

The Bloodline System

Chapter 51: Uncompleted Daily Task

He had been researching on mixed-breeds since the night before. He still wondered how such creatures existed on earth and he was only coming across one after sixteen years of his life.

He had found out that the mixed-breed he defeated was a level 2 Mixedbreed which was comparable to a step three Zulu rank.

Gustav had figured out that not all mixed-breeds were the mindless type that attacked human civilizations. He also discovered that some mixed-breeds were mixed-bloods whose Bloodlines went haywire when awakening them, turning them into beasts. Some mixed-breeds looked entirely different from any animal that used to exist on earth while others looked similar but quite monstrous.

"Wait, it's possible to exchange the bodies of mixed-breeds for money?*" Gustav was currently staring at an article on the web that displayed this information.

It read that; the body of mixed-breeds could be exchanged for money in laboratories.

Laboratories made a lot of research in that aspect.

Depending on the type of mixed-breeds and their level it could sell for good money.

Gustav carried on with his research glancing from projection to projection before a knock was heard on his door.

Kom! Kom!

Gustav stood up and went to check it out.

To his surprise, it was Angy.

She was clad in a short green gown. The gown had blue floral patterns making her look especially cute. Her beautiful silver-colored pupils with a shade of pink added a kind of uniqueness to her looks especially with the warm smile on her face.

"Hello Gustav," Angy waved immediately after Gustav opened the door.

"Hey, do you need something?" Gustav asked immediately after noticing she was the one.

He didn't want to waste time so he could go back to his research.

"Well, my mom asked me to invite you to dinner," Angy said while using her right index finger to twirl her hair with an obvious shy expression.

"Dinner?" Gustav had a look of confusion on his face before slamming the door on Angy while entering his apartment.

Angy; "???"

She was confused as to why Gustav would suddenly slam the door shut in her face.

"I guess it's a no then," Angy muttered with a dejected expression while turning around to leave.

Inside his apartment, Gustav checked the time and was surprised to find out that it was nine-thirty pm at night already

"Damn, I haven't completed today's task," Gustav exclaimed.

He had lost himself in researching mixed breeds so he didn't notice that it was already late in the night.

He quickly picked up his red hoodie jacket and wore it before dashing out of his apartment.

By the time he arrived at the corridor, Angy had gone back to her apartment but Gustav didn't even take notice of this.

His mind was currently preoccupied with completing today's task before the time ran out.

He opened the system interface to check.

.Climb to a height of 900 meters (Status: 0.1/900m)

.Carry a total of 2750 kilograms (Status: 0/2750kg)

He had been cooped up in his apartment all day so he hadn't completed a single task.

He analyzed the task and noticed that the only tasking one among them would be lifting the required amount of weight.

He could easily lift this amount of weight but the problem was getting a particular item that weighed enough to be counted by the system.

Right now the system only calculated the weight of items he carried in hundreds of kilograms. If the item wasn't up to a hundred kilograms, the system wouldn't count it.

In his apartment, there was not a single item that weighed up to a hundred kilograms.

Gustav only thought about it for a few seconds before he came up with an alternative.

As for the traveling and climbing, he could easily get these two done. For traveling, he could board a hover bus to take him anywhere while for the climbing, he could use the stairways repeatedly.

Gustav dashed down the stairway and got reached the bottom of the building in a few seconds.

There were still people in the neighborhood so Gustav decided to activate silent advancement along with dash to increase his speed and also make his ascent as silent as possible.

Swooshhh!

Gustav immediately dashed up the stairs once again.

No tapping sounds were made when he ran up the stairs even with that amount of speed. The small waves of wind he used to generate were now mild and almost completely silent.

This was the first time Gustav was using silent advancement but he was liking the ability. Not even a single person noticed him in the environment and he bet he could sneak up on someone like this without their knowledge.

He got to the top and descended once again before running back up.

He repeated this severally before finally seeing a notification appear in his line of sight.

