

Bloodline 981

Chapter 981: Protecting Luchan City

The officer then went on to explain everything that had happened here within the last few days that were explained to him by the officer at the counter within the MBO tower.

Gustav already knew about the whole thing being a conspiracy and how they found one of the people who was most likely responsible who ended up committing suicide to cover up the deeds.

It was also known that there are others involved who are most likely infected people and controlling them as well.

What Gustav had no idea about was the situation of Gradier Xanatus and Red Shadow who had both jumped off the walls and headed towards Gildian City.

Gustav was a bit surprised that they would infiltrate the city on legs which meant they would have to go through thousands of infected.

This way was risky since they could get infected themselves.

"Oh so they also wanted to cut down the numbers of the infected in the process," Gustav figured out their motive.

While they could not use any transport to get into the city due to its contagious state, they could still get a jet that could travel very high above the decimated city and drop from above.

If they had done this they wouldn't have been able to cut down on the numbers of infected.

"Which direction did they head in?" Gustav asked.

"The west well area," The officer replied.

Gustav turned to face the west at this point as his eyes zoomed in on the wall that was hundreds of miles away.

[Lightning Blitz Has Been Activated]

Thirrrrhzzzhhhh~

Gustav streaked across the air like a lightning bolt appeared over a hundred miles away from his initially position.

He activated the ability two more times and in just two seconds, he arrived atop the west side of the wall.

The officer who was standing at his initial position had a look of awe after Gustav had disappeared from this place.

He had expected they would use a hover car to get there but he just got a call on the communication channel that someone had just arrived on the west side of the wall.

With the vehicle it would still take them around five minutes to get there but Gustav had gotten there in only two seconds.

"Officer Crimson," The Officers who were initially alerted when a light bolt suddenly turned into someone now became calm when they saw that it was Gustav.

The barrier surrounding the city could be left easily but getting back in was the problem. Now that Gustav was outside the barrier, he could forget about going back in the meantime.

On Gustav sides, multiple officers could be seen standing in place as their eyes were focused on the ground ahead.

"They're not attacking at the moment," He muttered underneath his breath.

"We just finished dealing with a set an hour ago and even lost some of our men," One of the officers said to Gustav while pointing at some dents on the wall.

"Any patterns?" Gustav asked.

"Besides the fact that they sometimes come in hoards every one to two or three hours sometimes, I don't see any," The officer responded.

"That in itself is a pattern," Gustav muttered.

"And they all vary in abilities with some being sturdier than others..." The officer began explaining again.

'Tell me something I don't already know,' Gustav said internally.

They didn't really have any new information for him since Gustav already knew these things. What he wanted to know now was where all these infected were coming from.

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

Gustav's eyes zoomed across the forestry region beyond the wall, scaling past hundreds and thousands of destroyed infected corpses scattered across the place.

"You guys didn't find a way to disintegrate the corpses?" Gustav voiced out with a tone of urgency he looked across the place with God Eyes.

The amount of ashy corpses he had seen shook him a little.

"No Officer Crimson, the bodies no longer move after receiving a specific amount of damage," The officer beside him voiced out.

"You fools!" Gustav stated causing the officer to be taken aback.

"Unless their bodies are completely destroyed they will always come back. The only reason the corpses might not have regained life at the moment must be because the culprits want you guys to lose your guards. They will most likely control them to regain life based on the time that favours whatever they're plotting," Gustav voiced out lengthily.

The others in the vicinity had awestruck expressions as they stared the corpses scattered all over down below.

Gustav felt the culprits must be planning to take them by surprise and bring these ones back to life at the same moment they sent another massive hoarde here.

Gustav's eyes suddenly widened in realization as he thought of something.

"Corpses..." He muttered underneath his breath.

"Officer Crimson?" The officers by the side called out his name with a tone of urgency but Gustav was currently lost in his own state of realisation.

"They're making use of the corpses in Gildian City... they're infecting corpses," Gustav's expression was that of realisation as he figured this out.

"Officer Crimson!" One of the officers called out again, causing Gustav to be pulled out of his reverie.

Gustav could feel the trembling of the wall at this point and looked up ahead.

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

His sight phased past the trees and grasses as he spotted another hoarde of infected headed towards the wall.

This time they seemed to be coming from every direction.

Ghhrrhh!

The corpses that had been taken down initially began to vibrate as well.

The ones on the wall who were able to spot this realised that Gustav was accurate with his words earlier.

As Gustav retracted his vision he voiced out, "There's no less than Two hundred thousand of them heading this way,"

Their eyes all widened in shock as they heard that.

"Two hundred thousand?"

"Are you sure you're not mistaken?"

"We're only around ten thousand on this wall,"

Voices of panic could be heard all around.

Chapter 982: Gustav Takes Command

"Two hundred thousand?"

"Are you sure you're not mistaken?"

"We're only around ten thousand on this wall,"

Voices of panic could be heard all around.

Gustav only voiced it out low but it had already spread across the wall quickly from the others who were exclaiming in shock.

At the same moment Gustav leaped into the air with his hands outstretched.

A milky colored glow appeared on his arm as he stretched them out.

Thooom! Thooom! Thooom!

Balls of milky colored light shot out across the place and landed on the ground up ahead.

The instant they landed on the ground, they expanded intensely disintegrating the surroundings and everything they touched.

The corpses that were about to rise were disintegrated as these balls of light expanded and even got rid of the trees and vegetation across a radius of three thousand feet.

The officers who were standing on the wall were hyped up by this sudden attack of Gustav that had just practically incinerated the environment.

"Focus on destroying them completely and leaving no body parts left!" Gustav yelled out as wings sprouted out from his back.

The others on the walls let out a battle cry as attacks began to fly forward.

Those who had fire based abilities or practically any bloodlines with abilities similar to disintegration began working on making sure the beaten down corpses of the infected were gotten rid of.

They had began sending attacks out before the infected even arrived hundreds of feet before the wall.

