

Bloodline 841

Chapter 841 - Miss Aimee's Disappearance

Her life signs also disappeared from the radar, proving that she was no longer on this planet. Of course, the MBO life signs tracking devices had limits, and they couldn't track someone like Miss Aimee with that; however, it was possible to tell if the person was still on the planet or not using the life signs tracking devices.

Miss Aimee had disappeared from the earth four months ago and had been unseen and unheard of since then.

"This still doesn't mean she's infected. There could have been a myriad of reasons why she disappeared. I'm sure she will come back soon," Gustav still didn't agree that Miss Aimee could be infected.

"Well, you're not wrong kid but it remains a suspicion," Jack stated.

"I found out that you were her student. Haha, pretty interesting. She never struck me as the kind of person that would ever have a personal student," Jack added with a look of interest.

"Gustav, do you have any idea on her where she could have gone? Any clues or anything she has mentioned in the past, she needs to be found," Commander Cilia asked.

It would seem that this was Jack's reason for coming here today.

"No, I haven't heard from her since I got back in here," Gustav answered.

He was even hoping he'd see Miss Aimee the moment he got back out of camp for his next mission. Now it looked like he wouldn't be seeing her for a long time.

"You're sure she didn't write to you or send you some kind of message during your stay in camp?" Commander Cilia asked once more.

"I wouldn't be so surprised right now if I knew anything about her being missing prior to this. I wish she left some kind of message but no she didn't," Gustav answered with a troubled expression.

"Hmm it's alright Gustav. This just means I will have to stay on earth a little longer than intended since one of us five at least have to be here," Jack seemed quite troubled as well as he voiced out.

Gustav could tell what he meant by "us five" being the five strongest Mixedbloods.

Jack went on to explain that all four of them had been away this whole time while Miss Aimee was the one who stayed behind monitoring the earth.

Her presence here would also cause external forces to refrain from coming to earth since she was the second most powerful Mixedblood according to the ranks. One of the five always had to stay behind to monitor the earth while others were away.

They were the four strongest and not the five because two of the five were the same person.

Number one most powerful Mixedblood, Mack Friendzer, and Jack Shirwin. Both were the same person but also different people.

It was always confusing to the world why two people were always mentioned as the most powerful Mixedblood instead of one, but only some knew that the two persons was one person sharing a single body.

Two individual identities shared twelve hours of consciousness within the same body. This was the case with Jack and Mack.

Many people still didn't understand, but Jack explained to Gustav that Mack would be taking over soon, but he wanted to make sure he met Gustav first.

While it was the same body, it wasn't actually the same body because Jack would transform into a different look when Mack took over.

"Don't worry Gustav, I'll make sure the best squads are picked to go in search of Aimee. She will be found," Jack stated with a comforting tone.

"But if you do hear something or remember something that can help, you can come to me directly when you leave here," Jack said while standing to his feet.

"I will," Gustav voiced out while also standing to his feet.

"It was nice meeting you today. If you have any issues or problems at all in the future, contact me," Jack said with a smile while giving Gustav another handshake.

"Sorry for earlier too haha I may have gotten too excited and wanted to spar with you after everything I heard. I wasn't disappointed," Jack added with a burst of light laughter.

"It's fine," Gustav said while shaking his hand.

Hours later, Gustav was back in his room contemplating what had happened today.

'How could she just dissapear like that?' Gustav was still in disbelief.

Hearing that Miss Aimee had disappeared threw him off course a little. His mind was spiraling around how he should try looking for her as well.

However, this was Miss Aimee they were talking about. Could she even be found if she didn't want to be?

If he decided to abandon everything on earth and go look for her, he wouldn't even know where to start or how exactly to look for her.

A part of him bore great worry about this whole situation, while another part kept making him feel everything was fine. Miss Aimee just probably had something to take care of on her own, and she was okay somewhere.

He was feeling conflicted at this point and hoped that she had left some type of clue or a message for him that would prove she was okay.

"This ash infection... Came from the case with the T-67 device," Gustav mumbled as he linked this connecting with the current situation.

"Which means Red Shadow will know about it. I should ask him when I get out of camp," Gustav decided.

He knew Red Shadow was on the mission all through with Miss Aimee, so he believed Red Shadow would have more information about the situation.

"This infection... I'll need to study it myself to see how it affects and corrupts human DNA..."

Gustav still believed there was no way Miss Aimee would be affected by something like this, especially if he found out that Red Shadow was okay.

There was also something else Gustav had decided to try in finding Miss Aimee.

Chapter 842 - Locating Miss Aimee?

There was also something else Gustav had decided to try in finding Miss Aimee. He had never tried using it to find someone outside Earth before, so he had no idea if it would work or not, but Gustav hoped God Eyes was strong enough to achieve it.

[Life Signs Tracking Has Been Activated]

He had saved the life signs of everyone he cared about some time back. Even though he believed it wouldn't be necessary to do that at the time, since Miss Aimee was really powerful and wouldn't need protection.

However, it did cross his mind that maybe he might have to look for Miss Aimee one day or something, so he still saved hers just like the others.

["\|•~^/"]

As his sight suddenly blurred, Miss Aimee's life sign appeared in Gustav's mind.

Zhooooonnn~

Gustav felt his mind getting pulled into a different realm as his point of view completely transformed into a new one.

What appeared in his line of sight was a foggy-looking area with very low visibility. Although the visuals were bad, he could tell that Miss Aimee seemed to be moving.

He spotted a blue line in the distance as well as a barely noticeable sign that looked like an 'F' up ahead.

'At least she seems okay,' Gustav thought internally.

Although he still had no idea what he was looking at, Miss Aimee's seemed to be taking steps forward rhythmically.

Gustav noticed that his energy was getting drained greatly even though he had only connected with Miss Aimee's life sign for less than ten seconds.

He quickly deactivated Life Signs tracking, causing his sight to regain clarity as he once more saw the four corners of his room. It had been less than ten seconds, but he had already spent several thousand energy points just to connect with Miss Aimee's life sign.

