

Bloodline 1111

Chapter 1111 Why Am I The Woman?

E.E wanted to alert him but something told him, Gustav must have tried something like this before so he definitely knew what he was doing.

'They're dying...' He could tell based on the way the faces of both members were getting drained of color.

At this point it was getting to daybreak already since it was currently around five am.

Their current action was one they wouldn't be able to do during the day so he was tempted to ask Gustav to speed things up.

Minutes later, Gustav finally let go of the heads of the two abducted as his eyes dimmed in glow.

Both figures fell faces flat to the ground after he let them go. It was difficult to tell if they were still alive or not.

Gustav breathed in like he was comprehending the details behind all the memories he had just consumed.

"This is bad," The first words that escaped his lips after this ordeal worried E.E.

"What is it? Do they know about our operation?" E.E inquired.

"They don't but the precautions they put in place could pretty much ruin everything tomorrow," Gustav responded.

E.E's face showed a hint of worry upon hearing this.

"Care to elaborate?" E.E asked.

"These two whose memories I just finished Siphoning, were quite high in the Genxodus organisation ranking. They are privy to more information than the others..." Gustav began explaining.

"There are two major things I figured out upon Siphoning their memories..."

First, they're planning an operation of their own," Gustav revealed.

"An operation? What is their plan?" E.E couldn't help but voice out.

"They are planning an attack on the Capital City conventional centre... on the same day Yusha is set to perform there," Gustav answered.

"What? Yusha? Which Yusha? Goddess Yusha?" E.E voiced out frantically with his eyeballs nearly popping out of his socket.

"Yes that Yusha. Their plans are complete and the concert happens to be holding a day before our operation... today," Gustav dropped the bombshell.

"But the conventional center in Capital City is big enough to hold a crowd of millions and she is certainly popular enough to sell out all her concert tickets," E.E said with a troubled expression.

"Exactly the point. If they succeed millions will perish because they have them Exactly where they want. Also, Mixedbloods tend to attend Yusha concerts more which must be a scheme to reduce the mixedblood population," Gustav analysed.

He recalled he was supposed to be in attendance for this concert because he was invited by Yusha personally but due to the operation he didn't think twice before cancelling.

Now she and millions others were in danger due to this set up by the Genxodus.

"We just need to inform the higher ups about this and they will be able to easily deal with it," E.E stated.

"It is not that simple. The only way to prevent this occurrence would be to stop everyone from entering the conventional center... People would have started swooping in from all across the world to occupy the place before we even manage to send word. Fans are always hyped up in situations like this and would arrive many hours before the event begins," Gustav explained.

"It's accurate to say the place will be filled almost a day before the event even starts. Evacuation millions of people is not something that can be easily done as well and knowing how this concert has been long anticipated, the fans might even refuse to leave..." Gustav already compiled a long list of results in his head of how things would go.

The event was today, there was almost a zero percent chance of saving them.

"What do we do?" E.E questioned.

He couldn't come up with any plans in his mind that would work in this situation based on Gustav's explanation. Even if they were to act without regard for the will of the fans, it would be impossible to save everyone.

Millions of people was no small number after all.

"There is only one way to prevent this but I'll have to be there personally because no one else can do it," Gustav voiced out.

"But you can't be there and here at the same time... besides, if you were to head there, it would take at least four hours of air travel," E.E disclosed.

"So long as I can get there before it is activated... I should be able to prevent it," Gustav knew this was a long shot but it seemed to be the best option at the moment.

If he did this, the show would be able to go on and the chances of anyone getting hurt was very low. However they would still have to inform the MBO after all so plans could still be made.

"Aish are those dumb fucks even gonna believe us? This is troublesome," E.E was already having a headache thinking about how they were gonna react once they found out both of them infiltrated Aribia City without their knowledge.

Sometimes the higher ups were the reason why a lot of bad events still went down because a lot of them felt, listening to someone in a lower chain of command was beneath them.

"Hold on, you said you figured out two things," E.E recalled.

Gustav nodded in response.

"Well, what was the second thing?" E.E inquired.

"The second is the precautions they set up... you see those two we've been tailing? They were out on an objective and they successfully performed the objective," Gustav began explaining.

"A newly created drug from the Genxodus called, Bloodline Dampening seeds have been spread across every part of Aribia City. Some inside foods, others inside consumables like drinks and the likes. The moment a person consumes them, they become an automatic bloodline dampening beacon,"

E.E eyes widened even more upon hearing this explanation.

"Does that mean, when the people of Aribia city began to consume items where the bloodline dampening seeds have been planted, their bloodlines get dampened?" E.E questioned.

"Not just that... they become a beacon that dampens the bloodline of other Mixedbloods around them as well," Gustav clarified.

"Fuck! When this happens, the populace will be a bloodline dampener for the officers that will be infiltrating the city for the operation," E.E came to this realisation.

"Precisely... this is why even if they didn't find out about the operation, it would be difficult for the operation to go smoothly," Gustav responded.

The Genxodus were well versed in technologies especially the ones they created for battles which were powerful enough to go toe to toe with Mixedbloods.

With the dampener, things were bound to get even worse as the footing would become unequal.

The Genxodus will be able to easily fight back this way and there was no guarantee the MBO would be able to successfully complete the operation in this city.

"I don't even know which is worse between the two you just mentioned," E.E voiced out with a look of contemplation and apprehension.

One would cause the death of millions and the other would ruin the chances of putting an end to the Genxodus. If they escaped this endeavour they would definitely be more wary and hide out better which would cause future problems for the earth.

"There's a third thing they're plotting at the moment but I haven't siphoned that part of their memory yet. If I were to continue they'd both die," Gustav revealed.

"If they're truly high ranked like you mentioned, wouldn't the Genxodus find it suspicious when they have both disappeared?" E.E asked.

"Yes which is why I already have something in mind," Gustav replied while moving closer to the unconscious bodies laying on the ground.

"Which is?" E.E inquired.

Minutes later, a male and female figure could be spotted walking down a corridor.

The male had a completely white skin and hair with azure colored eyes and shaven eyebrows. He was clad in a dark suit.

The female figure was clad in what looked like a orange and red kimono. Her face looked pretty young but she had a very noticeable horn on the left side of her forehead.

They both walked side by side but there was a subtle hint that the man was her subordinate as they moved towards the elevator.

"Why am I the woman and not you?" The lady scrunched her nose with a slightly discontented expression.

"Because I was the woman last time," The man replied.

"Last time? Whatchu you mean by last time man?" The lady had a confused expression while questioning.

"Don't ask any questions and just get into character. We can't have them suspecting anything," The man stated before punching a number in the elevator.

"Mehn this shii feels weird... I have a vagina..." The lady couldn't help but state with an intriguing expression.

"I have a vagina," She looked down while whispering.

"Stop saying that," The man berated.

Chapter 1112 Revealing The Information

"I am not allowed to reveal anything till you three accept a request first," Aildris responded.

"What request?" Officer Colt questioned.

"First off you three must write a grant stating, you will not file Officer Crimson and any of his teammates for insubordination.

Second, you three will also have to add that the team will not be taken off the operation. If you do these, I will reveal the information," Aildris stated.

"What nonsense! You all should be taken of the operation Im..." Officer Colt was interrupted by Officer Darmark.

"Hold on... we have to think clearly before we decide. If this information is truly one that proves the operation can be ruined and our spies have not uncovered it... this would mean we as commanders lead a failed operation," Officer Darmark stated.

"...I agree with Officer Darmark. We have to think clearly before we decide. We haven't uncovered such information from our end," Officer Shuri pointed out.

"They have nothing to offer. I will never be intimidated by such into agreeing with the demands," Officer Colt voiced out.

"Might I remind you three that this is Officer Crimson. His reputation precedes him. Never has he given out false information so I implore you commanders to choose wisely," Aildris words hit all three of them.

Even Officer Colt who was so against Gustav had to rethink. Gustav had successfully accomplished great things after all. Would it be wise to choose not to believe him now?

'It will be in our record if this operation fails,' This thought were on the minds of all three commanders.

'I should find a way to get him to spill without agreeing... the recording device,' Officer Colt thought and stared at the device in Aildris grasp.

'I just need to get that,' Upon gathering his thoughts, he activated his bloodline energy.

Zhiinnn~

Aildris noticed the device had disappeared from his grasp in the next instant and was in the hands of Officer Colt.

"Now your services are no longer needed," Officer Colt chuckled with a look of victory.

He tapped on the device and what played next had made their eyes nearly pop out of the sockets.

-"Phrrruuuhhhmmm!"

-"Kreeeehhhhvvv!"

-"Pullummpullummpulllum!"

"Are those...?" Officer Colt couldn't even complete his sentence.

"Yes they are what you think they are," Aildris responded with an unbothered smile.

They all looked like they wanted to puke at the moment because the device was playing a gut retching toilet audio.

Whoever was in the audio seemed to having a war in the bathroom as the loud sounds of farts and droppings into the water closet encapsulated the entire command room.

"Turn that off!" Officer Darmark yelled.

Officer Colt had some difficulty operating it but after a few, he managed to turn it off.

"What was that officer Aildris? How could you have such in your possession?" Officer Colt face showed disgust as he voiced out.

