

Bloodline 771

Chapter 771 - Vera's Quietness

"I have to find that Vera girl before she gets back," Rhilia stated with a look of seriousness after arriving outside the house.

She floated upwards with her bloodline energy and flew across Burning Sands City.

Mixedbloods who had attained Alpha ranks could fly, using their bloodline energy regardless of whether or not they had the ability before reaching that rank.

The more powerful a mixedblood became, the more their access to a general range of abilities that wasn't related to their actual bloodline abilities.

Rhilia was able to use teleportation which could affect herself or a third party if she wanted but due to being an Alpha Ranked, she could fly too using bloodline energy.

The second year of the mixedbloods in the MBO camp would mostly be related to training them on how to use their bloodline energy for other things than just their bloodlines abilities.

One of them included how Miss Aimee was able to inject her bloodline energy into the students back then and figured out the state of their channeling before they achieved the Zulu rank.

In another location, a girl with beautiful blue hair was strapped to a stretcher of sorts and surrounded by a group of four in masks.

A few wires were connected to her head through some weird sticker buttons planted to her forehead. Her eyes were currently opened but unlike regular people, it was devoid of fear and emotions.

She just stared at them with a straight face.

"She's not saying anything," One of them voiced out with a mechanical tweaked tone.

From the body structure of the person that had just spoken, it was obvious that she was the only female in a group of males.

"She caught on already. She won't give us any more information if we ask, torturing her is the only other option we have," Another one of them voiced out.

A look of excitement appeared on the girl's face as she heard that but then she pictured someone in mind and her look returned to its previous state.

'It would be better if he did that to me himself,' She thought.

"We can't harm her. That's the only downside to all this. We were instructed to only extract information from her using other means besides anything related to torturing," The tallest one in their midst voiced out.

"Tell us now, where is he?" The last one voiced out while moving closer to Vera.

Vera remained silent ignoring the question.

"You've already told us he is here, point us in his direction and let's get this over with," He voiced out once more.

A faint look of guilt appeared on Vera's face as she heard this.

Two days ago, she sensed Gustav's presence and was about to use her communication tool to contact Miss Aimee when she suddenly got ambushed by this strange group.

They encircled her pretty easily and made use of a gas toxin to cause her to pass out.

She woke up and found herself here. She had no idea how long it had been but she knew she had been here for some time.

Seeing the strange wires attached to her head that day she thought she was being brought here to be tortured for extraction of information.

The first thing said to her was, "We noticed you were about to make a call... Is Gustav Crimson in the city?"

She instantly decided to respond to the question and say no but then...

"Yes," Instead of saying that she found herself saying the opposite.

Vera tried to say no again but instead said yes.

"Turns out you just tried to lie... So Gustav Crimson is in this city," One of them responded with a light chuckle.

"Point us in his direction, is it south?"

This time Vera ignored the question knowing she would be unable to control her tongue.

"Tell us,"

"We will dig out your flesh and put electrocuting clips in them,"

They kept threatening her and telling her to give them a direction but Vera ignored them.

This had been going on since she awoke and never voiced out a thing since then.

The wires on her head didn't actually compel her to tell the truth contrary to what she thought. It only made her say the opposite of whatever she voiced out.

They knew the first thing she would try to say would be a lie which was why it worked so well as if it forced the truth from her mouth. If Gustav's direction was in the north, most people would want to lie and say south if they didn't want to be truthful since it was the opposite direction.

Now instead of saying south, they would end up saying the true direction which was north.

Of course, if a person figured out the trick to the machinery at work they could fool the group but Vera had no idea that this was the case.

She only knew, the machine compelled her to say what she didn't want to reveal which made her think it was like a truth device.

Keeping shut was the best option for her.

"One of them brought out an electric rod and pointed it in her direction. I don't care, I will hurt her now if she doesn't spill," He said while moving closer to her.

Zhiuii~

The door on the back left corner suddenly slid open and a man walked through.

"What are you doing? This isn't why I asked for her to be abducted," This man had a white buzz cut.

"Senator Harry now relax. I'm sure you don't want it to be revealed that you're responsible for this since she would come directly for you," One of them voiced out causing the man with the white buzz cut to pause in his tracks.

"You..." He didn't know what to say at this point.

"I only took her for that one reason and you lots have turned it into a different vendetta entirely," Senator Harry had a look of dissatisfaction as he voiced out.

"Just relax we'll be out of your hair soon," The lady in their midst voiced out.

Chapter 772 - The Alien Makes Her Move

"Even if she doesn't give us any additional information, we know he's here. We have taken proper measures to find him. Multiple secret agents have been deployed all across every single scene of destruction in the city. They are all undercover and in hiding. so he wouldn't notice them. The moment, he visits any of these crime scenes, he will be caught," The tallest in their midst voiced out to the Senator.

Vera's eyes widened a little as she heard that. She became worried because even though she could not pinpoint Gustav's exact location, due to being able to perceive the direction he was currently situated in, she could tell he was on the move.

She recalled Aildris's statement during their discussions...

"He's probably planning a way to get himself out of this mess right now, but I'm sure the MBO thinks he's just running away aimlessly,"

Vera was very surprised these unknown people already had it figured out.

The MBO would most likely underestimate Gustav's way of doing things since they didn't know him but his friends who did, were the only ones who could think like this which was why Vera was surprised.

'He's changing directions very fast... I need to find a way to get out of here and stop him,' Vera thought as she began struggling to free herself.

Meanwhile, Gustav was currently in a vehicle headed for the business district which was only a few minutes away.

The small hover bus just passed through another installed teleportation point reducing the amount of time left till he arrived there.

'I'll go in from the west area after walking around first... I'll need to check around properly,' Gustav was making plans since he knew the vehicle was almost at his desired destination.

Vera could sense the change in directions due to how the hover bus got teleported from place to place.

Unfortunately, her bloodline was currently sealed so she was limited to normal human-like strength.

