

Bloodline 711

Chapter 711 - Getting Marshall's Attention

There was a barrier surrounding the spectator area to prevent the ball from injuring anyone so, Gustav began looking for a way to bypass that and find his way to the pitch.

At the same moment Gustav was looking for a way to enter, Marshall's mother had arrived on the scene with many guards following her.

The students in the vicinity all stared with looks of awe as she made her way into the premises.

She was drawing a lot of attention to herself, and most of them recognized her to be the Madam of the house of Rel.

Some of the teachers, on spotting her, came over to welcome her. She was a huge donator, so she was respected by all of the staff, which was also one of the reasons why Marshall got special treatment in school, and other students did not like to mess with him.

However, Damien was different since he was also from an affluent family. Sir ZiL was the head of the Gemine family, which was known as the family of great scientists.

Sir ZiL was one of the greatest scientists not just in the city but in different fields of science all across the world. His children were also well-known scientists but mostly versed in different cities, just like Damien's father, who was never around because he was based in a different city.

As Mrs. Triss Rel found a place to sit, the students in the vicinity dispersed from that area while her guards were stationed behind and around her. They distanced themselves well enough so as not to obstruct her view.

At the moment, Marshall could be seen with the ball.

Another student whose legs were covered in lizard-like scales came running over with speed, but Marshall's body glowed with a greenish aura as he jumped upwards and somersaulted several feet with the balls lodged in between his legs.

Landing in front, he began kicking the ball forward and dodging other players as well using his bloodline ability.

Damien suddenly came running over from the other side.

"Phantom charge!" He voiced out as he suddenly split into multiple persons.

Marshall became confused as he tried dodging the multiple Damiens in front of him while juggling the ball forward.

They were becoming too many for him to handle, so he kicked the ball upwards, trying to pass to another teammate up ahead.

Three Damiens grabbed the original Damien and slingshotted him upwards.

Doing a flip in the air, Damien kicked the ball in the opposite direction.

Bang!

It travelled swiftly across the air towards the opponents' area.

Trrrihhh~

A teammate who had been waiting for this shot charged forward as rocket-like ignitors shot out from his leg.

Another opponent was moving towards him in a bid to tackle, but he was faster. The moment the ball landed on the pitch, he swung his engine, igniting his leg forward with force.

Boom!

It sounded like a distant explosion as the ball traveled forward with speed, slammed into the keeper, and sent him flying into the goalpost along with the ball.

Cheers! Cheers! Cheers!

Loud cheers could be heard coming from the spectator area after the second goal.

It had only been around ten minutes since the game started, and class A was already dominating class B with two goals to none.

Damien had scored the first goal, and now he assisted with the second. Mixedblood Football matches were intense due to the fact that mixedbloods could use their abilities at will.

Anyone could get seriously injured if they were normal people trying to participate.

As the match resumed, Damien smiled at Marshall's frustrated look, "Told you, y'all were gonna lose," He voiced out.

"The match isn't over yet," Marshall responded with a fierce glare.

Marshall's mother watched from her sitting position with a scornful look.

"Malta," She voiced out.

One of the guards with a face full of red tattoos walked up to her as he heard his name.

"It would be disgraceful of my son to lose this match, do something," She said in a nearly whispering voice.

"Ma'am the opposing side has Sir ZiL's grandson, Damien on their team. Are you sure you want me to mess with them?" He asked.

"Don't be stupid I'm not asking you to kill anyone, just work something out... My son's team has to come out on top," She voiced out with nearly a snarl.

"As you wish ma'am," Malta stated before turning around to move forward.

He reached down further the path in the middle of the spectator seat and stared at the pitch with a more intense look.

His eyes focused on the ball as it was being passed around...

-

Meanwhile, Gustav was somewhere around the east side of the pitch. He still hadn't found a way to get through the forcefield placed around the pitch to prevent accidents.

He had moved around and couldn't find any openings, so now, his next plan was to get Marshall's attention.

This was also proving difficult since Marshall was so frustrated about the losing match that he didn't even look anywhere else.

Even though it was difficult, it wasn't impossible for Gustav. He just wanted to make sure that he wouldn't attract anyone else attention when trying to do this.

Gustav tried calling out to him, changing the pitch of his voice with his shape-shifting ability and allowing it to be louder, but the barrier proved effective, and he wasn't able to get his attention.

He tried using light frame refraction to reflect light onto Marshall's face and cause him to stare in this direction, but even though this managed to penetrate the barrier, the rays of light spread out instead of converging to one point.

Gustav tried different methods, but all were coming up with one fault or the other.

Just when he was about to try another method, he recalled something that might work.

'I didn't even try to use it earlier.... This is an opportunity to put it into practice,' Gustav thought as he closed his eyes.

Chapter 712 - Get That Vermin!

[Mental Manipulation Bloodline Has Been Activated]

Blue lines appeared in Gustav's eyes the moment he opened them. He could hear a slight static noise in his head and occasionally scattered voices.

It was hard to make out the words since the voices were very scattered.

'Looks like it's truly damaged just as the system pointed out,' Gustav thought.

However, this wouldn't stop him from trying out what he wanted to do.

He stared at Marshall, who was running across the field trying to tackle the person with the ball.

'Stop!'

Gustav said in his mind, but Marshall kept running.

He tried increasing his focus and maintaining his gaze on Marshall.

'Don't move,' He said in his mind once again, but nothing happened.

'Stay right there,'

Gustav kept trying but was still being met with the same result. At this point, he realized he might never be able to control anyone's mind with this bloodline since it was damaged.

Originally, a mental type bloodline would suit Gustav since his mental capabilities were high, but this one just happened to be defective.

Just as Gustav was thinking of deactivating it, a thought appeared in his mind.

'I'll try this instead,' He decided.

He focused on Marshall once again. At this point, Marshall was with the ball moving forward and trying to score when suddenly he heard a voice in his head.

'Marshall look over here,' The sudden masculine voice caused him to stop in his tracks with an expression of confusion on his face.

"Huh?" He voiced out while looking around.

The ball was suddenly tackled from him due to this causing his other teammates to display disgruntled looks.

