

Bloodline 1161

Chapter 1161 Race Winners

Gustav raised the tree with everyone at this instant and quickly swerved fifty feet towards the left.

Bang!

At the same instant he left his initial position, a massive figure landed there.

Krrrycchhh~

Cracks spread across the icy path, causing Gustav to look down.

'Damn it... this is the worst place for a fight,' Gustav thought as he looked up ahead at the group that had just arrived.

"Mixedbloods... Hmph!" The rocky captain voiced out as he held the massive tree like a stick with his subordinates latching onto it.

"Get them disqualified captain,"

One of his teammates yelled from the top of the tree.

"Okay hold on tight,"

They of course were speaking in a different language but the language transmitting device interpreted it to Gustav and the others.

"Looks like they bear a grudge," Teemee voiced.

"It's the Klaxosapes..." Falco stated.

"Everyone hold on tight," Gustav said to the others as he tightened his grip around the tree and stared at the twenty feet tall rocky giant.

"Rrriiaahhh!" The Klaxosapes captain yelled as it charged at Gustav while swinging the massive tree.

Gustav turned at this point and sped forward.

Fwwhiii!

The Klaxosapes captain air as Gustav sped away from his initial standing point.

'The ice can give way at anytime,' Gustav said internally while the cracks spread.

The klaxosapes captain began giving chase from behind but was having a hard time catching up.

--SSS

Boooom!

At this same instant, a charge was set off on the surface. Gustav had activated the device.

"Sorry my fellow leaders but this place only allows one person. I have enough oxygen and food here to last me for days till the effect of the charge wears off... then I can escape," The leader voiced out as he noticed the other leaders began to choke.

-"Koorrrhh! Korrhh!"

-"H-ow cou-ld you...?"

The rest of the leaders coughed intensely as they voiced out with tones of regret.

"I shall rebuild the Genxodus... since we still have lots of bases scattered across the world, bouncing back from this incident won't be an issue," The main leader voiced out from the secluded space.

"Too bad the rest of you won't be here to witness it," He clicked his tongue with a tone of disappointment.

"If you four are truly loyal to the Genxodus you should kill yourselves or stay here till you die instead of getting caught by Gustav Crimson," The main leader added.

Above the surface, Gustav stood in place waiting after the charge had been set off.

"Any minute now," Gustav muttered with a smile as he waited.

("They won't be able to get away with any spatial help since the disruptor is active,") The system announced.

"So they have no choice but to exit the other frequency from the vicinity... looks like I have nothing to worry about," Gustav replied with a look of understanding.

After a couple of minutes, a circular beam of light appeared on the ground several feet away.

Zing~

Two figures clad in whitish cloak appeared within the circular beam an instant later.

Zing~

Before Gustav could check them out, another circular beam appeared a couple of feet behind.

The moment Gustav turned around to check out the second beam, the figures that had just appeared stormed off.

Fwwwhoommm~ Fwwwhhoomm~

Both of them had instantly tapped on the chest area of the cloak which in turn caused their entire figure to be covered in a suit.

This was activated the instant they arrived on the surface. The suit gave them increased movement speed and agility which they were currently using to try to get away.

Fwwhiii! Fwwwhiii

With a single leap, both figures had crossed up to five hundred feet and they headed in seperate directions.

Just as Gustav was about to go after them, the ones that had just arrived as well, performed the same action.

Fwwhiii~ Fwwwhiii~

All four of them had fled in seperate directions while clad in the suit that enhanced their physical capabilities.

They all headed, north, south, east and west respectively, arriving at the top of the hole in only a few momemts.

"They must have planned this before leaving the other dimensional frequency.... thinking it would work against me..." Gustav muttered as he made a 360° turn to check out the runners.

Blink!

Gustav's eyes suddenly turned dark pink with a mixture of gold.

"Cosmic Superiority... Parallel Domain," Gustav whispered.

Vhhhiiiiiiwww~

An outburst of golden and pink energy was sent forth from his figure.

The runners instantly felt a wave of unprecedented and unfathomable energy sweep across the vicinity.

Gustav had controlled the wave of his Parallel Domain, limiting it to only a small range. Had he let it run wild, the entire city as well as the neighboring ones would be affected.

This was something he didn't want since his friends were also within the city.

This power was a combination of Yarki and another ability he unlocked after becoming a parallel being.

All figures that were escaping initially, paused as they figured out they had lost control of their body functions.

Their figures were lifted into the air and they found their bodies floating back to the same place they fled from.

No matter how much they tried, they couldn't even move a finger, much less let out a scream.

They were completely incapacitated by this strange and unknown goldy power. Only their thoughts were their own but their bodies at this point didn't even belong to them anymore.

- 'Is this the power of Gustav Crimson?'

- 'Just as suspected, he is indeed a dangerous man,'

The leaders thoughts ran wild as they arrived before Gustav.

"Did you lots thing you could actually escape from me like that?" A smirk appeared on Gustav's face as he voiced out.

"Think again," Gustav said while moving towards the first one.

Thissshh~

He deactivated his suit and the face that appeared before him was a blue colored one with horn on the forehead.

Gustav moved to the next one and deactivated the suit as well. This time it was a female face. She looked pretty human but had a pointy ear with unknown markings behind them.

The last two Gustav deactivated had similar looks, making Gustav believe they were relatives. Two of them had the same type of horn on their faces.

'All slarkovs... I thought as much,' Gustav said internally after uncovering their identities.

There was not a single human amongst these Genxodus leaders.

"Now that I have you all in the palm of my hand, tell me why I shouldn't slaughter you one after the other," Gustav stated.

They were silent for a bit before Gustav realised something.

"Oh," He snapped his fingers after exclaiming.

"You can speak now," He said while conjuring a chair out of iro silk.

He proceeded to sit with his legs crossed as the floating figures in front of him drew a little closer.

- "You can't kill us Gustav Crimson!"

- "We are valuable to the MBO,"

"Oh is that so?" A snack appeared in Gustav's hand and he began chewing away as he listened to them speak.

- "You are a slave to the MBO, you must keep we the leaders alive for questioning,"

One of them voiced out once more.

"Am I now?" Gustav gobbled down another mouthful of snack before nonchalantly staring at the fourth leader who had just spoken.

Fwwwheiii~ Bang!

A popping sound rang out in the next instant, causing the leaders eyes to widened in shock and fright.

"Hmm, I guess you can't answer my question... afterall you're missing a head," Gustav muttered as he stared at the fourth floating leader who now had a headless corpse.

"Kyaaarrhhhh!"

"Aahhhhh!"

"Nooooo!"

The three leaders yelled out as they watched blood squirt out of the fourth leader's headless corpse like a fountain.

Gustav watched the blood flow with an unbothered expression before snapping his fingers.

pah!

The headless corpse fell to the ground and was soon covered in a pool of its own blood.

Chomp~

Gustav resumed gnawing on the snack bar in his hand while watching the frightened reactions of the other leaders.

"I wonder if anyone else thinks I'm a slave of the MBO," Gustav voiced out while swallowing another mouthful of snack.

Despite the stench of blood in the vicinity, he was not bothered in the slightest.

-"Please spare us,"

The leaders began pleading for their lives.

"Nah... One or maybe all of you will still die by my hands," Gustav replied without an iota of mercy in the tone of his voice.

-"Please, please we will tell you everything you want to know,"

-"Please spare me, i will for sure cooperate,"

"Hmm, well it depends on if you give me enough valuable information... then I can let the rest of you live... if not, I'll just kill all three of you and tell the MBO there was no way to save you lots," After saying this, Gustav drank a bottle full of water.

-"There is still one more,"

"Hmm?" Gustav's face beamed with a look of interest upon hearing the female leader say this.

"Tell me more," The bottle in Gustav's grasp disintegrated into light particles as he stared at the Slarkov woman with interest.

Chapter 1162 The Next Category

"Good job captain, you pulled through for us in this one," Aildris stated while tapping Gustav's shoulder.

"We still came second," Gustav voiced out.

"At the very least we were top three and this is the first challenge so it doesn't matter much," E.E responded while wrapping his right arm around Gustav neck.

"And it was fun too," A smile appeared on Gustav's face as he stated.

"That's the spirit..." E.E chuckled.

"That was the slowest I've had to move in a long time," Angy complained a little from behind but she understood the race left them with no choice.

"Good job captain,"

"Good job captain,"

Everyone still praised Gustav since he did up to 50% of the work.

"Those guys are super strong," Teemee said while staring at the Klaxosapes who were basking in the cheers from the audience as they left the track.

"Oh them... yes... yes they are," A smirk appeared on Gustav's face as stated.

Matilda stared at Gustav's expression with a weird look, "Are you getting excited?" She questioned.

"Of course I am. I won't be worried about going all out now. A lot of opponents here are will make it worthwhile," Gustav replied causing everyone to shake their heads.

'He's crazy,'

They didn't understand Gustav was genuinely excited because none of his peers would be able to contend with him if he went all out.

However, in the race he had contended against another specie with his full strength and lost.

Despite not making use of any abilities, Gustav was still sure he had sensed really powerful beings amongst many others during the Blovan Tree Race.

He was looking forward to other categories where there would be no restrictions. Things were bound to get even crazier.

"Planet Cirus, Fifteenth place,"

"Planet Oxlrk, Sixteenth place,"

The announcements kept going off as more planets arrived at the finish line. Some of them that had just arrived stared at earth candidates with sharp looks.

