

Bloodline 791

Chapter 791 - Meeting Vera In The Middle Of The Night

Gustav had lied to them that he consumed a drug specially created to raise the potential of a Mixedblood for a brief period but it came with side effects which were what led to the destructions that happened within the city.

He told them, he lost control to rage and murdered every single person involved in Boss Danzo's death and destroyed the homes and business facilities owned by the three Ring Lords as well.

They now understood what happened but they had no idea that Gustav lied to them that it was borrowed power.

Decimation wasn't a skill he could activate on a whim anyway, so it was more like a borrowed power.

Mara hugged Gustav once more on the seat in a comforting manner. It turned out that she had arrived with the others almost two weeks back when they were sent here.

She came to recover Boss Danzo's body and give him a proper burial. Of course, they asked her several questions about Gustav and even said he might be responsible for Boss Danzo's death, but she told the authorities that Gustav would never harm Boss Danzo.

She could have taken his body back to Plankton City earlier, but she was waiting for Gustav to be found before she left. The instant she was informed of his return by Rhilia, she came over.

Everyone was aware that the next day was Gustav's hearing so they were prepared to visit the main courthouse in the city.

Gustav told Mara he would leave the city after his name had been cleared, so they could go back to Plankton City together to give Boss Danzo a proper farewell.

She agreed to wait till all this was done before leaving.

The apartment given to Miss Aimee here was large enough with over ten bedrooms so Gustav was forced to stay here and Mara was also given a room.

Originally, since Mara was in the science and technology division of the MBO camp, they would not be allowed to leave till after the second year, but this was an emergency since a close family member had passed away so she was given the opportunity.

Hours later it was night time and everyone had settled in. Gustav was in his room alone, drafting different kinds of plans and ideas in his head when he thought of something.

'Oh, this might be a much better way to control the situation... Why didn't I think of this earlier?' He sat up with a look of contemplation.

'This will work,' A devious smirk appeared on his face as he stood to his feet and approached his door.

Currently, it was late; around ten pm in the night so the apartment was silent with everyone staying in their rooms.

The gang was all here which meant the silence would have been weird but everyone was giving Gustav space at the moment, knowing he was dealing with grief.

They had already tried consoling him as much as they could earlier on, so right now they were just making sure he had enough time to himself.

Gustav came out of his room and walked across the passageway. His eyes darted from side to side as he moved forward till he got to the fourth door on the left.

Kom! Kom!

"Vera, are you awake?" He whispered after knocking twice gently.

Twiiii~

The door opened up in the next instant as Vera appeared on the other end, clad in white and flowery pattern pajamas.

"Gus...tav," She voiced out in surprise.

"Can I come in?" Gustav asked.

"Hnm," She nodded as blood rushed to her face and she moved aside.

Gustav moved into her room and sat on the left side of her bed. Vera sat a few inches away from him and stared at his face.

"Have you mastered how to inject a parasitic strain into someone through handshake?" Gustav asked.

"...I can't do it instantly but yes I can make it happen," She responded with a contemplative expression.

"How long do you have to remain in contact with the person," Gustav asked.

"For about twenty seconds... It's harder to inject when I can't use the same method I used for you," Vera stated.

Gustav understood to this point but twenty seconds of a handshake was a little too long.

"Hnm, we'll work with that then," Gustav voiced out in response.

"How long will it take to put a living person under your control now?" He asked.

"About two to three weeks now... The parasites have become stronger in taking over a host's body," Vera replied.

"Good... I want you to infect a person with your parasitic strain. I want this person to be totally submissive to my commands," Gustav said with a low but strong tone as a dangerous glint appeared in his eyes.

"Vera is at your command... Just tell me who you want this to be done to," Vera replied submissively.

Minutes later Gustav could be seen coming out of Vera's room.

The same moment he walked out the door a person could be seen coming out of their room a few feet up ahead.

Both of them turned and made eye contact.

"Gustav,"

"Angy,"

They voiced out at the same time and began walking towards each other.

Angy had a look of curiosity as she prepped her head to the side trying to see the room Gustav had just come out from.

"You seem busy," She said with a tone of suspiciousness.

"It's been a long day, just needed to finally complete one last task," Gustav said with a look of gratification.

Hearing Gustav's response she decided not to press any further.

"Why are you still up?" Gustav asked her.

"I was just going to get some water, I'm parched," She replied.

"Alright then, I guess I'll see you tomorrow," Gustav said and began to walk forward.

"You too, have a good night's rest," Angy said before moving along as well.

Gustav got back into his room a few seconds later and lay on his bed. Of course, he wasn't going to sleep yet as thoughts began to drift into his head once more.

Chapter 792 - Turning Into A Love Making Session

("Idiot you missed your chance,") The system suddenly voiced out in his head.

'Missed my chance how?' Gustav asked.

("I know you're mopping around right now feeling sorry for yourself, but Angy really wanted to use that opportunity to spend time with you...") The system responded with a disappointed tone.

'Oh? She did?' Gustav sounded like he had no idea.

("It's so sad that you can only read facial expressions and body language when it's related to crime, damned virgin,") The system insulted him without restraint.

'Hey hey, that doesn't mean...' Before Gustav could complete his sentence the system interrupted.

("Looks like you still have a chance, use it wisely,") It suddenly voiced out.

'Still have a chance to do what?'

Kom! Kom!

A knock was heard at the door the moment Gustav poised this question in his mind.

He hadn't been concentrating since he started talking with the system internally which was why he didn't sense the figure approaching his room door.

Even before he stood up to open the door, he already knew who was there. He walked over and proceeded to slide open his room door.

"Angy," He voiced out as he spotted her standing in front with a tray in her grasp and a glass of juice with some biscuits on them.

"I figured you were probably not going to sleep yet so I brought some snacks," A beautiful smile appeared on her face as she voiced out.

"Thank you," Gustav voiced as he moved to the side for her to come in.

Angy walked in and placed the tray on a small table positioned beside the bed. She sat by the bedside and tapped on the space beside her twice gesturing at Gustav to sit beside her

Gustav moved towards the bed after closing the door up and sat beside Angy.

