

Bloodline 1321

Chapter 1321 Battle On The Second Disk

This figure kept glitching in and out of existence continuously.

Whenever he appeared, his figure would look transparent. He was currently in an illusionary state as his hair changed color repeatedly as well.

White... brown... green... azure... gold... blonde...

"Deactivate..." The voice of the figure sounded both fleeting and loud at the same time.

[Deactivating System...]

[Warning!]

[Deactivating...]

[Brtzzz~]

His figure glitched as he vanished once more before reappearing a few seconds later.

[Deactivating...]

[Brrttzz~]

This scene repeatedly played out countless times.

Twwwwiiiihh~

A curly black haired male suddenly appeared above this region in the next instant. In his grasp was a blue and green haired short girl.

"There he is!" Vera pointed downwards in the direction of the figure that kept bleeping in and out of existence.

"He is getting extracted... but how?" Endric descended with a look of realisation and disbelief.

Bam!

He landed behind the figure and reached out to touch him while he was still in existence.

fwwhii~

His hand phased through.

- "It is the sentient machine bound to him... the mouth in space is using it as a beacon to track and extract..." Husarius

"Deactivat..." They heard the fleeting monochromatic voice once more.

"He must be trying to deactivate it but can't do so because there isn't a single second of time in between his glitches," Endric analysed.

"Is he suffering? What are we going to do?" Vera eyes turned moist as she stared at Gustav with a look of powerlessness.

"I know what to do..." Endric voiced as his forehead emitted a bright green glow.

"Time Diffusion..." Endric voiced with a loud tone.

Gustav's entire figure was covered in this greenish glow in the next instant and he stopped glitching for one second.

[System Deactivated]

The moment this notification appeared in his line of sight, Gustav fell to his knees.

"Koorrh! Koorrh!" He coughed out a few specks of blood as his hair turned to its original color.

"Big brother!" Endric stepped forward to assist him up with a look of concern.

"I'm fine, I just need a moment to catch my breathe," Gustav voiced as his breathing slowly went back to normal.

"You were getting..."

"I know... the system was used as a beacon to try extracting my core," Gustav cut Endric short.

"Something similar happened with the system last time so I know the Premonitions or what is behind them have a kind of connection to the system. It malfunctions upon their appearance and this time it was even worse," Gustav knew the system was hiding a lot from him and now he was sure this was a major one.

"Yeah I can't figure out exactly what it is but you need to keep it deactivated till we get out of here," Endric voiced with a nod.

Gustav had spent the last thirty minutes preventing his core existence from being extracted which wasn't supposed to happen inside of the light barrier. The system being the beacon was the cause of this.

He had expended a lot of energy and fell down to the third disk before the second eruption of the hole.

"Thanks for the help Endric," Gustav said with a look of appreciation.

"Don't mention," Endric nodded with a smile.

Bam!

Vera suddenly sped into Gustav's embrace, hugging him tightly to herself, "I'm glad you're fine," She voiced lightly.

Gustav rubbed her hair before responding, "Sorry for worrying you guys,"

"Endric, brief me about the current situation," Gustav demanded.

"The entity is not disappearing unless it manages to extract your existence. It shouldn't have been able to manifest for this long but somehow it did and from the looks of things, it's not going to vanish anytime soon... The planet is going to get consumed so we have to leave," Endric summarised.

"Is there really nothing that can be done?" Gustav said while looking up.

Endric shook his head in response. Even the most powerful person in their midst, Miss Aimee, was finding it difficult to protect them.

"Then let's make sure we all get off the planet safely. Where is everyone else?" Gustav inquired.

Endric's expression turned a bit sour as he responded, "There is a problem,"

"Hmm? What is it?" Gustav asked.

"Falco was taken," Endric revealed.

Gustav's face immediately turned dark upon hearing this, "Taken? Don't tell me they got out,"

"They did... Vikrush Insa, the clones and the rest of the fake Indulus Prime species," Endric confirmed Gustav's immediate assessment of the situation.

"Damn it... Within that mouth is the pathway to the other dimension. If they get to it, Falco will be lost to us," Gustav's figure suddenly brightened up with crimson energy.

"Then we need to make sure they don't leave," Endric stated with a look of determination.

"Where are they?" Gustav's questioned with a look of anguish.

The system was indeed currently deactivated but Gustav still had his bloodline abilities outside of the system which he was currently channeling.

"Last time I saw everyone, they were on the ninth disk but they must have moved by now," Endric responded.

Gustav currently didn't have a wide range of perception like he usually would due to the system deactivation. However, he still had over twenty bloodlines imbued in him so his perception was still greater than normal.

Gustav shut his eyes for a second and spread his senses out.

All of a sudden he opened them and stared into the distance.

Thisssshhhh~ Thiissshhhh~ Thisssshhhh~

Up above, a small darkness poked through a part of the light barricade Miss Aimee used to blanket the entirety of Planet Ozious.

From the distance It was merely like a dot due to the massiveness of the planet but this dot on closer inspection was hundreds of feet wide.

"Found you..." Gustav muttered before leaping into the air.

Fwwhiiii~

Massive dark wings sprouted out of his back which flapped with intensity, catapulting his body upwards with immense speed.

Endric and Vera followed behind on a telekinetic board Endric conjured.

#####

Minutes earlier, a battle was ongoing on the second disk.

The streets were crowded with hundreds of humanoid structured dark creatures with prickly horns and white glowing eyes.

They ran amok as they faced Angy, Matilda, Elevora, Yonda and the others. The MBO general with them was currently in pursuit of Vikrush Ansa along side E.E and Aildris.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Boom!

Multiple blasts and collisions rang out as the dark creatures not only made use of a combination of dark attacks but also had incredible physical capabilities.

A few handlers on the second disk had to leave their duty of diverting citizens to spaceships so as to join the group in battling these creatures.

Fwwhoosshh~

Angy's figure streaked across the golden streets with incredible speed grabbing one creature after the other and pummelling them into buildings.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Structures all around collapsed from the battle but no one cared about this right now. The planet was about to be consumed so the buildings would not matter soon.

The dark creatures were powerful and sturdy but their speed was still no match for Angy's. However, despite the advantage in speed, the creatures were almost ten thousand in number.

The others were doing their share of fighting the dark creatures but it didn't seem like they would be able to get rid of them anytime soon.

This was why Aildris, E.E and the MBO general left it to them and specifically went after the party around Vikrush Insa who had possession of Falco's unconscious body.

The group behind would do their best so as to reduce the numbers and make it easier to retrieve Falco's unconscious body.

Everyone had come to the realisation that these dark creatures were actually the true forms of the fake Indulus Prime spectators.

...

"Gharrhh!" The MBO general sent forth a collection of hundreds of massive blazing green arrows.

Thrrihh~ Thrrihh~ Thrrihh~ Thrrihh~ Thrrihh~

They ripped through the air and multiple structures up ahead, leaving massive holes within them with one target in scope.

A figure in dark robes and skeletal shaped head as well as markings. On the right and left side of this figure were two dark creatures and one of them just happen to have an unconscious person on their shoulder.

Swoohh~

Vikrush Insa turned around with speed while brandishing a massive dark blade.

"Grey Consumption..." He pointed the blade forward, causing a massive greyish dark orb to shot out from it.

Fwwwheiii~

It blasted forward with intensity while immensely increasing in size.

The General eyes widened as the greyish dark orb consumed every single one of his blazing green arrows and vanished afterwards.

'Not even a general's attack can do much huh?' Aildris's figure whooshed across the air, from building to building as he analysed the scene before him.

The moment Vikrush Ansa turned back around to keep running along side his subordinates, a glowing red vortex appeared before the creature holding onto Falco.

Powerful suction force, pulled the creature forward alongside Falco's unconscious body.

Chapter 1322 Amir Death Angels?

Powerful suction force, pulled the creature forward alongside Falco's unconscious body.

However, before they could get sucked into it, Vikrush Insa swung his massive dark blade forward.

A sharp dark line oozing with immense destructive energy slashed forward with intensity.

Twwisshhh~

In the next moment, the Vortex was cleaved in two halves and instantly crumbled.

"Damn it!" E.E cursed from thousands of feet away as his vortex dissapeared.

Vikrush and the two dark beings following him seemed to be heading towards the edge of the second disk. The wall of light up ahead was now closer than ever.

"I don't know what he is planning but we need to get to him now," Aildris voiced through the comms.

"Leave it to me..." E.E said while crossing his index and middle fingers.

Three violet colored vortexes appeared before Aildris, E.E and the MBO general.

"I'll take Falco..."

"Leave Vikrush to us,"

E.E and the MBO general voiced simultaneously as they charged into the vortex.

Fwwhiii~

Three vortexes suddenly appeared before Vikrush and the other two dark beings and all three of them phased out of it.

E.E reached out immediately to grab Falco's unconscious body. The dark being held onto Falco's lower end unwilling to let go.

The MBO general grabbed Vikrush by the neck and a green glow emitted from his hand which sent a beam through him.

Boom!

His figure got blasted into the distance with a hole in his neck but the hole soon got covered up by blackish goo.

Black tendrils like whip phased out of Vikrush's body which was still in mid air and latched onto the buildings by the side before suddenly catapulting him forward.

Fwwhwoosshh~

The MBO general eyebrows furrowed as he charged forward to clash with him.

By the side, E.E was still struggling with the dark creature when...

Thriihhh~

A vortex suddenly appeared beneath the dark creature and its body sunk halfway in. It still held onto Falco's lower end which prevented it from falling in completely when E.E sent a kick hurling at its face.

Bam!

The forceful kick smashed the face of the dark creature in, causing it to immediately let go of Falco's unconscious body.

Fwwhii~

It sunk into the vortex which vanished afterwards. E.E heaved a sigh of relief as he held Falco's unconscious body up in victory.

"Yes!"