It was almost like they were throwing a challenge saying, 'Next category will end differently,'

A couple of them even went on to unleash their energy, causing the winds in the vicinity to howl.

Indeed a lot of them were not weak but instead restricted due to the race.

Gustav just smirked in response before walking off with his teammates.

"Don't destroy too much while having fun," Angy said from the side while rubbing Gustav's cheek as they walked away.

"No worries... I'm sure they can handle it... maybe," Gustav replied while grabbing her left palm and giving it a peck.

Cheers! Cheers! Cheers!

The loud voice of the spectators could be heard as earth candidates walked off the tracks as well.

"Weldone," Miss Aimee said to Gustav the instant they arrived in front of their waiting room.

"Thank you master," Gustav voiced in response.

"Do better next time," She added.

" I intend to," Gustav replied with a light chuckle.

Hours Later, the first challenge of IYSOP had ended. The results had been announced and a table of scores had been displayed on screens all across the nine disks.

Over five hundred groups got disqualified while around one thousand three hundred managed to finish the race.

The disqualified parties had no point assigned to them, meanwhile all groups that managed to finish got points accredited to them even if they came last.

The Klaxosapes being placed first received a total of three thousand points, while earth received two thousand. Planet Foheng came third and got a thousand points.

Going further below, the points got a decrease in ten at every next position.

The top two had given every other planet quite the gap. It was also revealed that points varied based on the challenges given in main categories.

However, main categories would always have much higher points accredited compared to sub categories.

Gustav and the others were currently in their accommodation area, as they went through today's challenge again.

Since it was the first day, it was scheduled to have a single main category challenge but from the next day, sub categories would be starting.

The group had prepared their minds as some of them would have to participate in both the main and sub category the next day.

"How long does the competition run?" Teemee questioned from the side.

"Currently unknown but the first stage of disqualification will be after a week," Falco replied.

"How many points are required to not get disqualified though?" Matilda questioned as well.

"Three thousand points... don't you guys pay any attention?" Falco replied again.

"Teehehe," Almost everyone chuckled wryly as they heard this.

It was difficult to take note of everything but it seemed like Falco had done precisely that.

"Oh? I guess we just have to make sure we score extra one thousand points to remain above disqualification," Fildhor stated.

Pliii~

Phinx flicked his forehead from the side.

"Aim higher," She voiced out.

"Tch,"

"Anyways... anyone wants to tell me why the Klaxosapes were literally looking to draw blood?" Angy voiced from behind.

"They have bad blood with earth," Falco disclosed.

"No shit sherlock... She's asking why?" Glade stated from the side.

"Long sto..."

"Earth took custody of a resourceful star that appeared in their galaxy and they feel we're thieves," Endric answered before Falco could write them off.

"It's a little more complicated than that," Falco voiced.

"Yeah but that's the short version," Endric replied.

"Hubby is so smart," Sheila jumped into Endric's embrace and began ruffling his cheeks.

"That explanation makes earth look like the bad guy though," Falco stated.

"Then how about explananing it yourself," Matilda rolled her eyes.

"Okay see the..."

"Dinner is here," Gustav voice was heard from the door as he walked in with two Ozious species pushing a floating large two layered disk.

They looked just like the handlers but they were obviously different people.

"Can't anyone let me speak before interrupting," Falco rolled his eyes while voicing out.

"What the hell is this?" Yonda voiced with an irritated look while staring at the disks.

The one above was so wide, it carried some rhombus shaped bowls which in turn had some weird looking foods in them.

Some looked like purple and was heart shaped while some resembled green tentacles with some eyeballs scattered within what looked like a soup.

These foods were like nothing they had ever seen. Everyone had looks of disgust as Yonda picked up an eyeball which was dripping some weird green mucus like liquid.

"Ozious specialty..." One of the Ozis began to introduce the dish.

"Gustav i think you might have to resume cooking for us like you did in the last few days we arrived here," Aildris voiced from the side.

"Nope. Everyone dig in and listen to tomorrow's main category challenge and sub categories challenges," Gustav instructed.

"Ewww,"

"Mehn this has gotta be some drainage soup,"

"The smell ughh,"

Everyone kept complaining even after the two who brought it in had left.

Just as Gustav was about to start speaking...

Crunch!

The loud crunch attracted everyone's attention as they turned to face the culprit.

Her jaw paused for a bit as she felt everyone's eyes on her.

"Hey its actually pretty good," Glade voiced after gulping down the eyeball she had just chewed.

- "Hell naw!"

- "What the fugg?" Please visit freewebnovel.com

- "Bruhh!"

- "How she do that?"

"Guys!" Gustav's loud voice rang out, causing everyone to focus their attention on him again.

"Tomorrow's challenge has been revealed," He stated.

"What is it?" Aildirs inquired.

"It is called the river split," Gustav disclosed.

"What? What does that mean?" E.E asked precisely what everyone thought.

"It is just as the name states, we'll be splitting rivers," Gustav voiced out.

"Huh? But this planet don't have any rivers," Ria stated.

"It doesn't but just like today, they can easily create one I guess," Gustav replied.

"It sounds like an easy challenge," Matilda said with a confounded expression.

"Do not let your guard down. It might sound simple but we still have no idea about whether or not it will be complicated till tomorrow arrives," Aildris voiced out.

"As for the subcategories, only two will be holding tomorrow..." Gustav resumed speaking.

"The Varlin Chase and the Seismic Climb," Gustav disclosed.

"Details?" Angy quickly got interested the instant she heard this.

"The Varlin Chase has a requirement of at least three teammates from a planet. It could be substitutes or from the main group,"

Everyone stared at each other after Gustav said thie, unsure about whether they wanted the substitutes to take care of it.

"Just as the name suggests, Varlin Chase, there will be a chase," Gustav added.

"Yass! Finally I get to chase after something..." Angy rejoiced.

"No the participates don't get to chase... instead they get chased," Angy face dropped as she heard this.

She had rejoiced too quickly.

"Huh?"

"Yeah you get chased and if a teammate gets caught, they are disqualified. However, so long as one teammate remains till the game ends, the planet can progress to the next stage," Gustav added.

Chapter 1163 High Death Toll

"Yeah you get chased and if a teammate gets caught, they are disqualified. However, so long as one teammate remains till the game ends, the planet can progress to the next stage," Gustav added.

---SS

"Send word to the reinforcements surrounding the upper district... tell them to bring back the captured member and leaders and also escort Officer Crimson back to this base," Commander Colt yelled.

The operators in the control room nodded as they got to work.

Within the upper district, Gustav stood in place as his body bloated and turned greenish.

Baam!

He stomped his feet on the ground and the cage surrounding the upper district began to open up.

Ghrrrrhiiiiihhhh~

The ground quaked lightly as the iro silk walls rescinded.

in a couple of seconds, the entirety of the walls descended completely and the upper district was open once again.

MBO officers that had surrounded the upper district were visible now. They had formed a circular wall of their own due to their numbers being in the thousand.

Gustav's body slowly returned to normal as he looked around without a morsel of surprise in his expression. He already knew they were there.

The MBO officers were shocked to see the upper district in such a devastating look. It was expected that the whole Aribia City would take a hit from this operation since the Genxodus members would not just back down without a fight.

However, they hadn't expected this much destruction.

A massive crater that covered a quarter of the upper district, another large hole in a corner of the upper district, multiple structures with cracks and even some pile of dust in spots that used to contain houses.

Aribia City now looked like a place that had been devastated by war.

'This is the power of mixedbloods and the earth is truly in danger having bore such monstrosities,' The main leader who hid in the other dimensional frequency, thought to himself.

He was even more affirmed that Mixedbloods should be wiped off the face of the earth now or it would lead to destruction.

On the surface, the MBO officers face darkened even more as they spotted pile of corpses scattered across the upper district.

The ashy and dried out looking corpses were clad in MBO uniforms so it was obvious these were the MBO officers who were ensnared in the roots before they could escape the upper district.

There were thousands of corpses like these. The other corpses they could find had incomplete body parts and dried blood could be spotted.

From the briefing they had received, they were sure these were the Genxodus members Gustav had killed. Their faces turned from dark to shocked as they realised more than ten thousand of them were truly slaughtered.

The whole upper district just reeked with blood and lifelessness.

On the bright side, there were human survivors.

The MBO quickly got to work and took the human survivors out of the buildings. Medical MBO agents were already on standby so the moment they rounded them up, the medical agents began their work.

Some of them were grievously injured while others were just shaken up by the whole occurrence.

Around a hundred thousand humans were getting attended to after they had rounded them up.

Despite the high number that were saved, a higher number of civilians had died in this encounter. The death toll was almost a million and more than 90% of those were mixedbloods.

Even highly trained MBO officers had met their demise to the roots so there was no way mixedblood civilians would be able to escape them. 20% of civilians consumed the bloodline dampening seeds after all.

The MBO won this battle due to Gustav yet the losses casted a gloom over the entire region.

MBO officers moved across the place for up to an hour as they scanned for more survivors that may have been buried under the rubble.

They still wondered why there was no longer a trace of the roots whereas the ruckus they had caused was very visible.

They had no idea Gustav had already taken care of that before he brought down the cage covering the upper district. If he had let them be, the roots would spread further and the reinforcements would be ensnared as well.