[Daily task completed (1/3): Climb to a height of 900 meters✓]

Gustav descended again after seeing this notification.

He used dash once and completed this in less than twenty seconds.

Gustav didn't waste time before heading towards the nearest bus stop and boarding a hover bus.

He calculated on the city map the closest place he could travel to, for the traveling task to be completed.

He decided to head towards a particular part of the city that was close to Echelon Academy but still some miles away.

In about five minutes he received the notification for completing the traveling quest but now he had gotten to the destination he picked so he had to get down from the bus.

If he wanted to head back he would have to pick another.

Immediately he got down from the bus the familiar area appeared in his line of sight.

The area between the residential and business class buildings.

He walked a bit further ahead and noticed an uncompleted building in the distance.

To be precise they were five uncompleted buildings but the one in the middle particularly stood out.

'Bolin construction site 7' Gustav said inwardly as memories of that day began flooding into his mind again.

He walked closer and closer to the place staring at the building in the middle where his first bloodline stealing adventure began.

He remembered almost dying at Paul's hand here. This was also the same place he decided to stop being a wimp and where he first took a person's life. That was something he never thought he would do.

"HELP!"

A scream brought him back to reality.

I will be uploading the third chapter in 8hrs.

Thank you all for supporting.

I hope my headache goes away.

Chapter 52: Evolution Of Morph

"HELP!"

A scream brought him back to reality.

Gustav turned around to see a teenage girl in red clothing running from an assailant in black.

Both of them were coming from the route that led to the back of the construction site.

The teenage girl was dressed in a tight-fitted red gown. She had make-up on her face making it was obvious that she was dressed for an occasion.

Gustav felt that she was probably just coming from a party or something.

Both she and the assailant were faster than normal so it was obvious that they were mixed-bloods.

Also, not many people were passing this area at this time. Gustav could only see about three people at different corners of the street. There was no telling if they were normal people or not so they probably wouldn't be able to follow their speed if they were.

The girl and the assailant were headed in Gustav's direction.

He was the only one around here who actually had the chance to help her unlike the others but he had decided not to butt in.

"Get back here you bitch!"

"Leave me alone you horny bastard!"

"When I catch you, I'll enjoy my time with you!"

"I will never attend your party again!"

"I will have my way with you and nothing can stop me hahaha!"

Their dialogue drifted into Gustav's ears as he kept walking.

On closer look, the assailant was actually a teenage boy clad in black.

From their conversation, Gustav had painted a kind of picture in his head about what happened.

He figured the girl was probably invited to a party and now she's about to be violated by one of the organizers. This unpopulated area was proof that this might truly be the case since youngsters nowadays tended to like partying in places where they wouldn't be disturbed.

Gustav also concluded that the boy was not scared of chasing her all the way out in the open because he probably wouldn't face the consequences of breaking the law.

In other words, the boy must have a background that can exempt him.

'Another bastard that comes from an affluent family eh?' Gustav was tempted to butt in after analyzing the situation but he changed his mind.

'It's none of my business... Let her suffer the consequences of attending such parties,' Gustav kept walking forward.

"Don't make me use it! I don't want to ruin that sexy body of yours!"

"Help!"

The female shouted out just as they were closing in on Gustav in front.

"Bitch you're still asking help from another person!" The boy shouted out while stretching his hand out.

Fwwooom!

A black ball of gas shot out from his palm after performing that action.

The girl screamed out and ducked. Due to that action, the ball of black gas was headed towards Gustav in front.

Gustav stared at the ball of gas as it approached with an inquisitive look.

He analyzed it as it approached him.

The girl who ducked seemed to be shouting out something after ducking. She already thought Gustav would definitely get hit but to her surprise, he swerved to the side quicker than she expected, dodging the ball of black gas.

Bam!

It made contact with a small sign that was three meters behind Gustav earlier.

Sshhhsss!

A sizzling sound rang out as the sign started melting.

