

Bloodline 531

Chapter 531: Tapping The Leader's Office

Gustav spent about thirty minutes giving a brief rundown of what he had encountered on his first day here. He mentioned the fight he got into but didn't explain the details, giving them the idea that it was an inescapable battle.

He mentioned getting information from one of the groups. Still, he didn't really tell them that he used anyone's identity, and he finally explained to them that he was currently within region thirty-two looking for clues.

They mentioned that region thirty was not among the suspected spots chosen. Nevertheless, Gustav explained to them what he had heard once again, which made him come check this place out.

After giving him a little advice, they ended the communication and left Gustav to do as he willed.

Everything was in his hands anyways. It's not like they could come here to take over the case themselves.

Gustav had spent the entire night channeling his bloodline even in this strange place.

Luckily he was able to complete his daily quest yesterday while on the move to this place.

Now that the next morning had arrived, it was time for him to gather information.

Gustav moved out of his room a few minutes later after taking his bath and changing clothes.

The morning on the streets of region thirty-two was quite peaceful. Almost everyone had rides moving across the place, and only very few people could be seen walking on the road.

Gustav wanted to move to a busy area beside the place he had resided for the night.

While walking on the way, he would occasionally change his identity before moving towards any place that had more activity than others.

Hours went by, and noon arrived in a bit.

Gustav had spent the last five hours moving from place to place and gathering as much information as he could.

He went around the entire region about three times, trying to see if he would notice any suspicious movements or locations.

To his disappointment, he found no such thing. The entire region was so peaceful, and it seemed like no kind of transaction was going on in seclusion.

Truly this place was void of war due to two of the eight groups managing this place.

The group Gustav had clashed with a day before was one of them that governed this region, and according to the information Gustav had gathered so far, they were on the sides of the world government.

Gustav didn't really blame any side of the groups for the war, but witnessing what had happened the day before with the family he saved, Gustav held a grudge for this group.

Since there was a possibility of Sahil hiding out in this place, Gustav realized he might have to make use of Lucius's Identity again.

He had figured out the location where the members of Zalibans were situated in this section of the city.

Gustav's next plan was to spy on them and figure out if any of their plans connected with his.

He knew Sahil wouldn't be hiding out in any of these groups' official locations within this region. Especially when it was said that whoever their dealer was also sold arms to the other side. If he was with them, Commanded Fabian wouldn't need to send any troops from over there to come and find him here.

Understanding all this, Gustav initiated his plan to infiltrate into the base of the Zalibans in this region and tap their conversations.

[Cognitive Concealment Has Been Activated]

Making his presence disappear, Gustav dashed across the region and arrived behind a twenty-four-storey building in a few.

Thoom~

He leaped upwards after checking the surroundings and arrived at the top of the building, which happened to be empty.

From there, Gustav hid at a corner of the building and changed his outfit into that of a Zaliban troop.

Asides from Luicuis's outfit, he also took a normal Zaliban troop outfit which he kept in his storage device just in case.

Lucius's uniform had a small silver star in the middle of his chest, which Gustav guessed signified authority, so he didn't put it on.

Using the normal outfit would make him look like a normal troop which wouldn't attract attention.

Gustav found his way into the building by jumping towards the side and landing on a balcony. Although it was locked up, there was a small space on the windows.

Gustav made use of size manipulation to slip in and found his way to the corridors.

This was when he found the place a bit busier than he expected.

Chatter! Chatter! Chatter!

Other people dressed just like him with the dark outfit, vest, and helmet could be seen walking around.

Gustav asked for directions to the leader's office after finding out how the rankings in this place went.

Arriving there, he was told the leader wasn't in at the moment, and he would have to come back.

Gustav already knew this, which was why he came; he decided to approach here in the first place. Asking for the restroom on this floor, Gustav moved there quickly. He made use of another invisibility chip before dashing out.

He was able to break into the leader's office by picking up the keycard placed on the secretary's table without her knowledge.

All she felt was an immense wind blowing across the place, which caused her to get disoriented as multiple pieces of paper flew across the place.

Gustav used this to his advantage opening the office door and getting in quickly to place the tapping device underneath the office chair.

It only took less than ten seconds for all this to be done, and he was out of sight by the time the winds had calmed.

The lady at the desk looked confused as she picked up the files that had fallen.

After the invisibility wore out, Gustav made his way out of the building still using the identity of the dead subordinate Lucius.

"Akeem!"

A loud voice suddenly called out to him the instant he stepped out of the building.

Chapter 532: Unknown Lady

"Akeem!"

A loud voice suddenly called out to him the instant he stepped out of the building.

Gustav turned to the side with a look of confusion and spotted a beautiful-looking young woman with short green hair headed towards him from the other end of the street.

She was also dressed in a black outfit, but unlike Gustav, she had her helmet taken off.

She held it by her side as she approached Gustav.

Gustav turned to look forward and started walking.

"Akeem! Where are you going? Wait for me," She voiced out while increasing her movement speed and arrived behind Gustav before placing her hand on his shoulder from behind.

"We weren't supposed to see each other till next week. Why did you come here?" She asked while moving to Gustav's front.

"Did you miss me that much?" She asked with a seductive voice while reaching out to hug Gustav.

Gustav pulled her from his embrace and spoke, "I think you have the wrong person," He voiced out before proceeding to walk past her.

"Come on, Akeem. Are you still mad at me?" She asked while still following Gustav.

"No, I'm not... I don't even know you. You have the wrong person," Gustav responded while still walking forward.

"That's harsh," She said with a crestfallen tone but still kept following Gustav.

[New Quest Has Been Issued]

[Information: Help comfort the poor lady]

[Rewards]

«+200,000 EXP»

«God Eyes Level Up»

Gustav suddenly paused his steps as he noticed these new notifications.

'The hell is this? How do I comfort her?' Gustav wondered as he turned to stare at the lady beside him, who also paused when he did.