Some MBO officers who recognised their peers or found someone they knew amongst the dead officers, were in a state of mourning.

"Well, the MBO officers didn't care about slaughtering the innocents who may have consumed the bloodline dampening seeds so I guess they met a fitting end themselves," Gustav said out loud as he watched them work from a rooftop.

"You would have killed them as well if not for the fact that you remained unaffected," Falco scrunched his nose as he voiced out from the side.

"True, which is why I wouldn't be mad if I had met my demise here," Gustav responded.

"Tch, you couldn't even try to lie," Falco clicked his tongue at Gustav's bluntness.

"I would have still tried to save E.E's people though but that is just because of E.E so it doesn't really count," Gustav shrugged.

"Would it..." Falco was about responding when they heard a loud call from below.

"Officer Crimson!"

They both looked down and could spot a bunch of MBO officers walking towards the building they were standing on.

"Officer Crimson we were asked to escort you back to the control room," One of the officers voiced out.

"Those are the people you should escort back," Gustav stated while pointing at the four who were Genxodus leaders and a member below.

"The commanders asked for you to be brought back along with them," The officer replied.

"And if I refuse?" Gustav questioned while squinting his eyes with a menacing look.

"...We'd have no choice but to use force," The officer replied as they surrounded the building.

"Huh? Why are these guys trying to take you back by force?" Falco inquired with a look of confoundment.

"Probably cos I killed more than ten thousand Genxodus members instead of capturing them," Gustav replied with a casual tone.

"Oh alright..." Falco nodded as he folded his arms.

His eyebrows suddenly twitched as he came to a realisation, "You killed over ten thousand of them?" He voiced with a tone of terror.

"Why are you acting so surprised?" Gustav said while raising an eyebrow.

"Cos you killed over ten thousand you psycho," Falco responded with a bizarre look.

"I've killed hundreds of thousands before, this is nothing in comparison," Gustav shrugged.

"You bloody murderer!"

"It wasn't on purpose though,"

"This one was,"

"Yeah cos they deserved to die," freewebnovel.com

The MBO officers sights kept traveling from Gustav to Falco and then from Falco to Gustav as the two argued.

"Officer Crimson," One of the officers called out again.

"What?" Falco and Gustav voiced at the same time.

"You are coming with us," The officer responded.

"Hold on," Falco voiced out, causing them to stop.

23:30

"Why don't you wanna go with them?" Falco inquired while squatting beside Gustav.

"Not interested," Gustav replied before taking a seat on the rooftop.

"It is insubordination to disobey the command of a superior especially when they are the commanders of the operation," The officer stated.

"I read the MBO guidelines in camp so you don't need to inform me.... however I cannot come with you lots because my work here is not complete," Gustav responded with a cryptic tone.

"We are sorry but we will have to use force now since you have refused to come with us willingly," The officer apologized while gesturing at the others.

"You are welcome to try," Gustav eyes showed a disinterested expression as he remained in place.

Fhooowwmm~ Fhooowwmm~ Fhooowwmm~

The officers activated their bloodline abilities in preparation to attack.

"Hold on," Falco voiced out, causing them to stop.

"Why don't you wanna go with them?" Falco inquired while squatting beside Gustav.

"The main leader... he's still in hiding," Gustav revealed.

Falco eyes widened slightly as he heard that, "Do you mean the main Genxodus leader?"

"Yes, he might show himself once the entire place has returned to tranquility... can't risk missing him. If he escaped, everything would have been for nothing because the Genxodus will definitely recover," Gustav explained.

Falco face lit up with a look of contemplation as he heard this.

"How about this... go with them first, I will keep an eye out and inform you if I notice anything out of place," Falco suggested.

"Keep an eye out on the entire upper district and not just the massive hole over there," Gustav instructed while jumping off the building.

"Sure," Falco replied with a nod.

"Let's go," Gustav said to the fellow officers upon landing on the ground.

Two of them moved towards his sides and were about to hold on to his arms when he spoke.

"Did they ask you to treat me like a criminal too?" He questioned.

"This is..." One of them wanted to respond when Gustav interrupted.

"It will be in your best interests to stay away if you don't wanna lose your hands," Gustav threatened.

They arrived before a couple of hover cars lined up and Gustav got in along with them. Some of the officers joined the one he sat in while others followed the ones the Genxodus members were kept.

Chapter 1164 The River Splitting Challenge

Gustav and everyone noted the rules as the river splitting challenge illustrations were displayed on the massive floating screens above.

"Oh? So we'll be using that..." Ria muttered while staring at the display of a circular bead on the floating screens.

"We are also allowed to use abilities too but only through the weapon we'll using to split the river," Teemee voiced from the side.

"How can we use that?" Ria sounded confused as he questioned.

"Just listen you idiot," Teemee chided.

- "The Anusa relic takes the form of the wielder's soul and shapes it into a weapon! Whatever weapon your Anusa relic transforms into is what you must use in the River Splitting Challenge,"

Handler One voice reverberated across the arena.

Chatter! Chatter! Chatter!

The revelation caused the entire place to turn rowdy as some spectators felt this might not be fair to some participants.

Who could tell what weapon a person would end up with and if it would be strong enough to help them split the rivers.

“Remember the weapon isn't what matters... the wielder is!” Handler One stated once more.

He mentioned a few more things and explained that they will be categorised with their opponents based on the system.

Grrhhhhh~ Gbbbbblll~

The entire arena began to quake once more as a transformation took place. This was similar to the day before with the difference of land.

As the grounds sunk, rivers began to spring up in place. In just a few minutes, the participants as well as all of the spectators had awe struck faces as hundreds of rivers differing in length, depth and widths could be spotted all across the place.

Everyone could not take part in the challenge in one go so the computerised system began to pair planets that would oppose each other.

The first batch of planets were hundred in number. The other planets had to stay behind on the massive platform which had shifted to the other end of the arena.

The arena had expanded so much, it had become the size of an entire city with up to a thousand rivers of different sizes.

Earth wasn't amongst the first batch of planets so Gustav and the others remained on the platform while watching the screens.

Planet Yhghridil Vs Planet Oxlrk

Planet Draconets Vs Planet Cirus

Planet Foheng Vs Planet Tribetes

Planet Klaxosape Vs Planet Ozious

Planet Diov Vs Planet Thoxilos

Gustav stared at list of planets facing each other in the first batch which was precisely fifty in number.

He would have been conflicted as to which one to focus on but with Gustav's perception and mental fortitude, he could watch every single battle at the same time.

Analysing each one of them at the same time was also something he could do due to his high intelligence.

“The Klaxosapes are definitely going to win against Planet Ozious, they took first the last time,” An alien species from a group besides earth voiced out.

Gustav chuckled lightly upon hearing that causing their attention to be drawn to him.

“Is something funny earthling?” The white headed alien with transparent skin questioned.

“Yes,” Gustav replied.

“Unda why does this earthling find this funny?” Another one from their group questioned.

“That is what I am about to ask him. Hey earthling just because you too second in the last challenge doesn't mean you're better than we Xionsi. If you are put against us in this challenge you're losing,” Unda stated while pointing at Gustav.

“Sure sure but the Klaxosapes aren't winning,” Gustav replied with an unbothered expression.

“Wanna bet on it?” Unda questioned.

"I would but you don't have anything to offer so no," Gustav responded with a disinterested tone.

"Who says I don't. I'll give you my Sway force," Unda stated.

Gasp~

- "Unda have you gone crazy?"

- "This fool!"

His teammates yelled from the side with looks of shock.

"I don't know what that is so frankly I'm still uninterested," Gustav shrugged. please visit pαndα-

"The earthling doesn't know our Sway force is where our ability to connect with the laws of nature comes from," Their captain spoke up with a calm voice.

“Seems pretty valuable,” Aildris who has been listening from the side spoke up.

“Meh its pretty useless to me but if you say so then no problem,” Gustav replied.

“Not so fast earthling! If you lose, you have to forfeit and let a substitute take your place as Earth's captain,” Unda stated.

“Alright... Watch,” Gustav gestured at the screens which displayed planets already going against each other.

On the screen where the Klaxosapes and Ozis were displayed, both groups could be seen standing behind a line up of rivers waiting their turn.

A Klaxosape with thorny like rocky body stood on the left side while an Ozis stood on the far right.

The Ozis of looked scrawny and less intimidating compared to the Klaxosape especially with the two thin stalk like poles that held his eyes above his head.

The first river they had to split was a two hundred feet long river. Both of them had seperate two hundred feet long rivers in front of them to split.

After that a longer river was up ahead and if they were to successfully split that as well, they'd move to the next one. There were ten rivers each to split in total.

It was already expected that no one would be able to split all the rivers to the end but the person that managed to split the farthest or most out of the two would automatically win.

What made it worse was the gravitational beams descending from above upon the rivers ahead. It turned out that the gravitational force descending upon the rivers increased in strength the farther they went.

The Klaxosape and Ozis were ready to begin when two Anusa relic appeared in front of them.

They reached out to grab theirs and a bright glow encapsulated their figure.

In the next instant, different weapons appeared in their grasp.

The Klaxosape raised his rocky right hand in joy as he spotted the massive sapphire like axe in his grasp. It looked so sharp that one could feel it cutting the air with barely any movement.

The Ozis had a bow in his grasp that looked fairly ordinary. It was nothing noteworthy compared to the Klaxosapes.