Angy proceeded to pick one of the snacks up and tried to feed Gustav.

"I can feed myself," Gustav chuckled lightly as he held her wrist.

"Let me," She said with a smile while staring at Gustav in the eyes.

Gustav subconsciously let go of her wrist and slightly opened his mouth. Angy began feeding the snack to Gustav and passed him the glass of juice after some time.

Her smile radiated so much cuteness and gentleness, charming him as she continued to feed him.

After some time he told her he was satisfied and she put the snacks aside before pulling his head to lay on her lap.

"Angy..." Gustav was a bit surprised as he didn't expect her to suddenly pull him to lay his head on her lap.

"Are you okay?" She asked while gently rubbing Gustav's hair backward.

"I'm fine, you don't have to treat me like this because of what happened," Gustav responded.

"Hnm, I'm glad you say you're fine but still, let me," Angy said while still maintaining the smile on her face with her hand on Gustav's head.

Gustav wanted to say something again but his jaw just hung loose for some time before he decided to swallow the words down.

As his head rested on Angy's soft laps, her scent drifted into his nostrils making him feel an inexplicable emotion.

Currently, Angy was clad in a blue tank top and black shorts, leaving a lot of her glistening smooth skin exposed which made her look mesmerizing.

"There's some here," She voiced out while using her fingers to clean the side of Gustav's lips.

She brought her fingers to her lips and licked the crumbs of biscuits she cleared off the side of Gustav's lips.

"You... What did you just do..?" Gustav voiced out as his face turned a shade of red.

"Hehe, it tasted good," Angy said playfully.

Gustav wanted to speak again but she placed her hands on his lips once more, "Let me clean the rest off,"

Gustav grabbed her wrist at this point and sat up, " I can do it myself,"

He voiced out and tried to clean the sides of his lips but noticed that there was nothing there anymore.

"You little..."

"Hehe,"

Angy chuckled lightly as Gustav realized she was just teasing him the second time around.

He pushed her down onto the bed and held both her hands by the sides, locking her in place.

Angy was still laughing at this point but then they suddenly made eye contact and then the atmosphere became a bit serious as Gustav's face descended closer to hers.

Sparks of desire were ignited as Angy stared dreamily into his eyes while his face stopped a few centimeters from hers.

Seeing as Gustav wasn't moving any further she raised her face a little and that was it...

Their lips met...

They slowly sucked on each other lips as kissing sounds echoed across the room.

Enjoying the taste of each other lips for several seconds, Gustav didn't know when he found his body completely above Angy's.

Their bodies merged as Gustav grabbed onto her waist while she wrapped her legs around his waist.

Their kisses turned even more passionate as seconds went by without them separating from each other.

"Gus...tav," Angy moaned with a tone of breathlessness as Gustav separated his lips from hers and began leaving a trail of kisses down her neck.

She tightened her eyes and her face radiated with an expression of ecstasy as she felt Gustav's lips on her neck.

She opened her eyes after some time and began pulling Gustav's top off. Gustav let her and proceeded to grab onto the hem of her tank top before pulling it off as well.

What appeared in his line of sight was a black laced bra with smooth perky looking cleavages.

Angy wasted no time in pulling her bra off as well, revealing a smooth pair of tits. Gustav stared at them with a look of fascination for a while as this was his first time seeing fully revealed tits in close proximity.

They were fairly large, bigger than his palm at the very least, and quite perky as well.

With an expression of immense desire, Gustav pushed her to the bed once more and began smooching her lips intensely.

She could feel Gustav's throbbing erection pressing against her belly through his shorts as he lay atop her while they kissed.

Gustav moved down and grabbed her titties before sucking on her left nipple passionately, causing Angy loud moans to fill the room.

"...Uhhh Gus...tav...Hmm..." Her melodic moans echoed across the room while she held onto Gustav's head as he switched from one tit to the other firmly grabbing onto them with his palms.

Chapter 793 - I Want My First Time To Be You

"...Uhhh Gus...tav...Hmm..." Her sensual moans echoed across the room while she held onto Gustav's head as he switched from one tit to the other firmly grabbing onto them with his palms.

In a few more moments, they were both stark naked with Gustav above Angy's body.

"Are you sure you want us to do this?"

Gustav asked her as she panted heavily while staring at his thick rod, which was currently pointing at her nether regions.

"Hnm... I want my first time to be you, Gustav," She voiced out with a low tone.

Gustav's eyes widened slightly as he heard that, 'First time?' He thought internally as his heart began beating even more rapidly than before.

Angy reached out and grabbed hold of his erect and thick-looking rod before guiding it towards her entrance.

"Ugh," Gustav grunted as he felt his rod rubbing against Angy's entrance which was dripping with wetness at this point.

It felt so stimulating which had him wondering if this was how it was supposed to feel.

"Hmmm..." Angy's moan sounded like a mixture of both pleasure and pain as Gustav pushed his hips forward a little.

Half a centimeter of the tip of his rod penetrated her entrance but Gustav paused to make sure he wasn't hurting her.

Angy was still breathing in and out heavily at this point, while her face was turned towards the left as her eyes remained closed.

Gustav pushed his hips forward even more causing his rod to slowly slide in causing Angy to hiss in pain as she felt her tight cave stretching to accommodate Gustav's length.

Gustav could see the pain on her face and wanted to stop but she wrapped her legs around his waist tightly and pulled him forward to kiss him.

Flesh merging sounds rang out as Gustav's full length slid into Angy completely, causing her to moan in his mouth.

Sweat dribbled down Gustav's forehead as he tried to control the amount of stimulation he felt in that particular part of his body being wrapped by Angy's wet and tight cave walls.

It was so pleasurable, he could feel his brain going numb as his rod throbbed repeatedly within her.

'So this is how it feels... It's amazing,'

Gustav began to thrust back and forth as he had seen in some videos. He also recalled the times he had witnessed some of these acts in reality with God Eyes.

"Ugh... Mhnm... Gus...tav..." Angy began to feel the pain subside as Gustav began thrusting back and forth repeatedly.

Pleasure began to hit her like waves as she moaned even more loudly, pulling Gustav into her embrace.