"We should be getting activity soon since it has already been two days and once that is over and done with, we'll be out of your hair," The tallest one in their group voiced out to senator Harry.

"I'm sure you also want Justice for your city or don't you senator?" The lady also voiced out.

While they were speaking Vera was still struggling to free herself and a seed fell from one of her clothes pockets to her left hand.

She turned her head to the side to stare at the seed while her finger touched it.

Unfortunately for the group even though they had managed to seal Vera's bloodline, she still had the power that wasn't related to her bloodline in any way which remained unsealed.

Because Vera was in fact an alien...

As her finger made contact with the seed, she shook her body, causing it to fall to the ground and in the next instant...

Shrrrryuuhhhh~

Massive vines with thorns suddenly shot out of the ground, spreading across the place.

The gang was taken by surprise and one of them got impaled from behind, through the right chest area.

Kiiaarrhhhh~

He screamed out in pain as the vine lifted him off the ground in the process of tearing through his flesh and slammed him into the wall.

"What is going on? Are we under attack?" One of them shouted out as he quickly conjured glowing daggers around him and swung them out to protect himself from the trashing vines.

The other two also channeled their bloodlines and tried waving off the multiple fat vines with spikes.

Bam!

One of them slammed into the Senator sending him blasting through the door with blood flying out of his mouth.

"Senator Harry," The gang leader shouted out and quickly joined all the glowing daggers around him together before slashing repeatedly across the place.

Swwish! Sweishh! Sweishhh!

Every single vine in the place was instantly cut into thousands of pieces leaving only small roots left on the ground.

The other gang member who got impaled fell to the ground bleeding profusely and one of the teammates ran towards him to tend to his injuries.

Just as the leader, was about to go check on the senator, he looked back and noticed the stretcher-like platform was empty.

"The girl is gone," He voiced out with a look of surprise.

"What? She did that? But we sealed her bloodline?" The lady voiced out with a surprised expression.

"She can't have gone far. Check if the Senator is okay, I'll find her," He voiced out and stormed out of the place.

The glowing pieces of light floating around him, formed a platform which he jumped on and flew across the corridor.

At that moment, Vera was running across a corridor not knowing which way leads to the exit but she followed her instinct.

She pulled out several more seeds from the pocket where she kept them and threw them all across the place after inputting her will in them.

The instant she scaled through, more vines burst forth from the floor, spreading across the place and leaving no gaps to pass.

Swwhiiiihhh~

The man chasing from behind sped across the air and the moment he arrived in front of this blockage a small battle ensued between him and the multiple vine roots with spikes.

In a few seconds, he slashed them to thousands of small pieces, leaving him enough space to pass through.

Vera was already closing in on the exit of this place after turning multiple times but she could sense the approach from behind.

Reaching into her pocket once more, she tried to get some seeds but found out that she only had one left.

Up ahead was a massive metallic door, over twenty feet tall with wheels in the middle, and on the right was a small box that scanned for features.

She could either use the last seed to try and delay the pursuer or use it to destroy this exit point.

This was a difficult decision as she knew she wouldn't be able to outrun the pursuer if she decided to use it against the exit but using it on the pursuer too was only delaying the inevitable.

Chapter 773 - Saving Vera

This was a difficult decision as she knew she wouldn't be able to outrun the pursuer if she decided to use it against the exit but using it on the pursuer too was only delaying the inevitable.

Deciding not to stress about it anymore, she threw the seed forward and it landed right before the exit point.

Thrrrrrruhhhh~

The vines shot out of the ground and slammed repeatedly against the massive metallic door.

In a few seconds, it was blasted apart revealing the outside and it was also at this point that Vera was about to be caught as the pursuer closed in from behind.

All of a sudden...

Shiinnnn~

A bright blue light appeared at the exit point, transforming into the features of a beautiful lady with grey and blue hair.

"There you are," She voiced out the instant she spotted Vera.

The pursuer from behind was about to grab hold of Vera's left shoulder when the figure that had just arrived snapped her finger.

Zing~

Vera disappeared with a flash of blue light and reappeared beside the lady.

Seeing his hand go through thin air, the masked man paused his movement and stared at the intruder and Vera with a look of confusion.

"Are you fine?" Rhilia asked Vera.

"I'm okay," Vera responded while panting heavily.

She recognized this lady to be someone she had seen in Miss Aimee's presence before so she knew this was a friend and not a foe.

"Even in my presence you tried to grab her," Rhilia said while slowly placing Vera on the ground.

The masked man froze in fear as he recognized this lady.

'Miss Rhilia? Run,' The instant he thought of this he turned around with speed.

However, at this same time, the bloodline energy of an Alpha rank burst forth from her figure causing the vicinity to quake.

'We're doomed,' He thought as he sped across the air atop one of his glowing blades.

Zing~

He hadn't even travelled very far when Rhilia appeared in front of him with her hand outstretched.

Grab!

Her hand grabbed onto his neck in the next instant, putting him in an unremovable hold.

"Oh, I'm sure she will enjoy taking her time in tearing you lots apart, piece by piece," Rhilia didn't even need to mention who she was referring to before the masked man could understand.

His eyes widened in terror as he struggled to free himself.

As she held onto the masked man she made a call.

"I've found her. The seventh warehouse in street #44C,"

-"Good I'm on my way, don't let the culprits out of your sight,"

A feminine voice replied from the other end.

"I'm rounding them up right now,"

Rhilia stated while raising her left hand. Blueish glows coated index and thumb fingertips as she proceeded to snap them together.

Zing~ Zing~ Zing~ Zing~

The other people within the structure began to appear in their current position one after the other with shocked gazes.

Minutes later everyone had been rounded up, the senator included. Miss Aimee had arrived at this point and just her presence alone made some of them wet their pants.

"They made us do it,"

The masked leader who had now been unmasked shouted out in fear as he saw Miss Aimee glancing at him.

