

The Bloodline System

Chapter 41: Beast Transformation Strength

Angy turned around immediately, in her eyes was a look of dread.

Swwoosshh!

She dashed towards the Blood wolf and the man who were about hundred feet away from her position.

But immediately she dashed out the blood wolf had already raised its paws and was already slashing his claws down towards the body of the man.

Even though Angy speed was great, she could only cover about forty feet in a second which meant it would take her close to three seconds to cross hundred feet but the Blood wolf only needed a second for his attack to make contact with the man.

Gustav who happened to be closer to Angy's side finally moved.

'If he harms even one of them, it means I will fail the quest,' Gustav said internally.

"Fuul!" Gustav sucked in air into his lungs as he slightly crouched.

The entire scene had turned quiet again and even with Angy's great speed, her movement was like a tortoise to Gustav right now.

The claws of the Blood wolf were slowly descending upon the man's head and were only a few inches away from making contact.

The people in the neighborhood had their mouths opened in fright as their lips slowly circulated, proving that they were speaking but in slow motion.

Swooshhh!

Gustav dashed towards the Bloodwolf.

He passed Angy's side and arrived at the left side of the wolf whose claws were already close to the neck of the man.

Gustav was like a dwarf before the Bloodwolf. He threw a fierce jab towards its side.

Bam!

His fist made contact with the bloodwolf left rib area.

The wolf whimpered in pain as the force lifted its entire body weight and launched it towards the building three meters to the side.

Bang!

It slammed heavily into the wall.

Angy who was running towards the Bloodwolf with as much speed as she could muster, only saw a silhouette streak past her, causing a small breeze to blow her hair upwards.

Before she knew what was happening a loud collision rang out and the Bloodwolf was sent crashing into the building by the right side.

She paused her movement in bewilderment and stared at the person responsible for the incident.

"Gustav!" She exclaimed with a shocked look while staring at him standing with his right arm outstretched.

The man who thought his death was certain only saw Gustav appear in front of him like a phantom.

His eyes were still widened in shock.

-"Oh my, isn't that our new neighbor?"

The neighbors in the area were pleasantly surprised, not only at the revelation but at the fact that a single attack could blow the Blood wolf away.

The wolf's weight caused cracks across the wall.

It stood up with a look of pain and anguish while staring at Gustav.

Gustav deactivated sprint immediately he landed the hit.

He didn't want to use up his energy completely since he might still need it for emergencies that may arise. He was just being cautious.

'So it only got slightly injured even though the force of my punch was multiplied by two,' Gustav analyzed as he stared at the bloodwolf.

He felt his fist didn't penetrate deep enough. It was like there was an elastic force on the body of the Bloodwolf that absorbed a part of the force.

The wolf dashed towards Gustav with a crazed look, slashing at him with Rage.

The neighbors were already started to have hope after seeing that another mixed-blood was here but Gustav next action shocked them.

He turned around and fled.

"Uh? Why is he running away?" This was the question in everyone's mind.

"Angy stay here with everyone!" Gustav shouted out as he ran towards the end of the street with the wolf chasing after him.

Angy couldn't even follow if she wanted to because not only was their speed fast, her stamina was also running out.

Although she was worried about Gustav.

Gustav's normal speed was faster than that of the Bloodwolf so he was able to lead it past the street repeatedly.

Gustav had already attracted its agro so it wasn't ready to give up chase yet.

Also sometimes Gustav would slow down so the bloodwolf would think it was catching up, only for him to speed off again.

This game of tag continued until they left the residential area and started transversing through the sparse forest behind.

swoosh! swoooshhh!

They dashed past several trees on the side.

They got farther ahead to where the trees were starting to increase in number.

After a few more seconds Gustav suddenly stopped running.

Shhssshh!

Due to the sudden pause, Gustav slid a few inches forward but he used that to turn around.

The Bloodwolf also paused. In its mind, it wondered why its prey would suddenly stop running.

It had a look of delight as it felt Gustav was probably tired of escaping and had decided to accept his death.

The Bloodwolf licked its lips as it moved slowly towards Gustav.

All of a sudden it saw Gustav smiling at it which baffled it.

"Finally I can test this out... thank you for being my first test subject," Gustav said with a wide grin plastered on his face.