The teenage boy was able to catch up to the girl after this.

He grabbed her and lifted her from the ground with a smile on his face.

"You gave me so much trouble... I will take my time with you!" The boy said while licking her earlobes.

The girl shivered in fright as the boy's left palm traveled towards her chest.

He grabbed her breasts through her clothes and started fondling them.

"Ah, what a great feeling," He muttered with a look of delight.

"Le-t m-e g-o," She struggled to free herself but he was obviously stronger than her.

The boy paused his hands and stared at Gustav who had just spoken ahead.

His eyes traveled from top to bottom and from bottom to top before sneering.

"Who is this rat? Watch where you're going next time then, idiot hahaha!"

Gustav looked down and smiled when he heard that.

"I really wanted to mind my business but now...." Gustav started walking forward slowly as he spoke.

When he was only three feet away from them, he looked up to stare into the eyes of the boy.

"You just made it my business," Immediately Gustav muttered these words he grew to the height of over six feet and he stretched out his palm to grab the boy's hand.

He held onto the hand the boy was using to fondle the girl's breasts and tightened his grip around it.

Clench! Crack!

"Kyyarrh!" The boy screamed out as the bones in his wrist area were broken in two.

He let go of the girl immediately that happened and fell to the ground, crying while holding onto his right arm.

The girl fell to her butt and stared at Gustav with an astonished look.

Gustav raised his leg and swung it forward towards the boy's chest.

Bam!

The kick sent the boy flying back by five meters as his chest collapsed from the impact.

Shhhssh!

The boy still slid a few inches backward before his body came to a pause.

The girl's eyes widened as she stared at the boy ahead. She turned her head around to stare at Gustav with a look of appreciation.

"Thank you," The girl said while smiling at Gustav.

"I didn't do it for you," Gustav said and activated dash before running forward.

Swooshhh!

In a few seconds, he was out of sight.

The girl still kept staring in that direction for few seconds before she heard a cough.

The boy was still on the floor coughing out blood.

"He-lp m-e," The boy's voice cracked due to pain as he held his chest while speaking.

"Oh, what a reversal," The girl walked towards him while speaking with a ridiculing tone.

She stared at him with a gloating look for a few seconds before coming to a realization.

'Oh I should probably get out of here,' She said in her mind and ran in the opposite direction.

The boy was left there in his pool of blood.

It was late in the night so the probability of people seeing him in this particular area was not very high. He knew this since he picked the venue for the party himself.

Gustav had arrived at the closest bus station after using dash twice.

He didn't return to his normal size until he entered the bus.

'I would have killed that idiot and taken his bloodline had we not been out in the open,' Gustav said internally as he sat.

He had come up with a plan at that moment to get the boy's bloodline but he discarded it because he couldn't stay for long after attacking the boy. He has wanted to lure him into Bolin construction site and perform extraction there but he changed his mind. There were cams on the streets but not in the incomplete buildings but if Gustav took him there, there was a chance he would get caught since he would take longer to extract the bloodline than to just beat him up and leave. This was also why he increased his size before hitting the boy.

'Maybe next time,' Gustav sighed as he concluded and rested his back on the seat.

"Huh," Gustav sat straight as he saw that.

Gustav expression was full of bewilderment as he stared at the notification

'I would have failed if I decided to ignore her?' Gustav wanted to curse the system but he understood that it wouldn't be called hidden quest if he was told about it beforehand.

He had practically failed since he didn't get involved until after the boy's attack nearly hit him.

[Congratulations! Host morph ability has now evolved into shapeshifting]

'Shapeshifting?' Gustav's eyes widened as he stared at the notification.

Below the top 100... I promised to release two chapters per day if we remained in the top 100 but now we've gone under.

I currently have no motivation to write the second chapter. Maybe if you guys get us back up there the second chapter will be released. It depends on you guys.

Chapter 53: A Surge Of Emotions

A few minutes later Gustav had arrived back in his neighborhood. Only one daily task was left for him to complete at the moment.