"What is wrong with you?" One of them voiced while running past him to go tackle the person who had just gotten the ball.

Marshall shook his head and turned around to go after them as well.

Malta, who was watching from another angle, cursed lightly under his breath, 'Too bad he lost the ball... I would have to wait till it's in his possession again,' He said as his left eye emitted a red glow.

'Or I could mess it up for the opposing team before they score another goal... The madam wouldn't let me hear the end of it if her son loses,' Malta thought as he followed the ball with his eyes.

-

'I think it worked just now... Let me try it again,' Gustav thought and proceeded to stare at Marshall again.

'Marshall look here!' He said internally while staring at Marshall.

Marshall paused his footsteps again as he heard that and looked around with confusion.

'I must be out of my mind or something... Why am I hearing voices?' Marshall wondered.

'Marshall look over here,' He heard the masculine voice again.

'Your left you idiot,' The voice cussed.

Marshall stared at his right as he heard that.

'Your other left... 8' o clock,' Gustav had to give an accurate description of where to look.

Marshall turned around, looking for where his 8'o clock was, and finally spotted the beautiful feminine figure right outside the barrier surrounding the pitch.

His eyes widened in surprise as he saw Charisas standing there staring in his direction.

"I can't believe it," He totally forgot that it was a masculine voice in his head earlier and ran towards her.

The players were having a heated tackling moment over on the west side of the field, so they didn't notice Marshall's actions at first.

"What are you doing here?" He voiced out with a shocked expression the moment he arrived in front of the barrier.

"Get over here," Charisas voiced out while placing her hand on the barrier.

"I'm in the middle of a game," He shouted loudly so she could hear him on the other side.

"I don't have time and I can't be seen. Get over here now," Charisas voiced out once again.

Marshall instantly lost reasoning and nodded before turning around.

-

"Oh boy oh boy, what am I seeing?" Malta muttered with a look of interest as he spotted Charisas figure.

He was initially looking for Marshall after not seeing him on the pitch trying to tackle the ball away like the others.

Then he spotted both of them speaking to each other by the side.

"Jackpot... I'll have to report this to madam right away. I'm sure this is more important than the game," While muttering these words underneath his breath, Marshall turned around and began heading towards Mrs. Triss Rel seating position.

Meanwhile, Marshall was currently speaking with the referee, telling him to deactivate the barrier so he could leave.

"You can't leave in the middle of a game," The referee stated with a look of disapproval.

"It's an emergency," Marshall voiced out.

"It is against the rules. You have to complete the match," The referee said, refusing to budge.

"Let me out now or you will regret it," Marshall wasn't used to threatening others, so his gaze was a little shaky as he voiced out.

But he was determined to get out of here and meet his beloved.

Just as the referee was about to speak again, a loud feminine voice was heard.

"Get that vermin!"

Everyone turned to stare in the direction where it came from and saw that it was Mrs. Triss Rel.

The guards around her could be seen charging in a particular direction which everyone once again focused on, and noticed a girl in a blue gown standing close to the pitch on the east side.

"Mum?" It was at this moment that Marshall knew his mom was present.

"That means..." He turned towards the side and noticed they were all headed in Charisas' direction as they activated their bloodlines.

"Charisas run!!!" Marshall screamed out.

Gasp~

"Isn't that the abducted maid?" It was at this moment that everyone properly noticed Charisas.

Contrary to everyone's expectations, she placed her hand on the barrier.

Krrrryyhhhh~

Cracks began to appear all over the barrier, and all of a sudden...

Boom!

The barrier shattered like glass, and she charged forward.

"Let's go," The moment Gustav grabbed hold of Marshall, he dashed forward.

Fwwooosshhh~

Chapter 713 - Successful Abduction

"Let's go," The moment Gustav grabbed hold of Marshall, he dashed forward.

Fwwooosshhh~

The guards in the vicinity were astonished as they saw the speed at which Charisas moved while dragging Marshall along with her.

They quickly attacked before Charisas could get away, but all their attacks were dodged with ease as Charisas blurred out of the sports center.

"Stop! There are kids here,"

One of the teachers shouted out as most of the attacks slammed into the football pitch, destroying several parts and leaving craters in it.

The students playing the match had been scared stiff, and some of them even fell to their knees.

Luckily, none of the blasts touched anyone since the teacher, who had a sound bloodline, could get his voice echoing across the place.

The guards attacking paused their attacks to stop themselves from hitting one of the kids by mistake.

All the guards were very powerful, so just a single attack could send any of these kids to the afterlife even though they were mixedbloods too.

"She took my son away. Go after her right now!" Mrs. Triss Rel screamed out like a depraved lunatic.

The six guards nodded and charged out of the sports center to give chase.

Mrs. Triss Rel proceeded to make a call at that instant.

"Charisas is here, send stronger forces now,"

Meanwhile, Charisas sped towards the closest class block in the area with Marshall, who was just as surprised to see her performing such a feat.

Gustav felt like facepalming right now. This was the situation he was trying to avoid by doing things in a subtle way.

He could have destroyed the barrier with his strength from the onset, but he didn't want to be seen.

Now that he was, he had no other option than to grab Marshall and get out of sight.

He initially didn't spot the madam of the Rel household until she screamed out for her guards to give a chase.

'How did they even spot me?' Gustav wondered since he was practically on their blind spot with where he was situated.

He had no idea that he was only spotted because of the corrupt nature of Mrs. Triss Rel, who wanted to rig the match in her son's favor.

Boom!

A blast of wind instantly blasted the tree by his right to smithereens, causing Gustav to be wary.

He turned to the side and could see a guard riding on a tornado-like wind, moving forward with speed.

He was amongst the two who were able to give a proper chase as Gustav ran across the school grounds.

"Exploding wind," The guard pointed his finger in Gustav's direction as he voiced out.

Gustav suddenly felt the rupturing of air around him and swerved towards the side as he kept running.

Thwowooomm~

A burst of wind blasted forth from the side, sending everything in the vicinity flying due to the amount of force it emitted.

Some students in the vicinity were sent flying even though they were several ten feet away.

Gustav had already run past the range of effect, so he was unaffected.

The other guard, who was also managing to keep up, shot a yellow blast towards Gustav, which he managed to dodge as well.