“Kukuku!” The Klaxosape laughed at the Ozis while placing his second hand on the body of the axe.

“YAAAAAHHHHHH!” The Klaxosape loud roar caused the river ahead to form waves as he strengthened his grip on the body of the axe.

In the next instant he swung it down heavily, causing fierce winds to blast across the vicinity as a destructive milky colored arc traveled forward with intensity.

WWWHIIIIHHH~

The two hundred feet river was instantly split as all the water within flew out sideways while the destructive milky colored arc continued to travel forward.

WWWHIIIIHHH~ WWWHHIIIIHHH~

Two more rivers ahead with thin gravitational beams pointing at them from above, also got split.

The milky arc disappeared after successfully splitting three rivers in one go.

Cheer! Cheer! Gasp!

Loud cheers and gasps were heard from the spectators area after some of them witnessed this.

The challenge had also started in other areas since hundred of them were having it at the same time yet the spectators hadn't seen any other participant split three rivers in a go.

The Klaxosapes teammates behind cheered their teammate on as he hit his chest repeatedly with a look of satisfaction.

The Ozis on the other end already had his bow pointing at the river as he pulled the string.

A brownish arrow made of energy appeared and he released it.

Thwwiiii~

The arrow shot forward with speed and through a line through the two hundred river in an instant.

The Ozis moved to the next river up ahead while the Klaxosape moved to the fourth river which was more than thirty thousand feet away.

"I told you the Klaxosapes will win," Unda who was watching from the side voiced.

Gustav didn't reply and kept watching with an unbothered face.

All they could do at the moment was watch since it was still a long way from being their turn.

The Klaxosape continued to advance quickly until he arrived at the seventh river. At this same moment, the Ozis had just reached the forth river.

He wasn't quick but he hadn't failed in splitting any river so far.

The Klaxosape stared at the pillar of gravitational force shooting down from the sky onto the seventh river. The river was looking as still as a solid ground due to the amount of gravitational force in place.

His face turned serious as he clenched the massive axe tightly once more and poured strength into his arms.

The ground began to quake but the river in front remain unaffected till he raised his arms and brought them down with force.

WWWHIIIIHHH~

A massive milky colored arc shot forth once again, ripping the ground open as it headed for the river.

Chapter 1165 Activating Self Destruct

WWWHIIIIHHH~

A massive milky colored arc shot forth once again, ripping the ground open as it headed for the river.

It cut two hundred thousand feet across the long river with intensity, causing waves to jump to the sides.

The ground floor of the river was instantly revealed as the force from the swing kept sweeping forward till it arrived at the middle of the river.

It began losing momentum until it finally came to a stop after reaching the third quarter of the river, blowing only a little part of the water towards the sigh.

Ooooooooo~

The voices from the spectators corner had reduced as some of them witnessed this.

"Whuutt? Ghrrhhh!" The Klaxosape voiced in dissatisfaction.

"Try again Gunfur," The captain of the Klaxosape who happened to be the largest stated far behind where they were cooped up.

Gunfur looked back and could see that his opponent from the Ozis side just finished splitting the fourth river and was now moving to the fifth.

"Tiisssh~ I still have two more tries," He hissed before raising the axe once more.

Krrrycchhhh~

More pointy rocks appeared on his arms as it became even larger than before.

"Yaaahhhhhh!" Gunfur roared once more as he swung the axe downwards with intensity.

WWWHIIIIHHH~

This time an even more powerful blast rang out as the force from the swing, sliced through the air and arrived before the river instantly.

It split more than half of the river in the next moment as waves rose into the air on the left and right sides simultaneously.

Breaking past the third quarter of the river, the arc created from the force began to lose momentum. The instant it broke through the start of the fourth quarter, the arc lost momentum completely and whittled out.

Gunfur had a look of seriousness as he realised that this still was unable to split the entirety of the seventh river.

"Ghhrrrh!" He growled in disappointment as he looked back and noticed that the Ozis had arrived at the sixth river.

Once the Ozis opponent managed to split the sixth, both of them would have the same progress. His speed at the start would have been for nothing.

'I didn't want to use this initially but there is no other option. I must get to the eight river,' He said internally.

"Gunfur is going to use core transformation,"

"It doesn't look like he has any other choice,"

His teammates watching from behind could already tell what was about to happen.

"So long as he progresses and wins, it doesn't matter even though he will be weaker for the next three days," The captain also spoke.

Up ahead Gunfur clenched his fist as he roared once more while his body began to rapidly enlarge.

Krrrychhh~ Glllllllrrhhhh~

Rock cracking sounds rang out for a couple of seconds as his initial fifteen feet tall frame increased almost three times in size.

-"Now the Ozis have no chance of winning,"

This was the thought process of most spectators who had their eyes fixed on the screen that displayed planet Klaxosape and Ozious.

WWWHIIIIHHH~

Gunfur once more swung his axe forward which now seemed a bit smaller for him due to his large size.

The force generated from this swing was almost a hundred more than before. Cracks and dust spread across the vicinity from his standing point as the arc created shot forward.

The whole river was instantly split into two halves before the arc ran out of momentum.

Cheers! Cheers! Cheers!

At this same instant, the Ozis had arrived before his own seventh river. He pulled the string to his bow backward as the same brown arrow made from light rays appeared once more.

"Tuk," Gunfur scoffed as he waited to watch the Ozis lose but was soon left with a look of dismay.

Fwwwiiiiiiiiisshhh~

The instant the Ozis released his string, the arrow powerfully shot forward, clearing everything in its path.

As it glided over the surface of the river, waves blasted sideways, leaving clear path in the middle.

The ground floor of the river was spotted in the middle as its entirety was split instantly.

Gasp~ Cheers~ Cheers~ Cheers~

The sounds of shocks and cheers reverberated across the vicinity as both the spectators and Gunfur was left with looks of disbelief.

The Ozis proceeded to move towards the next and Gunfur quickly brought himself out of his reverie as he charged forward as well.

"I can't lose!" He yelled as he arrived before the eight river with a look of confidence.

He was still in his massive form as he swung his axe forward with all of his might once more.

"I lost," Gunfur stood in place with a look of confoundment as his body decreased in size.

Bam!

He fell to his knees with a look of defeat as he stared at the river before him which was in an unaffected state even after he had swung his axe with all of his might.

On his opponent side, A completely split river could be seen up ahead.

The Ozis slowly lowered his bow as the screens displayed the current score.

<<< Planet Klaxosape 0 - 1 Planet Ozious >>>

The Ozis had won the first bout since Gunfur had made use of his last turn which meant failure if he was unable to split the river.

Everyone had been mostly shocked because upon their arrival at the eight river, the Ozis bow increased in size and when he pulled the string, three massive arrows had appeared instead of one.

"It turned out he had been saving his power for this moment... as expected of Planet Ozious captain," Everyone came to the realisation that Ozious captain, Rundalf, used a high amount of power at this stage.

The eight river was like trying to hit a solidly refined ground. Due to the gravitational force it was very sturdy.

After the two opponents finished their bout, both sides sent out their next representatives.

Another one of the Klaxosapes moved out as well as an Ozis as a new bout began.

"Just because the first one won, doesn't mean it will always be like that. They still need to win ten more times before they can eradicate the opposition," Unda stated from the platform.

"Sure sure," Gustav smiled while responding as they kept watching.

...

Hours later~

"What... how?" Unda stood in place with a look of shock as the results for the first batch displayed on the screens.

The list continued with different screens showing the outcome of the first batch for the River Splitting Challenge.

It turned out Planet Ozious who looked weaker in comparison to Planet Klaxosape had won just as Gustav predicted.

Unda looked completely shattered as he stared at Gustav's devilish grin along with his condescending gaze.

"Shit! This idiot is done for," Their captain cursed upon seeing the outcome of the bet.

The entire arena was still loud with cheers and moans of disappointment in different corners, unaware of the wager that had just gone down.

The first batch of Planets participants were getting off the arena at this point as the computerized system began pairing the next set of planets.

"We're up Gus," Aildris voiced from the side as earth appeared on one of the screens above.

"I'll be getting that Sway after we're done... make sure you don't run," Gustav announced with a strong tone.

Unda slumped onto the ground upon hearing that as the rest of his teammates also had looks of horror on their faces.

It turned out that only the Klaxosapes captain and two others had managed to win their opponents in the river splitting challenge. The Ozis were just too powerful despite how weak looking they were.

Gustav and the others moved towards the platform that brought them to the very end of the arena where the river splitting challenge would begin.

He stared at the rivers up ahead with a contemplative expression. So far no one had managed to successfully split the ninth river completely.

The only person who came close to completing this feat was the Klaxosapes captain whose team still lost eventually. Only a few managed to cut a little into the ninth river which included participants from Planets Gustav had dubbed dangerous.

"Looks like its our turn next,"

---SS

"Am i supposed to battle whatever that eye is or what?" Gustav questioned while raising his eyebrows.

("No that is nothing compared to what is coming...") The system replied with a cryptic tone.

Gustav; "..."

"The only hint i can give you is, what had just happened today is one of the five premonitions,") The system added.

"Five premonitions? Does that mean four more similar events will take place in the future?" Gustav questioned.

Chapter 1166 It's A Shield!

"Lets do this," E.E smiled as he arrived before the first river.

On the side of planet Ghundabault the opposition who looked similar to a human but around 3 feet tall in height stood in place with glowing red root like hair.