Gustav flew forward as a reddish hilted katana with electrifying arcs swimming around it, appeared in his grasp.

The infected were still rushing forward with speed and some were now around five hundred feet away from the walls.

Gustav raised the katana as he arrived at a particular spot in the air and swung downwards with intensity.

Vrrrrhhhhhhh!

A massive red arc travelled downwards with intensity and left a gigantic gash in the ground upon making contact.

The ground trembled intensely as cracks appeared all over the ground began sinking in even more.

A deep gash like pit had been left in the ground from this attack, that covered a distance of more than four thousand feet.

This pit created from Gustav's attack was at least one hundred and fifty feet deep and it had surrounded this part of the wall, around five hundred feet ahead.

The infected who were rushing forward without thinking began to fall into the pit Gustav's attack had created.

"Aim your attacks towards the pit!" Gustav yelled out.

The officers on the walls let out a battle cry again in response as they began firing attacks at the pit ahead.

Gustav didn't stop there. He flew towards the west side and performed the same action again, leaving very wide gash like pits on the ground several hundred feet before the wall.

He yelled for the officers to aim their attacks there as the infected began to fall in.

This slowed the infected down by a whole lot as the ones with normal human size fell in.

While they kept falling in, numerous attacks ranging from fireballs to blueish energy balls, to lightning bolts to dark energy strikes, landed in the hole making all sorts of explosions to ring out.

Some of the other infected who had mutated to the point where they were even more massive than a tree were able to scale over.

Swhwiiiiii!

A massive ash colored hand suddenly phased past Gustav's left as he moved to the side to dodge in mid air.

Gustav slashed the katana upwards in response causing the immensely long arm to get cleaved in two.

It let out a toxic ashy colored gas at the area Gustav cut off, causing him to dive upwards with speed..

Numerous more hands were flying upwards from below causing Gustav to dodge repeatedly as he tried to escape the toxins.

'Using energy discharge would be good in this situation but it would affect the wall too... I can only use attacks that don't cover a large radius,' Gustav thought internally as he peeked downwards.

He spotted the infected which had no less than twenty seven arms protruding from his body. He flipped repeatedly in the air as he dodged more of the arms before diving downwards with speed.

Gustav swung his katana towards the right as he descended to a point.

Thwwwiiiiiii!

Another reddish arch slashed forward, ripping the tree sized infected in two and even destroying tens of infected behind.

Greenish balls of Toxin began flying towards Gustav before he could dash upwards again.

[Gravitational Displacement Has Been Activated]

Gustav suddenly stretched his left hand towards the side, causing the green balls of toxin to start flying back in the direction it came from.

It blasted through multiple infected as it arrived back in the mouth of the infected who spat it out.

Boom!

The head of the infected got blasted to pieces.

Bang!

Gustav landed on the ground and looked forward.

The entire vicinity was crowded with infected to the point that he couldn't even see spaces in between them as they hurried forward with blood shot eyes.

Bang! Boom! Boom! Boom!

Explosions rang out across the place as the attacks from the officers atop the walls kept landing and destroying hundred of infected.

However even with the number of infected they were destroying by the second, it still looked as if the swarm of infected were unaffected.

The sheer numbers that were left made it look like their efforts were in vain.

Gustav hand tightened around the katana as blood flowed down his right hand.

'Might be the best time to make use of that temporary energy doubling card,' Gustav said internally.

The system wasted no time in using one of the cards Gustav had gotten as a reward according to his will.

[x2 24hrs Energy Boost Card Has Been Activated]

[Host Energy Will Be Two Times As High For The Next Twenty Four Hours]

'I'll have to keep the katana back in my storage device after this attack,'

Chapter 983: Clearing A Hoarde

[Power Boost Has Been Activated]

[-500 EP]

Gustav moved the katana to the side as he prepared to swing it. His muscles expanded intensely that it even showed through his uniform.

As the infected closed in, Gustav finally swung sideways with intensity.

Fwwwiiiiiihshhshhshzhzhgg!

A gigantic reddish arc carrying tremendous energy suddenly blasted forth as the ground trembled violently from the sudden outburst.

Boom!

The grounds split open in Gustav's position as the residue energy from the attacks affected the grounds and every area surrounding him, including behind.

The reddish arc was so gigantic it had stretched out to cover no less than half of the area surrounding the walls.

Even before making contact, some of the infected were already getting ripped to shreds by the intense energy it generated.

The officers on the walls watched from above with their jaws loosened as they saw the intense destructiveness the attack was wreaking on the surroundings.

In just an instant, over ten thousand infected were cleared before the arc thinned out and disappeared.

The entire area had been turned into a pit fall as the ground caved in from the attack despite Gustav's attack not aimed at it.

Currently Gustav was floating in the air due to the land caving in from his attack.

Gustav's arms had exploded but he managed to keep the katana back in his storage device before they fell into the pit that had been created.

He was flying armless as he stared at the destroyed surroundings.

Only dark and caved in ground could be spotted for as far as the eyes could see.

He had practically cleared the first hoarde of infected who were way ahead of the others.

-"How is he so powerful?"

- "I'm a Echo ranked but even I can't do that,"

- "I can't even spot any of the infected right now,"

The officers on the walls behind all had looks of astonishment as they looked downwards.

There were only a few Kilo ranked officers on the walls and they were the ones who were managing to destroy fifty of these normal looking infected with every attack.

However the more powerful infected were difficult to take down with a single attack sometimes especially when they were also aiming at the wall with their own attacks.

Some MBO officers had already been hit by attacks which proved just how dangerous those ones were.

The southern side of the wall was still being attacked by the infected who had branched to that side but the ones in the western side had practically been completely cleared for now.

"Go assist those on the Southern side. I'll take care of this place myself," Gustav voiced out as he flew upwards to have a better view of the environment.

The MBO officers on this side of the wall who were no less than Two thousand five hundred began to move towards the southside after hearing what Gustav had said.

There was no doubt he could hold his own in the meantime since currently there were no infected in sight.