The time was already ten pm which meant he still had two hours before the day ended.

Gustav sighed in relief.

His plan for completing the last task required him to head towards the forest area.

He activated dash again and ran towards the forest area.

Zwoosh!

In a few seconds, his silhouette streaked past the last apartment in this residential area and headed for the sparse forest up ahead.

When dash ran out he had arrived in front of a tree in the middle of the sparse forest region.

The tree was about nine meters tall with green and blue shades.

The width of the tree was comparable to that of four people placed together.

Gustav stood in front of the tree and stretched out his hand to touch it.

"This one is good," He muttered after feeling the tree up with his palm.

Gustav clenched his fist, drew his arm backward, and punched out.

Bam!

His fist collided with the tree causing a loud blast to ring out.

A four inches deep hole was formed within the tree and Gustav's fist was buried inside.

Gustav pulled his arm out of the hole and placed his fingers on his chin.

'With my normal strength, I can only do this much... Let me put my back into it,' Gustav said internally as he got into a battle stance.

"Fuu," He breathed out and arched his arm back to the limit before throwing out another fist.

Bang! Cracccckkk!

Upon collision, this time, Gustav's fist blasted a ten inches deep hole into the body of the tree. Cracks spread from that point to the other parts of the tree but it was still far from falling.

"I guess this is as much as I can do with my normal strength," Gustav realized that his strength was still pretty low and his win against the bloodwolf came from combining his strength with that of beast transformation.

He had no idea that his normal strength was rivaling third step Zulu ranks.

Gustav activated the beast transformation bloodline and started to grow in size.

His body bloated and almost tore apart his sweater. If not for the elasticity of this one surpassing the former it would have torn already.

In this state, Gustav was over eight feet tall.

He clenched his fist again, "Let's try that again," He muttered with a deep voice.

Bang!

He punched the tree again causing splinters to fly everywhere as his fist penetrated deep into the middle of the tree. The trees was still standing but only slightly.

Gustav dragged the right arm back while throwing out his left one.

Bang! Craacckk!

His left fist collided with the tree and it finally gave way. The tree which was standing proudly earlier split apart from the bottom area.

Krracckk!

The wood at the stem area could no longer support its weight as it came crashing down.

Bang!

It slammed to the ground on Gustav's left.

Gustav didn't transform back into his normal form, instead, he walked towards the fallen tree.

Since it had been broken down it was now about seven meters tall.

Gustav crouched and placed his palm on the tree before gripping it.

"Ugh," He grunted while lifting the tree above his head.

Just once was enough for him to hear the system notification ringing in his ear.

[Daily task completed (3/3): Carry a total of 2750 kilograms ✓]

Gustav crouched down and dropped the tree gently. He slowly transformed back into human form.

Just as he had expected, this tree weighed more than enough for him to complete his daily task.

There were smaller trees in the area but he decided to use them to make sure he completed the task in one go.

"Done... I need to start putting my daily tasks first before doing anything else for the day," Gustav said with a contemplative gaze.

He has been researching mixed-breeds since the night before. Since he could get EXP from killing mixed-breeds and also selling their body parts, it would be a two times win for him if he decided to start hunting them.

The problem was where to look without getting himself killed since there were mixed-breeds that were more powerful than he was currently.

Gustav sat down on the tree and opened the system interface.

When it appeared in his line of sight he called for skills and abilities panel to be displayed.

Gustav's eyes were focused on shapeshifting he wanted to know if it was what he was thought it was.

(Ability to copy the looks of a person when the right requirements are met)

"It's truly as I thought," Gustav felt like he was dreaming.

He never knew he would get such an ability at a time like this.

'This makes everything much easier,' Gustav was already thinking about how he was going to make use of the ability to the best of his benefit.

He had never seen someone with a shapeshifting ability before so he believed it must be pretty rare.