"I will deal with you lots later," Miss Aimee was currently more interested in what Vera had to say.

"They said agents have been planted all across the crime scenes of destruction. If Gustav decides to step a foot into any one of them or approaches the surroundings, he will be caught," Vera explained.

"So, is Gustav currently in the city?" Miss Aimee proceeded to ask.

"Yes, he's been here for two days already and I sense his direction changing some minutes ago after staying put in one location for two days which was why I tried to escape. I think he's heading to one of the scenes," Vera stated with a look of worry.

Miss Aimee placed her hand on Vera's shoulder, as her eyes squinted, "Point me in the right direction,"

Vera nodded and pointed in a direction...

Fwwhioooosshhh~

In the next moment, Miss Aimee had vanished from her line of sight and what came next was an outburst of wind causing Vera's clothes to flap immensely.

"I guess he's more important to her than torturing these idiots right now," Rhilia said while staring at the gang of five all tied up together.

The senator of Burning Sands City was not given any special treatment; he was tied up like the rest of them and the wounds inflicted on him by Vera's vines had been treated but he seemed to have passed out from fear as well.

"Well, even if she doesn't have time to deal with you guys right now, she'll have time eventually. Especially if her beloved student gets caught because of you five," Rhilia smiled with a look of excitement on her face like she was really looking forward to that.

"It's been a while since I last saw Lil sis lose her temper. She must really like this kid," She added.

Vera, who was standing behind was a little curious about the relationship between Miss Aimee and this lady who had a small resemblance to her, but right now she was more concerned about Gustav.

Even if she knew there was nothing to worry about now that Miss Aimee was involved she still hoped nothing bad will happen.

Minutes earlier Gustav arrived at a location one mile away from the place he found Ring Lord Vanisher and the others.

This was a street on the northeast part of the city, very close to the area bordering the burning sands.

He slowly walked around the place, moving like a normal pedestrian.

There were not a lot of vehicle movements around here, considering the fact that there was a gigantic crater that covered a radius of more than a hundred miles up ahead.

The scene of destruction still had a kind of barricade around it, preventing movement across that part of the city so vehicles would barely be seen moving around this area.

Chapter 774 - Aiming For The Hole

However, people still lived around here, so it was normal to see pedestrian movements way more.

Gustav kept observing the vicinity as he walked across the street. The WG district was where he destroyed the last time.

It wasn't exactly like the business district he stayed in when he first arrived here, but there were a lot of factories and warehouses in that area. Underground platforms were there too since they belonged to the three Ring Lords.

This area behind it happened to be a normal neighborhood where people lived, so there weren't a lot of tall buildings to be seen around.

Gustav walked till he found a fairly tall building. It had about thirty stories.

He looked around the place to be sure no one was watching him and found his way to the rooftop.

A few seconds after arriving at the rooftop, Gustav proceeded to activate God Eyes.

His eyes turned crimson and green with a hint of gold in the middle as he peered into the distance.

Zhiiii~

Gustav's eyesight phased through multiple structures up ahead and one more street before it arrived at the former WG district area.

His eyes scanned across the barricade surrounding the massive crater that spanned for up to a hundred miles radius.

It turned out that the land hadn't been filled out yet and new construction had not begun. Gustav guessed this was probably since it had only been about three weeks since the incident occurred.

He could only see about four to six officials positioned around the outer perimeter of the crater.

They were patrolling around it and Gustav could see multiple gaps where he would be able to infiltrate through since the crater covered a large area.

The problem was since the entire place was bare of any structure, it would be easier for him to be spotted if the MBO officers decided to properly look at the crater area.

Another issue was he could see energy readings on the wooden-looking stamps on the ground that surrounded the entire crater. These stamps which were stationed around the perimeter most likely would give off some form of alarm if someone was to cross or make contact with them.

Gustav stared at the officials who were patrolling then deeper into the crater where he could see another massive hole within that led to the underground structure area he pulled Ring Lord Vanisher and the others out of.

This was Gustav's aim for today, but he had to make sure he wasn't spotted before he got into the underground area and he also had to find a way to avoid the barricades to prevent alarms from going off.

Gustav deactivated God Eyes and brought out some cylindrical-shaped bars, half the length of an arm from his storage device.

He proceeded to get off the rooftop after doing that.

He left the bag where the corpse was stored on the rooftop and moved around with these cylindrical-shaped bars.

Gustav began planting them in different spots around the area, covertly. He planted some on rooftops and others at random locations on the street.

After he was done, he moved back to the rooftop he observed the crater from earlier.

"I need a taller building," He voiced out while picking up the bag and leaving the area.

Gustav went ahead to board another bus and arrived on the northern side of the crater.

He was initially in the streets at the southern area of the crater which was where he had planted those cylindrical-shaped devices and now he had to take a five minutes bus to the other side which was also several miles away.

This part of the city was a neighborhood as well but behind it was a good-looking business area with a few skyscrapers.

Since it wasn't too far from the crater, Gustav decided to use the first one closest to the neighborhood.

Finding his way into the building, he instantly took an elevator to the last floor. Gustav could have leaped across the entire two hundred floors of this building but performing such a feat in public would attract attention.

Right now he wasn't trying to pull any attention to himself until he finished his objective.

Gustav arrived on the last floor and covertly proceeded for the rooftop, making sure not to arouse suspicions from anyone in the vicinity.

He currently had black skin with bushy hair and casual wear on his body so he looked like your regular citizen even though he was carrying quite the long bag.

Gustav arrived on the rooftop and quickly moved towards the edge by the left.

His eyesight scanned across the place as he activated God Eyes once more. It phased through across the multiple buildings in the neighborhood arriving at the crater area and then at the hole he was aiming for.

Calculating his distance from the hole using God Eyes, he found out that he was currently 2.78 miles away from the set location.

He was currently over three thousand feet high above the surface of the ground but the distance between him and the location he was aiming for was close to sixteen thousand feet away.