"What exactly do you want from me?" Gustav asked with an intrigued tone, hoping to find some clues so as to how to finish this quest.

"Come on Akeem stop being like this and let's go somewhere private, I miss you too, your touches, your kisses... I love you," She said with shimmering eyes.

'Um... This is gonna be a problem. I think I should skip this quest,' Gustav said internally.

("Hidden punishments...") The system suddenly voiced internally with a light chuckle.

"You even changed your voice trying to trick me but you've forgotten that I patched this uniform for you right here." The young woman touched the neck area of Gustav's outfit as she spoke.

"Even though it's barely visible since you said it yourself that I'm good at this stuff, I would still recognize it anywhere... Along with your stature of course," She laughed lightly after getting to this point.

Underneath the helmet, Gustav's eyes widened with a look of understanding.

'So that's why?'

This was now a situation where he had no choice but to play along, or he'd be risking exposure. There was literally proof on the outfit that it belonged to this Akeem.

And from the looks of things, Akeem and this unknown lady were in a relationship.

Akeem was already dead since Gustav killed him a day before, but luckily Gustav remembered the face underneath the helmet and slowly started transforming to it.

It was a dark-skinned face, attractively shaped with a buzz cut.

'His voice tone...' This was the only issue Gustav had now.

He never heard this dude speak, so he had no idea how he was going to mimic it.

"I had an incident in the last mission which affected my voice... I'm not doing this on purpose," Luckily, Gustav's already made the tone of his voice raspy right from time.

"Oh my. Akeem, are you okay?" She asked with a look of concern while taking off his helmet.

Gustav had already allowed some lines of injury to appear across his face, so the instant she did that, she could see Akeem's face with a lot of injuries.

She held his face with concern and pulled him into her embrace again.

"I'll ask father to let you stay here with me. I can't bear to lose you," She voiced out before leaning in and placing her lips on Gustav's.

The people passing by had smiles on their faces as they noticed the couple kissing.

Gustav had to wing it and pretend as he kissed her back.

"Hmm Akeem, you seem more passionate than before. You used to be so bad at kissing," She voiced out after withdrawing from him.

Gustav didn't know how to respond to that. He only had his first kiss a few days back, and here he was kissing a random stranger that he was only just meeting for the first time.

[Quest Completed]

He noticed the notification appear in his line of sight.

'So you just wanted me to kiss a complete stranger huh?' Gustav voiced out internally.

("Don't pretend like you didn't enjoy it,") The system responded with a snicker.

Gustav; "..."

Minutes later, Gustav and this unknown lady found themselves in a luxurious apartment.

"I'll be right back after taking a shower." She said while winking at Gustav.

The instant she went in, Gustav bolted out the door and found his way out of the building.

He quickly moved towards the nearest restroom and changed his outfit while he transformed into the look he initially used on his first day here.

An oblong-shaped face with a mustache and small beard makes him look older.

Gustav slowly walked out of the restroom a few moments later with a look of relief while moving towards the room he had booked a night before.

He had decided never to use that uniform again and also made his stature different from Akeem.

He was sure Akeem was cursing him from the afterlife right now. Not only did he murder him, but he also kissed his girl, and they would have gone further if he didn't find his way out of there.

In a few minutes, Gustav arrived back in the room he booked and sat on the bed as he brought out some equipment.

Trrrhii~

A small disk-looking device made a weird noise as it projected a black and white x-ray-like projection of the floor where the leader was located in the Zalibans region thirty-two base.

Chapter 533: Visiting The System's Inner Space Again

It displayed the office along with the secretary as well as other people moving across the floor.

It also projected sound, so Gustav had no issue in hearing what was going on.

Now his next move was to sit and wait.

"Just who was that lady? She strikes me as someone with a kind of power," Gustav wondered as this was what his intuition told him.

He remembered seeing a picture frame of a man in the apartment. He figured he was probably a family member since Akeem was who she was in a relationship with.

("I ran a background check on the database of the Zalibans,") The system suddenly spoke.

"You can do that?" Gustav asked.

("I'm the greatest computerized-based machine in all of existence. I can do that and even more. I just chose not to most times so you can figure things out yourself dumbbo,") The system voiced out.

"Fair point." Gustav stated.

("Get over here,") The system voiced out, and in the next instant, Gustav felt his mind being pulled into another realm as his vision turned completely white, and his eyes glowed crimson for a few moments.

His mind was pulled into another place, and he found himself in a wide hall.

The hall was immensely large and wide. The beginning and the end could not be seen, but there seemed to be spots that had different kinds of things placed around.

Far behind, Gustav could see pillars of different sizes.

But these pillars weren't really pillars. They were actually rectangular in shape and transparent.

Some reddish liquid was stored within these pillars. Every pillar had pints of these reddish liquids stored in a lined-up format.

To the left, Gustav could see things like shelves lined up in rows and columns.

These shelves had scroll-like objects placed within them.

He instantly recognized this place to be the system's inner space.

A short girl with a unicorn-like horn in the middle of her forehead, sporting long pinkish hair, could be seen walking towards him from up ahead.

It was the system astral body form, just as Gustav recalled.

She was clad in a long whitish glowing gown. The gown was so long that it swept across the floors as she walked forward.

She looked to be around twelve years of age with her small stature, but her eyes looked extremely sharp.

She looked extremely cute.

"Innocent-looking face, but very dirty tongue," Gustav voiced out the instant she arrived in front of him.

"Shut up twat. Hard looking guy, but still a virgin," She responded before bursting into laughter.

Gustav; "..."

Gustav could not help but get annoyed whenever the system spoke. Ninety percent of her words were always aimed at trying to discredit him in one way or the other.

In fact, staring at her right now made him feel really ticked off. His usually unbothered demeanor was nowhere to be found right now.

"Anyways, let's get to business," She said before snapping her fingers.