The bloodwolf couldn't understand what Gustav was saying but its senses were telling it that this person in front was dangerous but looking at Gustav from head to toe he could only see him as a weak-looking person until it heard Gustav mutter something.

Right before its very eyes, the bloodwolf watched Gustav's body start expanding.

Gustav saw the notification appear in his line of sight as his muscles bugled tearing open his sweater.

His back became broader as his skin started turning red and two elongated horns grew out from the sides of his skull

It only took about three seconds before he transformed completely.

He was now close to two meters in height. His sweater had expanded to the point that some parts had torn apart.

Bulging muscles.

Broad chest like that of a gorilla.

Seven inches tusks!

Two horns!

Gustav looked extremely intimidating right now even though he wasn't as tall as the bloodwolf.

The bloodwolf stared at him with a wary look but at the same time, it wasn't ready to back down.

"I've been wanting to couple this with my current strength and see how strong I would become... you're the perfect test subject," Gustav stated with a thick voice as he walked forward.

Gustav knew that without the use of sprint or any speed-related ability it would be almost impossible to defeat the Bloodwolf so he decided to lead it to an empty place so he would finally be able to test out the beast Transformation Bloodline away from the eyes of others. Also if he kept using sprint, his energy would be spent in four seconds.

"Awooo!"

The bloodwolf howled with unwillingness, the arrogant look in Gustav's eyes had angered it.

Swoooshhh!

Both of them dashed towards one another.

Gustav could feel the increase of his strength and his speed and he was enjoying it.

He leaped four meters into the air and threw his fist out as he descended.

The bloodwolf reacted by swinging its paws upwards to meet Gustav's blow.

Gustav twisted his body sideways in mid-air, dodging the claws of the bloodwolf as his fist descended upon its head.

Bam!

The entire body of the bloodwolf slammed onto the ground. Gustav's fist was still resting on its head after descending, pinning its jaw to the ground.

The bloodwolf grunted in pain as blood dripped down its face from the top of its head. It was feeling woozy after Gustav hit its head.

Gustav pulled the head of the bloodwolf and lifted its body off the ground.

"Ugh!" Gustav groaned as he carried the full bodyweight of the bloodwolf which weighed more than seven thousand kilograms.

Gustav flung its body towards a small tree on the right side.

Bang!

The body of the bloodwolf slammed into the tree, causing it to snap in half.

Chapter 42: Cops Arrival

Bam!

The weight of the bloodwolf caused the tree to come crashing down.

Gustav purposely attacked its head first because he knew the elasticity of its skin would make it harder to defeat the mixed-breed creature quickly.

Gustav dashed towards the bloodwolf again.

The bloodwolf eyes were still woozy from the attacks but it quickly stood up before Gustav's next attack could arrive.

"Awooo!" It howled again as it dashed towards Gustav.

Slash! Slash!

The bloodwolf threw out several consecutive slashes towards Gustav.

Gustav was able to dodge them with ease but the wolf seemed to be protecting its head against Gustav so he wouldn't get the opportunity to attack it again.

Gustav had to settle for attacking its body for the time being.

Bam! Bam!

Gustav slapped the right paw of the bloodwolf to his left causing it to spread its arm apart.

It's right chest was opened for a split second.

Gustav wasted no time in sending out his palm toward its chest after creating an opening.

Bam!

Gustav's palm slammed into the chest of the bloodwolf causing it to cave in as it was sent flying three meters backward.

Bam!

It slammed into another tree causing the stem to blast into smithereens.

Gustav only had three fingers due to the transformation but it was enough to beat the crap out of the bloodwolf.

Gustav leaped out again. His body traveled in mid-air towards the position of the bull as his right foot stomped out.

Bam!

A small cloud of dust was formed as the bloodwolf's head was stomped several inches into the ground with blood flying out of its face in all directions.

Gustav lifted his blood-soaked foot from the head of the wolf who had its face smashed in.

Gustav stared at it for a while. 'That should have done it,' He thought internally.

Surprisingly the bloodwolf suddenly jumped up and ran in the opposite direction.

Its speed was so quick that it shocked even Gustav.

'Isn't it supposed to be dead?' Gustav wondered as he chased from behind.

The bloodwolf's face that was bloody initially started to go back to normal as the blood smeared all over, retracted back into the injuries. It was healing up at a visible rate.

It's left chest area that caved in due to Gustav's palm strike had regained its initial appearance.