Pah! Pah! Pah! Pah!

Slow flesh slapping sounds reverberated across the place along with Angy's moans of ecstasy and Gustav's low grunts.

Gustav could feel something trying to spill out and he knew he wouldn't be able to hold it in for too long, but he was enjoying this too much to stop now.

"...Hmm... I... love you, Gus...tav... Uhh... Hmmm..." Angy moaned in his left ear as he kept moving his waist.

Hearing this, Gustav couldn't hold on any longer and ejaculated inside of Angy.

Angy could feel the warm liquid filling her up within and held Gustav's waist even tighter with her legs.

They both panted heavily with their bodies still merged together even after Gustav had released semen into her.

"...I love you too... Angy," Gustav whispered in her ear causing Angy's body to quiver as her eyes widened slightly.

Gustav felt warm water on his shoulder area and pushed himself up to stare at Angy's face.

"...Why are you crying?" He asked.

"...They are tears of joy..." A radiant smile appeared on Angy's face as she responded while tears slid down her cheeks.

"I've been waiting for so long to hear those words," She added.

"We'll... don't expect to hear them often," Gustav's face had turned a little red again after hearing that.

Angy pulled him down and they began kissing again. Angy whispered something in Gustav's ears after their lips separated and he proceeded to lift her up.

He carried Angy in his arms with her legs around his waist while they moved towards the bathroom.

A small bloodstain could be seen on the mattress where both of them had just moved from.

That night, Gustav and Angy engaged in three more rounds of passionate love-making sessions and ended up sleeping around three in the morning.

It was both their first time having sex but they were mixedbloods so their energy could not be compared to Slarkovs. This was also the reason why Angy felt pain for a very brief period.

Gustav felt he could keep going even after ejaculating a couple of times but he didn't want to tire Angy out and her moans were so loud, he was sure the entire household must have heard them.

They slept happily in each other's arms till daybreak.

Tum! Tum! Tum!

The sounds of two footsteps climbing down the stairs reverberated across the living room and everyone turned towards the staircase area to stare at the two who were just coming down.

They were all seated on the sofas in the living room engaging in chats initially and having breakfast but the moment they heard the sound of the footsteps they paused what they were doing.

Gustav and Angy arrived downstairs and saw the strange glares everyone was giving them.

"...Good morning everyone..." Angy voiced out with a wry smile as she felt shy from all the knowing glances being sent their way.

"What?" Gustav voiced out with a slightly hostile tone as he glared back at everyone.

"Oh nothing Gustav, just that the walls have ears," E.E voiced out with a mischievous grin on his face.

"Good morning Angy, good morning Gustav," Aildris proceeded to greet them with a smile.

"Good morning Angy... I'm sure you had a wonderful night," Matilda voiced out with a smile as well as a tone that depicted hidden meanings.

"Oh the night must have been wonderful for sure," E.E voiced out once more.

Pah!

Aldris slapped the back of his head while giving him a stare that said, 'Keep your mouth shut,'

Chapter 794 - The Hearing

"Hey come on," E.E yelled out with a tone of injustice.

'They know!' Angy screamed internally as she saw the looks on everyone's faces.

The others like Elevora and Vera chose to pretend like they knew nothing about what was going on, but E.E, Falco, and Matilda were giving subtle hints that they were aware of everything that had transpired during the night.

E.E hints weren't so subtle compared to the others. Angy's face was already a shade of red at this point as she felt embarrassed while walking towards one of the sofas to sit.

'Everybody knows we had sex,' She was screaming in her head as the stares felt like they were poking through her.

"Angy,"

"Kiiaarrhhh," She screamed out with a spooked tone Matilda tapped on her shoulder from the side...

Thumbs up!

Matilda raised her right thumb with a smile on her face. Angy felt like the ground should open and swallow her up right now.

"Hmph," Gustav made a low hmph as he walked towards the kitchen area.

"There's food over there," Mara said while pointing at the dining area.

"You call this food? How do y'all manage to put this in your mouth?" Gustav said with a tone of ridicule.

"Boss Danzo wouldn't approve," He said with a low tone and then a smile before going through the kitchen door.

Mara smiled after hearing that, 'Looks like he's slowly beginning to let go of the guilt he feels,' She was glad about this because she saw Gustav as a big brother that she never had and would never want him to feel guilty about something he didn't have control over.

Sure they were both sad over the loss but she knew even her grandfather would not be able to rest in peace if Gustav went on every day blaming himself for what happened.

"All of a sudden I feel like I shouldn't have eaten," Falco voiced out.

"Me too,"

"Me too,"

Teemee and E.E voiced out as well.

"My rival is about to cook some good meal. I think I'll wait for that," Ria stated with a delighted tone.

"None of you are getting any!"

Gustav's loud voice drifted out from the kitchen.

They all had wry looks on their faces after hearing this. Everyone knew how good Gustav's cooking was. Even though the meal they were being served was good, they knew it was nothing compared to Gustav's meals.

This made them wonder just how good Boss Danzo's meals were. They knew about the story of him being responsible for teaching Gustav all he knew about cooking.

Hours later Miss Aimee who was dealing with making some reports to the MBO at the earlier hours of the day, returned back to the apartment.

At this point, everyone was prepared to leave for the hearing. Gustav had called Sir ZiL who was initially worried when Gustav didn't return yesterday.

Everything was ready on his ends as well and he mentioned, he'd be bringing Charisas over to the courthouse with him in a few while Marshall would be attending the hearing with his parents.

Initially, Marshall's parents didn't want to have anything to do with this, but Gustav threatened them that he would reveal their shady business deals with the Ring Lords to the public if they prevented Marshall from attending.

Gustav needed as many eyewitness testimonies as he could get and it was already proven that Marshall and Charisas were present at the first scene of destruction so they would be a big help in today's hearing.

"Are you ready to go clear your name?" Miss Aimee asked.

"I am," Gustav answered with a decisive look.

It was finally time to bring this whole thing to an end.

Even though his desired result of wanting to come here and save Boss Danzo wasn't actualized, he was glad he put a lot of rotten people in the dirt. There would not be underlying crimes or secret illegal acts being committed around these parts for a long time.