Thwihh~

A dark whip suddenly appeared out of nowhere and latched onto Falco's body, before yanking him from E.E's grasp.

"Hey! What the hell!?" E.E yelled as his smile turned upside down.

The dark whip had come from Vikrush who was in a heated battle with the MBO general. Somehow, he was still able to interfere despite losing a subordinate and being in a battle.

Aildris who had just finished dealing with the other dark creature appeared up ahead and grabbed onto the dark whip.

Color was instantly drained from the whip as it turned from black to ash, immediately losing strength.

The whip flayed across the air like a little spider web and Falco's body fell. Aildris grabbed it and and flung it in E.E's direction.

"Angy I'm sending Falco to you," E.E voiced through the comms before opening a vortex.

He gently shoved Falco's body into the vortex and a pair of arms received him from the other end.

"Can I kill that guy? Or do we still need him?" E.E questioned as he and Aildris began stepping forward.

It was now going to be three against one since both dark creatures had been dealt with and only Vikrush was left.

"We might need him for questioning but we really don't have time to be spending on a fight here. We need to get off this planet immediately," Aildris responded.

"So should I kill him or not?" E.E paused with a look of confusion but Aildris charged forward without replying at the same moment.

His eyes sprang open and the world around him instantly turned black and white.

Vikrush felt like he was in a sea of mud as one the MBO general's attack hit him before he could get away.

Bang!

Although the world around Aildris had lost color, he was able to allow E.E and the MBO general retain their color in this black and white world.

Vikrush's body spiralled across the air in Aildris direction.

Aildris reacted by throwing a punch at Vikrush back, causing his figure to begin catapulting in the opposite direction.

Bam! Bam! Bam!

Three walls displaying a wide spectrum of colors landed around Vikrush's body, trapping him within instantaneously.

"Dimension of colors..." Aildris whispered, as the walls enlarged and emitted bright enchanting glows.

"Are you gonna turn him into paint like that other dude?" E.E voiced as he recognised the ability Aildris was about to use.

At this same moment, an unexpected scenario played out.

Dddhiiiiinnnn~

A dent of darkness appeared on the opposite end of the second disk's edge.

This sudden unexpected situation, caused Aildris to pause as he turned to stare in that direction.

He shut his eyes, causing the world around them to regain color and E.E as well as the general finally noticed the dent on the wall of light at the opposite end of the second disk.

It was like a dot of black from their position due to how distant it was but they were much knew it was way larger.

- "We have a problem," Elevora's voice was heard from the other end of the comms.

"I see it too, what happened?" Aildris questioned.

- "Vikrush got to the western edge of the second disk," Matilda voiced amidst heavy breaths.

"What? That isn't possible, we have him here," E.E yelled with a look of confusion.

Aildris's eyebrows furrowed as he deactivated the dimension of colors.

The glowing walls displaying a wide spectrum of colors dissipated in the next instant and what appeared in their line of sight shocked them greatly.

Vikrush Insa had turned charred black and crumbled to dust before their very eyes.

"Is that what it was supposed to do?" The general inquired.

"No... it means... this was a fake," Aildris voiced with a tone of realisation.

"A clone... We have been battling with a clone all this time," E.E felt the urge to smash his head into a building.

"That was a clone?" The general also couldn't believe his ears. If they had so much difficulty battling a clone... then, how powerful would the original be.

"

-"Guys!" Angy's shriek was heard from the other end of the comms.

-"Falco is turning to ash!" She yelled next.

"That isn't Falco, it's a fake. Just like the Vikrush we were dealing with all this time," Aildris responded.

-"What? That means they still have Falco?" Angy voiced with a tone of anguish.

"They do," Aildris responded.

"And now we have another problem on our hands," He added while they faced the direction of the dark dent.

- "Vikrush created a hole in the light barricade," Elevora stated.

- "We have to get to him right now!" Fildhor yelled.

- "Too late, I can see them..." Elevora announced.

- "See who?" Matilda questioned with a tone of bafflement.

- "I don't know what to call them but they're coming through the hole... they're dark and large... with horns... hollow grey eyes... and wings..." Elevora voice gave them a sense of impending doom.

"Wings?" The MBO general voiced with a troubled expression.

#####

In the upside down facility, Grand Commander Shion knelt before an earth researcher who had a hole in his chest.

The scene before him was that of death and destruction. Researchers of different species had their corpses scattered across the place with blood splattered on the walls.

It turned out earth researchers hadn't been the only victims here. There didn't seem to be anyone alive.

A broken technological pad beeped repeatedly beside the earth researcher corpse, displaying at glitching holographic text.

"THE LORD IS SENDING AMIR DEATH ANGELS!"

"The fully translated text... hmm," Grand Commander Shion muttered as he grabbed the broken pad.

"Amir death angels?" Grand Commander Shion voiced with a tone of confoundment as he stood to his feet.

#####

On the second disk ten massive beings with dark beastly but humanoid shaped bodies phased through the dark hole punctured in the barricade of light.

They were no less than twenty feet in size with a massive Fourteen inches spiky horns on the sides of their heads. Their greyish hollow eyes seemed to hold a world of their own as they presence quickly threw the vicinity into disarray.

A shade of darkness spread as they flew forward. All ten of these dark beings had wings and surprisingly held different expressions on their faces.

"##@%%@&&*x^@#^^" One of them spoke and the grounds began to split open as dark spikes shot out of them.

A Handler was punctured before they could get away in time. They instantly shriveled and turned into a pile of ash.

Fwwhiii~

Elevora grabbed a Handler from beneath and flew upwards with speed before they could get stabbed as well.

However, the moment she ascended hundreds of feet into the air, one of the dark figures instantly appeared before her.

Chapter 1323 The Battle With The Death Angels

However, the moment she ascended hundreds of feet into the air, one of the dark figures instantly appeared before her.

Elevora felt a scalding dark blaze slowly cover her frame as the figure claws outstretched in a bid to grab her.

It was too fast for her to react in time to it. She couldn't activate an attack before the claws would reach her face.

Thwwwiissshhh~

A sharp red line cut across the air in the next instant.? The ground, sky and everything in its path was immediately split in two halves causing debris to scatter across the place.

Elevora eyes twinkled as the claws and half of the dark figure arm fell before making contact with her face.

Fwwhooosssh~

She immediately made use of this opportunity to fly away, leaving a huge distance between herself and the dark figure.

This particular dark figure had a smiley expression on its oddly structured square shaped face. Yet, even after its arm was cleaved off, the expression never changed.

"Gustav is here!" Matilda yelled with a look of relief as she pointed at the Eastern skies.

Gustav's frame could be seen floating in the distance with a pair of dark wings on his back like these creatures. In his grasp was a large four feet long blade, emitting a blood red glow with blue electric arcs swimming around it.

Endric and Vera stood in mid air beside him on an invisible telekinetic board that no one could sight.

"He's okay, thank goodness," Angy uttered with a look of relief.

Up ahead a figure in dark robes could be seen walking in the direction of the ten new dark figures that had just arrived.

Gustav's appearance did not change the fact that these dark figures that had just appeared casted a shadow of gloom across the entire vicinity. They gave off so much dark power it caused the air around them to twist and turn without so much as an effort.

"The Amir Death Angels are here. This is the end for all of you especially The Outworldly!" Vikrush Insa loud voice reverberated across the vicinity as he walked till he arrived before them.

Chatter! Chatter! Chatter!

-"Amir Death angels?"

- "What is he talking about?"

- "Those things?"

The group as well as the Handlers around had expressions of confusion.

Vikrush slowly took to his knees and lowered his face in reverence.

The Amir Death Angel with a smiley face looked down without a change in expression. The arm that had been severed grew back before everyone's eyes.

"#@%<&(@, _&÷:<" He once more spoke words that were unknown to everyone around.

Vikrush raised his head after hearing that and pointed in Gustav's direction.

"Skiirrrrrhhhhhhh!" A loud screech was heard from the mouth of the other Amir Death Angels behind.

Three of them who had the display of angry, poker and laughing faced expression plastered on their dark faces immediately turned to the side, before speeding in Gustav's direction.

Out of the other six, two instantly flew forward while four flew downwards, leaving the last one with a smiley face behind. It seemed like the four who flew downwards were heading towards the other disks.

The smiley faced Amir death Angel descended in the next instant with speed and landed before Vikrush.

He held Vikrush's face up to match with his and the next thing that happened was inexplicable...

"Arrrghhhhh!"

Vikrush's loud yell reverberated loudly across the second disk while the Amir Death Angels who sped forward wreaked havoc upon the environment.

Over at Gustav's position, the three death Angels charged at him with incredible bloodlust.

"Although I can't Activate God Eyes, I can tell that they are extremely dangerous. You two should leave them to me and go help the others," Gustav voiced as he held the Jiko Hakai Katana up.

"No, we want to stay here and fight," Vera shook her head.

"I can allow Endric but you, no. It would be a waste if you lost your life here. You can't keep up with, go down and wait for an opportunity to strike," Gustav shook his head before touching her.

"No wai..." A burst of blue light encapsulated her figure and she vanished in the next instant.

"Big brother, let's do this," Endric stated.

Gustav nodded in response before charging forward.

"Yaaahhh!" The Jiko Hakai Katana gleamed with intensity as he swung it at the first death angel to arrive before him.

...

On the other side of the second disk, one of the death angels made contact with a massive structure and it came crumbling down before everyone's eyes.

"Aahhhhh!" Loud cries rang out as those who hadn't managed to make it to spacecraft felt the grounds beneath their feet crumble.

A corrosion of darkness would spread upon contact from the death angels, completely destroying everything around them.

A bunch of Ozis shriveled up and turned into dark ash since anything in contact with the corrosion of darkness would turn to ash regardless of whether they were touched directly or not.

"We need to get the people to safety!" Aildris yelled through the comms as he navigated his way through the destruction around.

-"These death angels destroy everything they come into contact with... how do we stop them?"