"How are you doing this?" Marshall voiced out as he found himself unable to keep up.

He knew these guards well, so he knew just how powerful they were.

Compared to how Charisas had a weak bloodline, these guards were really strong and could even be said to be amongst the strongest mixedbloods in the city.

His family was rich enough to afford them.

"You will find out later," Gustav stated in Charisas voice as he kept charging forward.

He finally spotted a class block up ahead and leaped upwards while carrying Marshall.

Bang!

Both of them blasted through the window on the last floor.

The attacks stopped the instant both of them got into one of the buildings.

The two guards giving chase could not send their attacks hurling towards the building. Even though they had toned down the strength of their attacks to prevent harming the students, it would still be powerful enough to topple the building if they attacked, which would harm the young master of the Rel family.

Gustav began tapping on the device strapped to his left wrist while running along the corridors with Marshall.

Now that the attacks had stopped for a brief period, he had the chance to set coordinates with his dimensional bracelet.

The guards riding on the mini-tornado flew straight towards the window Gustav blasted through.

The circulating winds around him widened the gap even more as he arrived in the corridor and shrunk the mini-tornado even more.

Fwwhiii~

He spotted Charisas up ahead, who stopped to set the coordinates. But at this time, Gustav was already done with that, so he grabbed hold of Marshall again and dashed across the corridor.

The guard gave chase while he sped along and made a turn towards the left.

"Where are we going?" Marshall asked, getting speed sick with the way Gustav was yanking him around.

"We'll be out of here soon," Gustav responded and dashed into one of the bathrooms.

The guard arrived in front of the bathroom as well a few seconds later and blasted through the entrance.

Gustav was counting down as he stayed in one of the cubicles with Marshall.

Marshall's breathing had turned hurried at this point as his face planted into Charisas boobs. His face turned reddish.

Gustav didn't even notice this; instead, he stared at his dimensional bracelet and smiled.

Bang!

The guard blasted the walls of the cubicle apart.

"Got you," Just as he voiced out, a bright light was emitted from both Gustav's and Marshall's figure.

The last thing the guard saw as he charged forward to grab Gustav was the evil smirk on Charisas face and an outstretched middle finger.

"No!" He shouted out as his hand phased through particles of light.

Zing~

Gustav and Marshall had disappeared.

Chapter 714 - Making Demands

Evening time arrived, and the cops issued a city-wide search for Marshall and Charisas.

Other private forces were also looking for them. It was impossible for them to say Marshall had been kidnapped because footage showed Marshall and Charisas speaking to each other on the football pitch.

This proved that they were acquainted with each other, especially with the way Marshall was smiling.

The referee also stated that Marshall asked for the barrier to be taken down to leave. This made it obvious that he wanted to go with her.

Charisas was also a minor, so it was impossible to place charges on her being a kidnapper.

However, the parents still had every right to send search parties after their child, as well as Charisas, who was also their ward.

This incident made headlines as different media outlets showcased it with headings like...

«Starstruck lovers from the Rel Family, Marshall and Charisas elope together.»

«Young couple from the Rel family escape from the clutches of their disagreeing family»

These headings mostly suggested that Marshall and Charisas relationship was not allowed by the family, which increased the bad reputation the Rel family already had.

They were already known for looking down on others with a less renowned background, so this just put them in a more of a salty situation.

Social media was being flooded with people bashing them and making jokes about how they were so bad that even their own son had to run away.

Of course, they ignored all of this. The whole social media banter would not decrease the fact that they were still amongst the most powerful families in the city.

-

Within the Rel household, the head of the family and his wife sat in the massive luxurious-looking living room with many people.

"Find my son," he voiced out.

"The problem now is we don't know who is involved in the shadows. Charisas could not do that before, so there must be someone else who planned this," One of Marshall's uncles voiced out.

"It could be the person who helped them escape during the last battle event one month back," another one of the family members voiced out.

"The cops came out to say that person doesn't exist, so how?" Mrs. Triss Rel voiced out.

"A fake identity, huh..." Just as the head of the family muttered, a guard came running into the living room.

"Sir, ma'am, there's an urgent call for you both," He voiced out as he arrived in their midst.

"Hmm?"

Everyone knew that for a guard to rush in here in the middle of the main family meeting, the situation had to truly be urgent.

The guard brought out a device and tapped on it, displaying a massive holographic monitor.

Trroooinn~

The instant it came on, every member in the living room opened their mouths wide.

In a dimly-lit space, Marshall was strapped to a chair with restraints, and a dark purplish glowing orb was floating right in front of him.

"What is going on?" They all wondered as they stared at the holographic video call.

Then a figure popped out from the side and stood on Marshall's left.

Their eyes widened even more as they recognized this face to be the same person said to get Mr. Eldorado and Charisas out of the underground battle facility.

Currently, Gustav had taken the form of the identity he used in breaking Boss Danzo and Charisas out.

"You! Who are you and what do you want?" Marshall's father asked with a strong tone rising anger.

"Who I am isn't important," Gustav answered from the other end with a deep voice.

He walked forward, appearing larger on the holographic screen.

"I have your son... That should be your biggest concern," Gustav added with an intense glare as he scanned everyone in the room watching.

"I will advise you to turn yourself in and release my son if not the consequences will be huge for you," Mrs. Triss Rel voiced out with a threatening tone.

"The next threat will cost your son his left hand," Gustav voiced out with a cold tone.

"How dare..." Mrs. Triss was about to speak again when the head of the family cut her short.

"What do you want?" Marshall's father proceeded to ask.

"Piltrea!" She yelled out the name of her husband, indirectly telling him not to give in.

"Quiet, let me handle this," He voiced out with a commanding tone.

Mrs. Triss Rel had no choice but to keep quiet at this point.

"Drop your charges on Mr. Eldorado, withdraw the forces searching for Charisas and never try to harm her again," Gustav voiced out his demands.

"Just this? You don't want money?" Marshall's father asked.

"I don't need your money," Gustav stated.

"Why don't you just..." Before Marshall's father could complete his statement, Gustav interrupted.