He reckoned he would almost be completely drained of energy in a minute. This led Gustav to two speculations.

One, Miss Aimee was on a planet located in a galaxy extremely distant from Earth, which was why he was spending a lot of energy. And despite that, the clarity of the visuals was also bad, which he felt was another effect of the distance.

Two, Miss Aimee was just too powerful, so spying on her was a gargantuan task even for the power of God Eyes.

Gustav also felt both speculations could be correct, but the most important thing was Miss Aimee was okay.

Now that he had gotten this off his mind, the nagging feeling at the back of his head was gone. The only thing he was interested in was why she left and when she would be coming back.

Although he could see visuals from Miss Aimee's point of view using God Eyes, he couldn't locate her with it unless he spotted some kind of clue.

Miss Aimee was too far away for him to sense her location and follow it like a trail, unlike how it usually was whenever he used it on people on the Earth.

He decided not to stress about it too much and, from his initial speculation, felt Miss Aimee was probably up to something important. When she is done, she will return.

He should focus on his training which will be ending a week from now.

In the next week, Gustav's time in the MBO camp would be over, and he would be going on the mission that would determine if he would be spending more years in Camp or be finally placed in a squad that would determine if he would be getting missions on Earth or outside the planet.

He was conflicted on whether or not to inform Jack Shirwin about this since they were looking for Miss Aimee, but then he figured there was really nothing to report. The only information this gave him was the fact that Miss Aimee was still alive.

'Jack Shirwin... Mack Friendzer... Different individuals in the same body and they're both beacon rank mixedbloods,' Gustav said internally with a look of confoundment.

From what he had heard, both of them had a bloodline called 'Concept Of Entities.' Although the bloodlines were the same, Jack could perform different abilities from Mack.

Gustav found the bloodline very interesting after finding out that the MBO camp was created by Mack using his bloodline to create a separate but similar world to Earth.

Gustav couldn't imagine just how powerful they were, but he still wondered how Mack's fight ended up in a draw with Miss Aimee since he was supposed to be stronger.

The days went by very fast within Camp. During the special training, Gustav had mastered practically everything related to space travel. Officer Mag was mostly teaching him how to get out of emergency situations in space and deal with different scenarios.

Amongst these teachings, piloting a spacecraft was included. Since it was a broad subject and was only taught to those who had been categorized to become MBO pilots in the future, she was originally only meant to give Gustav a small training so he would know a thing or two about it just in case he found himself in a sticky situation.

However, unbeknownst to her, Gustav had taken hold of this opportunity to completely learn how to pilot a spacecraft.

On a certain day, he asked for permission to fly. Officer Mag initially didn't want to let him, but she figured since she would be in the co-pilot seat, there would be nothing to worry about since she could take control the moment Gustav messed up.

Of course, the intergalactic space existed here, too, since the MBO camp was constructed to be similar to Earth, but unlike in the normal world, space here was finite.

To her astonishment, Gustav ended up flying the spacecraft perfectly. Although she was the co-pilot, she didn't have to do a thing. Gustav had mastered the use of every button, switch, panel, and literally everything needed to pilot the spacecraft well.

Chapter 843 - IYSOP

Increasing the speed and entering an engine-generated wormhole to increase flight travel, knowing what to avoid in space, and so on. Officer Mag couldn't believe her eyes when they moved across space smoothly before Gustav piloted the spacecraft back down after a few minutes.

The only thought that came to her mind at this point was, 'He's an all-rounded genius,'

At this point, she started questioning if there was anything Gustav couldn't do.

Since the special training would be ending in a couple of days, the instructors had already informed Gustav that they would be holding a test for him.

They didn't tell him what the test was going to be exactly, but he knew to expect it to be related to everything he had learned during the period of the special training.

On this particular day, Gustav was in a secluded part of camp right beneath a space underneath a waterfall.

This space was practically inexistent before, but Gustav created it by blasting a massive hole in the rocky part behind the waterfall.

He used his gravitational ability to cause the waterfall that would have been flowing into the hole to flow in reverse.

This way, he wasn't bothered by the water and had a place he could be just by himself.

Gustav stood in the hole with the sacred jewel floating in front of him.

"System have you figured out what exactly this thing is?" Gustav asked.

("Whatever it is... It holds a lot of power and from what I can sense, it's bound to you now,") The system responded.

"It's a good tool but it keeps asking for food..." Gustav could still sense the will of the sacred jewel.

It first consumed the Ulovonturian gem, which gave it the capability to use abilities related to the Ulovonturian. It could do things the Ulovonturian was incapable of doing at the time.

The last time it consumed the crystals he took from the mountain area where the second years used to climb back when they were still first years.

Gustav had gone back to pick some of those crystals so he could mix the energy with his orbs, but the jewel ended up consuming all of them.

The only change Gustav noticed in it was the flicker of light within got a little brighter each time it consumed energy from a source. The change was barely noticeable even after it absorbed close to a hundred crystals, but Gustav noticed it either way.

He wondered if this was hinting at something, and he just hadn't figured it out yet.

"Hmm? You can let me send messages and see footages from other places?" Gustav said with a surprised tone.

The sacred jewel seemed to be unveiling another one of its capabilities.

"Okay show me Plankton City," Gustav demanded and proceeded to add the place he wanted to see in Plankton City.

The jewel suddenly glowed with light as its transparent surface changed into a the color of the skies and then changed again to display footage.

Gustav moved closer and could see the display of the neighborhood area he stayed in with Angy. The sacred jewel was displaying this from above, so it was like he was looking down on the city.

He could see some familiar figures moving about the place, busy with one thing or the other. Gustav happened to also spot Angy's younger brother, who seemed to just be returning from school.

"Change location," Gustav voiced out.

The footage projected on the sacred jewel changed and displayed another part of the city.

Here Gustav could see the hunting organization he had created, and he could spot changes. The building was looking a lot more standardized than before, and he could spot occasional movements in and out of the place.

The jewel changed location a few more times, displaying the happenings in different parts of the city.

