recently as well," Gustav stated before shrugging his shoulders and turning around to leave.

"Information? Halt officer Crimson!" Officer Colt quickly yelled out.

"Hmm?" Gustav turned his head to the side.

"What information?" Officer Colt inquired.

"Oh? But you just asked me to leave. I don't feel like sharing anymore," Gustav responded with a smile before waving and resuming his walk.

"Officer Crimson!" Officer Colt yelled out again, causing Gustav to pause.

"Do you know its a crime to withhold information about enemy forces because it automatically means you're aiding them in their plans?" Officer Colt questioned.

"What enemy forces? When did I say I had information about enemy forces hehehe?" Gustav chuckled while responding.

Officer Colt gritted his teeth as he heard this, unable to give a reply. Truly Gustav hadn't outrightly confirmed it was information about the enemy forces so no one could hold it against him.

"Okay fine, you win," Officer Colt finally gave in.

Gustav paused his steps before reaching the door after hearing this.

"Now we can have a proper discussion," A smirk appeared on Gustav's face as he turned around.

-

Hours later Gustav and Gradier Xanatus sat in a luxurious office sipping tea as they exchanged dialogue.

"It's three weeks away... are you sure your team will be ready?" Gradier Xanatus questioned.

"I'm sure they will. With the training, they must be way stronger by now," Gustav stated with a tone of certainty.

"The IYSOP training Huh," Gradier Xanatus stroked his chin area as he muttered.

"This will even be a great way to prepare them... I'm hoping to get rid of the Genxodus before I finally leave for IYSOP." Gustav revealed.

"It's less than two months away... I'm not sure that's possible," Gradier Xanatus voiced out his thought.

"All we need to do is destroy their higher ups and cut their support... even if we don't manage to get rid or apprehend every single one of them, that will be more than enough to end their operations," Gustav pointed out.

"And how do we do that? Till date not a single higher up has been captured and we still have no idea who any of them are," Gradier Xanatus inquired.

"Leave that to me," Gustav responded with an assuring tone.

He obviously had a plan but he wasn't looking to reveal it at the moment. From the looks of things it might even be involved with some of his capabilities he was still hiding so he chose not to reveal.

"By the way, did you breakthrough?" Gradier Xanatus questioned.

"Yeah... you can sense it?" Gustav questioned.

"I can barely sense you here despite your physical presence so I figured you are concealing energy even more than normal because you don't want to fully unleash your energy... which could only mean you're still learning to get used to the current strength you just achieved," Gradier Xanatus voiced lengthily.

"Yeah... haha," Gustav chuckled lightly as he realised Gradier Xanatus saw through his recent breakthrough.

"You're now more powerful than I am for sure," Gradier Xanatus couldn't help but be awed at the speed of Gustav's improvement.

"Maybe..." Gustav refrained from confirming Gradier Xanatus's suspicion.

It was less than a year since he finished from MBO Camp yet he had already gotten to this level of strength.

"Another meeting will be held a couple of days before the time for the operation. This time every single squad along with the members of the Genxodus eradication team will be there," Gradier Xanatus revealed.

"Your team needs to be ready in the next two weeks," He added.

"No issues with that... I'll go to them before that time," Gustav nodded.

"In the meantime I need to train... I need a powerful sparring partner," Gustav stated.

"You need a haircut," Gradier Xanatus shook his head with an appalled look as he stared at Gustav's long caveman like hair.

"Oh yeah, that too," Gustav placed his hand on his head while responding. freewebnovel.com

Gustav hadn't cut his hair in the last four months and it grew to a crazy length due to his excessive training. Growing in strength also led to cells altering and so many different inexplicable body changes.

Some Mixedbloods would experience intense horniness in some situations and end up going at it with the opposite sex for days. A normal human wouldn't be able to handle such.

Other mixedbloods would experience body changes like becoming extremely cold for a period of time or changing color. This only happened to Mixedbloods who were on the verge of breaking through to the Kilo rank.