"Do as I have said or you won't even be able to bury your son... Since his remains would be obliterated," Gustav said while touching the orb floating in front of Marshall.

He rubbed it with a smile on his face.

"You can ask Garou and Biden what this is? They are guards in the underground battle facility so I'm sure they can give a good testimony," Gustav voiced out before staring at them once more and ending the call.

Thiiiiisshh~

The holographic projection disappeared, and the room sunk into silence for a few moments.

"Piltrea you shouldn't have negotiated with him, you should have threatened him more," Marshall's mother voiced out.

"You want to hasten your son's death?" Marshall's father asked with a glare.

"Anyone would fold after getting properly threatened, knowing how powerful our family is," She argued with a disagreeing tone.

"You think he didn't know how powerful our family was before he decided to abduct our son?"
Marshall's father chuckled with annoyance as he voiced out.

"There's..."

"Quiet woman! Did you see those eyes? Those eyes are the eyes of a cold and merciless killer who has ended the lives of many," Marshall's father said with a tone of annoyance and wariness.

"Only a stupid person would call the bluff off someone like that,"

Chapter 715 - Abduction Charges Dropped

"Quiet woman! Did you see those eyes? Those eyes are the eyes of a cold and merciless killer who has ended the lives of many," Marshall's father said with a tone of annoyance and wariness.

"Only a stupid person would call the bluff off someone like that," Marshall's father added with a sigh.

Even though Gustav was using a different identity, nothing could hide the eyes of a killer from him.

There was no bluff to be called because Gustav would truly do as he had said.

They called in experts immediately to try tracing the call. It would have been easier to do that if they were expecting such a call at first, but the whole situation came as a surprise to them.

They didn't know Marshall was abducted since he willingly went with Charisas, so they weren't expecting a call from anyone making demands.

Unfortunately, they were unable to trace the call no matter how much they tried. From his own end, Gustav had done the necessary requirements to make sure the call couldn't be traced.

The head of the family began to think about Gustav's demands and how he could fulfill them.

He remembered the floating purplish orb in front of his son during the video and investigated what it was.

Since Gustav had mentioned the name of the two guards who had a clue about it, all he had to do was speak to them.

The whole household was struck with fear after they confirmed what it was.

"Did you say it was dark purple? Red lightning was swimming around it?"

"It was the explosion of that same item that destroyed the entire underground tunnelway and caused the burning sands on the surface to cave in,"

"We almost lost our lives,"

Marshall's father recalled his conversation with the two. They remembered just how much destruction was caused after the explosion, especially when the underground battle facility was also trembling immensely from the impact.

If that explosion had gone off in the city, at the very least, three streets would be obliterated.

They now understood why Gustav said they would not be able to collect their son's remains because there would be nothing to collect after that.

"We have to meet his demands," At this point, Marshall's father became decisive.

-

The next day arrived, and only one more day was left for Gustav to get Boss Danzo out of the cell.

Within the new place Gustav booked along with Charisas, he stared at Marshall sitting stiffly in the living room beside Charisas, who looked cheerful.

Every time Marshall sneakily looked in Gustav's direction from the side of his eyes, he would freeze even more because Gustav was staring directly at him.

"Don't be so afraid, Big brother Gus..."

"Do not reveal my identity to a stranger. I still don't trust him," Gustav voiced out before Charisas could complete her sentence.

"But he helped you with the video call. The Rel family dropped the charges on Sir Danzo because of him. I'm sure we can trust him," Charisas said while holding onto Marshall's hand.

Marshall forced a smile, but it was obvious that he was still scared stiff of Gustav.

"He didn't have a choice," Gustav responded while standing up.

"This was an abduction. With or without you here, I would still get him to do as I wanted," Gustav added while walking towards the kitchen.

"Does that mean you would have truly sent his body parts if his parents didn't cooperate?" Charisas asked before Gustav disappeared into the kitchen.

"Yes,"

Gustav's voice echoed from within.

"Eekk, he's so scary," Marshall voiced out with a lone tone.

"Don't worry he's actually nicer than he shows. He just likes to hide it," Charisas said in a comforting manner.

She also found Gustav scary but remembering everything that had happened in the last month, she knew there was more to him than just someone who acts like they have no emotions.

He had every reason to leave her behind or cast her out after she had misbehaved several times, but he still tolerated her and even saved her before going back for Boss Danzo.

Even though Boss Danzo was caught because of her, he continued to cater for her, and just as he promised, he let her see Marshall before leaving the city.

Even though there were other motives surrounding this, it was still a fact that he kept to his promise.

The night before, when she was questioning Marshall about not appearing when she used the light signal, he explained that he wasn't allowed to leave home.

Charisas was finding it hard to come to terms with that answer because she felt betrayed even though she wasn't in control of her actions at the time.

Gustav was the one who reassured her that Marshall was truly in love with her.

He had noticed this from trying to get Marshall away from the school the day before.

Gustav was very good at reading others, so he knew that with the way Marshall acted, Charisas would not have to suffer anything if he was in control.

Unfortunately, he was still young, so he currently had little to no control over his life or power in his family.

Marshall had his romantic charms, and originally he and Charisas would be engaging in some mushy activities right now, but with Gustav around, all thoughts of romance with Charisas flew out the window.

He remembered his face was planted to Gustav's boobs the day before, where he took Charisas form. He was actually getting excited from that even though they were on the run at the moment.

"Ah," Marshall exclaimed as he understood why Charisas smelled so manly at the time.

Everything now made sense to him, especially how Charisas was able to move that fast in the first place.

"What's wrong?" Charisas asked with a look of worry as she held his face affectionately.

He turned to stare at her with a painful expression while picturing what happened yesterday.

"Could I be ga...."

Chapter 716 - Bail Granted

Gustav would occasionally shake his head in the kitchen while preparing breakfast, 'Sixteen year olds falling in love...'

'How is that even possible?'

("Just because it didn't happen with you doesn't mean others get to share in your unfortunate romance situation,") The system suddenly voiced in his head.

'You little bit...!' Gustav nearly cursed out loud as he heard that.

'You go silent for days, then suddenly come back to taunt me,' Gustav said internally with a tone of annoyance.

