

Bloodline 681

Chapter 681 - Let's Go!

He and Charisas had been dating secretly until the mom realized her son had fallen in love with an ordinary maid, contrary to her plans for his future love life.

Marshal could only hope that Charisas would be able to come out on top here. But with the looks of things that was close to impossible as he recalled Eldorado fights with past opponents.

They watched as Charisas was pushed back, slowly dominated by Boss Danzo's attacks. Multiple injuries began to appear on her body as the fight continues.

'When will he use the ten hits combo?' This was the thought on everyone's mind as they hungered to see the finishing move once again.

They knew he was just taking his time and the battle would definitely end the moment he decided to unleash his finishing move.

Gustav stared at the battle from his position as he calculated how much was left.

'Ninety-eight percent... Only a few more seconds,' He said internally as he kept sucking the energy from the glass.

Within a control room, an alarm went off as a holographic image displayed a part of the facility. A part of the image displayed a red blinking light, alarming the staff within.

"What's going on? Why is it losing power?" One of them asked with a look of confusion.

"No idea... It looks like its integrity will soon turn zero," another one voiced out.

"Doesn't that mean it will turn completely weak and easy to break through?" The other staff voiced out.

"Yes," another staff there answered.

"We have to alert the boss immediately."

--

'Ninety-nine percent... Done,' Gustav's eyes suddenly crackled with blue energy as he said internally.

His right arm was glowing with blue color at the moment and was extremely bloated. It was three times larger than its original size and vein outlines could be seen all over.

Gustav placed his left palm on the glass, and brought down his thumb finger, displaying only four fingers.

His fingers glowed a fiery bright light, causing attention to be drawn to himself from the stage area.

The three in the same room with him also witnessed his glowing fingers but had no idea what was happening.

Boss Danzo had already spotted this and held onto his hat, pushing it up and down twice.

Charisas, who was bleeding from her forehead at this time, raised her hand.

Fwwhii! Fwwhii! Fwwhii! Fwwhii!

All the daggers strawn across the place lifted up into the air and started flying in her direction.

Boss Danzo dodged them as she called them back to her, and they all floated around her.

He moved to the side, backing the area where Gustav's spectating room was located.

Making a hand sign, everyone focused back on him.

"He's about to use it," These were the thoughts in their heads and some of them voiced it out in excitement as they watched.

Fwwhii! Fwwhii! Fwwhii! Fwhhi!

Charisas flung out all the daggers surrounding her towards Boss Danzo which he dodged swiftly while traveling towards her.

The daggers stabbed into the wall up ahead, all making a kind of line across the wall in an upwards format.

After dodging them all, Boss Danzo arrived in front of her, and several blade-like objects shot out of his finger as he spun around while swinging his hand out.

Everyone had looks of excitement as they watched his fingers pierce towards the jaw of the girl.

Suddenly, he stopped his fingers a few centimeters away from her face and reached to grab her arm.

"Let's go," He voiced out to her hearing before turning around and running towards the wall area where the daggers were stabbed into.

Chatter! Chatter! Chatter!

Everyone was in disbelief and confusion as they saw the two opponents running side by side towards the wall up ahead.

Boss Danzo grabbed onto her left arm tightly as he tapped a button on his shoulder area, causing his boots to make a weird sound.

Thoom!

He jumped upwards with the girl in his grasp, elevating a few feet high and landing on one of the daggers stabbed into the wall.

He kept holding onto her while stabilizing his footing and jumping a few feet upwards once again.

Landing on the last dagger which was up to twenty feet high up, there was still up to seven feet of space left between Boss Danzo and the glass area where Gustav was situated.

It was at this point that everyone seemed to realize what was going on.

At the same time, this was happening, the staff in the control room were reporting the situation of the glass that had lost all its protective energy.

While the higher-ups were receiving that information they spotted what was happening on the stage from the holographic projection within the room.

"They're trying to escape! Stop them now!"

A loud shout was heard and every guard within the place armed up and began moving towards the room area where Gustav was situated.

Boss Danzo leaped up once again with the girl in his grasp, ascending a few feet upwards but he was unable to reach the desired height.

His eyes widened as his body reached the point where it started to descend right beneath the glass.

Bang! Krrryhh!

A loud sound of glass blasting to pieces rang out in the next second and before Boss Danzo knew what was happening, a hand reached out speedily and grabbed onto his.

Gustav had blasted the glass to pieces with a single punch and reached out to grab hold of Boss Danzo before he fell back to the stage.

He easily pulled Boss Danzo and the girl up together, bringing them into the same room with him.

The three in the room were terrified as they saw what was happening.

"What are you doing!?" One of them shouted out but Gustav ignored him.

Even though Gustav was currently using another identity, Boss Danzo had seen him before so he knew it was Gustav.

"Get on my back we're leaving," He voiced out to the girl.

Chapter 682 - Escaping The Underground Battle Site

"Get on my back we're leaving," He voiced out to the girl.

She shrank back as she saw Gustav's eyes glowing blue color and his right arm thrice the size of his normal arm with blueish veins.

"Don't worry, do as he says," Boss Danzo comforted her.

"One moment," Gustav said and moved towards the three men by the sides who were shrinking back to the wall.

"It was you right..." Gustav voiced out as he pointed at the man wearing a blue turban on his head.

The man shrank back in fear, wondering what Gustav was talking about, till his back kissed the wall.

Gustav conjured up an atomic blade in his left hand and threw it forward without wasting any more time.

Shrrreeevv~ plop!

The sound of tissue being cut through echoed in the room as the blade pierced into his forehead.

Blood flowed down his face as his eyes rolled to the back and he was sent to the afterlife.

The others shivered with looks of fright, sincerely scared for their life as they stared at Gustav.

However, Gustav knew there was no time to waste so, he quickly picked Boss Danzo up as the girl jumped onto his back.

[Sprint Has Been Activated]

He bolted out of the room with speed, leaving behind a blast of wind that blew across the room.

"Garou, Biden, catch the escapers,"

In a part of the facility above the room area of the spectators, a man voiced out as he stood in front of two people.

