

Bloodline 1181

Chapter 1181 Looted Caves

Gustav turned towards the south, "I've gotten four eggs now but I can't go back to that cave since what it has left are repetition of the same colors of eggs,"

"Best to head this way," He decided as wings sprouted out of his back.

Fwwwiiii~

He flew off into the distance in the next instant, leaving a whitish hue across the sky due to his speed.

#####

"Shit! Why are these idiots after me?" Phinx cursed as she sped across the surface of a frozen

In an unknown location within the forth disk, Phinx found herself running from a duo who wouldn't stop chasing her.

The duo had white heads and transparent skins. They were obviously participants and not the dangerous beasts that were said to lurk on the fourth disk.

Phinx who had this moment, had her natural look was finding it difficult to escape them.

"Stop running earthling!" One of them yelled and created multiple icy hurricanes up ahead.

Phinx who was aiming for a particular cave up ahead had to change direction due to the incoming hurricanes.

Massive icicles began to get pulled into the hurricane and started getting flipped out like arrows getting fired off a bow.

Phinx wasn't very fast but she wasn't too slow either and managed to evade the icicles shooting from the hurricanes in her direction.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

She managed to evade the sixth one by a hair breath, which gave her a small bruise on her left arm as it shot past her and stabbed into the icy surface behind.

It seemed as though the duo in pursuit, could manipulate the hurricanes easily to their utmost desire even after it had been formed.

Phinx kept running after changing directions and finally came across another icy cave entry. She managed to get through it this time and both participants also abandoned the surface to infiltrate the cave entrance as well.

Close to a minute later they came across another duo who were also participants but from a different planet.

They had reptile like head with purple mohawk growing out the middle of their head. Both participants looked no different from each other.

Phinx was nowhere to be found.

"Did you see anyone pass by here?" They questioned the duo, one of which happened to be leaning on the other for support.

"They went this way," The one holding up the other participant voiced.

One of the other two who had been chasing Phinx spotted a small drop of blood running down the neck of the participant who was leaning on the other.

However, they didn't make much of it and headed in the direction this participant pointed them in.

"Phew~" The participant who was supporting the other, heaved a sigh of relief after the other two left.

They slowly helped the one who was leaning for support down, "I apologise for this," A familiar voice was heard from the participant mouth.

They turned around at this point and headed out of the cave.

"I need to gather eggs,"

#####

In a flash three days had gone by and during this time, the participants had been trying their best to acquire eggs.

Some had already acquired different colors of eggs already but it was unknown how many had managed to form a Viondur eggs.

There were a lot of issues ranging from acquiring eggs to finding the ones with the required colors.

During the briefing with Handler one, he already mentioned that there would be other colors of eggs that weren't amongst the Viondur required eggs and that these eggs bore no importance.

It was also possible to acquire a color of egg that was awfully close to that of the required egg which was another reason the participants had to be careful.

Handler One had also mentioned that the eggs could mostly be found underground but what he hadn't mentioned was, the repetition of colors.

It was impossible to find all of the eggs with the required colors in a single place. There could be tens of eggs with the same color which made it even more difficult to acquire a complete set required for creating a Viondur egg.

Fights would occasionally break out in different areas due to groups or individuals spitting another color of egg they hadn't acquired at the same time an opposing participant also spotted it.

The earth participants were still waiting for Gustav's link but as agreed earlier on, they were gathering as many eggs as they could in the meantime.

They had dimensional storage buttons like Gustav did so storing the eggs they had acquired wasn't an issue. They could take as many as they wanted.

Gustav hadn't picked a designated point for everyone to meet up at first because he wanted to acquire a full set of color variety necessary for creating a Viondur Egg.

So far he had only gotten four colors; Dark red, Neon, Orange, and Blue

Blue of course was useless but these were the current four colors he had in his possession. He had more than four eggs in total but the rest were replications of the same colors.

He had visited more caves in the last few days but without any luck. Gustav felt the frosty caves within a particular radius most likely had the same color variations.

Due to this thought he had decided to distance himself more from where he had managed to acquire his first eggs.

After continuous flight throughout the last night, Gustav could sense another flaming area in the distance. His mind instantly reeled back to when he found one in front of the first cave he visited.

'Could it be...' Gustav mind formed a myriad of possibilities as he closed in on the source of the flames.

Fwwhiiiihhh~

He arrived there moments later and landed on a plain icy ground.

Bam!

Gustav landed right in front of another massive flaming white tree. Blueish flames enshrouded the entire tree yet its leaves and branches were unaffected.

The heat spreading from the flames were proof that it was authentic but there was no logic behind how the leaves and branches were not affected in the slightest bit.

However, the wonders of this tree didn't draw Gustav's attention as much as the cave that happened to be a couple feet ahead.

Just like the last cave he got into, this one also happened to have a flaming but unaffected tree mounted right in front.

Gustav had suspicions and speculations running through his mind at this point but he wasted no time before heading into the cave which led him underground.

Fwwhososhh~

He sped through the chambers, inspecting them one after the other.

Minutes later Gustav was back outside the cave entrance with a look of contemplation on his face.

("Since its looted already you might as well just check the others around,") The system voiced in his mind.

"Yeah but to prove my current speculation, I would need to find another one like this, if I manage to find new colors within the ones around here," Gustav voiced out loud.

("I guess... Can you sense it?") The system questioned.

"Sense what?" Gustav inquired.

("I guess not,") The system voiced in response.

"Sense what?" Gustav asked once more.

("Just keep going,") The system refused to elaborate.

Gustav decided not to ask anymore knowing the system wouldn't spill but he already had an idea of what the system was referring to. In his mind he was 99% sure he was correct.

Fwwhiiii~

His figure blurred as he leapt into the sky.

Booomm!

The ice caved in at his initial location as a ripple of frost blasted in every direction.

fwwhooommm~

He body traveled across a distance of more than fifty thousand feet before he began to descened.
Frosted rocks could be seen scattered across the vicinity as his figure descended.

Bam!

He landed at the top of a icy rock few moments later and happened to witness a battle ongoing between a couple of participants.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Attacks were being hurled left, right and centre as the participants battled for reasons which obviously pertained to the eggs.

Chunks of ice blasted across the vicinity and the ground caved in multiple areas as powerful attacks collided.

Gustav wasn't interested in their fight and didn't intend to be dragged in so he spread his senses across the vicinity even more, infiltrating the caves around.

Unsurprisingly, there were other participants underground and he also found out that all the caves around here connected to each other.

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

His sight phased through the layers of thick ice and arrived underground, giving him a clear view of the chambers.

Just like the initial cave he checked before coming here, he could see holes in the icy underground walls. These holes were the same size as the eggs which depicted a single thing...

The caves had been looted.

Gustav heaved a sigh of disappointment after the discovery and was about leaving when he thought of something.

Chapter 1182 It's Probably Dead

Gustav heaved a sigh of disappointment after the discovery and was about leaving when he thought of something.

'When did I become so nice that I'm willing to stay out of trouble instead of getting the job done?' He wondered as he turned to stare at the eight participants up ahead who were battling.

He was well aware that they were fighting because of the eggs... ot what was left of them from the caves in this area.

Which meant he could get it from them but for some reason he had been wanting to stay out of trouble.

'I'm changing?' Gustav was self aware, however he knew that this wasn't the time for any self reflection.

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

He activated God Eyes once more and glanced in the direction of the battle.

There were seven participants in total who were battling each other. Two were the same species, while the remaining five were different species.

Gustav recognised every single one of them and immediately identified the different planets they represented.

The two who were teammates weren't getting the upperhand despite there being two of them. One of them also happened to be holding onto an egg as they tried dealing with the attacks.

It was no surprise that the other five were doing attacking in unison to get the egg from the two teammates so in the meantime they weren't enemies to each other.

The battle wouldn't end if they managed to get the egg from the two.

Gustav squatted in place and extended his index and thumb fingers a few centimetres away from his face.

He proceeded to join the tips of the right and left index and thumb fingers together before staring through the space formed like it was a scope.

Shutting his right eye, Gustav's focused his sight on the egg which was in the possession of the participant that had just successfully escaped another attack.

Despite the battle happening more than four thousand feet away, Gustav's sight was on the egg like it was just inches away from his eyes.

"SJ, get it," Gustav commanded.

Zing~

The sacred jewel appeared in the next instant and along with it was the appearance of a blue egg.

After the blue egg and the sacred Jewel appeared, the sacred jewel emitted a bright glow causing the egg to float in mid air.

Ting~

The egg flashed with a blue light and the color changed in the next instant to a Violet colored egg.

The participant who was holding onto a Violet coloured egg while trying to escape the onslaught of the other attackers, hadn't noticed the change in color of the egg in their grasp.

Gustav grabbed the Violet colored egg right in front of him and smirked, "Four eggs acquired,"

Just as Gustav was about to keep the violet colored egg away, the participants up ahead took notice of the color change.

"Hold on!"

"Its blue,"

Two of them who were initially about to attack earlier paused while pointing this out.

"What?" The participant who was holding onto the egg raised it with a shocked look as the middle of his head turned red.

"Who did this!?" Fire blazed from the middle of his head as he yelled.

Both himself and his teammates stared at the five before them with looks of anguish.

"It couldn't have been us, we were right here," One of the five voiced out.