Gustav decided to head back to his apartment after a few minutes of sketching plans.

It was past ten pm at the time when Gustav entered the building.

He got to the last floor in a few seconds and walked through the corridor that led to his apartment.

"Hmm?" He noticed the silhouette of a person sitting in front of his apartment door.

The lights in the corridor were dimly lit which was why Gustav couldn't see this person properly but due to perception he had already noticed the person from far away and he could tell that this person was a female.

Gustav walked silently towards the person with a suspicious expression on his face.

He was preparing to attack or counter any form of attack if this person happened to be dangerous.

He moved silently until he was only seven feet away from the person. He could finally see the person clearly.

"Angy?" He muttered with a bewildered expression as he walked towards her.

Angy was seated in front of his apartment in such a way that her knees were hugging her chest. Her arms were placed in a crossed format on her knees and her forehead was resting on her arms.

Occasionally her head would tilt to the side and fall off her arms only for her to subconsciously place them back on her arms.

"Angy," Gustav got to her front and called out.

Flicker!

Her eyelids trembled and she opened her eyes which were still heavy with sleep.

"Huh?" She muttered with a confused look as her eyes cleared up and she noticed Gustav standing in front of her.

"Gus-tav! You're ba-ck," She jumped up with a look of embarrassment and cleaned the drool from the side of her mouth.

"Yes I'm back, what are you doing here?" Gustav asked with a confused look.

"Ah, well I noticed you weren't back since you left close to two hours ago. I decided to wait in front of your apartment so I would be able to call the police or alert the neighborhood on time if you didn't show up... just in case you were in any form of danger," Angy had a look of relief as she said that.

Gustav eyes widened in shock, 'She did this to ensure my safety?'

He wanted to say something after hearing her explanation but he couldn't find the right words.

He just kept staring at her as the seconds counted. He felt a rush of indescribable emotion welling up from inside him as he noted the look of concern on her face.

Angy was also staring back at him. The atmosphere was starting to turn awkward as both of them stared into each other's eyes.

"I-t's go-od that you're back now," Angy finally spoke to break the silence.

"I'm going to bed now, goodnight," Angy turned around to head towards her apartment as she waved at Gustav.

"Go-od night," Gustav's voice sounded croaked as he replied to her.

She turned around and smiled at him warmly before entering her apartment.

Pat!

A drop of water fell to the floor a few centimeters ahead of Gustav which brought his mind back to his surroundings.

"Huh? What's this?" Gustav touched his cheek and felt wetness.

"Am I crying?"

The last scene hits different, don't it?

You guys need to understand that he's still finding himself. He's not an emotionless piece of crap or anything of sorts even though he's trying to. He is still in the stage of growth.

Chapter 54: Unexpected meeting

Huh? What's this?" Gustav touched his cheek and felt wetness.

"Am I crying?"

He had a look of disbelief when he touched his cheek and realized that a line of tears was running down his left eye.

"What is this about?" Gustav laughed lightly and cleaned his cheeks before walking towards his reading chair.

He didn't want to think about the reason even though he practically knew why.

But he had made a new decision regarding Angy.

The next morning Gustav was up very early. He hadn't forgotten about how he decided his daily task would be his first activity so he decided to do that when he woke up.

It was still five am at this time.

Gustav was already used to being up this early so it was a normal thing for him.

He went out of his apartment to begin his daily task.

Gustav used the same method as yesterday to finish the lifting and traveling task but for the climbing task, he visited the Dojo.

Miss Aimee had asked him to come there to assist her with something earlier on.

It was a Sunday but Gustav didn't attend a church because right from time, his parents were never churchgoers.

A lot of people of this age weren't.

In this age, people believed more in technology and alien lifeforms than a higher existence like gods.

People have even claimed to be a higher existence themselves since the era of Mixedbloods started.

Some earthlings are seen as God themselves in this age.

Angy's family was one of the people who still believed in the Christian God so they went to church while Gustav went to the Dojo after finishing his daily tasks.