One was a buff man with ram horns and blade-like fins on the sides of his arms. The other was a slim-looking guy with blue worm-like hair and a black dotted white skin.

The wormy hair glowed and began wriggling as it rose.

"I can see him. He's fast," Biden voiced out as his worm-like hair continuously wriggled.

"Let's get him before he leaves," Garou voiced out as turned around to head towards the exit. His massive body bulged intensely, causing his clothes to squeeze tightly to his body displaying the immensely muscular frame.

"Just to be clear, we can use any means at our disposal to catch them?" Biden asked as he slowly walked to catch up with Garou.

"Yes, just make sure you catch them. The person helping them is another matter. It is of no consequence if you kill that one," The man in the background voiced out.

A grin appeared on Garou's face after hearing that as they moved.

"Let's go," Biden grabbed hold of him before pulling him into the shadows.

Both of them disappeared into the shadow completely.

Fwwwwoosshhh~

Gustav blasted across the place with speed, heading towards the exit point.

Several guards already arrived to block him but with his speed, he was able to dodge every single attack and even ran across the wall to dodge some of them.

He could already see the entry area in the distance, which was structured to look like the opened mouth of a beast.

More guards were stationed there and Gustav could see the mouth closing up. They were trying to trap them here.

Speeding up and jumping across the walls in a zig-zag format, Gustav was able to avoid most of the guards.

Zweeei! Zweeei! Zweei! Boom! Boom!

Sounds of blasts rang out as Gustav spun across the air while leaping to another part of the wall.

He rebounded off that wall speedily as several attacks came flying towards him and headed straight for one of the guards on the ground.

Bam!

His knee slammed into the guard's face, sending him flying with blood spilling out of his nose, eyes, and mouth.

The guards by the side saw this as an opportunity to attack and both threw out powered attacks.

One a spinning force of white energy and the other several icicles flying towards him.

Gustav swerved towards the side, first dodging one as he threw out his leg in response, hitting one of the guards in the chest.

He jumped backward to dodge the icicle before dashing forward once again and grabbing hold of the second guard with his left arm.

Bang!

He slammed him into the wall and spun around to throw him towards the guards approaching from behind.

Gustav was holding onto Boss Danzo with his right hand like he was a baby while Charisas was on his back, holding onto him tightly hoping she wouldn't get thrown off.

Both of them did not wish to be dead weight, but they had no choice but to just get strung along with the way Gustav was moving with so much speed and agility.

All this was done with very quick speed, but even with that, the mouth of the opening up ahead was only a few feet away from closing up.

[Combination Has Been Activated]

[Sprint + Dash]

Bolting forward with immense speed, Gustav sped through the small opening left in the entry point, just before it closed up.

After his body sped through, a loud sound of collision was heard behind.

Bam!

The mouth had closed up, trapping the other guards behind that were chasing after him.

The entry point area was clear of guards, but Gustav knew that the control still lay in their hands since they only needed to push a button to have it opened up again.

They were still underground and this was a structured space with walls so Gustav dashed towards the side after deactivating Combination.

His right arm which was still glowing and bulging with blue energy arched back as he arrived in front of the wall by the side.

"Hyaaahh!"

Gustav voiced out as he gathered the force of all the energy he had absorbed from the glass earlier into his fist.

Right before Boss Danzo's and Charisas' eyes, they saw the blue on his arms move towards his fist area.

Gustav threw his fist forward with force.

Boom!

It sounded like an explosion went off as his fist slammed into the wall and a blue blast of energy burst forth.

Chapter 683 - Trapping The Pursuers

The entire tunnelway began trembling violently as they blasted a massive crater into the area where Gustav punched.

Which, in turn, created cracks that spread across the entire place.

Gustav quickly turned around at that point and dashed forward, away from that area along with both of them.

Krrryhh~ Bam! Bam! Bam!

All across the vicinity parts of the wall structure within the tunnelway way fell crazily.

And in a manner of moments, these chunks of rocks had blocked completely the entry area behind.

The rocks are still up ahead, covering more parts and making the obstruction even thicker.

Gustav felt bad about Sir ZiL and Damien, in particular, being trapped there, but he had no choice.

It would take a lot of time before they could get the obstructing rocks out of the way which would give Gustav the chance to escape with Boss Danzo and Charisas.

Gustav sped past the affected area which was over two hundred feet of space, similar to a football pitch range.

This was how much the tunnelway was affected by his punch and even the burning sands began to leak from above after the underground structure in this area was badly affected.

Fortunately, it was well structured so, besides the area Gustav aimed for, the other parts would not cave in.

The spectators and everyone on the other side were still very much okay.

Fhrrrrriiiiisssshhhh~

While Gustav was speeding away with both of them, two figures phased out of the shadows in front of the affected area of piles of rocks.

These two were the same people to who the man within the facility was talking earlier, Biden and Garou.

"This gives me a lot to work with," Biden voiced out as his worm-like hair wriggled mildly.

There was an intersection right in front of the affected area which led to three different paths.

He turned towards the one on the far left.

"This way Garou," He voiced out while moving forward.

Garou caught up to him as they moved in that direction. He proceeded to touch Garou's shoulder and the instant he did that, they phased into the shadows again.

-"What is going on?"

-"Did those two truly just escape?"

-"This is unbelievable,"

The voices of the spectators could be heard from all over as the trembling of the facility caused panic to spread.

They had heard the sounds of multiple explosions before this which were sounds of Gustav battling with the guards.

There were actually a lot of guards in this facility but Gustav was very fast so he was able to avoid most of them before they arrived at his location.

Now that he had left and blocked the exit, many of them were trying to get through but it was proving impossible.

The spectators had gathered close to the entry area, questioning the officials and trying to get through.

"Tell us what is going on," One of them voiced out again.

"Please remain calm. The situation is under control, we shall proceed with the next match now," One of the staff was trying to regulate the situation.

However, the spectators did not seem to want to listen as they remained in their position.

Damien walked through the crowd of spectators looking for his grandfather.

He later spotted him somewhere by the side speaking with a staff member.

"Grandfather," He called out to him as he squeezed out of the crowd.

