Chapter 247 - Part Two: Eastern Fort - Final Battle

(From MC Perspective)

When I swallowed the pill and in the next moment. I feel warm current coursing through my veins. It feels like an endless torrent of energy. Then I immediately begin to recite the lightning scripture.

Next moment, The lightning scripture rune in mind begins to flicker. As seconds went by the rune shone more dazzlingly.

My entire body is beginning to change greatly. I feel slowly the shackles beginning to lose. Starting from meridians, veins and marrow undergo a huge transformation.

A few minutes later, I touched the limit. Feeling that, I immediately concentrated those energies to break the barrier inside the dantian.

A few moments later,

"Boom"

A small crack begins to appear on the barrier. It slowly began to spread due to the constant bombardment.

Finally,

After the last crack was formed, the entire barrier tore like a piece of paper. The dantian begins to expand in size. After reaching the limit, it stopped expanding.

"Special Trainee- Mid level"

And I feel a closer connection to the lightning element. I thought it would take a few weeks to reach the Mid level. This high grade pill is something, it even solves the trouble of gathering lightning elements.

It would be good, if I get my hands on this pill recipe. It will certainly be helpful for me in this barren environment. The remaining energy settles down in my dantian. I used it to stabilize the realm.

A half an hour later,

I left the room, Seeing that Elder Thornton is looking at his sci-fi watch seriously. I called out to him, "Elder?"

"Hmmm" Elder Thornton knitted his eyebrows after hearing his name. But when he looks at Zack. A small smile appeared on his face.

"Good, But I couldn't sense your energy. You must have some artifact to hide your breath." Elder Thornton said in appreciation.

He knew Zack had a successful breakthrough from looking at his smiling face. Then Elder Thornton added, " Since, You broke through. It's time for me to fill you in with some details."

I smiled embarrassingly hearing the name of the artifact. Sometime ago, I thought the artifact stopped working. But it looks fine. Who could have thought that I might face a threat from Elites? I need to find a way to upgrade the artifact.

Then I sat in a nearby seat to listen to Elder Thornton. The other hand, Elder Thornton quickly summarized what happened in the meeting. At first my expression was normal, but when he stated the current plight of Star Tower. It really broke my view.

Even the omnipotent Star Tower is facing challenges. Thinking about it I had a wry smile on my face. "Gosh, This is too much. Who could give this much trouble to Star Tower" I said in a frustrated tone.

Fortunately, I have completed my challenge earlier.

Elder Thornton on the other hand nodded hearing Zack's mumbling. He too feels unreal seeing what's happening. Then he looked at Zack and said, "In a few minutes, I will receive a mission notice from Star Tower. After my leaving, you can go back to their place to get accommodated."

I nodded heading that. It would be better if I could kill a few underlings. But I hope the matter won't come to such an end.

At Crimson Hall Team's inn,

"Ella, This place is getting worse. Why is our organization still waiting at the northern border?" Sallie said with frustration.

She is brooded about the fact that their organization's Elders were hesitating to come inside the city.

Ella quietly listened to her friends murmuring. Both of them stayed inside one room. Under their organization instruction they have collected some intel about other participants. Later, they sent it to the organization.

But it's been days since there has been no reply from the people. In frustration each of them contracted their own family to know about the situation.

Finally, from their parents they came to know that warrior from their organizations waiting at the northern border. But that's it, they have yet to receive any developments from them.

"Ella?" Sallie calls out.

Ella Downs looks at her friend. She knows her friend is worrying unnecessarily. So, she said, "Sallie, Calm down for a moment. Just stop overthinking. People won't be foolish enough to attack government buildings."

"Harumph"

"Just look at these broadcasting sites. So many elite powerhouses are attacking the border towns. And there is no support so far from other known organizations." Sallie refutes her words annoyingly.

Ella shook her head in rejection. She knew it's impossible to convince her.

At the Eastern Fort,

Elder Dorothy kicked scar faced abdomen to end him clearly.

The other hand, The Scar Faced Peak Elite Warrior fainted due to earlier attack.

Now, when Elder Dorothy's kick lands on his abdomen. His internal organs burst open and He died unconsciously.

She sighed in relief after confirming his death. Then in the next seconds she feels a burning sensation over her body, she knows time is running out.

Without wasting any more time, She moves towards the bald headed warrior to kill him before getting paralyzed.

The other hand, due to the attack of flamethrowers the bald head warrior's defensive armor fell off completely. He is holding the last straw of his life. Which is next ended by Elder Dorothy.

After finishing him she feels one by one her organs beginning to slow down. She turned towards Elder Smith and said, "Elder Smith, You can clear out the remaining pests." After saying that she moved toward the eastern fort building to get rest.

The other hand, A huge commotion breaks out in the crowd below. They thought they had achieved victory. But who would have thought this would result in their leaders dying one by one in the blink of an eye.

Feeling scared one by one the crowd starts to flee. Which is noticed by Elder Smith. He feels bad from the beginning to the end . He acted like a sidekick. So, he took out his anger on those fleeing Warriors.

He placed the artifact back in his storage ring. Then he created several flame balls and finally threw them into the crowd.

"Hiss!"

The enemy faction warriors died in agonizing pain. The flame ball covered everyone. In a matter of seconds, everyone roasted and turned to ashes. Some time later, After finishing everyone he sighed in relief. Looking at the destruction on both sides, he uttered, "It's a huge loss. They have lost their entire army. On top of it Elder Dorothy's combat ability is compromised."

Right now, He is the only one remaining in the fort. Just as he sighed.

"He...He...He..."

"To think eastern fort is reduced to such a state. What is sight seeing? It's a cooling sensation to our eyes." Team Leader Palmer said in hearty laughter.

At this time his subordinate also commented, "Leader, You made a good decision to not interfere while they were fighting. But now we have achieved victory without even sweating"

The other nine warriors behind him also echoed the same opinion. They were quite scared earlier watching the battle between the elites. But now everyone is dead, leaving behind only one Elite.

"Not good!" Elder Smith noticed the arrival of a new team.

He thought everything was over. But looking at these people he finally realized something. There are still some people who are waiting to fish in the chaotic water. He smiled helplessly, "Looks like we are doomed. Elder Dorothy is already paralyzed. I don't have any essence left. "

The other hand,

"Hmm" Team leader Palmer noticed Elder Smith's presence.

"Looks like his oil has run out" He smirked triumphantly.

He already observed their battle. He is quite scared of that bloodline warrior. But seeing her overwhelming power, He knew she perhaps consumed some forbidden liquid. It's a matter of time before she loses her strength. So, he waited patiently.

Right now, he thought he shouldn't give him any more chance to recover his essence. So, he gestures to his lackeys to back away. Then he made his next attack.

"It's much more exciting fighting against Fire Element Warrior" after saying that he launched several gigantic water arrows at him.

Several long water arrows made their way towards the Elder Smith who is resigned to his fate now.

Seeing those arrows, team leader Palmer sneered, "Let's see how you can escape my arrows."

The other hand all of his lackeys looked at this attack gloating. It's a matter of time before they infiltrate the city.

The other hand his subordinate commented, "Harumph, After this Martin Dyers won't escape from Leader's clutches."

Elder Smith essence is dried out, earlier due to anger he used his remaining essence on those low level warriors. Now at this moment, he can't even save himself. "What a turn around?" He sighed.

Sensing the power of those arrows, he knows the opponent is another Peak Elite. Shaking his head, He thought, "It's futile to expect any more help on our side. It's too late"

Even if someone comes here to assist them. It's useless. Because these Warriors had already infiltrated our city at that time.

He didn't even try to defend.. It's futile.