"Can you show me insides of buildings?" Gustav asked.

Zhiiinn~

The jewel flashed with bright light once more, and the interior of a business building was displayed.

"This is very good... With this, I can spy on anyone in anywhere," Different thoughts began to appear in Gustav's head as he came to this realization.

"Does your range go beyond this planet?" Gustav asked.

"Oh... So I need to know where I want to check before you can display it," Gustav voiced out as he sensed the answer to the jewel.

He initially wanted to try and find Miss Aimee with this, but It turned out he couldn't just tell the jewel to display where Miss Aimee was unless he knew the location himself.

Even with this, Gustav was satisfied with the capability of the sacred jewel. The only problem he had with it was that the thing came out of his storage device whenever it wanted to and floated by his side whenever he was moving around in camp.

It had already caused suspicions, and even E.E and the others asked about it, but he just made up a story for them. There was no way he'd tell anyone he was stranded on an Unknown planet for twenty-four hours and managed to witness a war for which he ended and got rewarded for.

Gustav felt it was very advantageous to have the jewel and had decided to make use of it properly in accomplishing his goals.

A few more days went by and today happened to be the day before Gustav would undergo his test with the instructors.

After arriving at the usual location, the instructors informed him that there was no training today, but they had something to tell him.

"Gustav, have you heard about the IYSOP?" Officer Mag asked.

"IYSOP? What's that supposed to be?" Gustav asked with a clueless expression.

"In full, it's called the Intergalactic Youngsters Show Of Power... It's like a tournament but it is done on an intergalactic scale with lots of powerful youngsters from all over the universe participating," Officer Mag revealed.

"Okay..?" Gustav sounded a bit uninterested.

"It's coming up in ten months from now and the MBO wishes for you to participate," Officer Mag stated.

Chapter 844 - Confliction

"It's coming up in ten months from now and the MBO wishes for you to participate," Officer Mag stated.

"Ten months from now?" Gustav had a contemplative expression as he voiced out.

"Yes, ten months from now the IYSOP will be holding in the Flalencia galaxy... Planet Ozious," Instructor Kora added.

"What is it all about?" Gustav asked.

"Just as the full meaning suggests, it's a tournament of power for youngsters all over the universe in alliance with each other. Besides Earth, many other alien planets will be sending their youngsters to participate in this tournament.

There are different categories involved that test the skills and strength of youngsters all around the universe.

Not only does winning bring glory to one's planet, but it also brings about different rewards, such as mineral resources from all over the universe being gifted to the winning planet; the winners also get rewards that not only add to their riches but also helps in improving their strength even more.

The most important profit of all is that whichever planet wins gets to lead the alliance for the next hundred years, and there are boons that come in accordance with that," Officer Mag explained.

"Interesting..." Gustav had lots of questions to ask about this, but the instructors seemed to already know everything he wanted to ask and proceeded to explain more.

"Earth was the third runner up in the last one?" Gustav was a bit surprised after hearing a little about the past IYSOPs

"Yes, at that time Jack was still young like you, so he led the team that was chosen," Instructor Kora answered.

"It was a close one... Even though Jack was quite powerful for his age, there were no shortages of geniuses and talented alien youngsters. A lot of them were even powerful than he was, it's a miracle earth even managed to reach top ten," Officer Mag explained.

According to what they had mentioned so far, this tournament was held every hundred years. This meant Jack was over a hundred years old, yet he looked no older than twenty-five.

What surprised Gustav the most was that even with the Earth's prowess, they still lost a hundred years ago. Of course, a hundred years ago was no different from right now, considering Earth has been basking in power and technology for thousands of years.

They explained to Gustav that the difference in power between youngsters from Earth and other planets in other galaxies was always big for one reason.

The concept of time was different in other places.

According to the rules of IYSOP, no participant is allowed to be beyond the age of twenty. However, twenty years on Earth was like a year on other planets. If converted to earth time, some aliens that were twenty years old were over a hundred years old.

These aliens were young on such planets, especially where they lived for thousands of years, but the difference in time made it, so they had lived for a very long time compared to earthlings.

For some of them, a year was over two thousand days.

Gustav understood this concept and realized this tournament might be a lot tougher than expected.

Time was more favorable to some aliens based on their planet of origin.

"Here take this," Officer Mag voiced out while passing a small circular device to Gustav.

"There's more information on that drive and report back to me after making your decision. Registration has already began," She added after Gustav received the device from her.

After a few minutes, Gustav left the isshur mountains and went back to his room.

He immediately tapped on the device he got from Officer Mag the moment he got back to his room.

Troooiinn~

A holographic simulation appeared around the room, displaying a planet and an artificial intelligent lifeform who started narrating.

This planet was lemon in color and spherical-shaped, with two diamond-colored rings in an 'x' format circulating around it.

- "This is Planet Ozious the last winner of the IYSOP and currently alliance head. The next IYSOP will be holding two clock world moons from now and we are honored to be the host...."

The AI continued to voice out as the planet kept spinning. After finishing its introduction, it went on to expand the planet for a more visual representation of how it looked on the surface.

Gustav found himself in what looked like a world of lemon and could see several weird structures. The AI displayed some locations where different categories of the IYSOP would be held and also showed some important places on the planet.

It went on to voice out the rules of the tournament and added that more information would be revealed over time before the day of the tournament arrived.

After about two hours, the holographic projection of the simulated footage ended, and his room returned to its initial state.

Gustav had a contemplative expression as he held the device in his hand.

"Ten months from now... I will be acquiring Scientist ZiL's research a few months from now but then I'll also have to complete one or two missions along the way," Gustav mumbled.

"I'll still need to make more research and continue Scientist ZiL's research... There's barely enough time," Gustav thought out loud.

If acquiring Scientist ZiL's research was the end of everything, he wouldn't be so conflicted in making a decision on whether or not to participate in this tournament.

Regardless of how good the rewards of the tournament were, the five-year quests still took priority. After all, if this led to the destruction of Earth, what would be the point of winning the tournament.