Gustav had already struck fear in everyone's hearts about the possibility of them being uncovered so those with power trod softly.

Gustav and the others headed to the courthouse together in an MBO aircraft which arrived at the desired location in less than one minute.

According to Miss Aimee, for the cadets to have completed their first mission, Gustav had to arrive at the courthouse with them.

This would prove that they actually managed to get Gustav in the end, completing their five-star mission.

It was quite crazy that they were also sent on a five-star mission on their first mission just like Gustav and they would be completing it as well.

The only difference was their mission was literally Gustav.

The press and media people with flying cameras could be seen stationed around the massive white courthouse the instant they landed.

The courthouse had a pentagon shape from above with the statue of a sword attached to the top.

Lots of people had come to witness this. Gustav was the only one dressed in a casual outfit, while the rest of his friends, E.E and the likes were clad in their cadet uniform.

They looked like they were Gustav's escorts as they surrounded him while heading into the courthouse.

"Gustav Gustav, what do you have to say about the hearing?"

"Do you think you will be proven innocent today,"

"What would happen to you if the court decides to proclaim you guilty,"

"Did you truly murder all those people?"

"Why did you place their heads in different parts of the city? Was that supposed to be a warning?"

"Why didn't you turn yourself in earlier?"

The press asked all sorts of questions trying to get past the ten surrounding Gustav but they acted like they were Gustav's bodyguards and truly made sure to keep the press and other people gathered in the vicinity from touching him.

Gustav maintained his nonchalant looks as he walked in their midst towards the courthouse entrance.

Miss Aimee followed from behind, using the pressure spreading from her to make them shrink back in fear.

Chapter 795 - Revealing More Corruption

Many of the city's citizens had come today to witness the hearing as well. Almost all of them were in support of Gustav. The courthouse was full in no time and many people had to wait outside. Some had placards in their grasp which said, "Gustav is a hero!"

Multiple screens all across the city displayed the happenings within the courthouse and those who had gathered outside were able to watch how it was going.

Three people dressed in white robes customized with the modern-day emblem that defined law and justice could be seen seated on an exalted platform up ahead. They had condescending looks on their faces which depicted they were the judges for today's hearing.

They sized Gustav up as he came in and moved towards a particular small light structured cubicle.

The aura of superiority and gaze of pride that could be seen on their faces lowered the moment they spotted Miss Aimee's entry.

Her majestic aura instantly filled the entire courthouse and even though the three judges sat on an exalted platform, they didn't feel anyway superior to her. How could they? Higher-ups in various positions of power knew very well who Miss Aimee was.

The normal citizens all across the earth were only familiar with Jack being the strongest Mixedblood in the world and even though they had heard about Miss Aimee since she didn't like to be in the public eye, a lot of people wouldn't be able to recognize her if they came across her.

"Let the hearing for Mr. Gustav Crimson begin!" One of them voiced out after everyone within the courthouse had settled down.

A man clad in a business suit moved towards the middle and began to direct the flow of the hearing, first mentioning the whole crime situation and what role Gustav played in it.

While the hearing was ongoing, Gustav's eyes darted around the place and he spotted Sir ZiL sitting somewhere with Damien, Ciri, and Charisas.

He then looked around more and spotted the Rel main family with their son, Marshall seated at a particular corner as well. Gustav was glad internally that they were here as planned.

All the questions poised at him one after the other was answered intelligently. Gustav made use of the story he had formulated about his initial reason for coming here and the key parts of the story had Boss Danzo's name inputted.

The underground battle facility was mentioned as well as how Gustav Infiltrated the place to save Boss Danzo and gather more information about all the hidden illegal activities that had been committed by the Ring Lords.

He mentioned that Boss Danzo was being forced to fight against his will and he didn't have any means of getting out of their hands.

Occasionally, Gustav would chip in narrations on how the authorities of this city had failed in executing their basic task, which involves keeping people safe. The cops in the vicinity had wry looks on their faces anytime he mentioned this.

Concurrently, Charisas was called out to give her first testimony in which she mentioned her abduction wasn't at the hands of anyone, but the Ring Lords who wanted her to fight in the underground battle arena.

The entire crowd erupted in gasps as they heard this story. Charisas had emitted the part about the Rel family being involved as Gustav had managed to settle with them and made sure they would never bother her again.

Now all the blame was falling on the Ring Lords just as Gustav planned.

He felt even though they were already dead they would still take the fall for everything he did since they were to blame in the first place.

The lawyers through cross-examinations, asked a variety of questions, including why he didn't try to tell anyone else about what he knew, why he didn't report to the authorities, and ask for backup from his fellow MBO officers in Burning Sands City.

Gustav went on to mention how even the so-called authorities were corrupt and passed on a set of data to the judges, which included all the authorities the Ring Lords have been in cahoots with.

No one knew where Gustav had gotten this new set of data from, but it accurately listed out these people in positions of authority who had dealings with the Ring Lords and let them bend the law anyhow they willed.

As these set of people were revealed for the world to see, some of them included were councilmen of the city, cops in positions of power, and even those who were a little down in the chain of authority, including some lawyers.

No MBO officer was included on this list because the MBO didn't have a lot of power in this city before the incident with Gustav and the Ring Lords happened.

The police force was seen as a higher authoritative organization than the MBO, so it seemed like the Ring Lords did not try to buy anyone from there.

As these people were being revealed, MBO agents swooped out at once and began to gather them before they could try to escape the city.

Some of these people were Humans and Slarkovs, but that didn't stop the MBO from going after them since this was a Mixedblood related incident, causing the destruction of a quarter of the city. Everything was connected, so they were going to be involved in this case all the way.

The officers who had been in charge of torturing Boss Danzo for information on Gustav's whereabouts were revealed as well and caught.

They didn't want to confess to following Ring Lord Vanisher's command in torturing Boss Danzo and then inputting a tracker within a part of his body. However, to their dismay, a footage, showing that particular scene was found.

An hour into the hearing session, this footage was delivered to the courthouse and played for everyone to watch.

