

Bloodline 451

Chapter 451 - Battle Tutoring

"Erm Gustav Crimson I am your opponent this time," A small male voice could be heard from up ahead as a short cadet with slanted eyes and bald head walked in.

Gustav stared at him and nodded slightly in response.

'At least someone showed up,' Gustav said as he analyzed the opponent in front of him.

"I am Kim, Please, guide me... I only wish to exchange a few pointers with you," Kim voiced out respectfully.

Gustav was a bit taken back by this request because it was the first time he was coming across such a respectful opponent without any form of haughtiness in their eyes.

"Begin!"

As the go-ahead was given for the battle to begin, Gustav remained in position..

"Come at me with everything you've got," Gustav voiced out.

To many who were specifically focused on his match, he sounded really cocky with this statement, but Gustav only said this to analyze Kim's battle pattern.

Kim crouched a bit as he raised his right arm above his left and pulled it back before dashing forward.

His arms transformed into a bluish color as he arrived in front of Gustav and thrust out his fingers towards his neck.

Gustav swiftly shifted his face to the side, cleanly dodging the finger thrust and shifted back to dodge another one from his left arm.

Thwwiiii! Swerve! Thwwii! Swerve! Thwwii! Swerve!

Kim's hands were moving at an extremely fast pace as the sounds of his fingers thrusts as if the air was being torn through.

"You lack foresight... You can't predict your enemy moves enough to throw a feint and deceive them so long as they're faster than you," Gustav voiced out as he kept dodging.

"Learn to read your opponent and adapt to their speed even though they're faster than you are... At this point you have no hope against stronger opponents," Gustav kept stating what he noticed as he bent backwards to dodge a spinning kick and turned his body 180 degrees to the side before straightening himself again.

Kim's face turned even more serious as he processed Gustav's words.

"Now use more powerful attacks," Gustav said while gesturing.

Kim jogged forward again as his palm glowed even brighter, and he shot out a bright beam after arriving in front of Gustav.

Gustav moved to the side, causing his hair to be blown upwards by the wind generated from the blue beam.

Kim attacked severally, shooting out the same beams in different ways, but Gustav was still able to dodge each of them.

"Don't be so basic with your attacks, experiment more with different types of unpredictable movements," Gustav advised as his body swayed in a kind of zigzag way, dodging both Kim's thrusts once again.

He turned to the side while sending out the back of his palm.

Bam!

His palm slammed into Kim's chest, causing him to slide several ten feet backwards.

Kim breathed in and out heavily.

"You're in a whole different league so I doubt anything I tried would work," Kim said with a crestfallen expression.

"No, you're just too predictable although you don't use any excess movement there are times when excess movements are necessary to fool your opponents," Gustav said while daunting an encouraging tone.

"I'll never be able to win against you," Kim said with a defeated expression.

"I never said you would... But at least try putting up a fight. I'm sure you don't wanna look pathetic in the midst of this crowd so come on, show me what you've got," Gustav said while gesturing towards Kim again.

Kim looked around for a bit before focusing on Gustav.

A newfound look of determination appeared on his face before he adopted a battle stance and dashed forward once again.

He started attacking a lot more aggressively than before as he jumped upwards and slammed his leg downwards towards Gustav's head.

Gustav once again moved to the side, but Kim seemed to have predicted this as he suddenly spun in mid-air, swinging his left leg towards Gustav's current position as he descended.

Grab!

Gustav grabbed hold of the leg a few inches from his face and smiled.

"Now that's more like it," He voiced out before flinging Kim away.

Kim flipped in the air repeatedly and shot out another blueish beam after finding his balance in mid-air.

Swwoooooosshh! Bang! Bang! Fwwooomm!

Their battle continued to be dragged on for about ten minutes more before Gustav landed another hit on Kim while telling him what he did wrong.

-"Is he training him?"

-"What the hell? I was expecting a good fight. What is this?"

- "Well would you look at that, he should become an instructor then,"

- "Well he's already an officer so yeah..."

The spectators couldn't believe their eyes seeing Gustav instructing Kim when the battle should have ended ages ago.

After a few more minutes, Kim stopped and moved back by a few steps before joining his fists together and bowing slightly in respect.

"Thank you for the pointers... I will train more using the advice you have given here today," He voiced out.

"No problem, you're quite the fast learner..." Gustav responded with a nod.

Kim smiled as he raised his head and turned around, "I forfeit the match," He shouted out.

The dome was lifted, and they both moved back to their seating positions after Gustav appeared as the winner on the orb.

- "Looks like he's not as evil and cruel as everyone painted him out to be,"

- "This was quite surprising... To think he'd take the time to do this,"

Some of the spectators felt they had misjudged Gustav after witnessing his earlier duel.

Although they still couldn't see any difference in his attitude as he walked towards his seating position, those who didn't know him before camp felt there was more to him than what he was always displaying.

Angy smiled from her sitting position with shimmering eyes while staring at Gustav.

'This is one of the reasons my feelings for you can't disappear even if I tried,'

Chapter 452 - Vera's Battle

Angy smiled from her sitting position with shimmering eyes while staring at Gustav.

'This is one of the reasons my feelings for you can't disappear even if I tried,' She said internally.

Gustav arrived at his sitting position and received a fist bump from E.E, "That was cool man," He said with a smile.

"Well pretty everyone who has been on the receiving end of your brutality deserved it," Aildris muttered from the side.

"I would have smacked that weakling like a buzzing mosquito that he is," Falco's Alter ego voiced out from the side.

"Shut up dark Falco," E.E stated with a burst of light laughter.

"How dare you refer to me that way?" Falco's alter ego voiced out with a repulsed tone..

"That was a good one," Teemee laughed as well after hearing that.

Falco took control of his body, and the group continued to discuss what had just gone down as the event continued.

In a few more minutes, Vera's face appeared on the orb along with her opponent, Lown Gils.

She walked towards one of the rings where her opponent was already waiting.

Lown Gils was a special class cadet that was ranked in the top sixties. Gustav was the one who specifically picked her as the cadet for Vera to challenge. He had given Vera a lot of information on her abilities and also made Vera do some secretive action one month ago.

Lown was the tallest girl among all the females in the MBO, so she had a little bit of popularity due to that mixed with the fact that she was a special class.

Vera arrived in the battle ring and raised her head to stare at the seven feet tall blonde girl in front of her with two ram horns protruding from the sides of her head.

"Are you ready little one?" Lown asked as a masculine voice drifted out her mouth.