The ones on the south side were having it difficult because the numbers had tilted after some of the infected moved towards that side when they sensed the outburst of energy.

On the southern side of the wall Gustav had also created a pit in front but it had been filled up already.

Some MBO officers who could fly could already be seen in the dark sky raining down attacks on the infected that caused the entire vicinity to quake.

Gustav breathed in as he made use of God Eyes to peer forward.

The rest of the hoarde behind were already closing in on the wall again. There were no more trees or vegetation in the vicinity as everything had been destroyed from the initial attack.

[Lightning Blitz Has Been Activated]

Gustav suddenly disappeared as he turned into a streak of lightning and reappeared hundred miles away instantly.

The infected who was charging forward had not expected to suddenly see someone appeared before him but then he noticed Gustav was armless and lunged forward.

A pair of arms suddenly pushed out from Gustav's intially empty shoulders as he reached out and grabbed hold of the infected head.

"Time to go back to the land of the dead," He muttered as he squeezed.

Bang!

The head of the infected bursted open like a watermelon that was smashed with a sledgehammer.

Gustav had found himself in the midst of the infected again and all of them were lunging for him.

[Gravitational Displacement Has Been Activated]

[Energy Discharge Has Been Activated]

An outburst of reddish energy suddenly blasted out from his being.

Boooooom!

-Gildian City

"How do they keep evading us?" Red Shadow asked as he looked around the vicinity only to see holes all over the place.

"If we had a way of pinpointing all the locations of cemetery within Gildian City it would make things a whole lot easier," Gradier Xanatus voiced out as he inspected the place.

"Now we're only retracing their steps and it's making us slower in catching them," Red Shadow voiced with a sigh.

They had been on this for up to a day now and they had no idea about the situation of Luchan City since they couldn't communicate back to them.

Due to what they had found out recently they knew Luchan City was in real trouble.

If the culprits were gatekeeping some of the infected just so they could gather them in large numbers and send them all at the same time, Luchan City would definitely fall due to the high number of corpses.

"We need to find a way to pinpoint all of the ceme..." Gradier Xanatus suddenly paused as he sensed something.

"Did you hear that too or its just me?" He said with a low tone.

"I heard it as well..." Red Shadow responded with his eyes depicting confusion.

"That voice..." Gradier Xanatus muttered as he stared at Red Shadow.

"It's the kid," Both of them stated at the same time

Chapter 984: Its The Kid

"That voice..." Gradier Xanatus muttered as he stared at Red Shadow.

"It's the kid," Both of them stated at the same time.

They both had looks of confusion and disbelief mixed on their faces.

They were not hearing the voice from their ears, instead they were hearing it within their minds.

- "Gradier Xanatus, Red Shadow can you hear me?"

'Gustav, is that you?' Red Shadow asked internally.

- 'Yeah,'

'How are you doing this kid?' Gradier Xanatus questioned within his mind as well.

It turned out a kind of mind link had been created where Red Shadow and Gradier Xanatus could hear each other and converse with Gustav as well.

- 'I'm currently at the borders of Luchan City, battling the hoardes of infected,'

'You came here?' Red Shadow responded with a tone of surprise since he recalled Gustav stating he was busy with something.

- 'Yes I came to help out. I had to stay because the numbers increased by a whole lot and its getting difficult for the officers deployed here.'

Both of them had looks of urgency as they heard that. It turned out things had gotten worse after they had left just like they assumed it would.

-I figured something out... The infected being sent here are corpses from the cemeteries in Gildian City,' Gustav voiced internally.

'We know about that already,' Gradier Xanatus said in response.

'We're currently trying to retrace their steps so we can find them before they revive every single corpse here,' Red Shadow explained.

'It's proving difficult because we can't navigate the way to the cemeteries ourselves without a GPS, with the bad visuals and toxic energy in the air...' Gradier Xanatus also added.

-So you guys just need a way to pinpoint the locations of every cemetery within Gilidian City right?' Gustav asked.

'It would make things a whole lot easier if there was a way we could do that. Trying to retrace their steps will take more time and who knows, we might already be too late before we find them,' Gradier Xanatus replied.

-Hmm alright... wait to get the signals...'

'What signals?' Gradier Xanatus questioned internally but this time there was no response.

Red Shadow noticed they couldn't communicate with one another in their minds anymore which meant the link had been disconnected.

"How did the kid even do that? Luchan City is at least Six hundred miles away from our position," Gradier Xanatus voiced out with a confused expression.

Red Shadow couldn't answer this since he was also unaware of how Gustav pulled such a feat.

"He asked us to hold on so I guess he's about to try something again," Red Shadow stated.

Both of them knew very well that Gustav never failed to amaze them so they decided to hold on for a bit to see what he was about to pull off again.

Back in Luchan City, Gustav had just landed from the sky again and sent rumbling waves across thousands of feet, destroying the vicinity.

Hundreds of infected were ripped apart with body parts flying in every direction as he moved forward.

[Atomic Disintegration Has Been Activated]

"Purification," Gustav voiced out as he stretched his hand forward causing milky light to shoot out.

Every body part in the vicinity was disintegrated in a couple of seconds and Gustav peered forward once more while activating God Eyes.

"They're still more than ten minutes away... the faster ones will arrive within half the time," Gustav voiced as he retracted his sight.

Thwwiiihhhhh!

He leaped into the air as wings sprouted out of his back.

"I need to be quick with this," He voiced as he stared in the direction of Gildian City.

Far ahead he could see the purplish fog that enshrouded the city.

("You'll need to be very high in order for any computerized to work since its Gildian City,") The system voiced in his mind.

"How high?" Gustav asked.

("Almost if not space level high...") The system replied.

Gustav subconsciously sucked in breath as he heard this.

He looked upwards and suddenly blasted further into the skies.

Booom!

A sonic boom was created as he headed upwards speedily. The winds pushed Gustav's hairs to the back as they swam from across his sides from the intensity.