"What I have in my possession is nobody's business. Commander should refrain from forcefully obtaining others personal items next time," Aildris remained calm and collected as he replied.

Officer Colt had a look of humiliation and couldn't find anything to say.

"Lest I forget, the information is not recorded so if all three commanders agree to the request, I will be revealing it verbally," Aildris added.

'Damn it I got fooled,' Officer Colt thought.

He felt immensely embarrassed due to the action he performed and Aildris revelation.

Aildris seemed to have suspected something like this might happen so he only recorded the part of Gustav's introduction during his revelation of the situation.

He made a good call since it would be totally impossible to force the commanders to accept their demands if they lost the information first.

The commanders couldn't force Aildris to speak up unless he wanted to.

"Commanders, I urge you again to think carefully before making your decision. If you truly want the operation to become a success, its best to accept our requests," Aildris voiced after a brief momemt of silence.

The commanders stared at each other for some time, giving out secret gestures before moving to a part of the command tent.

Aildris waited for some time as they discussed.

- "Did any of the spies reveal information about a potential plot that could ruin our operation?"

- "None whatsoever,"

- "The only things they managed to uncover were a few more hidden hideouts,"

- "Bunch of useless..."

Aldris could hear a bit of their chats but he remained in place with a calm composure. Aldris was always super calm and never quick to getting triggered.

It was safe to say he had the coolest head amongst all other teammates. Even more than Gustav.

"Officer Aldris,"

After some time the commanders called out to him.

"We'll accept your request," Officer Darmark stated.

Officer Colt still had a bitter look but they didn't have much of a choice. They needed to know if this would lead to the failure of the operation after all.

"Good choice commanders. I shall await the written grants first before revealing anything," Aldris responded with a smile.

#####

- "24 Billion energy crystals! Do I hear 25?"

- "40 Billion energy crystals! Do I hear 41?"

- "70 Billion energy crystals! Do I hear 71?"

- "120 Billion energy crystals! Do I hear 125?"

The auction went on in full charge with these unknown moguls, bidding at crazy prices.

Sir Gill was shocked at their immense wealth. Just a billion energy crystals was worth more than twice his entire fortune.

He already considered himself to be earning quite the fortune but he was nothing close to this when it came to wealth.

'I need to uncover the identities of everyone sitting here. They may not have the same motive as the Genxodus but they are definitely dealing in shady businesses as well,' Sir Gigahard thought.

"Miss Excon, the higher ups have labelled this a big priority so you're free to use as much wealth as required to acquire the machine," A Genxodus member announced from the side.

Miss Excon displayed a serious look before yelling out a price, "200 Billion energy crystals!"

Gasp~

The entire place turned quiet for a bit as everyone turned to stare in the direction of the Genxodus members.

They had just raised the bid by over sixty billion crystals more which was no small thing.

At this point some of the moguls were already contemplating dropping out.

If it had gotten to this point this fast, there was no doubt the price was bound to increase way more later.

Some of them considered if it might be worth it despite this piece being one of the rarest items across galaxies.

-"201 Billion energy crystals,"

- "205 Billion energy crystals,"

The bid continued and the value kept rising.

Kazeem grinned from ear to ear with the continuous increase in price of the item.

It turned out a few other moguls were not interested in giving this up. It wasn't necessarily because of the worth and rarity at this point, they just wanted to make sure the Genxodus didn't get it.

There was fear of the Genxodus even amongst shady underground businessmen. After all, most of them were mixedbloods.

If the Genxodus aimed to get rid of all mixedbloods, they would be affected as well. It was not a matter of good or bad. They just wanted to be safe.

The auction kept getting heated by the moment despite many moguls already dropping out.

After another twenty minutes, only three were left bidding.

The first was the man who had openly expressed his disgust for the Genxodus, the second was the lady who stated her dissatisfaction as well and the third was none other than the Genxodus.

"What do we do miss? They don't seem to be backing down?" One of the Genxodus members questioned.

-"700 Billion energy crystals! Do I hear 710?"

It was already at a crazy amount.

"It's time to stop," Miss Excon voiced out.

"But we will lose the machine," The Genxodus member said with a look of worry.

"The higher ups will be disappointed if we spend this much fund despite how much we need the machine. We will have to find another way," Miss Excon stated.

The words coming out of her lips were the exact words Sir Gigahard had whispered in her ears. They seemed to be hatching a plan.

"We will acquire it no matter what but not this way," Sir Gigahard voiced out.

- "Going for 700 Billion energy crystals,"

- "Going once,"

"Going twice,"

08:25

"Sold!"

Kazeem's loud voice reverberated across the entire vicinity causing everyone to begin clapping.

The large man who had managed to get it, stood to his feet and bowed lightly with a smiley face. Then he turned to the Genxodus and a loud "Hmph" escaped his lips.

The entire place had become loud after everyone saw the Genxodus lose.

The auction came to an end at this point and everyone rose to their feet.

"Let's go," Sir Gigahard said to Miss Excon and they began heading towards the man who had won the bid.

Chapter 1113 Losing The Bid

He felt immensely embarrassed due to the action he performed and Aildris revelation.

Aildris seemed to have suspected something like this might happen so he only recorded the part of Gustav's introduction during his revelation of the situation.

He made a good call since it would be totally impossible to force the commanders to accept their demands if they lost the information first.

The commanders couldn't force Aildris to speak up unless he wanted to.

"Commanders, I urge you again to think carefully before making your decision. If you truly want the operation to become a success, its best to accept our requests," Aildris voiced after a brief momemt of silence.

The commanders stared at each other for some time, giving out secret gestures before moving to a part of the command tent.

Aildris waited for some time as they discussed.

-"Did any of the spies reveal information about a potential plot that could ruin our operation?"

- "None whatsoever,"

- "The only things they managed to uncover were a few more hidden hideouts,"

- "Bunch of useless..."

Aldris could hear a bit of their chats but he remained in place with a calm composure. Aldris was always super calm and never quick to getting triggered.

It was safe to say he had the coolest head amongst all other teammates. Even more than Gustav.

"Officer Aldris,"

After some time the commanders called out to him.

"We'll accept your request," Officer Darmark stated.

Officer Colt still had a bitter look but they didn't have much of a choice. They needed to know if this would lead to the failure of the operation after all.

"Good choice commanders. I shall await the written grants first before revealing anything," Aildris responded with a smile.

#####

- "24 Billion energy crystals! Do I hear 25?"

- "40 Billion energy crystals! Do I hear 41?"

- "70 Billion energy crystals! Do I hear 71?"

- "120 Billion energy crystals! Do I hear 125?"

The auction went on in full charge with these unknown moguls, bidding at crazy prices.

Sir Gill was shocked at their immense wealth. Just a billion energy crystals was worth more than twice his entire fortune.

He already considered himself to be earning quite the fortune but he was nothing close to this when it came to wealth.

'I need to uncover the identities of everyone sitting here. They may not have the same motive as the Genxodus but they are definitely dealing in shady businesses as well,' Sir Gigahard thought.

"Miss Excon, the higher ups have labelled this a big priority so you're free to use as much wealth as required to acquire the machine," A Genxodus member announced from the side.

Miss Excon displayed a serious look before yelling out a price, "200 Billion energy crystals!"freewebnovel.com

Gasp~

The entire place turned quiet for a bit as everyone turned to stare in the direction of the Genxodus members.

They had just raised the bid by over sixty billion crystals more which was no small thing.

At this point some of the moguls were already contemplating dropping out.

If it had gotten to this point this fast, there was no doubt the price was bound to increase way more later.

Some of them considered if it might be worth it despite this piece being one of the rarest items across galaxies.

- "201 Billion energy crystals,"

- "205 Billion energy crystals,"

The bid continued and the value kept rising.

Kazeem grinned from ear to ear with the continuous increase in price of the item.

It turned out a few other moguls were not interested in giving this up. It wasn't necessarily because of the worth and rarity at this point, they just wanted to make sure the Genxodus didn't get it.

There was fear of the Genxodus even amongst shady underground businessmen. After all, most of them were mixedbloods.

If the Genxodus aimed to get rid of all mixedbloods, they would be affected as well. It was not a matter of good or bad. They just wanted to be safe.

The auction kept getting heated by the moment despite many moguls already dropping out.

After another twenty minutes, only three were left bidding.

The first was the man who had openly expressed his disgust for the Genxodus, the second was the lady who stated her dissatisfaction as well and the third was none other than the Genxodus.

"What do we do miss? They don't seem to be backing down?" One of the Genxodus members questioned.

-"700 Billion energy crystals! Do I hear 710?"

It was already at a crazy amount.

"It's time to stop," Miss Excon voiced out.

"But we will lose the machine," The Genxodus member said with a look of worry.

"The higher ups will be disappointed if we spend this much fund despite how much we need the machine. We will have to find another way," Miss Excon stated.

The words coming out of her lips were the exact words Sir Gigahard had whispered in her ears. They seemed to be hatching a plan.

"We will acquire it no matter what but not this way," Sir Gigahard voiced out.

- "Going for 700 Billion energy crystals,"

- "Going once,"

"Going twice,"

"Sold!"