A projection of the lady Gustav met earlier, along with the picture he found, appeared.

"These two are father and daughter," The system began explaining.

"The father happens to be a sibling to the head of the Zalibans, so this lady, Lydia, is the nephew of the most powerful person in the Zalibans," She added.

"Oh this could have gone really bad then." Gustav muttered with a contemplative look.

"Or I can really use this to my advantage," He added with a slight look of confliction.

"You don't need to use her right now since the people commander Fabian sent over haven't arrived yet. Besides if you want to make use of her, you might have to use your body and it is even more risky when you have no information whatsoever on Akeem," The system analyzed.

"Exactly. If I'm going to make use of her it has to be in extreme situations. For now I can continue with the investigation on my own," Gustav stated.

The system showed him a few more clips before sending his mind back to his body.

Gustav sight returned back to his room, "That was a bit rough... Anyways let's continue," Gustav muttered as he stared at the black and white projection.

After some time, he decided to check out the new features for God Eyes.

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

Gustav's sight instantly turned red and blue as his sight phased through the entire building.

"Wow," Gustav exclaimed as he zoomed in and noticed that he could see through the entire next three streets.

All the people moving, the internal structure of the walls, and even people having s*x on the top floors.

He quickly zoomed his eyes out as he spotted the couple making out.

"I shouldn't have seen that..." Gustav mumbled before turning to another side to continue examining the new features of God Eyes.

Seconds turned into minutes, minutes turned into hours, and hours turned into an entire day gone by.

The office he tapped hadn't even been opened once throughout the entire day, and just like that, today would be Gustav's third day arriving here.

Gustav was starting to develop an idea of wanting to move across the region again, inspecting places while using God Eyes, but he didn't know if he might miss something while being away.

The footage being displayed was under recording, and he'd be able to rewind and check if something happened, but he felt that a situation that needed urgent response might occur, and then he'd be too late in making a move.

Gustav decided to wait for a little while and move out when it was noon.

Time went by, and in a flash, noon arrived.

Still seeing the office was empty as usual, Gustav prepared to leave his room.

Getting to the shower, he took his bath and did other necessities in less than two minutes before changing his outfit.

Just as he prepared to leave, he noticed the arrival of a group of people on that particular floor being displayed in the footage.

"Who are these guys?" Gustav noticed they were six in number and moved closer to stare at the black and white projection properly.

The secretary instantly stood to her feet and bowed in respect as this group of men arrived before her desk.

'Finally...' Gustav said internally.

Chapter 534: Slick SL

The secretary instantly stood to her feet and bowed in respect as this group of men arrived before her desk.

'Finally...' Gustav said internally.

Gustav zoomed in the black and white footage on a particular one of them, who he recognized to be this region base leader.

He passed down some instructions to the secretary before moving into the office with the others.

The office was like a living room with sofa's surrounding a luxurious-looking table.

This group of three all found places to sit the moment they moved in and began to converse with each other.

"Region leader Khan, I'm sure you know by now that we were sent by commander Fabian," The one on the left voiced out in a reminding tone.

"Of course, he mentioned to me that you are to pass a message to the arms dealer," Leader Khan, who was seating on the other end of the table, voiced out.

"Exactly we need to meet with him as soon as possible since the fate of this war mostly lies on his method of arms distribution," The one on the other side added.

"We can't have him selling to the other side," The one on the left voiced out again.

"I understand. He is truly in this region, but we have no idea where his exact location is," Leader Khan stated.

'How good must this dude's cover up be that it's hard for even the group in authority here to locate him?' Gustav said internally as he continued paying attention to their conversations.

Before the two who were sent over from Commander Fabian's place could respond to that, Leader Khan spoke.

"However, he did give us a means of contacting him," Leader Khan added before bringing out a small rectangular-shaped device.

The two visitors fixed their eyes on this device as he brought it out.

"Oh, so we can contact him and set up a meeting using this device," The one on the left voice out in understanding.

"Precisely, let's do that now," Leader Khan stated before tapping a particular button on the device.

Trrrrriiihrrrrh~

A weird flat and long beeping sound rang out as they waited.

After a few seconds, it stopped, and the leader proceeded to tap it again.

After two more tries, it made a weird connecting sound, and a voice was heard next.

"Mr Khan, I am sure I just delivered some arms to you recently... Are you in need of more?" A deep voice with a weird accent could be heard coming from the device.

"Hahaha arms are never enough my friend but this time we need something different from you," Leader Khan responded.

"Slick SL, we were sent here by our commander to request for you to stop selling arms to the enemy side," The one on the left voiced out.

"Hmm, so you guys figured out that it was me... And I was careful enough to sell different brands and models. Where did I slip up?" The voice from the other side sounded a bit surprised as it responded.

'Looks like my theory was right...' Gustav said internally as he heard this. He was the one who informed Commander Fabian about this without any proof because this was what he suspected after analyzing a lot of things.

The two sent by commander Fabian stared at each other for an instant before turning to face the device again.

"Well, we wish for you to stop selling to the other side, so their troops can be weakened. We can easily win this war in no time," The one on the left voiced out again.

"Hahaha..." A small laughter was heard from the other end for a few seconds before the voice responded.

"Why should I? A longer period of war for me means more profit and might I remind you all that I'm a business man. I put business first," He stated.

"Slick SL might I remind you that you're in our territory. Selling to our enemies as well isn't a very nice thing to do especially to people who have treated you well," Leader Khan said with a solemn tone.

"And I really appreciate your good deeds but like I said, my business comes first," Slick SL said with a slightly appreciative tone.

"We understand you very well Mr Slick, which is why we want to have a sit down with you. We will make you a offer that is good enough to stop you from selling to the other side," The man on the left spoke again.

"Hmm an offer. Are you sure it can meet my expectations?" The voice asked from the other side.