-"Make sure they don't make contact then,"

The voices of the others in distress rang out through the comms.

"Let us clear the second disk first, then we can focus on these monsters," Aildris voiced.

"Bring the people to me," E.E who was far behind yelled while opening a massive vortex.

Fwwhoosssshh~

Angy's silver figure blitz back and forth across the second disk with incredible speed. The number of Ozis that were still on the second disk numbered in the millions, yet she was able to get over five hundred thousand of them through E.E's vortex in just ten seconds.

The others did their best to get the Ozis away as swiftly as they could as well but many were still meeting their ends.

"I'll prevent them from harming anyone else in the meantime," Sheila flew across the air and activated her bloodline power.

"Reality split...." She uttered.

Cracks began to appear in the air all around the two death angels who were wreaking havoc. One of them tried to touch a person and their hand phased through like they had become illusionary.

He flapped its wings with intensity, charging in Sheila's direction the moment he figured out she was responsible for this ordeal.

"@&#^#?*^@%^^@" A strange uttered was heard from his mouth and in the next instant two black balls appeared behind Sheila.

Fwwwiiii~

One of them sped towards her at immense speed but she managed to evade, causing it to speed past her face and slam into a golden structure behind.

A massive hole appeared on the structure and the other black ball shot towards her as well.

Sheila stretched her left palm in its direction, causing the air to turn to glass.

Krrrycccxhhhh~

The sound of glass shattering reverberated across the air as the black ball struggled to move forward. It soon got trapped in the world of glass, straggling to shatter one wall of glass at a time due to what the air had turned to.

At this moment, the second black ball shot forward from behind her, Sheila couldn't dodge fast enough due to the amount of energy she was spending from manipulating reality.

Twwhiiiihhh~

It pierced through her right bicep, leaving a baby palm sized hole within. Black markings soon began to spread across her arm, depicting that it was getting corroded.

Twwoosshh~

A vortex suddenly appeared around her right shoulder like a ring and closed in the next instant.

"Kiaaarrhhh!" Sheila cried in pain as her entire right arm got chomped off.

Elevora figure streaked across the air and she caught Sheila before she could fall to the ground.

"Sorry, I had to do it immediately or you would have lost your whole arm," E.E apologised beneath.

"I can't keep it up... they'll be free to touch things as they please in a few," Sheila voiced out while Elevora fed her a recovery pill.

"It's fine, we got everyone off already," Aildris answered from behind.

Sheila turned her neck and spotted everyone stepping forward in a powerful line up while emitting powerful bloodline energy.

Behind them, the second disk was void of life. Not a single civilian Ozis could be spotted. A couple of handlers, MBO officers and the earth participants were pretty much the only ones left at this point.

"Now we can face them properly without having to worry about the lives of others," Angy's third horn began to grow out of her forehead as her hair floated upwards.

"We have informed those below of the incoming death angels... they will have to handle the ones that flew downwards while we face these ones ourselves," Aildris hinted at the fact that they might not get reinforcements since other officials would be dealing with death angels on the lower disks.

"Then let's do it!" Sheila jumped to her feet as her face regained its usual enthusiasm and playfulness.

Chapter 1324 His Home Is With Us!

"Then let's do it!" Sheila jumped to her feet as her face regained its usual enthusiasm and playfulness.

Her arm was growing back already thanks to the recovery pill but if they had been any second later, it might have been gone forever.

Around them were still thousands of dark creatures with horns but they were glad that they would only have to worry about facing the oppositions now.

Bang!

A death angel landed about a hundred feet ahead of them and dark corrosion spread forward like a wave.

Thooooommm~

Almost everyone leapt into the air while conjuring attacks. Angy turned around and sped away at unfathomable speed while a silver colored wave gathered around her figure.

...

On the other side of the second disk, Gustav happened to have a death angel hand in his grasp as he dodged the claws of another one of them.

A trail of dark energy cut across the air, slicing buildings into multiple parts he dodged. They were incredibly fast and powerful but Gustav was a tiny bit faster.

Slashhh~

The Jiko Hakai Katana in his grasp, tore through the belly of the one in front of him, completely splitting him in two.

However, right before Gustav's eyes, dark tendrils phased out of the split body parts and connected to each other before rejoining the death angel.

Fwwaarrh~

One of the Death Angels opened his mouth and a dark mist spread across the air.

"Endric, back up," Gustav yelled to Endric who was hundreds of feet eastwards battling the third Death Angel.

Endric blinked and reappeared thousands of feet behind his initial location while Gustav flew backwards, leaving a wide gap between himself and the death angels before him.

As the dark mist spread, the body of water thousands of feet below completely dried up. The buildings disintegrated and a huge chunk of the second disk collapse.

In just a few moments, there was a gigantic hole left beneath which would lead to the third disk if one was to fall through.

Gustav noticed the mist continuously spreading and channeled his Atomic Manipulation Bloodline.

He stretched forth his arm and a milky glow coated his hand. Blazing milky colored orbs shot out in the next instant, infiltrating the dark mist.

Boom! Boom! Boom! Boom!

The orbs exploded forth with milky waves that spread across the entire vicinity in a bid to disintegrate the mist of darkness.

"Hmm?" Gustav's face lit up with an expression of confusion as he stared ahead.

"What happened?" Endric questioned with a look of bafflement as well after noticing the dark mist was unaffected.

"Ka! Ka! Ka! Ka! Ka!" A weird laughter drifted across the place as the three death Angels charged forward.

Gustav's eyebrows furrowed, "Death angels eh? The mist most like destroys everything including abilities... but..."

Gustav's eyes twinkled as he shot forth the milky orbs once more.

Thwwiihh~ Thwwiihh~ Thwwiihh~

The orbs blasted milky waves across the vicinity once more and this time, the air suddenly turned to metal.

Ting! Ting! Ting!

The dark mist was stopped as it could no longer travel through the air since Gustav turned the air in that vicinity to metal.

It instantly became stationary. Gustav had multiple methods of Manipulating atoms and this was one of them.

The Death Angels arrived before them baring their dark claws. Endric snapped his finger, causing a telekinetic barrier to appear before them which stopped the death angels for a split second.

Gustav swung the Jiko Hakai Katana once more, causing the sky to split in two, dividing the Death Angel before him. Black bloody mess splattered across the air as the split creature body parts separated.

Gustav flew forward with incredible speed and grabbed one half of the Death Angel's body before swinging it sideways like a weapon.

Bang!

It heavily slammed into the second death angel, sending it hurling across the air.

Gustav held the Jiko Hakai Katana horizontally with his other hand like a javelin and flung it forward with intensity.

Thwwiiiiihhhh~

From below everyone witnessed red and blue electric light, streak across the sky in a straight line. The third death angel got pierced in the throat and dragged thousands of feet across the air by the Jiko Hakai Katana which Gustav turned into a projectile.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

Its body blasted through several buildings, leaving massive holes in them. It continued forward for another couple thousand feet before slamming onto the ground.

Like a large nail, the death angel was pinned to the ground by the Jiko Hakai Katana with half of its body completely obliterated.

"Kaarrrrrh" It screeched in pain.

"&#^&#:%&@:# this DImEnslOn..." Another utterance was heard.

This translated to, "We are weaker in this dimension,"

"Did you hear that?" Endric asked Gustav beside him.

"I did... it sounds like they're beginning to understand how to speak the language of our dimension," Gustav eyebrows furrowed as he turned to stare into the distance.

He spotted something ongoing and wanted to head there when all three death Angels that had been initially discarded, flew forward with incredible speed.

Their bodies had regenerated very swiftly and they now they were back to their initial state.

"We can't keep doing this forever," Gustav eyes turned into slits as his body began transforming.

"We don't have time, we need to find a way to deal with them permanently," Endric stated in agreement.

"Hmmm," Gustav's eyes emitted a crimson glow as he charged forward.

...

More than twenty thousand feet away, a the figure of the smiley faced death angel finally let go of Vikrush Insa.

Vikrush had undergone a great change at this point. He went from his initial six feet to eight feet tall. His figure radiated with dark energy as he stood to his feet while the smiley faced Amir Death Angel slowly stepped forward.

A staff appeared in his right hand and he proceeded to stomp it onto the ground.

Bang!

A black swirling hole opened up beside him on the ground and a figure wrapped in dark robes phased out of it.

He grabbed the figure and unfurled the robes, revealing an unconscious humanoid figure.

"My master's offspring... there you are," The smiley faced death Angel spoke in an understandable tone this time.

"Falco!" Angy yelled as she spotted the unconscious figure from up ahead.

Everyone else noticed as well. "They had him hidden amongst these dark creatures all this time?" Fildhor voiced with a look of disbelief.

They were occupied with battling two death angels at this moment so they were finding it difficult to break free from the attacks so as to interfere.

"Take the offspring home," The smiley faced death angel voiced with a thunderous tone while handing Falco over to Vikrush.

"As you wish," Vikrush answered while receiving Falco's unconscious body.

"His home is with us!" Angy roared before charging forward swiftly.

Twwwwhoosshhh~

Her immense speed, made it seem like she instantly appeared in between Vikrush and the smiley faced death angel.

In Angy's eyes it looked like the world had come to a stand still. Vikrush was still reaching out to grab Falco's unconscious body but he hadn't made contact yet.

The death angel smiley face remained glued in a particular direction and not even her teammates behind seemed to be moving at this moment due to her high speed.

Angy grabbed Falco's body from his grasp and turned around to flee but at this moment...

The hollow grey eyes of the Death angel shifted to peer in her direction.

Angy thrust her right leg forward in a bid to move away when she felt a tug behind her.

"Not so fast earthling!" The smiley faced Death Angel's thunderous voice reverberated across the vicinity as he lifted Angy like a helpless chicken.

"Let me... go..." Angy noticed her entire body weakening as dark corrosive marks spread from her neck where contact was made.

Her right horn suddenly gleamed with a mysterious light as she prepared to use an ability she had only used once out of desperation.