Gustav was catching up with it but he had noticed that the bloodwolf was regenerating.

'It can regenerate?' He was surprised since he had no information whatsoever on Mixedbreeds.

'I can't let it get away... what if it affects my quest,' Gustav increased his running speed while activated dash.

Swoosh!

Gustav's increase in speed made him arrive in front of the bloodwolf in a few seconds but just as he wanted to attack it again the bloodwolf howled once more.

"Awoooo!"

Its eyes turned from dark red to crimson and started glowing very bright. The darkness further enhanced its fierceness.

Its fur turned from brown to red.

The creature looked intimidating but Gustav couldn't sense any threat from it even with its transformation.

He didn't want to waste dash which only had about eight seconds left so he quickly moved forward and threw his fist towards its chest.

Bam!

The first collision made Gustav understand what change the bloodwolf's transformation brought about to its body.

It was like he was hitting steel but Gustav didn't pause because right now he was still very much quicker and stronger than the bloodwolf and with his increase in speed his punches carried more weight than before.

Bam! Bam! Bam! Bam! Bam!

Gustav didn't hold on for even a second as his punches tossed the bloodwolf around like a rag doll.

Gustav's fist danced around the body of the bloodwolf.

Just as dash got to one second Gustav poured strength into his left arm and swung it out at full force.

Bang!

His fist slammed heavily into the face of the bloodwolf causing its fangs to break into two as it was sent flying backwards.

A skull-cracking sound rang out as blood jetted out from a tiny hole on its head.

Bam!

Its body collapsed on the ground again but this time Gustav didn't want to be fooled by it again.

He dashed towards its body on the ground.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

Sounds of collision echoed in the dark of night.

Back in the neighborhood, the cops had arrived and Angy was leading them towards the direction of the sparse forest behind the residential area.

An ambulance had arrived and the people living inside that apartment had been rushed to the hospital.

A married couple that stayed in that apartment.

Both of them had their limbs and parts of their body bitten off by the blood wolf but they were still alive.

This was because they were mixed-bloods but it was obvious that they were on the weak side.

They only survived because mixed-bloods were tenacious enough to stay alive for longer periods unless their head was torn off.

Normally they would just be given a healing pill to help regrow their limbs but due to the late arrival of the health department, they had already lost too much blood and energy so some health procedures needed to be put in place first before they could give them the pill.

Luckily no one lost their life. The gathering of everyone outside of the apartment was what grabbed the attention of the bloodwolf and caused it to come out.

The cops were dressed in some black armored-looking suits, carrying some technological looking weapons with them.

The suit had blue lines all over the body that glowed in the dark of the night as they transversed towards the sparse forest region.

They had a sci-fi-like helmet covering their heads.

"That person must be dead already chief why are we bothering to do this, and he lead the Mixedbreed away, there's no way we're going to find it!" One of the male cops voiced out

"He's not dead! he's a mixed-blood so I'm sure he cannot die easily," Angy voiced out with a dissatisfied look as glared at the male cops with a thin frame.

"It doesn't matter if he's a mixed-blood... That's a level two mixed-breed! Only a step three Zulu ranked mixed-blood can defeat it! Is he a step four? From your description, he's just a kid around your age. He's definitely..." Before the male could complete his statement the cop at the front interrupted.

"I can sense a person up ahead, approximately at our ten o'clock seventy-eight meters away," It was a female voice.

The rest of them had looks of bafflement because they didn't hear her say animal, they heard her say, person.

At this point, they were already transversing through the forest of sparse trees.

'It has to be Gustav,' Angy prayed internally because she was starting to get scared after hearing the statement of the cop. She could already tell that Gustav was a Zulu ranked which shocked her greatly but she didn't think he would be step 3.

"Subject is approaching! I repeat subject is approaching!" The female in front was the one with the scanner, reading the environment around them.

After a few more minutes of running, they could see a silhouette coming towards their direction up ahead.

In a few more seconds they could finally see the figure of the person clearly who happened to be a teenage boy with dirty blond hair and torn blue sweater stained with blood.

"Gustav!" Angy shouted out as she ran with a face full of smiles.

The cops wanted to stop her at first since they were supposed to inspect him first but she was too fast for them.

She arrived before Gustav and locked him in a tight embrace.

Gustav's eyes widened as received an embrace from the opposite sex, for the first time in his life.