It was distant enough for none of the officials over there to notice him but this was a distance he had never covered before with what he was planning in mind.

[Combination Has Been Activated]

[Mutatated Bull + Demonic Bunny + Blood wolf + Savrina Serpent + Solar...]

In the next few seconds, Gustav had transformed into a menacing-looking creature with glowing white eyes, purplish and golden colored scales covering some parts of his body, and a muscular-looking nine-foot-tall physique.

He had once more made use of the Ultimate Combination Form.

"I should fall straight from above as I dropped directly from the sky above the crater... I need to attain a way higher height for this to be possible," Gustav thought out loud as he stood a few feet away from the rooftop ledge.

Gustav knew this form could only be maintained for about a minute so he had to get into the hole as soon as possible to avoid depleting his energy completely before his task was finished.

Chapter 775 - Successful Distraction?

Gustav knew this form could only be maintained for about a minute so he had to get into the hole as soon as possible to avoid depleting his energy completely before his task was finished.

[Silent Advancement Has Been Activated]

Gustav activated Silent Advancement while in this form and proceeded to soar into the sky.

Thhrrrrhhh~

He barely made any sound except for his take-off as he flew across the air, ascending with immense speed.

'Four thousand feet,'

'Five thousand feet,'

'Six thousand feet,'

'Seven thousand feet,'

Gustav counted the number of feet he had ascended as he kept flying upwards without changing trajectory.

His speed was so insane that he was crossing three thousand feet in a second.

If Silent Advancement wasn't activated, his body cutting through the sky would have been making a loud noise.

'fifteen thousand feet,'

'Sixteen thousand feet,'

Gustav was also able to calculate the height he had scaled in the sky due to God Eyes still remaining active while he flew.

'Seventeen thousand feet,' At this point Gustav paused his ascent and floated in the air for a moment.

'This height is good enough,' He thought.

At this point, his body was deep into the clouds and completely camouflaged by them.

Even when he crossed the ten thousand feet height this was the case but he wanted to make sure he was deep in the clouds before making any move.

Gustav's eyes peered through the thick clouds arriving and descended at a fast pace arriving at the surface of the neighborhood beneath.

Shifting his eyesight a bit, he arrived at the crater area and then above the hole he was aiming for.

He calculated where he had to be before he began his descent and quickly flew towards the front.

After flying a few feet towards the front and moving left again, Gustav looked downwards.

He nodded after seeing he was in the right spot and held onto the bag in his hand in front of himself.

Shwwwiiiiii~

He swooped down at a very fast speed, phasing through the thick clouds and leaving holes in them.

The curvature of the earth could be seen from this point and cold winds blew across the place as he descended.

It was quite a beautiful sight from up here and without zooming his sight in, the houses on earth were so distant, one could barely see signs of them.

But all that was something Gustav wasn't focused on at the moment, as his sight remained stationed in the location where the hole was while descending.

As he descended lower than ten thousand feet, Gustav suddenly brought out a small controller from his storage device while still descending with speed.

He waited a bit before tapping onto the controller.

On the surface, the officials moving about the perimeter of the crater suddenly turned to face the south region as bright lights suddenly lit up across the neighborhood.

The fluorescent lights were so blinding that they caught everyone's attention as some of them appeared on rooftops of the neighborhood in that area and some of them appeared in random locations.

The officials were suspicious about this and some moved towards the neighborhood area to check it out while the others remained behind but their eyes were still focused on the area where the blinding lights suddenly appeared.

Zwwwwoohhnn~

Gustav's figure descended from the sky so fast that it looked like a line and instantly, phased through the hole within the crater.

No one noticed him at this point in time due to their attention being drawn by the lights that suddenly appeared in the neighborhood where Gustav had planted those cylindrical-shaped bars.

Regardless of the activated Silent Advancement, a small whooshing sound still rang out after he blasted through the hole due to his speed.

This caused the officials to look around for some time with suspicious looks but the deed had already been done. Gustav had already infiltrated the hole.

The blinding lights in the neighbourhood ahead slowly began to die down at this point and the official that moved to check could only see the cylindrical bars planted in several spots.

"What the hell are these?" One of them voiced out as he picked some of the bars up.

"Probably some kid messing around," the female cop voiced out while looking around with a slightly annoyed glare.

Some kids were actually playing around in this area and they all stared at the cops while shrugging like they had no idea what was going on.

But of course, the cops knew kids were likely to lie after performing a naughty deed, so they only sighed and turned around to move back to their positions around the perimeter.

Suddenly, a few people dressed in casual outfits, surrounded the cops before they could move any further.

They were so organized that the cops found themselves surrounded before even setting their eyes on every one of them.

"What... Who are you, people?" The lady voiced out while reaching for a small device strapped to her waist.

Trrhhiiiihh~

It changed into a blue-colored gun four feet long gun.

"Disarm yourself, we are not here to cause trouble," One of them voiced out while bringing out a badge and passing it to the lady.

She collected it and stared at it with a confused look. "MBO? You're MBO officers?" She asked.

"Yes, we're undercover," the male MBO officer replied while collecting his badge back.

"What's going on?" The male cop asked with a suspicious look.

"We believe, Gustav Crimson has infiltrated the crime scene," The male MBO officer voiced out.

"What? That's not possible. We've been keeping an eye out all through and the alarm hasn't gone off so there's no way he would be able to successfully infiltrate," the female cop voiced out.

"We believe what had just happened was his doing to cause enough distraction for him to remain unseen," The male MBO officer stated once more.

"That's impossible, our colleagues are still there and no alarm has gone off," The female officer was still finding it hard to believe them.

Chapter 776 - Manipulating A Structure, Atom By Atom

"Why would he want to come here when he's wanted? By any chance did you guys spot him?" The male cop asked.

"We have long received intelligent information about Gustav's Crimson planning to return to one of the crime scenes and no we didn't spot him. We're only acting based on instinct now and what just happened," The MBO officer stated.