Ten months seemed like a lot of time, but in reality, Gustav knew it could go by in a flash, especially when there was a lot to do.

The MBO really wanted Gustav to be among the participants, but they knew they couldn't force him. Whether or not Miss Aimee was around, nobody would want to risk being on her bad side.

If Gustav decided to report any maltreatment, they knew it was going to cause severe problems for them.

Chapter 845 - Final Test

"I guess I'll have to tell them I can't participate," Gustav voiced out with a conclusive tone.

("Don't be so quick to come to a conclusion,") The system suddenly chipped in.

"Hmm? Why do you say so?" Gustav asked.

("This is an opportunity for intergalactic travel,") The system added.

"I know but unless I have finished with every task I have on earth there's no point... It's better to put that aside until I am done,") Gustav responded.

("Check where Flalencia galaxy is located before you make your decision,") The system stated.

"Huh? Why?" Gustav asked.

("Just check,") The system responded.

"Okay,"

Gustav spent the rest of the day visiting the libraries in camp. He was sourcing for intergalactic information and the planets involved in this intergalactic alliance.

Gustav found out that there were over three hundred planets in the alliance.

Earth was among the top five leading planets, and Gustav already knew this, but he had no idea initially that there were over three hundred planets in the alliance.

According to the IYSOP, one planet could have no more than fifteen and no less than ten participants. They could also have a substitute team of ten members besides that just in case the main participant ended up getting indisposed.

The last piece of information Gustav found out about where the Flalencia galaxy was situated was what made him rethink his decision on whether to join or not.

The next day arrived, and Gustav had his test today with the instructors. When he arrived at the Isshur mountains, they first questioned him on his decision.

"I haven't decided yet, how long do I have?" Gustav asked.

"Registration doesn't close till five months from now but the MBO would like to be sure of the people participating as soon as possible," Officer Mag replied.

"I will decide later," Gustav stated.

"It's best to decide now, or another participant will be used as a replacement," Instructor Kora voiced.

"All the best for them then. I will make my decision when I'm ready, if y'all want to replace me then go ahead," Gustav said with an unbothered expression.

The instructors had conflicted looks on their faces as they heard that.

Instructor Kora wanted to speak again, but Officer Mag stopped him and replied to Gustav.

"I will pass your response to the higher ups, so they can reserve a slot for you till you're ready," She voiced out.

"Sure," Gustav stated.

"Alright now to start the test, are you ready?" Officer Mag asked with a serious expression.

"I am... Let's begin," Gustav replied.

Minutes later, sounds of blasts could be heard across the Isshur mountains as the test was currently ongoing.

Gustav found himself in a hostage-type situation as many people with duffel bags over their heads could be seen standing at the edge of a tall mountain.

One of the instructors, whose head was that of a bear's, held the neck of one of the hostages right over the ledge of the mountainside.

"Stay back or they die!" He voiced out like a villain.

Gustav was currently thousands of feet away, but he knew well there wouldn't be time to save everyone, especially when they had explosive vests wrapped around their bodies.

This was a case where he'd have to take out the villain without causing harm to any of these hostages.

'Sixteen in total... I just have to disarm him,' Gustav thought, but then this was an Instructor who was higher than him in bloodline rank, so it was easier said than done.

The hostages were all around him, so it was easy for him to harm any of them easily before he arrived there.

Zhinn~

The sacred jewel suddenly appeared from his storage device.

"You ready for an exchange?" Gustav asked.

The light within flickered twice, and Gustav nodded, "Alright, do it,"

Zing~

The orb suddenly disappeared, and what appeared in its initial location was the hostage instructor Cole was holding onto.

"Uh?" Instructor Cole noticed he was now holding onto a head-sized looking jewel with a flicker of silver light within.

In that instant, he knew Gustav had done something and released his grip so he could detonate the bombs, but then he found himself restricted for a second and unable to move.

Unbeknownst to him, the shadow beneath his feet held onto him from behind.

Fwooosshhhhh~

A loud whooshing sound reverberated across the place, and by the time he regained control of himself, a strong force crashed into his back, sending him flying over the edge of the mountainside.

Gustav was now standing in place with the detonator as he disarmed it.

Minutes later, Gustav was running across a sloppy environment with two humans in his grasp. Apparently, he was supposed to get them to a particular safe zone without any harm or injuries.

Above, a massive aircraft could be seen firing orbital attacks toward the ground as Gustav dashed across the place.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

Multiple sounds of explosion rang out as Gustav leaped from place to place, dodging most of these projectiles.

Fwhooooom~

A massive wave suddenly shot out, surrounding Gustav from every direction. Even though this wave wouldn't hurt him, the two he was taking away would most likely be harmed by this wave.

[Size Manipulation Has Been Activated]

Gustav suddenly increased in size, becoming over a thousand feet tall as he held these two in his palm.

Bam! Bam! Bam!

With every stomp, the mountains vibrated intensely, and the attacks were no longer able to reach the humans.

He later arrived at the safe zone, passing this round of the test.

So far, all the hostages and humans they had used were fake. One of the instructors had the ability to replicate himself, so his dummies were the ones being used in different aspects of the test.

They moved on to the next test category.

Over an hour later, Gustav had managed to pass one category after the other with different instructors. Even the part where he had to race with a spacecraft and perform some actions was done well.

He also had to race across the Isshur mountains as he did on the first day, and his speed was recorded once more. To their amazement, Gustav was almost two times faster than before, which showed immense progress.

Chapter 846 - Ending The Test

To their amazement, Gustav was almost two times faster than before, which showed immense progress.

Now for the last segment, the five instructors surrounded Gustav from every direction.

"For this part, there's a triangular token on one of us. You have to try and get it by any means possible while we try to stop you. It is unknown who holds the triangular token amongst all five of us but you have to get it in no more than ten minutes," Instructor Kora explained.

Gustav practically had to battle all five of them while still trying to get this so-called triangular token. It was also unknown who was holding this token.

Gustav looked around; the instructors were all peak Kilo ranks except for Officer Mag, a Delta rank Mixedblood already.