Her arms were wrapped around his back and her chest pressed tightly to his with his face only a few centimeters away from the side of her neck.

The warmth and her body fragrance were nothing like he had ever felt before.

It was sending such electricity to his brains that he forgot to return the embrace and for that short moment his mind was disconnected from the world.

"Hey, are you alright?" Angy moved back and held his shoulders as she questioned with a look of concern.

Gustav finally snapped out of his reverie and nodded slightly.

"Hey boy, how are you still alive?" The same man who was speaking earlier questioned but just as he did he received a punch from one of the cops in front.

"Be polite," Another feminine voice was heard as one of them walked forward while removing the helmet on her head.

A beautiful feminine face was revealed.

"Chief, why did you hit me?" The man grunted out in pain as he held his chest.

"Shut up," She said as she walked towards Gustav and Angy.

"Are you alright?" She questioned.

Gustav stared at the beautiful female who sported red hair with white strands.

"I'm good," He answered.

"You're not hurt anywhere? Or do we have to call medic?" She questioned again.

"I said I'm fine," Gustav answered with a slightly pissed-off look.

"Good, where did the Mixedbreed escape to? Tell us the direction so we can go after it!" She demanded.

They felt the Mixedbreed must have fled after sensing them approaching since mixed-breeds had good senses.

"Escaped?" Gustav questioned.

"Yes in which direction did it escape to?" She repeated her question.

"It didn't escape, I killed it!" Gustav answered with an aloof expression.

Silence!

Everyone stared at him with disbelieving expressions as if he had just spouted out nonsense.

"Hey boy are you having some kind of brain malfunction or something? You're wasting our time, In which direction did it head to?" The same man shouted out from the background again.

"I just told you that I killed it!" Gustav spoke while bringing out the storage button in his pocket.

Tap!

He tapped on it twice and also tapped a part of the holographic projection that appeared above it.

Zing!

The battered corpse of the bloodwolf appeared with a flash of blue light.

"What?"

Everyone stared at the body of the bloodwolf with a look of bewilderment.

There will be some explanation on Mixedbreeds in the next chapter. Also what happened after Gustav killed the mixedbreed will be mentioned.

Don't forget to use your stones.

3100 power stones = 2 chapters per day

This is the goal right now.

Chapter 43: Charm Achieved

Zing!

The battered corpse of the bloodwolf appeared with a flash of blue light.

"What!!!!?"

Everyone stared at the body of the bloodwolf with looks of bewilderment.

The head of the bloodwolf was only hanging to its neck by a small thread-like red tissue. Holes the size of a fist could be seen all over its body and fresh blood still dripped out of them. Its face was extremely sunken. It was obvious that the bloodwolf had taken one hell of a beating before its death.

Everyone still stared at Gustav with surprise.

'He must be a step three Zulu ranked or maybe a step four,' They had come to this conclusion after seeing the body of the bloodwolf.

The cop who was speaking beforehand became dead silent after seeing the proof appear before them.

Every rank had four steps and those steps need to be passed through before progressing to the next rank. Right now Gustav was a step one Zulu ranked but these cops had mistaken him for a step 3.

This really surprised them because they felt only kids with high-graded Bloodlines would be able to reach step four so fast and this part of the city was more on the rural side. It was impossible to find a mixed-blood with a very high graded bloodline here.

Angy was only C-grade in the entire area. The reason she was able to go against the bloodwolf even though she wasn't at Zulu rank yet was due to her bloodline ability being speed-related. When Angy was first born she had one horn but later she grew another and when that happened she became faster in speed. She wasn't even Zulu ranked mixed-blood, yet her speed was close to that of Gustav's.

'That device in his hand,' The woman who happened to the leader noticed the storage button.

"You attend Echelon Academy?" The woman inquired.

"Yes, any problem with that?" Gustav replied while putting the body of the wolf back in his storage device with a slight scoff escaping his mouth.

'That makes sense now,' She thought internally.

Echelon Academy has always been known to be the best in raising mixed-bloods and also having high graded ones. If it was another school within the city she would still be in disbelief but Echelon Academy was said to have the best students with potential.

She had no idea that Gustav was just an E+ grade right now.

The other officers too thought it made sense.

"I am officer Betty and these are my subordinates," The woman finally introduced herself and reached out her hand to shake Gustav.

Gustav returned the handshake and turned to the side to leave.