Their faces calmed a bit as they realised that the participant was right but this left them with more confusion.

"I saw a flash of light in that direction and when I stared at the egg I noticed it had changed color,"

"I saw the flash of light too... from the top of that ice rock,"

Two out of the five participants pointed out and everyone turned to stare in Gustav's direction.

"There's someone there!"

"He has the egg!"

A participant among them who had the ability to also view things from a long distance noticed the egg before Gustav kept it in his storage button.

"Get him!"

They yelled out as they leapt into the air and sped in Gustav's direction.

Zing~

At this point Gustav had already kept the egg in his storage button when he noticed the participants headed for him.

"They caught on quite quickly," He muttered while standing to his feet.

Attacks were already formulating and being thrown forward but before any of them could close in on Gustav..

"Bye," He waved at the oncoming participants as he activated an ability.

[Lightning Blitz Has Been Activated]

Right before their very eyes, Gustav's body dematerialised and turned into a lightning streak.

Thrrraahhhh~

The blue streak phased past them with intense speed, disappearing into the distance in the blink of an eye.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

Flames, Energy strikes and all sorts of attacks landed atop the rock after Gustav disappeared, causing it to come crashing down.

Frost scattered in every direction after the bombardment of attacks but Gustav was already long gone.

"Let's chase him!" One of them suggested with a look of dissatisfaction.

"No point... whatever running technique he used just now, is just as fast as teleportation. We won't be able to catch him," Another participant voiced.

"I saw who it was... it was the captain of earth, Gustav Crimson," One of them revealed.

"Him? What a sneaky coward!" Another one yelled.

"I'll make sure to pay him back for this!"

- "Let's just look for another one,"

Gustav soon arrived in another location that was no less than two hundred thousand feet away from the initial.

He landed within an area that just so happened to have nothing but plain icelands for a long stretch.

"This is still a part of that territory, I need to move further away..." Gustav happened to recall something at this moment.

"The third daily task was to defeat a Frost Raikin," Gustav stared at the sky.

The skies looked gloomy as usual so one couldn't tell the time neither could they tell if it was day or night. Despite its dimness, it still emitted a little bit of light that never increased or decreased.

"The day is ending already," Although one couldn't associate day and night with the way time operated within the fourth disk, Gustav was able to tell that the third day was nearly over.

This also meant he would fail his daily task if he didn't battle with a Frost Raikin and win.

"So now i gotta head back," Gustav muttered as he noticed he couldn't find any icy rock or cave in the vicinity.

He couldn't start looking for another icy rock and cave since he didn't know the terrain or have a map with him. This was why he decided to head back to the one he had already been to.

Gustav proceeded to tap on his left wrist.

Trroooiinn~

The dimensional bracelet strapped to his wrist appeared, displaying checkpoint areas.

Gustav choose one he recently made a checkpoint and a computerised voice could be heard next.

<Dimensional Travel In...>

<...3...>

<....2...>

<...1...>

Zing~

A flash of blue light encapsulated Gustav's figure and he disappeared in the next moment.

Zhii~

He reappeared before a massive flaming white tree in the next instant. A couple of feet away, was the entrance to a familiar looking icy cave.

This was the same cave Gustav had first infiltrated to get his first three eggs. Fortunately for him, he planted a checkpoint here before he went into the cave.

He also planted a checkpoint before the second flaming tree he came across for reasons known to him. He had also decided he would plant another checkpoint if he was to find a flaming tree like this one in another location.

Gustav wasted no time, before walking into the cave.

Thwwoossh~

With his speed, he soon arrived in front of the same chamber where the two participants he first met were battling with the creature that suddenly phased out of the cave ground.

That creature happened to be a Frost Raikin. Gustav wouldn't have known this if the system didn't announce its identity the moment it phased out of the ground three days back.

Gustav could see that the place still looked roughened up with chunks of ice forming a small hill at a corner and a massive hole in one of the walls.

Some eggs were still embedded in the northern walls but these eggs were colors Gustav already possessed so he didn't need them. However, he had to provoke the creature to show up so...

Fwwhoosshh~

Gustav sped forward and arrived before one of the eggs. He grabbed hold of it and pulled it out of its hole, expecting the creature to appear.

The place was as silent as a graveyard even after more than thirty seconds had gone by.

Gustav had a look of confusion as he jumped up a little and pulled another egg out of the wall.

However, even after many seconds had gone by there wss no form of disturbance neither did he sense any presence.

("It's probably dead or maybe it left,") The system said internally.

"Thanks captain obvious,"

Chapter 1183: Let's Go After His Teammates

("It's probably dead or maybe it left,") The system said internally.

"Thanks captain obvious,"

("You're welcome dumbo,") The system replied.

Gustav ignored the system and looked around the place properly. There was more destruction in view compared to the time he was here.

This was to be expected since Gustav fled, leaving the other two participants to face the fury of the Frost Raikin.

"Did they manage to slay it?" Gustav felt this was unlikely since one of them got seriously injured and there was no corpse nearby.

He decided not to overthink it and crouched for a moment before leaping upwards.

Thooooonnn~

His figure blasted through the ceiling of the frost cave and arrived above the surface in the next moment.

"I need to find another one," Gustav muttered while looking around.

There were more caves in the vicinity so all Gustav did was spread his senses outwards to infiltrate the underground areas of the caves so he could inspect if there were anymore signs of battles within thr ones around.

Gustav sped forward in the next instant, crossing a long terrain of icy mountains and leaping across thousands of feet.

In a couple of moments, he arrived before another cave and quickly went in.

Few seconds later, a repeat of what happened in the other cave, played out again. Gustav was back on the surface as he couldn't find a Frost Raikin.

He searched more for them and after an hour of searching all across, notifications popped up in his line of sight.

[Daily Task 3 Incomplete]

[Thirty Minutes Left]

The notification was a reminder of how much time he had left before he would be deemed by the system to have failed the daily task.

Gustav knew there was no time to waste as he leapt into the air and bat like wings sprouted out of his back.

Fwwhiii~

He sped across the air with immense speed as he activated hover as well, merging them.

Gustav perception caught wind of another cave a couple of minutes later and he quickly swooped down with intensity.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

The sounds of battle coming from below was ignored by Gustav as he figure dove down and blasted through the surface of the ground.

Boom!

The instant Gustav, blasted through, he landed on the massive head of a whitish creature resembling a snake.

The force pushed the creature down, causing it to slam its jaw into the ground.

Fwwhoomm~

Chunks of ice blasted across the vicinity along with winds carrying a lot of fog.

-"Huh?"

-"Eh?"

The other alien lifeforms within the cave were confounded as they witnessed this.

The icy ground above had shattered, displaying the interior of the cave where the battle was ongoing before Gustav's entry.

It just so happened that the other four participants in the vicinity had been fighting this creature together.

"Wiiiaahhh!" The frost Raikin roared as it lifted its neck forcefully, flinging Gustav off its head.

Fwwhii~

Gustav did a flip as his body traveled backwards and landed on the icy wall at the end of the cave, before pushing himself forward with his legs.

Bang!

The wall instantly came crumbling down from the force as Gustav's body propelled forward at an insane speed while he activated another ability.

[Atomic Manipulation Has Been Activated]

A fifteen feet long, milky colored blade made of light particles appeared in his grasp as he swung forward with force.

The Frost Raikin opened its mouth revealing a set of teeth that looked like massive icicles and in the next instant, a storm of ice shot out of its mouth.

Fhooooommm~

The entire cave turned into a location of extreme weather condition as cold winds mixed with hail and snow, spread across the place.

Swwiisshh~ Swwiisshh~

A milky light slashed through the disturbance repeatedly as a silhouette phased through with extreme speed, arriving before the mouth of the creature.

Gustav swung the atomic blade upwards as he arrived underneath the chin area of the creature.

Bang!

The Frost Raikin whole body was sent flying upwards upon contact, causing it to blast through the ceiling of the cave which already had a hole due to Gustav's appearance initially.

It's whole serpentine like body with icicles for a crown, swept out from underneath the icy ground and elevated into the air as it screeched in pain.

Gustav felt the atomic blade didn't manage to so much damage due to the sturdy body of the creature. The force of the swing only managed to blast the creature into the air but didn't do enough damage.

Thooooomm!

Gustav leapt into the air through the larger hole that the creature's body had created, leaving the other participants in the cave with looks of confusion.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

The sound of more collisions rang out as Gustav assaulted the Frost Raikin with a barrages of attacks.

It couldn't move very fast in the air after getting seperated from the ice below, so Gustav was able to easily catch up with it.

Another cry was heard in a few seconds after Gustav cleaved a part of its crown off with the atomic blade.

'There's no time, I need to end this as soon as possible,' Gustav thought as he realised that only a few minutes were left.

The Frost Raikin was currently flying upwards in the direction of the floating ice platforms in the sky.

'Fire has always been effective against ice...' Gustav's body suddenly lit up with blue flames the Atomic Blade in his grasp disappeared.

He joined his palms together as the flames around his figure began to build up.

'The sway force should help make this even more destructive,'

As this thought appeared in Gustav's mind, he began to separate his palm and a blazing circle that looked like a mixture of multiple colored flames could be seen.

While it increased in size, the Frost Raikin arrived before the massive ice floating platforms and hurled them downwards at Gustav.