Kazeem's loud voice reverberated across the entire vicinity causing everyone to begin clapping.

The large man who had managed to get it, stood to his feet and bowed lightly with a smiley face. Then he turned to the Genxodus and a loud "Hmph" escaped his lips.

The entire place had become loud after everyone saw the Genxodus lose.

The auction came to an end at this point and everyone rose to their feet.

"Let's go," Sir Gigahard said to Miss Excon and they began heading towards the man who had won the bid.

---SS

("Exactly dumbass I am...") The system responded with a ridiculing tone.

"Well... that's encouraging," Gustav muttered.

("Now that you've completed the device, our plans after IYSOP can be moved forward,") The system voiced internally.

"Moved forward? I have a terrorist organisation to deal with in the coming week, a competition to win for earth apparently and a situation to take care of for one of my friends before those after IYSOP plans can be put into motion," Gustav listed out.

("The device is to direct you towards areas of lingering warp demolator energies, right?") The system inquired.

"Yes?" Gustav answered.

"Well... that's encouraging," Gustav muttered.

("Now that you've completed the device, our plans after IYSOP can be moved forward,") The system voiced internally.

"Moved forward? I have a terrorist organisation to deal with in the coming week, a competition to win for earth apparently and a situation to take care of for one of my friends before those after IYSOP plans can be put into motion," Gustav listed out.

("The device is to direct you towards areas of lingering warp demolator energies, right?") The system inquired.

"Yes?" Gustav answered.

("Does it work instantly? Can we say for sure that upon activation in space like you planned, it would immediately lead you in the direction of these energies?") The system questioned.

"I can't say for sure till its activated... and you know there are only specific points in space where it can be activated so I hope you're not suggesting I try it out immediately," Gustav muttered while his eyes turned into slits.

("Exactly dumbass I am...") The system responded with a ridiculing tone.

"No... Where do you suppose I get the time to visit space, use the device and who knows wait for it to give me the coordinates..." Gustav shook his head while responding.

("Even with all those intelligence point you're not so bright eh?")

Gustav; "... 'Can't you make a damn clarification without spewing insults?'

("You just need to get the device to one of the specific points you mentioned, activate it and leave it in place with a layer of protection till you're ready to start searching the locations. By the time IYSOP is done and over with, you'll be able to start looking for traces of the warp demolator energy instantly instead of getting unnecessarily delayed,") The system analysed.

"Well... that's encouraging," Gustav muttered.

("Now that you've completed the device, our plans after IYSOP can be moved forward,") The system voiced internally.

"Moved forward? I have a terrorist organisation to deal with in the coming week, a competition to win for earth apparently and a situation to take care of for one of my friends before those after IYSOP plans can be put into motion," Gustav listed out.

("The device is to direct you towards areas of lingering warp demolator energies, right?") The system inquired.

"Yes?" Gustav answered.

("Does it work instantly? Can we say for sure that upon activation in space like you planned, it would immediately lead you in the direction of these energies?") The system questioned.

"I can't say for sure till its activated... and you know there are only specific points in space where it can be activated so I hope you're not suggesting I try it out immediately," Gustav muttered while his eyes turned into slits.

("Exactly dumbass I am...") The system responded with a ridiculing tone.

"No... Where do you suppose I get the time to visit space, use the device and who knows wait for it to give me the coordinates..." Gustav shook his head while responding.

Chapter 1114 The Capital City

[Lightning Blitz Has Been Activated]

A streak of Lightning appeared in the sky for an instant and disappeared.

This marked Gustav's departure as he began repeatedly activating Lightning Blitz.

He was able to cross close a thousand miles in a couple of seconds due to the activation of lightning Blitz.

The Capital City was still over five thousand miles away and now that Lightning Blitz was on cooldown he'd have to use his normal means of flight.

Twhiii~

Massive bat like wings that covered a span of thirty feet sprouted out of his back upon reaching a point in the sky.

[Hover Has Been Activated]

[Double Speed Has Been Activated]

Gustav sped forward through the sky with intense speed upon adding the activation of these abilities to his partial transformation.

Fwwwooooooooosshhh~

His body parted the clouds due to immense speed as he flew as fast as he could.

He was still quite a distance away but he was sure he would get there around afternoon.

E.E had gone back to inform the MBO of their endeavour as well as Gustav current action at this time.

#####

-"What? He is on his way to the capital city?"

"Yes... he said he would try his possible best to take care of the situation but the MBO has to play their part and take this seriously as well," E.E revealed to the commanders.

"Your co captain has informed us about the situation. The higher ups will decide what to do while we over here will focus on making our operation tomorrow a success," Officer Darmark responded.

"We are not equipped to handle that as well as our own predicament but Officer Crimson should have returned here before making any decisions," Officer Shuri voiced out as well.

"There was no time. He had a feeling he would be delayed if he were to do so so immediate action was taken after we had fooled the Genxodus," E.E responded.

"He could have at least brought the Elfrit machine to us!" Officer Colt stated with a look of disapproval.

"Like I said sir, time," E.E replied.

"I believe you commanders have heard about everything so I shall take my leave," E.E added.

"You still need to tell us everything about you two endeavour just in case there is something we might have missed," Officer Darmark voiced out.

"I will put it in my report," E.E said respectfully.

"Wouldn't he need help?" Angy voiced out with a worried tone as their group formed a chat circle outside their accommodation quarter.

"He said he would take care of it and try to return before the operation begins tomorrow," E.E voiced in response.

Everyone had contemplative looks after E.E had given them a breakdown of everything that had happened so far.

"What are the commanders plan for the bloodline dampening beacons?" Falco inquired.

"So far they haven't come up with a solution but it is looking like the operation might get moved till they do," Aildris disclosed.

-----SSS

("Well at least now you can keep it up since you have a lot of energy and you're not going very far,") The system responded.

'Four thousand miles is pretty far though,' Gustav replied internally.

("Not as far as touring across the entire earth,") The system voiced.

Gustav; 'Fair point...'

[Lightning Blitz Has Been Activated]

Zhrrrrhhhhhh!

Gustav crossed another six hundred thousand feet in an instant as he activated Lightning Blitz.

? The cooldown had ended so he could activate it four more times before it went into cooldown mode again.

This would shorten the distance by another five hundred miles. Gustav estimated that he should arrive back in Planktok City in about thirty to forty minutes time.

He had left a huge gap between himself and the officers chasing from behind.

'What exactly happened when I was asleep? Did I manage to absorb the Cosmic Superiority completely?' Gustav asked internally.

("What do you think?") The system answered with a question.

'I feel more energized than before... more powerful... its a odd feeling that i can quite describe...' Gustav's face shone with a contemplative expression as he mentioned.

("To a certain extent you feel like reality can bend to your will?") The system stated.

'...Yeah... something like that...' Gustav confirmed.

(Hehe, it has begun,") The system chuckled as it stated.

'Hmm? What has begun?'

-"The MBO Tower

"Stand down," A man in a red colored MBO outfit commanded through a communication channel.

-"Are you sure sir? They stated that he might still be unstable and needs to be examined for a few more days before he is released," The person on the other end of the communication questioned.

"It doesn't matter. He is coming here so stand down,"

-"Understood... Sir Xanatus," The person on the other end voiced as the dialogue ended.

Gradier Xanatus stood in a board room with a few other officers having a meeting.

"And you're sure he won't endanger the lives of anyone?" One of the officers here who was dressed in a high ranking outfit questioned.

"What better place for him to be than in the presence of other officers who are much stronger and can place him under control if anything goes wrong?" Gradier Xanatus said with a casual but respectful bearing.

- "Hmm I see your point,"

- "Alright Major Gradier Xanatus but you will take the blame if anything goes wrong,"

The generals accepted for Gradier Xanatus's suggestion to not place Gustav in any isolation.

The generals had no idea that Gradier Xanatus was mostly doing this because it was close to impossible to keep Gustav in a place he didn't want to be and the whole situation could end up getting messy so he had to take care of things on his own end.

Gradier Xanatus sighed in relief after all the generals left the board room.

An holographic footage appeared in his line of sight afterwards. It displayed an angle of a recording where Gustav said a word and caused the other officer's knees to buckle.

"Get rid of this footage..." He commanded.

-Forty Minutes later

"Welcome back," Gradier Xanatus voiced with a smile as a young man with dirty blonde hair walked into the board room clad in a patient outfit.

"Gradier Xanatus, you're alive," A smile appeared on Gustav's face as he walked towards Gradier Xantus with two officers by his side.

Some of them leapt right ahead, over each other while some leapt backwards. Without being able to easily see the line, this was a very risky move but they would be roasted if they wasted even a fraction of a second before reacting.

Fwwwwhooom~

The pillar of flames bursted right into the skies above and even parted the sea of dark clouds.

There was a massive hole in the dark sky due to this for a few moments and everywhere turned into mush and blush and turns out they're all a bunch of sirens.

Theyebdydhiddkldldidhd

Ydjsusiss. Is there tusojreuj this is true? I had Jo idea it had come back to norSome of them leapt right ahead, over each other while some leapt backwards. Without being able to easily see the line, this was a very risky move but they would be roasted if they wasted even a fraction of a second before reacting.