("You think I'm not busy in here? There's tons of work and preparation...") The system responded with a tired sigh.

Of course, it was impossible for the system to get tired since it was a scientific creature with sentience. It was just trying to mimic humans.

'Tch, stay out of my business then,' Gustav said once again.

("Your business is my business, virgin but mine is not necessarily yours,") The system replied.

"Hmph we shall see... I won't be a virgin for long," Gustav voiced out.

("Now we both know that's a lie but don't worry I'll let you have this one,") The system responded with a consoling tone.

Gustav; "..."

Gustav could not deny that seeing all this whole lovey situation with Charisas and Marshall was triggering.

He recalled his last night in the MBO camp six months back.

'Angy...' The feeling of Angy's lips on his felt sophisticated, and he longed for that scenario to repeat itself.

Even though Gustav acted all emotionless most times, it didn't mean he did not have emotions, and now he was more than eager to return to MBO camp after dealing with the situations around him first.

-

After they had eaten breakfast, Gustav asked both of them to stay indoors while he left the apartment.

Now that the charges on Boss Danzo had been dropped for abduction, the only ones left were the food poisoning and participating in illegal underground fights.

These two were related to Vanisher, so Gustav knew now that he only had to deal with mostly one enemy.

Ring Lord Vanisher was the leader of the three Ring Lords, so definitely, he was the one pulling the strings in the shadows.

Gustav was about to put the fourth phase of his plans into action at the moment.

As he travelled towards the precinct where Boss Danzo was held, his face and physique transformed into a different one.

"Are you telling me a lawyer for Danzo suddenly popped up out of nowhere?" Within a dimly-lit green room, one of the three people seated around a table voiced out.

«Yes, Ring Lord Carter... He's here to defend Danzo on the food poisoning claim as well as the underground battles»

"Who dares to try and defend him? Such guts,"

«He goes by the name Peter Gill and has managed to issue a hearing for Danzo regarding both charges. He has gathered some claims and evidences regarding the charges»

"Hmm, interesting... So someone dares challenge us," The woman in the midst of these two men voiced out.

"We will need to find out everything on this Peter Gill and end him before he tries anything," Ring Lord Vanisher voiced out.

«Sir the hearing is happening in the next two hours. We were asked to inform you from the court to be in attendance»

"What? Two hours? How is that even possible?" They voiced out in disbelief.

"How can they allow the hearing to be held in two hours when this lawyer just arrived today? Prevent it from happening for the next two days," Ring Lord Vanisher stated.

«Its from the higher higher ups, we cannot do anything about it. This lawyer seems to have powerful backing»

"Interesting... I did not see this coming," Ring Lord Vanisher was lost for words.

He would originally have everything under his control, but the case seemed to be the opposite in this situation.

"Looks like we have no choice but to attend with our own lawyer then,"

«BREAKING NEWS!!! THE NOTORIOUS MR. ELDORADO HAS BEEN GRANTED BAIL! THE ABDUCTION CHARGES HAS BEEN TAKEN OFF AND IT IS SAID TO HAVE BEEN A MISUNDERSTANDING ON THE PART OF THE REL FAMILY»

«BREAKING NEWS! THE NOTORIOUS MR ELDORADO HAS BEEN GRANTED BAIL! IT IS ACCLAIMED THAT EVERYTHING SO FAR HAD BEEN A SET UP AND HE WAS CONVICTED WRONGLY IN THE FIRST PLACE!»

«MR VANISHER IN A PINCH AS CLAIMS OF HIS ILLEGAL ACTIVITIES HAS BEEN PUT TO LIGHT! CLAIMS OF MANIPULATION HAS ALSO BEEN...»

By evening time, different media outlets covered the current situation about what was happening in the city with Boss Danzo and Vanisher.

Gustav had pulled some strings and unsurprisingly managed to get a hearing for Boss Danzo, where he also managed to help him get bail.

All the research so far had paid off today, and he had released so many claims backed up with statements from several sources about Ring Lord Vanisher's hidden illegal activities, which was linked to how Boss Danzo got pulled into the underground battle arena in the first place.

This issue was one that a lot of people knew about, but no one could publicly try to expose Lord Vanisher unless they wanted to be snuffed out of existence.

He was no ordinary foe after all. Exposing such secrets brought even him a lot of troubles, so he wouldn't take such a situation lightly.

Unfortunately for Vanisher, this time, he was up against Gustav, who didn't care about all this.

Yes, the lawyer was actually him in disguise.

The claims Gustav had revealed during the hearing were backed by sources which Gustav explained had to be anonymous in the meantime since their lives would be at stake.

It was hard to make do with this since the panel needed more evidence, but they were able to grant Boss Danzo bail due to this, and an investigation on Vanisher started getting carried out by the police force.

Since Gustav would have to reveal at least one of the sources during the hearing, he made use of himself.

He had recorded his talk with Boss Danzo, where Boss Danzo explained everything that was happening, so he made use of that, saying it was a call where Boss Danzo was asking for help.

Chapter 717 - A Laughing Stock

He had recorded his talk with Boss Danzo where Boss Danzo explained everything that was happening so he made use of that, saying it was a call where Boss Danzo was asking for help.

Since the name Gustav mentioned while using the lawyer identity was his original identity, he would still have to appear before the law sooner or later.

However before that he had to be prepared for everything Vanisher might try to do during the bail period.

Gustav knew they would try to do something to anyone who came out to be a witness which was why he mentioned his original identity in the first place.

If they tried to do anything sketchy, they wouldn't successfully.

Acting like a lawyer was something Gustav practice well for in these past few days. Gustav's intelligence had reached a state where he only had to see something once to remember it forever and his reading speed was also very fast.

Using all this to his advantage, he learnt quickly how he was going to deal with the case himself, presenting a fake lawyering identity.

Calling in a favor from one of the MBO generals they pushed some buttons to make sure the hearing was heard two hours after Gustav went to the station as Boss Danzo's lawyer.

It was proven that the food poisoning happened to be a mistake and Boss Danzo wasn't informed about the young girl's allergy.

The judges even asked for Vanisher's son to come say something as a witness and surprisingly the young boy took Boss Danzo's side.