It turned out Gustav had no idea that this happened. He had only gotten information on every authoritative figure the Ring Lords worked with, so he didn't know that such atrocities were committed when Boss Danzo was arrested.

Chapter 796 - Hearing Comes To An End

Gustav's eyes radiated with bloodlust as he watched the three beating Boss Danzo up occasionally and tearing his flesh in different parts.

Then a part where Boss Danzo responded sassily when they asked who he was made him nearly tear up as he chuckled.

"It was just a good Samaritan, I don't know who he is," Boss Danzo responded.

"Cut the crap. A good Samaritan my arse. Reveal who he is now before you lose more blood," The slanted eyes man with the ponytail voiced out with a threatening glare.

"He must be Santa, he came bearing Christmas gifts early," Boss Danzo chuckled in response.

The whole city watched the part where Boss Danzo was later tortured till he passed out but still didn't reveal Gustav.

It turned out that the tracker they placed in Boss Danzo's body mimicked his internal organs so even when Gustav scanned Boss Danzo for injuries after he was released, he didn't find anything out of the ordinary.

He was even glad that Boss Danzo was unharmed not knowing that he had been given high-grade recovery pills to make sure no traces of injuries remained on his body. Boss Danzo also acted like nothing happened and didn't tell Gustav a thing because he knew Gustav would seek blood if what had happened was revealed to him.

'This is death deserving...' Gustav said internally as he noted the looks of the three who had done the deed.

The hearing continued afterward and other footage was displayed.

Gustav revealed that when they found out he knew about their plans and how he was trying to stop them, they sent mercenaries after him and Boss Danzo after he was granted bail.

He narrated from his point of view how he tried to stop the mercenaries from destroying not just him but also evidence of themselves ever being there, which included killing everyone within a two hundred story tall building.

As acclaimed that they were stronger than he was, he failed to protect a lot of people.

This was where the witnesses who had been in the building at the time, came out to give their testimonies.

Around thirty of them had survived and over twenty of them were present in the courthouse today.

There was no doubt that all these people were present at the first scene of destruction on that day as news outlets had covered them and displayed every one of them in that location on the news.

All of them kept mentioning how Gustav was the hero who had saved them on that day.

Marshall and Charisas came out to give a testimony of how Gustav had protected them as well since they were on scene at the time.

The short footage gotten from Boss Danzo's brain was the only one that could be found of when the incident was going down.

Everyone was able to watch how much destruction was being wreaked upon the place by the three mercenaries who had attacked and how much Gustav tried his best to hold them off and was failing.

It got to the point where he was flung forward and managed to hit Gustav out of the way before the golden beam of light penetrated him.

Charisas and Marshall had explained that they had in it since this was requested by Boss Danzo himself. It was also well-proven through the footage that this was so and Boss Danzo had managed to save Gustav by giving his own life.

Everyone saw Boss Danzo as a hero at this point and every bad thought they had of him in the past vanished.

Gustav narrated the rest of the story on how he had taken care of the culprits by using an enhancement drug that caused side effects on his bloodline, causing him to fall asleep for a long time which was why he didn't turn himself in all this time.

He also admitted to causing the destruction in all the locations where the supposed viruses had been distributed to keep the rest of the city and the world as a whole safe.

There were different footage of him being in the reddish-black form that flew above the city so it was now it was confirmed, that it was Gustav using an enhancement drug to boost his power.

The witnesses in the first scene of destruction who got saved mentioned that if Gustav had been trying to cause a senseless massacre he would have killed them afterward instead of killing the three mercenaries and leaving the location to destroy the locations where the virus was being distributed.

After everyone that had one thing or the other to say had said their piece and Gustav had answered every question that needed to be answered, it was now time for the judges to pass down their verdict.

"Gustav Crimson has committed manslaughter and destruction of both public and private properties worth hundreds of millions..." The judge in the middle paused as he got to this part.

He could sense someone giving him a death glare from the corner of his eye but he tried to remain calm as he continued.

"...On the premise of preserving the lives of many others within this city and the world as well..." He paused once more upon getting to this point.

"...Originally, such an offense would result in getting sentenced to a maximum Mixedblood prison but as we have seen today, Mr. Gustav Crimson had displayed a heroic deed by causing a little destruction to preserve what would have caused an outbreak that could potentially wipe out a million more people than the ones deceased..." The middle judge once more made a brief pause.

At this point, tension was being spread across the city and everyone watching was intrigued, waiting for the sentence to be passed.

"...And so, this court drops all charges placed on Mr. Gustav Crimson and declares him innocent... He is granted the title, 'Hero of Burning Sands City',"

Cheers! Cheers! Cheers!

All across the city cheers could be heard as the people clapped their hands in joy after hearing the verdict. The courthouse too was loud at this moment as the people in support of Gustav cheered and began to chant his name.

Chapter 797 - You Harmed My Father!

All across the city cheers could be heard as people clapped their hands in joy after hearing the verdict. The courthouse too was loud at this moment as the people in support of Gustav cheered and began to chant his name.

There were still a few unsatisfied people after hearing the verdict but a majority of the people in the city and those watching the broadcast across the world were glad Gustav was now free.

After all, if such an outbreak occurred, who knows what would have happened to the world.

All this was made up by Gustav after all but no one, except for Miss Aimee, Sir ZiL, Charisas, Marshall, and the rest of his friends knew about the real story.

Gustav had made himself come out a hero, overturning the entire situation for the better.

He walked out of the light confines afterward and gave the judges eye contact before a smirk appeared on his face and he turned around.

The cheers in the vicinity were still loud as Gustav walked through the aisle towards the exit while E.E, Angy, and the others also stood to their feet and surrounded him like bodyguards once more.

The same situation that had played out upon their entry into the court happened once more.

The press was trying to get statements from him, but Gustav chose to remain silent as he moved towards the aircraft parked up ahead. He had already said everything he wanted to say about the case within the court and wanted to put this whole case behind him as soon as possible.

Miss Aimee appeared outside a few moments later and met Gustav standing outside the aircraft with the others.

"I'm guessing my title as an MBO officer has been reinstated," Gustav said to Miss Aimee.