While Gustav was flying high, he was also moving forward so he would be directly above Gildian City when he reached his desired height.

'High enough?' Gustav asked internally as he kept flying upwards.

("Still need about a hundred miles or so,") The system responded.

The instant Gustav heard this response he activated an ability.

[Lightning Blitz Has Been Activated]

His body turned into a streak of lightning as he ascended further in the sky, cutting across a hundred miles in an instant.

The instant Gustav reappeared high in the sky, he paused his ascent.

"Wow," Gustav exclaimed as he felt the laws of gravity began to affect him.

He was at a point in the sky where he knew misbalance could cause him to start floating into outer space uncontrollably.

The wings on his back were not functioning properly at this height so he activated Hover to balance himself.

It was currently nightfall in this part of the world but Gustav could faintly spot the sunlight on the other side of earth at this height.

He could see the curvature of earth as well which was blocking the sunlight at the edge while the moonlight was still further upwards from his direction.

This wasn't the time to admire space since he was here for an important reason. A device similar to a tab appeared in Gustav's hand displaying a map and pinpointing several spots.

Gustav stared at it as he noted these places that were pointed out.

He was currently floating far above Gildian City staring at the places on the maps that had been pointed out by the device.

Initially Gustav had spoken to Red Shadow and Gradier Xanatus through Mental Manipulation.

He knew they were somewhere within Gildian City but of course no one would have an idea of where they were precisely within the city.

Chapter 985: Helping Out From Space

Even if anyone knew of their precise location, Gustav couldn't head to them because he had to join the other officers in protecting the city. He just needed to talk to them so he could pass on the information he knew about the corpses.

He had no idea if they were aware or not but he knew it was worth the try since this would potentially save them a lot of time if they didn't already know.

He had made use of one of the temporary Bloodline Enhancement Cards he got as a reward from the system for finishing the one year quest.

After using it on the Mental Manipulation Bloodline, he was able to spread the range of his mental perception.

He just needed to keep speaking in the minds of every life he encountered while spreading out his mental perception and based on the response he would know if the mind belonged to the people he was looking for.

Fortunately he found them and was able to pass across his message which all led to this moment.

He wanted to help them in pinpointing the locations of the Cemeteries within Gildian City.

It was impossible to use computerized devices in Gildian City so he had to come all the way up here just so he could use one to mark out the cemeteries on the map.

Gustav proceeded to keep the tab that pinpointed these locations and activated God Eyes.

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

His sight zoomed down with speed as he locked in on one of the cemeteries.

This was the precise location where Gradier Xantus and Red Shadow were situated.

A spherical shaped purplish orb suddenly appeared out of nowhere in front of him.

The orb which was gleaming with bright lights and reddish lightning like arcs swimming around it suddenly began to descend from the sky with speed.

Fwwwhhiiiiiiiiizzhfff~

It dropped at an insanely fast speed, heading in the same direction Gustav had his eyes on.

Despite the purplish fog that enshrouded the city, Gustav's sight was still extremely clear from this height while he made use of God Eyes.

"It's been almost two minutes now, we really don't have time to waste," Red Shadow said with a tone of impatience.

"Yeah but it's Gustav... he's definitely up to something and I'm sure we'll be seeing in a few," Gradier Xanatus stated in response.

Immediately after Gradier Xanatus finished saying that a head sized glowing orb suddenly fell from the sky.

It took them by surprise but in the next instant it stopped falling before it made contact with the ground.

It floated upwards and stopped right in front of Gradier Xanatus. It paused in mid air after arriving in front of him.

Gradier Xanatus turned to glance at Red Shadow with a 'I told you so look,'

They thought they would be hearing a voice next or something but instead the orb began moving.

Fwwhiiii!

It turned to head in the southwest direction, causing them to give chase.

Gustav who was far above, was not just leading them to a cemetery but leading them towards the cemetery where he had spotted some people doing shady deeds.

He wanted to be quick with this so he could get down back to Luchan City before the next wave of infected arrived there.

The orb was moving very quickly and both of them gave chase. They were both very quick so it wasn't a problem even when the orb was moving at a speed of two thousand feet per second.

About a minute later, they noticed they were closing in on a particular location and Red Shadow could sense the presence of living creatures.

"We're here," Red Shadow voiced out as they closed in on a particular area.

"We have to head forward subtly at this point... they must not see us coming," Gradier Xanatus also voiced out as he suddenly paused his movement.

Both of them stood behind a particular tree as they stared at an area up ahead which had broken down fences erected around it.

The orb had also stopped moving at this point and was about to turn around.

"Thanks kid," Gradier Xanatus was unaware of whether Gustav could hear him or not but he still voiced out.

The orb turned around at this point and began to speed back towards Luchan City borders.

Far up in space, Gustav noticed he had finished playing his part and took his eyes off the area he had sent Gradier Xanatus and Red Shadow in.

He had left them to take care of the rest since he knew just how capable they were.

He had to still worry about the side of the city walls he was protecting.

"Damn it they're close!" Gustav suddenly voiced out with a tone of urgency as he spotted the infected heading towards the west side of the wall.

At this same moment...

[Hover Has Been Deactivated]

Hover got deactivated after it's activation time finished counting down and now it went into cooldown mode.

Gustav began to lose his balance in space due to this and quickly activated his Flames Death Ace mixedbreed Bloodline, sprouting massive batwing from his back.

However even with this he was barely able ti stabilise himself since being in earth atmosphere was a lot different than being in space.

Gustav knew if he headed down at this point, the infected would get to the wall before he did so he focused intensely at this point even with the bad stability.

His orb flew speedily in the direction he wanted and in a manner of seconds it was already tearing through the ranks of infected from behind.

Gustav waited for a bit till it arrived at the area he wanted it to before stating in his mind, 'Detonate,'

In the west area of Luchan City walls, there were barely any officers standing in this part since Gustav had sent them to assist the others on the south side.

However, a dangerous situation was currently brewing as large numbers of infected were heading this way.