He mentioned that Boss Danzo was never informed about that particular allergy because they themselves never knew the girl was allergic to that.

The only charge that was left to proof now was the illegal underground battle which wasn't done out of free will. This was why there was an investigation going on as of now.

Back at the new apartment, Boss Danzo sat on the sofa while Gustav served some non alcoholic wine to everyone.

They were celebrating his return and Charisas was very joyful seeing as he was back.

She had no idea how Gustav did it but she was glad he did.

The guilt she felt since he was caught had been eating her up inside. Seeing her again, it was as if Boss Danzo could tell exactly what was going on and hugged her like a child.

"It's okay, it's not your fault. Gustav already explained everything to me,"

These words were enough for her to let go of the guilt while sobbing uncontrollably.

At least that was over and done with now and Boss Danzo was questioning why they had a stranger in their midst.

"Oh him... I abducted him," Gustav responded bluntly.

"Pffft!" Boss Danzo spat out the wine from his mouth as he heard that.

"What?" He thought he didn't hear properly and asked again.

"I abducted him. Only fair since his parents were also planning to kill a child, this is only mild in comparison," Gustav voiced out with an unbothered tone and sipped some wine.

Marshall was copped up on the sofa opposite Boss Danzo still with a stiff look on his face. Charisas was seating besides him.

Boss Danzo now understood that this was the kid whose parents planned Charisas death match with him.

He couldn't help but admit that Gustav words were making sense. If people who committed crimes and brought others downfall without thinking were to have the same thing happen to them, maybe they would think twice before they did such again.

Like in this case if Charisas had ended up getting killed by the Rel Family and someone else killed the child of the Rel family they would understand how it felt like to lose a child which might make them think twice before committing such evil acts next time.

But even with this Boss Danzo didn't completely accept Gustav's behavior and began to reprimand him.

"Well, you're back now at least that's all that matters to me... I will return him to his parents when I get you both out of this city," Gustav voiced out after a brief argument with Boss Danzo.

"When will that be?" Boss Danzo asked.

"The day after tomorrow," Gustav replied.

"Charisas, say your goodbyes. You two probably won't see each other for a long time," Gustav added.

"But his parents agreed to leave me alone... Do I still need to leave the city?" She asked with a crestfallen look.

"They can't be trusted to keep to their promises. There's no guarantee that after I and Boss Danzo have left this city, they will not reengage on their word," Gustav said factually.

"You can come back again one day when you know you're powerful enough to protect yourself or after Marshall has taken control of his family," Gustav added.

Charisas signed as she realized Gustav's words were making sense.

People like the Rel family who saw the world as their playground might not stick to promises if they didn't feel the need to. There would be no point to endangering her life.

Marshall touched her face and turned her head to face him.

"It's going to be okay. We will keep in touch and in the future we will meet again," He muttered while rubbing her face affectionately.

"Hnm," A wry smile appeared on Charisas face as she nodded.

"I would say get a room but you kids are too young for that so... Hands where I can see them kid," Gustav voiced out like a party pooper ruining the moment.

"You're just jealous cause you're still a virgin," Charisas yelled while bringing out her tongue.

Gustav; "... 'How did she know?'

Gustav froze like he just got pierced by a million invisible arrows.

("So pitiful... You're now a laughing stock to the kids as well,") The system chipped in and bursted into laughter.

Boss Danzo was not left out. It was irregular to render Gustav speechless so this moment was quite funny to him.

"Shut up," Gustav stared at Charisas with a glare before turning to face Marshall.

Chapter 718 - Unexpected Development

Fear instantly gripped Marshall's heart and his hand, which was placed on Charisas cheek, slowly dropped down.

Charisas grabbed his hand and placed it back on her cheek before staring at Gustav back with a glare.

It was still a funny sight to behold, and Boss Danzo was already laughing uncontrollably by the side.

After some time, Boss Danzo asked to see Gustav privately, and they moved towards the balcony area to speak.

"You said the day after tomorrow... What about the next hearing, which is in two weeks?" Boss Danzo asked.

"Don't worry, I'll take care of that. This city is not safe for either of you, but I can handle the situation if it's just me," Gustav responded.

"Wouldn't it be too troublesome? I don't want to give you too many problems," Boss Danzo was still worried because he still saw Gustav as a kid regardless.

Going against these kinds of people is scary even for adults, not to even mention a nineteen-year-old.

"It will be fine. You'll only be adding more problems by being here because then I would have to worry about your safety and hers. I can take care of myself," Gustav stated with a tone of confidence.

"Haha, okay, my boy. Will you be joining us after you're done here?" Boss Danzo asked.

"I still have to visit another city after I'm done here. I would probably spend a few days there, and then I think I can visit you both for one more week before going back to the MBO camp," Gustav stated.

He still had to visit Brihuman City after this to get the second quarter of Sir ZiL's research. After that, he would only have a little more time left before he had to return to the MBO camp.

He probably wouldn't even have time to see Miss Aimee before he went back, and he recalled she was working on an important case as well, which he was supposed to help her with.

'I'm sure Miss Aimee can handle things herself... There was no one to help Boss Danzo here,' Gustav thought.

'Oh, I still have to help Mr. ZiL complete his research,' Remembering this, Gustav decided he was going to visit Greyscale Pharmaceuticals.

He proceeded to make a call to Sir ZiL to ask if he was available.

Meanwhile, in a dimly lit room, three of the ring leaders sat while staring at a holographic display and voice communicating with someone.

«"We found the location,"»

The masculine voice could be heard from the other end.

"Good, commence the operation. I cannot have my reputation damaged, kill him and leave no traces behind," Ring Lord Vanisher voiced out as he stared at the massive two hundred plus silver-colored building in the footage.

«"Understood... We will isolate this area immediately to prevent any interruption from outside forces,"»

The voice on the other end stated.

"Planting the tracking device in Danzo was a good move," A feminine voice rang out in the room.

"He really managed to hide his tracks, but they had no idea about this," The other Ring Lord voiced out.

"It's good the kid came here on a trip instead of on a mission. He's not even in league with the other MBO officers in the city, which makes things even easier," Ring Lord Vanisher voiced out.

«"I have eyes on them..."»