"The case is concluded now so yes," Miss Aimee responded.

"Good, I need to take this aircraft to an MBO hold," Gustav voiced out while putting his arms in his pocket.

"Take it," Miss Aimee said with an unbothered expression.

Gustav nodded and jumped into the craft. Angy, E.E, Aildris had confused expressions on their faces like they could tell something was off.

Angy was about to step onto the stairway of the aircraft when Gustav pressed a button by the side, causing the door to begin closing up.

"I need to take care of something real quick guys. I'll meet you back at the apartment," He voiced out as the door closed up completely, leaving all of them on the outside.

"I wonder where he's going," Matilda stated with a suspicious look.

"Like he said, he needs to take care of something," Miss Aimee said before walking away from the scene.

Zzhhhrrrrrhhh~

The aircraft engine lit up and in the next few moments, it lifted up into the sky and disappeared into the distance.

"When did Gustav learn how to pilot an aircraft? What did we miss?" E.E voiced out.

"It's probably on autopilot. If the distance from here to his desired location is not too much, autopilot can handle the flight," Aildris explained.

"Oh I guess that makes sense," E.E responded with a wry chuckle.

"What is he up to now?" Angy said while pouting lightly in dissatisfaction.

"Definitely nothing nice, knowing Gustav," Aildris responded as he stared in the direction the aircraft disappeared in.

Minutes later within a dark cell, Gustav squatted in front of a man with a long brown ponytail and slanted eyes who was currently backed against the wall with a look of fright.

This man was detective Borsh who was the leader of the three who had brutally tortured Boss Danzo during his time in the precinct.

"Ple-ase spare me... I was un-der strict com-mands," He stuttered slightly as he spat out.

"If I had a nickel for every time a villain told me these same words 'Spare me' I'd have made millions by now," Gustav voiced out as he stretched out his hand to cover the face of the detective.

The detective's eyes widened with immense fear as he felt the tight grip on his face and tried to free himself but to no avail.

"I am not a hero... Pretty far from that if I do say so myself. I only do things for my own benefits, but it never includes harming innocents for the sport of it... Y'all are not just villains, you are scums," Gustav voiced out.

"Scums that don't deserve to be in existence... Haha, I'm a scum too but..." Gustav's face suddenly turned extremely serious and cold at this instant.

"You harmed my father!"

Boooom!

His right palm suddenly lit up with blue flames after voicing this out.

"Kiiiarrrrrrhhhhhhh!"

A loud scream was heard from the cell as Detective Borsh's head was set ablaze. Gustav let go of him at this point and Borsh stood to his feet and began running about the small space in pain.

"Kiiiarrrrrrhhhhhhh! Arrrrrghhhhhh! It huuurrtss! Pleasss!!! Put it out!!!! Kiarrrrhhh! My eyeesss!! My earsss! Please!!" He screamed out in agony as his head remained ablaze even after dashing across the place repeatedly.

Bang!

He slammed into the cell gates by mistake since he was unable to see anything and fell on his back, writhing on the floor, rolling from side to side as the skin on his face burnt off completely along with his long hair.

Gustav watched this scene without a shred of pity in his eyes as Borsh voice kept turning hoarse as he pleaded.

"There's still two of your subordinates left..." Gustav voiced out as he walked towards the cell gate.

"Maybe in your next life you'll choose the better option of not harming innocents," Gustav said as he walked out of the cell still ignoring the screams.

Hours later Gustav was back in the apartment with Angy and the others.

"I literally can't go anywhere without people trying to take pictures. I need to leave this city soon," Gustav voiced out with a tired expression.

"You're a celebrity hero now. Learn how to live with the game," E.E stated.

"This reminds me of the entrance exams last year... Is this going to be a yearly thing?" Gustav wondered out loud.

Chapter 798 - The Situation Of The Infected

His popularity peaked across the world around a year ago too. He had to face issues like this but when he got out of camp for his mission, he wasn't as recognized as back then.

The whole popularity saga was coming to an end and he was returning to being unnoticed by the world, but this happened again, a year later and now, it would definitely take time for the world to start forgetting about him once more.

On the bright side, he would be returning to camp soon enough, so all this would die down while he was in camp. He just hoped that a year later he wouldn't be put in the spotlight by another event.

Little did he know...

"Where did you go earlier?" Angy asked.

"Just had to deal with one or two things, nothing major," Gustav responded while recalling the image of burning skulls in his mind.

A look of gratification appeared on his face, 'I guess it pays to have the most powerful female mixedblood as your teacher,' He thought internally.

"Where did Miss Aimee go?" Gustav asked after noticing that she hadn't been in sight since he arrived back.

"She told us to inform you that she had reports to take care of," Aildris responded.

This made Gustav recall that Miss Aimee was indeed on a particular mission before she came here. The whole Jabal situation from his first MBO mission.

He figured she probably hadn't finished handling it before she came over to find him after discovering what happened. A warm fuzzy feeling arose in him as he smiled.

What Gustav didn't know was Miss Aimee had already finished dealing with the situation and even managed to save an entire city, larger than twice the size of Burning Sands.

Unlike his current turn of events which was a sham, Miss Aimee actually saved a whole city from an outbreak that could potentially harm the world.

Even as she had done this, only the MBO and a few world powers were aware of this feat that had been added to her collection of feats. Miss Aimee was able to hide from the spotlight.

She successfully completed a ten-star mission, which could have graduated to a higher star if Miss Aimee hadn't dealt with it instantly. Regardless of her efforts, she wasn't getting praised by the world because she instantly disappeared from the scene the moment she completed the mission.

This was Miss Aimee's way of doing things and Gustav would have to learn how to be similar in the future if he wanted to stay out of the spotlight.

Within an underwater facility, over ten thousand feet underneath the ocean a masked man in a red jacket could be seen standing in front of a glass wall where a few people with weird-looking skin colors were kept.

"Some citizens were affected by it," Red Shadow voiced out through a communication device with a sigh.

-"Hmm, have they all been rounded up?" A solemn feminine voice could be heard from the other end of the communication.