"Very much certain... Commander Fabian never disappoints," The man on the left responded again.

"Hmm... How about two days from now," The voice on the other end proposed.

"Sounds good, location?" They asked again.

"I'll let you know on the morning of that day... I expect no foul play from your end but just in case I will bring enough protection from my side," The moment after the person finished voicing out, the communication was cut.

The three men in the office stared at each other before Leader Khan spoke.

"I suppose you two will be here for sometime then. Let me get you settled in a comfortable and safe environment," Leader Khan voiced out before proceeding to use another communication device to contact someone.

"We appreciate the gesture Region Leader Khan," Both men voiced out with an appreciative tone.

At this point, Gustav had stood to his feet and was standing by the side of the bed contemplative gaze while staring at a piece of information displayed in holographic format.

"Turns out it was truly Sahil." Gustav muttered while staring at a list.

«Alias: SL, Slick SL, Shadow Distributor...»

Sahil had different names he went by, and Slick SL just happened to be one of them.

It had only been three days, and Gustav was already on his trail. Now the next step was to implement a good plan and make sure he didn't slip from his hands.

Chapter 535: Testing Out The Spatial Device

Also, he had to get hold of the location in the next two days when Sahil contacted them again.

"Who are these two that were sent by Commander Fabian?" Gustav wondered as he stared at the projection.

He noticed that they were leaving the office with a woman who seemed to be guiding them.

Gustav quickly looked around his room. He wanted to leave and get over to that part of the region, but going through the elevators would waste time.

He moved towards the left where the balcony was located and stared at the street up ahead.

It was up to five hundred feet in height, but this was nothing Gustav hadn't handled before. In fact, he had dealt with worse.

Thoom~

Gustav leaped through the balcony travelling several hundred feet in mid-air as his body flew above several buildings in the process.

[Silent Advancement Has Been Activated]

As he landed on a building in front, there was barely any sound.

Swwoooooosshh!

Dashing forward, he leaped above several buildings in a diagonal format as he travelled towards the Zalibans region base.

After a minute, he arrived before the street where the building was located and started walking forward.

He instantly spotted the two men coming out of the building with the woman in front of them, who gestured towards a luxurious-looking hovercar parked by the side.

Gustav moved to the side and kept watching them sneakily as the engine started and zoomed off across the street.

They drove at moderate speed, so Gustav was able to follow them with sprint.

Swwoooooosshh!

He was barely visible when he moved across the street, so he didn't garner attention, especially when the streets were scanty as well.

As Gustav followed after them from a good distance while activating God Eyes, which could now pin onto targets, he noticed that they were headed in a familiar direction.

In about a minute more, everything clicked as they arrived right in front of the same location Gustav was currently residing, El Caso's place.

This was the only part of this region that was always bubbling with activity. Beautiful ladies dressed in raunchy and baiting outfits moved about the place.

As both men who were sent here to see commander Fabian got off the vehicle, some of the ladies in the vicinity started winking at them and giving them all sort of seductive looks.

The woman who was leading them stared at these ladies with disgust as she walked into the place with the two who ignored the ladies.

"Maybe we can have some fun later, this place doesn't seem bad," The one on the left said to the other one after they walked in.

"Well we have two days of freedom so yeah it won't be bad to have a little fun while we wait," The other one responded with a low tone.

The woman leading them heard their words and thought, 'Aren't they both married? Men will always be pigs...'

She arrived before the reception and conversed with one of the females at the desk while gesturing at the two males behind before receiving a gold card.

They proceeded to move towards the elevator area.

Just as they got in and moved to the side, waiting to be teleported to their floor, Gustav suddenly moved to the same elevator.

The men stared at the young man with a mustache and small beard for a moment, wondering how someone could be so bold as to enter the same elevator with a Zaliban.

Gustav nodded at them, "Good day sirs, good day ma'am," He voiced out respectfully before moving towards the side, acting like he wasn't even there.

After observing him for a few moments, they concluded that Gustav was just a clueless nobody and didn't see it as a big deal to let him stay in the same teleportation elevator with them, especially when the place was big enough.

Zing~

A few moments later, they were teleported to the last floor, which happened to be the most luxurious one.

Only a few spaces were available here, but every room was like an entire house with multiple relaxation centers, and people had better services.

Room 12B was stated on the gold card, and it was just down the beautiful-looking hallway.

At this point, Gustav didn't keep following them. He moved towards a side of the hallway that led to the top of the lounge building and stood there.

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

His eyes zoomed through and focused on the three headed towards the left. Normally, they would be out of sight, but God Eyes was just too powerful now.

After noting their room, Gustav moved back to his own room.

The issue now was he would be kicked out of his room by nightfall since that was when his accommodation period would expire.

He had put the first phase of his plans into motion, but to continue, he would have to remain in this place.

Gustav's hair slowly morphed back into its dirty blonde color as his face transformed as well.

His initially oblong-shaped face returned back its usual shape with his well-outlined jawline and charming young facial features along with his attractive lips.

Gustav's height reduced a little back to 5'11, with his slightly muscular frame returning as well.

He proceeded to change his clothes and back to the MBO uniform before reaching for his left wrist.

Tap! Trrooooin~

A silver-colored bracelet appeared on his wrist with four blue bars.

'Time to find out if this will work,' Gustav said internally while tapping on it several times.

A circular blue, glowing icon appeared after a few moments, and Gustav proceeded to tap it.

«Initiating Spatial Jump»

A computerized voice rang out just before a blinding flash of light surrounded Gustav.

Troooiinnn!

Gustav noticed the vicinity narrowing as he found his body being sucked into a tunnel of whitish light.

Zing~]

In the next moment, he found himself standing in the midst of a forest area.

Chapter 536: Account Balance

Zing~]

In the next moment, he found himself standing in the midst of a forest.

Gustav looked around, and on the right side, he could see halved trees that depicted a part of the forest that was decimated.