Chapter 986 Perfect Timing

However, a dangerous situation was currently brewing as large numbers of infected were heading this way.

They had closed in on the walls in the west area and the number of MBO officers currently manning this part of the wall were very few.

They were already making calls on the communication channel about the impending doom.

The other side of the wall was also facing difficulty with the numbers of infected attacking so it had become quite a dangerous situation with barely any officials to spare.

Some were already heading towards the west side as quickly as they could as they heard the voices of urgency from the officers there.

The officers on the west side were trying their best to keep the infected away from the wall but the ones that had already closed in on the walls were extremely quick and quite sturdy.

Even with the others heading towards the west side of the wall it was looking like it might be too late as a few of them were only ten feet away from getting to the wall.

All of a sudden...

Boooooommm!

A massive explosion rang out from hundreds of feet beyond, sending destructive shockwaves across the vicinity.

The purplish with reddish waves of energy mixed in ripped the creatures in the vicinity to shreds, even reaching the walls.

Ghrhrhhbbbb!

The walls trembled intensely as the residue energy slammed into it. The officers struggled to keep their balance and fortunately no one fell over but they wondered where such destructive attack had come from.

Thousands of infected were destroyed in an instant and those who had closed in on the walls had their body parts sprayed all over the walls.

About three massive infect had managed to escape the destructiveness of the wave due to their sturdy bodies and began to climb the west wall.

The officers there quickly got to work and began sending forth destructive attacks downwards. A whitish shell grew out of one of them, covering his upper body as he climbed up.

The attacks kept bouncing off this particular infected as he climbed upwards.

The officers gritted their teeth and one of them leaned over the wall with a black cords reaching out of his body.

These black cords looked mettalic were each very long in length and kept stretching out, stabbing into the sides of the wall and lifting him.

Multiple of them pushed forward, pinching onto the shell of this infected with the intention of lifting it.

Suddenly a part of the shell opened up and the infected climbing up reached out with one of his hands to grab ons of the cords

Before the officer could react in time he was pulled forward and found himself heading towards the mouth of this infected which was wide open.

His eyes widened at the sheer strength of this infected which had taken him by surprise.

Chomp!

His head was cleanly bitten off in the next instant as the infected flung him towards the ground next.

The officers atop the walls had not expected the current situation and began hurling down attacks as much as they could but at the same time they were holding back so as not to damage the wall.

They were all standing on the wall afterwards.

Since they were focusing on this one, two other infected were climbing up with ease.

The officers who sent attacks towards the others were barely able to hit them due to their speed.

The sturdy one suddenly leaped upwards with speed, crossing over one thousand feet across the wall in an instant.

The officers eyes widened as they spotted the infected above the wall, falling from the air towards their stand point.

At this same instant, a loud ripping sound reverberated across the air. It sounded like the sky was being ripped open...

Thiiizzzhhhh!

One of the officers who hadn't reacted in time was about to get his neck bitten by the thirteen feet tall infected that had suddenly leaped across the wall.

However a streak of lightning suddenly appeared in front of him and transformed into a young man with dirty blonde hair.

"Get Lost!"

His thunderous voice rang out as his right hand which was tightened in a fist shot forward with intensity.

Bang!

Shockwaves spread across the place as a might punch slammed into the side of this infected face.

Thwhiiihhhh!

The force of the punch sent him hurling back in the direction he leapt from.

At the same instant Gustav did this, he leapt forward while stretching his hands to the side.

[Atomic Disintegration Has Been Activated]

Two large atomic blades appeared in his grasps as he fell across the air.

He spotted the other two infected climbing upwards and flung the atomic blades in their direction.

Fwhhiiii! Fwwhiiii!

The blades accurately tore right through the foreheads of these infected causing them to lose balance as they fell through the air.

Gustav who was falling across three thousand feet stabilised himself and arrived right below the infected he had just punched.

Bam!

He landed right atop him and made use of Gravitational Displacement to increase their fall speed and mass.

Bang!

A cloud of dust blasted across the place as the grounds once more trembled from the impact of Gustav landing right on top of this infected.

Another crater had yet again been formed on the ground and three infected could be seen within.

The officers atop the walls began sending down attacks as the other two who were speedily climbing over the wall earlier had finally been stopped.

These two were not dead yet despite Gustav's attack but after the bombardment of the officers atop the wall they were blasted to smithereens.

"Stop attacking! Don't hit Officer Crimson!"

One of them yelled out after noticing the area of impact was awfully close to where Gustav had landed.

As the dust cleared up Gustav looked down as saw that he was standing on a shell instead of a body like he expected.

To his surprise this shell was very sturdy and even with such intense landing, it didn't have more than a few scratches on it.

Chapter 987 Doomed City

The infected being protected by the shell suddenly began moving at this point and lifted Gustav off him.

"I really don't have time for this, I should destroy you now," Gustav stated as he sent out another fist the instant the shell was lifted.

At the same moment the infected who was more than two times Gustav's height reached out to block Gustav's fist.

Bang!

He got sent flying across the air and did a flip once before landing on the ground to balance himself.

Tzzzhhhh!

The infected still slid back by a few feet more before finding stability.

The creature made a weird shrieking sound in the next instant as it lowered it's hand.

"This one is definitely stronger than the others," Gustav noticed that his punch was barely effective against it.

Besides that it seemed like this infected had higher intelligence than the others as it didn't just try to jump in and attack Gustav foolishly.

It even knew how to block an attack, something which the others had done.

"We can assume there won't be more like this in the coming hoardes... things are going to get more difficult," Gustav analysed.

Gustav dashed forward at this point...

Swwoooshhh!

Despite how sturdy the creature was, it was still no match for Gustav's speed.

Grab!

Gustav grabbed it by the neck and leaped into the air.

Bang!

He slammed the creature into the ground as he descended from the head.

However it had managed to shield itself with this shell again and remain undamaged. Gustav's hand was now stuck underneath this shell that had covered its upper body with the exception of its shoulder.