"So far we've rounded up the ones that showed symptoms and the tech guys here are creating something we could use to easily figure out the affected ones so we can round them up before it escalates," Red Shadow said while staring at the ash-colored little girl on the other end of the glass.

The girl had ashy skin like the others and small fingers were growing out of different parts of her body. She looked scared as she stared at Red Shadow before looking around her as well.

Every other person isolated behind the glass walls had different symptoms but all had ashy colored skin.

It was unknown if Red Shadow had a look of pity underneath his mask or not, but it was obvious he that this situation generated an unsettling feeling for him.

-"So, it wasn't noticed until now?" Miss Aimee voiced out from the other side.

"Yes, it would seem it takes about two weeks for symptoms to manifest, for some it might take longer since it attacks D.N.A," Red Shadow responded.

- "Has it been determined transmutable through touch or any other means?" She questioned once again.

"It is... Transmutable," Red Shadow confirmed Miss Aimee's worries.

- "Then we have to get to work on finding the affected ones, immediately," Miss Aimee voiced out but before she could end the communication Red Shadow spoke.

"Miss, I'd advise you to come for a check-up too since you were the closest to the fog storm," He proposed.

- "I'm fine," Miss Aimee answered with an uninterested tone.

"Miss, with what I've seen here this thing is not an ordinary infection... Even with your strength and wading it back, it still managed to infect some people after we all thought it had been completely dealt it... At least that was how it looked like after you were done..." Red Shadow paused at this point before continuing.

"Go for a check-up to make sure you're okay first," Red Shadow insisted.

"...Fine," Miss Aimee responded before ending the call.

Red Shadow observed the people on the other end of the glass before walking away.

In a flash, a few days had gone by and it was now time for Gustav to say goodbye to Burning Sands city.

He hoped he'd never have to return here again even though it held a lot of memories for him, especially with this being the last place he was able to see and talk to Boss Danzo before his death.

He was heading to Plankton City with Mara to give Boss Danzo a proper burial rite before heading back to MBO camp. He would only be in Plankton City for a day or two.

The gang had to spilt up here once more even though they were just seeing Gustav again after six months.

They felt like they hadn't really played a hand in helping Gustav even though they were deployed here for their first mission but Gustav was glad to have them here.

Everyone besides Gustav was being sent to one of the MBO bases for new missions, while Miss Aimee had said she was leaving once more to handle a situation.

With this Gustav parted ways with everyone, hoping they'd get to see each other again in six months or less.

Chapter 799 - All Levels Scaled

-Five Months Later

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Mountains on the sides of a canyon exploded into smithereens as a figure sped across the surface of the stream in the middle of this insanely long canyon.

The mountains crumbled down, falling towards the silhouette dashing across the water.

Fwwiii~ Fwhiii~

The figure leaped multiple times and flipped across the air dodging some of the mountain pieces which had been turned into projectiles.

Trrrroooiinn~ Trrroooiinn~

Two flying mechanical humanoid bots appeared on both sides of mountains along the canyon.

Circular head-sized flying machines appeared on both sides as well and began shooting out blue pencil-sized beams towards the figure running across the stream.

The figure performed lots of moves dodging the multiple beams being shot across the place skillfully while still charging across the surface of the stream.

At this point, the figure was closing in on the end of the canyon even though the entire vicinity was clouded by beams flying around with immense speed.

The two massive mechs flying shot out two circular beams towards the front which slammed into each other connected together and started increasing in size.

Trrrrhiiiiihh~ Trrhha~ Krrrrhh~

It crackled with electricity immensely as it expanded, making contact with the water as a dangerous electromagnetic field was created.

Fwwhiiii~

The figure kept charging towards the field of electricity like they couldn't see it.

Suddenly...

Booom!

A jet of water was blasted across the air from behind as the figure suddenly accelerated with a speed that caused them to become almost invisible.

Thwwiiiiiihthhhh~

The figure appeared over a thousand feet away in an instant, arriving at the end of the canyon.

Zzzhrrriiii~

The whole vicinity suddenly began to glitch and dematerialize after he arrived at the end of the cannon. The mountains began to disappear along with the streams and the sky with the sun.

The environment shrank down and in a few more seconds, the place had transformed into a dark space lit up with several floating gems.

«LEVEL 47 CLEARED»

An automated AI voice rang out across the vicinity as the ground below the figure began to move.

It moved him, forward allowing him to arrive at the entrance of this dark space.

Up ahead a glass wall could be seen and three people in MBO outfits were standing on the other side.

"Good job clearing level 47, only about thirteen more levels left for you to complete this course," The one with a black buzz cut in the midst of the three voiced out.

"Cadet Vul Brown, we'll be recommending you for a four-star mission soon which will help your ranking if you manage to perform well enough," The lady on the left with teal green tied hair voiced out.

"Thank you," The figure which happened to be a 5'11 male voiced out in appreciation.

"Make sure to put in your best efforts," The second male with a face full of purple tentacles voiced out.

"I will," He said with a light smile while bowing slightly before walking towards the exit.

The three stood in place, waiting for him to leave completely.

"Next candidate is Gustav Crimson," The one in the middle voiced out as he stared at the holographic projection in front of them that showed them a list.

"The Gustav Crimson? Hero kid?" The female officer by the left voiced out with a slightly astonished look.

"Hmm, he is the one," The male officer with the buzz cut voiced out once more.

"Interesting, it would be nice to see his progress, he should be graduating in the next six months, yeah?" The tentacled face officer said with an intrigued expression.

"Hmm he should, but that would only be determined by how he performs in his upcoming missions which would most likely be issued in the coming months," The male officer with a buzz cut answered.

"He should be classified a year three now since he has spent one and a half year being a cadet," The male officer with a buzz cut added.

"Then where is he? Why hasn't he come in yet?" The female officer voiced out with a look of confusion.

"That is odd, he should be in by now," The tentacled face man voiced out.

Trriinn~

The holographic screen in front of them suddenly moved the highlight to the next name on the list.

"Why was his name skipped? Did he decide to miss this evaluation when knowing we inspectors will be here today?" The female officer voiced out with a tone of annoyance as she stared at the screen.