This was how all of the Ghundabaults looked.

"Irdin, don't disappointment us. Defeat that earthing," Their captain voiced from behind with a high pitched tone.

"You got it captain," irdin replied with a determined expression.

in the next instant the Anusa relic appeared in front of them and E.E wasted no time in reaching out to grab his.

Zzhziinnnn~

A bright glow encapsulated his figure and a few seconds later, a glowing violet colored shield materialised in his grasp.

"Wooahh my soul identifies as a shield? That's crazy," E.E yelled in excitement as he turned around while holding up the glowing shield.

"Gus see this! It's a shield haha its a shield," E.E waved it in the air causing the others behind to facepalm.

"What is he doing?" Matilda chuckled while voicing out.

"Isn't he a little too excited for getting a shield? It's a difficult weapon to use in this situation," Teemee stated.

"E.E will always be E.E," Falco shrugged.

"Just as mentioned... the weapon isn't what matters, the wielder is," Aildris reminded.

"The Ghundabault has a better weapon," Ria said while pointing at the other side.

"A large weapon for such a small creature," Teemee pointed out.

"It definitely looks powerful," Falco said with an amused expression.

"The Ghundabaults are in no way weak but E.E isn't losing," Gustav stated confidently.

Everyone looked forward in response to that as the bout began.

Irdin the Ghundabault who was holding onto what looked like a nine feet long glowing lance, began to float as a dreadful energy surrounded her.

Reaching a particular height in the air, she raised the weapon with both her hands. A red glow spread from her being to the tip of the lance like weapon.

"Kiiaaaaaaaa!" Her high pitched voice spread across the vicinity causing everyone to cover their ears in dissatisfaction.

In the next instant she swung down forcefully, causing a sharp wave of energy to shoot downwards from the weapon.

Thwwiiiii~ Boomm!

It sounded like an explosion went off as it slammed into the river and caused the entirety of the water inside it to blast in every direction.

The wave of energy traveled forward to the next river and pushed out the entire water body as well before dissipating.

Fwhwoooooommm~

The spectators from earth who had just witnessed this was in awe as they watched the rivers rain from above like a storm.

The Ghundabault did not just split the rivers, she emptied them.

"That's an overkill," Fildhor voiced with wide eyes.

"I agree," Phinx responded.

Uwwhiii~

Teemee created a reddish spherical barrier that covered the whole group as the river poured from the sky like rain.

"Ouuu damnn shes good... she's really good," E.E praised as he watched her moving to the third river location.

"Hnph!" Irdin noticed E.E staring in her direction as she flew away and scoffed.

"Oh it's my turn now," E.E closed his eyes as he raised his shield.

The instant he opened them back, his irises emitted a violet glow.

Zhoonnn~
Zhoonnn~Zhoonnn~Zhoonnn~Zhoonnn~Zhoonnn~Zhoonnn~Zhoonnn~Zhoonnn~Zhoon

nn~Zhoonnn~Zhoonnn~Zhoonnn~Zhoonnn~Zhoonnn~

The spectators were awe stricken as violet colored vortexes began to open all around E.E.

In just a few seconds, over hundreds of them had opened up and unlike the usual vortexes he would conjure, these had suction force.

Winds had been stirred up as the air cracked from the multiple appearance of vortexes.

E.E tuened to bis left where a vortex twenty feet away had been conjured.

"Here," He voiced as he flung it towards the vortex.

Fwwhiiiiiii~

It flew forward with intensity and soon disappeared into the vortex. At this point, E.E just moved back and let the course run itself.

Fwwhiii~

The shield soon reappeared from another vortex over three hundred feet away in the east sky.

It soon got sucked into another vortex not to far away and reappeared from another one.

Fwwhiii~ Fwwhiii~ Fwwhiii~ Fwwhiii~ Fwwhiii~ Fwwhiii~

The audience could barely follow it anymore as it cut through the air with intense speeds, spinning 10:36

uncontrollably and leaving afterimages in its wake.

The shield continuously kept getting sucked into vortices and reappearing from different ones hundred or thousands of feet away. Each time, the speed would increase and in a couple of seconds, it had become so fast it was now a blur.

The momentum kept building up, gathering waves of energy around it that caused the air to tremble.

The audience could barely follow it anymore as it cut through the air with intense speeds, spinning uncontrollably and leaving afterimages in its wake.

"This should be enough," E.E. muttered as he turned around and snapped his fingers.

Fifty feet south of the first river, a vortex appeared. The shield which had just disappeared into another vortex suddenly reappeared from the one south of the river.

Thhhrrriihhhh~

It sounded like the air was getting ripped apart as it travelled forward with intensity, crossing more than five hundred thousand feet in an instant.

The reaction from the surroundings was not fast enough to keep up as the shield rolled over the surface of the first, second and third river as well as the land in between their midst in a second.

Immediately afterwards, the rivers blasted sideways as the bottom was quickly revealed and the land underneath cracked open.

Boooooooooommm! Cryrrkkkkhhh~

The jaws of half of the spectators who happened to be hooked on the earth's current performance had dropped to the ground after witnessing this.

Silence reigned for a few seconds before the sound of cheers reverberated across the arena.

The shield had completely split not only the first to fifth rivers but also totalled the surroundings as well.

A caved in massive split surrounded by cracks could be spotted where the rivers were initially located. It looked so deep from the spectators corner that they wondered just how much force the shield carried when it was released.

Zzhooooonn~

E.E stepped into a vortex and appeared right in front of the sixth river, going ahead of the Ghundabault who was still on the fourth.

"How did he do that?" Irdin had a shocked look upon seeing the surroundings. Even the river in front of her had sand spilled into it from the residue energy of the shield.

Zhoon~ Plaamm~

The shield reappeared in E.E's hand as he prepared to perform the same action for the sixth river.

"That worked better than I expected," E.E mused as he began opening vortexes again.

...

Minutes later~

<<< Planet Earth 1 - 0 Planet Ghundabault >>>

The spectators area was currently going bunkers after witnessing E.E splendid performance.

Irdin moved back to her teammates with a completely defeated look as one of the screens displayed the replay of how E.E had managed to split the ninth river.

E.E was the first participant to split the ninth river. Although he didn't split it completely, the quarter he split was counted since no one even managed to successfully split it even a little bit.

Irdin hadn't managed to even successfully split the eight river, talk more of reaching the ninth. Her stopping point had been the seventh.

"Don't be disheartened Irdin... not even i could have managed to win against him," Their captain voiced.

"Captain Shumi weeehhh~" Irdin began crying glowing tears as she fell into her captain's embrace.

"It's okay," Their captain who was also a female with a broader body patted Irdin back repeatedly.

"That must have been their strongest teammate... they definitely won't be able to repeat that," Captain Shumi's face turned determined while the other teammates had firerd up looks.

On earth's side...

"Good job E.E,"

"Nice one,"

"I knew you could do it man,"

"Don't lie, you didn't haha,"

Everyone either gave E.E a high five or a fist bump. When E.E arrived in front of Elevora she raised a fist while he raised a high five which caused a little awkwardness.

"Haha..." They both chuckled as Elevora blushed a little.

"Good job," She said to him.

"It was nothing, I'm sure you will do better," He replied.

"You have too much faith in me," She voiced once more.

Pah!

Before E.E could reply, Gustav tapped him from behind.

"Oh were you two..." Gustav realised he just interrupted something.

"Oh no no nothing like that,"

"I didn't say nothing though," Gustav raised his arms with a clueless look.

"You mf," E.E chuckled as he grabbed Gustav's head playfully.

After a minute, it was time to send the next participant.

"Am I going next?" Teemee questioned as he stepped forward.

"No. You will lose if you go against that person," Gustav stated while staring at the next representative the Ghundabaults had chosen.

"Why? There's no way I would lose to that..." Teemee was about to retort when Gustav replied.

"Two reasons... bad match up and that's their captain," Gustav replied.

Chapter 1167 Have Faith In Me Big Brother

"Two reasons... bad match up and that's their captain," Gustav replied.

"Ohhh," Teemee voiced, "Will you be going then?"

"Nah, I have a better match up... Elevora you're up," Gustav announced.

Elevora's face turned focused as she heard this.

"How far do I have to go?" She wanted to know if it was necessary to go all out.

Gustav had told everyone initially that they wouldn't be displaying all of their strength from the start but eventually they would go all out.

"Just make sure you get to the ninth river," Gustav instructed.

Elevora nodded and began heading forward. The grounds E.E destroyed initially had been fixed and new rivers were now positioned there.

As Elevora arrived before the first river, the Anusa relic appeared before her and she reached out to grab it.

A few moments later, She was holding onto a massive spear with a fiery purplish flame at its tip.

Elevora stared at her weapon with a look of satisfaction before pointing it at the river before her.

Her entire figure was soon emitting a bright purplish glow as the ground began to quake.

On the other side, captain Shumi held onto what looked like a massive cannon. It was four times her size yet she held it above her like it was nothing while pouring energy into it.

A couple of moments later, they both took action...

Boooooom!

A shot was released from the cannon which flew into the river ahead and exploded with intensity.

Meanwhile, Elevora who had levitated to almost a hundred feet height, flung the spear in her grasp downwards.

Fwwhiii~freewebnovel.com

A purplish streak cut through the air as it bore through the river instantly, emitting a shockwave that caused the entire river to be emptied.