"Let's go, Angy," He said as he walked forward.

"Please wait, would you like to give us the corpse of the bloodwolf for inspection?" Officer Betty asked.

"No!" Gustav answered without looking back.

Angy followed beside him and stared at the side of his face occasionally.

She could sense that Gustav didn't like being around people and it bothered her but she didn't want to intrude, so she decided not to ask for now.

"Such arrogant bastard, that's the way they all are," One of the men voiced out from the side as watched Gustav leave with Angy.

This made them further believe that Gustav was truly a student of Echelon Academy as it has been said to be a school where arrogant brats attend.

"Well we can't do anything about it, he did kill it himself," Officer Betty said.

"I wish I was that powerful without having to use these tools," One of the men sighed in dissatisfaction and adoration as he stared at the departing Gustav.

"What is going on with these creatures nowadays chief? I wonder how they keep getting in," The man with the thin frame spoke.

"No one knows. HQ won't send us more troops to work with and conduct a proper investigation since this place happens to be on the more local side. Also, this should be the work of the MBO but those bastards won't bother showing up for things like this," Officer Betty brought out a cigarette and lit it as she spoke.

Puff!

Her look of frustration calmed a bit as she blew out a small cloud of smoke from her mouth and nostrils.

"Chief we're still on duty," One of the men reminded her.

"Shut up," She said and threw the cigarette to the floor.

"We still need to write down a report so, Sam, Brian, and Mika go ask the neighbors about the incident... Fred and Rain, scout this area," Officer Betty gave out those set of instructions and started walking in the direction of Gustav and Angy.

The police force was different from the MBO. They had different duties. MBO dealt with anything related to bloodline while the police force was equipped to deal with normal crimes.

What happened in this neighborhood was supposed to be dealt with by the MBO but the neighborhood didn't think of calling the MBO because it would be a waste of time.

The MBO detested this part of the city and when it came to weak monsters like a level two mixed-breed, they would ignore it feeling it was beneath them to bother themselves with such weak creatures.

Most of the officers in the police force were low-ranked mixbloods. A lot of them didn't surpass the Zulu rank including the bunch that arrived here, some of them never even got to channeled their bloodline past the third point but their equipment and technological arms made up for that. Still, the police force was seen as low due to this factor and most failed mixed-bloods tend to go for it rather than trying to join the MBO.

Gustav and Angy discussed the incident on the way back to the neighborhood and Gustav realized that this wasn't the first time this was happening.

It had been happening for a while now. Occasionally mixed-breeds would find a way to cross the border and this part of the city always suffered from that. She even added that residents around this area had lost their lives to such incidents in the past.

This had Gustav wondering how such a situation had been happening but was unknown to the general public. Was never broadcasted by any news channel, neither was it seen on any media platforms.

"Did they not complain to the authorities? How did such situations get swept under the rugs?" Gustav couldn't understand how and why the situation hadn't been rectified.

Angy explained to him that the situation only occurred occasionally and since the mixed-breeds never infiltrated past the edge of the city, the government were alright with it even though one or two people died it wasn't a big deal for them.

Gustav had always known that society was shitty so he wasn't all too surprised by this.

They later arrived in the neighborhood and everywhere became chaotic again after the neighbors saw that Gustav was alright.

Right now up to fifty people within the neighborhood had gathered around their building.

People started thanking Gustav for leading the bloodwolf away.

The man whose life Gustav saved was in tears thanking Gustav.

Gustav was new to this kind of situation so he didn't know how to respond. He only smiled and nodded at them.

A lot of other young people his age flocked around him and praised him with reverence.

Gustav finally saw a notification he had been waiting on for the past two months appear in his line of sight.

He couldn't express the way he felt at this time but it wasn't a bad feeling in any way.

It till around ten p.m in the evening before things settled down.

Sorry for the late release again. Bank situation and lack of data. I do not plan to make late release a trend. I apologize again.

As promised, two chapters for today. If we remain at the top 100 till the end of the week, next week's release rate will increase to two chapters per day. Don't stop voting.

Thank you all.

Chapter 44: Collection Plans

The neighborhood later found out that Gustav killed the bloodwolf and we're pleasantly surprised. They treated Gustav with more respect after hearing that.

The cops had questioned people about the incident, including Gustav and Angy.

It wasn't till around eleven p.m before people started entering their apartments.

