Chapter 192 - Part Two: Intruder

Mr. Arthur was surrounded by Assassin Ed's elite aura, which he loosened. "Where is Zack Lockwood, Hansen's Seed Candidate?" Assassin Ed asked, His voice was stern. He wishes to complete the task as soon as possible.

Mr. Arthur's bad promotion, on the other hand, came true. He previously speculated that it has something to do with Zack. But now that it had come true, his mind raced to find a solution. Of course, there is no way to respond to him. He had already promised his good friend James that he would look after Zack. As a result, he is unwilling to back down.

Mr. Arthur responded in a low voice, "I don't know," with a weakened face.

The Assassin, upon hearing that response, Ed's expression became distorted. He realised he was wasting his time by asking here. He only needs to spend a little more time looking for the clinic room in this building.

His palm moved faster after he made up his mind. His palm reached his chest in the blink of an eye.

Mr. Arthur's pupils constricts when he sees that, and he knows that if he doesn't do something, he will be planted. Inside, he was already dressed in an armoured suit. He infused the armour suit with his entire essence.

"Boom"

The Assassin Ed's palm collided with Mr. Arthur's armour suit, causing him to fly like a broken kite and fall to the ground.

"Blurt," Mr. Arthur exclaimed, spitting out his blood. There were a few chinks in the armour.

Mr. Arthur, on the other hand, was unconcerned about these. All he desired was a chance, so he waited patiently. Taking advantage of the situation, he immediately attempts to activate the red alarm signal via his sci-fi watch.

"It's a shambles!"

The Assassin Ed's expression darkened as he failed to locate his inner armour suit from earlier. Seeing that he intends to do something. For the first time, Assassin Ed unleashed his elemental power, shooting ice elemental energy from his palm.

"Hysss!" in the blink of an eye.

The ice elemental energy penetrated his injured body and instantly transformed it into an ice sculpture. The temperature in the area dropped dramatically.

Mr. Arthur, on the other hand, failed to notify everyone. His eyes flashed in horror as he felt the essence of elemental power. His internal organs have begun to freeze, and his breathing has become increasingly shallow.

Then Assassin Ed didn't even look at the aftermath of his attack. In search of the clinical room, he moved to other areas.

Elder Thornton, on the other hand, began to feel uneasy as time passed. So far, he hasn't found anyone. He attempts to call Mr. Arthur, but the call is not connected. When this occurs, he immediately rushes to his cabin.

When he arrived at Mr. Arthur's cabin a few minutes later. "He isn't here; where has he gone?" He uttered, then began to walk towards the main hall.

While Elder Thornton races from Mr. Arthur's cabin to find him, Assassin Ed discovers a clinic room in the opposite area.

He calmed down when he saw the Clinic room. "Finally, let's find out where you're hiding." He thought to himself. Then he noticed the monitoring system that was attached to the room. He started hacking it.

"He...He... He..." He uses his mini hacking system to unlock it while laughing.

The monitoring system was compromised. And then the door slid open.

Assassin Ed walks into the room. He frowns as he notices the room is completely dark, then expands his consciousness around the room. However, there is no result, and no one is present. "How come there is no one here?" Assassin became irritated. Is there another room nearby?" He thought to himself.

Then he began his search in search of other rooms.

Simultaneously, Elder Thornton discovers a clue. The temperature in the surrounding area is rather low, and there is some evidence of elemental energy release. He dashes towards the area right away.

Elder Thornton's face froze in disbelief when he arrived at that location a few minutes later. He came across Mr. Arthur's frozen body. He uses his moves to completely rescue him. The force caused the ice to crack one by one. Mr. Arthur's pale body is revealed. When Elder Thornton retrieves the body, he immediately sends this warm essence to Mr. Arthur's body.

He discovers active pulse,

As the warm currents rush inside, the frozen essence melts little by little. Elder Thornton pops a high level blood essence pill into his mouth after resolving some minor issues.