"Hnm, Vera is prepared," Vera said as she brought out a handful of seeds from her storage device.

Ssshhhssshshhhh!

Green gas started oozing out of her body.

"Begin!"

The instant the go-ahead was given, Vera threw the seeds out from both her hands, causing them to spread around the place.

As they made contact with the ground, the green gas oozing from her body burst forth, crazily covering the entire place.

Lown was already about to charge forward, but then the entire place was covered in green gas before she knew it.

Muscular black arms protruded out the sides of her body as she waved them around forcefully, trying to clear a visible path through the foggy green gas.

Thhrrrii! Thrrii! Thrrii! Thhrrrii!

Weird tree and branch snapping sounds reverberated across the place as everyone witnessed trees growing out of the stage.

As Lown waved her hands, causing a few feet ahead to be cleared of green gas, but the instant that happened, a tree root could be seen piercing forward with speed.

Lown quickly moved to the side to dodge the flying roots that were quite massive in size.

As the thick sharp-tipped roots passed by her side, she dashed forward.

Thwwiiii!

The roots turned to the side suddenly and wrapped around her body before raising her up.

Lown grabbed onto it quickly and forcefully ripped it apart before it could lift her further into the air.

Bam!

Landing on the ground, more and more roots along with branches and vines from trees shot towards her from different directions.

Lown leapt forward upon seeing this and raised all her six hands with intensity before flinging them downwards as she descended.

Bang!

A ripple of shockwaves spread across the vicinity, clearing the green gas in a matter of seconds.

The charge blasted all the roots, branches and vines sent out as well, giving Lown a good view of the environment.

She looked around and could see that the entire battle ring had turned into a kind of forest.

Multiple trees and plants of different types had grown in many areas, and Vera was nowhere to be found.

Thwwiiii! Thwwii! Thwwii!

Roots and vines once again shot out towards Lown.

She turned towards the side and grabbed hold of the first one that arrived in front of her before pulling it with intensity and punching another one away with her other hands.

Lown arrived at the first tree and punched forward with three of her fists, destroying the entire tree and causing it to be uprooted.

While doing that, she had to dodge the other attacks and branches swinging towards her from other directions.

While she went about the place smashing trees, she never came into contact with Vera, and even more, trees began to grow in place of the others she smashed.

"Come out little one," Lown was starting to get frustrated.

It was as if all her efforts were in vain as she saw new trees popping out of the battleground every few seconds.

"You can't keep this up, I'll keep smashing everyone of them," Lown said while raising her six arms up and dashing towards the nearest tree again.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

Sounds of trees being destroyed and blasted into pieces reverberated across the place as Lown wreaked havoc on the battle ring.

Even after another five minutes went by, the situation hadn't shifted in her favor, and she hadn't come across Vera.

She could already guess that Vera could mask her presence with the green lifeforms spread across the place.

"Looks like you leave me no choice but to do this," Lown said as her horns started to move.

Both her horns began to twist and elongate as their tips turned to face each other.

A kind of weird milky looking electromagnetic charge began to build up in between the tips of both horns.

Thooomm!

Lown leapt several hundred feet into the air and turned to face down as she built the charge to its limit and shot it downwards,

Thwwiiii! Boom!

A loud blast rang out as shockwaves of destruction spread across the entire battle ring.

Chapter 453 - Paralysis Toxin?

The entire forest of trees crumbled in nearly an instant as every single tree and plant was decimated by the blast.

Vera was affected by the shockwaves and sent flying backwards even though she had already wrapped herself in layers of vines and multiple tree branches for protection.

All this time, she had only caused Lown's energy to reduce since she hadn't managed to inflict any damage on her. As Vera stabilized herself before crashing into the dome, she turned to stare at the west side of the spectators' area.

Her eyes locked onto a very attractive looking dirty blonde male who nodded gently in her direction.

Vera pushed herself upwards and quickly rolled to the side..

Fwwiiihhh! Bang!

Lown landed from the air directly on her initial position and quickly swung out two of her right arms towards Vera while turning towards the side.

Vera, who hadn't managed to get away completely, was swatted towards the side like a housefly after Lown's arms slammed into her.

Vera waved her hands while in mid-air, causing a nearly dried off branch to shoot out and wrapped around her.

Fwwiiii!

It quickly pulled her towards the side while helping her dodge another one of Lown's attacks directed towards her figure.

Vera quickly brought out more seeds from her storage device and swung them out.

Sshhhhsstsshhh!

Once again, green mist oozed out of her figure.

"Not this time," Lown shouted out as she dashed towards Vera direction.

Spreading all her six arms apart, Lown's arms bulged intensely as she clapped her palms together.

Pah! Pah! Pah!

As all six palms clasped one another, a massive wind spread across the place, which instantly cleared out the green gas exposing Vera's position within.

"Gotcha," Lown said with a smirk as she charged towards her.

Fwwiiihhh!

Vera's face showed panic as Lown approached her, but the instant Lown arrived in front of her...

Smirk!

A smirk suddenly appeared on her face, "Gotcha," Vera repeated the exact same words Lown said.

The instant Lown heard those words, a chilling feeling suddenly crept down her spine.

However, before she could react to it, purplish roots suddenly shot out of the ground as her right leg stomped on it.

These roots were four in number, each as thick as five grown men standing side by side. They surrounded Lown from all sides and wrapped around her figure like snakes, completely covering her body in the blink of an eye.

Surprisingly these roots had some kind of red eyes on them, too, making them look even more hideous than they already did.

- "What are those?"

- "Those things are making me uncomfortable,"

- "Gross,"

Most of the spectators had no idea what these plants were except for a few who knew a thing or two about botany.

It was a rare living mutated plant that fed on other living things. The instant they wrap around their preys, they crush all their bones and consume them in a manner of seconds.

Lown tried freeing herself from the hold of these plants, but her strength seemed to be failing her.

She could feel she was getting weaker and weaker by the second as she stayed within.

As seconds went by, the spectators could see the roots quivering and understood that Lown was fighting for her freedom within.

"Hnnngggh!" A loud growl was heard a few seconds later as a bright light shot out from within the wraps of these purplish roots.

Bang!

The roots were suddenly blasted aside as Lown emerged from within with her horns glowing a bright milky light.

She breathed in and out profusely as she headed for Vera's position again.

Those who knew about these plants knew just how rare they were, so they reckoned that Vera would definitely not have more of those seeds in her possession, so they automatically saw this as the end of the battle and Vera's loss.