Angy was about to rewind time around her.

The death angel suddenly reached out with his other hand and grabbed Angy's horn.

Purrchiii~

A loud ripping sound rang across the air as he yanked Angy's horn out of her forehead, causing her to release a painful and blood curdling scream.

"AAARRRRHHHHHHH!"

Fwwwheii~

He flung Angy's figure away while blood streamed out of her forehead like a fountain.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

Her figure spun across the air as she slammed into buildings, tearing through them due to the force at which she was thrown.

"Angy!"

Everyone who had witnessed this only saw Angy charge forward and suddenly got thrown away. They had not been fast enough to witness everything that happened but one thing they were sure of was that this death angel had injured their teammate.

"You bastard!" Matilda, E.E and Elevora charged forward, leaving the others to deal with the two death angels behind.

Vikrush who thought he had received Falco's body only came to a realisation after he noticed Falco's unconscious body on the ground beside him.

"Take the offspring and leave," The smiley faced death angel commanded before turning to face the incoming threats.

Chapter 1325 Get Off!

"Take the offspring and leave," The smiley faced death angel commanded before turning to face the incoming threats.

Vikrush Insa nodded and grabbed Falco's body before turning around to head in the direction of the five hundred feet large dark hole up ahead.

Meanwhile, a bald figure had headed in the direction of Angy's catapulting figure. He turned into a three headed silver and golden scaled dragon.

Fwwwiiiihhh~

He arrived before a building and caught Angy in his bosom the moment she blasted through one of its walls.

Her entire face was coated in thick scarlet liquid which kept dripping down and a finger sized hole could be seen on her forehead.

Her neck along with half her body had dark marks on them and she continuously writhed in pain.

"Gustav, its bad," He voiced like he was communicating with someone.

Close to the edge of the second disk where the dark hole was located, a battle had ensued.

Vikrush Insa leapt forward. His figure flew towards the hole which was now only a few feet away.

Twiiiiisshhhh~

A black bolt suddenly streaked through the air...

Bang!

One of the Death Angel's body which was used as a projectile. collided heavily with Vikrush Insa's figure, sending him flying.

He subconsciously let go of Falco's unconscious body as he and the dark angel spiralled across the air with loud cracks ringing out.

Fwwwoosshhh~

A figure blurred and appeared below Falco's unconscious body which was falling from the air. He caught it in his grasp, holding Falco in a princess style format.

"WHAT DID YOU JUST DO TO ANGY!?"

His voice boomed thunderously with anguish as his glowing red eyes further intensified the tension in the vicinity.

The smiley faced death angel turned around as he felt the blistering sensation behind him.

"You cannot..." He was about speaking when Gustav's figure blurred and reappeared before him.

"Perish!" Gustav voice caused the entire vicinity to tremble as his glowing fist tore through the chest of the ten foot tall death angel.

Boom!

His fist exploded with a burst of crimson energy, blasting the smiley faced death angel across the air.

"Take Falco to the spacecraft. You all leave now," Gustav voiced while handing Falco over to E.E.

"Are you crazy? You can't go against all of them by yourself," Matilda yelled.

"How long do we have Endric?" Gustav inquired.

"Around ten minutes," Endric answered.

"So long as we all leave this galaxy, things should be fine right?" He inquired once more.

"Yes, the anomaly will vanish after consuming this planet," Endric answered.

"Good, everyone leave now!" Gustav commanded once more.

"You must be crazy if you think we're leaving without you," Matilda voiced once more.

"There is no time for this. Someone has to hold them back and none of you have a chance. I can get to the spacecraft instantly so I'll be fine. You all get to it now and move, I'll get there the moment it takes off!" Gustav yelled before charging forward.

Bang!

He instantly collided with the smiley faced death angel up ahead.

Bang! Bang!

Gustav's left fist was stopped by the death while his right hand was wrapped around its left arm, preventing it from slashing him.

The grounds quaked immensely as they seemed to be in a stalemate.

'E.E, make sure everyone gets to the spacecraft safely,' E.E who initially wanted to stay back to help Gustav got this message in his mind and paused.

He let out a sigh as he opened a massive reddish vortex above the group.

"What the fuck!"

"Yooooo!"

"E.E you bastard!"

Some of them yelled as they got sucked into the vortex.

"I am actually a bastard though," E.E shrugged.

The MBO officers and General were reluctant to leave after hearing Gustav would be staying behind.

"We are the ones that should face those monstrosities! We are the ones that should sacrifice ourselves for the future generation!" The MBO general yelled as he resisted the suction force of E.E's vortex.

Fwwhiii~

Bang!

Gustav headbutted the death angel before him, causing it to spiral across the air forcefully.

The Jiko Hakai Katana appeared in his grasp and he proceeded to fling it forward.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

The hilt of the katana slammed into the MBO officers and general, pushing them into the vortexes.

A massive golden and silver scaled dragon descended with Angy in his grasp.

"Take care of her," Gustav's spoek

odded at Gustav's direction and getting sucked in.

Fwwhii~

Two Death Angels suddenly appeared by Gusta's sides at this moment brandishing their claws.

A wave of blue silvery energy spread across the air at this same moment and holes appeared in the chests of both death angels before they claws could reach Gustav.

Endric's arm was outstretched as he walked towards Gustav and flayed his hand up.

An unfathomable energy lifted both death angels into the air and their bodies split apart.

Aldris witnessed the scene of the death angels limbs tearing from their bodies and grey eyes bursting out of their sockets.

He heaved a sigh of relief as he got sucked in as well and the vortex vanished afterwards.

At this moment, Gustav and Endric were the only ones left from the group.

----SSS

...The air of tension and fear that spread across the place...

Only one person could be responsible for this...

"It's not your fault... you did your best... I don't regret following you... It was the best venture of my life..." Teemee's voiced weakly while Gustav listened attentively.

"I certainly would do it again if time was reversed... my only regret is not being able to continue this journey with you all... you guys are family to me..." A trail of tear leaked down Teemee's eyes as his blood soaked hand reached out to grab Gustav.

"Take my bloodline... I want you to put it to good use..." Teemee voice trailed off after saying this and his hands fell weakly as he finally let out his last breath.

Gustav stared at the massive charred hole in Teemee's chest and then proceeded to touch his corpse.

His face was still as expressionless as every as his fingers made contact with Teemee's blood.

[Bloodline Acquisition Has Been Activated]

[Calculating Host Compatibility Rate With Crimson Matter Bloodline]

[0/100%]

[24/100%]

[52/100%]

[79/1000%]

...

[Host Compatibility With Crimson Matter Is 91%]

[Does Host Wish To Extract This Bloodline?]

[Yes/No]

Everyone gaze remained transfixed on Gustav's position. It seemed like they couldn't get their eyes off him as he remained in place for a few seconds before finally standing to his feet.

[Bloodline Successfully Acquired]

Gustav moved towards Glade's corpse and performed the same action.

[Bloodline Successfully Acquired]

[Host Has Acquired Two Halves Of A Bloodline]

[Does Host Wish To Merge Them?]

[Yes/No]

At this moment, Gustav was no longer paying attention to the system notifications popping up by the left corner of his eyes.

He slowly turned around as a silent rage began building within him. The monolith which was a structure of great power and strength trembled as he stared at Orimon up ahead.

"Now that you have achieved your objective..." Gustav began stepping forward slowly.

"I hope you're prepared to meet your end in the most gruesome... painstaking way you can ever imagine..." The more Gustav spoke, the greater the chill that spread across space.

Everyone could feel an immense sense of dread spread across the vicinity that had them frozen in place.

Their eyes had widened in fear as a dark and horrifying gloom weighed on their figure. Gustav wasn't facing them directly yet, the fear they felt was indescribable.

They could only imagine how Orimon who was the target of all this negative energy could feel at the moment.

"I will grant you a such decorative and merciless end that will make even the devil weep in sympathy..." Gustav kept speaking as he slowly stepped forward.

The sound of his footsteps were incredibly haunting and sounded extremely loud yet gentle to everyone in the vicinity. Even participants from other groups who were approaching this area had paused in fear because they could all feel it...

The fear of death...

Orimon entire body quaked as his transparent skin produced sweat in great number. He couldn't even move an inch. All he could think at this moment was, 'This is the end,'

Not a single coherent thought made him feel he could escape things.

A veil of darkish red aura was being emitting from Gustav's body at this point. It looked like an ancient demon was awakening as it casted darkness across this already dark part of space.

Thrrrrihhhhhh~

Every single participant on the monolith wondered what was happening at this point since the monolith's quake was increasing in intensity.

A veil of darkish red aura was being emitting from Gustav's body at this point. It looked like an ancient demon was awakening as it casted darkness across this already dark part of space.

Thrrrrihhhhhh~

Every single participant on the monolith wondered what was happening at this point since the monolith's quake was increasing in intensity.

Chapter 1326 We Need To Go Now!

"Universal Merge!"

The split second disk began to join back together as incredible telekinetic energy spread forth from Endric's frame.

It was almost like a pair of gigantic invisible hands had wrapped itself around the second disk and began pressing it together to rejoin.

Dark tendrils began to phase out of the poker faced Death Angel's split body but before it could restore itself...

"Not so fast," Endric stated before snapping his fingers.

Dhiinn~ Dhiiinn~

Two telekinetic prisons instantly materialised and trapped the seperated bodies parts within, preventing them from merging.

Endric's finger tips were coated in a silvery blue glow at this moment. When he noticed another Death Angel closing in on him, he thrust his index and middle finger forward.

One part of the split body slammed into the death angel with a laughing expression, ripping straight through its belly like a spear.

Endric didn't stop there, he casually flicked both fingers downwards.

Fwwwhehiiii~

Both halves of the Death Angel streaked downwards with intensity, breaking through the ground of the second disk and getting lodged in its core.