In the next instant, Gustav slammed his palms together, causing the multiple colored flames within to disappear.

The Frost Raikin who was more than five hundred feet above, suddenly felt a rush of hotness from within.

As it looked down, a glow could be seen on its belly. As it clawed at its belly in fear and confusion, the glow increased and it could tell that it was coming from within.

In the next instant, a raging flame tore out of its belly and spread to its body.

At this same instant, Gustav moved.

Thwoosshhh~

His body blasted through the multiple icy platforms hurling downwards as the atomic blade appeared in his grasp once more.

Fwwhiii~

He swung upwards, seperating the Frost Raikin's head from the rest of its body in mid air.

[You Have Killed A Level 3 Frost Raikin]

A notification popped up in his line of sight afterwards and he heaved a sigh of relief. If he was a minuter later, he would have failed the daily task.

The blazing body of the Frost Raikin landed on the ground, right before the participants who were battling it earlier.

The stared at it and then looked upwards with their still confused faces.

"Did he do this to help us?" One of them wondered out loud.

However, Gustav was already long gone at this time so he had no idea what they were thinking. He just needed to kill a Frost Raikin and now that the objective had been completed, he was going in search of another.

#####

In another part of the fourth disk, a dark figure with a cloak and wraps of cloth covering his entire crouched atop a floating frosted cloud.

Clunkk~

An ice cracking sound rang out as he stabbed his wrapped up fingers into a part of the ice and pulled out a dark colored egg.

Without saying a word, he stood to his feet with the massive three feet tall egg in his grasp.

A wave of darkness began to spread from his being all of a sudden and thread like darkness phased out of his belly area.

Thriiuh~

The threads of darkness wrapped around the egg in the next instant and pulled it into the dark figure. The egg disappeared like it was swallowed up by this dark being.

Fwwhiii!

He proceeded to leap off the floating frosted cloud and landed in the middle of a frozen line up of trees region.

He began walking forward and soon heard voices coming from up ahead.

- "We should have caught up to him by now but he keeps moving,"

- "If he slows down, we should get to him in four days,"

- "But that is very unlikely. If we keep focusing on him we won't get any eggs till the challenge ends,"

- "We need to think of another plan,"

Their voices drifted into his hearing and the translator he had on like every other participant, interpreted their alien language.

He spotted the source of the voices as he moved further ahead. They were a trio with transparent skins and whitish heads.

He could already tell which planet they represented but it was none of his business. The figure continued on his way forward passing by silently as their voices slowly grew distant.

- "Let's go after his teammates instead..."

Chapter 1184 Young Adventurer

The figure continued on his way forward passing by silently as their voices slowly grew distant.

- "Let's go after his teammates instead..."

#####

In another part of the fourth disk, a figure could be seen speeding across the air with a crowd pursuing from behind.

The figure was a young earthling with curly black hair and a green dotted glow continuously bleeping on his forehead.

"Use blink to lose them," Husarius suggested.

"The Vatrant is restricting my use of space abilities," Endric complained as he kept flying across the air on an invisible platform.

Thwwwiihh~

A pillar of green light shot past him as he quickly swerved towards the left to dodge it. This wasn't the only attack headed in his direction from behind as multiple others were shot at him.

Thwwwiihh~ Thwwwiihh~ Thwwwiihh~

Red bolts of energy, dark arcs, icicles, wind blades, electric charges... the crowd that numbered around twenty didn't stop hurling attacks at Endric who did his best to escape most of them and counter the ones he couldn't dodge.

"I'll trap him!" One of them voiced from behind.

A spherical shaped net like glow suddenly shot forward with intensity from behind once more as its blue lines gleamed intensely.

Endric swerved to dodge it as well, but it suddenly increased in size, and Endric found himself phasing through one of the massive net like holes.

The moment he was within the massive spherical net, he suddenly felt weakened. Endric's eyebrows furrowed as he noticed the spherical net suddenly start to shrink the moment he found himself within it.

Fwwhiii~

He tried speeding forward so he could go through one of the holes in the net before it could shrink to a point where he wouldn't fit.

Bam!

Endric's figure got blasted back into the entrapment the moment he arrived before a hole. It was like the massive holes in the net had barriers around them, preventing him from leaving.

"This is not good... the more it shrinks, the more I weaken," Endric voiced as he sent forth a wave of telekinetic energy to prevent the entrapment from shrinking further.

-"A Drupherloc must be responsible for this... they make the greatest traps with their abilities," Husarius voiced.

"I can't afford to be caught," Endric stated.

-"I'll take care of the Drupherloc... prepare to use blink," Husarius voiced as the green crystal phased out of Endric's forehead.

The crystal floated towards one of the holes in the net behind and phased through easily.

Within the crowd of twenty chasing from behind, the green crystal floated towards one of the figures who had squid like tentacles for arms and orange colored triangular head.

They hadn't noticed the crystal on time as it flew speedily in a beeline, arriving before the Drupherloc in a jiffy.

Tiiinnnnnggghhh~

An immensely bright green flash suddenly spread from the crystal, blinding everyone's sight for a split second.

In that split second, the crystal transformed into a greenish humanoid figure which sent a punch hurling at the face of the Drupherloc.

Bang!

The air shook as the Drupherloc who was initially playing its squid like tentacles to control the entrapment, got sent flying backward. It immediately lost control of the glowing spherical net, which disappeared in the next instant.

Fwwhiiisshhh~

Endric sped forward intensely, the moment he felt his strength return. Husarius hurried towards him after blinding everyone momentarily and phased back into his forehead.

"Blink,"

Zing~

His figure disappeared amidst a small fluorescent flash in the next moment.

- "He's gone!" noVeluSb.Com

- "Damn it!"

The figures behind cursed and let out voices of disappointment after Endric managed to escape.

- "Maybe the Vatrains are in partnership with him!"

- "Those lowlives! They must have betrayed us and let the earthling use spatial abilities,"

- "We didn't you fools!"

- "We got blinded just like everyone else and lost sight of him,"

- "The Drupherloc let him go!"

- "These motherless creatures, how can you blame us for failing to catch him,"

A battle soon ensued within the group as they blamed one another other for failing to catch Endric.

"Blink," Endric blinked again and appeared hundreds of thousands of feet from his initial location.

"We should have gone far enough," Husarius spoke.

Endric began floating upwards at this point till he arrived before a floating frosted cloud. He floated forward and stood atop it.

"Looks like tailing them all this time paid off," Endric heaved a sigh of relief as he sat.

"Did you really take everything?" Husarius questioned.

"I did... I met all the conditions for taking them out of their hands so the ability worked fine," Endric replied.

"That's up to thirty two eggs?" Husarius inquired.

"With the addition of the two I initially acquired, thirty five. Maybe I shouldn't have intercepted them till they made use of a designated point," Endric muttered.

"No this was the best option... They are of different planetary groups so they wouldn't have headed to the same designated points since they most likely don't trust each other," Husarius disagreed.

"You're right... I should distance myself more from here in the meantime till big brother sends the link," Endric muttered.

#####

"Young Adventurer, we thank you for protecting our town. Here is our token of appreciation for your humble deed,"

Within what looked like a town square with multiple icy buildings in view, a figure that looked like one of the handlers could be seen passing an orange colored egg to a beautiful looking figure with a purplish headtie covering her forehead.

The figure nodded while accepting the egg before tapping on a button behind her left ear.

Zing~

The egg disappeared in the next instant and she turned around to leave while the others in the vicinity, ranging from children to adults clapped for her.

Elevora soon found herself outside the icy town and when she turned around, a mist suddenly enveloped its entirety and it disappeared.

"The tasks might not be very difficult but they are very time taking," Elevora mumbled as she turned back around.

"Three eggs acquired in six days seems a bit slow... Should I try searching for other towns like this to complete tasks or should I search for possible locations where eggs are stored?" Elevora paused as she stared in every direction.

What had just happened a while ago was amongst the things Handler one mentioned.

Besides searching for eggs underground, one could look for these misty towns with icy buildings and receive a task from the town chief.

Once this task was completed, under the conditions that no native was harmed, the chief would pass an egg to the person who completed the task.

Elevora had found three different towns in the last six days, completed the tasks given and acquired three eggs so far.

She only felt it was too time taking and was contemplating on finding a different means of acquiring the eggs.

Fwwhwisssh~

Her eyes suddenly widened as she stepped towards the left speedily, escaping a red beam that shot from behind her.

Booom!

The red beam slammed into a frosted mountain up ahead ripping a massive hole straight through its center as it came crumbling down in the next moment.

Elevora turned around at this point, spotting the source of the attack.

"I won't miss next time so I suggest you hand over the eggs you have acquired,"

The voice of a cone shaped being with humanoid hands and a head sized hole in it's chest rang out.

'An Oxlrkik....' Elevora instantly identified the alien who also happened to be a participant.

"Why don't you come and take it... if you can," Elevora eyes dropped as her body began to emit intense purplish fog like energy.

"Looks like I will have to encourage you forcefully to relinquish them and you will sorely come to regret it," The hole in the Oxlrkik chest suddenly gleamed intensely with a deadly red glow.

Thhiiiiihnnnnnn~

A destructive red beam shot forth from it, causing the air to tremble as it arrived before Elevora.