As Lown's face squeezed up with a dissatisfied look, she dashed towards Vera with intensity.

Vera's face showed a crazy smirk again, which caused Lown to stop her movement a few hundred feet away.

She had a look of wariness as she looked around for any more hidden traps, but after not seeing any, she decided to end this once and for all. As she took a step forward to move, she suddenly felt her muscles constricting.

"Uh! Wh-at's hap-pen-ing?" Her voice cracked as her hand movement stopped.

Her body vibrated a little before she lost connection to different other parts of her body.

The spectators were in shock as they saw Lown standing in place, unable to move.

Vera waved her hand, causing other vines to shoot forward and wrap around Lown's body.

She controlled it so that Lown was lifted into the air and swung around before being slammed heavily into the ground.

Bang!

Vera didn't stop there. She continued repeatedly slamming Lown from place to place all across the grounds of the battle ring.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

After a few more seconds, Officer Cole announced that Lown had passed out and instructed Vera to stop.

The entire crowd were still in shock as they wondered what had just happened and why Lown had suddenly stopped moving.

More especially, the place was in an uproar because this meant there was finally a special class cadet, and someone had lost theirs.

As Vera walked away from the stage, she stared at Gustav's position.

Gustav smiled at her and nodded with a look of satisfaction.

A bright smile appeared on Vera's face in reaction to Gustav's action.

She slowly returned to her seat amidst the shocked and disbelieving faces of everyone.

Later it spread around that the plant that wrapped around Lown had a paralysis toxin which caused such an effect.

Everyone now had looks of understanding and realized that they may have looked down on plant-based bloodline abilities too much.

Seeing this made them change their perspectives.

Only Gustav and Vera truly knew what had gone down and how Lown wouldn't really be affected to that extent by the toxin due to her current level of strength.

'First step accomplished,' A smirk appeared on Gustav's face as he thought.

Chapter 454 - Battle For The Title

Only Gustav and Vera truly knew what had gone down and how Lown wouldn't really be affected to that extent by the toxin due to her current level of strength.

'First step accomplished,' A smirk appeared on Gustav's face as he thought.

It was quite an easy match up contradictory to what everyone thought. This was due to the fact that Vera was only faking the hardship and could have won with ease. Not that she was physically stronger or anything, but Vera had already infected Lown with her parasite one month back.

She could have easily made use of it from the start allowing Lown to lose easily, but that would have been suspicious, which was why Gustav came up with the battle plan for her to act out.

The weakening when she was trapped by the plant and the paralysis were actually Vera's doing.

Now that this was over and done with, the only other battle Gustav was interested in was the one with Glade and Havrina.

Havrina had approached him a few times during the past month for them to have a duel, but Gustav actively avoided her.. She was infatuated with him, which he found similar to Vera except for the fact that this one was only interested in being stronger than everyone else.

She couldn't accept that Gustav was stronger during the final MBO test phase, but after witnessing Gustav's feat several times and arriving here, she had no choice but to come to terms with it, but she was very interested in changing that.

However, Gustav was not interested in building relations with her.

After a few more turns, the event finally ended.

Unlike the last time, it ended way earlier due to many cadets chickening out and deciding not to battle. Elevora, who was still the undisputed number one, didn't have any challengers this time, and Ria also didn't challenge anyone, which kind of surprised Gustav.

Knowing Ria, Gustav didn't expect him to give up easily, which made him a little worried.

"Check on Ria later," Gustav said to Teemee from the side.

"Ah I'm not checking on that idiot," Teemee responded with a disgusted expression.

"Hmm? He's your friend right?" Gustav asked.

"I don't stay friends with idiots," Teemee blew out a small breeze from his mouth after saying.

"At least that idiot has drive... Although, he's an idiot. He is way better than many others who cower and hide when they see a stronger opponent," Gustav said with a profound tone.

"Sounds like I'm contradicting myself but he does have a trait that is needed for improvement if he works on his stupidity that is," Gustav added with a thoughtful look.

Teemee chuckled a bit after hearing that and nodded his head.

At the moment, Officer Cole was addressing the cadets as he spoke on today's event.

The moment that many cadets had been waiting for finally arrived.

The black orb floating above displayed the two special class cadets that would be battling today, which were Glade and Havrina.

Now that the event had ended, it was time to see who would remain a special class and who would go back to being a normal class.

On the bright side, both of them had gone through bloodline strengthening, so they had each gained something even if one of them went back to being normal cadets.

Since they were the only ones who were going to battle right now, everyone could focus solely on them.

Glade's face turned straight as she peaked her focus and moved towards the ring. Havrina was coming in from the opposite side.

They both picked the center battle ring and stood in front of each other as they waited for the go-ahead.

"Now remember whoever wins this duel gets to keep their special class title while... you already know what happens to the loser," Officer Cole announced.

Both girls' eyes turned fiercer as they heard that, but unlike Glade, Havrina still had a hint of depravity within her eyes.

"Hehe, did you miss me greenie?" Havrina said with a smile.

"Laugh while you still can because after this battle you won't be able to," Glade responded as her frame started glowing red.

"Oh, is that so?" Havrina responded with an even bigger smirk displayed on her face.

Her extremely long indigo-coloured hair swept upwards as if there was an immense wind blowing it up.

"Begin!"

The instant the go-ahead was given, both of them lunged towards each other.

Two five-foot-long sickles appeared in her hands as she hacked at Havrina with them. Havrina hairs shot forward, forming long swords while swinging for Glade as well.

Clang! Clang! Tssshhhh!

Ear piercing sounds of collision rang out as both of them clashed repeatedly, forcing each other backwards with each collision.

Once again, it seemed like they were evenly matched. Those who knew Glade knew just how much of a training freak she was. Besides Gustav, Glade was the only one that cadets could say spent almost every free second of her time training, whereas Havrina was known to be quite laid back.

Glade gritted her teeth as she recalled all the time she spent pushing herself even harder than before for this battle. She was quite disappointed that she still seemed to be evenly matched with Havrina in terms of strength.

Bang!

As they clashed again, both of them were sent sliding back for about a hundred feet as the ground underneath them cracked open in two lines following their legs.

Glade raised the sickle on her right hand upwards and threw it forward with intensity towards Havrina.

Havrina hair shot forward and wrapped around the handle of the sickle before spinning it around and flinging it back towards Glade.

Fwiihhh!

Although the speed of the sickle had been doubled as it shot towards her, repeatedly rolling like a fan, it was still Glade's ability, so she could react in time.