The two separate halves of the Death angel got trapped in different parts of the second disk unable to rejoin.

The other two death angels had their claws ripping at Endric's figure, leaving him unable to dodge the dark calamities that could easily split a normal planet in two.

Blink~

Endric vanished before they could touch him and reappeared behind one of them.

-"Careful, you're expending a lot of energy with these large scale attacks. If you're not careful you will run out soon," Husarius voice cautioned in Endric's mind.

'I need to deal with them as soon as possible and get big brother out of here,' Endric responded internally as he thrust his right palm forward.

A telekinetic wave blasted the third death angel forward, and kept pushing it across the second disk till it slammed into the wall of light on the other end.

Sizzling sounds rang out across the second disk.

#####

"Kiaaarrhhhh!"

Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

"It's killing everyone in sight, we have to help," Matilda voiced with a bothered look.

"No one is going out there. Grand Commander Shion said he will take care of it, let's trust him," Aildris stated with a strong tone as they stared at the footage projected.

Everyone was currently within the spacecraft, helping other people in while on the outside, a battle had ensued between one of the death angels and MBO officers alongside the Handlers.

"We have less than five minutes left, we have to go," Yonda voiced with a troubled tone.

"What about Gustav, Endric and Miss Aimee?" Fildhor said from the side.

"My hubby is still out there," Sheila cried.

"They said they'd get out safely... guess who won't get out safely if we remain here? Us!" Yonda yelled with a tone of annoyance.

Elevora was about to berate him when Aildris spoke, "He is right. If we don't leave now, we risk putting them in jeopardy as well,"

At this point, they had helped everyone around into the spacecraft and it was piled with other species besides earthlings.

"I'll tell the space captains to start the engine," Aildris stated.

On the outside, the MBO officers engaged the Death Angel, stopping it from nearing the spacecraft multiple times.

Bang! Bang! Boom!

They made sure to rain multiple long range attacks on it so as to maintain their distance. More than twenty MBO officers had already perished at the hand of the death angel.

Anything and anyone would perish at the slightest touch so long range attacks were their best bet but they also had to make sure it didn't make contact with the spacecraft or they would have no means of escape.

A huge chunk of the ninth disk had turned into a pile of ash and completely disintegrated due to the attacks. The entirety of Planet Ozious was looking desecrated at this point.

The MBO officers and Handlers had managed to deal uncountable fatal damages on the Death Angels but no matter what they tried, it was futile.

Now they understood why they were called DEATH ANGELS... the concept of death was theirs to manipulate.

-"Grand Commander we have to go!" A voice rang out through the comms.

'I didn't want to use this but it seems like I no longer have a choice...' Grand Commander Shion said internally as he landed fifty feet away from the spacecraft.

He straightened his fingertips and placed them on the diamond glued to his forehead.

Grand Commander Shion's eyes emitted a bright glow similar to the one the diamond on his forehead gave off. He proceeded to point his fingertips in the direction of the Death Angel like a gun.

Fwwhiii~ Fwwhiii~ Fwwhii~

The Death Angel who had an expression of gloom on its face kept swerving across the air at very high speed to dodge the attacks of the MBO officers in the vicinity.

This made it a little difficult to lock onto it but Grand Commander Shion was an alpha so this was a speed pattern he could follow and predict to an extent.

Grand Commander Shion pointed his fingertips a little further towards the left before firing a diamond colored energy dart.

Thiiinnngghhhhh~

It moved at light speed and directly collided with the Death Angel's left shoulder.

"Siiiiihhhh! Earthling!" The death angel screeched as it spotted Grand Commander Shion up ahead.

It raised its right hand and gathered a bolt of black swirling energy around it, ready to send it in Grand Commander Shion's direction when something unexpected happened.

Thrrriihhhh~

The Death Angel turned into a streak of silver light and got dragged into the chunk of diamond embedded into Grand Commander Shion's forehead.

"Wow..." Everyone around was astounded by what had just happened, especially the few handlers around.

-"He just trapped it in that diamond?"

-"Why couldn't he have done this before?"

Grand Commander Shion who looked to be in his fifties rapidly aged before everyone's eyes after trapping the Death Angel.

He seemed like he had aged by another twenty twenty years. Despite this being the case Grand Commander Shion was ten times older than that.

This wasn't the time to dwell on him rapidly aging since around five minutes were left.

"Get in!" "Get in!" "We need to go now!"

Yells were heard from the Earth IYSOP Candidates spacecraft. Everyone around quickly moved towards the entry point of the spacecraft and moved in as the engine started.

"Come on Gustav, Endric... where are you two?" E.E voiced with a worried tone as he stared at the projection which pretty much displayed a deserted ninth disk with countless corpse scattered across the place.

#####

'It's time to go Endric,' Gustav voiced in Endric's mind after blasting another Death Angel far away.

He knew this was an endless battle since the Death Angels were incapable of death. If such a battle continued on, not only would they run out of energy, they would also get consumed along with the entirety of Planet Ozious.

"No one is going anywhere!" The smiley faced Death Angel voice rippled across the second disk loudly.

"Outworldly, Time candidate you have shown us today that you two will become a major threat in..."

"Shut up," Gustav stated before tapping on the dimensional bracelet strapped to his left wrist.

"Let's go," Gustav said to Endric before grabbing his shoulder.

"As I have said before, no one leaves!" The moment the Death Angel said this a strange phenomenon occurred.

He stretched both his arms sideways and every single Death Angel around turned into liquid black goo, before flying towards him.

fwwwwhiiii~ Fwwwwhiii~ Fwwwwhiii~

<3...>

Even the Death Angels Endric had managed to trap broke out from the core of the second disk and floated upwards swiftly before merging with the Smile Faced Death Angel.

<2...>

The smiley faced transformed right before their very eyes becoming even more monstrous.it grew to a height of eighteen feet and seven faces with different expressions protruded out of his back. Horns grew out of the head area on these faces and an unfathomable dark energy began to surge around it.

<1...>

Gustav and Endric were taken aback after witnessing this swift transformation but at the moment it turned into this unrecognisable monstrosity, the dimensional bracelet had finished counting down.

<0...>

A bright blue glow encompassed their figured and just when they were about to vanish a dark arm appeared before them.

Zing~

All three of them vanished together and reappeared within the Earth Spacecraft that had lifted over the ground on the ninth disk.

Weeee~ Weeee~ Weeee~ Weeee~ Weeee~

Blaring alarms instantly went off within the spacecraft upon the appearance of Gustav, Endric and the combination of the Death Angels.

"Damn it, he followed us here," Gustav cursed.

"What the hell!?"

"Gustav?! Endric?!"

E.E and Matilda voiced consecutively.

"They have company," Elevora voiced out upon spotting the presence of the sixteen feet tall dark monstrosity in the spacecraft passenger isle.

"I told you, nobody leaves!" Multiple voices with different pitches merged, rang out loudly as the Dark tendrils shot out from the body of the massive death angel.

At this same moment, Gustav charged forward...

Bang!

Chapter 1327 You Will Become One Of Us

At this same moment, Gustav charged forward...

Bang!

He body slammed the Death Angel into the wall of the spacecraft while its tendrils shot across the place, stabbing holes into everything in its path.

Gustav and the massive death angel broke through the wall of the spacecraft, immediately causing a wind turbulence within.

At this point they were so high off the ground, they were only a few feet away from one of the portals activated to help spacecraft get out of the planet easily without the disturbance of the dark hole threatening to swallow everything up.

"Big brother!" Endric yelled as the spacecraft quaked intensely.

'Don't come!' He heard Gustav's voice ring out in his mind which made him pause since he was about to leap through the hole created from Gustav and the combination of Death Angels blasting through the spacecraft wall.

Dhiiiiinnn~ Dhiiiiinnn~ Dhiiiiinnn~

The alarms going off had increased at this point as the space captains announced the loss of an engine.

Dark patches could be seen all around and holes due to the dark tendrils that penetrated multiple areas.

"Ahhhh!"

"Drustu Noo!"

Some of the passengers cried as over twenty people had turned into dark ash from the Death Angel's attack.

Seeing as the spacecraft had some issues due to the holes poked through it, Endric decided to seal them.

If Gustav hadn't tackled the Death Angel out the instant they appeared within the spacecraft, the entire thing would have gotten destroyed which would leave them stranded and cause a lot of casualties.

Meanwhile...

Gustav vomited a mouthful of blood as he fell from the air along with the death angel who he held onto tightly.

Three dark tendrils had pierced different parts of his body, creating large bloody gaps within.

"You fool! You would rather deliver yourself into my arms than let everyone around you perish," The sinister mixture of voices rang out as the massive Death Angel grabbed Gustav's head and turned around in mid air.

Fwwwiiiiiii~ Bang!

They slammed hard into the ground of the ninth disk, shattering everything in sight.

Wings sprouted out of Gustav's back as he grabbed the hands around his head and gathered strength to pull them away.

Thrrrihhh~ Thrrrihh~ Thhiirrh~

Eight large dark arms consecutively phased out of the death angel.

Pah! Pah! Pah! Pah! Pah!

They slapped onto the back of the hands Gustav was trying to pull off his face, increasing the pressure.

This was happening while they uncontrollably continued to smash through the ninth disk core. The darkness had covered them as they flew underneath the surface of the ninth disk, shattering the its core.

"Ughh..." Gustav groaned as his arms trembled intensely while the eight hands reinforced the pressure that was initially wrapped around his head.

The small one inch space he initially managed to create while trying to pull the hands off had closed up back and now his head was in danger of getting crushed.

'It has the power of all those Death Angel's in one... I can't... ugh...' No matter how hard Gustav tried to free himself from the grasp of the Death Angel, he couldn't contend with its strength.

His head was getting squeezed up at this point and blood began to gather in his eyes.

Trrrrhhh~

Blood trickled out of his ears and nose. To make matters worse, Gustav's body happened to be slowly decomposing currently. Dark scorch marks had appeared all over his body and he also couldn't regenerate due to the dark tendrils that were still lodged deep within.