Getting stuck there, the creature made use of this opportunity to attack Gustav by swinging its hands forward.

"Enough!" Gustav's eyes glowed a dark red as claws protruded from his hand stuck underneath the infected shell.

Thriiihhhhzzz!

His claws ripped right through the head of the creature, dividing it in two halves.

The creature still had life in it even after this and still tried to stab its hand through Gustav's belly even after the attack.

Bang!

It was like its hand hit something ten times sturdier than steel as Gustav remained unaffected by the hit.

He forcefully pulled his hand from under the shell ripping a bit of his hand off in the process. His hands healed very fast as he reached out to grab the creature's arms and ripped them from their sockets.

[Atomic Disintegration Has Been Activated]

"Purification," Gustav voiced out as a bright milky light enveloped his entire figure.

The others on the west wall saw that Gustav had finally dealt with the infected and heaved a sigh of relief.

They hoped there wouldn't be more infected like this that would be difficult to deal with but they had no idea what reality had in store for them.

With the number in hoards increasing by the hour, who knew what they would encounter.

"There are more heading this way," One of them yelled out from above the wall.

Gustav turned around at this point and leapt upwards.

Thooomm!

The earth vibrated as he travelled across two thousand feet in an instant before landing on the wall.

Gustav turned back around to look forward.

[God Eyes Has Been Activated]

"We're going to need more reinforcements," Gustav voiced out as he spotted the hoarde heading in this direction.

"We've been asking from the tower but they said this is the number of officers they can deploy at the moment. That we have to make do with these numbers," One of the officers voiced out.

"Pfft with these numbers, the city is pretty much doomed," Gustav voiced out with a light chuckle before his face went back to looking serious

The officers that heard this were overcome with a look of dread. They recalled Gustav had mentioned the number of infected headed towards the wall when they were still miles away.

Gustav was accurate about the numbers which made them realise he must have seen the numbers headed here at the moment and decided the city was doomed.

'There are only two ways out of this now... Those two find a way to avert this crisis by dealing with it on their own end or we evacuate the city right now... Either way, with the numbers approaching this city is pretty much toast,' Gustav said internally.

"I need one of you to head back into the city and convince those in command to find a way to evacuate the city right now... we might be able to hold the number for some time but they will eventually break through this defense," Gustav said with a tone of urgency.

"Evacuation right now is..." One of the officers was speaking when Gustav cut him off.

"I know... Just try to make sure it happens, if not... this entire city will turn into an infected territory," Gustav stated.

The officer who looked like young and dark with curly white hair nodded in response before heading towards the south area of the wall.

He flew upwards as he sped up, trying to accomplish the task Gustav gave him quickly.

"Well if they chose not to listen I might as well just destroy the entire city... Won't let the world be jeopardised because of one city," Gustav muttered with an undisturbed look.

He didn't really care much about the state of the world but for the people he cares about, he had to care which was why he didn't care about destroying everyone here so long as the people he cared about were unaffected.

He was glad Red Shadow and Gradier Xanatus were currently not here so he felt he was in the clear.

The officer beside him who heard him mutter all had looks of disbelief and internally hoped Gustav was joking about destroying the entire city.

Some of them even doubted he had the power to do so even though this was a small city.

Hopefully they wouldn't have to find out whether Gustav was capable of that or not.

"Are you ready to battle Mixedbreed and mixedblood infected too?" Gustav asked as he deactivated God Eyes.

Chapter 988: A Mix Of Infected

"Are you ready to battle Mixedbreed and mixedblood infected too?" Gustav asked as he deactivated God Eyes.

"What?" The officers exclaimed with looks of disbelief as they heard that.

"Why do you think I said the city is doomed," Gustav voiced out rhetorically.

It turned out Gustav had spotted ashy colored creatures that were not humans within the midst of the infected.

So far with the situation of the infected, there had never been a case of infected Mixedbreed reported. So far it had been humans, Slarkovs and a few mixedbloods that had been reported infected.

Mixedbloods had a bit of resistance within them which was why they couldn't easily get infected but Humans and Slarkovs who were more normal could easy get contaminated with the ashy infection.

The few mixedbloods that had been infected were immediately taken care of(killed) because they were more of a threat than Human or Slarkov infected.

A mixedblood infected would have their bloodline abilities boosted and even evolved at times with the state of their bodies changing. They were way more stronger.

The one Gustav had just killed earlier too was a mixedblood infected. Who knew how many mixedbloods died on the day Gildian City was destroyed.

The situation was about to get real worse with even mixedbreed infected entering the fray. Gustav didn't really see anyway out of this situation without the city getting run over.

However if Red Shadow and Gradier Xanatus were able to find the culprits, maybe they would find a way to take care of this situation.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

The sounds of collision rang out across the vicinity as a heated battle between six people played out.

Two were on the same side while the other four were their opponents.

They each took care of two opponents and it looked like even when they were outnumbered they were still winning.

"Hyaaaahhh!"

One of the opponents who had magnetic like armor on his body yelled out as he formed a massive fist with it and sent it hurling down at the masked man who was facing one of his comrades.

Red Shadow spotted this attack and quickly grabbed hold of his opponent as reddish footprints appeared all over the place.

One of the footprints that was behind a large boulder blinked twice and he suddenly appeared in that spot with the person in his grasp.

Bang!

He slammed the opponent face into the boulder the moment he appeared there while the massive mettalic fist hurling down earlier, slammed onto their initial position.

The armor like blue helmet covering his opponent face broke apart, revealing part of his face after he got smashed into the boulder.

Red Shadow spotted the feminine face bleeding within the space in the helmet as he figured out he had been fighting with a woman all this time.

"Don't treat me as a woman! Fight me fairly without holding back," She voiced out as she noticed the look of realisation in Red Shadow's eyes despite his masked face.

Bang!

Red Shadow's fist suddenly slammed into her gut sending her hurling across the air.

Bam! Bam! Bam! Bam!