Swerving towards the left, she reached out her right hand and grabbed onto the handle accurately, halting its movement.

Shhhhsssshhh!

Chapter 455 - Activating Another Powerful One

Shhhhsssshhh!

Due to the high speed, she still slid backwards a little after grabbing it. Havrina dashed forward at this time and currently hacked at Glade again with her hair from above in a bid to slash her in half.

Glade reacted by rolling over to the side as the hair blade slammed into the ground, causing a two hundred feet long split.

Glade leapt towards the side after standing up, repeatedly spinning while swinging out the sickles in her grasp.

Clang! Clang! Clang!

Havrina's hair once again countered all attacks parrying them at superspeed.

It became a full-blown melee battle between them as both of them began to clash repeatedly again.

Bang! Bang! Swwhii! Swhhii!

Moving across the battle ring and causing destruction to the surroundings, the battle between these two continued to drag on..

"Come on Glade you can do it," Angy said with a tensed expression as she watched from her seating position.

Matilda was also hoping as she watched with a tensed expression as well.

"Gustav, who do you think will win?" E.E asked from the front.

"It's really hard to tell especially since they're both consuming energy at the same rate," Gustav said as his eyes turned crimson and green.

"They also haven't made use of their most powerful attacks yet because they seem to be reserving energy for the perfect time," Aildris added.

"Does that mean whoever uses their most powerful attack first is likely to lose?" Teemee asked with a thoughtful gaze.

"No... Using their most powerful first doesn't guarantee a win or a lose. Like Aildris said, right timing is what is necessary which is what they're both waiting for... The right opportunity," Gustav analysed.

"...But, Havrina seems to have the upper hand compared to Glade..." Gustav added.

The four of them on his sides had slightly opened eyes as they wondered why he would say that.

"Why does she have the upper hand?" Falco asked.

"Higher Endurance... She's like a machine that doesn't feel pain," Gustav added.

This was a trait that Gustav noticed Havrina had, which was similar to his. 'Once you're able to channel and disregard your pain, you can keep going no matter what situation you find yourself,' Gustav thought.

Pain is like a receptor that limits a person, and everyone is a slave to it except for a few people like himself and Havrina.

The last time Havrina was so injured, but she kept laughing and fighting like a psychopath.

As the battle continued, both of them had inflicted injuries on each other a few times, and now they were coming to realise that one could not overpower the other without using higher force.

Glade had received several injuries from the invisible strand of hair, but none was fatal. Whereas Havrina had fallen to several of Glade's trick attacks. In terms of combat skills, she was better, but Havrina seemed to still hold an advantage over her due to her unique bloodlines abilities.

Activating their most powerful attacks, both of them charged at each other once again.

A massive cylindrical-shaped red structure, the size of two trucks, had been created.

It floated in mid-air behind Glade as she raised her hand up in a manner that depicted that the structure was under her control.

At this moment, too, Havrina was also prepared to use one of her most powerful attacks as her hair multiplied and increased in length crazily.

Taking the form of a massive spear, it shot forward immensely, ripping through the air like a shooting star.

Glade also swung her hand forward, causing the structure she created behind to move forward with speed, causing a kind of immense pressure to descend upon the place.

Even before both attacks collided, ripples of shockwaves were already being sent across the place as cracks appeared all across the ground.

The spectators were in awe once again because just last month, both attacks were not as massive neither carried a lot of pressure, causing the kind of effect that was happening now.

Booom!

As both attacks collided, a destructive ripple spread across the place, blasting both of them backwards as a thirty-foot crater was created within the battle ring.

Gasp~

-"What in the world?"

-"Such destructiveness,"

- "These two are definitely special class material, too bad only one of them can retain the title,"

The spectators voiced out with surprised expressions.

As they both slammed into opposite sides of the dome, their eyes turned blurry as a buzzing sound rang in their ears.

All they could see around them as their eyes cleared up was a cloud of dust and debris scattered all across the place.

Fortunately, this time both of them didn't pass out.

As the dust settled, they both stood to their feet and slowly began to take steps forward.

Their clothing looked quite tattered at this point, and injuries could be seen on multiple parts of their bodies.

"Hehe, is that all you got Greenie?" Havrina said with a provocative expression while laughing.

There was blood rolling down the side of her head, but she seemed to not be disturbed by that as she moved forward.

Glade right hand vibrated as she tried to raise it up. The immense pain coming from her shoulder area was so crippling, 'My attack had more effect than hers but she seems to be in better condition than I am... is she a monster?' Glade had a look of disbelief as she thought.

"You are finished," Havrina said with a smile while moving forward as her hair swum from side to side.

Glade gritted her teeth and clasped her left shoulder, 'Here goes,' She said internally before raising her hand.

Zhooommm!

She suddenly glowed up with red light again.

"Uh?" Havrina paused her steps and stared at her with a surprised look.

Glade was conjuring the same attack she had used earlier.

"Hey what are you doing? Are you trying to kill yourself?" Havrina asked.

It was common knowledge that completely running out of bloodline energy and even pushing the limits of a mixedblood body to make use of the reserves that were meant for keeping the body functional could lead to death.

Glade disregarded Havrina's words and continued.

Chapter 456 - Unnatural

Glade disregarded Havrina's words and continued.

In a few moments, it had been created again, and now Havrina stood in place with a look of surprise.

"Well well, looks like you're truly willing to do anything to win even if it includes dying, hehe. I like your guts Greenie," Havrina voiced out.

"I won't die..." Glade responded as her hand trembled.

"Who says I can't use the same attack twice as well," Havrina voiced out as her hair also began to elongate once again like before.

Gasp~

.

-"They're both crazy,"

The spectators had disbelieving faces as they stared at both of them, activating their most powerful attacks once again.

"Glad, what are you doing?" Angy had a distressed look on her face as she voiced out.

However, there was no way Glade would hear her from her sitting position.

She could only hope that Glade would be okay.

Havrina had a crazy smile on her face as she finished setting up her most powerful attack.

Just as she wanted to send it forth, her eyes widened again as Glade began to create another attack identical to the one she had just done.

Gasp~

The crowd was in shock as three more of those cylindrical red shaped structures appeared.

Havrina still couldn't believe her eyes.

"She shouldn't have enough energy to do that, what's going on?" Teemee voiced out from his seating position with a surprised look.

Gustav also didn't understand what was happening. Just when everyone thought it was over, another one was created in a manner of moments, bringing them to five.