Around past ten in the morning Gustav was done in the dojo and was climbing down the stairs to the lower floors where he could get an elevator.

On the third to the last floor, he ran into someone, or to be precise, some people.

This third floor to the last floor was the first floor of the dojo and also the cheapest. It was the cheapest but a lot of people couldn't afford it except for high-class families.

Gustav happened to bump into his mother and brother when he got to the first floor of the dojo.

They were coming from the elevator stand with a man in a black suit following them.

They seemed to be immersed in a conversation as his Mom could be seen laughing and smiling while the man kept tapping his junior brother's shoulder with a look of admiration.

They paused when they noticed Gustav coming from the other end.

"Gustav?" The mother's eyes widened upon seeing him here. Her mind went back to the last time they met causing her to freeze.

The man wondered why they stopped moving at first, but once he heard the name his face shone with understanding.

Endric stared at Gustav with contempt. He was practically snarling like an angry animal upon seeing his face.

Gustav didn't even bother sparing them another glance after taking a look at them once.

He continued on his way after that and kept moving towards the elevator.

As he got to their position and was about to pass by their side a large palm grabbed onto his shoulder.

Gustav paused his footsteps and stared at his left shoulder to see the man in a black suit gripping his shoulder tightly.

"Young man, you lack courtesy!" The man spoke with a deep voice.

Gustav's sight traveled from the hand of the man up to his face.

The man had slightly tanned skin with thick beards and a mustache. His build was gigantic, making him look similar to a gorilla.

Every part of him was bulky including his large palms grabbing onto Gustav's shoulder.

Gustav could feel more than a thousand pounds of weight resting on his shoulder.

"What do you mean by that?" Gustav said while trying to free his shoulder from this man's grasp.

"You didn't even pay respects to your mother neither did you apologize to your brother for beating him up. What kind of kid are you?" The man brought his face down closer to Gustav's face as he spoke.

"The kind that doesn't have a mother or brother! I will not apologize to dead people!" Gustav said while brazenly pushing the man's hand off his shoulder.

"You..." Endric pointed at Gustav with an angered expression. Their mother stared at Gustav like she was seeing another person.

"Oh, you have the guts to talk back to an echo-ranked MBO colonel? What a brave young lad!" The man spoke with a threatening tone as he placed his palm back on Gustav's shoulder.

This time he clenched Gustav's shoulder even harder than before to the extent that Gustav's shoulder blade was starting to make bone creaking sounds.

"What does that have to do with anything? I told you I don't apologize to the dead!" Gustav stood his ground even though he was starting to feel pain in his shoulder.

"You will apologize and you will do so while kneeling!" The man voiced out again while increasing the force on Gustav's shoulder. He intended to make him kneel.

Gustav gritted his teeth as his knees begun to give way.

The people in the environment that wanted to interfere earlier scattered like rats upon hearing that the man was an echo-ranked mixed-blood from the MBO.

Gustav could tell that the man was only using a low portion of his strength yet he could barely fight against it.

The man smiled as he clamped on Gustav's shoulder tighter pressing him down even more.

Gustav grabbed onto the man's hand with both his palms and pushed up with as much strength as he could muster but it was still of no use.

His legs were trembling due to the intense weight and slowly bending towards the ground.

Endric watched from the side with a crazed smile, "Yes, master Jk, make him pay for touching me!"

This man happened to be Endric's tutor from the MBO and he was referred to as Jk.

"I wi-ll n-ot..." Gustav's face was extremely fierce at this moment. His muscles had bulged intensely and his legs had caused slight cracks on the ground due to his pushing up.

Still, everything was futile as his knees kept bending and bending. His knees were only a few centimeters from the ground at this point but he still wasn't ready to give in.

'Oh, wasn't this lad supposed to be weak? Even Endric cannot handle this... How is he able to resist with an F-grade bloodline,' Master Jk wondered.

