Chapter 93 - Wood Element

"Uncle James, I want to ask something?" I said to him. I didn't want to hesitate about this matter.

Hearing that, Mr. James nodded and said, "Go on, what it is?"

"I need Lightning affinity stone. Could you ask my teacher about it?" I replied to him. This is something important. I don't want to delay my lightning practice.

"Sigh" Mr. James let out a sigh, hearing that, He understands Zack's circumstances. Zack has a good affinity with the lightning elements. Otherwise, it is hard to get breakthroughs in this environment.

If it's possible to get a lightning stone. Then, it would make his cultivation easier.

Then he decided to ask Sir. McClain about it later.

"I will ask your teacher about it. I'm sure he'll do something about it" Uncle James replied. I became relaxed hearing that, other than Blood Method. The teacher has given me everything related to lightning. I don't feel good about asking more.

But, I don't have any choice.

I put these thoughts to the back of my mind.

We talked about a few other things. I didn't ask about his mission. He is still tight-lipped about it.

A few hours later, we reached Station Town.

Uncle James brought me to the Special Clinic.

I took a look at the building. There is not much human presence in the building. It more looked like a house than a clinic.

We arrived at the front desk. There is a Male receptionist working behind the Hollow operating screen. (Aka computer). The Male receptionist checked Uncle's I.D. He then registered my name. He didn't ask for my details.

After done the registering. The Male receptionist gestures us to go to room number seven. We didn't waste any time and reached room no.7. "Bone Treatment Chamber" I read words written on the door.

There is A. I system was installed on the door.

Uncle James entered the code given by the receptionist. The door opened as he entered the code. We entered the room. I was surprised to see no one here.

Except for the huge Vertical Pod Chamber. The Vertical Pod Chamber was huge. Lots of Black Tubes were attached to the chamber. They looked like pipes.

I can see green color gas inside the chamber. Huge A. I operating screen installed near to it. I don't know what to make of it. I turned towards Uncle James and asked, "Uncle, What is this place? Why no one is here?"

Hearing that, Mr. James turned towards Zack and replied, "As you read it before. This chamber is used to treat fractured bones." Then he continued, "It is an Advanced Machine, it's not open to the Public. Only registered warriors and their family members are allowed to use this machine."

"No wonder" I commented in my heart. It's hard to spot any non-affiliated people around the city. It doesn't matter small or big organization. Once they graduated. Warriors register their name with the organization.

As I was musing about it. "Zack...Zack" Uncle James reminded me. I came back to reality and looked towards him. Uncle James pointed his finger towards the chamber. And said, "Remove your shirt and enter the chamber."

Hearing that, I removed my top. Uncle James operated something on A. I operating a Screen. As he entered it, the pod chamber's door opened it. Having outlet the green color gas starting to come outside.

Seeing that, I didn't waste any time and entered the chamber.

Soon, the door closed. I stood vertically inside the chamber. A few minutes later, I saw a green color liquid start to fill in. They are coming from the black tubes. I didn't get panic. I knew it would be some kind of solution.

So, I started to expect. I turned on my perception ability. I want to observe how this solution will treat my injury.

Soon, the solution filled up to my neck. Then it stopped.

A few minutes later, I noticed some reaction taking place.

With my perception, I started to observe the internal system. I focussed on the rib region. There are three ribs broken. At first, I didn't spot anything. But, soon I noticed small green color energies started to gather around the wounded area.

The coming green color energies are attached together one by one. Then they apply themselves to the broken area.

Once it happened, I started to feel a burning sensation. Bleeding and swelling are starting to reduce. I was surprised to see this wonder. This is not the normal solution, I believe they added some kind of treasure to it.

I continued to watch this treatment. But, for some reason. I started to notice the green energies on the wound getting thicker and the healing is done faster.

At first, I was confused. I thought it was the effect of a combination of green color energies. That's why they looked a little darker green color. But, my intuition tells me something else. I started to focus more on that darker green energy with my perception.

"Gasp" left my mouth. My eyes were wide open. Seeing my reaction, Uncle James asked what happened. I assured him that I'm fine.

But, actually, I was stunned. My mind went blank due to that, I don't know what to think for a moment. "I totally forgot about this guy" I commented in my heart. I'm not talking about an actual person. But Element. That's right, My Wood Element or otherwise called Healing Element.

I saw, above the dark green color energies. A hazy brown color light has been covering the entire area on top of it. The Brown Colour light is making the healing operation faster. By making the green color energies darker and strengthening the solution.

"I did forget that I was a three-element user." I thought in my mind. It was then, I noticed at Dr. Mearov's center. I have seen my wood element.

Earlier I thought, I had a lesser affinity with the wood elements. Having Lightning Element, I totally forgot about it. I remembered the incident during affinity testing. I believe my wood element affinity is the same as the Blood element affinity.

I don't care even it's less than that because it's a rare healing element. I already had lightning element for battle and blood element for strength. It would be great if I could use wood elements for personal use only.

Zack's mind is working faster to get Healing Cultivation Method.