Glade had now managed to conjure five of her most powerful attacks simultaneously.

"Tch! Bring it on," Although Havrina had no way to counter all these five at the same time, she fiercely stood her ground.

"This ends now," Glade voiced out as she sent all five flying towards Havrina at the same time.

Fwwwihhh! Fwwhhiiii! Fwwhhiiii!

The entire battle ring vibrated as the attacks travelled forward at full speed, carrying immense destructive force.

Even the dome was on the verge of collapse due to both of them sending out their most powerful attacks at the same time.

Upon the first collision, Havrina's attack was ripped through as she was blasted backwards while her hair reverted back to its usual length.

Her eyelids grew heavy as she looked forward and noticed the rest of the attacks still heading towards her with full force.

'I wo-n't lo-oo-se,' She was struggling to make a move while in mid-air, but she found herself growing weary and weary as all four structures headed for her.

Her eyelids finally closed as all attacks were about to hit.

Her eyes opened up, and she found herself floating in a green space with a lady with similar features to hers in front of her. Except this lady looked way more mature.

-"Havi!"

-"Havi!"

"Huh? Mum? How?"

- "What did you promise me?"

"Huh?"

- "Havi what did you promise me?"

"That... That... That... I was never gonna accept defeat?"

- "Now wake up! Wake up Havi!"

As the last words rang in her ears like a clap of booming thunder, Havrina suddenly opened her eyes before the attacks could slam into her.

Thhrrrii!

Her eyes had a dark violet glow as her hair suddenly glowed an immensely bright light and shot out in every direction.

To everyone's surprise, Havrina's hair swept across the place with immense speed and smoothly cleaved every one of the structures in half before stabbing into the ground below and sweeping her upwards.

Fwwihhhh!

As her body bolted across the air, the structures exploded, sending shockwaves across the vicinity and destroying the ground even more.

Havrina was unaffected by this as her body swept across the air towards Glade's position.

Not only Glade, but everyone was extremely surprised at this point, wondering how she was doing this.

Her being was shining forth with indigo light like a divine presence due to her hair covering her figure.

Shrrooumm!

Her hair shot towards Glade, slamming heavily into her and sending her flying backwards.

Havrina's body flew forward and descended on Glade's chest with her feet causing her to spiral downwards and slam into the ground below.

Bang!

A small cloud of dust was created as Glade's body was pushed several feet into the ground, and she passed out instantly.

Havrina stepped away from Glade's unconscious body, and her eyes slowly began to dim down along with her hair.

The AI announced her as the winner as the orb above displayed her face.

"Huh? What happened?" Havrina muttered as she looked around and could only see destruction.

As she spotted Glade's unconscious body in front of her, she understood what went down.

"How?" These were the last words she muttered before her eyes turned listless, and she passed out as well.

-"What the hell was that?"

-"How did she suddenly become so powerful at the last second?"

- "It was as if I was in the presence of a powerful being,"

The spectating Cadets felt their eyes were deceiving them. Glade was the first to do something impossible and should have won, but Havrina suddenly went crazy after getting a boost in power and defeated her with ease.

The medical team quickly arrived on the stage and began to tend to these two.

Matilda and Angy had already moved towards the battle ring area as well. They wanted to be assured of their friend's safety.

"That wasn't natural," Gustav muttered as he slowly deactivated God Eyes.

"Glade or Havrina?" E.E asked.

"Both..." Gustav responded with a look of contemplation.

'And I don't understand how any of them managed to pull this off,' Gustav added internally.

At the last second, he noticed foreign energy become active within Havrina, but on Glade's side, he didn't even notice anything.

Glade would have won if not for this.

As this battle came to an end, so did Glade's special class title.

Havrina was still recorded as the winner even though she passed out afterwards due to the fact that Glade passed out first.

Chapter 457 - Meeting With Red Shadow's Boss

Both of them were in a dangerous state, according to the medical personnel, due to them overstraining and draining their bloodline energies completely.

Even though the instructors witnessed the whole thing and understood what was happening, they didn't butt in.

This was how the MBO instructors were; so long as the attack would not lead to immediate death, they would never butt in.

Everyone began to leave one after the other.

Gustav decided to go and check on Glade with the others before leaving.

.

Angy was tearing up as she saw the state of Glade's body. Matilda and Falco consoled her while Gustav just stood there watching as he activated God Eyes again.

By nightfall, in a place filled with lush greenery that was dimly lit, four figures gathered in front of a thirty feet tall tree.

"Why did you cancel the operation Boss Endric?" One of them asked.

"You idiots were not being discreet enough about it," Endric voiced out with a repulsed tone.

'I have no idea if Gustav caught up to what I was trying to do... I cannot let these fools jeopardize my plans,' Endric said Internally.

"Hand the serums over to me," Endric commanded.

The three taller silhouettes brought out a cylindrical shaped object with a pointy tip and handed them over to Endric, who immediately placed them in his storage device.

"I will handle things myself," He voiced out after keeping them.

"In the meantime, I have another job for you three," Endric added while raising his head to stare at all three of them.

"We're all ears, boss,"

Within a modernized looking pub where robots and half mechanized humans could be seen moving about the place with a kind of drink or the other in their possession, two people arrived through the entrance.

Holographic images could be seen displayed on different corners of sassy looking dancers moving their waists.

Some large bubbles could be seen floating in different areas, and beautiful ladies in revealing clothes were also swerving to the music booming in the background.

The two who had just entered were male and female, both clad in fully covering clothes.

The lady was clad in a purplish leather bodysuit with ash-coloured hair and a half red mask, while the man was covered in a full black cloak with a mask covering his entire face.

"Why am I not surprised that he asked to meet here? Such a repulsive atmosphere for a repulsive being," She said to the man with a disgusted tone.

"Miss, that's my boss..." The man said with a low tone.

"Your boss asked us to meet in a night club... How charming red shadow," Miss Aimee said with a hint of sarcasm.

"Well... Maybe he's interested in..." Before Red shadow could complete his sentence, Miss Aimee interrupted.

"Interested in death? Yeah I'd be happy to grant him that if he tries anything stupid," Miss Aimee said while walking forward to find a place to seat.

Red shadow subconsciously shivered after hearing the way Miss Aimee's tone changed in the last sentence.

He quickly followed after her, and they found somewhere to sit at a secluded spot.

Whiisshhh!

A puff of smoke suddenly appeared in front of both of them and transformed into a man wearing a dark suit.

He was at least six foot seven in height and had the body structure of a gorilla.