Fwwhiii!

Elevora instantly leapt into the air, dodging the beam which ripped straight through another icy mountain up ahead, causing its collapse.

Fwwosshhshh~

Her figure sped forward the instant she escaped the attack, leaving a trail of purple along the air.

Swwhiii~

Arriving behind the Oxlrkik, Her palm swung down intensely but before it made contact with the participant, a hole appeared on its back.

Thiiiiinnnnnhhh~

Another destructive red beam shot out from the back of the Oxlrkik hitting Elevora at point blank range.

Boooomm!

"Fool!" The Oxlrkik metallic voice rang out after the destructive beam hit but in the next instant, it's one eye widened.

Sshisshhhh~

As the beam thinned out, Elevora could be seen floating in mid air behind the Oxlrkik unscathed. The purplish aura her figure emitted slowly reduced in intensity.

"Howdi..."

Bang!

Elevora fist slammed into his back before he could completely utter a word sending powerful shockwaves across the vicinity as the Oxlrkik body was sent hurling across the air.

#####

"Hmm? Is that a designated point?" Gustav wondered out loud as he ascended a frosted mountain.

Chapter 1185 Boosting Life Signs Tracking

"Hmm? Is that a designated point?" Gustav wondered out loud as he ascended a frosted mountain.

There was nothing in view besides the frozen mountain top and other mountains in the vicinity.

However, due to Gustav's perception which traveled far beyond his current position, he was already picking up on something up ahead.

The instant he arrived at the summit of this mountain top, a space in between four mountains positioned on the north, south, east and west respectively could be spotted.

A ten feet tall machine shaped like an upside down funnel with a hole at the top could be spotted in the space.

Upon closer look, one could see seven spherical shaped slots on its surface as well and these slots were each the size of an egg.

Gustav stood in place for a bit, scouting the vicinity for any other participants that may be around, before leaping forward.

Thoooooomm~

As Gustav's body sped across the air towards the designated point, his right arm transformed.

Dhrrikkk~

Tusk like horns protruded from his forearm as his entire arm turned reddish and bulged intensely, becoming muscular.

Gustav swung his fist downwards as he descended.

Booomm!

The icy ground caved in, sending a powerful charge across the vicinity as Gustav's fist collided with it.

"Kiaaahhhh!"

"Ahhhh!"

Loud screams rang out in the next instant as frost and ice particles blasted across the place. The four frosted mountains on the sides quake intensely as parts of them came crumbling down.

As the fog died down a massive crater could be seen in the space between the mountains but surprisingly the machine at the designated point remained unaffected.

A blueish barrier could be seen surrounding it as it floated in place, unaffected by the destroyed icy ground.

Gustav's figure floated right beside it. He stared down at the bottom of the crater where two figures with massive three feet long horns protruding from the middle of their scalp could be spotted.

[Gravitational Manipulation Has Been Activated]

A powerful gravitational force suddenly descended upon the place, pinning both figures to the bottom of the three hundred feet deep crater before they could make any move.

Blood could be seen spilling out of their mouths and eyes but Gustav didn't stop, instead he increased the Gravitational Force by a notch, causing bone cracking sounds to ring out.

"St...up..."

"Pl...ixx..."

Both participants tried to speak but Gustav eyes remained unsympathetic as he stretched his hand downwards.

Thiiiiizzzzh!!!

More cracks appeared at the bottom of the crater, burrying the figures of these two aliens deeper within.

In the next few seconds, they had both stopped struggling.

Gustav's expression eased up as he confirmed that they had truly passed out. He deactivated Gravitational Manipulation and hover in the next instant.

Bam!

His figure landed before them both and he stared at their unconscious bodies.

("Fortunately you took them out before they could activate their abilities,") The system voiced in Gustav's mind.

"Yeah the Hixtoses are really something when they are given the chance to use their strength," Gustav sighed in relief as he crouched before them.

The two who were right in front of him were representatives of planet Hixtos. A species Gustav considered formidable.

They had been lying in wait for anyone or group that would arrive at this designated point to turn in eggs.

Unfortunately for them, Gustav had spotted them at the same time he picked up on the machine in the designated point.

Gustav grabbed both their horns after tampering with his Dimemsional Bracelet.

Zhiiiiinnnn~

In the next few seconds, a bright blue light encapsulated both their figures and they vanished. Gustav stood to his feet once more after successfully sending them away.

[Partial Kilapisole Transformation Has Been Activated]

Gustav's skin turned greenish as he bloated a little.

Thooompp!

His stamped his left foot on the ground and in the next instant, icicle like spikes began protruding from the edges of the crater.

These spikes were so densely merged as they shot out of the ground, that there was barely any space left between them.

A wall was soon formed and from a wall the iro silk continued to grow higher and curve till the entire vicinity was covered like a cage.

The designated point had now been barricaded from the outside by Gustav.

[Hover Has Been Activated]

Gustav floated upwards, arriving before the ten feet tall machine that was suspended in the air.

"Its been almost seven days since the Viondur Egg Challenge began... its time i called them here," Gustav muttered as he stared at the machine.

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

[Life Signs Tracking Has Been Activated]

Gustav shut his eyes at this point.

[^_^/^^-^]

[■□○●□ | ■□○●□]

[_/_]...

Multiple life signs began to appear in Gustav's mind which he picked out one after the other.

Once they were up to twenty Gustav opened his eyes once again.

"SJ," He mumbled.

Zing~

The Sacred Jewel appeared beside him in the next instant and Gustav didn't need to utter another word before it understood what it needed to do.

Zzhiiinnnn~

The sacred jewel emitted a bright flourescent light from its surface.

Gustav felt a stream of energy flow into his being as he connected with the sacred jewel and his mind split into twenty one different sections.

While his eyes were open, Gustav could see twenty one different locations all at the same time.

"It worked," Gustav muttered as he observed twenty out of the twenty locations since one of them was his current location.

"Guys... can you hear me?" Gustav voiced.

#####

"It's difficult fighting with this thing lodged in my shoulder but I guess I'll survive," Teemee voiced as he kicked the massive white head of a creature away.

"Quite whining, it's your fault you got injured in the first place," Glade responded without a shred of sympathy.

"I should have let it hit you," Teemee stated in regret as he watched Glade pull a Neon colored egg from the ice.

"Yeah yeah just don't pull it out so we don't get blown to smithereens," Glade voiced before keeping the egg in her storage button.

"That belongs to us earthlings," A loud voice drew their attention as they quickly turned towards the east.

"No it doesn't. We got here first," Glade stated.

"Xionsis," Teemee muttered.

e1--coM "Hand it over earthlings," The three transparent skinned figures with whitish heads approached them while coming out of a cave up ahead.

"it is..."

"Don't bother," Teemee stopped Glade before she could speak.

"Do they look like they wanna reason to you? The only way out of this is to fight," Teemee voiced as his entire figure was suddenly engulfed in a reddish glow.

Glade expression turned serious as her figure glowed up like Teemee's.

- "What is this? Matching pyjamas?"

- "Hahaha!"

-- "You earthlings are too cocky for your own good!"

All three Xionsis charged forward in the next instant.

The first one swirled like a raging tornado forming a scarlet storm in an instant while the other two that followed behind caused the grounds on the side to decay and cave in.

"They manipulate nature, be careful," Teemee voiced.

"I kno..." Before Glade could complete her sentence, a giant thorny vine phased out of the icy ground behind her and wrapped around her figure.

Fwwwheiii~

It flung raised her entire figure upwards in the next instant before slamming her into a mountain, hundreds of feet away.

Bang!

At this same instant, Teeme had leaped away from the isolated icy platform he was standing on which only had caved in grounds around.

Fwwhii~

As his figure traveled across the air towards one of the Xionsis, the raging scarlet tornado suddenly increased in size and began pulling him in.

"I might need something bigger," Teemee muttered as the reddish glow surrounding his figure increased intensely.

Fwwwwhoomm~

A gaint reddish figure was formed around him, increasing his size by ten times as he flew into the scarlet tornado with a massive red club forming in his grasp.

In the next instant a loud blast reverberated across the vicinity and with it came a painful cry.

"Arrrrghhhh!"

A figure was sent flying out of the scarlet tornado which cleared up in the next couple of moments revealing Teemee within.

Bang!

At the same instant Teemee landed on his feet with his massive reddish figure encapsulating beam, two robust vines shot towards him from the sides.

The club dissappeared as Teemee stretched both his arms out and caught the vines but once he did, the third Xionsis had conjured up gigantic hails which began descending upon his figure from above.

Fwwhwiiii~

A red axe suddenly cut through the air from behind, cleaving both vines in half and freeing Teemee.

The instant Teemee was free he leapt backwards, dodging some gigantic hails that landed on his initial spot.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Glade figure suddenly shot forward from the mountain which was hundreds of feet away with glowing red eyes and armor surrounding her figure.

Thiiiiinnnnnnhhhhh~

A reddish castle materialised from nothing above one of the Xionsis and Glade landed atop it with force, causing it to descend powerfully.

Booom!

Chapter 1186 Show Off

Thiiiiinnnnnnhhhhh~

A reddish castle materialised from nothing above one of the Xionsis and Glade landed atop it with force, causing it to descend powerfully.

Booom!

Shockwaves spread across the vicinity upon delivering this destructive blow which caused the icy grounds to crack and give way once more.