"Besides, it's Gustav Crimson. He caused so much destruction in a big city like this, evading the pursuit of multiple officers of high rank. Underestimating his capabilities at this point would be sheer stupidity," He added.

Both cops had looks of contemplation on their faces as they heard that realising that the MBO officer was making a lot of sense.

"Join us in searching the area for him. I have alerted the other MBO officers... some of them will be arriving soon to join us," The MBO officer voiced out before proceeding to move along with the other MBO officers.

Meanwhile, Gustav had already deactivated Ultimate Combination Form the moment he dropped into the hole.

The hole extended as deep as a thousand feet due to having multiple underground structures built within.

As Gustav landed at the bottom, he could see that unlike the last time he was here the place had been cleared to a certain extent.

He had caused the underground platforms to collapse on the day he caused so much chaos in the city. He was destroying everything in sight so this place was pretty much packed up with debris and collapsed pieces of solid materials.

There were still some of these in the vicinity but it mostly had been cleared and Gustav guessed it was probably due to the officials coming down here to investigate.

They must have found corpses here as well since some of the Ring Lord Underlings were in the environment when Gustav was destroying this place.

Gustav moved towards the far end of this dark underground space, avoiding the piles of debris and construction materials in place.

Even though it was so dark, God Eyes gave him the ability to see everything within a one-mile radius. His perception was also spread across the place so he knew there was no one down here.

In about a minute of walking across the place, Gustav finally arrived at a dead-end where the ground walls were in front of him.

The underground space didn't extend any further than this, in the particular direction Gustav headed.

Gustav made use of God Eyes to see beyond the ground wall and found out that there was no hidden structure or whatever beyond the wall.

It was just sand and dirt precisely like how things looked beneath the ground surface.

He proceeded to drop the bag in his hand as his palm lit up with milky-colored light.

[Atomic Manipulation Has Been Activated]

He placed his palm on the wall in the next instant.

Fwwhiiii~

The milky-colored light spread from his palm across the wall as he poured more energy into it.

Sshrrrrriiiii~

A wide hole began forming on the wall that was massive enough to contain two people walking side by side as Gustav walked in with his hands still placed on the wall while pushing forward.

The more he moved forward, the deeper the hole became. It looked like he was pushing the wall farther with his palms placed on it and at this point, the entire place was covered in milky-colored energy.

Atomic Manipulation was not just a bloodline that could disintegrate atoms but it could also manipulate them.

Gustav was currently making use of another ability related to Atomic Manipulation besides disintegration. He was practically changing the structure of this place from a subatomic level without having to cause any destruction.

He was creating a new place underground, manipulating the atoms.

On the surface a thousand feet high up, the place was already crawling with MBO agents who moved across the massive crater.

The crater was up to a hundred feet lower than the normal level ground so the moment they jumped in, seeing the surrounding parts of the crater became impossible.

The cleared space on the surface of the crater covered up to a hundred miles so it was a lot of space to cover.

The MBO agents spread out and covered different corners while giving reports of whether or not the area they had checked was empty.

The cops joined them as well to search the area and more MBO agents dressed in casual outfits were arriving on the scene.

Gustav hadn't noticed these people when he was about to embark on this objective because they had disguised as normal citizens.

While making use of God Eyes, he was supposed to be able to tell when he noticed powerful mixedbloods in the vicinity but they were well disguised that even their bloodline energy was concealed.

Besides being able to tell that there were Mixedbloods in the vicinity, their levels were lowered so he just felt the ones he spotted were normal mixedblood citizens.

They had come well prepared to hide from Gustav spotting them. From the looks of things they even knew about God Eyes.

"Squad leader, I can't find anyone anything around here except for the hole," One of the MBO officers voiced out through the communication device.

- "The hole to the underground area?"

"Yes. Requesting permission to check it out,"

- "Hold on, I'm heading over to your position with the others,"

In a few, about ten MBO agents had gathered around the hole Gustav went through earlier.

"Everywhere else has been checked except this place," The leader voiced out while pointing at the hole.

"You know what to do once we get down there. Prepare to attack just in case," He added while taking a step forward.

Just as he wanted to jump in...

Fwwwheeee~ Bam!

A figure suddenly descended from the sky with speed and landed behind him.

"Kiiiiarrhhh~"

The other MBO officers in the vicinity were blasted across the place from the force of the descent.

Chapter 777 - Think Twice Before Choosing Your Next Words

"Huh?" The leader exclaimed as he turned around after hearing the sound behind him.

"Y... Yo... You... You-ng Mi-ss..?" He voiced out with a look of fright as he spotted the feminine figure in front of him with an ice-cold expression on her face.

"You will explain to me the purpose of your presence in this vicinity as well as why you lots abducted one of the cadets under me," Miss Aimee voiced out as she stretched out her hand to grab the MBO officer by the collar and lifted him up.

"Y... Young Miss It wasn't my doing. I... I- d- don't know what you're talking about," The MBO officer voiced out quickly with a stutter.

"Don't lie to me," Miss Aimee voiced out while tossing the man away.

Fwwhii~

He flew across the air and slammed into another MBO officer causing both of them to blackout.

"You idiots thought you could commit such acts and go scot-free, eh?" Miss Aimee said while walking towards the others in the vicinity.

Looks of fright appeared on their faces as they began to take steps backward.

"Hold it right there, woman!"

"Hands where I can see them!"

Two voices were heard from the left as a few cops closed in on Miss Aimee from the side.

Miss Aimee turned to face them with a cold glare that caused them to halt for a brief instance.

'Who the hell is she?' They wondered internally but since they could see the MBO agents moving away in fear they assumed she was hostile.

"Cease your attacks right now and identify yourself!" The female cop in their midst voiced out as she pointed her weapon at Miss Aimee.

"I'll be lenient and let you leave while you still have the chance," Miss Aimee voiced out with an unbothered tone before turning to face the MBO officers who were shrinking away in fear.