"Welcome young Miss, I am Darkgroom... Please follow me, boss VL will see you now," He said while gesturing at them to follow him.

Miss Aimee and Red shadow followed the large man to a side of the pub where there seemed to be a dead end.

But then, The wall suddenly shifted inside, creating an opening for them to go through.

They found themselves in a secluded and luxurious looking living room where several CCTV projections that displayed different places within the pub could be seen.

A man wearing a mechanical helmet with green eyes sat on one side of the sofa, waiting for them.

When they arrived, he stood to his feet and greeted Miss Aimee with respect while Red shadow bowed slightly in respect after seeing the man.

"So, we found the signature energy in Gildian ruined city like you predicted but there was nothing else there... No evidence, no leads, nothing. We only wasted time going there," Miss Aimee got down to business the instant she took her seat.

"Hmm, well this is most certainly troubling... This means someone got there before we did," Boss VL said with a disturbed tone.

"I hope the infected city didn't harm you in any way," Boss VL asked with a concerned tone which was quite surprising to Red Shadow and Darkgroom, who was standing in the corner.

"That is nothing of concern to you." Miss Aimee responded with a strong tone.

'Her personality matches... Just how strong is she to enter the city without any form of protective suit,' Boss VL thought after hearing Miss Aimee's response.

"What should be our next step now since we still can't find the creator of the T67 device?" Miss Aimee asked with a disturbed tone.

"We'll have to visit Thorkin Forbidden city... I didn't want us to have to go there but now we have no choice," Boss VL said with a slightly worried tone.

"Alright let's go," Miss Aimee said while standing up.

"Hmm? Right now?" Boss VL was taken aback by her immediate decisiveness.

"What? You think I have time to waste... I need to help my precious student with something. I'd rather be anywhere but here," She said while moving towards the entrance.

Red shadow and Boss VL stared at each other for a few moments before also jumping to their feet and following behind her.

'Just who is this woman?' Darkgroom, who stayed behind, wondered as he watched them leave.

He had never seen Boss VL so composed before in someone's presence, and Miss Aimee was exuding an indomitable and domineering presence that naturally caused everyone to fall in line.

'I couldn't even sense her bloodline rank,' This was another issue he found unsettling.

Chapter 458 - Dungeon Limit

'I couldn't even sense her bloodline rank,' This was another issue he found rather unsettling.

Within the camp, time passed very quickly.

Both Glade and Havrina healed up after a few days, but they were still drained, so they had to skip a couple of more training sessions.

Glade was crestfallen after losing her special class title and shut herself from everyone, including Angy. This made Angy grow restless day by day, and she couldn't stop herself from setting another meeting with Gustav.

Gustav assured her that everything would be fine, and Glade could still challenge a weaker special class by the end of the month and become a special class cadet again.

So it was only a matter of time.

Angy met with Endric secretly after he asked to see her.. No one had an idea of what went down, but from that day onwards, Angy started to see Endric as irredeemable and made the decision to be the one to defeat him herself as she felt guilty for stopping Gustav in the past.

Endric got into more trouble within the camp due to repeated bullying and unnecessary brutality during duels. However, his punishments were barely harsh enough and, most of the time, cut short.

Gustav and Vera also began to move together more across the camp and would be seen with each other on several occasions to the extent that rumors began to circulate about them dating, which sparked jealousy.

Gustav ignored rumors and background talks and concentrated on becoming stronger.

After some time, he finally reached the peak of Gilberk rank and started to visit the dungeon area day by day to mostly increase his EXP and also secretly train, making use of Yarki.

-Two and a half months later

Within a massive tunnel underground, a two hundred feet dark worm with a body full of purplish poisonous spikes shot out of the ground heading for a dirty blonde-haired kid who was seated in a crossed-legged format in front.

The Tunnelway was so wide and large so even with the massive body of the mixedbreed worm, it was only covered a small space.

Thrrhrrkkk!

The spikes protruding out of the massive dark worm's body began to spin as it shot forward while it made a weird shrieking sound while opening its mouth wide in a bid to swallow the dirty blonde kid whole.

The youngster who seemed to be closing his eyes at the time suddenly sprang them open the moment the creature's wide open mouth was about to devour him from behind.

Swwooooovvv!

A pinkish force blasted forth from his being, spreading into the surroundings like a wave and disappearing the next instant.

The moment it made contact with the creature, it found itself unable to move an inch further.

Gustav, who happened to be the blonde-haired person, slowly stood to his feet and turned around.

His gaze was so sharp and piercing that the instant the worm sensed his stare, it subconsciously shrank back even though it was currently under the hold of Yarki.

"A level twenty seven Dark Venom worm," Gustav analyzed.

Just the head of the creature in front of him was at least five times bigger than his entire body. Although it wasn't as large or as powerful as the serpentine mixedbreed, he had an encounter with within the border back then. However, it was still quite a fearsome-looking mixedbreed.

"I should be able to hold it for about thirty seconds more," Gustav said as he moved towards the left body area and stood in front of one of the massive purplish spikes protruding from it.

Gustav brought out a small red syringe-like equipment and gently stabbed it into the tip of the purplish spike, taking a small portion of toxin.

"This should be enough for Mara," He muttered before pulling out and keeping it back in his storage device.

"Twenty seconds left," Gustav counted the time as he moved back to the front of the creature.

"I won't waste my time battling with you so it's best I end you in the easiest way possible right now," Gustav muttered as he raised his hand.

"Open," As he mouthed that, the massive creature opened up its mouth.

Gustav proceeded to walk into it while activating God Eyes.

His eyes were looking a bit different upon activation this time. Not only was there scarlet and green color, but now there was a mysterious yellow glint within.

Gustav walked on the saliva-filled tongue area as he moved towards the side.

"Not here, not here," Gustav seemed to be searching for a particular spot within its massive dark mouth.

"Ten more seconds," He mouthed just before he got to the middle part of the tongue area and looked up at the mouth's ceiling.

"Found it," Gustav said as he crouched.

A weird aura surrounded his being before he suddenly leaped up, throwing his right fist towards the ceiling of the mouth as he ascended.

Milky glow covered all of Gustav's figure, especially his right fist, which was thrown upwards, reaching the ceiling of the mouth before the rest of his body.

Bang! Thrrriiii!

A loud sound reverberated across the place as Gustav tore through the mouth area of the mixedbreed towards its brain before bursting through, tearing out of its head.

Fwwii! Fwwii! Fwwii! Fwwii!