Thiizzzhhh~

The door behind them slid open and an MBO training officer walked in.

"Where is Cadet Gustav?" The female officer with the teal green hair voiced out.

"Officer Crimson already completed this course some time ago. The AI was just following the program since a completed course cannot be redone," The MBO training officer voiced out.

It would seem every other person that had arrived here to scale one level or the other were only trying out the levels they had stopped initially and were unable to go beyond. If a cadet had already passed all the levels they would be unable to participate in this course anymore.

"What did you say?"

"He completed all the levels already?"

"Aren't there sixty levels in this course?"

The inspectors voiced out in disbelief.

"Yes there are sixty levels and he cleared the last one a few days prior to your arrival," The training officer responded.

"The last cadet that had just cleared level 47..." The inspector with a tentacle-like face stated.

"Cadet Vul Brown?" The training officer voiced out.

"Yes... Isn't he in his final year?" The inspector inquired.

The training officer understood their looks of disbelief and smiled as he responded,

"Yes, he is... Officer Crimson is quite spectacular being amongst the first thirty cadets to complete all sixty levels of this course and being the first and only cadet to complete this course amongst his fellow second years,"

The inspectors stared at each other in shock.

'Unbelievable,' This was the thought circulating through their minds.

Chapter 800 - Six Hours Underwater

Although twenty-nine other cadets had also cleared this course, it was spectacular not just because cadets in their final years were numbered in the thousands but this meant that every other cadet that had completed it was a final year cadet.

A final year cadet was two classes above the second years and yet a second year had managed to finish a course that many other seniors hadn't completed.

"Are you sure?" One of them had to ask again.

"That's why his name was skipped on the list. I could show you footage of his time here if you want to see," The training officer voiced out before moving to make some settings.

In a few moments, different footage were being displayed on the holographic screen and all three inspectors watched with awe-stricken faces.

"How is he improving at such a quick pace?" The female inspector could not hide her astonishment.

"This is in no way normal... He seems to be displaying strength beyond the Echo rank,"

"Frightening progress has been noted. This needs to be brought to the attention of the higher-ups,"

The other two inspectors voiced out as well as they took note.

Meanwhile, underwater, a charming figure with floating dirty blonde hair sat at the bottom of a river.

His legs were crossed as he sat at the bottom of the river with his eyes closed and his upper body bare. His glistening smooth skin and his muscular frame were quite visible under the river even though it was dimly lit.

His hands were clasped together as he stayed silently in the same position for a long time without moving an inch and breathing in or out.

It almost looked like he was a statue dumped in the water but his glistening skin and his floating long dirty blonde hair depicted otherwise.

After what seemed like hours, his eyelids finally twitched and he slowly opened his eyes.

A golden glow appeared in his eyeballs for a moment before disappearing. He slowly stood to his feet and began to walk underwater.

His movement was sluggish and carefree but it radiated with mightiness and pride. In a few seconds of walking, his head poked out from the surface of the river, and his figure was revealed bit as bit the further he walked.

The rays of light coming from the sun shone on his drenched figure as his hair which was initially floating underwater dropped down to his shoulders.

He looked so godly as he walked out of the river with just his white pants. Well-chiseled abs were displayed with his broad and muscular chest as he arrived at the shore.

[Daily Task Completed (3/3): Stay underwater for six hours without breathing ✓]

He stared at the system notification for a few seconds before letting it clear from his line of sight.

'Why not make it twelve hours next time, so I'll be unable to attend any of the camp drills?' Gustav said internally with obvious rhetorical hints.

("I don't generate the tasks... I mean I do... But I don't, it's hard to explain and your puny brain would be unable to comprehend,") The system voiced out in his head.

'Sure sure... Just say you lack control,' Gustav said internally with a light chuckle.

("...")

'Who's the puny one now?' Gustav said with a tone of ridicule.

("I live inside you... I could cause both your kidneys and your liver to fail right now,") The system reminded him.

'Why attack my liver now? Aren't my kidneys enough for you?'

("You'd still be alive if both kidneys were gone but if I was to add your liver to the fray now, hehe...") The cute girly voice of the system echoed in his mind along with her evil laughter.

'Fine you win this round,' Gustav said internally as he arrived in front of a tree up ahead.

Currently, Gustav was looking like he had grown a little bit above six feet and his body had become broader. His skin glistened like that of a baby's.

His hair had grown so long, it was covering his nape.

It looked like the five months that went by were spent doing a lot of training as Gustav's presence radiated pressure, subconsciously.

Ssshhhsshhhhh~

His body temperature suddenly rose immensely, causing all the water on his body to dry up.

Zing~

His upper MBO outfit appeared in his hand as he prepared to put it on.

"How long do you intend to watch?" Gustav suddenly voiced out as he wore the top of his uniform.

"Damn, you noticed me?" A feminine voice was heard from up ahead but no one could be seen in the vicinity.

"Just because you became very tiny doesn't mean you'll be able to escape my range of perception," Gustav said while staring at a part of the tree.

Within the cracks on the barks, a small dot that was barely visible suddenly flew out, passing Gustav's left shoulder area.

Zhiiimm~

A bright light shone behind Gustav and a dark beauty appeared in place.

"Sheesh, you were looking hot as fuck when coming out from the river, you sure you ain't a reincarnation of some ancient god or sumn?" She voiced out while staring at Gustav with a look of adorable.

Gustav turned around with a nonchalant look and stared at her, "gods do not exist... Can't you guys let go of that fairytale? It's been thousands of years already," He voiced out.

"Haha, everyone is entitled to their beliefs, Gustav," She said while moving her face closer to his, trying to inspect it.

"Angy sure is one lucky girl," She said while slightly tilting her face.

Gustav placed his right hand on her face and pushed her backward.

"Your spittle is flying," He voiced out while proceeding to turn around.

"Haha that was a good burn, you're so cruel I'll be sure to get you back," The dark beauty voiced out as Gustav walked away.

Gustav couldn't be bothered to answer as he kept walking away.

This dark beauty began walking forward at a quick pace as she tried catching up with Gustav.