Miss Aimee began taking steps forward towards the other MBO officers.

"Attack!" The female cop voiced out and proceeded to fire a red beam in Miss Aimee's direction from her gun.

Thwwii! Twwhiii~

Other officers also fired, but in the next instant, they all had looks of confusion and astonishment on their faces as Miss Aimee disappeared from their line of sight.

The female cop looked around, trying to find her but then what she heard next were screams of pain coming from all around her.

She turned around with her weapon stretched out and noticed that all her subordinates were laid out all across the place, bleeding from different parts of their bodies.

Her hands trembled as she looked around trying to find the culprit but couldn't find anything.

She suddenly felt a presence behind her and quickly turned around while trying to aim her weapon but the moment she did, she found a hand wrapped around her neck.

Her eyes widened as she had no idea how this happened. She was unable to follow the speed of this lady in front of her with an icy cold glare that sent chills to the very depths of her soul.

Before she could even react to the grip she found her vision turning sideways and her back was slammed heavily into the ground in the next instant.

She felt her spine cracking as she spat out blood and passed out in the next instant.

Several unconscious bodies of cops were scattered across the place, giving Miss Aimee a more fearsome-looking countenance as she began walking towards the MBO Agents once more.

"Tell me, where did you get the audacity to go after a cadet under me and carrying on with an investigation regarding my student behind my back," Miss Aimee voiced out with a cold glare as she arrived in front of the first agent.

"Young Miss I don't know what you're talking about," He voiced out in fear while crawling backward.

Shwwiiih~

Miss Aimee swung her foot at his face, sending him flying across the air with teeth and blood spilling out of his mouth.

"Think twice before choosing your next words," Miss Aimee voiced out while walking towards the next one.

He trembled immensely as he tried to get away. but Miss Aimee arrived in front of him before he could and lifted him into the air.

Just as she was about to attack, the sound of whooshing air reverberated across the surroundings.

Miss Aimee looked upwards and could see several aircraft approaching the area of the crater.

"Young Miss, please calm down," A loud voice was heard from above as a man with a praying mantis-like face descended from one of the aircraft.

A red-faced man clad in MBO uniform descended from the same aircraft as well. Rocket-like ignitions appeared on his back, arms and legs as he flew downwards towards Miss Aimee's position.

Miss Aimee didn't spare them any face and slammed the MBO agent into the ground, causing the entire vicinity to quake.

"Young Miss, please calm down," The red-faced MBO officer said with a pleading look.

Miss Aimee turned to face him as he descended, "Are you responsible for giving them permission to abduct the cadet under my tutelage and conducting secret investigations relating to Gustav?" She asked.

"No young Miss I have no idea about that," The MBO officer voiced out.

At this moment, over twenty MBO officers dressed in their MBO outfits descended as well.

"Round them up," The Red-faced MBO officer commanded.

The MBO officers proceeded to round up the MBO agents dressed in casual outfits in a manner of seconds.

Commander Linstrunt arrived on the scene and engaged in a discussion with Miss Aimee.

"Young Miss you have to believe that we had nothing to do with this. Not to worry young miss, these rogue MBO agents will be interrogated to find out the truth about why they committed such acts," He voiced out with a respectful gaze.

Miss Aimee stared at them like they were clowns putting on a circus act and didn't bother saying anything.

Chapter 778 - Hurriedly Completing The Task

"That being said, we did get an alert that Gustav Crimson was in this area, so Young Miss if you'd permit us, we'd like to check the hole," Commander Linstrunt stated.

Miss Aimee squinted her eyes at this point, "Are you in charge of the investigation, or am I?" She asked with a threatening gaze.

"Of course, it's you, young Miss. We just wish to assist you in finding your student. We feel it wouldn't be very sensible not to at least check after getting the information about his presence in this location," Commander Linstrunt voiced out.

"You do want to find him don't you young Miss?" The other red-faced officer asked with a look of concern.

"Hmph! How is that even a question," Miss Aimee voiced out before turning around and heading towards the hole.

"I will check it out myself. I don't need the help of you lots," She voiced out while walking towards the hole.

"Young Miss, we only want to help. It's a big space underneath after all. It will be easier to cover all the areas with more forces under your command," Commander Linstrunt explained.

"No, your help is not required," Miss Aimee voiced out once more as she arrived in front of the hole and looked down.

The high-ranking officers had looks of defeat on their faces as they heard that.

"On second thoughts, you lots can follow after me," She voiced out and jumped through the hole.

The two high-ranking officers stared at each other first before turning around to face the officers behind them.

"You heard her. Head for the hole and conduct a search for Gustav Crimson," Commander Linstrunt voiced out.

"Yes sir," The MBO officers chanted in unison and moved towards the hole as well.

Multiple officers jumped in at the same time just a few seconds after Miss Aimee did.

Minutes later the hole was filled with multiple MBO officers moving around the place, searching for Gustav.

"Clear,"

"Clear,"

Occasionally, voices would be heard through the communication devices of officers who had already searched the areas they were assigned to.

In barely a few minutes the entire place had almost been searched completely and the only word that had been heard through the communication devices was 'clear'.

Commander Linstrunt had a dissatisfied look on his face as he also looked around while activating his bloodline.

'Even with all these we still can't find him?' He thought.

Miss Aimee was also moving around like she was searching for him.

'There's no one here,' She knew the truth but acted like she didn't.

"Sir, we found something," A voice was suddenly heard through the communication device.

Commander Linstrunt's face suddenly lit up with intrigue as he heard that.

"Where and what did you find?" He voiced out through the device.

Krrrryhhchyum~

The sound of small rumblings could be heard from the other end of the communication like a rock was moving.

"A kind of path that leads somewhere else," The officer voiced through the comms.

"A path?" Commander Linstrunt was surprised and proceeded to get the direction to head in from the sound of the rumblings.