He was getting weaker by the second.

"Your end is nigh... Outworldly..." The mixture of multiple voices rang out once more as a dark wave blasted forth from its being while it continuously dragged Gustav around.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

In just a couple more seconds, Gustav's body had shriveled intensely and was completely covered in dark patches. It looked like his life had nearly been snuffed out completely.

"Hahaha My master Amir and The Lord will reward us greatly for getting rid of the Outworldly..." The Death Angels voices rang out once more as Gustav finally stopped struggling.

Just as they were about to let go of Gustav's shriveled body, they noticed something.

"...You... how could this... what did you do..." They voiced in disorientation as they tried to let Gustav go.

...

-"Stop him," Husarius voice suddenly voiced in Endric's mind.

"What?" Endric questioned as he stopped channeling his telekinesis.

At this point, Elevora had covered the holes all across the spacecraft with solidified silvery liquid. Her silvery liquid was sturdier than the original materials used to make the spacecraft so they had done well to cover things up.

- "He has just used an ability that will cost him if he doesn't stop now," Husarius voiced.

"You looked into the fates?" Endric eyes widened as he swiftly made his way towards the airlock areas within the spacecraft.

- "No, they just showed this to me. It was unexpected," Husarius answered.

"Hubby where are you going?" Sheila yelled as Endric sped down one of the hallways.

Her loud voice drew the attention of the others

"I need to get my big brother," Endric voiced trailed off as he arrived at one of the exit points.

Angy who was laying on a medical bed within one of the rooms came to as she heard Endric's voice at the hallway. She felt lightheaded but could hear them speaking from the hallway while Elevora and a few others beside her showed expressions of concern.

"Stop Endric,"

"He wouldn't have wanted us to come out there,"

E.E and Aildris voiced in successions, trying to stop Endric from leaving.

"Yes, he wouldn't have wanted any of you out there because none of you would make it back. But i am the only one who can save him right now so you guys stay here," Endric voiced while tapping some buttons on the side of the wall.

Thisssshhhhhh~

"In the next thirty seconds, tell the captains to fly through the portal," Endric yelled while the door behind him came slamming down and another one in front opened up.

...

Down below, the entirety of the ninth disk was shattering from the inside out. The surface collapsed upon itself, crumbling to the light wall surrounding the entire planet.

In the core of the ninth disk a dark figure writhed and wriggled in pain as it continuously trashed about. It seemed to be the cause of the collapse as everything crumbled in its path.

It's multiple horns dissolved and reformed in the wake of its depraved movement.

"...You... You Vermin... How could you assimilate with us..." A mixture of voices with different pitches rang out loudly.

They all seemed to be in pain as arms phased out of this being which clawed at its body repeatedly like it was trying to rip something out of itself.

"I thought you said I was finished... you didn't think I could do something like this did you?" A relatively calm voice different from the others was heard from within this same dark being.

"...Hahaha... You... Hahaha... You will become one of us if you don't stop this..." The voices cried out once more.

"You have it wrong... you all, will become one of me," The calm voice responded from within once more.

"NOOOO!" The mixture of voices distorted as the dark body wriggled before changing form.

It slowly reduced in size from the length of around sixteen feet to six feet. The dark tendrils protruding from the body retracted along with the horns and multiple faces.

The dark figure took a humanoid form with a long hair. This humanoid form happened to be exact with Gustav's look except for his skin being completely pitch black including his eyes.

His long black hair was also another difference as he paused in place with immense dark energy radiating from his figure.

"Powerful... very powerful..." Gustav muttered as he slightly raised his right arm.

Just that little movement sent forth a surge that shattered the rest of the ninth disk. Now that the ninth disk was completely gone, a lone dark figure was the only thing that could be spotted floating in place.

"I would never have thought of using Flesh Warping like this if their body wasn't already in mine..." Gustav referenced the dark tendrils and how they held onto his head with the intent to squash it.

Gustav's original bloodline had become much more powerful than in the past so Flesh Warping also improved. Instead of just changing the form of the Death Angels which would have been incredibly difficult due to how powerful they were, Gustav decided to merge himself with them instead.

Changing their form with flesh warping would be pretty much impossible because he would have to remain in physical contact with them for a very long time but merging with them was less difficult since they were inside of him and unaware that the assimilation process was already ongoing.

It was too late by the time they realised what was going on.

"Time is up..." Gustav realised and looked up.

Fwwwheiii~

He immediately flew upwards with speed, like a shooting dark star.

"Hmm? Endric?" His face twinkled with an expression of confusion as he spotted Endric flying downwards to meet him.

"Big brother stop!" Endric yelled.

Chapter 1328 Looks Like We're Good Now

"Hmm? Endric?" His face twinkled with an expression of confusion as he spotted Endric flying downwards to meet him.

"Big brother stop!" Endric yelled.

They had a distance of nearly ten thousand feet between them but Gustav heard him clearly.

"What do you mean by stop?" Gustav inquired while increasing his speed.

"The call is happening! Let them go!" Endric yelled as they closed the distance of over nine thousand feet in an instant.

"What call?" The moment Gustav said this he felt a tug from within. It was so sharp and jarring that Gustav immediately lost his ability to breathe.

- "Hahaha you're going back with us Outworldly!"

- "We are now one!"

- "You cannot escape it!"

Loud voices rang out in his mind causing him to hold his head in pain as he paused in mid air.

Endric gritted his teeth as he increased his speed and reached out to touch Gustav who had an expression of pain on his face.

All of a sudden...

DHINDHIN!

A loud heartbeat rang out twice like a mild bomb and just as Endric was about to make contact with Gustav...

Thwwwiiiiihhhh~

Gustav's body pulled backwards at very quick pace, leaving a trail of darkness behind. It traveled backwards uncontrollably at incredible speed like it was being pulled by an unknown divine force.

"Big Brother!" Endric yelled with a terrified expression as he flew after him at his highest speed.

At this same moment when the spacecraft resumed movement...

Bang!

Within the medical room where Angy was kept, a body sized hole had appeared on the wall of the spacecraft...

A body had blasted a hole through the wall and was currently drifting towards the edge of the planet.

"Falco!" Everyone within the room yelled.

Swiihhhhhhhh~

A silver streak phased through the hole at immense speed in this same instant.

"Angy!" Elevora yelled while stretching her hand forward.

At this moment it seemed like time had paused. Falco's unconscious body seemed to have reacted to the call as Gustav's. It gotten pulled out and blasted through the walls of the spacecraft just at the entrance of the portal.

Angy immediately chased after him despite her current weak state and the blood smeared all over her face.

The moment she sped out of the hole in the spacecraft, she crossed hundreds of feet in an instant.

Falco's body which was getting pulled away in slow motion from her point of view was almost at four hundred feet away when the gravitational laws caused her to begin descending.

Angy thrust her legs forward as swiftly as she could, running on pieces of floating debris from the ninth disk to make her way towards Falco's body.

Fwwhiiii~

She used the debris in the air as pathway to step on and sped forward quickly, closing in on Falco.

Angy was only an arm's length away from Falco's unconscious body when...

Thrrrribbbbhllll~

The light barrier surrounding the entirety of what was left of Planet Ozious suddenly crumbled.

Meanwhile... on the other end...

"Big brother!" Endric stretched forth his arm as Gustav's body got pulled backwards at insane speed, closing on on the edge of the planet.

His whole figure began to warp as multiple dark faces phased in and out of different parts of body. The sounds of wailing and various pitches of voice rang out loudly.

It was at this same moment that the light barrier crumbled.

Blink~

Endric reappeared before Gustav as darkness encroached from every corner of the planet.

His forehead burst forth with powerful green light pushing the darkness away as he thrust his palm at Gustav's chest.

Bam!

His palm which emitted a silvery blue and green mixture of glows, slammed into Gustav's chest. Nine dark beings with wings and horns phased out of Gustav's back as his chest caved in from the collision.

Before Gustav body could further jet backwards, Endric grabbed hold of him and tapped on his left wrist since he had lost consciousness.

The encroaching darkness had consumed the entirety of Planet Ozious at this point but the greenish glow from Endric's forehead, preventing them from consuming Gustav and himself.

Space was ripping apart right before them, tearing open rifts upon rifts as the disks got obliterated despite their massiveness.

The Death Angels had been retrieved by the call and Gustav would have gone along with them had Endric not made it to him on time.

Zing~

A burst of blue flash encapsulated both Endric and Gustav in the next moment and they vanished.

Zing~

They reappeared within the spacecraft which was zooming through a blueish portal way.

- "Its Endric and Gustav,"

- "Looks like they're safe,"

Voices were heard within the main seating area of the spacecraft as Gustav and Endric appeared within.

"Is he okay?" A feminine voice was heard as a white figure materialised out of nowhere.

Endric whose heavy breathing was slowly calming nodded while responding, "He will be fine now, we just need to get out of here,"

"That's good to know," The figure who happened to be Miss Aimee slowly descended since she was levitating the whole time.

"Aimee are you alright?" Grand Commander Shion questioned from the side upon his arrival here.

"Yes. Why do you look like you're about to drop dead?" She questioned while raising a brow after noticing that Grand Commander Shion had noticeably aged.

"We will discuss that later, there is a problem," Grand Commander Shion said with a look of urgency.

"Where are the others?" Endric inquired after noticing that only substitutes, MBO officers and other alien species were the only ones in this area.

"We los..." Grand Commander Shion was about to answer when...

Dhiiinnn~ Dhiiinnnn~ Dhhiinnn~

The Spacecraft alarm systems began blarring loudly.

"What is it again?" Grand Commander Shion grumbled.

Endric placed Gustav's unconscious body on one of the seats and followed Miss Aimee and Grand Commander Shion to the control room.

"What is going on?" Grand Commander Shion questioned.