She slammed through several trees due to the impact from his punch.

"Never said I'd hold back," Red Shadow muttered underneath his breath.

Immediately after saying that he made a side dash, dodging another fierce attack.

Boom!

A blueish streak of energy charged past his side as the other opponent covered in black mettalic armor charger crazily towards him.

On the other side, Gradier Xanatus kept dashing from side to side as he dodged the attacks of the two he was fighting against.

Every single opponent here had an armor like helmet covering their faces and they were also clad in technology suits with different purposes.

Gradier Xanatus had never seen such high class suits that could contend against the power Mixedbloods except in the MBO.

And even within the MBO one would need to be a Mixedblood before they could use such suits but he surprisingly couldn't sense any bloodline energy coming from this bunch.

He could have ended this sooner but he kept dragging out the fight to be sure he wasn't mistaken. With these technology suits, they would be able to challenge Echo ranked mixedbloods and there was a high possibility of them winning.

"Hyaaahhh!" One of them yelled out again as multiple laser blades flew out from his technological suits.

Gradier Xanatus leaped upwards and these blades followed him like they had locked onto him.

At the same moment one of the appeared right behind him like he teleported and joined both hands before sending a conjoined fist hurling down at Gradier Xanatus in the air.

Gradier Xanatus moved to the side even in mid air and reached out to grab something.

A staff appeared in his hand and began gleaming with a dark purplish light.

Gradier Xanatus waved this in the air, clearing the laser blades flying at him in an instant.

As he fell from the air he raised his staff with intensity and slammed it downwards the moment he made contact with the ground.

Boom!

A massive shockwave spread out, slamming heavily into the one on ground.

He got tossed across the air as even the trees in the vicinity cleared from the destructiveness.

Bang!

He got knocked out the instant he slammed into a rock hundred feet behind.

The one in the air had a look of anger as he charged downwards to engage Gradier Xanatus.

In a part of Luchan City within a large building, a brown skinned young MBO officer with white curly hair could be seen engaging in a serious banter with some men clad in MBO uniforms.

With the way their uniforms looked, it was obvious that they were high ranking officers.

"We cannot do that boy," One of them voiced out.

"This city will be overrun by the infected soon," The curly white haired officer stated with a tone of frustration.

"Says who? The officers on the wall are more than capable of preventing that," The officer on the left with only few strands of hair on his head voiced out in response.

Chapter 989: Officer Fola's Sentimentality

"Officer Crimson asked me to pass this message across. He says there is no preventing what is coming. If you want the people to survive you have to evacuate everyone," The curly white haired officer said once more.

"Officer Fola, while I understand that this is a message from Officer Crimson, you must understand that evacuation right now is simply just impossible," The other officer with a glowing green colored hair said with a regretful tone.

"You guys don't understand... the lives of everyone is at stake here. This has to be done or..." While Officer Fola was speaking again, the officer interrupted.

"No I do understand but the other cities will not open their borders to anyone from this city and the government is trying to prevent any possible spread so they're allowing it to happen... Evacuation is truly an impossible situation even though this is a request from our saviour," The officer with a glowing green hair stated.

Officer Fola had a look of defeat on his face as he heard this. He turned to the side to look out the window and down below he could spot thousands of Luchan City citizens standing outside a gate with downcast looks.

"They're all gonna die and get turned into infected... I don't think you two understand the severity of the situation," Fola started speaking once more with a decisive look.

He wasn't ready to give up yet in trying to convince these old farts to get the people out of here.

"If the entire city becomes a city of the infected its gonna be worse for the world and the culprits who had orchestrated this whole thing would have won because they will have more infected to control which means they could head to other cities with a larger army," He voiced out.

The two had contemplative looks as they heard this which made Officer Fola face lit up with a hopeful expression.

"I'm afraid it's still not possible..."

His hopes were doused with a bucket of cold water as he heard this response from one of the two high ranking officials.

"If this city ever gets taken over, the higher ups will give the command for it to be blasted off the map which means everything will be destroyed including the infected," The officer explained while placing his hand on Officer Fola's shoulder.

"The only way to save this city is by preventing the infected from breaking through," He added.

This closing remark made Fola feel as though this was an impossible situation.

With the way things were, the city getting taken over by infected was inevitable and evacuation was impossible. It really looked like an hopeless situation.

He turned to stare at the people waiting outside once more, 'Is this how lives are gonna be lost under my watch this night?' He gritted his teeth as he tightened his fist with a feeling of powerlessness rising from deep within.

He left the building a while later to return towards the wall.

As he passed the front gate, the people all stared at him with respectful but tired gazes.

He tried not to look at anyone as he moved forward...

"Huh?" He noticed someone tugging at the sleeve of his uniform and turned to the side.

"Officer, my mum says we're all gonna die is it true?" A beautiful blue eyed girl who looked no older than six years old voiced out with an innocent tone.

Officer Fola felt his heart tighten as he stared down at this girl. A flashback played in his mind as he squatted in front of her.

"No, nobody is dying," He forced a smile as he responded.

"The MBO is going to protect everyone," He added causing the girl's face to lit up with a smile.

"Mother!" The girl voiced out as she turned around with a joyful look and began running towards a young lady behind.

"I told you the MBO would protect us, they're heroes," She voiced out as she ran into the embrace of the young woman who looked quite tired.

Officer Fola turned around at this point and tightened his fist, 'I will protect this city even if its the last thing I do,' He decided internally.

At this same moment, loud blasts began to ring out in the direction of the west.

It was fleeting since the distance from here to where it was going down was far but it was obvious that some crazy battle was going down.

"It has begun," Officer Fola muttered as he leaped into the air.

A blueish aura like glow surrounded him as he blasted across the air with immense speed in the direction of the west.

-The West Wall

Boom! Boom! Boom!

Sounds of explosion rang out as multiple officers could be seen below on the ground fighting against the infected that had gotten close.

The ones on the walls were hurling down attacks at the other infected behind causing the entire vicinity to tremble with different types of powerful attacks.