Both opponents went through the first to sixth river, performing the same actions and clearing it out.

'Her strength should be reaching its limits after this river,' Captain Shumi thought as she gave it her all and cleared the seventh river as well.

The purplish aura surrounding Elevora climbed as she flung down her spear from the air once more.

Bang!

The entire river was emptied once again effortlessly as cracks spread across the floor of the river.

'Tch... there is no way she's as calm as she looks,' Captain Shumi peeked at Elevora from her end below.

They were currently at the eight river now which was the limit for a lot of participants.

"If I manage to clear this, it should be the end for her," She whispered while pouring energy into her cannon.

Didididididididii~

Weird popping sounds rang out as the projectile within the cannon kept growing in energy until she finally fired it.

Thuussshhh~

It cut through the surface of the gigantic river which was well over a million feet in length, before falling into it.

Boooooomm!

A loud explosion rang out as huge amount of waves rose into the air, displaying the bottom of the river as the blast kept spreading.

Unfortunately, it wasn't powerful enough to split more than a quarter of the river before dying out.

"That's... the gravitational force is so strong that it causing the power of any blast to be reduced to a third of its output," She had a grudging look as she came to this realisation.

"I just need to amp it up then," She said with determination while infusing a large amount of energy into her cannon once more.

Up above, Elevora was also gathering energy as the purplish aura surrounding her continued to climb. Her headtie was still wrapped around her forehead and there didn't seem to be a need for her to reveal it.

The sky had begun to change color in her position due to the purplish aura she emitted but she knew it still wasn't enough.

On the ground, Captain Shumi finally fired her cannon once more.

A rocking explosion rang out, clearing three quarters of the river in front of her but it still wasn't enough to clear all.

At this point she stared at the river before her with a look of disbelief since she was aware of how much power she had just used.

"That other earthling must be immensely powerful," She recalled E.E.

However, she wasn't ready to give up as she began charging her cannon again for the third and final try.

At this same instant, Elevora held up her spear and arched her arm back to the limit with a serious expression.

Fwwwiiiiii~

She flung her spear downwards with intensity, causing shockwaves to spread from her location even before the spear hit the water.

The sky cleared out and the river surface blasted open while the spear was still a hundred feet away from making contact with its surface.

Booommm~

In a split second the spear had made contact with the bottom of the river and a powerful force spread forth from it, pushing the water body out of it's one million feet hole radius.

Cheers~ Cheers~ Cheers~

Cheers were heard from the spectators area as she cleared it in one attack once more.

Captain Shumi instantly lost morale as she witnessed this and released her shot impromptu. As expected, it didn't manage to clear the eight river, leaving Elevora the winner.

<<< Planet Earth 2 - 0 Planet Ghundabault >>>

The spectators areas focusing on earth and Ghundabaul's faceoff erupted in cheers and groans of satisfaction as well as disappointment.

They both headed back to their respective groups. Elevora and the othes jubilated after their second win while a cloud of gloom was casted on the Ghundabaults area.

"We can still win this... they are using all their powerful representatives from the start, meanwhile we still have Tivan, Shui and the others," Captain Shumi voiced.

"Captain Shumi is right, ws can still win," Some of them agreed as they tried not to lose hope.

Gustav proceeded to send Teemee next as he wanted and there was no disappointment.

Teemee cleared seven rivers while his opponent did not manage to successfully clear the seventh.

The earth had been hailed to have one of the most powerful species in the universe but they hadn't expected to lose three bouts in a row without winning a single one. It was humiliating.

Captain Shumi wasn't happy with the current turn of events but she made sure to keep to her strategy and kept sending out the weaker teammates from her side first.

Time went by very quickly and before everyone knew it, both planets had completed seven bouts. So far, Aildris, Glade, Vin and Yonda had participated and none of them lost.

<<< Planet Earth 7 - 0 Planet Ghundabault >>>

At planet Ghundabault side, captain Shumi turned to one of her teammates who happened to be the smallest in their midst. He was about two feet tall with a glowing green root like hair that floated up.

"Tivan it's time for us to make a comeback, head out there and do the needful," She said to him.

He didn't say a single word in response and just began to head forward.

"This will be a tough one... Endric you're up," Gustav voiced.

Endric who had been silent all this time behind, finally walked forward.

"I see what you're talking about... he's strong," Endric stated as he arrived before Gustav.

"Yes... the type of weapon you two get, actually matters..." Gustav voiced.

"Have faith in me big brother... I will take care of this," Endric reassured before he began stepping forward with a solemn expression.

"He has become quite reliable," Aildris voiced from the side.

Gustav remained silent but deep down he admitted to what Aildris had just said.

Endric soon arrived before the river and the Anusa relic appeared before him.

'What type of weapon do you want?' His forehead beeped with a greenish glow as Husarius voice rang in his mind.

'You can manipulate that?' Endric questioned internally.

'Yes... just tell me the weapon you are interested in,' Husarius inquired once more.

'I just want something that doesn't hinder my telekinetic abilities,' Endric replied while reaching out to grab the relic.

liinnnnnggggg~

In the next few moments, a four feet long katana with blueish glowing blade appeared in his grasp.

"This is good... now I have no worries," Endric voiced as he raised the katana.

Zzhiinnn~

His irises turned sky blue as he gathered telekinetic energy.

On the other side Tivan held onto what looked like a metallic club. The club began to extend in length as he floated into the air.

It became so long, it extended beyond the first river.

-"Woah, is that even allowed?"

The spectators began questioning this but then it wasn't against the rules since it was his abilities manifesting through the weapon.

Bang!

Swinging the massive metallic club downwards, it instantly split a couple of rivers as it dropped onto them.

Meanwhile, Endric also swung his katana forward at the same instant.

"Telekinetic split... universal separation..." He muttered as a wave of energy was released from the blade of the katana.

Chapter 1168 Energy Blocked

"Telekinetic split... universal separation..." He muttered as a wave of energy was released from the blade of the katana.

Twuuuuuiisshhhh~

A loud crack rang out as the energy descended upon the waters like a giant blade and cut through everything in its path, causing the waters to separate.

The spectators once more watched in awe as Endric performed a spectacular feat close to that of E.E's.

'Spatial blink,' Endric blinked and vanished, only to reappear after four rivers in the next instant.

He wasted no time in activating another telekinetic attack while swinging down his katana once more.

Tivan who was still heading towards the fourth river hadn't even activated his next attack before Endric reached the seventh river.ReadNovelFull.com

After another swing of his Katana, he blinked and arrived at the next river which was up to a million feet away.

- "Just who is that kid?"

- "He looks like the youngest amongst earth participants,"

- "The others really need to watch out for him, the first representative and that girl with the headtie,"

The spectators were once again in awe as Endric soon arrived at the ninth river.

At this point he finally slowed down and gathered telekinetic energy for a bit.

Tivan despite being slower had been clearing the rivers effortlessly as well. The spectators had to agree that he was powerful as well.

In the next few moments, he cleared the eight river and arrived at the ninth, catching up to Endric.

Cheers~ Cheers~ Cheers~

At this point everyone spectating was on their toes as Tivan seemed to be the most powerful Ghundabault. Only him had managed to scale past the eight river so far.

The metallic club in his grasp which had turned into a rod at this point, kept growing in length as he floated upwards like Endric as well.

Endric was keeping himself afloat with his telekinesis but it seemed like Tivan had other means of performing the same action.

The ninth river right in front of them was over twenty million feet in length and had a thick concentrated amount of gravitational beam currently firing upon it.

It looked a hundred times more solid than steel as it reflected its surroundings without a single ripple.

As Tivan rod kept extending, it soon reached a length of more than twenty thousand feet.

At this point he raised it in the air with both hands as a bright glow encapsulated its entirety.

Fwwwiiiiiii~

He swung it downwards at full force, causing the winds to howl as it descended upon the ninth river.

Boooooommmmm~

A loud sound of collision rang out as the rod met with the river. It was like metal clashing with metal as the sound waves caused a lot of discomfort.

The river surface cracked like glass as the rod managed to sink into it, causing it to separate to an extent.

Up to a million feet of the river was affected by the powerful swing which would have done well to split any of the rivers before the ninth...

However, this didn't do much as not even a quarter of the ninth river.

"Don't lose faith, he will still win... the earthling cannot possibly..." Before Captain Shumi could complete her words, Endric swung down his katana with intensity.

Ghhbbbbbllllllll~

Their part of the arena began quaking intensely as a sharp telekinetic energy ripped through the air from above.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

The barrier covering the arena was pierced through as Endric's attack descended.

THHHHHHHHHZZHHHHHHHH!

Minutes later...

<<< Planet Earth 8 - 0 Planet Ghundabault >>>

"That was a close one," Aildris said while watching the replay.

"They both got a chunk of the ninth river,"

"Damn powerful,"

They praised after noticing just how far the two went. Endric had managed to cut through half of the ninth river but Tivan failed to get past a quarter.

Endric had gone further than E.E's performance at the start. This made the spectators reevaluate as they wondered who was the most powerful on earth's team.

"Who is going next?" Abestos questioned.

...

At the earth spectators corner, Grand Commander Shion and miss Aimee were seated right next to each other.

"How sturdy do you think the tenth river is due to the gravitational beams on it?" Grand Commander Shion questioned.

"As sturdy as the entire earth, from its surface to beyond its core... Managing to split the tenth river would mean, a participant is capable of splitting the entire earth into two halves," Miss Aimee replied.