Fwwwwhooom~

The pillar of flames bursted right into the skies above and even parted the sea of dark clouds.

There was a massive hole in the dark sky due to this for a few moments and everywhere turned into mush and blush and turns out they're all a bunch of sirens.

Theyebdydhiddkldldidhd

Ydjsusiss. Is there tusojreuj this is true? I had Jo idea it had come back to norSome of them leapt right ahead, over each other while some leapt backwards. Without being able to easily see the line, this was a very risky move but they would be roasted if they wasted even a fraction of a second before reacting.

Fwwwwhooom~

The pillar of flames bursted right into the skies above and even parted the sea of dark clouds.

There was a massive hole in the dark sky due to this for a few moments and everywhere turned into mush and blush and turns out they're all a bunch of sirens.

Theyebdydhiddkldidhd

Ydjsusiss. Is there tusojreuj this is true? I had Jo idea it had come back to norSome of them leapt right ahead, over each other while some leapt backwards. Without being able to easily see the line, this was a very risky move but they would be roasted if they wasted even a fraction of a second before reacting.

Fwwwwhooom~

The pillar of flames bursted right into the skies above and even parted the sea of dark clouds.

There was a massive hole in the dark sky due to this for a few moments and everywhere turned into mush and blush and turns out they're all a bunch of sirens.

Theyebdydhiddkldidhd

Ydjsusiss. Is there tusojreuj this is true? I had Jo idea it had come back to norSome of them leapt right ahead, over each other while some leapt backwards. Without being able to easily see the line, this was a very risky move but they would be roasted if they wasted even a fraction of a second before reacting.

Fwwwwhooom~

Chapter 1115: Are You Ready To Go Again

Bang!

A loud crash reverberated across the vicinity causing everyone to be on the alert.

Fwwhii~ Fwwhii~ Fwwhii~

About ten mixedblood guards suddenly appeared and surrounded the mayor and Yusha after sensing a powerful threat.

"Oh I might have used too much speed," Gustav muttered as he stood within the dust he had stirred up.

As the vicinity cleared, the mixedblood guards charged towards him with looks of hostility.

"Who are you?" One of them yelled out.

"Apprehend the miscreant!" The mayor saw the opportunity to impress Yusha and took it.

His guards who were only trying to uncover Gustav's identity initially, instantly followed his order and sped towards Gustav while activating their bloodlines.

"Is that...?" Yusha finally spotted Gustav's face amidst this whole chaos but the guards had already arrived before Gustav.

"Stand aside," Gustav voiced out as he noticed the arms headed for him in a bid to bind him.

He extended his right hand slightly and slapped the hands of everyone headed for him.

Pah! Pah! Pah! Pah!

He did so casually but it was extremely fast, the guards only felt the sting instances after Gustav already slapped their hand away.

Step! Step! Step! Step!

Gustav already strolled past the ones that arrived before him first.

One of the guards charged for Gustav and upon arriving in front of him with an armored structured body.

The grounds quaked and the air trembled from his body intensity. Yet when he arrived before Gustav...

Pah!

Gustav pushed his right palm forward, preventing the charge of this guard and proceeded to spin him around.

Fwwhii~

Gustav flung him upwards in the next instant.

Flinging him into the sky, caused the mouths of the guards around to open wide.

"What are you doing? Apprehend this miscreant at once!" The mayor commanded once more.

"Stop!" Yusha yelled out before the others could move.

"Huh? Why young Miss?" The mayor questioned.

"Don't you recognise who that man is? That is Officer Crimson," Yusha assistant voiced out with a tone of reverence.

"Huh?" The mayor as well as the guards who heard that displayed looks of astonishment.

"That's him?" The mayor questioned.

Another guard was already charging at Gustav so he didn't hear the discussion behind him.

"Alright I'm tired already..." Gustav's face suddenly turned serious as he muttered.

A golden glow mixed with crimson appeared on his chest as a little wave of unknown energy phased out of him.

Fwwhiiooi~

"Kneel!" Gustav stated.

Everyone in the vicinity suddenly felt an unfathomable and strange compelling power forcing them to their knees after that utterance.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

"I'm here for her," Gustav said while treading in the midst of the kneeling.

Yusha who had also been overpowered by this energy had a struggling expression on her face.

Gustav stared at her and she was instantly freed.

"Yusha," He voiced out.

A wide smile appeared on her face upon spotting Gustav walking towards her.

"Gustav," She stated while standing to her feet.

She immediately leapt into his embrace while everyone kneeling could only watch after losing control of their body functions.

Gustav's inhaled her body scent as her hair flayed in his face while she melted into his embrace.

Gustav was starting to become more open to intimate moments like hugging a friend since Angy came into the picture so he wasn't so against this.

"We need to talk," Gustav voiced after ending the hug.

"Thank you," She stated with an appreciative tone.

"For?" Gustav had a confused expression on his face wondering if she already knew about the threat.

"For not being hard on them," She replied while gesturing at the guards and everyone else currently on their knees.

"Oh no big deal," Gustav shrugged.

"You have more restraint than I remember," Yusha had to admit after remembering what Gustav would do initially.

"When you become more powerful, you tend to be less forceful in some situations," Gustav knew how easily he could reduce these guards to a puddle of mess if he didn't restrain himself.

They hadn't committed any capital offense against him that would make him want to snuff out their existence so he didn't mind restraining.

"Your mindset has matured... I like you even more now," Yusha displayed a mesmerising smile after saying this.

"Oh thank you," Gustav didn't know how to reply this remark.

("cough cough Angy,")

'Shut up. I didn't do anything wrong,'

Gustav and the system had a brief clash of words internally.

"Are you lovebirds gonna keep squabbling and leave us this way?" One of Yusha assistants questioned.

"Oh damn..." Yusha chuckled with a flushed look.

"Gustav can you..."

Snap!

Gustav released his Cosmic Superior hold over them with a snap of his fingers causing everyone to regain control of their body functions.

"Be grateful I didn't end the pitiful existences of your guards," Gustav said to the mayor before turning around to walk away.

"There he goes..." Yusha laughed lightly after hearing Gustav's statement.

The mayor was shaken with fear, 'So this is the famed officer Crimson?'

Now he understood why his guards were folded so easily. His guards were all around Echo to Kilo ranked mixedbloods which were considered very expensive all across the world.

However, Gustav was a first step Kilo ranked mixedblood now and he had been defeating Kilo ranked mixedbloods way before he reached this level so now defeating mixedbloods on this level was a easy feat to him.

It was safe to say that only Delta and above mixedblood ranks posed any real threat to him.

"Are you saying everyone is currently in danger?" Yusha had an extremely troubled look as she inquired.

"Yes," Gustav responded.

"Oh no I need to inform all my fans so they can leave," Yusha stated frantically as she tried to use a device.

"Young miss, you can't do that," One of her assistants quickly collected the device from her.

"The media would twist it if you were to inform them that the concert is no longer holding. Our credibility will be tarnished and people would be led to think you duped them while deciding not to show," The other assistant explained in a logical manner.

"But their lives are at risk! We have to inform them regardless. I won't be responsible for killing my fans," Yusha voiced out with a loud tone while standing to her feet and banging her hands on the table.

"There is no guarantee fans would leave after the media twists your warning. It would lead to a riot and eventually what officer Crimson has revealed would still end up happening," The same female assistant explained once more.

"Oh no... what do we do now?" She slowly sat back down with a dejected expression.

There would be no point to her announcement if it led to that since everyone in and around the venue would still die.

ReadNovelFull.com

"I have a plan but I can't go through with it till nightfall," Gustav disclosed.

"Really? Is everyone gonna be saved?" Yusha face brightened up as she questioned.

"If it works, yes..." Gustav replied.

At this point Yusha was all beams and smiles.

"But it only has a fifty percent chance of working..."

Her face turned a bit sour after this follow up revelation.

"Is there anyway to raise the odds?" Yusha questioned.

Gustav shook his head in response before saying, "The only thing that can be done right now is secret evacuation... the MBO will handle that,"

"I can't believe this is happening..." Yusha sighed her figure plummeted leaned back against the chair.

"In case it doesn't work, not everyone has to die at the very least," Gustav added.

"There must be a way to save everyone," Yusha couldn't handle the fact that her concert would cause death despite the fact that it wasn't her fault.

"Like your employees said, don't try to inform them... the MBO plans to evacuate the fans discreetly. Nobody will be informed about it," Gustav said in response.

"What will you be doing till nightfall?" Yusha asked since there was still around five hours left before the sun would set.

"Making plans and assisting in getting the fans out," Gustav replied before standing to his feet.

"Let me come with you, I wanna help," Yusha requested.

"You will only hinder me..." Gustav said while turning around to leave.

"But..."

Yusha paused her sentence after noticing Gustav pause in his tracks.

Gustav's face beamed up as he slowly turned around. He just had a crazy idea.

"You're coming with me," He voiced out.

"Huh?" Yusha was stunned by the sudden change of heart.

"No young Miss cannot possibly..." The assistants were about to refute but they were met with the response of whooshing air.

"Younh miss?"

"Officer Crimson?"

They had both disappeared before any of the assistants could complete their sentence.