In Gustav's case, his hair grew very long within a short period, reaching the back of the soles of his feet. This wasn't the only thing, his body temperature would have turned a human within close proximity to ashes which was why he flew upwards.

[New System Mission Has Been Issued]

#####

"Don't Fall! Stabilise yourself!"

Chapter 1089 You're All Dead "Don't Fall! Stabilise yourself!"

A yelled reverberated across vicinity where a group could be seen standing in mid air. Beneath them was a dark pit that looked like it had infinite depth. The surroundings not only had dark clouds but crazy weather as well.

The group of nineteen who seemed to be standing in mid air amidst this darkness were actually standing on a very thin line that stretches across the vicinity.

Due to its immense thinness, it was impossible to spot it with naked eyes. Yet the line was right there and they had to stabilise themselves as they walked across it.

Even powerful mixedbloods would have a difficult time walking on a line that was so thin, it became invisible to the naked eyes so it wasn't surprising to see some of the people in this group struggle.

Stabilising oneself without movement was a herculean task, talk more of while moving.

This very deep pit below with immense darkness suddenly oozed out a blazing pillar of flames. "Move!" One of them yelled as the flames burst forth from beneath them.

The group happened to be right within the AOC of the pillar of flames.

Some of them leapt right ahead, over each other while some leapt backwards. Without being able to easily see the line, this was a very risky move but they would be roasted if they wasted even a fraction of a second before reacting.

Fwwwwhooom-

The pillar of flames busted right into the skies above and even parted the sea of dark clouds.

There was a massive hole in the dark sky due to this for a few moments and the dark area turned a bit brighter. However, this didn't last as the vicinity quickly darkened up again with the thick clouds covering up the entire sky.

The bunch that had leapt into the air to avoid the searing flames that busted forth from below began falling from the air; they honed their senses to the max so they could land on the thin line they were initially walking on.

Cwrrun Ewhban! Ewwwhhun!

Unfortunately, they all missed the thin thread of line by inches with their feet and instead managed to grab on with their hands or fingers. Two from the group failed to catch on and began falling into the perilous darkness beneath.

Zhhhiooo! Zhhhiiog!

Two portals bearing semblance to that of blue skies opened up beneath the falling duo and swallowed them up

The others still holding onto the barely visible thin line looked up and spotted another clear sky blue portal open up

A figure clad in all red fell from it and landed directly on the thin and almost invisible line they were hanging onto

You re all dead" The red figure voiced with a feminine tone

They all sighed in apprehension upon hearing the verdict. ----

Minutes later, the group could be seen standing in a particular spot right outside a massive building.

A lady clad in red armor like suit stood in front of them while speaking in a condescending tone. "Do you know what you did wrong this time?" She questioned. "We weren't accurate with our descent after leaping from the line to dodge the flames?" Falco voiced with an inquisitive tone. "We were supposed to land with our feet is that is?" Angy questioned as well. "Wrong," The lady in the red armor like suit responded. "You're a team... if a single one of you fall into the endless abysmal dark hold, you have all failed," She added.