Turning to look behind him, he could see hundreds of feet away, a clear space where different sizes of tents were erected.

This was the same place he arrived in on the first day, the base within one of the forests in Ruhuguy City.

"It worked... But not entirely accurate in its coordinates," Gustav muttered as he stared at where his personal tent was located.

The tent where he slept on his first day here was where he had used it as a checkpoint, yet he was teleported hundreds of feet in front.

"Maybe it's an interference from the city's dome," Gustav felt this was the only explanation that made sense.

Officer Milly Brown, who happened to be moving around at that time, turned to stare at the forest area as her eyes squinted.

After a few moments, she turned back around, "I guess it was nothing," She muttered while letting her guard down and moving away.

Gustav, who was a hundred feet away, was hiding behind a tree as he turned to the side to look in her direction.

After confirming that she was out of sight, he slowly moved forward while activating a skill.

[Cognitive Concealment Has Been Activated]

His presence instantly disappeared as he dashed across the forest a moment later.

Gustav travelled towards the city and arrived there in about a minute.

He didn't want to stir any drama or bring attention to himself, so he quickly moved towards the closest bus stop.

Gustav boarded the transport and headed towards the closest bank.

Arriving at the biggest bank in the city, Gustav brought out his debit card.

This was the first time he would be using it in a month. He headed towards the nearest private withdrawal booth and proceeded to check his balance first.

#####

«Name: Gustav Crimson»

«Balance: 39,007,892$»

#####

Gustav's eyes widened slightly as he spotted the balance.

"It's only been about seven months... How did it get this high?" He muttered with a surprised expression.

'Looks like things are going well in Plankton City...' Gustav thought.

That was the only explanation for this. He only just created the organization and explained to them what was meant to be done. It looked like his workers had been doing well.

Gustav remembered them, along with Angy's father and his partnership with Sir Gon.

'I should try visiting them after checking up on boss Danzo...' Gustav thought.

It would be nice to see the progress of everything he started personally.

Gustav proceeded to withdraw a large sum of money and stacked his storage device with them.

This way, he wouldn't need to worry about using cash in region thirty-two since he couldn't afford to use his card. Leaving a trail or any form of connection behind was dangerous.

A few moments later, Gustav moved out of the bank and proceeded to start completing his daily routine. He had already completed one, now only two were left.

'Break into a secure facility and break out without arousing any suspicions,' Gustav read the second daily task.

'Erm did you forget that I now have quite a number of invisibility buttons with me... This can be finished easy,' Gustav said to the system as he moved away from the bank area.

Minutes later, Gustav found himself at the vault of a bank staring at a massive-looking diamond that kept oozing out energy.

"This is tempting..." Gustav said as he moved closer to the diamond.

The entire vault only had about two or three more valuable items within, but this one seemed to be the most valuable item from Gustav's analysis.

In fact, the amount of energy oozing from it made Gustav feel like absorbing it into his energy containers, but he had used God Eyes to look around the whole place.

The instant he messed with it, an alarm would be sent out, and he would fail the system's task.

'Interesting... This must be another type of energy fragment,' Gustav only studied it for a few seconds more before moving towards the entry and exit point of the place.

His looks at this point were not his original, neither was he dressed normally. He was dressed in a staff outfit, holding a keycard that gave him access in and out of the bank.

'Poor Ahmed... This one time you just have to be the scapegoat, so I can complete this task,' Gustav said this internally with a tone of pity, but his face didn't display any pity.

-

A few minutes later, Gustav was out of the place and back to his usual look.

[Daily Task Completed (2/3): Infiltrate a highly secure facility without arousing any suspicions✓]

Mixedbloods at Gustav's level of strength couldn't even manage to pull all these kinds of stuff off, but Gustav had so many options in his arsenal, so doing this was no biggie as long as he implemented it well.

He would be a very big menace to society if he decided to turn bad at the moment.

Gustav proceeded to go complete the third task.

[Daily Task (3/3): Demonstrate your strength by stopping a vehicle moving at full force]

'What is the point of having me do this?' Gustav said while rolling his eyes.

("It's fun to see how much your strength has improved... Besides I don't set this. It's automated,") The system voiced in his head with a light chuckle.

Gustav nearly facepalmed as he walked across the street, not knowing how to go through with this one.

Just as he arrived at a particular intersection, a loud whistling sound was heard across the air.

Gustav turned to look up and noticed a projectile flying across the air.

Thwwiii~

Before anyone could react, it slammed into the floating rail towards the southeast part of the sky, hundreds of feet above the ground.

Boom!

A massive explosion went off as parts of the rail fell towards the building below.

"Kiiarrhh!"

There were screams everywhere as parts of the building blasted across the place and fell towards the street.

Chapter 537: Completing The Last Daily Task

It was a full-blown disaster as everyone in that vicinity ran for their dear lives. The sounds of wailing could be heard. It seemed like some people had been physically affected by this incident.

Gustav didn't instantly sweep into action because of his current looks. He was still wearing the MBO uniform, so transforming into another face wasn't very sensible since they could check the database and find out that such a person wasn't a part of the MBO.

He quickly proceeded to take out the fox mask from his storage bracelet and charged forward with immense speed.

Fwwwoommm~

A burst of wind blasted across the place as Gustav arrived in the midst of the chaos.

The first thing he did was leap upwards as he spotted a massive rail line falling towards a group of people on the ground trying to get away.

He grabbed it as he ascended above and landed on a rooftop in the distance before dropping it there.

The instant Gustav finished doing these, he heard loud screams coming from above and below.

He looked up and noticed that the floating rails above that now had a disconnected part had a train coming over from the other direction at full speed.

The passengers, along with the engineman, were all screaming as they noticed the nearly hundred feet gap between both disconnected rails up ahead.

Because that part was slightly sloppy heading downwards, it wasn't noticed earlier, so the train was only a few feet away by the time the engineman proceeded to try and stop the train.