Hours later Gustav was floating above the conventional ring with massive bat like wings sprouting out of his back and a beautiful female figure in his arms.

ReadNovelFull.com

"Are you ready to go again?" He inquired.

Chapter 1116 The Zombie Plan

"Are you ready to go again?" He inquired.

"Yes yes it's kinda fun," Yusha responded with a look that depicted she was out of breath.

"Alright... this is actually working. We might not be able to get everyone out before the start of the concert but we can definitely pull hundreds of thousands," The plan Gustav was currently pushing through with was faring better than he thought it would.

Fwwhiii~

Gustav swooped down once more towards the floating conventional centre.

There were a ton of people all around the massive circular podium in the middle which had glowing rings of light surrounding it.

Gustav headed towards the west region while descending and floated a few feet above the heads of everyone.

-"OMG that's goddess Yusha!"

-"Its goddess Yusha!"

"Ahhhh Goddess Yusha!"

There were all sorts of screams and yells from the surroundings as the fans were alert of her presence.

A lot of them were acting intoxicated and immediately tried to reach out and grab her.

Yusha began waving at them with a smile before Gustav turned towards a particular direction and began flying forward with Yusha still in his grasp.

The crazed fans didn't stand around, instead they began running after her with wild looks.

Their expressions were akin to zombies chasing after the human brain.

Gustav arrived at the portal like exit and flew through.

The crazed fans were not even concerned about the fact that it led to an exit and followed after her.

They all rushed through the portals and continued chasing after Gustav and Yusha's figure.

This whole situation had attracted over fifty thousands of the fans within the vicinity. It kinda made sense that they chased after her, after all they were here for her.

This plan success rate was based on the fact that, leaving the conventional centre was way easier than getting back in.

The ones who had chased after her and gotten out were met with resistance upon trying to get back in.

Gustav and Yusha had been doing this for a couple of hours so the surroundings of the conventional center was now way crowded than before.

It was currently two hours away from nightfall but this technique had really assisted them in getting out a lot of fans.

Things were still kept under the wraps as MBO agents supported from the sidelines in helping fans get out as well.

They aimed at doing this without alerting Genxodus since there was no doubt Genxodus members would be keeping an eye out on the venue.

After leading the zombie like fans a good distance away, Gustav suddenly sped up and disappeared into the sky once more.

"This was a really good plan," Yusha had to admit as they floated in the air staring at the conventional centre.

"The wall keeps them out after they leave the conventional centre but it won't be enough to protect then when the deed goes down," Gustav analysed.

"But you have a plan for that, right?" Yusha questioned.

"Indeed I do," Gustav responded before swooping down towards the conventional centre once more.

#####

"The crowd is beginning to thin out,"

Within a dimly lit environment a man in the midst of what seemed like a council room with high seats, voiced out.

"Thin out? How is that possible?" One of the men seated around questioned.

"We are currently making our investigations but the footage indicates that lots of fans have gone missing," The voice reporting continued.

"Lots of fans? Does that mean there is barely anyone left within the conventional centre?" One of the women seated inquired.

"No there are still millions within but we have noticed the numbers reduce to a significant amount leading us to discover that some of the fans are missing," The voice clarified.

"Find out what is happening right now even if you have to send some of our members there," Another male voice commanded.

"Yes leader," The person reported nodded before turning around to leave.

"We can't have anything ruining our plans," The same voiced added after the person reporting left.

"Since Gigahard and Excon delivered the Elfrit machine we can begin our next phase of planning," The female voice who spoke earlier resounded in this dimly lit space once more.

"The mixedbloods on the earth should prepare to be dominated or wiped out..."

#####

"The operation tomorrow is still holding," Aildris announced within the midst of the teammates.

"Did they find a way to deal with the dampener?" Falco questioned.

"Food supplies have been intercepted with other edible stuff... these were secretly confiscated since it is presumed to have the seeds within," Aildris disclosed.

"But that's not enough. What about the people who already consumed them?" Angy inquired.

Aildris was silent for a bit which caused an unknown tension to build within their midst as everyone could tell he had something paramount to reveal.

"Aildris?" Angy called out to him once more.

"Tomorrow's operation is of utmost importance... dealing a fatal blow on the Genxodus that they might never recover from has been dubbed the highest priority by the higher ups," Aildris disclosed lengthily.

"What exactly are you trying to say?" Falco felt a sense of foreboding as he voiced out.

"Collateral damage is inevitable and the lives of civilians only come second to the goal..." Upon voicing this out almost everyone had expressions of shock and realisation.

Only Ria still had a confused look while Vera didn't seem to care much despite having figured it out.

"Which means?" Ria asked.

"If the blood dampening beacons have to be taken out for the operation to be effective, there should be no hesitation in taking them out," Aildris finally revealed the plot of the higher ups.

"Those bastards... we'll have a lot of innocent blood on our hands," Matilda stated with a look of disgust.

"They don't care... the major thing is taking out the Genxodus. After all the number of deaths would be nothing compared to the catastrophe the Genxodus members can cause in the future neither can it be compared to millions dying in the Capital City," Teemee voiced out with a logical tone.

"Is there any guarantee that killing the blood dampening beacons would cease the blood dampening effect?" Falco displayed a conflicting expression as he inquired.

"According to the commanders... the blood dampening seeds take root in the survival of a person's cells... which would mean if they died, the blood dampening effect would cease," Aildris explained.

Phew~

A heavy sigh escaped Falco's lips as he heard that. He was hoping this would be unconfirmed which might lead to a way of saving the innocents that may have consumed the bloodline dampening seeds unknowingly.

"What do we do?" E.E asked with a look of defeat.

He couldn't just watch this happen after he had promised to make things better. Joining in killing the innocents would contradict with his oath of saving the slum dwellers.

"Let's try to come up with a way out and also inform Gustav later," Aildris said in response.

"I don't think Gustav would care about the lives of the civilians if it meant a guaranteed method of taking out the Genxodus," Falco shook his head.

"That's true..." Matilda added.

"No, this time it's different," E.E chimed in.

"We made a promise together... we must find a way to take care of this situation together," E.E's face beamed up with a look of determination.

#####

-The Capital City

"We managed to get around nine hundred thousand fans out of the conventional centre," An MBO officer reported to Gustav.

"The numbers are good but there are still over a million people left in the conventional centre," Gustav responded with a contemplative expression.

"We can continue..." Before the MBO officer could complete his sentence, Gustav interrupted.

"No. It is time for the concert to begin," Gustav stated.

"Huh? Isn't it still unsafe?" The MBO officer inquired.

"It is but if she doesn't get on that stage to perform right now, the Genxodus organisation will be suspicious. This might lead to them activating the vanishing equipment they planted before the planned time," Gustav explained.

"We have to make sure they remain clueless," He added.

"How about goddess Yusha? How do you intend to protect her if things go awol?" The officer questioned.

"Don't worry about that. I will take care of it," Gustav replied before turning around.

Fwwhiiii~

He leaped into the sky and disappeared in nearly an instant.

-

Minutes later within a luxurious looking abode, an argument was playing out.

"You are not taking our young miss!" One of Yusha's assistants yelled with a tone of defiance.

"It is not up for debate," Gustav stated before stepping forward.

"No,"

"Yes,"

"No, I won't let you endanger her life,"

"Her life won't be endangered so long as she is with me,"

The assistant and Gustav argued back and forth until Yusha interrupted from behind.

"Gora, I am going with him," She announced.

"Good, let's go,"

Before the assistant could even react to Yusha's announcement, an outburst of wind had already blasted across the room.

"Young miss!" She shouted out but they were both long gone already.

Chapter 1117 They Figured Us Out

"Young miss!" She shouted out but they were both long gone already.

This was the same as what happened earlier. Not like anyone of them could actually stop Gustav but he was just being considerate when asking for permission.

In Capital City, the skies were starting to darken and it was currently sun down. The beauty of the city became more ravishing as glowing stones of light were activated all across the city.

These stones of light floated in the air making it look like the stars were closer to the city instead of orbiting in space.

As the night arrived, a part of the city glowed majestically attracting a city wide attention.

Boom! Boom! Boom! Boom! Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

The loud sounds of live musical instruments reverberated across the city like thunder.

It's source was none other than the conventional centre.

- "Breaking news! The Starlight concert hosted by goddess Yusha has begun!"

- "Breaking News! Goddess Yusha's concert starts on a high note!"

- "Fans complain about not getting into the venue despite paying for a ticket!"

"Breaking News! Goddess Yusha..."

All across the city and in different parts of the world, new outlets displayed footages from the ongoing concert and spoke about it.

- "A flame is burning deep within,"

- "I'm strengthened, saving galaxies,"

- "The enemies try but they... they can't stop me (can't stop me)..."

The sound of a melodic female voice traveled across the city as everyone sang along as loud cheers also followed.

Yusha had begun her performance and the fans left in the conventional centre were vibing to the performance unaware of the dangers lurking in the shadows.

Gustav stood in a part of the Conventional center back stage as she performed.

God Eyes were activated while he hid his presence and kept an eye out.

("Nine minutes left before the moon appears,") The system announced.