"Hmm alright then, it seems we have no choice," Sir ZiL said to the staff before turning around to face Damien.

The staff member turned to leave after their brief discussion as well.

"Grandfather, what is going on?" Damien asked.

"It would seem we are trapped here for the time being," Sir ZiL said with a look of suspicion.

"Trapped?" Damien voiced out with a tone of surprise.

"The battles ongoing earlier caused a part of the tunnelway in front of the exit to collapse. It will take some time for them to get it out of the way," Sir ZiL explained.

"So they truly managed to escape then," Damien said with a tone of realization.

"Hmmm," Sir ZiL's eyes squinted as he mumbled.

"Also, one of the spectators, Mal Ali was murdered," Sir ZiL added.

Damien already heard about this and even saw the corpse being moved a while earlier. No one could link the escape with this murder, which made things more confusing.

"Grandfather, you know I can get out of here if I use my bloodline abilities," Damien stated with a proposing tone.

"No, don't even think about it. We don't even know what we're dealing with yet and what do you intend to do the moment you get out of here?" Sir ZiL said with a strong tone of disapproval.

"I couldn't find Big brother Gustav even when I checked everywhere... I'm sure this has something to do with him," Damien stated.

"We can't be so sure. You could have missed him or something and keep your voice down. If this truly has something to do with him we don't want anyone knowing," Sir ZiL voiced out with a logical tone.

Sir ZiL also shared similar thoughts with Damien seeing as Gustav had completely disappeared and only came here because of Eldorado in the first place. It didn't seem like a coincidence.

The looks of the person responsible for the incident were displayed to all the guards who arrived late and he caught a glimpse.

This person had white hair and an oblong-shaped face. He had no idea that Gustav had a shape-shifting ability so he was having a hard time connecting him to the incident.

--

Within a brightly lit tunnelway, whooshing sounds reverberated across the place as a red streak blazed through with speed.

Wind spread across the place as Gustav ran through the tunnelway.

His perception was spread far and wide across the place so he knew he only had to run for about one minute more before he arrived at the part of the tunnelway where the portal back to the city would be generated.

"Huh?" Gustav suddenly sensed something and turned his head to the side.

Chapter 684 - Garou And Biden Strikes

"Huh?" Gustav suddenly sensed something and turned his head to the side.

Fwhiii~

A figure suddenly phased out of the rectangular-shaped shadow by the left of a small pole hanging from the ceiling area of the tunnelway way.

Fwweeeii~

The instant Gustav spotted the figure, he sensed a strong force headed for him.

Thoom~

He instantly leaped into the air and did a backflip. A sharp-looking crescent-shaped dark blade passed right underneath his ascending body.

It was so massive; it reached both sides of the walls of the tunnelway, cutting long lines across them.

Bam!

Gustav landed on the ground and turned around with speed, only to see that the figure had disappeared.

"What was that?" Charisas voiced out with a tone of confusion.

Gustav's eyes squinted as he looked around him, trying to find the culprit. Even though he could see anyone in the vicinity, he could still sense a dark presence.

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

Just as he activated God Eyes a figure phased out of his shadow, striking towards his neck instantly.

Gustav's eyes widened as he quickly bent his neck towards the side, causing the dark-looking strike to tear open the left side of his neck.

Blurrghhh~

Blood spilled out from his neck as he dashed towards the side and struck out, only for the figure to disappear again.

"My boy, are you okay?"

"You're bleeding,"

Boss Danzo and Charisas voiced out at the same time as blood oozed down Gustav's neck.

"I'm fine," Gustav said with a calm tone, ignoring the injury.

"You are truly fast, but I thought we would be dealing with a stronger opponent," A masculine voice echoed across the tunnelway.

It was impossible to pinpoint the location of the owner of this voice, since it seemed like it was coming from every direction.

'We?' Just as this thought appeared in Gustav's head, a figure shot out from a shadow on the wall towards Gustav.

Gustav jumped backward quickly again to avoid the fist thrown out at him.

Boom!

The fist collided with the ground, causing a loud blast to ring out as cracks appeared all over and shockwaves were sent forth across the place, forcing Gustav further backward.

As the dust cleared up, Gustav could see a massive nine-foot-tall man with ram horns and an immense muscular build.

He had metallic fin-like outlines, protruding out the sides of his arms.

Rip!

His muscles bulged, even more, ripping his upper clothes as he began walking towards Gustav.

This was one of the two told to get Boss Danzo and the girl back, Garou.

'Must be one of the guards... A kilo ranked?' Gustav was instantly able to sense his strength was similar to that of Miss Aimee when sealed.

It was similar, but he could tell this one was weaker. However, even with that, a weak Kilo ranked would still defeat five Falcon ranked mixedbloods any day and anytime.

'The situation seems dire... There must be another one since the voice said we,' Gustav thought.

Figuring all this out, the next step that came to mind was, 'Run,'

[Sprint Has Been Activated]

Fwwooosshhh~

He instantly sped forward, running across the left wall to dodge Garou.

Garou's eyes turned to the side, following Gustav's speed and he proceeded to jump towards the wall by the side while Gustav was running across it.

Sweeeiii~

He swung out his arm, making use of the metallic fins to slash at Gustav's figure.

Gustav was able to dodge as he leaped forward, escaping the slash by a few inches.

Bam!

The entire place quaked again as the fin created a seventeen feet deep gash across the walls along with cracks spreading.

Gustav continued speeding forward after landing back on the ground, as Garou turned around to chase after him.

Gbam! Gbam! Gbaam!

It sounded like giants were running across the tunnelway way as Garou chased after Gustav, slashing repeatedly at him from behind.

Fwooosshh! Swerve! Fwooosshh! Swerve!

Gustav would occasionally swerve from side to side and even jump at times to dodge the slash, which sent sharp shockwaves towards him.

Sounds of collision would occasionally reverberate across the place as the entire tunnelway way shook violently from his attacks.

Gustav was only a little faster than Garou was while using sprint. Garou also didn't have to make contact to attack from behind, he only had to swing his arms, which showed just how powerful a Kilo ranked Mixedblood was.