Gustav was invited by Angy parents for dinner that night. He wanted to decline initially but he couldn't refuse Angy's persuasion.

Even though he found it annoying, it was a trait he still admired about her.

It was Gustav's first time entering their apartment so obviously, he looked around the living room.

He noticed that it was no different from his in size it also looked quite humble unlike his that had a lot of expensive gadgets and the likes.

The meal was ready in no time which Gustav was grateful about because Angy wouldn't stop talking.

They proceeded to the dining and started feasting on the meal after a small family prayer was done.

All this was still very new to Gustav, he never even knew that family prayer was said before a meal since he couldn't remember the last time he had one of those.

Seeing everyone around him dig in; Angy, her mother, father, and brother, gave Gustav a kind of weird feeling but not in a bad way.

"Gustav what about your parents? Why do you live alone?" Their father who happened to be a very outspoken person was the first to ask this question while they were having dinner.

"I don't have parents," Gustav answered and proceeded to place another spoonful of food in his mouth.

The dining area became silent for a while but Gustav didn't seem bothered as he was still eating his food without a look of worry.

"Sorry about that," Angy's father said with a look of concern. They all wondered how he was living alone, how he was able to afford an apartment and living expenses but they felt they might intrude on his privacy even more so no further questions were asked.

"There's no need for apologies," Gustav waved his hand to dismiss the weird atmosphere.

'He really isn't bothered?' Angy stared at Gustav's face for a while before looking down to focus on her food. She didn't know why but she felt Gustav seemed quite pitiful.

In a few minutes dinner ended but Angy's father still wanted to talk to Gustav about something.

Gustav later went back to his apartment around midnight.

The last night's event opened his eyes more to the nature of the world.

He wondered if he would have truly try to save people if the system hadn't given him the quest or if he was powerful enough, after joining the MBO would he also ignore such things happening?

He knew for sure that he would have helped Angy but what of the others? Gustav felt his state of mind had been kind of messed up since he killed Paul.

The conscience and human emotions he used to feel towards people were slowly becoming distant. There were only two people he mostly showed his warm side to which were Miss Aimee and Boss Danzo. Also he was slowly starting to warm up to Angy.

He didn't know if it would continue like this or not but he had decided not to overthink. He would figure everything out with time.

His main goal right now was to become powerful enough so no one would control his fate or how his life is supposed to be.

He wanted his life to go in the direction he willed. If someone was going to piss him off, he didn't want to have to hide anymore, the sufferings he had gone through in the past, he had promised to never let it happened again.

The next morning Gustav and Angy went to school together again.

Angy has memorized the exact time he left the house and made sure to bump into him every morning so they would leave together.

Angy noticed that Gustav seemed to look more attractive to her than yesterday but she just couldn't figure out why. What she didn't know was, she wasn't the only one who had such thoughts. Even when they were walking through the streets anyone who noticed Gustav could not stop staring at him. Even if they took their face away, they would still secretly stare in his direction after he had passed.

Gustav was starting to enjoy Angy's company even he still found her annoying since she always went out of her way to help others.

There was a time he got to school late because she decided to chase a pickpocket who stole from a grandma. She always wanted to help even when it wasn't needed.

Gustav's daily activities resumed as usual.

The kitchen was the first place he visited as expected. After that were classes.

The classes today seemed to lack life since none of them were that of miss Aimee's.

Gustav had lost interest in normal classes except for science. He still found science interesting especially since he's been having some thoughts lately.

He's been thinking of turning the second empty room into a kind of small science lab.

Last night when he killed the bloodwolf, that was where he placed the body.

He couldn't help but smile after remembering the bountiful rewards he received as his mind went back to yesterday's events.

Gustav stood in front of the body of the bloodwolf. His fists were dripping with blood and he was still in the mutated bull form.

The bloodwolf had stopped regenerating and it was on its last breath.

'I knew there was going to be a limit,' Gustav was studying the regeneration of the bloodwolf since he also had regeneration.

He had cut himself before to test out his regeneration and noticed that based on his energy points, he could regenerate infinitely. The problem was his regeneration was slower which meant it wouldn't be able to keep up in a fierce battle if he was receiving serious injuries at a fast pace.

He knew this was because regeneration was still at level 3 which made him hopeful about future levels bringing faster regeneration.

