Chapter 271 Initial - Special Trainee - Body

(From MC Perspective)

Listening to her advice, I nodded back at her and said, "Don't worry, I know what I'm getting into."

Then after having a few conversations, we both entered into our own essence filled chamber separately.

"Sigh"

"Crimson Hall's reputation is rotten to the core. It's really surprising that no one took care of them so far. If it were another organisation, they would have been long eliminated from this world." I said to myself while observing the essence filled chamber.

I had already set the timings, in ten minutes the world's essence energy will pour into this room.

In the meantime, I need to sort out the materials. After making up my mind, I sat cross legged on the ground. From the storage ring, I take out four metallic cases and placed it before me on the ground.

Inside the metallic case there were four blood essence pills. I hope that it will be enough for my breakthrough. Ever since I felt the barrier in the Physique level, I had waited for perfect conditions to get breakthrough.

Now, that everything is in place. I took a deep breath and exhaled it. I took the first metallic case. After opening it, I placed the exquisite blood red pill on my palm.

A 10 Minutes later, As the essence starts to fill in the room. I swallowed the pill without any hesitation. As the blood essence pill enters my body, I can feel that the pill is beginning to melt slowly and the hot blood essence liquid is starting to come out of it.

I immediately began to recite blood cultivation method. I can feel my dormant blood element is beginning to respond. When I started reciting blood cultivation words, the usual phenomenon takes place.

The bloody red rune in mind begins to shine bright. While it started to flicker brightly, a hazy blood light came out of nowhere from my body and it immediately envelops the blood essence energy like its prey.

Slowly, the conversion takes place and the formidable white energy is being released by the hazy blood light. It slowly consumes the blood essence energy. Those white energies begin to drill into my skeleton bones.

When white energy pierced into my bones like a needle, I felt heart wrenching pain. While gritting my teeth, I continue to endure it. I clearly know the horror of the blood method. With my formidable Physique alone, I cleared most of the floors in Star Tower. It's just that I'm lacking a suitable technique for it.

Time progresses,

The blood essence energy starts to dry out as the time went on. In few minutes it will dry out completely. Small sweat beads dripping from my forehead, it's really getting hard to get used to such pain. I can perceive my skeleton's blood red color is being thickened further and it slowly begins to expand to other areas.

Several minutes later,

"Finally" I said.

I can feel the solid invisible barrier preventing me from getting breakthrough. To tear it apart, I need to consume two more blood essence pills. Then without any delay, I acted faster. I opened the second case and swallowed the second pill.

Soon, I followed the same procedure and waited for the solid barrier to become thin.

Time progresses,

I consumed a third pill and this time I can feel the barrier is getting thin. I have a vague feeling that as long as I consume one more pill I will achieve a breakthrough. But this is going to be my last blood essence pill.

Looks like even if I get breakthroughs, I need to consolidate it with the use of monster cores.

After letting out a sigh, I consumed the last blood essence pill. And this time as predicted the barrier didn't put any resistance as the energy tore it through to reach the next level.

"Initial Special Trainee- Body"

After stepping into a new level, a warm energy began to course through my veins. The bones, veins and bone marrow were undergoing huge transformation. I can feel new profound strength is lying dormant in my cells.

"Amazing" I mumbled under my breath.

Now that both my body and essence were at the same level. I can feel somewhat relaxed. To consolidate the level, I took the Class 3 Monster cores from my storage ring.

I started reciting blood method after placing my palm on the monster cores. Slowly, I begin to suck the energy with the help of a bloody rune in my mind. A very hot energy is coursing through my veins. Like always, the hazy blood light begins to convert the energy.

Time progresses,

"Phew" I finally consolidated my level after consuming two monster cores. Looks like hereafter I need to look out for more resources. After getting each breakthrough the amount of resources it requires is also increased.

With my perception, I observed internally. Where I can see my physique undergone a qualitative change. So now I can say that I've officially entered Level 2 in Domain Physique. To get the approval of inheritance, I need to reach Level 15 in Domain Physique.

"Level 15 uh?" I muttered. It's really too far for me right now. But I will get there eventually one day. I really want to see what kind of inheritance it is? Which requires such harsh conditions.

Shaking my head, I put these thoughts behind my mind. Right now, I need to focus on exhibition events. So far no one spoke about the event, including Elder Thornton. I wonder if it's the same as Star Tower. Then it would be really boring.

Since my physique is levelled up, I don't need to use my lightning element. Suddenly, a thought came to my mind. I released aura of both element from my body. Two different distinct aura quickly spread around me. One is purple in color, while other aura has a light red hue in it. I wonder, since it's a blood element, why isn't it entirely red?

Talking about blood element ability, I have innate blood element ability. It's an invisible aura or shield. I couldn't able to distinguish it clearly. I even got it confused with my blood element aura. Inorder to confirm it, I need to do lot of experiments. I remember last time, I scared my senior by releasing the invisible aura. It's colorless attribute is really useful to me.