Fwwhii! Fwwhii!

Teemee was busy dodging the descent of the gigantic hails when he suddenly leapt into the air and kicked one in the direction of the Xionsi chasing him.

Bang!

"Guys... can you hear me?"

Glade and Teemee suddenly froze as they heard a familiar voice in their minds.

"Gustav!?"

They yelled out at the same time.

"Glade, Teemee, you two seem to be in a pinch... do you need help?" Gustav questioned.

"Nah we'll take care of these clowns in a few," Teemee replied.

Immediately after Teemee finished saying that, the entire iceland vicinity began to quake intensely.

The whole environment turned dark as storms gathered intensely and heavy winds whooshed.

Krrrrrrychhhh!

Icicles began to appear from the ground and tornados formed very quickly as massive ball like flames appeared in the skies as well.

Up ahead, one of the Xionsis could be spotted stretching forth his hand with a bloodied face and glowing silver eyes.

"You won't be taking care of anything," He yelled out.

The instant the other two Xionsis noticed what their teammate was doing, their eyes widened with distress.

"Uzeki stop!" They both yelled out but Uzeki ignored their cries of concern.

They were well aware of how much toll it took on their bodies when they made use of their sway force to control multiple weather conditions at the same time.

Both Xionsis had sustained damage as well after taking the attacks of Glade and Teemee but they were able to quickly turn into tornadoes themselves and escape the range of weather extremities.

Glade and Teemee had been caught up in these weather extremities. They tried to find a way to escape but they had been completely surrounded by storm's.

Icicles shooting out of the ground intensely, tornados ripping at them from every corner, hailstorm getting shot out from every angle with so much force that would easily rip a hole through ten persons stacked together.

The descending rain of flames as well as the cackling dark clouds up above didn't make matters any better.

Teemee had leapt off the ground a bit and got caught up by tornados pulling him from every corner as hails shot towards him and icicles potruled out of the icy ground beneath.

Even if he and Glade managed to counter some of the attacks physically, he was well aware that they couldn't counter everything. The massive red glowing figure surrounding his figure couldn't act as defense to everything.

"Looks like i have no other choice," Teemee muttered as the red figure surrounding him like a body of armor shrunk.

Thiiiiinnnnhhh~

In the next instant what could be seen was a reddish glow on Teemee's chest as icicles were only inches from penetrating him while Glade was doing her best to counter the ones around her physically.

"Recalibration... Speed up," The moment he muttered these words the reddish light spread forth from his figure once more, turning into a dome that surrounded him.

The moment the icicles and hailstones made contact with the reddish dome after its little expansion, they turned into liquid.

Splash!

Teemee's face was doused with a shower of water after they all transformed.

"Expand!" Teemee yelled.

Fwwwwhiiiiiii~

The dome suddenly expanded from surrounding just his figure to the entire vicinity of more than a thousand feet.

As the icicles and hailstones phased through the dome, they turned into liquid immediately.

However, this wasn't the only change as the tornados turned into mild breeze and flames descending turned to small candle lights before getting snuffed out.

The lightning bolt that descended upon the dome, turned into a little electric streak that didn't cause any damage as well.

The ground beneath had transformed into a stream as no form of ice could be spotted below.

"What!?" Uzeki eyes widened in shock as he noticed the transformation everything that made contact with the dome underwent.

The reddish dome was still spreading across the place and was only a couple of feet away from the Xionsis.

"Run!"

The other two Xionsis fled as they spotted it while Uzeki remained in place with a defeated look.

"Uzeki! You fool run!" One of the Xionsis turned around as they noticed he was still standing in place.

However it was too late... Uzeki's entire figure was enshrouded by the reddish dome in the next instant before it stopped spreading.

"Kiaarrrrrrhhhhhh!"

A loud scream reverberated across the vicinity in the next moment.

-

"Show off," Glade voiced while staring in Teemee's direction as she stood on the surface of the stream with red glows on her feet.

"I recall you saying you didn't want this power. Blame your shortsightedness," Teemee shrugged.

"Hmph! Anyways lets go somewhere secure to talk with Gustav," Glade stated before turning to the side.

"Yeah, this battle is over," Teemee replied before his entire body glowed up once more.

Fwwhiiii! Fhwwwiiii!

They both sped forward in the next instant, leaving afterimages as they dissappeared into the distance.

Meanwhile on a part of the battle zone, a scrawny looking naked figure with transparent skin and white head could be seen floating on a body of water.

His entire skin looked pale and saggy, almost like this participant suddenly aged by fifty years.

"Uzeki!" One of the Xionsis yelled with a look of horror.

#####

"Alright since everyone is now attentive... I've connected you all to my mind and location, can you sense it?" Gustav voiced as he floated beside a machine.

-"I can sense what direction to head in,"

-"Same here,"

-" Man this is nuts haha its like having comms,"

- "Except for the fact that we can also sense what direction to head in and how far away we are,"

Aldris, Falco, E.E, Endric and the others answered as a conversation ensued between Gustav and everyone.

"Teemee, Glade, did you handle your issue? I saw Xionsis," Gustav inquired.

- "Yeah we're good now,"

- "They came looking for trouble and we handled it,"

Both of them answered simultaneously.

This made Gustav recall what he heard upon his entry into the portal that led him here.

The voice sounded like they bore a grudge with him and now Gustav couldn't help but think it might have been one of the Xionsis.

"Be careful," Gustav warned.

- "It's fine really. Although it got dangerous, we took care of it," Teemee replied.

"I can see you guys are headed down some kind of canyon," Gustav voiced.

- "Yeah we wanted to get as far away as possible from our initial location," Glade responded.

- "The last week has been really crazy man,"

- "At the very least I and E.E arrived at the same location together,"

- "We all definitely need to gather and move as a team as soon as we can. Other groups are finding their way to each other as well,"

The others spoke as well after Glade's confirmation.

Gustav could see each and everyone of them as they journeyed with speed in the direction they were supposed to. Fortunately, no one was currently getting accosted by trouble.

"Alright... I'll give everyone visuals in a few on how my current location looks as well as the rest of you so you guys can be aware if anyone of you is closeby," Gustav said before turning to the sacred jewel.

It's gleaming body reduced in brightness as it turned completely mirror like in the next instant.

On its curcular surface, every single participant current location was displayed as a footage with split sections.

- "Yo is that Elevora?"

- "I can see Glade tail,"

- "Why does everyone seem to be in different locations,"

- "You bastards better have eggs with you because I've been gathering some as well,"

They voiced out one after the other as a projection of the sacred jewel appeared in each of their locations, displaying the others as well as Gustav like a screen.

Since the sacred jewel was also linked to them, no matter how fast or how far they moved, its projection would still follow.

"Guys guys, focus," Gustav called everyone's attention back to him causing them to keep quiet.

"In the next couple of hours, we would have spent a week on the fourth disk. You know what this means," Gustav voiced out.

- "The screens displaying the current scores from the Viondur Challenge will appear," Endric seemed to instantly figure out what Gustav was talking about.

"Precisely," Gustav replied.

- "I'm not following, do you want us to arrive before it does?" Abestos questioned.

- "I don't think that is even possible," Phinx stated.

- "Yeah and even if it is, I don't think its what Gustav's wants," Matilda added.

"It isn't... Do you guys know what will happen once the current scores are released and everyone is aware of the planets that have acquired one or more Viondur eggs?" Upon Gustav's mention of this, Aildris face beamed up.

"Ohhh now i see what you're getting at," Aildris stated.

Chapter 1187 Creating A Viondur Egg

Upon Gustav's mention of this, Aildris face beamed up.

- "Ohhh now i see what you're getting at," Aildris stated.

- "The groups at the top will most likely become a target," Endric voiced before Aildris could.

"Exactly. It's best you all take your time so the scoreboards can put the targets on the others back while we get to move freely around for the next one week till another scoreboard screen gets displayed," Gustav voiced lengthily.

- "Sounds like a great plan. If none of us have made use of any designated point to create a Viondur egg, we should appear at the bottom of the scoreboard. No rank, no target," Aildris stated.

- "But what about the week after when a new scoreboard appears?" Teemee questioned.

"At the very least only a week will be left till the challenge ends... We'll cross that bridge when we get there," Gustav replied.

The group saw sense in Gustav's plan but at the same time they wondered if anyone else had thought about it.

Gustav at this point already had all seven colors of eggs in his possession but chose not to place them in the machine slot yet because of his plan.

Another reason Gustav was eager to see the scoreboard was so he could make some calculations. Handler one had mentioned that there were a limited number of eggs that could form the Viondur Egg on the fourth disk.

Gustav wanted to confirm how many was left and make proper plans on how his group would acquire enough to be at the top of the scoreboard next time.

Now all he had to do was wait.

#####

"Are you okay?"

Angy opened her eyes to see the concerned faces of some MBO members in medical outfits.

"Hmm?" She mumbled with a drowsy look as her vision slowly cleared.

Her eyes suddenly widened as she recalled something, "How long was I out?"

Angy suddenly sprang up from the bed as she inquired.

"Relax officer, your wellbeing is the priority right now," A familiar voice resounded as a man in silver MBO outfit and a gem embedded in the middle of his forehead walked in.