Gustav leaped away from the current building he was standing on and landed on the ground right below the disconnected rail.

[Size Manipulation Has Been Activated]

Gustav started growing in size as the train arrived at the ledge.

He stretched out his enlarging palms and caught the massive train as it fell.

His body remained the same size, but his arms were almost as large as the building by the side.

The people in the train had widened eyes as they stared at the massive palms grabbing hold of their train as all the coaches moved towards the side while falling.

Grrrhmmmmm~

Gustav groaned a little as he bore the force of the train and tightly grabbed hold of its body, causing parts of the window areas to blast into pieces.

This injured some passengers within, causing Gustav to soften his grip a little.

At this point, cracks had appeared on the ground all around Gustav as he held the train up for a few moments before he slowly started to bring down his massive arms.

Gbbbgm~

The train made a loud sound of collision as Gustav allowed the last couch to make contact with the street first before releasing the rest.

At this point, the entire street was baffled and filled with admiration as they wondered who Gustav was.

'He must be a prestigious MBO officer,' This was the thought in most of their minds after witnessing this feat.

However, they couldn't see Gustav's face due to his mask, neither could they recognize this stature.

He was also wearing a black MBO uniform which indicated that he was at the lowest tier, and this didn't make sense to some of them because they believed someone as strong as this should be higher.

Gustav deactivated Size Manipulation causing his arm length to slowly retract back to normal as he completely let go of the train.

[Daily Tasks Completed (3/3): Demonstrate your strength by stopping a vehicle moving at full speed ✓]

Gustav stared at the notification for a moment, scoffing internally. It was almost like the disaster that occurred was a convenient scenario for him to complete this task.

He stared in the direction where the projectile that crashed into the rail came from and noticed it was coming from the direction that led to Leoluch city.

'How powerful must it be to pass through the dome?' Gustav wondered, but then he remembered that going out of the city was easier than going in.

He internally shook his head as he turned around and dashed away.

Swwoosshh~

The people in the vicinity didn't get the chance to thank him before he disappeared from the place.

All they could recall him as was the masked fox officer. Gustav had to leave because he sensed the authorities approaching the area, including the officers stationed within the forest working on the operation with him.

The authorities later arrived on the scene and helped out with the rest of the situation while questioning the survivors.

Gustav headed towards a secluded part of the city and tapped on his left wrist again.

"Time to head back," He muttered while staring at the silver bracelet, which now had three and a half blue bars.

Gustav tapped a few more times and activated the bracelet, causing a bright white light to envelope him.

Zing~

He disappeared an instant later.

"They received an information about the number one best first year cadet leaving camp on a mission. They were given the coordinates of where he'd be leaving from and they made use of that information to send the war jet after him," A bald man dressed in MBO uniform said with a respectful attitude while standing in front of Miss Aimee.

"I see. So where exactly did this information come from?" Miss Aimee asked.

"The source is anonymous. They have no idea where it came from. They just received the information and acted on it. They didn't think they'd be caught," He explained.

"And they wouldn't have been... If I didn't act, you lots would have screwed it up," Miss Aimee chided mercilessly.

A terrorist organization getting this kind of information gave miss Aimee the impression that someone within the MBO wanted Gustav gone.

Such information could only have been leaked by an insider, but the good thing was, nobody had an idea about the mission Gustav was given, neither did they know where he was headed. They only knew the pickup point where Gustav left from.

Miss Aimee had a look of relief as she recalled picking the pilot herself. The pilot did well in destroying the jet and protecting Gustav.

"Find out who this anonymous source is," Miss Aimee instructed before walking away.

She had several suspicions, so her plan was to make investigations on her side also.

Chapter 538: Back On Track

She had several suspicions, so her plan was to make investigations on her side also.

The officer had looks of fear and confliction on his face as he turned around to head back to the room where all the criminals that orchestrated the attack were placed.

Gustav arrived back in his hotel room at this point and took off his mask.

His bracelet had only three bars at this point, which indicated he could only engage in spatial travel about six more times before it ran out of power.

At this time, it was late in the evening, and Gustav had been away for about two hours.

He proceeded to move towards a device he placed on the side of the table and tapped on it.

Earlier, when he was in the teleportation elevator, he had sneakily placed the tapping device somewhere on the last floor before he left.

The tapping device was powerful enough to cover the whole floor, so Gustav didn't have to put it in their room directly.

The only difference was when it was placed farther from the location that wanted to be observed, it was harder to get a clearer view and sound.

This was why he placed it directly in the Leader Khan's office the other time to get a clearer outline and audio.

He wasn't really worried this time because he only wanted to observe their activities and not really the sounds.

Gustav rewinds the recording as he focuses on their side of the room to sort through what had gone down so far.

All he noticed was both men freshening up to change outfits to use the pool in the balcony area.

It really seemed like a vacation to them, and just as Gustav suspected, he was right. They truly wouldn't be doing anything besides waiting for Sahil to contact them in the next two days.

Gustav fast forwards to the present time back, where he could see a bunch of beautiful ladies in the room and around the pool dressed in swimsuits.

About nine ladies in total were present in the vicinity messing around with the two male officers. At the same time, they were being served by a lounge worker bringing them drinks and all sorts of exotic meals.

The two men were really having the time of their lives pampered by these ladies while the war was going on in other regions, and people were getting killed by the minute.

Gustav shook his head, 'The ones in high places are never involved when dangerous situations break out even though they happen to be the cause. Innocents are bound to always suffer for a cause they didn't start as long as they are at the bottom,'

Gustav could imagine himself being in this scenario if this was happening in Plankton city, and he never had an encounter with the system. Weakling will forever blame their unfortunate fate, and he didn't want to ever be in a situation like that, which was why power still remained his main goal.

Especially when corrupt people who don't care about the lives of the innocent are at the top of the hierarchy.