'Let's hope no mishaps happen before then,' Gustav replied internally as he kept scanning the vicinity.

Yusha moved from place to place on the podium like she practiced with the podium moving from place to place in an entertaining manner.

The backup dancers that were supposed to join her, had all been discarded after Yusha found out about the potential danger.

This was why she was currently performing nearly solo. Only her instrumentalists were in the vicinity.

Gustav had already promised to protect everyone if things went haywire but for now he still had to wait before he could try out what he wanted to.

'I can see some suspicious figures...' Gustav noticed some figures within the crowd of millions that were in the conventional centre.

("The moon is out,") The system announced.

'Damn it... such questionable timing,' Gustav had no time to waste now that he knew the moon was out.

-"Officers D and H, check out my the North East corner of the conventional centre... I'll be out for a bit," Gustav still passed on this message through the communication system before he squatted.

After squatting, he placed two fingers on the floor and covered his right eye with his left hand.

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

His irises glowed up along with the middle of his chest. A golden and crimson glow coated his chest area while his left eye turned completely blue.

'NIGHT VISION... I have to get it this time,' Gustav said internally as his senses left his body.

Zzzhhhhiiii~

Gustav's vision became one with the moon and he was once more able to see every part of the earth the moon's glow was currently touching upon.

'I see it...' After focusing his vision on the conventional centre, he was able to see what had been planted within the foundation of the floating platform.

("If the nanites are released it won't only eat into the bodies of everyone here, it will also spread? further, before triggering a collective explosion,") The system analysed.

'It is exactly as I recall in their memories... the only problem right now is deactivating it,' Gustav replied with a contemplative tone.

("The shift in frequency makes it so they cannot be detected but they are set to shift back into the usual earth frequency by the time they are set to be released,") The system added.

"Which means if I had to wait, I'd barely get a second leeway to destroying it before they get released... yeah that won't work,' Gustav ruled out any plan of waiting.

("Looks like the manual option is the only option,") The system stated.

'This might take some time... keep an eye out and update me if anything happens,' Gustav said internally before tuning his focus on a particular part of the conventional centre.

Trrriiihhh~

A blueish holographic figure began phasing into existence beneath the crowd in the conventional centre. This area was where the lots of machines operated and where some of the conventional centre workers had to stay to keep things working above.

Gustav night projection was trying to phase into existence within this place and as expected he was finding it difficult.

The workers who were currently there, had no idea that they were right in the spot where the explosive nanites had been planted. They just couldn't see or touch it because it was turned to a different dimensional frequency.

Gustav focused on creating this night projection which was expected to be like a clone that could operate in that dimension without issues.

If he was successful, he could deactivate the explosive nanites. If not, everyone would be snuffed out of existence.

"Officer Crimson mentioned it was around this area... let's fan out and check," An MBO officer in black uniform voiced out to his subordinates.

The officers nodded and began fanning out in the midst of the vibrant crowd.

- "Don't forget to report in through the comms, if you find anything or anyone suspicious," The officer instructed.

The crowd was really an hindrance for them as they transversed through them trying to spot anyone that seemed out of place.

It was a difficult situation as all sorts of fans ranging from weirdos to overly exetive were present in the conventional centre.

However, since Gustav mentioned it, they were sure they would find something or someone out of place within the vicinity.

The bunch of officers continued to scale through the thick crowd of fans.

After a couple of minutes one of them gave a report through the comms...

- "I found something..."

On the ground below, the fans at the entrance of the portal that would lead to the conventional centre floating about fifty feet above were still trying to get in.

At this point, hundreds of MBO officers were headed towards the area to clear them off the premises.

It had been over thirty minutes since Gustav started trying to create the projection and so far, he hadn't been successful yet.

The MBO could no longer take any chances so the next move was to get everyone within the vicinity, out of the premises.

This time they didn't care about the Genxodus figuring out that they were aware of the nanites planted. The aim was to save as many as possible and there were still millions in the premises that will be affected if the nanites go off.

-"What is going on?"

-"Why are there MBO officers here?"

Some of the fans within the vicinity who were initially dancing and vibing to Yusha's performance, stopped as they noticed the MBO officers arriving in droves.

The instant the MBO officers arrived, they commenced the operation.

Spreading out, each of them placed a circular and metallic looking device on the ground within the multitude of fans.

The fans were clueless as to what was going on but no MBO member gave any form of explanation.

- "Dove C planted,"

- "Dove E planted,"

- "Dove H planted,"

- "Dove V planted,"

The MBO officers reported through the comms one after the other and in a couple of seconds, a command was heard.

"All doves successfully planted, all officers should activate their shielding armors now,"

The officers in the vicinity did as told and in the next instant...

Zzzzhiiiiinnngg~

The circular and metallic devices planted on the ground gave off a very bright fluorescent glow.

Afterwards, every single fan within the AOC of this glow, vanished.

"Uh?"

The fans that were left in the vicinity and had witnessed the disappearance of the others became wary.

Some of them tried to run and escape the area but of course, the MBO officers were well skilled and more powerful than ordinary mixedbloods so they easily handled the situation.

With every planting of the doves and activation, up to fifty thousand fans would be teleported in an instance.

#####

- "They figured us out!"

"You idiot didn't you report earlier that they were still unaware of our plans,"

Within a dimly lit room with several dark figures sitting around, a dialogue ensued between the unknown figures and the person currently giving a report through an holographic transmission.

- "We were deceived by the singer still walking on stage to perform. We had assumed they would not risk endangering her life if they were aware of our plans,"

The person reporting voiced out with an apologetic tone.

Chapter 1118 Battle Against Time

The person reporting voiced out with an apologetic tone.

"They are trying to get as many people as possible away! This can ruin our plans of causing a major catastrophe!"

"Activate the nanites now!"

One of the figures commanded.

- "It will take us a few minutes to do so manually since we are no longer using the timer,"

The figure disclosed.

"Speed things up and get it done as soon as possible," One of the dark figures commanded yet again.

- "Yes leader, we will do our best,"

The communication was cut off at this point.

"How in the world did they figure out our ploy?" One of the dark figures voiced with a tone of bafflement.

- "Do we have a mole?"

- "They couldn't have found a way to detect the other dimensional frequency... there is something at play here that we haven't figured out yet,"

The figures in this dimly lit environment voiced out their suspicions on the matter.

They were so sure of their new technology abilities to shift dimensional frequency, making things existent and non existent at the same time which is why no technology on earth could detect them.

"Tell Sirian to get to the bottom of things... we need to know how the MBO figured this out and if they have any counter measures in place," The figure who was known as the leader voiced out once more.

Zzhiinn~

[Incoming from Sirian]

The loud voice of an AI rang out within the dimly lit room.

"Connect,"

[Connecting...]

-"Leaders... the MBO are onto us,"

"Have you activated the nanites yet?"

- "We haven't gotten a chance to... they are onto our team right now and we are trying to evade them in the crowd,"

"Bunch of idiots! Detonate the nanites before the MBO finds a way to deactivate them,"

- "Leader we need to settle in a place close to the planting site before we can manually detonate them... with the MBO on our tail, we don't have a breathing space,"

"I shall send reinforcements to deter them... come up with a plan and get this to work immediately,"

'I managed to create half already but this isn't enough... without a proper body it won't be able to move from its spot,' Gustav thought.

The night projection had half a complete body at this point but Gustav was still finding it difficult to fully create it.

He could tell that over an hour had gone by already. The timer placed on the nanites when he activated Night Eye was set to explode, two and the half hours after the concert had begun.

Initially, it was meant to be an eight hours concert and the nanites was set to explode when the event was at its peak.

With the Genxodus figuring out about the MBO having knowledge about thier plan, they needed to speed up the process now.

Gustav knew there was no guarantee the nanites wouldn't explode before the set time since the Genxodus might become aware. This was why he actively searched for suspicious looking fellows before he activated Night Eye.

Delaying them was possible through this.

("The MBO officers are currently in a battle with a bunch of suspicious people they suspect to be Genxodus members,") The system reported.

'My haunch was right... they sent a group to manually detonate it. Looks like they really don't care for even their own subordinates...'

The team that had been sent to detonate the nanites manually would definitely perish here as well if they went through with it. Yet they still showed up to display their unfettered loyalty to the organisation.

'We're they brainwashed?' Gustav couldn't understand how they'd just throw their lives away for this.

Gustav retained his focus on trying to complete the night projection while the MBO engaged the Genxodus members they had come into contact with.

Since Gustav was now assured of their presence, he tried to speed things up because there was no saying what could happen now.

--

-"Breaking News! For reasons unknown MBO officers have been clearing fans within the premises of the conventional centre!"

-"We bring you live news from the location of the event! The MBO officers taking fans away without permission..."

News outlets began showing footages of flashing lights on the ground where the fans had cooped themselves up while the concert went on within the conventional centre.

Social media and all sorts of media outlets were buzzing with this information a lot of people wonder what the cause could be.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

All of a sudden white streaks fell from the skies and landed in the premises of the conventional centre.

-"An unknown group in white battle mech have just arrived at the venue,"

While Breaking the news, another crazy scenario began playing out.

"Get into the conventional centre and assist the other team," The whitish mech in the middle of the five that had just arrived, voiced out with a commanding tone.