"Grand commander Shion," Angy muttered, "Did the Viondur Egg Challenge begin yet?"

"It began nearly a week ago. You've been out since," Another familiar voice replied her instead of the Grand Commander.

"Miss Aimee," Angy voiced with a respectful but disheartened expression.

"You don't need to feel down. You did well and I'm sure they will as well. Just focus on recovery so you can join the main team in the next Challenge," Miss Aimee replied as she approached the bed.

"sigh I've let them down by not being available..." Angy head lowered as she voiced out.

"They will survive," Miss Aimee replied, "They're not doing bad at the moment,"

"I want to watch," Angy tried standing to her feet but suddenly felt a wave of drowsiness.

Miss Aimee caught her before she could fall and slowly let her down to the bed.

"Wait till you recover fully first," She stated after letting Angy go.

"The power you used was no ordinary one... The toll it took on your body was quite severe," One of the MBO officers in medical outfits announced.

Truly no one had ever seen such an ability used by a mixedblood, especially one at the Kilo rank. They were still at awe even though it had been seven days already.

'Well it was to be expected since I wasn't supposed to use it till I broke through to the Delta rank,' Angy thought as she laid on the bed with a slightly tired expression.

"You would still be unconscious if not for Officer Crimson," Another one of them mentioned.

"Hmm? How so?" Angy of course was happy to hear Gustav's name but she was also curious as to what he did.

#####

Tissssshhh~ Tissssshhh~ Tissssshhh~ Tissssshhh~

Screens began to appear in the sky all over the fourth disk.

Gustav stared at the one in the sky within his region with a calculative look.

1. Planet Draconet - 4 Viondur Eggs > 1600 points

2. Planet Xillion - 4 Viondur Eggs > 1600 points

3. Planet Ozious - 3 Viondur Eggs > 1200 points

4. Planet Tribete - 3 Viondur Eggs > 1200 points

5. Planet Hixto - 2 Viondur Eggs > 800 points

6. Planet Diov - 2 Viondur Eggs > 800 points

7. Planet Osiris - 2 Viondur Eggs > 800 points

8. Planet Oxlrk - 2 Viondur Eggs > 800 points

9. Planet Ghundabault - 2 Viondur Eggs > 800 points

10. Planet Indulus Prime - 2 Viondur Eggs > 800 points

11. Planet Klaxosape - 2 Viondur Eggs > 800 points

...

Gustav stared at the top hundred planets on the screens that displayed the scoreboard. Everyone of them had at least two Viondur Eggs while the ones below a hundred and one had one each.

From the lower three hundreds, the other planets had not managed to get a single Viondur egg and unsurprisingly earth was in the top eight hundreds.

Gustav nodded in satisfaction as he took note of the stats.

The planets he expected to be at the top were precisely the planets that were currently at the top.

The screens displaying the scoreboard remained up there for about two minutes before they disappeared. At this time Gustav had already calculated the number of eggs left that were required to create a Viondur egg.

"Fortunately around eight thousand, four hundred eggs required for the creation of the Viondur Eggs are still unclaimed," Gustav muttered.

("Which means 1200 Viondur Eggs can still be created,") The system inputted.

"Yes but if we were to subtract the number of those who haven't gotten their Eggs to a designated point yet, that number would be lesser," Gustav voiced with a contemplative expression.

("In other words in the next one week there is a high probability eggs would no longer be available,") The system added.

"Indeed... The winner would practically be decided so the last week would just be groups trying to rob other groups of their Viondur Eggs so they can rank higher on the scoreboard," Gustav reckoned that the second week would decide things.

The last week would just be a dangerous one where groups with high ranks get hunted and chased.

'I'll have to come up with a plan for the last week,' Gustav thought as he tapped his storage button.

An holographic tray where three feet large eggs could be spotted, appeared in his line of sight.

Gustav tapped on them and the eggs appeared in physical form.

[Gravitational Manipulation Has Been Activated]

The eggs floated around Gustav and he proceeded to pick them one after the other, slotting them into the machine in front of him.

...Violet, Indigo, Orange, Neon, Dark red, Ultramarine, Raisin Black...

Gustav placed the eggs with these colors into the machine and waited.

Thiiiiinnnnhhhhhh~

It suddenly glowed up intensely with a spectrum of colors and chimed softly a few times before a loud popping sound rang out.

Poooh!

A milky white egg with golden circular stripes shot out of the hole atop the machine in the next instant.

Gustav reached out and grabbed the egg which was the size of a human head. The circular golden stripes around it gave off a mystical glow as Gustav inspected it.

"So this is a Viondur egg... it almost feels like it has other uses besides just being the acquisition goal of a competition," Gustav muttered as he activated God Eyes.

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

Tik!

"Hngh!" Gustav exclaimed in pain as he felt a sharp stab in his eyes the instant he tried to see through the egg.

"A protective energy..." Gustav deactivated God Eyes while muttering.

("Kinda suspicious,") The system voiced.

"I agree but I'm not curious to the point where I'd jeopardise our acquisition of a Viondur Eggs so I won't poke any further... for now," Gustav decided as he kept the Viondur egg away.

He still had about three other required colors for creating a Viondur egg but four more were needed before he could use the machine at this designated point again.

He wanted to wait for his teammates to arrive before sourcing for more of these colored eggs but from what he could sense, the closest teammate to his location would still take at least 120 hours to get here.

The fourth disk was just too massive and they were unlucky to have spawned very far away. To Gustav this was still favourable because at the very least everyone would manage to get here before the second week ended.

If they had spawned farther than this, there was even a possibility, they wouldn't meet up till the challenge ended.

In the meantime, Gustav had decided he would gather more eggs and he expected the others to do the same as well while they were on their way here.

<Dimensional Travel Will Commence In...>

<...3...>

<...2...>

Gustav had already picked a checkpoint and decided to leave the Sacred Jewel here till he returned.

<...1...>

Zing!

A flash of bluelight enveloped his figure and he vanished in the next moment.

Gustav reappeared before a flaming frosted tree in the next instant. Up ahead he could spot another familiar looking cave.

Chapter 1188 Level Five Frost Raikin

Gustav reappeared before a flaming frosted tree in the next instant. Up ahead he could spot another familiar looking cave.

This was one he already looted so he didn't bother going in. Instead he turned to another direction before heading forward.

"Since these flaming trees that don't get consumed signify checkpoints for areas with caves possessing the same colors of eggs, there's no point in checking the other caves," Gustav was well aware that he would find the same eggs colors he got from this cave earlier which was still in his possession.

He needed other colors so he had to leave this area.

Fwwwwhooommm~

Gustav leapt into the air and dissappeared from sight in the next instant.

#####

"That is exactly why I have come here. The leaders of the alliance need to be warned," Within the seating area of earth's spectators Miss Aimee voiced out.

"Are you sure? For such a claim, proof is needed or no one would be willing to take your word for it," Grand Commander Shion responded.

"The eye that appeared is enough proof. They will be idiots to not believe that something is coming," Miss Aimee spat with a straight expression.

"They could come up with a number of things to counter that and not take it as an actual threat. Even though you have myself and the earth backing your claim, there are still more than a hundred other planets in the alliance and four other alliance leaders..." Grand Commander Shion shook his head.

He preferred it if they just dealt with the situation themselves instead of bringing the alliance into it but Miss Aimee claimed that she sensed the threat would be greater than what earth could handle themselves.

She also added that it probably wouldn't be a threat to earth alone but didn't reveal that Gustav's claims was the reason she believed the threat would be universal.

If she mentioned Gustav even though she trusted him, they would be even more unwilling to listen to her due to his age.

She knew she would only get an audience due to her strength and prestige.

"I will make them listen... it is for their sakes as well," Miss Aimee folded her arms and shut her eyes at this point.

'I could destroy the first to twelfth layer of this planet easily and I can't sense any existence here that is remotely a threat to me yet... that eye...' Miss Aimee couldn't help but recall the eye.

She really felt like a small entity compared to just a single organ... It was nerve racking.

'These fools better take it seriously,' Miss Aimee was well self aware that she wouldn't usually care about such but then Gustav was also involved as well as the wellbeing of their galaxy so she had to care.

#####

Swwoosshhh~

A massive frosty looking snake like creature blasted out from the icy ground, ascending with speed into the sky.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

Explosions and sounds of heavy collisions rang out as well as the ground blasted open wider and multiple participants flew out of it.

"Don't let it get away!" One of them yelled as they shot a flurry of attacks towards the flying frosty looking colossal snake creature.

Despite these participants representing different planets, they seemed to be working together in combating this creature.

Twwoosshhh!

One of them vanished and appeared right in front of the creature.

Twwiiah! Twwhiiah! Twwwiiah!

Multiple pieces of massive frosted objects appeared right above the creature and began to fall.

The frosty looking creature wriggled its way across the air, dodging most of the projectiles. It proceeded to wrap its tail around some of them and hurled it in the direction of the chasing participants.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Attacks coming from the participants giving chase, overwhelmed the hurled projectiles and some of them were close to hitting the creature when it suddenly turned around.

"Raaarrhrrrrh!"

The instant it opened its mouth to roar, heavy whitish flames shot forth from it.

"Kiarrrrhrrrrh!"

Some of the participants yelled as their bodies turned to frost and received grievous injuries.