Gustav already knew that he would lose badly if he was to face a kilo ranked Mixedblood with his current strength level. He would at most be able to hold out for some time, but he knew defeat would be at hand, so he chose to escape this time.

He still had two people in his grasp, so escaping was the main focus right now.

He was already starting to leave a big gap between him and Garou, so he knew it was only a matter of time before he became completely out of sight.

Garou was unable to touch him with any of those attacks even though they caused chunks of rocks to fall from the ceiling at times. He was able to successfully maneuver his way around them and avoid getting hit so far.

[Emergency Quest: Successfully Escape From Guards: Garou and Biden]

A notification suddenly appeared in his line of sight.

'So they truly are two of them,' This confirmed things for Gustav, seeing the notification.

'Then, where is the second one?' the instant this thought came to mind, Gustav sensed a presence around him again and swerved to the side.

Just like before he was a tad too slow causing the strike aimed at the back of his neck to slash the right side of his neck causing blood to ooze down.

The figure had disappeared right after landing the attack before Gustav could retaliate.

Gustav already knew earlier that this person was making use of the shadows, but even with that information, they were just too fast to be dealt with.

Chapter 685 - Toxin Immunity Has Been Overridden

This slowed Gustav down once again, causing Garou to catch up.

Fwwhiiii!

Gustav leaped upwards to dodge another slash which landed by the side and blasted chunks of the ground into the air.

Boom!

Gustav was thrown forward by the shockwaves from the attack and made use of that to keep running once again.

'I can't use my flames. It would affect both of them,' This was Gustav's only counter to stop his shadow from getting used, but he couldn't use it.

'The only other option is making use of the Dimensional bracelet which I'm not sure would work underground and there's three of us this time,' He thought.

Gustav just knew he had to try regardless of how things were. He wouldn't want to get out of here and still be chased down by these two, it would be quite problematic.

He placed boss Danzo on his right shoulder and began operating his dimensional bracelet as he kept running forward.

All of a sudden he sensed the figure again and due to dealing with trying to pick a teleportation coordinate he was a little slower to react than the last time.

Puchi~

A dark strike aimed at his lower back, pierced into his left side sending Gustav flying forward.

As both Boss Danzo and Charisas were flung away from his grasp due to the force of the attack, he slammed into the wall

Bang!

A loud blast echoed as his figure created a small hole in the wall.

Blood leaked out his sides and down the wall as he struggled to pull himself out while gritting his teeth.

Sshhhshshhhss~

He held onto his left side which was making sizzling sounds with dark fumes coming out as well as blood.

[Toxin Immunity Has Been Activated]

[Clearing Toxins]

[Toxin Has Been Deemed Too Strong]

[Toxin Immunity Has Been Overridden]

The notifications appeared in Gustav's line of sight and disappeared in a few moments.

'As expected of a Kilo rank... The toxin is more powerful than my current level of toxin immunity,' Gustav said internally as he pulled himself out of the hole.

"You did a good job of holding on for this long but it ends now," The same voice as before echoed across the place.

Garou figure could be seen up ahead, charging forward with speed.

Gustav quickly ran towards, Boss Danzo and Charisas, who were stabilizing themselves after the fall.

They both had bruises but were overall still okay.

"Take this... The portal will open up for you both," Gustav passed a red card to both of them which displayed a small glow at the middle.

"The portal is close by, run and keep running. Don't look back," Gustav said to boss Danzo and Charisas.

"But what about you?" Boss Danzo asked with a worried expression.

"I'll hold them back, just go," Gustav voiced out with a strong tone.

He could still see the hesitation in their eyes so he quickly voiced out again, "You two will only hold me back and get us all killed if you don't move now. Trust me,"

Both of them decided to do as told at this point and began running forward while Gustav turned around to face the opponents, headed for him from up ahead.

[Partial Kilapisole form activated]

Gustav's body bloated as he turned green, and he proceeded to stomp on the ground.

Grrhhhrrikkkk~

A wall began forming behind him after Boss Danzo and Charisas got a few feet away.

Icicle-like rocks shot out of the ground at a quick pace, joining together and spreading out from wall to wall across the seventy feet wide tunnelway.

At this point, Garou arrived right in front of Gustav while slashing out before he was done completing the wall.

Gustav remained in position as an icicle-shaped rock shot out of the ground in front of him.

Bang!

A violent collision rang out as the metallic blade-like fins slammed into the icicle-shaped rock, causing blasts of winds to spread across the place.

Cracks appeared on the rock that protected Gustav from the attack, but this one second of obstruction was enough for Gustav to finish constructing a sturdy wall behind him.

Gustav rolled to the side as his body transformed back to normal, while the rock that protected him blasted into pieces with Garou's blade-like fin slashing forward.

'Add ten attribute points to strength,' Gustav said internally, as his body increased in size.

[+10 Attribute Points added to strength]

His arms turned brownish red and thorns protruded from several parts of his body, along with two bull-like horns.

"Oh, so you have the ability of transformation?" Garou voiced out with a fascinated tone.

Just as dashed forward, Gustav sensed the dark force around him again.

Without being told, he already knew what this meant.

[Fiery Core Bloodline Activated]

Vrrruuhhhh~

Blueish flames instantly burst forth from his figure, spreading across the entire vicinity.

Garou jumped backward as the flames consumed everywhere around Gustav, spreading across more than seven hundred feet radius.

As the vicinity lit up, the dark force Gustav sensed disappeared.

A figure phased out of Garou's massive shadow and moved to his side, staring at the glaring flames.

This person had a slim figure with blueish worm-like hair that kept wriggling in the air.

"It would seem this person has more than a single bloodline," Biden voiced out as he stood side by side with Garou.

"Hmph, flames like this are of no consequence to my toughness," Garou voiced out with a deep masculine tone.

"I shall refrain for now. My dark travel will not work unless the flames are put out," Biden voiced out in response.

"I will deal with him on my own," Biden said before dashing forward and swinging out both his arms in an 'X' format.