Gustav felt the urge to commit assassination on all top officials in this city. Still, with his current state of strength, this was impossible to achieve. He might be able to pull off one or two, but there were forces on the side of the higher-ups who were stronger in hiding.

Besides, this wasn't a part of the mission. He would literally be branded as wanted if he managed to pull any of the assassinations off, which would just be throwing all his hard work to waste.

Gustav wasn't even trying to be a hero, but he found the acts of these people despicable and saw himself in the shoes of those trying to escape to keep their lives.

Anyhow he still wouldn't try and overdo anything or get involved in this crisis since it wasn't his battle to fight.

Gustav kept watching the footage, and the whole messing around went on till nightfall, where both men sent all the girls away except for the two they really wanted to spend the night with.

Gustav listened in a bit to the cracking sound of their conversations and pieced something together.

One of them was attracted to the girl he asked to stay behind and still wanted her to come over the next morning after their night enjoyment had ended.

Gustav had to shy away from the holographic display a few minutes later due to the graphic content playing out in front of him.

This wasn't a scene that he was interested in witnessing.

("Wouldn't it be better for you to watch now and practice? That's a very experienced man giving you free teaching and you're not taking opportunity of it,") The system suddenly voiced in his head as Gustav lay on the bed.

'What the hell are you talking about? I'm not interested in seeing the body of a middle aged man. That's homosexual,' Gustav responded.

("Not if it's for research purposes. I tell you, you'll disappoint Angy in the future cos you know nothing,") The system chided with a burst of light laughter.

'No, I don't wanna hear this,' Gustav said as he took the pillow and covered both ears with it subconsciously.

("I live in you,") The system reminded.

'Fuck you!' Gustav said internally with a frustrated look.

He didn't really use cuss words anymore, but the system always found a way to get it out of him.

("On a serious note, you need to get used to this because you never know what could happen when you're looking away,") The system advised.

'Why are we still talking about this?' Gustav asked.

("Are you getting dumber? I'm giving you a realistic theory here,") The system pointed out.

"Sigh. Alright I get your point but come on you can't expect me to sit through and watch all that?" Gustav said while seating up.

("If it was a murder pertaining to a case you were working on you'd watch it without battling an eye lid right?") The system asked.

Chapter 539: Having Gustav Watch Graphic Content

"Yes..." Gustav responded affirmatively.

("This is just the same thing. To be a professional you have to get used to seeing anything and everything. This could really become something that might have a negative effect in the future if you keep running from it,") The system explained.

Gustav sighed once again and stood to his feet before moving towards the table where the projection was displayed.

Gustav was glad the sound system wasn't very effective.

His face showed immense discomfort as he watched the graphic was displayed.

'It... It... It seems things are getting intense...'

Around midnight the base reached out again to get another daily report, which Gustav proceeded to cut out some information before explaining how he got to the current.

The Officers from the base were greatly shocked after hearing that Gustav already had a lead on Sahil and was planning how the meet up in two days.

They had expected that it would take longer than this, but Gustav had once again surprised them.

They came up with a good plan for Gustav to approach Sahil in the next two days.

They had given Gustav information on the two men currently residing in the upper room where he was observing.

Junior Commanders Folan and Dart were the henchmen of commander Fabian. They still gave Gustav some more private information he needed to know about these two.

They had no idea that Gustav wasn't going to follow their plans since he already had his.

His plans had a higher tendency of working out due to the hidden abilities that they didn't know he had.

The communication ended sometime later after Officer Gooseman commended Gustav's progress.

Gustav later moved out of his room after checking the footage and headed straight for the teleportation elevator.

He arrived at the last floor a few moments later. He had already changed his looks before he left his room, taking the form of a suave-looking 6'2 handsome young man dressed in expensive clothing.

After arriving on the corridor of the last floor, he noticed a beautiful young lady dressed in a tight red mini gown heading towards the direction of the teleportation elevator.

Gustav's next move was to head for her.

"Excuse me young miss could I see you for a moment?" Gustav said with a smooth tone as he arrived in front of her.

She paused her footsteps and stared at him up and down with a look of satisfaction.

"Yes? How can I help you?" She asked with a smile.

"Can you come with me? I just need a few moments of your time," Gustav said while winking at her and showing a charming smile.

She returned the smile before responding, "I think I can spare a few moments,"

'He must be really loaded. I guess today is my lucky day. Twice in a row,' She bit her lip while thinking before following by Gustav's side.

A few minutes later, both of them were in Gustav's room, sitting on his bed.

Gustav's room was only two floors lower, so even though it wasn't up to the standard of the ones on the last floor, it was also very luxurious.

He had hidden anything that could cause suspicions.

The lady who seemed to still be looking around kept asking Gustav different questions.

"Let's get down to business," Gustav finally spoke as he placed his hand on her face and turned it to face her.

"You haven't sho..." Before she could speak, she suddenly felt a prick on the side of her neck.

Her eyes turned hazy, and the next thing she knew, she blacked out as her head fell limply towards the back.

Gustav's left hand was currently pressing on a particular part of her neck area, which she didn't spot because she had no idea when Gustav's hand traveled towards her neck.

She had already started passing out before she felt the prick.

Gustav released her body completely, letting her fall onto the bed with her back.

"Hmm she'll be out for nothing less than twenty four hours. That's enough time to get done what I need to do," Gustav said with a low tone as he searched her body for items.

After taking all that was on her being, his face transformed into hers, and he moved towards the mirror area to check it out.

'There won't be any issues with this except for applying makeup,' Unlike hers, Gustav transformed face was without any makeup, causing him to look a little different. Still, he didn't see this a problem.

Gustav saw the communication device in the lady's storage device, which was given to her by Junior commander, Dart who was very interested in her and wanted her to come over again the next day.

Yes, this lady happened to be one of them that visited the room of the two junior officers.