The frost was beyond coldness. Even the air froze and a thick wall of ice had built from the ground to the sky spreading across the vicinity.

Bang!

The creature slammed its tail into the participant that initially appeared before it, causing her to spin across the air before slamming into the wall of ice and getting impaled.

Puuchii~

- "That thing is really stronger than the ones I've faced so far,"

- "At this point it might get away with the eggs in its belly,"

Some of the uninjured participants complained as they watched it fly away.

However, at this moment one of them who had black wraps of clothes covering his entire body like a mummy, blasted through the wall of ice.

Boom!

A trail of darkness followed his figure as he chased after the creature. The other participants who were uninjured didn't want to miss the opportunity so they flew through the hole he left in the wall of ice, chasing right after him.

Fwwhiisssh~

The cloak of the dark figure flapped repeatedly as he dashed across the air, catching up to the creature in a couple of moments.

"Rarrhhh!"

The colossal creature shot out another massive flames of ice but the dark figure reacted by forming a blade of darkness and cleaving forward with intensity.

Bang! Fwwhiii!

A star of darkness formed as the blade grew in size and kept slicing through the flames of ice till the creature ran out of breath.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

The other behind began attacking the creature as all sorts of attacks were shot forward but it managed to evade most of them. Sustaining only a little bit of damage.

Thrrrihhh~

The dark blade in the figure's grasp transformed into a massive bow which he held forward while flying.

The participant aimed it at the creature and fired a giant arrow of darkness that multiplied into threee.

Swwhii~ Swwhii~

The creature happened to be very fast so it managed to dodge two out of the dark arrows but the third was angled in such a way that it would undeniable hit the back of its massive head.

With the intensity at which the dark arrows ripped through the air, the last arrow would most likely pierce through the skull of the creature from behind.

At the last instant, the creature suddenly turned its neck to face the incoming dark arrow and opened its mouth wide.

It's icicle like teeth were revealed for a split second which came crashing to a close just as the tip of the dark arrow went in a little.

Bang!

It caught the dark arrow in between its teeth and got blasted backwards for thousands of feet in the air due to the powerful force but it held it tightly in between its teeth.

The creature spun after stopping in mid air before spitting it away.

The dark figure wasn't the only shocked participant here, the others were in disbelief as well seeing how the creature managed to escape such an onslaught with little to no damage.

However in the next instant their eyes widened even more....

Thissshh!

A lightning streak suddenly appeared in front of the creature and with that came a thirty feet long milky colored blade that was already descending upon its head.

Screeevv! Bang!

A loud sound of collision reverberated across the vicinity as the milky colored glowing blade cleaved through three feet of the creature's head.

It's entire body was sent hurling downwards due to the force from the blade after it met with resistance upon cutting three feet deep.

"Raaarrrrhhhh!" The creature roared again but this time it was in pain as it made contact with the icy ground beneath.

Booom!

The figure that the lightning streak transformed into, shot downwards with intense speed, phasing through the mouth of the creature.

The Frost Raisin realised its doom an instant later and quickly churned out a pillar of frost to force out the figure that had just infiltrated its mouth.

However, this was to no avail as it felt a force tugging against its belly from within after a few moments.

Booom!

A loud explosion rang out few seconds later and the creature's belly was blasted right through.

A glowing milky figure radiating with steam flew out of the torn belly with three eggs in his grasp.

One Indigo colored, the second was dark red and the last was completely black.

[You Have Killed A Level 5 Frost Raisin]

Gustav stared at the notification that appeared in his line of sight for a moment before flying upwards.

"Hey that doesn't..." One of the participants was about to voice out when Gustav flung the completely black egg in the direction of the cloaked figure.

The cloaked figure caught the dark egg with a curious looking eyes which was the only part of his body that was exposed.

"Thanks for keeping it busy... the distraction was all I needed for my attack to be successful," After saying this...

Chapter 1189 There Is Something Down There

"Thanks for keeping it busy... the distraction was all I needed for my attack to be successful," After saying this...

Thrrraahhhzzz~

Gustav's figure turned into a streak of lightning and he disappeared from sight instantly.

-"Hey ho..."

-"He's gone,"

Everything happened so fast, Gustav was already long gone before the other participants could try to stop him.

"You can't have that, its only fair you give it to me since I contributed a great deal to this battle," One of the participants voiced while pointing at the cloaked figure.

"No, I am the one who deserves it. I did more," Another participant stated.

"You fools didn't even come close to me,"

They soon began arguing on who should take the egg.

"You'll have to get it from me first," The cloaked figure voiced with a raspy tone before flying off.

The participants tried to chase but soon discovered just how fast he was. A dark streak was left in his wake as he sped away.

#####

Thrrriihhh!

Gustav reappeared in a different location after using lightning blitz five times. He was now more than eight hundred miles away from his initial location yet it had only been a second.

Zing! Zing!

He kept both eggs in his storage button as he decided on which direction to head in next.

The initial battle with the level five Frost Raikin was one he stalked since it began. Gustav had watched the creature swallow up the eggs which caused the participants to give chase.

He patiently waited and hid himself far from the battle scene before appearing at a crucial moment when he was sure his attack would hit.

The level five Frost Raikin was very evasive which was why it stayed alive for that long despite the multiple onslaught from the participants.

Gustav could already tell that there would be higher levels of Frost Raikins but this wouldn't stop him for searching for more eggs.

"Two more to go," Gustav muttered.

He only needed two more required colors of eggs to complete the set and make another Viondur Egg.

After deciding on which direction to head in Gustav flew forward with immense speed.

Swwwooooovvvv!

#####

"Siva have you gotten it?" Within a forest region filled with frosted looking trees, a figure with six limbs and star shaped green marks all over her face questioned.

-"Not yet, assistant captain... We have company," A voice responded in her mind.

"How long would it take to deal with a bunch of riff raffs and take just a single egg?" The female referred to as assistant caption voiced with an irritated tone.

Around here were a bunch of participants who looked similar to her but their star shaped marks bore different colors.

- "Maybe the company they have are really strong,"

- "We should have sent Fudor with them,"

Two of the six others around her commented.

- "One of them is an earthling... won't be easy to handle," Siva voice resounded in their minds once more.

Just when the assistant captain was about to speak, a voice butted in.

"Deal with the company and bring back that egg. I do not care if there is an earthling there or not. Take care of it,"

A figure approaching with about eight others appeared from up ahead.

"Captain Strum," The assistant captain stated with a tone of respect.

"There 's four of you there, don't embarrass our great planet. Deal with the situation," Captain Strum commanded.

-"Understood captain!"

Multiple voices answered in their minds.

Captain Strum arrived before his assistant with the eight around him, bringing their group to sixteen in the number.

"We must remain the leading team," Captain Strum voiced, "Ostril, let's wait till they arrive with the egg," He added.

They all nodded in response despite the captain mentioning only the assistant captain's name.

The Draconets had so much advantage over other planets since they had found a way to arrive at the same location together from the moment they entered the fourth disk.

They also had the ability to communicate with each other using their minds. Due to being together with all of these perks from the start, they gained an upperhand which they made use of well to become number one in the Viondur challenge.

The Draconets were already one of the most powerful forces in the competition, moving together to acquire eggs made them even more challenging considering other participants they met would barely have more than two or three as a group.

It was very easy to overpower others and claim eggs for themselves.

In another location, a group of participants could be seen treading across a massive ice platform high in the sky.

This ice platform was shaped like a floating tower and there happened to be entrances within.

Bang!

A golden beam slammed into a part of the massive icy floating platform causing it to tremble slightly but it seemed to have missed a dark figure who was speeding across the surface.

A massive dark claw extended from this figure and swiped downwards with intensity.

Bam!

it slammed into the source of the beam which was another participant.

"Kiaarrh!"

The participant cried out as they fell from the platform towards the ground in the distance.

"They are mine," The dark figure voiced out as he stood on the floating platform, undisturbed by gravitational laws.

Fwwhiii~

Multiple attacks were sent forth from below in the next instant, causing the figure to dash into one of the entrances on this floating icy platform.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

The entire platform trembled once more at impact, yet it was barely damaged due to its massive size. Although they were already multiple holes all across it.

- 'My idiot liege, it's time you stopped playing fair and kill the bastards who dare to oppose you,'

"Shut it," The dark figure who had an ominous looking black star on his forehead yelled as he leapt upwards.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

He broke through multiple floors of ice within the massive floating ice tower as his body ascending to the peak.

The peak of this icy tower happened to be thinner than the rest of its lower parts. The instant the figure cloaked in the aura of darkness arrived there, the fog of darkness emitting from his being suddenly increased in intensity.

Swerving his hand in a circular motion, a sharp blade formed from the intense darkness slashed through the top of the ice tower.

It was like a cap had been formed as the figure placed himself within the space at the peak of the tower that had been separated from its lower part.

Massive hands formed from the darkness which held onto the cut off part from the ice tower before powerfully flinging the peak of the ice tower into the distance.

Fwwwwhiiiiiii~

The peak of the ice tower cut through the sky with intense speed with the dark figure within it. The strength at which it was catapulted into the sky, caused it to move at incredible speed, leaving the others behind unable to catch up.

"He got away!" One of the participants yelled with a look of dissatisfaction.

The others looked into the sky with expressions of annoyance as well but in the next instant...