FwWWwhoooooss~

A big part of the flames was instantly cleared up, revealing Gustav within the sea of flames.

He seemed to be prepared for this already as he shot out an elongated and massive fist towards Biden.

Biden reacted by swinging his arm forward as well to meet Gustav's attack.

Boom!

Massive shockwaves instantly spread across the place as the tunnelway violently trembled once again.

Chapter 686 - Successful Escape?

Boom!

Massive shockwaves instantly spread across the place as the tunnelway violently trembled once again.

Gustav found himself being pushed back as the force happened to be as powerful as he expected.

He flipped backward twice in the air and landed on the wall he created behind.

Thoom~

He jumped forward still blazing with fire, dodging a slash attack that came an instant after the collision from Garou.

Garou was barely moved by the clash between them earlier.

The slash he sent out in the next instant, slammed into the wall Gustav created causing a mild trembling but it didn't come crashing down.

Garou was surprised seeing how sturdy the wall was, withstanding his attack without taking any damage but at the moment he was focused on dealing with Gustav.

He felt it was insulting that a Falcon ranked had lasted this long against both of them.

Chasing after Gustav's frame within the blazing blue flames, Garou slashed repeatedly clearing a lot of flames from the area.

However, it only took a moment for the flames to spread across the place again covering everywhere.

Gustav conjured a five feet long atomic blade in his right hand, making it wider and longer than normal.

Fwwhii~ Fwwhii~

He swerved across the place dodging Garou's repeated attacks knowing he wouldn't be able to tank them due to the explosiveness of the force on each collision.

Dashing forward and sliding downwards, Gustav dodged another attack from him and swung the Atomic blade towards his right knee area.

Slash!

A shallow mark was left on the surface of his knee cap, allowing just one drop of blood to roll down.

Garou turned right around with speed and swung out again.

Gustav was able to dodge by a few inches but the fist landed on the ground which caused another shockwave to spread out, sending him flying once again.

Bang!

His back slammed into the side of the wall as his blazing body burnt partly through it.

Black blood flowed out of his left abdominal side which was cut open earlier.

'Am I going regenerate completely anytime soon?' Gustav questioned internally as he noticed that the state of the previous injury from Biden's dark attack was still the same.

("Your regeneration is already active but slow due to the toxin in the previous attack,") The system responded.

("The more you strain yourself, the harder it will get to regenerate,") It added.

'Well, I don't have much of a choice now do I?' Gustav screamed inwardly as he quickly jumped out of the hole.

Boom!

The sound of a collision rang out as Garou's fist slammed straight into the hole where Gustav found himself earlier.

Leaping away after missing, he chased Gustav around again while Biden watched from the background staying a safe distance away from the igniting flames.

A dark spike protruded from his palm area as he watched.

'If the opportunity presents itself I will end this mixedblood myself,' He said inwardly with a dissatisfied look.

The longer they stayed here, the higher the chances of Boss Danzo and Charisas getting away.

"It worked," Charisas voiced out as the purplish portal opened up in front of them.

The card Gustav passed to them was glowing with bright blood-colored light.

Charisas stepped forward while Boss Danzo turned around to face the direction where the sounds of blasts were coming from.

He stood with a worried expression for a bit.

"Let's go," Charisas shouted out to him while pulling his hand.

"Stay safe my boy," Boss Danzo voiced out as he followed Charisas into the portal.

Zing~

They disappeared into it a moment later and it closed up.

They found themselves in a small wasteland in the next instant. Boss Danzo looked up ahead and could see the road that led back to the city as well as the tall and luxurious-looking buildings in the distance.

"We're back in Burning Sands City," Boss Danzo voiced out.

"This way, let's go," He added while pulling Charisas with him while pushing his hat further downwards to hide his face.

It was currently around 9:30 pm in the night but the skies were still bright since Burning Sands City never experienced nightfall.

Even though it looked like daytime, people still had to sleep so the streets and road wouldn't be as active as actual mornings and afternoons.

Lots of people were in their homes sleeping by now but there would still be movement in some areas.

Boss Danzo and Charisas ran towards the roadside that led out of this deserted area and began heading for the closest public road so they could get a ride.

'Faviola Relaxation Palace... Kid's got taste,' Even though the situation was worrisome Boss Danzo couldn't help but compliment Gustav for picking one of the best places to stay in the city.

Gustav had thought out lots of possible scenarios and told Boss Danzo that if they ever got separated this was the place to meet up.

Boss Danzo couldn't just help but admire Gustav's smartness. Using the room he was staying within as a means of escape was brilliant since it was closer to the exit.

If they had made a run for it when he met up with him earlier, the possibility of them getting trapped in there was close to a hundred percent.

He also seemed to have thought this out and told him where to head to if they ever got separated. Now he only hoped Gustav was smart enough to escape the two powerful mixedbloods pursuing.

Bang! Bang! Boom!

The sounds of collision occasionally rang out causing the tunnelway to weaken more and more due to the powerful attacks from Garou and Gustav.

Screeeeeevvvv~

A sonic wave blasted out from with a cloud of dust and flames blasting Garou backward as his back slammed into a part of the wall again.

He gritted his teeth as his arms were raised and crossed out in front of himself to block the attack.

[Combination Has Been Activated]

[Dash + Sprint]

Fwooosshh!

Speeding forward, Gustav arrived instantly before Garou, while slashing out with his atomic blade.

Hundreds of milky-colored blade-like energy appeared in front of him slamming into different parts of his body repeatedly.

Chapter 687 - Spatial Gateway Activating

Slash! Slash! Slash! Slash! Slash!

Garou's arms were still crossed in an 'X' format, as he was unable to follow Gustav's frame due to his immense speed at the moment.

Cuts appeared all across his body as Gustav continuously slashed out with immense speed, making it look like hundreds of atomic blades were descending upon Garou every second.

Even though Garou was not heavily damaged by the multiple attacks landing on him, he knew if this continued Gustav might eventually find a way to land a very damaging attack on him.

"Hyyaahh!"

While screaming out he swung his fist, trying to catch Gustav but Gustav was just too fast at the moment. Garou's was not even as fast as he was when using sprint. Making use of combination made Garou look even slower to him.