This would be tough, considering they weren't going to reduce their strength in the last segment. The only boon Gustav felt he had was his speed. The difference between a Kilo ranked, and an Echo ranked Mixedblood was very high despite being only one rank apart.

Gustav's strength was already more or less that of a kilo ranked already, but these were peak Kilo ranked Mixedbloods.

While Officer Mag was just on another level entirely compared to the others.

But Gustav had been evading Kilo ranked Mixedbloods before becoming an Echo ranked, so he was sure his speed would be a great help.

Gustav felt this wasn't even much of a task considering he had God Eyes, but he didn't want to get too arrogant and look down on the instructors too much because he didn't know what they had up their sleeves.

The timer began, and Gustav instantly activated God Eyes.

From his point of view, the environment turned reddish as he turned to stare at the instructors one after the other.

He could use God Eyes to look through a person now, so he activated that feature, making his sight turn clearer as the instructors turned into florescent lumps of light in his line of sight.

The instructors ran around him, not giving him the chance to properly fixate on a person because they could sense that the red and golden glow in Gustav's eyes was not ordinary.

Gustav's lists of abilities were long and mostly unknown, so they didn't actually know what God Eyes could do, but they had their suspicions.

Unfortunately for them, Gustav's sight speed was faster with God Eyes activated along with his own speed as well.

He followed their movements clearly and locked onto one of them.

Zhooonnn~

His eyes zoomed in on Officer Mag, and he spotted a triangular-shaped device stored in the small pocket on her waist area.

Swooosshh~

Gustav instantly sped towards the left while reaching out.

All the instructors leaped out at this point, charging toward Gustav the moment he arrived before her.

Pah! Pah! Bang!

Sounds of collision rang out as palms collided while Gustav tried to make contact with Officer Mag.

His advances were instantly restricted as one of the instructors also grabbed onto his shoulder and flung him backward.

Gustav repeatedly spun in the air and landed several feet behind. The instructors crowded Officer Mag after realizing that Gustav had already figured out where the device was located.

They weren't using so much force with him, but nevertheless, their strength was not something to scoff at.

Gustav dashed forward once more as the instructors channeled their bloodlines and began to send out attacks.

Swoosh~ Fwwoomm~

Gustav swerved across the place, dodging their attacks as he raced against time.

[Sprint Has Been Activated]

Dashing towards the rear, Instructor Kora appeared at one side, and exchange of fists began.

Instructor Kora sent a chop towards Gustav's wrist, causing one of his attacks to change trajectory, but Gustav made use of that to spin around; he twisted his body and sent a kick towards instructor Kora's jaw.

Although instructor Kora had managed to block it at the last second, Gustav had activated Super Jump, causing the strength in his leg to increase by over thirtyfold.

Bang!

The force sent Instructor Kora flying as he repeatedly spiraled in mid-air. Gustav sped forward once more, dodging several attacks, and managed to arrive where the rest of the instructors stood together around Officer Mag.

[Energy Discharge Has Been Activated]

Boom!

A wave of gravitational energy along with red energy blasted out from Gustav, knocking the instructors flying as they didn't expect this.

The instant they had been separated from Officer Mag, Gustav's arm increased in length as it shot forward.

Fwwhiii~

It arrived in front of Officer Mag, and Gustav tried to grab her by the waist, but suddenly the gravitational force in the environment underwent a great change.

Bang!

The ground underneath Gustav's feet made a loud noise as it vibrated from the sudden impact of the gravitational force, becoming the opposite of what it was initially.

Gustav felt intense pressure descend on him, causing his hand to pause right before Officer Mag. The gravitational pull had suddenly increased by over a thousand times.

Officer Mag slapped Gustav's hand away, but his hand, which was already descending, suddenly moved again as he activated combination.

[Sprint + Dash]

He managed to evade Officer Mag's touch and slapped the bottom of her pocket, causing the triangular device to fly upwards.

At this point, his second arm was already shooting forward to grab it, but the...

Bang!

Gustav's suddenly felt the immense gravitational pressure in the environment increase by multiple folds, causing his legs to buckle a bit.

This resulted in him stopping for a brief moment which gave Officer Mag the opportunity to grab hold of the triangular-shaped silver-colored device.

Gustav was unable to move quickly despite having combination activated with Sprint and Dash. The instructors were creeping up from every direction back, and it seemed like he would be unable to get the device due to the current development.

Gustav looked down and could see the cracks on the grounds of the Isshur mountains. It was very hard to cause cracks since the surface was extremely sturdy.

A smirk appeared on Gustav's face as he lifted his right foot, which was transforming into a beastly shape with dark brownish scales, looking extremely muscular.

Chapter 847 - That Was Impressive

Gustav looked down and could see the cracks on the grounds of the Isshur mountains. It was very hard to cause cracks since the surface was extremely sturdy.

A smirk appeared on Gustav's face as he lifted his right foot, which was transforming into a beastly shape with dark brownish scales and looking extremely muscular.

Bang!

He slammed his foot on the ground in the next instant, causing the ground to cave in as debris scattered across the vicinity.

Within the debris, pebble-sized black stones could be seen rising up due to Gustav's sudden stomping and simultaneous activation of reverse gravity.

The instructors spotted his smirk this moment, and then...

Zing~

The sacred Jewel appeared behind Gustav, its silver light flickering within.

Officer Cole's eyes widened as he spotted this and began dashing towards Gustav, but it was too late.

"Do it," Gustav voiced out as he retracted his arm and reached out to grab a black pebble that was currently in mid-air.

Zing~ Trroooooiinn~

The black pebble disappeared before Gustav could grab hold of it, and in its place, the triangular-shaped device in Officer Mag appeared.

Grab!

Gustav's palm wrapped around it and raised it up.

"I win," The smirk on his face widened as he voiced out.

The instructors had looks of awe as they stared at Gustav and also checked the timer. It turned out only five minutes had gone by; there were still extra five minutes left.