Thooooommm~ Thooooom~ Thooooommm~ Thooooommm~

Four illusionary looking figures with multiple limbs, ascended into the sky. They were just as quick as the top of the ice tower if not quicker.

They soon dissappeared in the direction of the tower peak and dark figure in a second, leaving the rest of the participants astounded.

#####

|ReadNovelFull.com ("It's been two days already,") The system voiced in Gustav's mind.

"Yeah... at least I've managed to gather six eggs. Just one more needed to create another Viondur Egg," Gustav replied.

("Falco should be close to the designated point by now,") The system reminded.

"He would... I can sense that he is indeed close but then he should have gotten there like an hour ago," Gustav couldn't view them at the moment because he would have to tap into God Eyes again.

He didn't want to do that currently because of his present location.

("Maybe he got sidetracked,") The system stated.

"Yeah... well, so long as he is okay," Gustav mumbled as his eyes turned into slits.

"I gotta focus on this right now," He added as he arrived before the edge of a deep rift.

Sshshhhssshhh~

There was utter silence in the environment as Gustav stared down at what looked like a divide on the fourth disk.

It was so lengthy that the end of this rift on the ground couldn't be seen with the naked eyes. However, it wasn't only lengthy... it was also deep and wide.

It was like staring into the abyss as darkness was all that could be seen from the top. One also couldn't see where the land was supposed to continue beyond the ledge.

A spectrum of glowing colored lines were the only things that could be spotted in the distance. It was both an amazing and mind boggling sight at the same time.

"Anyone would think they have arrived at the edge of the fourth disk if they saw this," Gustav muttered.

("Indeed... however, you and I are aware that there is something down there,")

Chapter 1190 That Was Reckless

"Anyone would think they have arrived at the edge of the fourth disk if they saw this," Gustav muttered.

("Indeed... however, you and I are aware that there is something down there,") The system added.

"It is pretty deep though," Gustav eyes squinted.

There was no way to tell if anyone was down there from this height but Gustav's intuition told him there was definitely danger and fortune at the bottom or at least on the way to it.

"You're not telling me everything again, right?" Gustav said with a suspicious tone.

("Since you already know how things are why do you still bother asking?") The system retorted.

"Tch," Gustav proceeded to step forward at this point.

Fwwhiiii~

His body began to rapidly fall through the air into the depths of the unknown.

Surprisingly as he descended, the darkness had reduced due to the glowing lines which he occasionally phased through during his descent.

However, mist became visible upon further descent which become denser and denser, impairing visual capabilities.

The mist around him had become so dense that one couldn't even see their own body but Gustav's high perception made it so this wasn't a problem.

Ten thousand feet~

Twenty thousand feet~

Thirty thousand feet~

Forty thousand feet~

Fifty thousand feet~

It felt like Gustav had been falling for ages but he didn't wish to increase his speed just yet because he was unaware of what to expect.

Hundred thousand feet~

Hundred and ten thousand feet~

Hundred and twenty thousand feet~

Hundred and forty thousand feet~

Hundred and sixty thousand feet~

Two hundred thousand feet~

Three hundred thousand feet~

As Gustav continued to descend, he began to feel moist. Usually the dense fog was enough to make one feel moist but this was different.

lassshhh~

Gustav suddenly felt himself phase through a shower of liquid.

"Where did that come from?" He was still falling through the air so he was dumbfounded as to how liquid appeared in mid air.

As he fell further, he could feel drizzles on his body. His perception picked up on a floating waterfall far towards the east.

He was still very far from the bottom of wherever this led, yet a giant body of water was falling from midair.

Four hundred thousand feet~

Gustav kept falling but, the instant he crossed the two hundred thousand feet mark, he suddenly felt an intense pressure.

Thiiiihhhh!

His body began to fall faster like the gravitational laws had changed. An impending sense of danger assaulted his senses as his body got pulled further downwards.

He was falling four times faster than before...

At this point, Gustav finally decided to do something.

[Hover Has Been Activated]

His body paused in mid air, defying the unexpected change in gravitational force.

He could finally sense a kind of distortion thousands of feet below.

"There's something wrong there..." Gustav grabbed a snack from his storage space and dropped it.

Fwwhiiii~

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

His sight followed the snack as it dropped like a rock despite its small size.

When it reached the distance where Gustav sensed the distortion, the green colored snack turned monochrome before disappearing.

"Hmm?" Gustav could see that he hadn't gotten to the bottom of this place.

In fact, it seemed like he was still a far distance yet the snack dissappeared instead of continous descent.

Gustav dropped another after moving a couple of feet towards the right and the same thing happened.

("It's not transporting them to another dimension or anything,") The system voiced.

"Yeah I can tell... It doesn't give off any spatial energy. Whatever is down there instantly erased them from existence," Gustav muttered.

("Looks like you're not so dumb after all,") The system chuckled.

"Wind, fog, rain, nothing can get past that point... and we still haven't arrived at the bottom," Gustav added.

His perception picked this up due to the wind, water and fog disappearing the instant they crossed that particular juncture.

("What are you gonna do?") The system inquired.

"It's pretty simple... I can still see beyond that point so it means that even if it has the capacity to erase things from existence, wind, rain, fog... seeing through means, it is unable to erase light. Most likely cos light is too fast," Gustav voiced lengthily.

("You're not as fast as light though,") The system pointed out.

"True but I don't need to be that fast, I just need to be fast enough to move past that point before I get erased from existence. From the looks of things, its only a layer," Gustav explained.

("And do you know how fast you are meant to move or you're just gonna gamble with your live? I praised you too fast, you're still dumb,") The system stated with a tone of ridicule.

"The gamble of death brings a certain thrill, doesn't it?" A smirk appeared on Gustav's face.

("Uh no, I am uninterested in engaging in such foolishness. Find me another host if you're seeking death,") The system yelled as it appeared in holographic format before Gustav.

"Hehe we're in this together," A mad expression of excitement appeared on Gustav's face causing the system's human but holographic look to pale.

[×2 Power Boost Has Been Activated]

[Ultimate Combination Has Been Activated]

Immense energy radiated from Gustav's being as he began to rapidly transform. His skin turning silverish and a hint of gold with long horns, muscular frame and pointy sixteen feet long tail.

Sshhshhshhh~

The fog surrounding him were swept away, restoring visibility to the vicinity.

As the energy his figure exuded climbed to the peak, Gustav stared down and activated another ability.

[Lightning Blitz Has Been Activated]

His figure turned into a streak of lightning that disappeared downwards in less than an instant.

Gustav had never Activated Lightning Blitz in this form before so the speed was like nothing he had ever reached.

Thrrrrrrriihzzhhhhh~

A loud sound of collision reverberated across the vicinity as the lightning strike turned a little pale when it reached a point below, before returning to its original color.

A small crack had appeared at that point but soon dissappeared afterwards.

Gustav had managed to cross almost two million feet in a single second. It was the fastest he had ever gone and although he was a little hindered when he arrived at the erasing layer, he managed to break past that point.

Fwwwiiii~ Thrraaahh~

Gustav returned to his initial state after reaching a particular distance down and stared at his surroundings.

("You lost an arm,") The system stated.

"It will grow back," Gustav responded with an unbothered tone ignoring the fact that he was currently missing a left arm.

("That was reckless,") The system nagged.

"I know," Gustav replied once more with an unfazed tone.

Looking around him now, he could see floating diamond like platforms in mid air all across the place.

The bottom of this location was still quite a distance away but Gustav could finally sense it with his perception.

"Oh... it is packed," Gustav muttered with a tone of wariness.

("Yes, Frost Raikins are everywhere,") The system stated.

"More than that... there are other creatures that are not on the surface and... that place..." Gustav voiced while staring in a particular direction.

From his current height, nothing could be seen downwards but with his perception, he was able to make out dark ridges, floating fiery mountains and frost mountains in different areas...

Caves as well as territorial regions where unknown looking creatures could be seen in droves. Going down there was like trying to commit suicide.

It was practically an haven of monstrosities. The creatures numbered in hundreds of thousands and each one was incredibly dangerous.

Even the frost Raikins in the floating frosted mountains were very high leveled compared to one's on the surface.

This wasn't something Gustav just wanted to jump into, however...

"Now it makes sense why this place harbours so much danger," Gustav voiced as his sight focused on a particular item on the peak of a floating mountain.

("Ready made Viondur Eggs,") The system girly voice uttered.

"And there are numerous of them in this place... How come the handler never mentioned this," Gustav wondered but immediately had multiple theories appear in his mind which gave him the answers he needed.

One of the theories included how multiple participants would lose their lives if they came into contact with such a place after being aware that there were Viondur Eggs down here.

If there was a way to skip gathering seven colored eggs and heading to a designated point to make a single Viondur Egg, every one would be eager to try it out regardless of how dangerous it would be.

Gustav recalled one thing Hanlder One mentioned;

"There are still a couple of mysteries but the rest will be left for you youngsters to uncover by yourselves,"

Gustav decided to push all the unnecessary questions to the back of his mind for now as he focused on the main task ahead.

"I need to get some Viondur Eggs without being noticed or gathering as low attention as possible to myself," He stated.

Looking at the current situation, it seemed nearly impossible to get hold of any Viondur Egg without attracting the attention of the waves of monsters down there.