"Do you think any of the participants here are capable of that?" Grand Commander Shion questioned.

"I guess we will find out," She replied with a calm tone.

...

"Gustav, you're going ahead now?" Teemee questioned.

"Yeah," Gustav replied.

"I thought you would be leaving this to us," Matilda voiced.

"I kinda did... i wouldn't be participating if Ria hadn't failed," Gustav responded once more.

Everyone turned to stare at Ria upon hearing that, "It's not his fault... his opponent was too overwhelming," Gustav voiced before anyone could say anything.

Ria had his head hung low in shame as he realised, he was the first to get defeated.

"Look, they just held their most powerful participants till the final bouts to make a comeback... the weapon Ria got didn't help matters either. I have to be the twelfth match up so we can have our eleventh win and finally move onto the next stage," Gustav disclosed.

"Alright then... we have no doubt you'll win," Aildris patted Gustav on his shoulder.

"Although i would have loved for you to take them by surprise when you show your strength in the next category," Falco stated.

Gustav began walking forward at this point, while the Ghundabault representative was already standing in front of the first river.

"That's their captain," On the Ghundabaults side, they noticed the dirty blonde haired human walking forward.

"So he finally decided to take on the mantle Huh," Captain Shumi voiced with a slightly wary tone.

"It should be fine since Navira powers is resistant to the force of gravity... She should do better than every other participant so far. After we win this, I doubt earth has any more powerful representative to send out like the previous ones. It will be our win from henceforth," The Co captain Tonaki voiced.

Her words made everyone feel encouraged as they focused on what was about to happen.

("I really thought you weren't going to participate,") The system voiced in Gustav's mind as he arrived before the river.

"I didn't want to... I still wanted to play the role of the observer till the time for a physical battle arrives. Oh well, I guess things can't always go my way," Gustav replied.

("You could have used Angy,") The system reminded.

"She has to be in peak condition for the Varlin chase," Gustav replied before stretching forth his hand.

("I know the weapon that thing will be transforming into when you touch it,") The system voiced.

'Doesn't matter what it is. I'm about to find out myself,' Gustav grabbed the Anusa Relic and a bright glow encapsulated his figure.

"What the hell are you doing?" Gustav nearly cursed as he spotted the notifications.

("Did you think I would just let it run its course and scan your soul? It will unleash a disastrous weapon here which might reveal your identity. I'm not risking it,") The system repljed.

"You little bitch..." Gustav didn't hold it in anymore and let the words slip out.

("That's your mama middle name,")

Gustav; "..."

'Well... she's not wrong...'

Chatter! Chatter! Chatter!

-"What is going on?"

-"Why is his Anusa Relic taking so long to form a shape?"

-"Is he okay?"

The spectators could see that Gustav was still covered by the glow while his opponent had already crossed a couple of rivers.

"Handler 13, I want you to go down there and check what is happening," Handler One who happened to be located on the far east area commanded.

"Yes Handler One," Just as the handler was about to move, the glow surrounding Gustav finally died down.

"Hold on... its fine now," Handler One had a look of suspicion but still stopped Handler Thirteen.

...

As the glow died down, Gustav could see a glowing crimson bladed longsword in his grasp.

It emitted so much energy, the air pulsated in reaction to it. It was around ten feet long and one foot wide with runic patterns on the blade.

"This was your idea of a weaker weapon?" Gustav could tell that this weapon would cause catastrophe on a normal day.

("It was the weakest I could force it to form... it already came into contact with you afterall,") The system girly voice sounded a bit tired.

"Tch..." Gustav raised the sword as he poured energy into it, causing the glow to increase.

From behind the others watching had looks of anticipation upon seeing Gustav's weapon. His opponent had already gone past the sixth river and they didn't want him to waste anymore time as well.

'Adding the mini blackhole would be an overkill... I should just leave things this way,' Gustav thought as his arms bulged with intensity, showing his muscular outlines through his suit.

On his hands, silvery scales appeared as his entire figure oozed unprecedented energy.

The whole weapon was covered in a milky glow as he raised it higher...

Gustav's face turned serious, as the grounds trembled as the rivers bubbled before he swung downwards with force...

Twwwwhiooooosshhhhhhhhhhh~

A massive crescent shaped Crimson arc blasted forward from the sword as the weapon descended in a vertical format.

The ground from his position to seven rivers ahead was split open in an instant as the destructive crescent shaped arc traveled millions of feet.

Chatter! Chatter! Chatter!

Voices of disbelief and astonishment reverberated across the whole arena, as the grounds beneath the rivers split as well.

[Hover Has Been Activated]

Gustav's figure floated above the ground as everywhere around him caved in.

"Oh shiit!" E.E and the others also jumped backwards as the grounds kept sinking.

zhooonn~

He quickly opened a vortex and everyone jumped in. They reappeared ten thousand feet behind their initial position and looked forward to see that the grounds had sunked in.

"That might have been too much," Angy muttered as they looked upwards at the screen which displayed Gustav.

The footage showing Gustav zoomed out to display the destruction around and everyone's jaws nearly dropped to the ground.

"That's... did he just clear eight rivers in one go?" On the Ghundabaults side, they also had shocked looks as they stared at the screens.

It was not news that the further an attack traveled, the weaker it got so the chances of clearing further rivers in one strike was lower. What they had just witnessed proved how powerful the strike was.freewebnovel.com

"This is your definition of weak?" Gustav asked the system while slightly raising the sword.

("Yes... you have no idea how lucky we are,") The system replied internally.

Gustav; "..."

Navira who had already gone far ahead of Gustav was stupefied as she noticed he had cleared past the eight river in one go.

She had just finished splitting the seventh river on her side and was moving towards the eight but Gustav's current performance was a blow to her morale.

"I won't lose," She assured herself as she headed for the eight river.

On another part of the arena where a battle between two powerful planets was ongoing, they were currently at the last bout that would decide the winner between them.

Unfortunately, despite the fact that both teams sent out their most powerful representative for the final bout, one happened to be much stronger than the other.

"Captain Irand is going to use it now," On the left side, one of the teammates who had a dark cloth wrapped around his figure from head to toe voiced out.

"The Lorks have lost then..." Another one who looked similar, but with a more scrawny build stated.

Up ahead both planets representatives were currently at their ninth river, about to attack.

On the left, one stood in place with dark eyes and cloth covering the rest of his head. He had a shadowy cloak strapped to his neck which kept swimming in the wind as energy surrounded the staff in his grasp.

On the other side a reddish figure with only eyes and black streaks across his body, held onto a double edged sword as he also prepared to unleash a mighty attack.

The ninth river couldn't even be called a river anymore, it was practically a small ocean.

After a couple of moments, the reddish figure had built up a massive amount of energy and swung his double edged blade sideways. Winds howled as it carried a massive pressure that sliced towards the tenth river.

Claaaannkkkkk~

It met with resistance as the entire river quaked like a solid object but it suddenly built in strength and sliced through the ninth river.

Thrrrihhhhhhh!

Cheers! Cheers! Cheers! Cheers!

The loud sound of cheers rang out as this person happened to be the first participant to cut through the ninth river.

The crowd was going bunkers at the moment, meanwhile...

The dark figure on the other side, kept increasing in presence as he arched his arm backwards with his staff before thrusting forward with intensity...

Boooooommm~

A destructive force bursted forth from his staff, slamming into the ninth river ahead and piercing through it instantly.

Thrrriihhhhhhh~

After travelling for millions of feet, the spectators mouths were once again left open as another participant managed to split the ninth river yet again.

- "The participants from Indulus Prime and Xillion might be the most powerful,"

- "Hey you can't just judge like that, some didn't get to use their full strength because their opponents were not strong enough,"

- "Look! Look! Someone else just split the ninth river too!"

- "Earth's captain Crimson,"

- "Look the Ghundabault is about to try too,"

Gustav who had just finished splitting the ninth river without much stress, waited to see if his opponent would be able to do the same.

"I'll have to unveil more of my strength if she manages to split it," Gustav muttered as he rested the tip of his sword on the ground.

"Resistance build..." Navira voiced from her side as she raised her spear before throwing it forward with intensity.

Fwwwiiii~

Her first try split half of the ninth river, causing Gustav to relax as he felt he wouldn't need to do more.

She tried again and only managed to split a little over half this time.

Navira began building up energy as she prepared to strike again.

Meanwhile on Planet Indulus Prime and Planet Xillion side, both opponents prepared to strike the tenth river which was practically like a sea.

Almost the entire spectators area watched as they conjured strikes using their weapons and attacked at the same time.

Booommm! Boooooom!

Both attacks hit the surface of the tenth river but unfortunately, didn't manage to split it even in the slightest.

They both had determined looks as they built up energy once more to at least leave an effect on the tenth river.

Their second strikes bore the same results as they didn't manage to split it even in the slightest. The heaviness of the gravitational beams descending upon the tenth river was just too much.

"Captain Irand has no choice but to use it now," Indulus Prime participants watched in anticipation while the dark cloaked participant lowered his staff.

On Xillion side, "Fhirus will use that attack now... if he manages to cause even the smallest effect on the tenth river, he wins," Xillion Captain stated.

Both opponents up ahead began undergoing Transformation.

Fhirus who was the reddish figure went from being bulky to slim as his entire figure glowed with a reddish energy.