Although he was only using a small portion of his strength just like Gustav thought earlier, this amount of strength was powerful enough to bring any Zulu-ranked mixed-blood to their knees.

Gustav was unwilling to be humiliated once again. He had faced enough of that in the past especially for things that made no sense like what was going on right now.

No one in their normal senses would meddle with a family feud but this man seemed to be hell-bent on humiliating Gustav here today.

'That look of unwillingness on your face makes me want to humiliate you even more! how dare you touch my student?' Master Jk increased the force and pushed down on Gustav's shoulder even more.

Just when Gustav's knees were about to make contact with the floor a loud feminine voice was heard.

"What do you think you're doing to my student, Jk?"

Second chapter in a few.

Chapter 55: Sudden Appearance

"What are you doing to my student, Jk?" The feminine voice was laced with such sharpness that it caused the man to tremble slightly upon hearing it.

'This voice... no way, it can't be her?' Master Jk's shoulders turned stiff as he slowly turned around to stare at the person that had just spoken.

Immediately he saw her, his heart nearly jumped out of his chest.

It was a young lady with grey long hair. She had a slim and beautiful figure with a height that was almost 5'7. She was clad in a green short tight fitted gown with a brown coat draped around her shoulders.

"Young mi-ss Aim-ee," The man looked very surprised to see her.

Miss Aimee strode towards them with light and graceful steps. In two second she was already standing before them

"I said what are you doing to my student?" Miss Aimee asked with a threatening tone.

"Yo-ur stu-dent?" Master Jk turned back to look at Gustav who was staring at him with a fierce look.

Miss Aimee also followed his look and noticed Gustav's shoulder was out of place. It seemed quite curved at an angle that suggested that it was broken.

Her eyes suddenly turned fierce.

"How dare you!"

Swing!

Miss Aimee suddenly swung out her left hand towards the face of master Jk.

Pah!

The sound of collision was like a miniature thunderclap causing small vibrations in the air.

Twenty pieces of teeth flew out of Master Jk's mouth along with a trail of blood as he was sent flying several feet toward the side.

He kept sliding for several more feet till his head slammed into the wall.

Bang!

Everyone within the vicinity had their mouths wide open except for those who already knew miss Aimee beforehand.

'Did she just blow an Echo ranked mixed-blood from the MBO, away with one slap?' Everyone had thoughts similar to this in their minds.

Endric and his mother were particularly surprised the most as the looks on their faces suggested that.

'Who is this woman?'

'Why did she say she's Gustav's teacher?'

Endric was not familiar with miss Aimee since he was still in middle school while their mother never attended the parent-teachers meeting whenever there was one in high school so she never knew any one of Gustav's teachers. Both of them couldn't recognize her.

"Are you alright?" Miss Aimee turned to stare at Gustav while asking.

Gustav nodded in affirmation. Although his shoulder was slightly injured from the Intense grip, it had healed back due to his regeneration ability.

"Jk!" Miss Aimee called out again.

Jk was still lying on the floor while spitting out more pieces of his broken teeth and blood.

When he heard miss Aimee call out to him again, he crawled towards her with a terror-stricken face.

"Y-ou-ng m-is-s I'-m so-rry," Master Jk held miss Aimee's feet while begging.

Everyone here couldn't understand the reason for such extreme behavior after the pride he had shown earlier.

They had different theories popping into their heads upon seeing an officer from the MBO kneel to a citizen.

It was an unbelievable sight but they also knew that miss Aimee couldn't be an ordinary person for this kind of thing to be happening.

Miss Aimee glared at master Jk below with a dark look.

Master Jk shivered in his position as he saw her slightly crouch and stare into his eyes with more intensity.

Tap! Tap!

She slapped the back of his head lightly twice and spoke.

master Jk heard that and turned to stare at Gustav before turning his head back to stare at miss Aimee again.

He knew that if he complied with her demand it would result in humiliation for him but if he didn't... Only he knew the horrors that awaited.