He repeatedly dodged the attack and kept striking out but he knew none of his slashes were causing any damage beyond flesh wounds.

Garou's body was a lot tougher than Gustav's. Atomic disintegration was having a hard time cutting through even though he repeatedly sliced Garou with it.

By now he would have killed lots of mixedbloods with these attacks but he couldn't even cause high damage for a mixedblood on the Kilo level.

'How can someone be so thick-skinned?' Gustav thought as he continuously kept at this while still oozing with flames that burnt across a radius of more than seven hundred feet.

Garou was within the flames, but it practically had no effect on him except for minor stings on the areas where Gustav already managed to make him bleed.

"Garou, it would seem that you're in a bit of a pinch here! How could you let a mere Falcon ranked make a fool out of you," Biden's loud voice echoed across the vicinity again.

Garou's face twitched with anger as he heard that.

He had repeatedly tried hitting Gustav but it was to no avail. Gustav knew he couldn't keep this up, since combination consumed a lot of energy points.

He was only doing this to stall them so Boss Danzo and Charisas could get further away.

"Enough!" Garou screamed out as he slammed both his fists together.

Bang!

Shockwaves instantly spread out, slamming into Gustav and sending him flying.

Bluurrgghh~

He spat out black blood as he felt his insides turn before slamming into the wall on the other side.

At this point, Combination was deactivated, returning him to his normal speed as the atomic blade also disappeared from his hand.

Garou had cuts all over his body as he breathed in and out profusely, with small droplets of blood leaking out of the cuts.

"How dare you!" He shouted out and blasted forward with speed.

Bang!

His fist slammed into Gustav's gut before he could move out of the wall, burying him further within the hole created after the collision.

Gustav spat out more blood as his vision turned a bit blurry.

The force from the punch was higher than anything he had taken so far.

Even though his body had become extremely tough over time, it was unable to withstand this amount of force.

Gustav gritted his teeth as he bore the numbing pain and crossed his arms before the next attack arrived.

A diamond-like hardening covered his arms as Garou's fist once again descended upon him, sending him further into the wall.

He heard the sounds of his shoulder blades creaking after that hit and before he could realize what was happening, another one was headed for him again.

Bang!

His arms spread apart as the fist slammed into them, hitting him straight in the face.

Gustav's entire vision turned whitish as he heard a strange buzzing sound in his ears.

'What's...'

("Hey snap out of it!") The system's voice brought him back to consciousness as he opened his eyes to see his face covered up.

His body was being moved. Garou's entire palm was covering his face, and he had pulled Gustav's bleeding body out of the hole.

("Your regeneration has gotten rid of the toxin... You should begin healing up faster now,") The system announced in his head.

Gustav realized that the reason he had passed out was due to his regeneration not working as fast. Although he wouldn't heal instantly it would prevent the injuries from the attack from wearing him out.

Gustav felt a cool force where he could sense his injuries and began gaining energy again.

Garou was about to end him at this point with his legs dangling and Garou's left arm arched backward.

The flames had been put out completely at this point but Biden didn't feel the need to do anything anymore.

Instead, he began walking towards the wall Gustav created, ready to phase past it with his shadow travel ability.

'They should have gotten far away by now... it's time,' Gustav thought internally.

Just as Garou threw his fist forward...

Fwwwwhoooooommmmm~

Blueish flames instantly blasted forth from Gustav's frame as he raised his lower body with speed and wrapped both his legs around Garou's neck.

As the flames spread across the place, Gustav recalled his training with miss Aimee and smiled, 'Still recall how to use an opponent strength against them,'

Fwweeiii~

He spun around with intensity and speed while his legs were wrapped around Garou's neck in a deathlock.

Bang!

Garou only saw his vision spinning before his head slammed into the ground below, creating a small pit.

Biden, who was up ahead got razed by the flames and sped backward to distance himself from them.

'This little... Does he know that flames are my weakness?' Biden voiced internally as he tried putting out the flames on his body.

Gustav had managed to release himself from Garou's grip at this point. Even though his attack only caused little damage for Garou, he had managed to trap him in the ground for a few moments.

Garou ram horns had pierced deep into the ground, hooking him there for a bit while Biden couldn't get closer at this time.

Gustav had instantly made use of his dimensional bracelet when he landed back on the ground and set the coordinates to his room within the hotel.

Chapter 688 - Leaving A Tool Of Destruction Behind

Gustav had instantly made use of his dimensional bracelet when he landed back on the ground and set the coordinates to his room within the hotel.

Just as Garou managed to pull his head out of the ground and Biden decided to make use of a special shadow attack, a bright blue light surrounded Gustav.

~Zing

In the next moment, he disappeared into thin air along with the flash of bright blue light.

Garou and Biden stood in place with a look of surprise on their faces.

The dark spikes initially protruding out of different parts of Biden's body retracted. Garou still had blood all over his body as well. They both couldn't believe that a Falcon ranked mixedblood managed to get away from them.

The blueish flames in the surroundings retreated into a corner and eventually got snuffed out.

Garou and Biden turned around to face the wall Gustav created to tear it down written all over their faces.

As they took a step forward, a dark purplish orb with reddish snake-like sparks swimming around it, suddenly appeared in their front.

It was radiating with so much energy, the whole place began to slowly tremble.

"What is this?" Both of them voiced out just before...

Boom!

A massive purplish and red wave of destruction instantly blasted forth across the place.

The walls and ceiling areas of the tunnelway shattered like glass, all falling apart as the blast continuously spread across the place.

Up above the surface of the tunnelway area, it could be seen that the burning sands were sinking into a hole that kept increasing in size.

The hole spread from a radius of hundred feet to over five thousand feet in a manner of seconds.

The phenomenon was a crazy one that even when it was quite distant from Burning Sands city, the outline of the massive sinkhole could still be seen from the tallest buildings close to the edge of the west area.

Within the underground battle facility, the place quaked forcefully causing intense panic within.

The ceiling cracked along with the walls. For a few, it looked like the walls wouldn't be able to hold.