Gustav had decided to mimic her identity and infiltrate their room when the day broke.

All he needed to do now was work out his acting skills, use proper makeup and dress sexily.

This was the first time he would be trying to use the identity of a female, so he had to make sure it was fluid enough to avoid any form of suspicions.

-

Hours later, the day broke, and Gustav put in all the necessary procedures before leaving their room around 11am.

Within a laboratory, Angy sat on an exalted medical stretcher in a thin medical fabric as rays of light scanned her entire body.

A middle-aged-looking man with a few grey beards and a one-eye spectacle covering his left eye stood in front, observing the holographic monitor where her internal structure was displayed.

"Hmm? Just what is this thing?" He muttered with a contemplative look.

"I have cross-referenced its anatomy with every known parasite to exist but it's like it doesn't exist, yet it does," He added.

Angy, who was laying down, heard him muttering some of these words and voiced out, "What's wrong Dr Levi?"

"Hmm... This is quite a dilemma Angy. You're going to have to give me a list of everything you came into contact with in the last four months," He voiced out in response.

Chapter 540: Angy's Situation

"Hmm... This is quite a dilemma, Angy. You're going to have to give me a list of everything you came into contact with in the last four months," He voiced out in response.

"In the last four months? It's impossible for me to recall everything I came into contact with in the last four days, talk more of four months," Angy responded with a look of indignation.

"Hmm true, that was unreasonable of me to ask for. Not everyone is blessed with super intelligence and retentive memory like me," He said with a look of contemplation.

'Is he really flexing right now?' Angy said internally with a tired glare.

"The problem with this thing is, if I use my removal method there's a chance that your legs might never be operational again since it has eaten deep into your legs internal muscular build," Dr. Levi said while moving around with a disturbed look.

"They already missed it twice due to its ability to mimick the look of your cells... If you hadn't come to me directly for your third check up those screwups might never have found it," He added with a look of repression.

Just as Dr. Levi had stated, Angy had already been here twice for checkups, but none of the scanners and monitors were able to notice anything wrong with her, so the doctors in charge of her checkups said nothing was wrong with her. They assumed it was just an allergic reaction to something she had eaten and would eventually stop.

The painful attacks she had when waking up in the morning had been coming in more frequently lately, so she still came for checkups again. This time, she decided to meet Dr. Levi directly after remembering her last time here for bloodline strengthening with Gustav.

"This might also be a negative side effect to bloodline strengthening surgery you underwent months back... Although it's supposed to be 100% safe, complications are not completely unavoidable," Dr. Levi kept prancing around the place as he spoke.

He turned around and moved close to the holographic monitor to study the weird parasite within Angy's body again.

"I'll need you to be coming everyday for checkups until I find a way to deal with this," Dr. Levi said while typing a few things down.

"Alright Dr Levi. Is there anything I should do in the meantime?" Angy asked as she sat up.

"Hmm, just avoid using your speed too much. Use it moderately from now on," He instructed.

"My speed? But how would I train without that?" Angy asked with a conflicted expression.

"You can, but use it moderately. Do not push yourself until I have found a way out of this predicament," Dr. Levi explained.

It was quite a hard pill for Angy to swallow since she had decided to push herself to become very powerful before Gustav returned, but she had no choice but to nod in response as she stood to her feet.

"Alright," She muttered with a defeated expression before leaving.

Dr. Levi stood in the same spot for minutes, examining the reports from Angy's tests.

"This is really bad. If I don't find a way to get rid of this soon, she'll lose her bloodline," Dr. Levi mumbled underneath his breath with a worried look.

"The more she uses her speed. The more this thing saps away components from her bloodline..."

At the same time that was going on within camp, Gustav had already found himself in the room of the two junior Commanders, Folan and Dart.

He was currently dressed in a tight white dress, full-faced make-up with red cherry lips, long brown hair, exuding a seductive charisma. Of course, he had taken the form of the beautiful lady he called over to his room the other night who went by the name Cassandra.

He was currently seated on the bed beside one of them.

"Cassandra... You're looking sexier than even the night before," Junior commander Dart stated as he trailed his finger up Gustav's right thigh.

Gustav's trembled inwardly in disgust as he felt the fingers running up his thigh and subconsciously reached out to grab his hand.

"Now now Dart, you know I like having a little bit of fun before we go into the main deal," Gustav said with a seductive female tone as he gently caressed the hand and lifted it off his thighs.

"Mhhmm, I totally enjoyed our fun yesterday... You're so much interesting than my boring wife," Junior commander Dart responded with a sneaky-looking smile.

"Ah yes I will make today even more fun," Gustav said while winking.

He was glad he didn't lose composure and inwardly thanked his stars that he was able to stop those hands from going any further.

("Looks like the universe wants you to get disvirgined one way or the other,") The system suddenly voiced in his head with a burst of laughter.

Gustav; "... "You little..."

Gustav nearly cussed at the system again, but he calmed himself and breathed in.

"What do you have in mind?" Junior commander Dart asked.

"You'll have to follow me to find out," Gustav said while standing up and walking sensually towards the door.

Junior commander Dart stared at the backside of the beautiful female in front of him, which vibrated with every movement, going up and down.

He nearly whistled as he stood to his feet with a delighted expression.

"Folan, I'll be back. I need to take care of something," He said while standing to his feet and following after Gustav.

"Hmm, have fun," Junior commander Folan voiced out from across the room, where he was also busy with a beautiful and barely dressed lady.

As they walked through the corridor, Junior Commander Dart caught up with Gustav and asked.

"Where are we going?"

"To my apartment... I have some fun tools we can use to make things even more interesting," Gustav responded.

Images appeared in commander Dart's mind causing him to look forward to this even more as they moved towards Gustav's apartment.

-

A few minutes later, they arrived there, and Junior commander Folan sat on the bed as he waited for Gustav to bring out the tools he mentioned.