"The darkness... its followed us through the spacial tunnel!" One of the captains voiced with a tone of urgency.

One of the holographic screens in the control room displayed a darkness encroach from behind. The blueish spatial tunnel was getting devoured.

"This happened because we went in too late. The portal didn't vanish quick enough and now its teleporting us along with it," Grand Commander Shion quickly analysed the situation.

"It could reappear in another part of this galaxy if we don't cut it off now," Endric stated.

"Cut it off?" Grand Commander Shion voiced with concern.

"Yes... we need to destroy the spatial tunnel right now before we get to the end," Endric pointed out.

They were currently moving at light speed, yet the darkness was keeping up and even getting quicker.

"But we could end up anywhere if that happens!" One of the captains yelled.

"Better than ending up wherever that thing will if not all of this would have been for nothing and we'd all perish," Endric explained.

"I'll do it," Miss Aimee stated while levitating.

"You already expended too much of your energy," Grand Commander Shion said to her.

"I know... but I'm still a thousand times more powerful than you are in this state," Miss Aimee responded before vanishing.

Fheewww~

She reappeared outside of the spacecraft a moment after, standing in the blueish tube like dimension of the spatial tunnel.

What she said to Grand Commander Shion looked like a rude statement but it was true. Despite expending a lot of energy Miss Aimee was still the most powerful being in the spacecraft.

She literally prevented the hole from swallowing up the entirety of Planet Ozious for over an hour by continuously creating a coverage of light thousands of times brighter and hotter than Earth's sun.

Everyone within Planet Ozious at the time had no idea that this was what she did she structured it in such a way that only the outer part of the light barricade had this effect.

It was how she kept the darkness at bay for that long and also the reason she was unable to do anything else to help Gustav and the others.

Miss Aimee proceeded to stretch forth her fingers while the blistering darkness rummaged through the spatial tunnel.

A shimmering white bead sized light shot out from her fingertips in the next instant.

Miss Aimee proceeded to turn around at this point and vanished.

Frreehhhwww~

The moment she reappeared within the spacecraft a massive explosion ruptured the energy of the spatial tunnel behind them.

It looked like an exploding star as it collapsed on itself and a strong turbulence hit the spacecraft.

Dhhhinnn~ Dhiiinnn~ Dhiiinn~ Dhiiinnn~ Dhiinn~

The alarms went off like crazy as the spacecraft zoomed forward uncontrollably and the spatial tunnel contracted.

Tiinggggg~

In the next instant, the massive skyscraper sized spacecraft vanished from place.

Zing~

They reappeared in an unknown part of space and shook vigorously for a few seconds before coming to a state of stabilisation.

"Phew~" Endric let out a sigh as the spacecraft began venturing forward in deep space.

There were no planets in sight but the constellations and asteroids in the distance was proof that this part of space was normal. It was void of any disturbances that concerned the second premonition.

"Looks like we're good now," Endric voiced.

"Not quite," Grand Commander Shion shook his head as they exited the control room.

Chapter 1329 Lost In Deep Space

"Looks like we're good now," Endric voiced.

"Not quite," Grand Commander Shion shook his head as they exited the control room.

"What is it?" Endric inquired with a look of concern.

"I said there was a problem," Grand Commander Shion reiterated.

At this same moment, he spotted Aildris, E.E, Matilda, Elevora and the others approaching from up ahead with dejected looks.

"What happened guys?" Endric realised that this so called problem wasn't related with the darkness following them into the spatial tunnel way... It was something different.

"We lost Angy and Falco," Aildris announced.

Endric's face fell the instant he heard this news.

"What do you mean by Angy and Falco are lost?" A low grumbling voice rang out from behind.

Everyone turned around with guilt filled expressions as Gustav slowly sat up with a fatigued look.

"Big brother," Endric exclaimed before stepping forward to help Gustav sit up.

"I'm fine..." Gustav muttered with a disgruntled tone.

"What did you say happened to Angy and Falco?" He questioned while glaring at everyone intensely.

"...We lost them..." Aildris responded with a low tone.

"How? What happened?" Gustav tried to stand to his feet at this moment but his trembling legs prevented this.

Endric tried to help him sit down but he grabbed his arm, preventing contact.

"I said tell me what happened!" Gustav's voice rose in anguish.

"She went after Falco... He got pulled out of the spacecraft the moment we flew into the spatial tunnel," Elevora spoke.

"It happened when we heard that heartbeat sound twice... It was like Falco's body got moved by an unknown force. Before any of us could react, his body had blasted a hole through the spacecraft and was getting sucked backwards, " She stepped forward before proceeding to narrate the turn of events.

Elevora mentioned that Falco's body was already heading back towards the entrance of the spatial tunnel when Angy sped out of the spacecraft, through the same hole created from Falco's body.

Since Angy was extremely quick she had turned debris and solid matter from the ninth disk floating across space into a ladder. She reached Falco very swiftly but at the same moment, the light barrier surrounding Planet Ozious shattered.

Angy and Falco were swallowed up by the darkness before they could retrieve either of them.

"We tried but... we couldn't get to them... they're gone," Elevora voice shook as she softly spoke.

The vicinity turned silent for a few seconds as Gustav's face displayed a myriad of expressions.

"How did Falco get pulle..." Before Gustav could complete his question, his face lit up with an expression of realisation.

"The call?" Gustav turned to face Endric as he recalled what happened to his body after he merged with the death angels.

Endric nodded in response.

"Did you know it would happen to him too?" Gustav inquired while lowering his head.

"I was only capable of saving one of you... and I chose you Big Brother..." Endric stated without a shred of remorse.

"You saw it... you saw the premonitions... you could have at least informed someone!" Gustav yelled.

"There was no time. I had to act in the moment I knew what would happen. I had to pick between you or them..." Endric voiced once more but this time there was a subtle hint of regret.

If he was powerful enough he could have tried to save all three of them but he really wasn't. In that moment he only had two choices presented before him.

Save Gustav or save Angy and Falco.... He chose to the former.

"Shit! This is all my fault," Gustav mumbled with a tone of guilt.

"I should have been more careful using the dimensional bracelet... the Death Angel wouldn't have gotten into this spacecraft in the first place if it wasn't for me..."

"No big brother... If anyone is to blame, its me. I didn't see this coming. The second Premonition was not supposed to go this way..." Endric shook his head.

"Second premonition?"

"What are you two talking about?"

E.E and Matilda questioned with conflicted expressions.

Everyone else looked confused as well except for Miss Aimee.

"It's a long story kids..." Miss Aimee feet made low tapping noises as she moved towards Gustav.

She placed her hand on his head and carried his hair gently, "Don't beat yourself up about this. This was the best possible conclusion. Things could have been way worse,"

"They are gone... things are already way worse..." Gustav spoke with an obvious guilt filled tone.

He couldn't believe he had once more failed to protect his loved ones and this time Angy was included. What would he tell her parents? Her brother?

He didn't know how he was going to look them in the face and say he lost their only daughter... his lover...

Pah!

A small slap reverberated across the place, pulling Gustav out of his reverie.

"Quit mopping," She stated while slowly taking her hand off his head.

"Ouch..." Gustav winced in pain.

"They're not dead, are they?" She asked rhetorically.

"Yeah... but..."

Pah!

Miss Aimee gave him another slap on his head.

"Ouch Miss Aimee stop," Gustav held his head while drawing back.

"Since they're not dead, it means you can get them back. Quit feeling sorry for yourself and start making plans on how to get them back," Miss Aimee stated once more.

"But they're literally in another dimension now... its not going to be that simple," Gustav voiced in response.

Pah!

Miss Aimee landed yet another slap on his head.

"Stopppp," Gustav held his head and shifted away.

"Have you forgotten who you are? Did losing one battle turn you into a coward that is unwilling to do everything it takes to turn an impossible tide around?" Miss Aimee pointed at Gustav while speaking.

Gustav's eyes shimmered after hearing this...

"You're right... They're not dead... so long as they're alive, I can save them," His confidence visibly returned as his face beamed up.

"They're still alive..." He muttered once more while standing to his feet.

He could feel his strength slowly returning as his injuries began to regenerate.

Gustav's eyes turned focus as he stared at the rest of his teammates.

"We will get them back," Gustav stated with a tone of determination.

The rest of the group nodded in affirmation. Matilda who had been bawling her eyes out this whole time, cleaned her face as she regained hope.

"But how are we going to get them back?" She questioned.

#####

'How long has it been... it feels like I've been in here forever,'

Within an unknown dark space, a floating humanoid figure drifted forward endlessly. This humanoid figure seemed to be unconscious yet conscious at the same time.

'I hear voices... maybe I'll wake up soon...'

- "YOUR DEATH ANGELS BROUGHT MY SON BACK TO ME E... WHERE IS THE LAST ONE?"

'Hmm... that voice sounds familiar...' The unconscious figure floating tried to listen more keenly to the voices.

- "My Lord... One of them got trapped in the Outworldly Dimension,"

- "SUCH INCOMPETENCE. I EXPECTED BETTER FROM YOU AMIR. NOT ONLY DID YOUR DEATH ANGELS FAIL TO EXTERMINATE THE OUTWORLDLY... YOU ALSO MANAGED TO LOST ONE OF THEM. WHAT DO YOU THINK WILL HAPPEN?"

- "My Lord I apologise... We were unaware that the Outworldly had grown to such a level of strength. The Death Angels also lost a lot of their power in the other dimension making it difficult for them to successfully carry out the mission completely,"

- "EXCUSES,"

- "...I apologise my Lord... I can gather a few Vessels to retrieve the lost death angel,"

- "NO. YOU WILL FAIL AGAIN. I HAVE SEEN IT.

- "..."

"WE WILL USE THE EARTHLING,"

- "The one that arrived with My Lord's offspring?"

- "WHAT OTHER EARTHLING IS IN OUR REALM FOOL?"

- "..."