They were hellbent on making sure Gustav had a very hard time in this segment that even if he managed to pass, it should be at the last seconds. Internally, they also knew that even if he didn't succeed in getting the device, he would still pass, considering the fact that he had passed every other segment.

However, they had not expected the last trick Gustav employed. Only officer Cole knew that was possible. However, he never expected Gustav to be able to use it on Officer Mag and succeed.

He felt such abilities always had some kind of restrictions, and he was right. If Gustav had been unable to bring the triangular device out of Officer Mag's pocket, he would have been unable to exchange it with the black pebble he was about to grab.

Officer Cole had not informed the others about this ability of Gustav's because he was also just finding out.

They suspected it was due to the head-sized circular-shaped transparent stone floating beside Gustav, but they had no idea what it was.

Regardless of all that, Gustav had completed the test for today and passed all segments with flying colors.

"That was impressive," Officer Mag voiced out as she restored the state of the gravitational force in the environment.

Gustav was able to move normally again as he also deactivated the skills he currently had active.

"You will receive your mission briefing in the next two days. Prepare yourself because I'm sure the MBO will be sending you on a mission no less than five stars in difficulty," Officer Mag voiced out to Gustav.

He nodded in response, "About the IYSOP... I will make my decision in the next six months," Gustav stated.

Gustav had calculated that he would be done with whatever mission he was embarking on first and get scientist ZiL's research before six months were done. Based on what he had figured out within that time frame, he would decide if he would be participating in IYSOP.

Hours later, Gustav was in a park-like area within the camp. He sat on a bench beside Endric.

"Have you heard?" Gustav asked.

"IYSOP?" Endric was able to instantly able to tell what Gustav was talking about.

"Yeah, you need to participate," Gustav stated.

"Is there something I'm missing?" Endric asked.

"Didn't Husaruis tell you the Myhbrids is closer to Flalencia galaxy than the milky way?" Gustav voiced out with a solemn tone.

"It will take extremely long if you had to travel back to earth before embarking on the journey to Myhbrids... It would be better to take a detour after the tournament and head straight there," Gustav added.

"Hmm I didn't think of that... Will you be participating?" Endric asked.

"As of now, I'm not certain," Gustav responded.

Endric had a barely noticeable look of disappointment on his face as he heard that, but he quickly tried to hide it.

"But if I do participate... I will join you in heading to the Myhbrids," Gustav added.

Endric face lit up a little as he heard Gustav's last statement.

"It will be tough but I'm sure with the two of us, the task will be easier," Endric stated.

"I will be leaving camp in a few days. We might not get to see each other till the appointed time of the tournament. Be ready," Gustav voiced out before standing up and walking away.

Even though it seemed like Gustav was still giving Endric the cold shoulder, Endric was glad he still had some sort of relationship with his big brother.

Be it six or ten months' time, he was glad he and Gustav might finally get the chance to do something together.

'I won't ruin this opportunity,' Endric said internally with a decisive expression.

He was willing to prove himself and show that he could be an asset in Gustav's circle especially considering he knew secrets that even the others didn't know.

Later at night, Gustav sat in his room channeling his bloodline.

"I should try to complete all levels of the dungeon before I leave," Gustav opened his eyes as he voiced out.

He recalled he was still in level thirty-nine, and there were forty-seven levels of the dungeon in total. The lowest a cadet had ever gone was level forty-two, even for the final years.

Gustav had not really had time to visit, so his last limit was level thirty-nine without any party.

According to reports, the Mixedbreeds beyond level 40 were level eighty-two Mixedbreeds which were comparable to ten peak Echo ranked Mixedbloods.

Chapter 848 - Scaling Floors With Speed

Since different Mixedbreeds had different abilities, some were more dangerous than others despite levels forty to forty-seven having around level eight Mixedbreeds.

Even when the cadets went in parties, it was extremely difficult to go below level forty.

Gustav had decided he would completely visit every nook and cranny of the dungeon and reach the lowest level... Level 47.

'Looks like I will finally be able to use my Yarki at full strength,' Gustav thought with an expression of interest.

He had never really gotten the chance to use it at its full potential, and this might be the chance for him to do so.

He had refrained from using it against the instructors because he still wanted it to remain hidden that he had such a power. He didn't know if anyone might recognize it.

Although there were cams even in the dungeons, most times, there were disruptions in the feeds due to outbursts of energy both from cadets and Mixedbreeds, so it was hard to tell.

This way, Gustav wasn't worried about being spotted, and he planned on reducing the range of his Yarki as he very well knew it could cover a much larger area now.

The next day arrived, and Gustav visited the dungeon early the next morning when the morning drills began.

Some final-year cadets were also moving into the dungeon, and some of them spotted him at the entry point.

"Gustav, I'm Killjay; how about we form a party together?" A noticeably pale-skinned 5'11 cadet moved toward Gustav while voicing out.

"No need," Gustav waved him off and continued to head in.

Unsurprisingly, other cadets who were also trying to form parties requested to be in a group with Gustav, but he also turned them down.

Gustav sped into the dungeon on his own, trying to avoid any future requests before they were issued.

Swooshhh~

The dungeon was like a labyrinth the further down a person headed. It was possible to get lost here with the intricacy of the structures with multiple passageways and spaces that occasionally shifted to take a different form.

At unexpected periods, passageways would close, and new ones would be open. A group could be trapped with a mixedbreed until they killed it; there would be no opening to leave.

The only way to get out if one found themselves in danger they couldn't overcome was by using the emergency token the cadets were equipped with.

The moment the token was used, the cadet would be teleported out of the dungeon to prevent death.

Gustav sped to the lower floors of the dungeon, passing one level after the other.

He wanted to get through most of the floors quickly so he could arrive at the thirty-ninth floor where he stopped earlier, but at times he would find himself trapped in a shapeshifting space with a creature.

Just like the other, he would have to battle them for passageways to the next level to be unveiled.

In a span of thirty minutes, Gustav had already scaled through thirty levels and was already heading for the next.

This was the fastest that had been recorded, considering the fact that some cadets would spend over a day within the dungeon trying to scale through twenty levels.