The MBO officers who were in the vicinity took notice of their arrival and actively approached them.

Three of the Mechs looked up to face the conventional center...

Thooommm~

They blasted off into the air and arrived before the floating platform. However, before they could move any further...

Bang! Bang! Bang!

They slammed into an invisible barrier that sent them flying.

-"There's a protective barrier,"

One of the reported through the comms.

"Destroy it!" The captain ordered.

"Who are you lots and state your business here!" The last two who stayed on the ground found themselves surrounded by MBO officers in the next instant.

"Genxodus will have your heads," The captain stated in response.

"They are Genxodus members! Attack!" One of the MBO officers yelled out.

Swwwwooosshh! Swwooosshh~

The MBO officers charged forward to attack but before any of them could make a hit a mist suddenly phased out of both mechs.

Zzhhisssshhhzzzh~

The MBO officers were not bothered by such menial action since mist was nothing to them.

"Energy thrust!" One of the MBO officers attack arrived first and his forearm turned into a blade of light that stabbed forward.

Hid face shown a display of confusion upon stabbing at the first Mech.

"Huh? What's going on?" He wondered out loud as his fingers barely made an inch graze on? the mech.

What he got in response was a fist from the mech which tore through his belly.

"Grruhh!" The officer vomited out blood as his entire body was lifted off the ground while the fist of this mech was still lodged deep inside of intestines.

"Aaahhhh!"

"Kyaaahhh!"

"Attack in full force!"

The MBO officers got enraged after witnessing their comrade get fist impaled. They rained a barrage of attack upon the mechs.

Bang! Bang! Boom! Boom!

However, upon landing their first hit, they all came to a realisation.

"My strength is weakened,"

("Genxodus reinforcements have been sent,")

'Hmm? That seems reckless,'

'I can see they are currently engaging the officers... these ones were sent here to die as well so long as the mission is completed,'

Gustav now understood why they'd go with such a reckless plan.

They sent reinforcements they could afford to lose. If these reinforcements were able to engage the MBO officers properly and reduce the pressure for the other Genxodus members within the conventional centre.

If the team sent here initially had the pressure reduced when the MBO officers within the conventional centre were busy fending off the mechs, they'd be able to manually detonate the nanites.

'They sent even more matrys' I can't waste anymore time,' Gustav focused on the night projection which was now only missing a right leg and part of its head.

It had almost been completed since it had a face, two arms and one leg at the moment. It had taken Gustav nearly two hours of intense focus to achieve this.

He could tell, he would take another hour if he were to try and complete it. Time wasn't on his side so he decided, he was gonna do make use of the incomplete Night projection this way.

'Link consciousness...' The instant Gustav said this internally his left eye which had a bright blue glow instantly dimmed.

Like a machine whose power had been cut off, Gustav body which had been in a squatting position all this time, fell to the ground.

Flicker~ Flicker~

Gustav regained normal vision only to find himself in a different place.

"It worked..." He muttered as he raised his arms which were glowing with a blue color.

His body was completely see through at the moment.

"Oh shii..." Gustav voiced out as this body his consciousness linked to began slanting towards the left.

Ghiiii~

Upon falling to the floor due to the lack of right leg, Gustav's shoulder and head phased through the ground.

"Damn it..." With his head phasing through the floor of the conventional centre, he could see the city grounds beneath.

Other parts of this projection body was still stuck up which caused him to be hooked in place.

"I need to focus to maintain the dimensional frequency of the projection," Gustav was instantly able to tell the cause of his predicament.

Chapter 1119: Deactivation?

He made use of his right arm which was above the floor, to pull himself back up.

Gustav struggled to get out of the floor but he managed to pull it off after a while.

He tried standing to his foot in the next instant. It was even more difficult since he only had a single leg now.

'The projection holds none of my abilities... except good vision i guess,' Gustav took note of this.

'There must be a way i can use abilities after transferring consciousness into a projection... but now is not the time to dwell on that,' Gustav thought while balancing himself.

He stared at the star shaped panel up ahead which had a five feet long metallic looking shard phasing out of it.

It was so smooth, one could see reflection on it.

'Is that their secret of modifying dimensional frequencies?' Gustav wondered.

However, without a doubt, he knew what he was currently staring at was the container for the nanites explosive that had been planted here.

Gustav limped towards it with his one leg.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

A fight had broken out in one of the areas within the conventional centre.

The three mechs initially trying to get in had infiltrated and now they were battling with MBO officers.

The fans in this part of the conventional centre ran as quickly as they could to escape the area of concentration.

The concert still went on and some fans were unaware of the ongoing ruckus due to the immense size of the conventional centre.

The sounds of the battle was drowned by the cheering fans singing along and Yusha's current performance which was why a lot of fans were still unaware.

Each mech was battling against four different MBO officers and surprisingly they still hadn't managed to take anyone down.

- "My abilities are weakened!"

A lot of the officers were reporting the same issue on the comms.

- "The mist they emitted... it causes bloodline dampening,"

The instant this was announced on the comms, they all came to a realisation.

However, despite the weakening and the intense battle, it was obvious that the MBO officers had the upper edge.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Three officers landed hits on different body parts of the same mech again, causing it to fall to its knees as another fist size hole was left on its armor.

The MBO officers were winning but they had no idea this was a distraction.

In another part of the Conventional centre, two Genxodus members with black masks squatted and hid themselves within the multitude of fans.

ReadNovelFull.com

-"Status report,"

"Currently setting up the remote connector," One of them answered through their secret comms.

-"How long?"

"In three minutes it will be ready and we will blast this place to kingdom come,"

The same masked member reported once more.

On the ground they had a row of bar like metals set on the ground.

-"How is the signal looking?"

- "All good, it's almost set..."

From the looks of things, in three minutes the Genxodus would manually detonate the nanites.

- "Hold on for at least three minutes,"

Every Genxodus member who had equipped the mech heard this announcement through the comms.

At this point, three had been put out of commission but the members were still within.

"Stay down or you will perish right now!"

One of the MBO officers voiced out to the mech on the ground in front of them.

"It is very unwise to engage us knowing we do not care about the lives of anyone here," A voice was heard from the person within the mech.

"Huh?" The MBO officers exclaimed while they moved closer.

"Detonate!"

The instant the MBO officers heard this their eyes widened...

"Get d..."

Booom!

The mech exploded in the next instant, engulfing a radius of a thousand feet in an instant.

Fwwhooommm~

A blueish sphere suddenly appeared around the flames, trapping them in a kind of bubble before they could spread any further.

Unfortunately, some fans were caught in the range of the flames and were quickly turned into barbecue.

"Shit!" One of the officers yelled out after witnessing this unfortunate sight, however they didn't know that this wasn't the end...

"Detonate..."

"Detonate..."

ReadNovelFull.com

The other two that had been put down as well also detonated their mech.

Booommm! Booommm!

"Huh? What was that?" Gustav wondered out loud as he felt the vibration from the original dimensional frequency.

His original body was still passed out in place so he could sense his surroundings were in shambles.

"I can't waste any more time here, I need to get rid of this as soon as possible," Despite saying this, Gustav was still unsure of how to do this.

What he was staring at was something that had no switches or buttons he could operate so he was at a loss on how to deal with this.

"They definitely operate the nanites with a wireless switch..." Gustav already realised that this might be the case from the moment he set his eyes on them.

"This means i wouldn't be able to deactivate it... unless I destroyed it," Gustav thought out loud.

("You might wanna speed things up,")

"Huh?"

("I spotted some Genxodus members who have successfully hidden from the eyes of the other MBO officers... they seem to be tampering with a device,") The system announced.

"They must be trying to detonate it early since the MBO is now aware... I have to get rid of this now but i don't have any of my abilities," Gustav frantically leaped around the place as he tried tapping the nanites protective layer repeatedly.

("You can try using an ability just like how you linked your consciousness with the projection,") The system instructed.

"I already did... didn't work," Gustav replied.

("No dumbass... You tried connecting all your abilities at once. Try just one,") The system responded.

- "Oh?" Gustav thought of an ability that would end things here instantly.

He nodded and closed his eyes...

'Link mini black hole...' He said Internally.

In the next instance, the left eye of his projection turned completely dark.

"It worked..." He felt elated but there was no time to waste.

("I hope you know that if you use that ability here, not only are you gonna erase the nanites... the power of the mini black hole will also erase the existence of this dimensional frequency including your projection,") The system disclosed.

"I know..."

("Then you know the repercussions that will follow,")

"I do... so long as only I suffer the consequences, it doesn't matter," The instant these words left Gustav's lips, he raised his right hand.

Fwwwheeeeeoooooui~

A circular black pool was forming an inch away from his palm. It grew bigger and bigger while swirling with intensity and causing the place to vibrate.

Fwwhoo~

ReadNovelFull.com

He let go of it and the swirling black pool instantly exuded an intensive traction force, sucking everything toward it.

Everything was devoured in a moment, including Gustav's projection, the nanites and the dimension.

zhiinn~

Gustav suddenly opened his eyes which were currently blodshot.

"Guuurrrggghh!"

He vomited out two mouthfuls of blood while coughing intensely for a couple of moments.