In a few, a lot of MBO officers were gathered in front of a tunnel way of sorts that led down with a turning towards the left.

On the ground in front of the wide hole, crumbled pieces of rocks were stacked together.

"There was no report of this the last time the underground structure was investigated," Commander Linstrunt voiced out.

"Yes, the rocks covering this entrance were made from a Zilopolic compound which meant the machines used to scan the underground space were unable to see through this particular area. They must have missed it due to that," One of the MBO officers voiced out while placing his hands on the rocks scattered in front.

"How then did you take notice of it," Commander Linstrunt asked.

"There were cracks all over this part of the ground wall. I was able to see within the spaces of some of the cracks and found out that there was a hidden space. If I had to guess, the young Miss presence and attack on the surface could have caused this," The MBO officer explained.

At this point, Miss Aimee was already at the location too and walked forward.

"Let's see where this leads," She voiced out as they cleared the way for her to move forward.

The others followed after her as well.

Several minutes earlier, Gustav stood within a small space he had just finished constructing inside the ground wall.

He brought the body he warped out of the bag and threw it across the place.

Multiple spikes that were shooting out from the wall, stabbed into the flesh of this corpse that was well dressed up to look exactly how Ring Lord Vanisher would.

But then unlike Ring Lord Vanisher, the clothes were tattered and reeked with disgust along with the decaying corpse.

The body hung above due to the spikes from the wall that had protruded into it. Gustav looked at the small space he had created and still wasn't satisfied with the look.

Just as he activated Atomic Manipulation and was about to place his hand on the wall again, the underground structure trembled.

"Something is happening on the surface," Gustav was instantly able to tell and looked upwards.

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

His vision turned reddish as his sight phased through all physical matter above, ascending towards the surface area.

It passed through a thousand feet of physical matter and arrived above the ground.

"Miss Aimee?" Gustav instantly spotted Miss Aimee and several other people in the vicinity.

"She's here... Damn it, I don't have much time," Gustav voiced out as he also spotted the cops and the other people in the vicinity dressed in a casual wear.

Gustav had no idea what was happening but for the fact that every single one of them was close to the hole entrance he used in getting here, he knew that couldn't be a coincidence.

Gustav quickly placed his hand on the wall and made some changes to the small space before he began making his way out of here.

Chapter 779 - Finding The Headless Corpse

He sped through the passageway he had created and turned right before arriving at the entrance area.

He quickly brought out some pieces of green-colored rocks from the bag with him as he came out of the passageway. Gustav quickly placed his hand on the side of the hole he created while activating Atomic Manipulation.

At this point, he could already sense some aircraft approaching this area from far above the surface after spreading his perception to the peak.

Gustav hurriedly covered up the entrance of this place using Atomic Manipulation and the green rocks he brought out.

The ground wall and the small green rocks merged as the entrance closed up but a few cracks could still be seen on them.

Gustav put the bag he brought with him in the storage device and began operating the dimensional bracelet on his wrist.

"Shit," He could sense Miss Aimee's presence just in front of the hole at this point just as he tapped on the coordinates.

<<Initiating Spatial Jump>>

Zing~

Fortunately, before any more movement was made, he was teleported out of there.

Appearing back in the underground tunnelway underneath the Burning Sands, Gustav sighed in relief.

Meanwhile, everything that had happened so far was after Gustav disappeared from the underground space.

--

"Goodness, there's a corpse in here," One of the MBO officers voiced out after they arrived in the hidden space that the tunnelway led to.

They could see a headless corpse hung up, impaled by multiple spikes protruding from the wall with dried blood stains all over.

"It looks like it's been here for weeks," Commander Linstrunt stated as he looked around the shabby space that had cracks all-over along with spikes shooting out of the wall.

"Let's get this back to the forensic team," The other officer with a red face voiced out.

"Since Gustav is not here I assume the intelligence you received was wrong," Miss Aimee voiced out from the side.

"It... It would seem so," Commander Linstrunt responded with a defeated expression.

Miss Aimee turned around to leave at this point.

"Waste of time... I hope for their sakes you find something useful out of this headless corpse," Miss Aimee voiced out with a threatening tone before leaving.

The two high-ranking officers stared at themselves with disturbing expressions before staring back at the corpse.

"Get tested instantly so we know who it is and how it is helpful to the investigation. We need to have answers for the young Miss," Commander Linstrunt voiced out as they took the headless corpse away.

Hours later Miss Aimee was back in the apartment with Vera and Rhilia.

"So according to them, this group from the MBO acted on their own to try and catch Gustav so they're terming them as rogue MBO officers?" Rhilia asked with a look of contemplation.

"Yes," Miss Aimee responded while crossing her leg on the sofa as she sat elegantly.

"It's obvious they only did that and rounded those involved up to pacify me and prevent me from turning the entire MBO upside down," Miss Aimee added.

"What? Do they take you for a fool?" Rhilia voiced out with a chuckle wondering how the MBO could think they had fooled Miss Aimee with this.

"It doesn't matter anyway, Vera is safe and they were unable to catch him," Miss Aimee muttered.

The whole abduction scenario was blamed on the city's senator, Harry.

He had planned for Vera to be abducted so he could use that opportunity to ask Miss Aimee to apologize to the city for bringing fear upon them on the day of her arrival.

The city was still in fear of what had happened on that day seeing as they had almost been crushed and no explanations whatsoever were given to them about what had happened.

Miss Aimee wouldn't bother herself doing such anyways and Senator Harry was mad at the fact that the MBO couldn't really keep Miss Aimee on a leash so he tried to take matters into his own hands.

After finding out she reacted that way because of her student who was the same person responsible for putting his city in a sorry state, he got even madder.

Thinking Vera was also one of her precious students, he felt she would do the job of getting Miss Aimee to apologize for her entry after he abducted her.

He contacted the people to get the job done after Miss Aimee left the city with the others. Unfortunately for him, the MBO intercepted his plans and decided to use this situation to their advantage.