Brain matter and blood scattered across the entire place as Gustav landed back in front of the creature.

His body wasn't drenched by its body matter even after going through all that but the environment was currently stained with greenish blood and goo.

"Time up," The instant Gustav muttered under his breath...

Thuumm!

The mixedbreed massive body plopped to the ground as it lay lifeless in place.

Gustav slowly deactivated God Eyes and stared with a slightly satisfied look on his face.

"The new ability of God Eyes sure comes in handy," He said while turning around.

"I've been here for close to twenty four hours already, it's time to go," Gustav said while turning around.

"Level sixteen is the lowest I can go in the meantime... Anything beyond that is asking for death," Gustav analyzed as he moved forward.

Scattered piles of torn-up corpses of mixedbreeds could be seen all over the place as he moved forward.

He was currently within the MBO camp dungeon, which was for exclusive training on battling mixedbreeds.

Chapter 459 - Three Months Self Training

Gustav had been coming here for close to three months to train himself and get through the levels of the dungeon.

The lower you descended, the more powerful the mixedbreed.

Gustav's limit currently was level sixteen, and it was even quite tough for him to get to his current stage. He couldn't defeat the creatures in level sixteen using normal means, which was why when he wanted to kill the Dark Venom worm, he had to get into it so he could attack from within.

Even with that, he had to make use of God Eyes to spot the weaker section of the creature's mouth area so he could end it before he ran out of time.

Normally, the senior cadets formed four teams before heading in if they were going without any supervision from instructors, but Gustav had been coming here himself since day one.

The officers guarding the dungeon entrance advised against it on his first day here since they couldn't do anything to restrict him due to his title.

However, Gustav totally disregarded their advice, saying he wanted to explore on his own.

.

Most of the senior cadets who had witnessed his exchange secretly openly called him a fool while also mentioning, he was going to get himself killed because of pride.

According to them, several cadets had also lost their lives here because they were too prideful and didn't want to be a part of any team.

To Gustav's expectations, they were right. He left the dungeon on that day with numerous injuries after making it through the first four levels in several hours.

What they didn't know was Gustav was purposely pushing himself to this point to see where it would get him on his first try, but they mistook it for pride.

His major reason was not wanting to reveal the full extent of his abilities which he could use freely if he wasn't in any party, and he did.

Unfortunately, he couldn't go beyond the first four levels even after using everything he had.

Gustav was practically half-dead and almost completely drained of energy on his way out of here on the first day.

Normally cams were installed in some sections of the dungeons. Still, it was impossible for them to be everywhere due to the massive size of the dungeons that made it even seem like the cadets coming in were few in number.

It was actually possible for the MBO to install cams everywhere, but monitoring every footage would be an issue due to the size of the place.

For this reason, every cadet coming in was given an emergency ringer. This was to alert the instructors that they needed help the instant they came into contact with a mixedbreed they could not handle. They only had to tap or send the intention if it was wired to them.

Some cadets still ended up getting killed either way due to their pride and believing they could handle creatures that were way more powerful than them, which caused them not to use the ringer.

Gustav spent close to three months working on making use of his abilities and increasing his strength.

During his first few tryouts, every time he came here, he would leave with grievous injuries and nearly depleted energy, causing his healing factor to reduce.

The thing about the dungeon was the fact that attacks were unpredictable. Groups could be attacked at any point in time while exploring the place.

Gustav noticed that the mixedbreeds here had higher intelligence and, even when weaker, were able to strategize before attacking the groups for better results.

He had fallen prey to this before he came to the realisation.

He was finally able to reach level sixteen, which was only close to half since the dungeon had about forty-seven levels.

No group of senior cadets had managed to go beyond level forty, and even the last ones that reached that low were nearly wiped out.

Gustav was already close to the level of strength of some of the seniors and was still growing very fast.

Whenever he came into contact with some of those seniors in groups, they would always stare at him like he was some monster.

'I guess this is why he's already an officer,' Most of them had these thoughts in mind as some were fascinated about him more than Elevora.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Boom!

Gustav once again engaged a group of man-looking lizard mixedbreeds as he made his way up the dungeon.

Bang!

He slammed the head of the last one into the wall, causing it to burst apart like a Warhammer slammed into a watermelon.

Gustav continued moving towards the top and out of this particular section.

In about ten more minutes, he finally arrived at the entrance of the dungeon.

His uniform was once again soaked in blood as usual, but it wasn't his blood.

The officers guarding the entrance greeted him as he handed over the emergency ringer to them and left.

At this time, it was already around nine in the night and today happened to be a Sunday which was why Gustav was able to spend a lot of time here.

"Less than two months left... I should really make sure I increase my strength properly before my next mission," Gustav muttered on his way back to his room.

Swwoooooosshh!

His hair blew back as he bolted across the camp at a very high speed.

Minutes later, Gustav was back in his apartment preparing something to eat.

It was almost five months since they arrived here, and Gustav could not believe the kind of improvement he had gone through.

He was currently at the Martial rank, which was a rank many mixedbloods across the world were stuck in.

He had also noticed that channeling his bloodline at this stage was now slower than before, so he wasn't too sure about getting to the next rank before he went on his first mission.

However, he was more focused on his system leveling, which was also a good way of improving in strength regardless of being bloodline rank.

"System interface," Gustav called out as he decided to check his current level.

Chapter 460 - Gustav's Observation On Endric

"System interface," Gustav called out as he decided to check his current level.

After opening the system interface, he went on to check his current attributes.

[Host Attributes]

-Name: Gustav Crimson

-Level: 45

-Class: Sub-Parallel Being

-Exp: 7,41,800/9,230,000

-Hp: 26,900/ 26,900

-Energy: 15,000/15,000

{Attributes}

»Strength: 147

»Perception: 146

»Mental Fortitude: 146

»Agility: 144

»Speed: 142

»Bravery: 144

»Intelligence: 145

»Charm: 79

»Defence: 144

»Vitality: 146

»Endurance: 145

{Attributes points: 49}

His progress so far was just as he had planned.

It was already a year since he first got the system, and his life had changed so much within that time frame.

He wasn't feeling gratified or anything like that because he knew he still had a long journey ahead, and he wasn't powerful enough yet.

His strength now was at a level where he could easily lift something weighing up to thirty thousand pounds(13,600kg) without activating any bloodline.

Gustav was the strongest in camp, and no one doubted his strength. However, they still weren't sure if he was as powerful as Elevora because strength wasn't the only requirement to winning a battle.