The footage zoomed in on the second to the highest floor of the building displaying two figures at the balcony area, Gustav and Boss Danzo.

"Attack!"

-

"Boss Danzo, I'm heading out. I'll be back in a few hours," Gustav voiced out after getting off the call with Sir ZiL.

Sir ZiL had mentioned that they could meet in the lab in a few minutes. He hadn't disturbed Gustav about the Arhkum research in the past few days because he knew Gustav was busy with handling boss Danzo's issues.

It would be inappropriate and selfish on his part to still ask Gustav to come for more examination when he hadn't resolved boss Danzo's issue.

"Alright, be safe. I'll watch after the kids," Boss Danzo responded with a smile.

Just as Gustav was about to jump off the balcony since this was his usual means of getting out of the building, he suddenly sensed a wave of energy up ahead.

This disrupted his senses as he could feel waves of energy coming from every direction.

He paused and decided to activate God Eyes so he could look around but just then...

Fwwhiiii~

A massive golden-colored beam suddenly blasted towards them from the opposite direction.

Gustav quickly pushed boss Danzo out of the way.

Boom! Crumble! Crumble! Crumble!

The apartment was instantly put in shambles as this part of the building began to crumble from the blast.

Gustav was barely able to get Boss Danzo away in time due to the immense speed of the blast and having his senses confused.

The floor cracked open, the walls crumbled, and everything began to fall.

Thwwiiii~

Another blast was sent towards the building at this point.

Gustav wasted no time in activating Combination and mixing both speed skills together.

[Dash + Sprint]

Fwwooosshhh~

Grabbing hold of Boss Danzo, who was lying on the floor behind, he dashed further into the crumbling apartment and grabbed both Charisas and Marshall before they could fall into the massive hole opening on the floor.

Their mouths were wide open in confusion and fear as they hadn't completely registered what was going on, and Gustav was moving with immense speed, so their movements seemed like a standstill.

Carrying all three of them, he jumped from falling pieces of wall to fallen pieces of the wall before leaping across the air.

The instant they phased past what used to be the balcony area, the second beam blasted into the building again.

Booom!

The entire skyscraper started crumbling down while the shockwaves from the explosion slammed into Gustav and the others in mid-air, sending them flying further away.

Gustav took most of the hit, allowing the others to be fairly grazed, but every one of them still passed out as their bodies fell across the air.

Chapter 719 - Using The Ultimate Combination Form Once Again

Gustav took most of the hit, allowing the others to be fairly grazed, but every one of them still passed out as their bodies fell across the air.

They were thousands of feet above the ground, so even though they had been falling for several seconds, they were still far from touchdown.

Gustav opened his eyes while they fell across the air feeling a searing pain in his back.

[Regeneration Has Been Activated]

He ignored the notification as usual and looked around to see Boss Danzo and the others falling across the air as well.

Behind them, the entire building was crashing down.

Placing his hands on both sides, Gustav controlled his fall, moving north.

Grab!

He arrived in front of Boss Danzo's falling body and grabbed his collar.

He proceeded to place Boss Danzo's unconscious body on his back.

Marshall and Charisas were all falling further towards the left, so he had to control the angle of his fall once again.

Moving towards the side, he managed to grab their collars.

At this point, they were only a few hundred feet away from making contact with the ground.

Gustav straightened his body while holding onto everyone.

Smoke had covered the entire vicinity from the explosions due to the multiple attacks, but Gustav could see clearly after activating God Eyes.

Just when they were a few feet away from making contact with the ground...

[Hover Has Been Activated]

Their bodies paused in mid-air and floated above the ground before slowly descending.

All of them had regained consciousness at this point and started coughing due to the smoke surrounding them everywhere.

Gustav dropped them on the ground and looked up.

He could see a weird barrier covering the vicinity. This barrier could not be seen with the naked eyes, but due to God Eyes, he could see it clearly.

'The situation isn't looking good... There doesn't seem to be a place for them to take cover,' Gustav thought as he saw the building crumbling down.

Screams could be heard from the building, which depicted that there were a lot of people within, affected by the current situation.

[Partial Kilapisole Form Activated]

Gustav's body turned green as he bloated slightly.

Bam!

He slammed both palms on the ground, causing icicle-like rocks to shoot out from the ground.

The rocks surrounded Boss Danzo and the others, forming a wall around them and eventually blocking even the top.

He deactivated the Kilapisole form and activated Size Manipulation

[Size Manipulation Has Been Activated]

Gustav's body began to increase in size intensely. In a manner of moments, he had already become several hundred feet tall.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Taking steps forward was like a cannon going off as he arrived in front of the crumbling building and pushed his hand forward in specific areas.

Even with his size, God Eyes was still activated, giving him a clear view of people within the building. Some unlucky people already got crushed by debris.

Some parts of the building were still standing, but one side was completely destroyed, and people were falling to their deaths.

With his massive palms, Gustav was able to grab hold of over twenty people and throw them far away from the dangerous scene.

He was quick in rescue, grabbing hold of multiple people and flinging them away.

Where he flung them to, there was a gravitational flux that decreased the descent speed of these people, making them land safely.

It had only been a few seconds, and he had managed to save close to a hundred people already.

High up in the air, the gaze of some entities pierced through the cloud of smoke up ahead and scanned through.

"Got him!" One of them voiced out.

«"Attack,"»

Thwwooooommm~ Boom!

Gustav's eyes widened as he looked upwards to see a golden starlight illuminate the entire place before a penetrative beam with immense power shot towards him.

[Size Manipulation Has Been Deactivated]

Gustav's body decreased in size with speed, causing the beam to slam into the building once more.

This time the building crumbled completely, falling apart with speed.

Not everyone had been saved, but Gustav would not die trying to be a hero when he knew he couldn't do anything to stop the beam.

The dust cleared up, and he could see three figures floating thousands of feet above the air.

Boom! Boom!

Without waiting for another second, the beams kept blasting across the place.

Even when Gustav dodged, the shockwaves still sent him hurling across the air.

Even the wall he created using the Kilapisole form was trembling immensely even when it didn't get hit.

'They're powerful... How did they find us?' Gustav wondered as he managed to stabilize himself.