Gustav kept bulldozing through these levels as quickly as he could. Considering he had already scaled them before, they were relatively easier this time.

After another thirty minutes, he arrived at the thirty-ninth level.

At this level, three gigantic ape-like mixedbreeds who could turn their arms into powerful axes could be seen charging toward Gustav with ill intent.

They were all above level seventy-five, which was equivalent to several times the strength level of peak Echo ranks mixedbloods.

The first one arrived before Gustav and hacked down with extreme force. Gustav glided towards the side and kicked the axe like the arm of the ten-foot-tall creature to the side.

He dove his fist into the belly area of the creature sending it blasting backward just as another one was slashing towards Gustav's head from the left.

[Atomic Blade Has Been Activated]

The four-foot-long milky-colored blade appeared in his left hand, which he swung upwards to meet with the axe-like arm descending.

Swhhiiii~

The atomic blade cut right through the arm, cleaving it in half as black blood was sent spilling in every direction.

Scrrrrrrhhhhhh~

As the creature growled in pain, Gustav was already swinging his right fist towards the creature's chest, but then the third one had already arrived behind Gustav and was swinging towards his back.

[Sprint Has Been Activated]

The creature behind only saw Gustav make a single step and appear behind his comrade.

Gustav pushed the creature whose hand he had just cleared off forward, causing the one who was initially behind to end up decapitating his fellow mixedbreed by mistake.

The immense strength in each slash was so powerful that the residue energy slammed into the wall by the side and created a long gash that spread across it.

The blood of his fellow mixedbreed gushed out like a fountain pouring on its face as the decapitated body fell like a sack of beans.

Taking use of the opportunity where the creature was blinded by the blood of its own comrade, Gustav dashed forward and stabbed the Atomic blade into its chest.

"Ghhrrrahhhhh!" The creature growled in pain as its eyes reddened, and it tried to use its last breath to hold Gustav in place as the third creature appeared behind Gustav, hacking down with an arm covered in blazing blue flames.

Gustav found the grip of this ape-like mixedbreed to be very strong, but unfortunately for it, Gustav was way stronger.

Spinning around while this creature was still holding onto him, the one that appeared behind Gustav ended up splitting his comrade in half, all the way from the top to bottom, as he hacked down.

Its eyes widened as he stared at the human figure in front of it that had managed to lead the fight into such a cunning situation.

Chapter 849 - Reaching Level 40

But this was the last thing it would ever see as Gustav charged forward the moment its axe arm slammed onto the ground.

Swwwiiii~

Slashing towards the side, Gustav cleanly separated this creature's head off its body as he appeared several hundred feet away after taking a pause.

Bam!

The headless body fell to the ground as blood spread across the vicinity while the Atomic Blade disappeared from Gustav's hand.

Shrrriuihhhh~ Gbam!

An opening appeared on the right side of this large rocky underground space. Gustav turned to the side and confidently walked towards the opening, leaving the battleground of destruction and blood behind.

He had handled that relatively easily because Gustav was capable of dealing with anyone below the Kilo ranked level regardless of how strong they were.

He moved across the opening, which had a stairway that led to the lower level of the dungeon. He was finally going to level forty.

This was where the difficulty increased by a whole lot, and the Mixedbreeds were over ten times more powerful than Echo rank mixedbloods.

Gustav sped across the stairway arriving at what looked like a spiraling rocky ground with edges where furnaces of flames could be seen on the beyond.

It was an exalted area that had corners where a person could fall off and get roasted alive due to the flames at the bottom. Some pointy rocks protruded out from the sides of the wall and even the ceiling area, which was at least seven hundred meters high, proving just how low this dungeon level was.

Gustav got to the bottom of the nearly two thousand steps stairway and already spotted one creature behind a big pile of flaming rock up ahead.

The creature made a loud shrieking sound as it climbed the top of the pile of flaming rock and stared in Gustav's direction.

It was a massive owl-faced creature with bat wings and black scaly beast-like body and three serpentine-like tails.

Gustav reckoned it was at least three times the size of a truck. Its head suddenly lit up in flames as it made a loud, screeching noise again.

Two more creatures looking similar to the one atop the flaming rock appeared by the side.

But this wasn't the end...

The creature atop the flaming rock took one step forward, and a strange flame spread from its leg to the ground.

Shrrroounmmm~

A circle of runic flames spread across the ground of this space covering everywhere, including where Gustav was standing.

This space was so massive it was comparable to at least thirty football pitches despite having some corners that one could fall through and get roasted by the flames at the bottom.

Suddenly, similar creatures began to phase out of the ground in large numbers. It was like a calling, as though the creature standing atop the flaming rock had opened a portal to another dimension, summoning creatures of its kind.

Some had appeared only a few feet away from Gustav and even lunged forward to attack him.

Gustav now understood why they said level forty and beyond was on a different level of difficulty compared to the others.

This would obviously be very difficult for a party to scale, talk more of just one person.

It was no wonder level forty-two was the highest that any particular had ever reached, and reaching here, it was even a wonder how they had managed to pass this one.

Each creature was at least ten to fifteen times stronger than a peak Echo rank, and there were no less than forty of them that had appeared here. There was no doubt leader who was standing on the flaming rock had strength on the level of a kilo rank, which would have increased the difficulty of clearing this floor by several levels.

The first creature appeared in front of Gustav, and he moved to the side before slapping it away.

[Power Boost Has Been Activated]

Bam!

The creature was sent spiraling across the air as it slammed into one of its kind.

Gustav could feel that despite using a lot of strength, the creature only sustained minor injuries. Which meant he would have to use more strength if he had to battle one of them.

They surrounded Gustav on all corners and charged toward him despite feeling threatened after seeing him casually slap one of their kind away.

"It's time," Gustav muttered as he closed his eyes while these creatures lunged at him.

Deep within him, a dark reddish flame with hints of pink was burning passionately.

The moment Gustav opened his eyes, a plus-shaped reddish glow appeared within...

Booom!