"What is going on?" This was the question on everyone's lips.

The higher-ups within the facility were worried about this as well since the blast from the orb explosion had reached their ears too.

They felt only the guards which they sent out could be responsible for such an occurrence, but it made them worry that whoever was involved in the escape was a powerful entity as well.

After a few, the vibration stopped but what they didn't know now was, all the tunnelway that led out of here had collapsed due to the explosion and the burning sands and caved in occupying the space within.

The higher-ups were later involved in the situation and they finally disrupted the communication within the underground battle facility, telling the online viewers that a speech would be issued out on a later date.

Ending the event for the night, their next step was appeasing the hearts of the spectators who were the rich and powerful within the city.

They also had to improvise to get the spectator out of here since the tunnelways had been destroyed.

Even if the two trying to escape were caught, they wouldn't be able to make up for the losses that had been incurred today.

The emergency exit was activated to get the spectators out of there. Sir ZiL and Damien were among the first to get out of the facility back to the city.

Their hovercar had been destroyed since it was parked along with many others outside the entrance to the facility.

This was no issue for them since they were very rich. Sir ZiL had called on another of his drivers to come to pick them up and they took a ride back to their home within the city.

"Try contacting Big brother Gustav," Damien voiced out within the hovercar.

"I have tried several times but the call isn't connecting," Sir ZiL answered.

"I hope he's okay," Damien stated with a sigh.

"Hopefully... First thing tomorrow, I'll try contacting him again and if it doesn't go through I'll send some subordinates to check his place within Faviola Relaxation Palace," Sir ZiL said while placing his hand on Damien's shoulder to comfort him.

He was also worried but the situation had blown beyond proportion and there was no doubt that the ring Lords would do everything in their power to find Boss Danzo and Charisas.

He just hoped that if Gustav was truly involved, he would be smart enough to handle the situation in a way that wouldn't lead to anyone's death.

"Has anyone heard from Garou and Biden yet?" Within the underground battle facility, a loud tone was heard within a group of guards.

"No sir," One of the guards responded.

"You are all useless. Not even one of you could catch the perpetrator," The lady in red hat voiced out as she arrived within their midst from down the hallway.

They all bowed their heads in respect as she walked in.

"Ma'am I believe the blast was caused by Garou and Biden. They asked to use any means at their discretion and I gave the go-ahead," The person who spoke earlier voiced out.

This was the same person who met up with Garou and Biden earlier to give them the assignment.

"That would mean the perpetrator was very powerful," The lady voiced out with a tone of suspiciousness.

"Where are th..." Just as she was about to voice out again, two figures phased out of the shadows at the entry point.

Plop!

Both figures fell to the ground, looking extremely battered. The group of guards in the vicinity move towards them with caution.

"Garou, Biden?" One of them voiced out as he arrived in front of the figures.

Everyone's eyes widened as they saw the state of the two most powerful guards in their midst.

The left half of Garou's face had been blasted apart along with his left horn.

Chapter 689 - Aftermath

His right horn was broken in half and completely charred black. His entire body was soaked in blood and the whole of his left leg was missing.

Biden on the other hand, only had his torso left. The other half of his body was gone and he also had injuries all over, however both of them were still very much alive.

The both of them were quickly taken away for medical treatment.

'Who put them in such a state?' This was the question in everyone minds as they realized that the blast earlier must have been from the opponent and not the both of them.

The lady was a little stunned but this situation just made her face turn harder as she began to make plans in her head about how the culprit was going to be caught.

"We the three Ring Lords will not take this lightly," She voiced out before turning around to leave.

-Faviola Relaxation Palace

Within Gustav's room he sat on a sofa with Boss Danzo putting some band aids on his abdomen area, his chest and neck.

"There's no need for this, my regeneration will kick in again once my energy points are restored," Gustav voiced out.

"No, it is important to keep the injuries disinfected," Boss Danzo responded.

"When your body finishes regenerating you can take them off," He added with a smile.

Gustav nearly face palmed. He still had regeneration pills in his storage device as well.

Even though he currently had lots of internal injuries and it would take longer for him to heal up even after using a regeneration pill, he still wouldn't need the bandaids because all scars would be cleared.

Only the insta regeneration pill could instantly heal him up and it would be a waste to use it in this situation.

Surprisingly Gustav had brought his energy points down to 1 for the first time. He used so many powerful attacks and abilities since he was trying to fend off more powerful opponents.

He still had normal energy from the bloodlines within him but if he had consumed all his system energy, his body would have entered an automatic sleep mode till his energy points were restored to a certain extent.

A trail of blood leaked out the side of Gustav's mouth and he proceeded to clean it with an expressionless look.

"You don't have to act so tough everytime. It's okay to show pain, being a mixedblood doesn't mean you're not part human," Boss Danzo voiced out as he finished wrapping the bandaids around Gustav's body.

The truth was, Gustav was feeling immense pain from within at the moment.

His body was regenerating after he regained consciousness after receiving Garou's continuous hits but the moment his energy points reduced to one, his regeneration deactivated again.

He was fortunate to escape when he did or he might have truly died this time.

He had once again brushed with the face of death after so long. Gustav was the first Falcon ranked that would live to tell the tale of clashing with Kilo ranked mixedbloods.

He recalled the orb he left there before he got teleported out of there and knew it must have exploded in a few seconds as per his commands.

'It should slow them down a bit,' Gustav thought.

He didn't believe the explosion that consumed everything within a space of over five thousand feet which was equivalent to the size of five hundred football pitches would actually cause a lot of damage to two Kilo Ranked Mixedbloods.

He thought they would still find a way to escape before it could properly harm them, however he was mistaken because they were in the heart of the explosion.

Gustav had no idea how powerful the energy container orbs in his possession was after mixing them with the crystalized energy he found in the MBO Camp.

Even when he kept a safe distance from it the last time he detonated one of them, he was still nearly obliterated.

If it had been any weaker opponent, not even a piece of fabric from them would be left.

The instant he arrived back in his room within the hotel, he got a call from the reception area where he was informed of two people asking to see him.