"I feel like shit..." He said while cleaning his mouth and standing to his feet.

His clothes were stained with his blood and he felt a bit light headed. However, he was back in his original body.

("You're lucky the black hole was unable to devour your consciousness... your body would have been left uninhabited,") The system said.

"Maybe it should have. It would have saved me the torture of your buzzing in my head," Gustav muttered.

("Tsk tsk this is why you remained a virgin for so long... your foolishness didn't let you realise, you could have done that without suffering a backlash,") The system bit back.

"Huh? I don't have time for this now so shut up," Gustav stated while holding his head.

[God Eyes Have Been Activated]

His vision phased through the backstage area and he set his sights on the current ruckus.

"Looks like death was inevitable..."

-"What happened? Why haven't you detonated it yet?"

"There is a problem sir... we tried but it didn't work," One of the two masked Genxodus members responded.

-"What do you mean by it didn't work? Did you two mess it up?"

"Not at all sir, there can only be one reason for this... The nanites have been deactivated,"

-"What...?"

The Genxodus members had received the news about the nanites failing to detonate and now realised they were fighting a losing battle on two fronts.

"What do we do now?"

- "Tch! We can't just leave here without causing enough damage!"

The leader of the team seemed to be incensed.

"Sir..." One of the masked men turned around to face the direction of the podium.

"We can take the goddess Yusha as hostage... she will certainly be valuable," He voiced out.

- "Hmm... Good idea. The MBO officers have not noticed you two yet. Get it done,"

Chapter 1120 Heading Back To Aribia City

("The casualties are still a lot less than it would have,")

"Indeed..." Gustav responded while looking around.

"Hmm..." Gustav squinted his eyes as he spotted a couple of suspicious figures.

-

In the conventional centre the concert was still ongoing and even Yusha was unaware of the ongoing battle between the Genxodus and the MBO.

Gustav had told her beforehand to focus on her performance and make it like she usually would. He wanted to make sure there was no hint of suspicion that the Genxodus could hold on to beforehand.

She was currently in her domain with her mind on nothing else except for releasing beautiful melodies.

She connected with the crowd as she continuously sang hits after hits that caused the fans to cheer loudly.

The podium was currently moving around as she stamped her left foot on the ground while performing one of her unreleased songs.

"Danger creeps, Yet you're unfazed..."

"The enemies flee, when you are freed..."

The fans bopped to her unreleased song as she sang with such a melodic tune that would make even angels jealous.

Suddenly...

Fwwhiii~

Two figures in masked leaped out of the crowd in goddess Yusha's direction.

This action had taken everyone by surprise and the fans only reacted by the time they spotted weapons in the grasp of these two unknown masked figures.

The instant the landed on the podium, a figure appeared right in between Yusha and the masked assailants.

"Not today," The cold voice of this figure drifted into their ears before they could even properly notice his facial features.

Bang! Bang!

Before they could both react, Gustav had already sent out two palm strikes, sending them flying back into the crowd.

'Oh shii... I didn't control my strength...' Gustav only noticed this after the attacks had hit.

Since he knew he was injured, he had expected his strength to be weakened.

Unfortunately...

"Ahhhh!"

"Kyaaahhh!"

The crowd up front yelled in terror as body parts and blood rained down upon them. Both figures had been blasted into pieces with a single palm strike each from Gustav.

("So much for trying to keep things under the wraps,") The system chimed in.

With the current incident getting displayed all across the world where the concert was being streamed, there was a huge uproar on social media.

-"Two people just got blasted to pieces! I saw it live!"

-"Oh my God is goddess Yusha okay?"

-"Protect goddess Yusha!"

- "If she is truly a goddess she doesn't need protection!"

- "Just who is that guy?"

-- "I think he was protecting her,"

As the live transmission got disconnected due to the incidents, the fans watching worldwide discussed about the possibilities all across social media platforms.

In the main event centre there was ruckus everywhere and now more MBO officers swooped in to calm the situation.

,

"Yes, I deactivated it," Gustav reported through a communication channel.

- "Phew, thank goodness you were able to pull it off in time,"

At this point the MBO had been alerted of Gustav's success in deactivating the nanites.

They were taking care of the incident that had been broadcasted across the world and the concert that had to come to an abrupt stop due to it.

Gustav didn't bother helping the officers clean up with the rest of the mechs. He was ready to leave after he had played his part.

"I have to go now," He said to Yusha backstage.

"Wait... can you... spend a little more time here? With me..." She stuttered while voicing out.

"I'm sorry I can't. I have to return immediately, it's urgent," Gustav replied.

"Oh alright..." She mumbled with a dejected tone.

"When will I see you again?" She questioned.

"Hmm... I can't say for sure. IYSOP is around the corner. I might not have time till afterwards," Gustav held his chin as he responded.

"Stay safe okay," She said while walking into his embrace.

"Sure I will. You should be more worried about the enemies," Gustav stated while hugging her back.

"Are they dating or what?"

"I think she likes him,"

The assistants sitting behind whispered back and forth to each other.

"You guys do know that I can hear everything happening from a mile away, right?" Gustav disclosed after separating from Yusha.

"Huh? What were they saying?" Yusha eyebrows creased up as she turned around to stare at her assistants.

They froze up with looks of surprise and quickly scurried away.

"Nothing important..." Gustav stated before placing his right hand on his left wrist.

Tiiinnngh~

A bracelet with a blueish screened surface suddenly appeared on his wrist.

'Finally...' Gustav couldn't help but display a smirk while tapping on the screen of his new dimensional bracelet.

("You are so lucky they were able to make another level 7 dimensional bracelet,") The system said internally.

'Had to use up the favour great commander Shion owed though... but its kinda worth it since this new one has an upgrade,' Gustav responded internally before tapping on the location he was heading for.

<Dimensional Travel in...>

<3...>

<2...>

"Bye," Gustav bid farewell to Yusha once more.

<1...>

"Bye," She waved at him.

Ziiiiinnnggg~

A flash of blue light encapsulated Gustav's figure and in the next instant he vanished.

Yusha stood in place for several moments before she heaved a heavy sigh.

#####

-"He ruined our plans again?"

-"I knew we should have gotten rid of him a long time ago,"

-"Damn it!"

-"Gustav Crimson! That young blooded bastard!"

Within a dimly lit space, dark figures sitting in a circular format could be heard cursing with tones of disgust.

"Had this been successful, the bloodline devouring nanites would have spread into the world... slowly but surely, the mixedbloods would have gotten eradicated one after the other and we would have rid the world of those vermin..."

The leader voiced out with a tone of regret.

"But because of Gustav Crimson, once more our ploy was unveiled and ruined..."

The entire place turned silent at this point as they could hear the anguish in the voice of the leader.

"He is not the most powerful yet he always finds a way to ruin our plans... He is not the highest ranked MBO officer, yet he always gets his way... there is something about him. The MBO would have never figured out our plan or manage to take care of it without him..."

"Our topmost priority right now is to eliminate Gustav Crimson! All other operations must be placed below the elimination of Gustav Crimson!"

The leader stated with a bloodthirsty tone.

"All who are not in support of this should lay their claim,"

- "I support,"

- "I support,"

- "I support,"

- "I support,"

The other four leaders stated one after the other.

"Good, let the members be informed," The main leader voiced out.

- "He will be leaving for the IYSOP soon, how do we take care of him before then?"

One of the leaders questioned.

"That in itself is where our next ploy might come in... the IYSOP..."

#####

-The Next Morning (Outskirts Of Aribia City)

"So you're getting them out of there?" Angy questioned.

"Technically E.E will be doing most of the work but yes, we are getting them out of there... I only have to get them to E.E," Gustav responded.

"But there are at least five hundred thousand slum dwellers... how do you intend to pull it off?" Angy questioned.

"That's why I also have you," Gustav replied with a smile.

"Oh? I... I didn't know you also wanted me to tag along. I thought you wanted to do it alone," Angy couldn't help but blush upon hearing Gustav words.

"You're the fastest amongst us all but since I'm physically the strongest, I'll be able to move lots of them in one go while you'll handle as many as you can but your speed supplements for your lesser physical strength..." Gustav said with a calculative expression.

Muah!

Gustav's froze for a bit upon feeling soft lips plant against his face for an instant.

"cough cough what did you do that for," Gustav's face was starting to turn a bit reddish after Angy gave him a peck on the face.

"You're cute when you make plans," She said with a smile of adoration.

"I'm tempted to..." Angy began moving closer as she voiced out.

"Are you two lovebirds done?" Aildris voiced out from the entrance as he walked into the temporary accommodation quarter.

"cough cough of course," Gustav adopted his straight face once more while replying.

"The operation is set to start within an hour... you should brief the others," Aildris disclosed.

"Sure," Gustav responded while walking out with Angy and Aildris.

Outside the quarters, E.E, Falco, Matilda, Vera and the others were waiting.

"Do you guys recall the plan from last night?" Gustav asked as he walked towards them.

"I and Vera are together in subduing the Genxodus members sighted," Matilda stated while Vera nodded.

"I will find the Genxodus members from above using my purple eye and inform everyone on their location while also taking care of some of them," Elevora voiced out.