They sent some agents who pretended to be the hired abductors and brought Vera to the said location before revealing to Senator Harry that they were MBO agents.

They made a deal with him that he would be allowed to do whatever he wanted to do initially without getting in trouble with them after they had finished extracting information from Vera.

Of course, they had to keep their identity hidden since Vera was also a part of the MBO and would most likely be able to fish them out afterward.

They had her abducted for two days, where they were trying to get more information out of her other than the fact that Gustav was currently in the city.

Despite Vera's abilities not being completely sealed, it was close to impossible to escape considering they were more powerful and she needed a catalyst of sorts because she would be able to do anything.

The resolve to escape became fiercer after finding out their plan to get Gustav which eventually led to everything that happened in the location where she was restrained.

Senator Harry would have taken all the blame for abduction if the undercover agents managed to extract information and left but they hadn't expected Miss Aimee to have another person on the lookout for Vera while she was away.

"Why does it sound like you managed to prevent them from getting him," Rhilia asked with a suspicious look.

"Hnm, because I did," Miss Aimee's response caused both Vera and Rhilia to stare at her with intrigued looks.

Chapter 780 - There's A Traitor In Our Midst

Vera had long sensed Gustav's presence disappeared from the city before Miss Aimee arrived back at the apartment.

Now with Miss Aimee's words, it seemed like she made contact with Gustav.

"He was in the hole. I stalled them long enough for him to finish up what he was doing and leave," Miss Aimee added.

Both of them had looks of astonishment after hearing that.

So it turned out Miss Aimee could sense Gustav's presence down there; she was only making a scene to prevent anyone from going down there before he was finished with whatever he was doing down there.

She knew what Gustav was up to was definitely related to the body that was found in the underground space which was why she had made a threat before leaving.

The threat she made would make them give her updates about whatever they found out after examining the corpse and she could keep an eye out to know what Gustav was truly up to.

"So you didn't meet him then?" Rhilia inquired.

"If I had, they also would. The best decision was making sure they had no suspicions whatsoever on Gustav's presence within the hole. After all none of them witnessed him go in, neither is there any proof that he did," Miss Aimee stated.

She knew Gustav could tell that she was there because she sensed a gaze on her from below.

She felt a little disappointed within that she didn't get to meet him since she wanted to give the stubborn idiot a piece of her mind but she was sure she'd be seeing him soon after today's incident died out and the results from the lab were released for the corpse.

"So, it turns out you weren't lying about being able to sense him, Vera," Miss Aimee said to Vera.

"I'm just glad he's okay. Maybe he'll come back to the city soon again," Vera voiced out with a smile.

"Oh, he will come back for sure. I'll smack that hard head of his..." Miss Aimee muttered.

"Something is disturbing about this whole thing," Rhilia voiced out.

Miss Aimee's eyes squinted as she felt Rhilia was about to mention something that was bothering her as well.

"How is it known to them that Vera can sense Gustav's presence. Looks like they already knew about it since their aim was to get her in particular," Rhilia stated.

"Yeah, I have the same worry," Miss Aimee responded with a look of suspiciousness.

"...And they also knew to check the crime scenes like they knew that was going to be Gustav's next move. This was something that was only discussed by our group since we know Gustav well enough to understand what he would try to do," Vera voiced out as well recalling everything the abductors had said to her.

"Hmm... This can only mean there's someone revealing information about Gustav within this circle," Miss Aimee voiced out while standing to her feet.

"Interesting... I wonder how he would feel after figuring out he was making the wrong choice in picking friends. His trust issues would definitely get worse,"

Miss Aimee didn't have to say his name before the two could understand that she was referring to Gustav.

Vera knew how bad Gustav was at trusting others, so she understood Miss Aimee's words even better. Now would they keep this secret from him after he was back or would they reveal it.

Vera couldn't place her thumb on which one was a better option since both would have some form of consequence.

"Keep our discussion here private and don't tell anyone about your abduction either," Miss Aimee said to Vera.

Vera nodded in response.

"I'll find out who it is soon enough," Miss Aimee said before moving out of the house.

Now that Miss Aimee had pointed it out, Vera couldn't help but wonder who it could be seeing as none of them here had given any impression of being against Gustav.

Elevora, Aildris, Ria, Teemee, and herself were the only people who Miss Aimee had mentioned she couldn't trust earlier due to never setting her eyes on them earlier.

This led Vera to believe that they were amongst the friends that had come to later know Gustav. She was out of the suspicion list for obvious reasons.

Only her was abducted and they really tried to extract information from her but were still unable to do so. She was more of a victim.

Even the others who Miss Aimee claimed not to trust on the day of arrival, didn't seem like they'd ever try such a thing.

It was crazy how she couldn't put her suspicion on anyone in particular since none of them seemed like it with the relationship they shared with Gustav but it remained a fact that one of them was a traitor.

This made Vera shiver a little, 'Having friends is truly scary,'

This made Vera feel the need to shut people out of her life even more.

"It's nice to see Lil sis show emotions other than disgust once in a while," Rhilia stated while relaxing on the sofa.

"She's showing emotions this way?" Vera asked with a little bit of confusion on her face.

"Oh, yes she is," Rhilia responded.

'Then how does she look when she isn't showing any emotions?' Vera wondered within herself.

"That Gustav kid must have really penetrated her cold heart... She's even tolerating my presence," Rhilia voiced out with a slight look of jealousy.

"You keep calling her Lil sis... Are you two truly sisters?" Vera questioned.

"We are from the same main family, so she is in fact my cousin and we are related by blood. I choose to call her Lil sis because I'm older," Rhilia replied.

"If so, why wouldn't she tolerate your presence then," Vera was a bit confused by the initial statement.

"Oh that... haha, she really hates our family and every single person related to her by blood... It's.... complicated," Rhilia had a slightly crestfallen look on her face as she voiced out.