This of course were Boss Danzo and Charisas. They arrived here seconds before he teleported to his room.

Right now no one would be able to find them no matter how they searched unless both of them left the room.

Charisas stared at the city view from the massive window pane on the left side of the main room.

"You sure are rich to be able to afford this," She voiced out while turning around to face Gustav on the sofa.

"It's not my money," He responded while standing to his feet.

However he could still afford it if he wanted to.

Gustav moved towards the room area to pick up a black hoodie sweater and proceeded to start wearing it.

"Hmm, makes me wonder what type of connections you have," Charisas squinted her eyes as she stared at Gustav wearing the sweater.

Gustav's facial muscles relaxed and his hair turned from whitish back to it's original dirty blonde color while he wore the sweater.

The instant his face poked out of the top, Charisas spotted a different face.

"Who..? What..? How..?" Her eyes widened in astonishment as she stuttered seeing the demonically charming young face.

Gustav ignored her startled expression and moved back towards the sofa to take a seat.

"Who are you? How did you do that?" She shouted out as she turned to face his direction again.

"I already told you this kiddo. He is Gustav my very own boy from Plankton city," Boss Danzo responded proudly.

"Yes but how did he do that?" She questioned.

"It's one of his bloodline abilities. The initial was a fake identity," Boss Danzo explained.

"Wait... Your face looks a lot familiar... Are you Gustav Crimson?" Her eyes widened further as she asked.

"Who wants to know?"

Chapter 690 - Unclear With Reality

"Wait... Your face looks a lot familiar... Are you Gustav Crimson?" Her eyes widened further as she asked.

"Who wants to know?" Gustav voiced out with a dismissive expression.

"Ah, you used to be the number one MBO test candidate. I can't believe you're the real deal," She looked astonished as she voiced out.

Charisas recalled that back then she would watch the competition with Marshal Rel.

The way her admiration for Gustav increased could be seen in her eyes. Initially, she had thanked him for the rescue, but right now she looked more grateful than before.

Gustav looked a lot more mature and handsome compared to the last time his identity was rampant across the media.

It was not impossible to identify him at the moment if one looked closely, but the shapeshifting was a different case entirely.

No one was aware that Gustav possessed such ability.

"Keep this to yourself or you'll die," Gustav's eyes squinted as he voiced out.

"I won't spill I promise," Charisas said with an excited expression.

"Right now, they must be out there looking for you two. There is a possibility that these rotten people in charge might make use of law enforcement as well even though they're doing illegal activities. So long as you two remain here, no one will be able to find you," Gustav stated.

"How long are we going to hide in here? Mr. Eldorado promised I'll meet Marshal soon," Charisas asked.

Gustav now understood why Charisas agreed to cooperate with Boss Danzo.

It turned out that he explained to her that the parents were the type to not uphold their bargain and would try to kill her even if she won which was also impossible.

Boss Danzo was able to convince her eventually, telling her that she could still meet up with her lover if she cooperated with him because if not she'd die.

The first one minute of their battle was actually serious according to Boss Danzo's plans.

He wanted to show her that she truly wouldn't be able to defeat him no matter how hard she tried which also made her have no choice other than cooperation.

The rest of the battle was just them faking it and waiting for Gustav's signal from the window side.

Gustav understood that Boss Danzo had lied to the girl about meeting Marshal since that was impossible with the current state of things.

"You two will stay here until things blow over. I'll try to find a way to get you both out of the city later," Gustav stated his plans.

"What of your family?" Gustav asked Charisas.

"I don't know. I've been with the Rel family for as long as I can remember. My colleagues are like family to me," Charisas answered with a crestfallen expression.

"I knew madam would never allow a lowlife like me to be with her son, so I tried to hide our relationship for as long as possible," she sighed while speak and sat on a chair behind.

"Marshal never treated any of us badly no matter how low in status we were compared to him, which is one of the reasons I love him," She added.

"As a kid, you seem to not have grasped the reality of how powerless you truly are in a situation where people of high status are involved," Gustav spoke with a profound tone.

"I'm sure Marshal would have done something to prevent the situation if he could, but you two forget that you are just kids. The ones who truly have the power and can change the narrative however they feel are his parents," Gustav added.

Charisas opened her mouth like she wanted to voice something out but she stopped halfway and swallowed her words, letting Gustav's statements sink in first.

Gustav turned towards the side where Boss Danzo was seated and spoke.

"You have to tell me everything. Why are you in the midst of these types of people in the first place, Boss Danzo?"

"Hmm? Boss Danzo?" Charisas voiced out while turning to the side to stare at Boss Danzo.

"Wasn't it Mr. Eldorado? Everyone knows you as that," Charisas voiced out with a surprised tone.

But after not receiving a response she came to understand that it was another fake identity.

'Just how many secrets do these two have?' She wondered internally.

Boss Danzo sighed as he leaned forward and placed both his hands together.

"It all started months after my arrival within this city a year ago," Boss Danzo began narrating.

"Remember I told you I had some connections here so I made use of that to get a cooking job. At that time, I was given the position of a chef within the Vanisher second household. I take care of their meals and requests concerning foods..."

Boss Danzo went on to continue explaining how Mr. Vanisher's sixth mistress lived in that household with two of her children who belonged to Mr. Vanisher.

They were living a very luxurious lifestyle, but Mr. Vanisher barely showed up in the household, even though Boss Danzo's employment sort of came through him.

Boss Danzo only saw him once in three months of working there.

The sixth mistress was young and well behaved, but her kids were spoilt. Knowing their father was one of the most powerful and influential people in the city, they misbehaved a lot and treated the staff like shit.

Boss Danzo would often try to correct some of their bad attitudes sometimes, but he would be met with deaf ears and he also wasn't exclusive to their insults sometimes.

However, Boss Danzo was liked by the two kids better than the rest of the staff. They admitted his meals were better than the former chef and Boss Danzo just happened to have his way around kids.

He was a grandfather, after all, so he made use of the wisdom he had built up from parenting over the years and was slowly getting through to the kids, teaching them basic etiquette.

The mistress appreciated Boss Danzo's input and came to a realization.