The blood essence pill works its magic as the warm current rushes through his vein. Little by little, the frozen blood began to melt. All of the frozen blood thaws and returns to normal. The warm current of the blood essence pill completely fuses with Mr. Arthur's blood.

As the blood began to circulate, so did the vitality. Mr. Arthur, on the other hand, is still unconscious and has not been awakened.

Elder Thornton examines his injury and makes a diagnosis. "Fortunately, he was wearing inner armour!" He thought to himself. Seeing the blood circulation, he gave him another vitality pill to speed it up. Some time later, he confirms that there is no problem with his internal system. Elder Thornton sighed contentedly.

"Thank goodness this guy is a strong Peak level Trainee Warrior" Otherwise, it's impossible to save him," he reasoned. Mr. Arthur is still unconscious, and it will take a few days for him to regain consciousness. He'll be fine after that.

Elder Thornton's face tightened as he considered the intruder. It is not something that a low-level intruder can do. "Elite level strength and hacking ability." Who is the adversary? I need to inform that esteemed individual." He reflected to himself. Given Mr. Arthur's condition, that's correct.

Elder Thornton recognised that his opponent is Elite or higher. If two elite level warriors fight each other. The surrounding area were then reduced to ruins. As a result, Elder Thornton spends the majority of his time reserving his physical energy. As often as possible. He couldn't imagine what would happen if two of them got into a fight inside the building.

Elder Thornton then carried Arthur's body to the treatment room. He really wants to call the hospital, but there is still an intruder inside. He doesn't want to be the cause of any casualties. As a result, He decides to place his body in a clinic room. Then he'll track down the intruder. In any case, the underground battle arena is safe. As a result, he is unconcerned.

Assassin Ed, on the other hand, began ranting furiously, "Could it be that intel is incorrect? What happened to him? No, because that guy didn't respond earlier. "I believe they put that brat in a safe place." From bottom to top, he nearly covered the entire area. Nonetheless, he came up empty-handed. He began to race his mind in an attempt to find a solution.

"Perhaps they have some hidden facility." He thought to himself.

Then he checks the potential location right away. First, he rushes to the underground arena's entrance. Elder Thornton arrives in the clinic room at the same time. His footsteps came to a halt. He noticed the clinic room was open. To check, he cautiously spreads his consciousness. He rushes inside when he notices that no one is there.

"He came to get Zack!" This is not something Crimson Hall is capable of accomplishing. It appears that the handwriting behind the scenes is quite large; I need to know who the enemy is. Otherwise, that kid will have a difficult time escaping." Elder Thornton reflected to himself.

Elder Thornton's expression is solemn; he, too, is an Elite warrior. However, considering the opponent's elemental ability and other unknown hole cards. He began to have reservations, but he decided to confront him. He, too, has additional responsibility to attack the intruder as Chairman of the Hansen campus.

Following the placement of Mr. Arthur's body in the med bed. To monitor his body, he activates the room's medicinal ability. He modifies the monitoring system's access code to his personal finger print after completing some previous procedures. Even with a hacking system, it will be difficult to change the access.

He then exits the clinic room in search of the intruder. If his speculation is correct, he rushes to the underground battle arena. He might run into him there.

Assassin Ed appears at the entrance to the underground battle arena a few minutes later.

"Something is wrong with the rooms around here." He reflected to himself. He couldn't help but raise his eyebrows when he noticed the deactivated monitoring system. So far, he has not discovered a single room with a deactivated system.

He was thinking about it when he heard footsteps behind him. "Well, I can save sometime," Assassin Ed sneered inside. "The prey approaches the hunter."

Elder Thornton, on the other hand, noticed Assassin Ed. At the same time, his expression tightened.

"Can you tell me your name?" As he released his Elite aura, Elder Thornton inquired.

When Assassin Ed hears that he turns around, his lips curved slightly as he sees the old man. "Interesting!" He reflected to himself.

"Who would have guessed, a dignified elite warrior working late at night on this campus," Assassin Ed remarked sarcastically.

"Harumph!"

Elder Thornton responded with a snort.