His speed and agility, too, were now one of the best, while perception was on a whole different level.

Gustav could sense what was happening two hundred feet away and give a detailed explanation of the scenario like he was present.

His perception really came in handy and made it look like he could predict attacks during battles.

The last two Special Class cadet challenge that went by were boring for him since there was no one to challenge. On the bright side, he was glad Glade made her way back to being a special class by defeating one of the lower-ranked special class.

Gustav went on to check on his bloodlines after closing the Host Attributes panel.

[Bloodlines]

{Genetic Transformation Bloodline}

Grade: B++

Abilities tied to bloodline:

<Shapeshifting>

<Joint movement>

<size manipulation>

<Cognitive Concealment>

<Partial Mimicry>

<Partial gene manipulation>

+++++

{Beast Transformation Bloodline}

Grade: C+

Abilities tied to bloodline:

<Partial mutated bull transformation>

<Bloodwolf Transformation>

<Savarinia Serpent Transformation>

<Demonic Sonic Bunny Transfomation>

<Solar Worm Transformation>

...

+++++

{Atomic manipulation Bloodline}

Grade: C+

Abilities tied to bloodline:

<Disintegration of atomic structures>

<Structural Disembodiment>

+++++

{Gravitational Energy Container}

Grade: B+

Abilities tied to Bloodline

<Energy Installment>

<Energy discharge>

<Gravitational Imbalance>

<Gravitational field Charge>

<Blend>

+++++

{Body Compressed Energetic Flames}

Grade: B

<Compressed body parts flammable explosion>

<Ticking Erosion>

<Compressed Energy Charge>

<Nuclear Discharge>

....

There were still many other bloodlines on the list, but Gustav was more interested in checking the one he had just experimented on today.

Gustav had made use of the upgraded recreation to join three bloodlines together. This was what he was busy within the dungeon before the worm attacked.

Fortunately, he had just finished up in time to activate his Yarki.

This wasn't the first time he was making use of recreation to combine three bloodlines.

He already did it twice before this, making this his third successful operation.

Nine bloodlines had been made into three, helping him increase the slots of bloodlines and making these ones more useful than they used to be.

He had been careful with the combinations so far so he wouldn't end up creating an unstable bloodline.

At the very least, now he had three more bloodlines that were almost on par with the main bloodlines he made use of during battles.

His main bloodline was still the most important to him, but Gustav was finding it hard to understand the new abilities he got after the process of bloodline strengthening.

He had tried Partial Mimicry, which had been extremely hard to pull off since he automatically transformed back to himself when his body made contact with anything.

Partial Mimicry enabled him to transform to any non-living thing for a particular time limit, but even before the time limit was reached, Gustav always found himself transforming back to normal.

A small touch, and he was back to being Gustav. He couldn't let his thoughts wander for even a second because it required immense concentration.

Gustav had always seen himself as someone with a high amount of concentration, but this one was quite beyond him, unlike he expected.

The other ability, which was Partial Gene Manipulation, was even harder because he didn't even know how to activate it.

He had asked the system for help several times. Still, as expected, he was ignored because the system wanted him to figure it out himself, especially since it was his original bloodline.

Gustav didn't relent and had been working on this as well throughout the past few months.

He only made progress in Partial Mimicry but not so much for Partial Gene Manipulation.

Gustav closed the system interface after checking out the abilities of the new bloodline he created.

'Nuclear Discharge seems like it could be a pretty powerful ability... I'll try making use of it in the dungeon tomorrow,' Gustav decided.

He went on to check the state of his Yarki, sending his senses into his body.

Gustav's senses lingered on it and compared it to the size a few months ago. It had increased almost twice its initial size.

The pinkish fiery-like existence within him swayed beautifully, giving off an enchanting vibe.

Currently, Gustav Yarki was at the point where it could be controlled better and more effectively without Gustav having to expose himself.

If he wanted to use it on a smaller and less powerful scale where the entire vicinity would not be affected, he could direct it towards an opponent now.

Gustav had been initially worried about using his Yarki in public because of recognition, but with him learning how to control it more, it was only a matter of time before he came up with a way to use it without being noticed.

Gustav later went to his bed after a few more minutes and laid on it while plotting his next moves.

'It's about time I dealt with Endric...' He said internally, but then a series of memories drifted into his mind.

'He's been acting a bit different lately... Less aggressive,' Gustav never thought he'd even say such words internally, but this was what had been truly happening.

He noticed that Endric was becoming less and less of a brute each day.

Gustav initially wasn't in any way bothered by this, neither did he think anything much of it since he just assumed Endric was up to something shady again.

He already knew Endric was responsible for the rope cut during the field test, even though he didn't do it personally.

Gustav wasn't that stupid that he wouldn't get to the bottom of such a matter, but he had decided to play it cool and hold everything off for the right time when he was ready to get rid of Endric once and for all.

He acted like he knew nothing of Endric plotting in secret because, in the end, he planned to get rid of Endric.

But as time passed, he noticed Endric was getting less and less aggressive, and he was starting to believe it wasn't an act anymore.

Gustav thought about it and felt there must have been a kind of catalyst somewhere.

'Ever since he started personal training with Instructor Mag... He's been changing,' Gustav came to this realization.

Endric was given punishment for roughness during one of the exercises two months back, and instructor Mag happened to be given the task to properly punish him.

She decided to start training him personally in his free time, preventing him from barely having any kinds of breaks.

Gustav didn't even see this as anything at that time, but now he felt there was more to it.

'I'll watch him for the entire week before making any plans,' Gustav decided.

'I also need to ask Vera if the parasitic strain inside him has become fertile,' He added internally before closing his eyes.

Gustav still hadn't found out if anything besides what Vera inputted was within Endric since he hardly even saw Endric these days.

The night went by in a flash, and Gustav woke up early the next morning to channel his bloodline a little before the morning routine began.

After about an hour, he moved towards the field alongside E.E and the rest for the start of the morning routine.

One and the half-hour was the time Gustav spent to complete the routine alongside Elevora, who no longer reached the starting point before he did.

Both of them were now getting there simultaneously, and on several instances, he had managed to finish before her.

Elevora was very competitive and really made sure she gave Gustav a hard time winning even though the routine was not about who came first.

During the whole free time, Gustav moved towards the location for Intergalactic warfare, and even though it wasn't time for the cadets to have their training here, Gustav was still given access since he was already an officer.

Gustav proceeded towards a secluded part of the underground structure and stationed himself there.