'Is he going to do it?' Everyone had a feeling that they were going to witness something they had never seen before in their lives.

Master Jk swallowed spit and leg go of miss Aimee's feet before crawling towards Gustav.

"I-'m So-rry," He said with a pleading look.

Gustav could see the fear written all over master Jk's face which had him wondering, 'Why would he fear miss Aimee so much,' It was surprising to see this much fear on a person's face but even with Gustav felt like laughing when he saw master Jk's mouth missing nearly all of its teeth.

'Well since we've already gotten to this point...' Gustav raised his foot and brought it down on Master Jk's face.

Blam!

Gasp!

Everyone stared at the scene with a look of shock. They couldn't believe that Gustav would have the guts to do that.

Gustav rubbed the sole of his shoes on master Jk's face repeatedly before bringing it down.

'Now we're even,' Gustav said inwardly and proceeded to move forward.

"I'm going miss Aimee," Gustav waved his hand towards miss Aimee and walked towards the elevator.

Everyone stared at Gustav with a look of amazement.

At this moment he shined like a million stars in the galaxy which attracted their eyes.

Miss Aimee nodded at him with a smirk on her face. 'Good kid, you didn't wimp out on me,' Miss Aimee said and proceeded to turn around.

She only moved two steps forward before pausing and turning around to stare at Endric and his mother.

"Thank you for letting go of such a wonderful son. I will make sure I take care of him... unlike you," She stated this and turned around to leave.

Gustav's mother had a lifeless look on her face, mixed with confusion. She was unable to reply to that statement since everything still looked like a dream to her.

Endric eyes were still widened as he couldn't believe what had happened, neither did he understand what came over Gustav and where he got the boldness to go through with something as crazy as that

Master Jk had a look of humiliation on his face as he remained in that position for many seconds.

When Gustav stomped his face earlier he didn't feel any pain since Gustav was too weak but the humiliation he already felt was multiplied by two.

He had to watch someone weaker and lower than him in status stomp on his face without being able to fight back.

He had never felt so humiliated before in his entire existence.

'Who knew that she would take in a disciple? I need to stay away from here as from now on,' Master Jk said internally as he gnashed his gums together causing him pains.

He had forgotten that at the moment he almost didn't have teeth.

Gustav arrived in front of his apartment building in a few minutes. He walked into the building feeling refreshed and vibrant with his face glowing up.

He thanked his stars that miss Aimee was there if not it would have to face another round of humiliation.

He would probably be able to take it normally, but when it was in front of the family he discarded, he wasn't willing to accept it.

He walked through the corridor and arrived in front of his apartment.

Instead of heading towards his apartment, Gustav turned and headed for Angy's apartment.

Kom! Kom!

He knocked twice.

Swhii!

The door opened up and Angy's face appeared in his line of sight.

"Hey Angy," Gustav greeted with a smile on his face.

"Hey, Gus-" Angy was about to reply when she noticed something.

'He's smiling?' Her eyes slightly widened in bewilderment.

'So charming,' Seeing Gustav's lips curved at both edges looked so angelic to her that she didn't notice, they were still standing at the door.

"Um, is there something on my face?" Gustav asked after noticing Angy's stare.

"Eh? Ah So-rry, your face is good," Angy replied with a wry smile, 'Too good,' her cheeks slightly reddened.

"I'm here to see your father, is he in?" Gustav said.

"Um, my father? Yes, he's in," Angy said and walked into the apartment.

"Come in Gustav," A masculine voice sounded from within the apartment.

This novel will be going premium on Thursday.

Chapters published from Thursday onwards will be locked.

Locked chapters can be opened using paid coins or fast passes.

Please if you have coins use them instead of fast passes. If you only have fast passes it's understandable too, just make sure you keep voting for us to get to the top.

Thank you all for the love and support you all have shown.

Things are only gonna get more interesting from this point onwards.