An immense outburst of dark red and pinkish energy blasted out of Gustav's body, subjecting the creature in the vicinity to a world of terror as they fell to the ground, screeching in immense pain.

The energy spread across the whole vicinity surrounding the entire floor and even spilled towards the previous floor, but Gustav quickly controlled the range, letting it stop there.

While the creatures lay on the ground, unable to move, their looks depicted they were in some kind of pain, but it was unknown as to what they were currently experiencing.

Gustav walked forward gracefully, taking casual but powerful steps one after the other.

He was like a sovereign in the midst of an army that was subject to him. He walked past the bodies of these creatures, not even taking a glance at any of them before arriving in front of the flaming rock.

The temperature was immensely high around this rock, and the leader of these creatures had also fallen face flat on the ground, writhing in pain as well within this world of dark red and pink.

Gustav stepped on the flaming rock despite the flames and climbed till he arrived at the top.

"I want to see how fast you can fly," Gustav voiced out as he arrived in front of the leader.

The creature suddenly stopped writhing in pain at that point and stood to its feet.

"Come on, show me what you can do," Gustav commanded.

The creature spread its wings and flapped...

Chapter 850 - The Power Of Yarki

Fhwwwoomm~

It lifted up into the air and began flying across the place at its fastest speed.

Gustav calculated the speed of this creature and compared it to hover.

"Faster than Hover but slower than Ultimate Combination," Gustav noted.

He felt this would be good for a default flight ability, considering hover had a time limit. Using transformation would only cost him energy points, so he wouldn't have to worry about reactivation or falling out of the sky, or overly depleting energy from activating Ultimate Combination Form.

Gustav commanded the creature to fly downwards, and it landed in front of him.

Gustav squatted slightly and dug his fingers into the body of the creature, adding to the pain it was already feeling.

No expression of empathy could be seen on his face as he activated Bloodline Acquisition.

[Bloodline Acquisition Has Been Activated]

[Does Host Wish To Extract Flames Death Ace Mixedbreed Form]

[Yes/No]

Gustav proceeded to answer affirmatively and began the system extraction process.

In a few seconds, it was done, and the creature turned into ash.

[Host Has Killed A Level Eighty-Two Flames Death Ace]

[+2,500,000 EXP]

Gustav looked around and could see the other creatures still subjected to the power of his Yarki. Gustav moved towards the one on the right and poked his index finger forward.

The moment it made contact with this Flame Death Ace, the creature began to disintegrate.

It burned up and slowly turned into ash.

[Host Has Killed A Level Eighty Flames Death Ace]

[2,000,000 EXP]

"Hmm... The new features that come with my evolved Yarki are quite interesting," Gustav voiced out as he began walking towards another Flames Death Ace.

("According to the records there have never been a cosmic superior being with this type of Yarki,") The system stated.

"Yeah, you did say it evolved," Gustav responded as he arrived in front of another one and poked his finger into its forehead.

Tsshhhhsshh~

The creature disintegrated as well, just like the other two.

[Host Has Killed A Level Eighty Flames Death Ace]

[2,000,000 EXP]

("This isn't normal at all... Moving to the next level of Cosmic Superiority would have been longer than this,") The system added.

"Well... Since I am the Outworldly... I guess normal can no longer be attributed with me," Gustav voiced out as he moved towards another Flames Death Ace.

There were over forty of them in the vicinity, and Gustav didn't spare a single one.

He killed off every last Flames Death Ace.

[Host Has Leveled Up]

It had been quite some time since he last saw a level-up notification, so he was glad his visit to the dungeon was paying off.

The opening to the next floor appeared somewhere ahead after Gustav had killed off these creatures.

[Partial Flames Death Ace Transformation Has Been Activated]

Large bat-like wings phased out of Gustav's back as he lifted off the ground and flew towards the opening with speed.

After leaving this floor, several figures appeared on the same floor a few minutes later.

"What happened here?"

"This floor has been cleared?"

"There are ashes everywhere and the pungent smell of flesh,"

"Looks like a powerful team already took care of this,"

The group of six that had just arrived had looks of awe as they moved about the place.

There were usually different spaces on the same floors, which meant a group could be battling the same type of creatures as another group on the same floor, but they wouldn't come into contact with each other.

That was exactly why the dungeon was built that way; even if different groups advanced to the same ground level at the same time, they would be in different spaces to avoid meeting up, but it seemed this time a mistake had occurred as this group that had just cleared level thirty-nine were sent to the same space in level forty that Gustav had just cleared.

Fortunately for them, they were able to move onto level forty-one without having to fight any battle, but the opening ahead led to the same space Gustav had just headed in.

Which meant that when they moved further, they would bump into Gustav up ahead.

"Let's hurry up and meet up with the group so we can work together. This might have been a mistake but it could work in our favor and we may be able to break the record of surpassing level forty two," The person who seemed to be the group leader voiced out.

The other five, who were also final year cadets, nodded in understanding and followed after him towards the opening that led to the next floor.

They ran down the stairway that led to level forty-two as quickly as they could, arriving on the next ground.

To their surprise, this place had been cleared as well. Despite being a dark area, they could still see scorch marks and ashes in some areas, which depicted a battle had gone down.

The group had come out Victorious once more, and the opening up ahead that led to the next level was still active.

"Level forty two," The leader of their group voiced out with a look of excitement.

The others, too, were all excited as this hadn't happened in at least four years since the last two batches. During Miss Aimee's time, the dungeon wasn't in existence, so it was difficult to tell whether her batch could have cleared it or not.

"Let's go," The leader voiced out.

"This seems like cheating," Only one of them, who happened to be the second girl in their group, voiced out with a dissatisfied tone.

They paused as they heard that, "Avery are you saying you don't want to come along?" The group leader voiced out.

"Litch, we ain't doing this with our own strength... A group is just clearing the path for us," Avery stated.

"So what? The only thing that matters is we scaled the forty second floor or the dungeon. Our names will be passed down in the MBO camp annals of history," Litch voiced out with a passionate tone.

"This feels wrong," Avery stated once more.