'For them to do this without a care about whether the MBO would arrive or any other authorities that would mean the barrier surrounding this environment is a cloak... The outside world will not notice anything happening here,' In less than a second, Gustav had analysed all this.

'Which means I can't expect help from outside forces... I have to deal with them myself or destroy the barrier,' Gustav thought.

All these thoughts formulated in his mind with speed since it had only been an instant since the previous attack.

[Combination Has Been Activated]

'It might only be for a few seconds, but I could use that chance to destroy the cloaking barrier,'

[Mutated bull + Blood Wolf + Demonic Bunny + Kilapisole + Savrina Serpent]

His skin turned purple with golden platted scales as a massive silver-colored horn grew out of his forehead, and he turned extremely muscular, reaching a height of over eight feet.

Golden thorns grew out of his fist area as his face also transformed to ashen white color.

"He's not dead yet!"

One of the three standing high above the air shouted out.

"I'm going to get him," The lady with azure-colored hair voiced out as she dashed downwards with speed.

"What is that?" The one who had been shooting out the golden beam all this time voiced out as he could see Gustav's transforming downwards.

Chapter 720 - Isn't He Supposed To Be A Falcon Ranked?

"Just keep attacking... I will get the Danzo and the girl," The one with a tin-shaped head and purple bodysuit flew down as he voiced out.

The girl who swooped down could spot a menacing-looking creature with glowing white eyes, purplish and golden colored scales covering some parts of his body, and muscular looking nine feet tall physique where Gustav was initially located.

'How did his strength level increase so much compared to earlier?' She was surprised as she felt the immense energy coming from him.

Thwwooooohhh~

The golden beam shot down again, radiating with immense starlight.

Gustav's right arm bulged intensely as he arched it downwards with force, concentrating power into his hand.

Throwing it up with force, waves spread across the vicinity as his fist travelled towards the beam of golden light shooting down.

Boom!

The grounds cracked open as his fist collided with the beam, and a force of energy also blasted upwards as well.

Whooosshhhh~

Everyone who was hundreds of feet away got blasted backward by the force as the golden beam of light was catapulted back into the air with sheer force.

The ground kept collapsing from the force, and a massive crater was created in a manner of moments.

The three attackers had widened eyes as they saw the beam getting shot back.

Boom!

It exploded in the sky, sending the one who was swooping down, flying.

None of them had expected this development from a falcon ranked.

Gustav didn't waste any time and leaped upwards.

Thwwiii~

It was like the air was being ripped apart as he shot upwards with speed and suddenly appeared in front of the one who had started the attack.

Fwwhii~ Bang!

A fist to the face sent this mixedblood hurling downwards with blood and teeth in his mouth.

'He's fast... That speed was like teleportation,' He thought as his head rang from the collision while his body was blasting across the sky towards the east side of the barrier.

Twwhii~

Gustav didn't give him time to recuperate and appeared right in front of him before punching out once more.

Bam!

His fist slammed into the enemy's gut, sending him hurling forward away while spitting out blood in mid-air.

At this point, Gustav could feel so much power coursing through his veins that he felt like if he let loose, the entire vicinity might get destroyed.

Remembering Boss Danzo and the others were also here, he tried to keep the force of his attack concentrated to one area.

The enemy slammed head-on into the barrier and hadn't even gotten the time to think when Gustav's figure appeared in front of him again with both legs outstretched.

Bang!

The entire barrier made a loud collision sound as the enemy's body got pounded on its surface mercilessly.

He felt like the force of an entire mountain just slammed into him as he was on the brink of passing out.

'Isn't he supposed to be a Falcon ranked mixedblood... Did we get the information wrong?' These were the thoughts running through his head.

Gustav felt a force approaching from behind as he was about to send a blow forth that would leave the enemy incapacitated.

He swerved to the side across the air and a massive outstretched hand passed by his side.

Bang!

The shockwaves from the extended fist still slammed into him, sending him hurling backward for a bit.

The arm began to pull back towards the person who sent it back, but Gustav suddenly reached out and grabbed hold of it.

Fwwhii~

Spinning around, he swung the arm along with the owner towards the side of the barrier.

Bang!

A loud collision rang out as the tin-headed man slammed into the barrier.

He was initially going to break open the wall barrier Gustav set around Boss Danzo and the rest, but he couldn't ignore seeing his comrade receiving a whooping.

As he slammed face-on into the barrier, Gustav flew forward across the air towards him.

He quickly rolled towards the side, dodging the kick Gustav sent out as he recalled his extended arm.

Both of them charged at each other in mid-air, sending a fist forward at the same time.

Boom!

The collision sent forth a wave that spread across the vicinity as both of them got thrown backwards a bit.

Thwwiiii~

Gustav sensed an energy spike behind before he could fly forward to attack again.

Thooooomm~

This time the golden beam shot forward with more penetrative and violent force.

Gustav turned around and shot out a beam of silver-colored energy from the middle of the horns protruding out of his head.

Boom!

As both forces collided, intense shockwaves spread across the place, slamming heavily into the cloaking barrier.

However, the barrier still seemed sturdy enough even though Gustav and the others were sent hurling backward once again with injuries appearing all over their body.

Bang!

An extended fist slammed into Gustav from above before he could stabilize himself, sending him hurling downwards towards the collapsed building area.

Gustav's body spun severally across the air as the impact of the fist caused internal injuries.

He suddenly paused in mid-air and flew upwards, dodging a transparent blueish beam sent forth from the side.

The girl who had swooped down earlier but received the full brunt of the explosion of the golden beam had managed to recuperate and now joined the battle.

Gustav had no idea what her ability was, but his gut told him to make sure he didn't make contact with the blueish beam she just emitted.

Thooomm~

Another Golden beam shot down with intensity. Gustav swerved to the side and flew up after dodging the beam.

Bang!

It made contact with the ground and caused further destruction, sending shockwaves across the vicinity.

Even the people Gustav had saved earlier received a lot of injuries from the shockwaves, and they couldn't leave due to the barrier.

The wall of icicle-like rock Gustav erected around Boss Danzo and the others were slowly starting to crumble due to the shockwaves coming from the ongoing battle.