Falco, E.E, Aildris, Endric, Asbestos and all the other main IYSOP participants had looks of contemplation upon hearing this. "But... wouldn't we have to keep fighting if anything happened to any of our teammates during IYSOP?" Rosalin questioned. "There will be situations where you all will have to scale through together without losing a single member... losing teammates would result in disqualification. This is also to teach you twenty to watch each other's back as every teammate is a valuable asset. If you keep this in mind, the probability of losing teammates is lower during a round where there might not be a chance to make use of the substitutes..." The lady in red armor explained lengthily. "Understood..." Aildris and some others nodded. "You say twenty but there is only nineteen of us here," Yonda mumbled with a discontented scowl. "Yeah but there's gonna be twenty of us," Falco stated in response. "And how can we watch out for each other without all training together," Yonda voiced out. "Haven't we gone through this already?" Matilda said with a frown. "Mistress Beatrice, you have always said teamwork is our greatest asset not individual strength... how is that going to work if we all don't train together from the start?" Yonda questioned with a logical tone. "Indeed I did... I understand that a member is currently absent due to responsibilities," The lady in red armor who was obviously Beatrice replied. "Mistress, Is it wise for us to go into battle with a teammate we've never worked with? I agree with Yonda's thinking as well as your teachings," Fildhor who was one of Yonda's henchmen butted in. "I suggest another teammate is put in his place and upon his arrival he has to prove he is reliable to the team in battle based on teamwork of course," Yonda kept spouting. "Unfortunately I'm not sure that would be possible. If you become the captain of the team, I will consider your offer," Beatrice replied while shaking her head. "Captain?" Everyone was a bit taken aback by the statement as they realised they didn't know who the captain of the team was. "What do I have to do to become the captain?" Yonda questioned. "You have to show exceptional leadership skills surpassing that of the current captain," Beatrice replied. "Uh? Who is the captain?" This was the current question on everyone's mind after hearing this. "Looks like you are all unaware. Well, you will find out soon enough... until any of you show skill surpassing the current captain, there won't be any changes," Beatrice said while pulling down the helmet covering her face. "What? Who..." Yonda was about to speak again when he was interrupted. "Get ready to go again... we're reaching the end of the training session. You all have shown immense improvements and I expect them to increase," Beatrice stated. "I just wanna fight someone boring," Sheila who had been keeping quiet on the sidelines all this time finally spoke. "You can fight me after you all successfully cross the line past the endless abysmal dark hold," Beatrice responded. "Yaay yay yay don't go easy on me teacher," Sheila seemed fired up after hearing that and everyone shook their head with weird looks.

Sheila was the strongest yet the most childish and all the teachers having high ranked bloodlines, she was a handful to them during combat trainings.

Seeing all her feats, E.E and the others couldn't tell who was stronger between her and Gustav.

Zhhhiooo!

A sky blue portal appeared in front of them and transported everyone back to the area they had left a while ago. -----

Days went by very quickly and in the real world, Gustav was joining the Genxodus eradication team to plot their next operation.

They had spent lots of time analysing all the data they accumulated for months. This was going to be a big operation.

They knew it would most likely be impossible to eradicate the entire Genxodus with this but they knew they could deal immense damage.

They had come up with proper strategies and Gustav had divulged some secret info to them as well that would be beneficial.

All the while this was ongoing, Genxodus were also plotting their next step against the Mixedblood populace....

Before they knew it, only a week more was left before the operation would take place. -11pm

Gustav sat crossed legged in his room as he checked out the system stats. ----- [Host Attributes] -Name: Gustav Crimson -Level: 104 -Class: Metamorphic Sub Parallel Being -Exp: 7,235,000/62,900,000 -Hp: 182,000/182,000 -Energy: 105,500/105,500 [Attributes] ?Strength: 424 ?Perception: 421 ?Mental Fortitude: 423 ?Agility: 420 ?Speed: 432 ?Bravery: 422 ?Intelligence: 436 ?Charm: 139 ?Defence: 423 ?Vitality: 425 ?Endurance: 426 [Attributes points: 67]

_____ 'When I reached the 100th level, Cohilia reacted... I felt it,' Gustav said internally. ("It just means you're getting closer and closer to being able to use its power,") The system stated. 'I thought you said I wouldn't be able to make use of it till I became an Alpha ranked?' Gustav responded internally. ("Yes... you won't be able to make use of its power till you are as powerful as an Alpha ranked mixedblood,") The system clarified. 'Oh...' Gustav understood what the system meant now.

His growth had always been abnormal since the system came into fray and even when he achieved a particular mixedblood rank he would be way more powerful than that.

With the system clarification, Gustav realised he didn't have to wait till he was apha ranked before he could properly harness Cohilia's ability, he only had to be as powerful as an Alpha ranked.