Gustav walked forward, raised his right foot with intensity, and stomped down on the neck of the bloodwolf with force.

Bam! Splurt!

Blood splattered in all directions as the bloodwolf's head was almost completely uprooted from its neck. Even though it wasn't completely uprooted, the wolf was already dead since it couldn't regenerate from this.

<+2 Attributes points added to all attributes>

Gustav was wowed by the rewards but before he could even start to check them another notification popped up.

The last notification was the one that shocked him greatly.

[Another Beast Transformation Bloodline Found]

[Does host wish to add Mutated Bloodwolf Transformation to beast Transformation Bloodline]

Gustav noticed his foot was still on the blood and gory mess, the bloodwolf's neck had turned to.

He lifted his foot and the last system notifications disappeared. When he placed his foot back there the system notification appeared again.

'This means I can also add mixed-breeds to the beast bloodline I collected from Paul,' Gustav was very excited when he figured this out at that time.

'Yes,' He quickly called out in his mind.

Gustav watched as the bar went up till it got to a hundred percent.

[Mutated Bloodwolf has been successfully added to Beast Transformation Bloodline]

After the completion, he put the bloodwolf's corpse in his storage device and started heading back.

Finding out about being able to add mixed-breeds to his beast transformation bloodline made Gustav feel a rush of excitement run through his body.

He had done extensive research on mixedbreeds the night before and now he had another goal in mind.

'This neighborhood might actually be a blessing in disguise,' Gustav thought with a wide grin on his face.

Disclaimer: Always wait for at least ten minutes after I upload a chapter before deciding to open it and read.

The reason for this is because I read the chapters after I upload them to check for errors, misspellings and other things that I may not have added.

Even though I proof read and edit my chapters before uploading them, there are still times when I don't notice some mistakes which is why I tend to read the chapters on the webnovel app to check for these things.

Thank youi all.

attracting everyone's attention

'This neighborhood might actually be a blessing in disguise,' Gustav thought with a wide grin on his face.

At the end of the day, Gustav was walking towards miss Aimee's office as usual.

On his way, he received a lot of glares from different students as usual but this time, it was a different kind of gaze.

The females glanced at him with subconscious desire while the males glanced at him with a slight look of envy.

Everyone couldn't help but wonder, 'Why does he look so attractive today?'

What Gustav didn't know was, his method of walking, the way he stared with a look of focus, the aloof expression, everything action performed by him had improved into an attractive kind of way that made others notice him even if they didn't want to.

His style of walking now was very graceful. His dirty blonde hair had a certain glow to it. Its silkiness stood out. It was smoothly packed to the back with some strands falling in front of his face.

Gustav's blonde hair was previously the falling type, that almost reached his shoulder. He woke up this morning and decided to style it this way instead.

Gustav passed by the side of a female in smooth black long hair. Her face was so beautiful that it could be mistaken for a doll. Her skin was pale white and her face was the heart-shaped type with a pointed nose. Her looks were not short of perfect. She was about 5'4 and her body seemed to have matured completely at first glance due to the massive peaks in front of her chests.

"Uh?" She turned to the side to stare at Gustav who had just passed.

She was dazed for a few seconds seeing his elegance but she quickly came back to normal.

'What's wrong with me? I already turned him down in the past!' She pursed her lips and turned around to face where she was headed.

'But did he not see me at all? He didn't even spare me a glance!' She turned to the side to stare at Gustav who kept walking forward without turning to stare at anyone.

'Hmph! I refuse to believe that this trash will not stare at me even once!' As she walked forward she kept staring at the side waiting for Gustav to turnaround and stare at her but to her disappointment, Gustav kept walking forward without doing that.

She found it strange and still kept staring at Gustav's back for a few seconds before a loud shout was heard.

"Hey, Yuhiko!" A female student sporting chestnut-colored hair called out from ahead while waving her hand.

"I'm coming," She replied and turned back around to start walking towards the other female student.

"What are you looking at?" The other female student questioned after noticing Yuhiko's weird state of turning around occasionally.

"Nothing Mara, let's head to the dojo," Yuhiko replied and focused her sight forward.

"Alright, remember you still have to duel with that Masuba and you have to defeat him or you'll go on a date with him," Mara said with a frown.

"I don't date idiots! especially one who lost to an F-grade" Yuhiko said in disgust.

