

Chapter 429 Let The World Know

As soon as Wendy got off work, she decided to go to the Oliver Group to pick up Raymond and Precious.

On their way, they passed by a bakery.

Wendy remembered how Precious loved strawberry cupcakes, so she bought some for her. Raymond didn't like desserts, so she bought him a hotdog.

It was almost five o'clock in the afternoon when they arrived at the Oliver Group, so darkness was starting to envelope the surroundings.

At the parking lot outside the company building, Wendy asked Donn to stop so they could wait for the kids. Instead of getting out of the car, she called Ryan to inform him that she was outside.

"Hello?"

"Ryan, are you done with your work? I'm outside the company right now to pick up the kids. If you're still busy, ask someone to take Ray and Precious downstairs. I'll take them home."

There was a brief silence on the other side of the phone before Ryan replied, "My secretaries are all busy here, and I don't have time to go downstairs either. Why don't you come here and get them?"

"What?"

"You don't want to come?"

"No, that's not what I mean. I'm just afraid of being recognized."

There was a hint of dissatisfaction when Ryan spoke again. "Wendy, I'm your boyfriend. What's wrong with seeing me? Why are you so worried?"

For a moment, she didn't know how to react. She wasn't worried about their relationship being discovered.

Embarrassed, Wendy glanced at the tittering Jasmine and coughed. "Well, that's not what I meant. I'm not ashamed of our relationship. I'm just worried that our lives will be affected once it gets exposed. Don't you think it's better this way? Look, we can meet every day and go out for dates freely. But if it's exposed, there will be paparazzi following us all the time. That will be so annoying."

Ryan didn't say anything to refute, so Wendy assumed that her words worked.

"So are you coming up or not?" he asked.

"Well, if you are not afraid of being gossiped about, I will."

"Don't worry. No one in my company will dare to say anything."

"Fine." It seemed that Wendy had no choice but to go upstairs.

Actually, she was also curious about the place where Ryan worked every day.

Wendy put on a hat that covered almost half of her face, and then put on a mask. Only her eyes were visible. She turned to Jasmine and asked, "Can you tell who I am now?"

"I can, only because I know you well."

It was enough for Wendy to feel relieved. "Then let's go upstairs."

What she said surprised Jasmine. "I'm going too?"

"Of course."

"But why?" She didn't want to interrupt their family reunion. But she had to follow Wendy.

The Oliver Group building was one of the landmark buildings in Ywood. It was a 53-story building located at the center of the city. The inside of the building was bright and spacious, decorated in post-modern style.

Heaters were on to keep the employees inside warm. Just as Wendy was about to ask the receptionist which floor she should go to find the CEO's office, she saw Luke waving at her.

"Here! Ryan is waiting for you in his office!" His loud voice attracted people's attention. Needless to say, everyone in the lobby heard what he said.

Everyone in the company knew who Luke was. They wondered if the woman was their boss's girlfriend. They were all dumbfounded. Their boss had a girlfriend? When did this happen?

The female employees were heartbroken. They all looked at the direction Luke was waving at, curious about the lucky woman who captured the heart of their cold, distant boss.

However, when they looked over, they saw two woman standing side by side. It didn't take long for them to conclude that their boss's girlfriend should be the woman wearing a hat and a mask. Everyone looked at her with curiosity.

Wendy was out of words. How she wished she could make Luke shut up!

In order to hide her identity, she even wore a hat and mask. But this stupid guy just called her in a loud voice, causing everyone to look at her direction.

"Come with me!" The naïve Luke continued to call her attention. "Ryan asked me to take you to his office. He and your two kids are waiting for you."

At that moment, Wendy wanted to run towards Luke and gag him.

Shock was written all over the employees faces. They looked at each other and began to gossip.

"Oh my! Boss asked his brother to pick up his girlfriend...No, his wife? I never thought he is such a sweet husband."

"Our boss is married and has two children? Does that mean I really don't have a chance?"

"So the little boy Mr. Oliver brought to work this morning is his son?"

"Damn! I've always known that Mr. Oliver has a daughter. But I didn't know he has a son too."

"Why would you know? Mr. Oliver certainly doesn't want to expose his wife and children to the public."

"That makes sense! Come to think of it, there was never a rumor about him dating women. Perhaps it's because he is already married. He's such a wonderful man!"

"My heart's broken. He's been married? I don't stand a chance with him now!"

As the female employees continued to talk to each other, Wendy just listened to them silently. Their words made her blush like a teenager being caught in love.

When she came back to her senses, Wendy pulled Jasmine and strode towards Luke. The latter was about say something more, but she warned him in a low voice, "Luke! Don't speak a word, or else I will tell your brother what you did."

Luke made a gesture of zippering his mouth to show that he wouldn't dare to talk more.

It was only that Wendy breathed a sigh of relief.

She and Jasmine walked towards the elevator first. None of them noticed the hint of triumph in Luke's eyes. They didn't know how happy he was at that moment.

It was because he could take two more days off this month since he completed the task Ryan assigned to him: to let everyone in the company know that Ryan had a wife and two children. ①

Luke really admired his brother's trick. It seemed that Ryan was really eager to let the world know that he was seeing someone. It was childish. Thinking of this, Luke grinned.

Ryan's office was on the top floor.

So the three of them had to take the president's elevator, which would stop on the floor of his office. They arrived in no time.

When the elevator doors opened, the office area welcomed Wendy's sight. Employees dressed in formal suits were working earnestly. They would occasionally stand up and get some documents, which made her conclude that they were always busy.

Wendy watched them work. Women in the office were all wearing exquisite dresses. They all looked professional. The thought of this made her look away from them and lower her head. She looked at her casual clothes.

Today, she was wearing a white down jacket, a pair of washed jeans and a pair of flat shoes. All of a sudden, Wendy felt a little out of place.

Luke, who was walking a few steps ahead, sensed that no one was following him. So he turned around, only to see Wendy standing with hesitation in her eyes.

He cleared his throat and deliberately raised his voice when he said, "Wendy, why are you standing there? Ryan and the kids are waiting for you in the office."

These words pulled Wendy from her thoughts. Because of what Luke said, she felt that the whole office area was weirdly quiet for a moment. Everyone stopped what they were doing and looked at her all at once.

'Damn it, Luke.'