Weehiiiiiiiiinnnnnn~

It blasted forth from his figure spreading across the vicinity. The spectators felt the intensity despite being shielded by the barrier covering the arena.

Fhirus blade turned illusionary as afterimages appeared from his figure while he swung the blade forward.

It sounded like space was being ripped apart as destructive energy blasted forth from the blade towards the river ahead.

At this same moment, Captain Irand on the other side opened his eyes.

Thooooooooommmmm~

A wave of darkness suddenly burst forth from his being, causing the skies within the entire arena to darken. The spectators looked up with expressions of wariness as the darkness from his figure disoriented the entire place including other participants far from his location.

"Strengthen the barrier!" Handler One commander as he witnessed this.

The handlers around him quickly sprang to action.

'We didn't expect this year participants to be this powerful,' He thought in awe as he watched.

Captain Irand pushed his staff forward at this point, sending an indomitable force towards the river.

BOOOOOOOMMMMMM!

The Xillions who had been celebrating earlier had looks of shock as the strike split up to half of the river.

Their representative had only managed to split a quarter after his third try.

The entire arena and even the spectators area quaked repeatedly as the residual energy from the strike swept across the place.

Luckily the barrier had been reinforced so everyone was safe from the residual energy.

Cheers! Cheers! Cheers! Cheers!

The crowd was going bunkers once again as Gustav stared upwards with a slight look of suspicion. The skies were already clearing.

He stared back at his teammates position, at a particular person.

"Too familiar," He muttered before turning back around.

"Oh, she managed to clear the ninth river," Gustav muttered.

At this point everyone was focused on Planet Indulus Prime and Xillion so only a few were paying attention to Gusyav who was ready to strike the tenth river.

"I guess I don't have any choice but to use more strength," Gustav muttered as he threw a glance at his opponent before stretching his sword forward.

[Combination Has Been Activated]

Gustav began transforming as he took on the full form of combining different mixedbreeds this time.

Chapter 1170 Arena Decimation

Gustav began transforming as he took on the full form of combining the mixedbreeds this time.

His height reached ten feet as a horn appeared in the middle of his head and a tail grew out his rear.

A silvery colored energy encapsulated his figure, preventing an outburst that could cause the vicinity to collapse from his presence alone.

[Atomic Disintegration Has Been Activated]

[Strength Boost Has Been Activated]

[Two Times Force Has Been Activated]

[Gravitational Manipulation Has Been Activated]

[Mini Blackhole Has Been Activated]

Gustav could no longer suppress his energy as the power from the combination of different attacks began to reflect in the surroundings.

Duuuuuunnnnnnnnn~

As he raised his sword, a beam of energy had shot into the air above and pierced through the barrier.

Gbbbllllllbbb~

The entire arena began quaking at this point. However the quake was not limited to the arena alone...

Gbbbllllllbbb~

The entire ninth disk began quaking intensely as a dark swirling mass had appeared at the tip of Gustav's sword.

The black hole was the size of a baby's palm but its suction force it emitted was unprecedented.

The whooshing winds and intense energy Gustav's figure emitted had caused the other participants around to stare in his direction as the whole place was affected.

"This is bad..." Handler one voiced.

"Reinforce the barriers again..." He was too late.

Gustav's sword swung downwards at this point.

Tiiihhhhhiiiiinnnnnnnnhhh~

A destructive crescent shaped arc that grew larger with each passing millisecond blasted forth from Gustav sword.

It descended like a judgement from the high heavens, ripping to shreds everything in its path before even coming into contact with it.

The mini black hole happened to be right ahead of it, swallowing the river in its path as it shot forward with intensity.

Before everyone jaws could drop, the mini blackhole had swallowed up to half of the tenth river up but the destruction didn't end there.

The destructive crescent shaped arc trailing behind it also did well to destroy the dry land behind it, causing the grounds to cave in.

"Get the other participants away right now!"

"Move move move,"

Handler one commander and all the handlers moved out at this point.

They began to clear the part of the arena which the destructive force was headed. The participants were swiftly taken away as Gustav's mini blackhole finished swallowing the entire tenth river.

BOOOOOOMMMMMM!

The thunderous sound of destruction reverberated across the vicinity as the destructive arc which had become extremely massive, destroyed even the machines above, responsible for the gravitational beams.

Up in space, the Ozious space station watched a massive reddish arc slice one of their satellites in two.

From their location in space, they could see the arc slam into the eight disk as well, causing it to quake a little.

"What in the world," One of them in the space station muttered as they stared at the screens that displayed the ongoing IYSOP challenge.

All that could be seen was dust... The entire arena was currently having visibility issues.

After a minute, calm began to return to the arena as the dust in the air slowly cleared.

"Is everyone okay?" Miss Aimee questioned as she waved her hand, causing the barrier she created around earth's participants to dissipate.

- "We're good,"

- "Who knew Gustav could do that?"

Some of Earth's spectators couldn't hide their surprise as they voiced out.

"That's my boy," Miss Aimee smiled with a look of pride.

A wall of yellow colored energy had surrounded the spectators areas all around which prevented them from receiving the brunt of the shockwaves at the last minute.

The entire arena minus the spectators area was practically leveled at this point. The participants had been moved away at the last second, except for Gustav who was in the middle of the whole thing.

"Ooof... that may have been too much," Gustav muttered as the dust around him cleared.

<<< Planet Earth 11 - 1 Planet Ghundabault >>>

Chatter! Chatter! Cheers! Cheers! Cheers!

An uproar erupted within the arena as the announcement went off.

- "There was someone this powerful amongst the participants?"

- "What are these youngsters eating? How did they get to such strength level this fast?"

- "Who would win... him or Captain Strum? freewebnovel. com

- "Captain Strum can do this too,"

- "Who knew the earth's captain was this strong,"

All sorts of discussions rang out amongst the spectators after witnessing the spectacular feat of Gustav not only splitting the tenth river but pretty much annihilating everything in the vicinity as well.

This part of the ninth disk was utterly destroyed but luckily, they were able to take care of the damage.

"You are the true definition of an overkill," E.E laughed as the earth's participants sat within their waiting room.

"I didn't think it was going to be that powerful," Gustav felt the mini blackhole would have been enough but he really overdid it.

Blackholes practically swallowed even light so it was expected that the gravitational beams had no way of affecting it even though it was a smaller version.

"Well, at least we won," Ria voiced with an excited expression.

"How in the world are you able to create a blackhole?"

"Just how many abilities do you have?"

Matilda and Glade inquired at the same time.

"Do you guys recall when I mentioned, I will no longer hide what I can do?" Gustav questioned.

Some of them nodded in response.

"But now the opponents also know of your different abilities. They will try to find a way to counter it in the future challenges... is that a good thing?" Aildris questioned.

"They only know of the ones I've used..." Gustav replied.

"So there's more...?" Falco inquired.

"Besides the ones even you guys have seen... yes," Gustav responded.

"Man there's definitely something you ain't telling us," E.E voiced.

Gustav turned to stare at Endric upon hearing that before speaking, "You will all find out more in due time,"

"It's very abnormal for a mixedblood to have more than one bloodline... are you saying you have numerous of them?" Phinx inquired.

"It's time for the sub categories to begin... Angy, Phinx, Abestos, are you ready to go?" Gustav asked.

"Yes,"

"Ready,"

"...Ready too I guess,"

The three of them answered.

"Falco, Yonda, Fildhor, are you ready for yours as well?" Gustav inquired.

The other three answered as well. Although the River Splitting Challenge was still ongoing, it wouldn't affect the sub challenges since they would be holding on the eight disk.

It was also going to be broadcasted across the planet and galaxies too even though not a lot of spectators would pay attention to it.

Fortunately earth took part in the river splitting challenge before the sub challenges began. Although Gustav would have still let Angy and the others leave to participate in the sub challenges if they hadn't taken part in the river splitting challenge yet.

"The others, you can return to rest or join us in heading to the eight disk. Do whatever you want," Gustav said before heading out of the waiting room with the others.

There happened to be an elevator like terminal in the middle of the city where the river splitting challenge was currently holding.

Fwwhiiii~

Gustav and the others used different means to arrive there as he flew while some sprinted.

Angy of course was the first to arrive at the elevator like terminal which looked like a pillar that extended into the skies.

They attracted the attention of different species in the vicinity as they moved into one of the elevators together.

Angy was quite excited since she hadn't gotten to perform any role since the day began. It was finally her turn to showcase her abilities.

Thwwwiiisshhhh~

The elevator streaked upwards with speed, disappearing into the sky in a few moments.

The group soon found themselves on the eight disk which was also almost two times as large as the ninth. The ninth was already larger than the entire earth surface and now they were on an even larger one.

The air had turned humid and it felt like they had arrived on a desert like environment due to the hotness on the eight disk.

However, just like the ninth not a single speck of sand could be seen. The grounds were bright copper in color so it made it look like they were walking on a path of gold.

The massive star that illuminated their galaxy looked closer and the environment was even busier than the ninth disk.

They attracted attention to themselves once more as they headed to the locations where the sub challenges were held. It looked like the buildings and living condition here was even better than on the ninth disk.

This made Gustav wonder how it would look when they headed to the higher layers.

"The Varlin Chase Will Be Commencing In The Next Five Minutes," A loud announcement rang out within a dampened looking location.

"Those are portals and we have to run in the mud eh?"