"Hmm, I still wonder who that F-grade is... They say his physical strength is higher than a normal mixed-blood and he was able to defeat Masuba in a second! The only problem is he is always on the last floor and doesn't like to associate with anyone so there is no way to figure out whether this is true or not," Mara analyzed with an intrigued look.

"It doesn't matter because it doesn't change the fact that a B-grade lost to an F-grade! Do you think I would also lose to whoever that person is?" Yuhiko had an intense look as she questioned Mara.

"Of course not, whether he has an insane physical strength or not, battling is not all about strength, after all, I'm sure you would win," Mara said with a smile.

"Hmph! That Masuba is a disgrace yet still flaunts and has the guts to ask me on a date... I will make sure I crush him today!" Yuhiko said with a look of disgust.

Gustav got to miss Aimee's office after a few minutes. On his way, he had been thinking of how to use atomic manipulation bloodline in a battle so he wasn't so focused on his environment.

He knew he passed by the side of Yuhiko who was hailed as the most beautiful girl in the entire school. Also, the same girl who crushed him three years back but he was too busy with his thoughts to even care about glancing at her.

Yuhiko was surprised since there had never been a time when Gustav saw her that he wouldn't stare at her with adoration. His eyes would be full of praise until she was out of sight. She found it a bit bothersome but she enjoyed being worshipped so inwardly she would smile while totally ignoring Gustav.

She had expected this to happen again today.

Miss Aimee and Gustav headed to the Dojo afterward.

Two hours after getting to the Dojo, Gustav was about to finish training for the day. He had already sparred with miss Aimee which of course ended in his loss.

Miss Aimee was always merciless when training Gustav and Gustav's speed didn't come close to hers in any way. Even if he was to use sprint, he still wouldn't be able to touch miss Aimee. He would receive barrages of kicks and punches that always made him feel like he was hit by a moving train.

Miss Aimee would say after defeating him, "I'm not even using up to twenty percent of my full strength, you weakling!"

Gustav was always amazed by her strength. The most absurd part was, Gustav had never seen miss Aimee use her bloodline abilities. Whenever they sparred she would always dodge his attacks as if she could predict them. She only trained Gustav in combat but she allowed him to make use of his abilities which she still didn't understand till now.

Gustav only sparred for one hour with miss Aimee and he used the rest to train solo.

He was currently attacking a robotic-looking machine. This was a similar battle Android to the one Endric battled against when the inspectors arrived close to three months back.

He had been using disintegration ability repeatedly. He wanted to train it well enough to use in combat but it was proving impossible.

This was the ability tied to the bloodline he got from Ben. The day he extracted this ability, he found out that it was very slow and impractical to use in combat.

It was a very good ability but it slow. The day he killed Paul he used this ability to disintegrate billions of Hung Jo and Ben's brain cells.

The ability was able to make anything it came into contact with, disappear. Gustav had been testing it out repeatedly. It was very slow in causing disintegrations from an atomic level, luckily Gustav only focused on the cerebrum when he was using it which made it faster.

When he tried disintegrating something larger, it would take time before he could completely make it disappear.

Bam! Bam! Bam!

Gustav's hand glowed a milky light that only he could see as his palm struck the two-meter-tall Android.

It was barely visible but whenever he struck a part of it, that part would reduce a bit. It would compress slightly but it wasn't due to his strength, it was due to the disintegration ability.

Gustav squatted as he dodged the swung-out left arm of the Android and threw out his palm towards its side.

Bam!

Contact was made again, this time the left side of the metallic Android sunk in by an inch.

'It's improving but...' Gustav was in his thoughts and was about to throw out another attack when he heard voices coming from outside.

He paused his attack and moved backward.

"Activate sleep mode!" Gustav said.

"Going into sleep mode!" A robotic voice was heard as the Android shut down.

-"Here?"

-"You call him out, isn't that why you're here?"

Gustav could hear the voices of some people coming from outside.

Young masculine and feminine voices could be heard in some sort of argument.

'Looks like they finally grew some balls,' Gustav turned around and started walking towards the door.

'Time to collect more compensations,' A wide grin could be seen on Gustav's face as he got to the door of the dojo and slid it to the side.

I plan to post the next chapter in eight hours time. Remember, if we're able to stay in top 100 till the end of the week without dropping, the release rate will increase by next week.

Please keep supporting and I will make sure I keep improving.

Thank you all.