Some officers who were flying were handling some infected who also had flight abilities and it was proving to be a difficult battle despite only having gone on for about five minutes.

Deep within the ranks of these infected Gustav who was clad in a coat of flames charged through their midst as he ripped infected to shreds one after the other.

He was aiming for the weaker infected as he dashed across the place ignoring the stronger ones to cut down their numbers faster.

However while doing this he was also irking the more powerful infected to get them chasing after him.

He knew dealing with them would take a longer time so he evaded their attacks while making sure they continued chase.

His fist tore through the chest of another infected as he proceeded to leap upwards with his arm within it.

Boom!

A black energy filled ball landed on where he had just leapt from causing an explosion to ring out.

Gustav proceeded to fling the infected his hand stabbed through towards the other infected who had sent out this attack.

[Hover Has Been Activated]

He floated in mid air as he joined his palm together with his eyes glowing an ominous red color.

Chapter 990: Red Shadow's Impatience

[Hover Has Been Activated]

He floated in mid air as he joined his palm together with his eyes glowing an ominous red color.

[Gravitational Displacement Has Been Activated]

A radius of more than three thousand feet instantly trembled as a strange and powerful energy caused the ground to sink in.

The infected in this area all felt great pressure upon their shoulders as they fell to the ground.

Some of them got turned into meat paste as the pressure smashed them into the crumbling ground.

The more powerful ones managed to hold out as their legs sank into the ground from the pressure which decreased their speed by a whole lot.

Some Infected who were initially flying dropped crazily and Gustav made use of this opportunity to attack intensely.

[Sprint Has Been Activated]

His body turned into a blur as he bolted across the battlefield while wielding the atomic blades.

Slash! Slash! Slash!

As he bolted across the area, all that could be seen was brown and white lines. Ashy colored bodies were being ripped to shreds wherever these brown and white streaks passed.

Gustav's speed was quite insane as he tore through hundreds of Infected in a matter of seconds.

One of them flew down and landed behind him as he finished ripping another one to shreds.

An encompassing dark wings made of gas spread out from this infected as Gustav suddenly found himself trapped within this place.

The infected who looked like a dried corpse with a large hole in its chest and forehead lunged at Gustav after trapping him here.

Gustav swung his atomic blade at the infected which ended up slicing it in half only for it's body to rejoin after Gustav's arm had gone through it.

The flames coat around Gustav dampened a little due to this infected trapping Gustav's arm within itself.

"Haayyyhhhhkkk!" The creature opened its mouth causing a tornado of black fog to shot out of its mouth.

[Energy Discharge Has Been Activated]

Gustav activated Energy Discharge causing a wave of red energy to blast forth from his figure.

Boom!

The creature as well and the attack it had just spewed out got blasted backwards with intensity.

The entire vicinity was getting corroded in the process of their battle and Gustav could feel his skin melting.

This dark cocoon he had been trapped in was unaffected by his energy discharge. The attack had bounced off it.

Zing!

A transparent head sized item with a mysterious glow within, appeared behind Gustav.

"Can you leave this place?" Gustav asked.

Thizzhh!

"Good, go wreak havoc on the enemies," Gustav voiced out after a brief paused.

The floating circular shaped item, flew out of the enclosed space with ease causing the Infected to show a little expression of disbelief since it still had a bit of intelligence compared to the others.

Gustav stared at the creature who had gotten blasted quite some distance away before speaking.

"I will be destroying you now but I only sent it out there because every second counts," Gustav voiced out before charging forward.

Swwwoooooohhhh!

[Miniature Blackhole Has Been Activated]

Swirling dark and purplish streaks formed above his right palm as an intense suction force was generated from it.

The instant it slammed into the infected, it got ripped into multiple pieces before getting sucked into the small baby head sized blackhole.

The blackhole disappeared in the next instant and so did the dark encompassment.

The instant the environment was revealed to Gustav after the encompassment disappeared, all he could see around him were corpses of infected scattered across the place.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

The sound of smashing and explosion rang out up ahead. A twenty feet tall robotic like creature could be seen charging forward and pounding the infected it came across.

Energy cannons protruded out of its body as it shot destructive beams all across the battlefield.

This was none other than the Sacred Jewel which had taken the form of a gigantic bot to fight the infected just as Gustav had instructed it.

Gustav wasted no time in dashing forth once more as he began to engage the infected while trying to avoid their toxins.

The entire area was still not close to being chaos free. They had barely dealt with 5% of the entire hoarde that had just been sent out.

The entire place was teeming and crawling with them and it was only a matter of time before the MBO officers would expend their energy completely fighting this horde if the MBO did not send in more reinforcements.

-Gildian City

"Tell us how to stop this," Gradier Xanatus voiced out to one or the four who were tied together before him.

"We're not telling you squat," One of them with blood rolling down his forehead stated.

"I could get the information out of you but I'm giving you a way out from getting more hurt than you already are," Gradier Xanatus voiced out as he stood in front of them.

"We really do not have the time for this so if you four want extreme measures then so shall it be," Red Shadow's eyes glowed up, shining through his mask and giving him a menacing look.

"Even if we were to tell you anything there would be no stopping what is to come... we're already at the final phase," The lady tied up among the group of four stated.

"Diora, keep quiet," The one who spoke earlier voiced out once more.

"It doesn't matter BJ," Diora voiced out in response.

"You know all I have to do is get rid of your helmet completely for you to inhale toxic gas that would leave you dead in moments," Red Shadow voiced out as he squatted in front of the one who kept trying to be stubborn.

"If you do that you lose your only source of possible information," BJ responded with an undisturbed tone.

"Okay," Red Shadow stated before suddenly stabbing his hand through BJ's neck.

His hand was gleaming with a red color that made it intangible so he didn't physically stab into BJ's neck.

"You're about to find out one of the reasons I'm called Red Shadow," Red Shadow stated as he pulled out something from the neck of choking BJ.