'Earthling? Who are they talking about? What do they mean by the Outworldly and who is the offspring they're referring to?' The floating unconscious figure had so many questions but in the meantime there was nothing he could do about it.

#####

(Earth's Candidates Spacecraft)

"We have another problem," Grand Commander Shion approached the group from the control room.

"Not again," Endric exclaimed with a tired expression.

"With the damages the spacecraft has taken... the gps and wormhole tracker have both gone offline," Grand Commander Shion revealed.

"What does that mean?" E.E inquired with a confounded look.

"It means we're lost in space," Aildris responded.

"First we lost Angy and Falco and now we're lost in space... this day couldn't just get any better," Matilda said with a tone of self ridicule and dejection.

"It may be night time. We wouldn't know since we're in space," Fildhor voiced from the side.

"You're not helping," Matilda threw a glare in his direction.

"What do we do now?" Sheila questioned.

"We need to get back to earth or we'll run out of food and die here," Endric answered.

"Let's start with what we can do to get the GPS and wormhole tracker back online," Gustav stated while getting to his feet.

"Grand Commander, tell the space captains to go into Cnito mode. We need to save fuel instead of travelling aimlessly across space," Gustav instructed.

"Do you think that's a good idea? Wouldn't it be better if we found a conducive planet to land and stay there till we manage to fix everything up?" Aildris suggested.

"There's no planet for the next two hundred and eighty nine million light years... We'll run out of fuel before we could even try locating one," Gustav shook his head.

"How do you... know that?" Grand Commander Shion asked with a look of bewilderment.

"Don't ask... I just do," Gustav answered before trotting forward.

Chapter 1330 Side

(The Fourth Disk)

"You can help us get some of our people out. We're all under the same alliance," Handler One said to a group of beings with multiple limbs and similar patterns of different colors all over their bodies.

They seemed to filing into a massive beastly structured spacecraft.

"My people come first before the alliance and you have put us in jeopardy by being unable to protect your planet from whatever this is," Midely Brons stated with a look of scorn as she gestured for the other Dracons to move into the spacecraft.

"We successfully managed to open portals all across different locations on every single disk that would lead to the edge of the galaxy. This will make escape easier, all I ask is for you to help save some of my people," Handler One requested with a pleading tone.

"This is on you Handler One. We the Dracons are not obligated to help," Brons Midely voiced sternly before turning around to leave.

The entrance to the spacecraft closed up and it soon lifted into the sky before flying off.

"Don't you think we should have helped them? In the next alliance meeting, they'd speak bad about us," A male Midely voiced from the side.

"It doesn't matter. This is the end for Planet Ozious. They won't be able to retain their title as one of the leaders of the alliance after this setback. Their words won't hold any weight," Brons Midely said without a shred of mercy in the tone of her voice.

Swwwiiihhhhhh~

Their spacecraft soon dissapeared into one of the portals.

On the ground...

"Hmph! We don't need their help anyways," Handler Two voiced from behind with a tone of annoyance.

"Instead of wasting our time begging for the help of these selfish beings, let's focus on getting as many of our people out of here as possible," Another Handler stated from the side.

"I'm sure others will be willing to assist like Planet Earth," Handler Two said.

"Yes, let's split up and ask the others for help. Handler two, you find the Grand Commander from earth and I'll..." Before Handler One could complete his sentence a streak of darkness descended from above.

Bang!

Dark shockwaves instantly spread from the point of impact, the moment it landed on the ground.

Handler One moved swiftly arriving hundreds of feet away.

He stabbed his insect like fingers forward, piercing into a side of the dark shockwaves and it suddenly stopped.

The dark wave of energy which was initially spreading suddenly began to box in and reduce till it turned into a small round cloud of darkness.

"Go!" He yelled to the other two handlers behind who stood in place awestruck.

"Hnm!" They both nodded before turning around and flying off.

Up ahead was a ten feet tall dark Silhouette with two massive horns and four large wings connected to its back.

It had a frowning expression on its face that stuck like a glue. The expression was never changing and extremely eerie due to its greyish hollow eyes.

"It came from above... could it have infiltrated from outside somehow?" Handler One wondered out loud as he grabbed the circular dark cloud before him.

"Grrrhhh!" The death angel growled.

A dark aura spread across the place, causing the ground and structures in the vicinity to tremble. Handler One could sense the same energy the darkness outside gave off, coming from this being.

"Whatever it is, I can't let it wreak any havoc here," As Handler One muttered, another dark streak shot downwards from a different direction.

He turned around with an expression of concern but the streak continued shooting downwards, descending past the fourth disk.

"Another one? It must be heading to the lo..." Before Handler One could complete his sentence, the Death Angel arrived before him.

The eyes on Handler One's antennas widened, "So fast..." He voiced while raising the dark circular ball of energy in his grasp.

The Death Angels claws came bearing down upon Handler One's head.

Thrrriihhhhh~

The circular ball of darkness in Handler One's grasp turned into a two foot dark thorn that looked incredibly sharp which he proceeded to stab through the neck of the Death Angel.

Puuuckkiii~

Dark blood jetted out like a fountain as the Death Angel's neck tilted to the back the moment the massive dark thorn pierced through its neck.

Handler One let out a sigh of relief as he let go of the thorn causing the Death Angel to slowly fall backwards.

"That was dangerous..." He muttered but in the next instant, the falling body of the Death Angel suddenly paused.

With incredibly swift motion, its arms moved.

"Uh?" Handler One uttered as the Death Angel which was supposed to be dead, wrapped its arms around his body.

Krrrryychhhhhh~

Bone cracking sounds rang out as it squeezed Handler One tightly to its figure before charging forward.

swwwoosshhhh~

They travelled at very fast pace across the air, as the Death Angel held Handler One before it like a shield.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

It slammed Handler One into a line up of buildings, crashing through them and causing structures to crumble like they were made of cheap wood.

"Ugh!" Handler One groaned as their figures repeatedly tore through buildings.

He gritted his pointy set of teeth before sneaking his left arm out of the Death Angel's embrace.

He grabbed the dark two feet long thorn and pulled it out of the Death Angel's throat.

"Kurrrhhh!" The Death Angel shrieked in pain but Handler One wasn't done.

The dark thorn transformed into a sharp blade teeming with destructive energy.

Swwwhiii~

Handler One sliced upwards, immediately separating the Death Angel into two halves.

Swwihhh~ Swwihhh~ Swwihhh~ Swwihhh~ Swwihhh~ Swwihhh~ Swwihhh~ Swwihhh~

He swung the dark blade a hundred times more in an instant, cutting the dark angel into tiny little pieces before it could realise what was going on.

Black goo blasted across the vicinity as Handler One flung the blade forward.

Booomm~

...

...

On the sixth layer Handler Two and three were flying downwards at a very quick pace.

"Will he be okay? That creature felt very powerful and chaotic," Handler Three questioned with a troubled tone.

"Handler One strength is close to that of the Sacred one. He can definitely hold his own," Handler Two answered without worry.

"He is that powerful?" Handler Three seemed surprised.

"He isn't number one for nothing. sigh although if the great elders had not perished with the first disk, they could have gotten everyone off the planet immediately," Handler Two pointed out with a distraught look.

"I still can't believe they're gone," Handler Three said

"I spot the Orions up ahead, let's ask them for help," Handler Two stated while pointing forward.

Fwwwwhoosshhh~

The entire planet was currently in shambles since every species was trying to get out as quickly as they could. At this point a number of alien species that visited due to IYSOP had already left.

The Ozis on the other hand were in the billions so they of course had more difficult getting their people out compared to the other species who only had a paltry sum here.

Spacecraft were loading as quickly as they could but when billions of living creatures had less than an hour to evacuate a planet, difficulties are to be expected.

Handlers were taxed with reaching out to other species to help in getting their people off as well. Earth of course had no issue with loading some of the Ozis into both their Spacecraft.

A couple of other planets helped as well and the handlers did all they could to save their people.

The Ozis reduced more in population the longer they remained due to the Death Angels wreaking havoc across the disks. A single attack from a Death Angel would wipe out hundreds of thousands of Ozis.

The high number of casualties threw the Handlers in a frenzy and they faced the Death Angel on the ninth disk alongside the MBO officers.

On the fourth Disk, Handler One faced the frowning expression Death Angel all by himself, preventing it from escaping and wreaking more havoc on the Planet.

Handler One managed to hold it back by himself but the Death Angels being manipulators of death would not die no matter what. The battle was unending.

"Get into the emergency pods now!"

The handlers in charge of directing the crowd of Ozis yelled as loudly as they could.

They were starting to run out of emergency pods and there were still hundreds of millions of Ozis left. At this point only a few minutes were left to the end of the timer countdown Miss Aimee gave them.

"You all look up," A loud voice came from the sky.

Everyone looked up and could see a massive shiny surface that bore semblance to a mirror.

Tiiinnngggggggg~

Silvery rays engulfed every single Ozis on the sixth disk and they got beamed up.

The Ozis reappeared on the surface of the mirror like object like reflections in miniature versions.

The being who had just performed this feat had a mask on but seemed to possess a cylindrical shaped head. They proceeded to keep the mirror like item in the internal part of their jacket before flying off in the direction of a portal.

On the fourth disk Handler One continuously battled the Death Angel. Multiple injuries could be spotted on his figure but he still managed to hold the creature in place.

"I do not care if I lose my life today, so long as I can keep you here," Handler One grunted as he manipulated threads of dark energy to blanket the ten feet tall abnormality.

He had converted every single energy based attack the Death Angel had used into his own.

At this point less than five minutes were left.

All of a sudden, the Death Angel turned into a dark streak and ascended very swiftly.

"What the..." Handler One quickly followed after it but wasn't fast enough.

This was the last he saw of the Death Angel since it was being summoned by the Smiley Faced Death Angel to merge.

Handler One happened to arrive at the first disk just after The merged version of the Death Angel vanished with Gustav.

