"Interesting...!" Katherine nodded. "So you could technically summon- no wait, that wouldn't work, I don't think you should risk summoning that spiritual manifestation again, it might not work a second time due to the unstable magic circle..."

"Yeah," Elayne nodded. "So I'm going to tame it... tame myself!"

"Eh?!" Katherine was shocked, and also everyone else heard Elayne's craziness.

"Will that work?" Mark wondered, as he talked to Elayne's second spiritual body, admiring her beautiful draconic beauty.

"Maybe, I have to try," Elayne said.

"But I thought it only worked on monsters you tamed?" Rita asked. "Will it really work on... whatever that thing is?"

"I said I have to try at least!" Elayne sighed. "So..."

She quickly held hands with herself, with her second, spiritual manifestation body.

"Let's make a contract, me!"

"Of course, me!"

This was very awkward, as everyone glanced while an even more awkward silence took over the entire surroundings for some seconds...

Until...

FLAAASH!

Elayne felt her own soul extending towards the spiritual manifestation in front of her!

And then, as both connected, she felt even more connected with this secondary body... with herself.

FLUOSH!

"Oh?!"

"Ugh...!"

She was both surprised and also experienced what her tamed beasts did when they made a proper contract with her.

There was an overwhelming feeling of power over herself, as if she was now in a leash!

Her tamed beasts always took it easy, but for her, it was slightly overwhelming.

"Ugh...! T-This is really- Ahhh~?!"

As she suddenly realized a pleasuring sensation began to flow through her entire secondary spiritual body, she realized the ethereal form started changing, becoming more solid, alive.

"W-Wait! No, we need it to be ethereal!"

As she cried, trying to make it stop, it was a bit too late!

FLAAASH!

Her Angelic Yggdragon Maiden Aura Manifestation Spirit was already evolving into a Divine Beast!

Not only did the contract using the [Sacred Spirit Queen Of Divine Beasts] Skill worked, but her new "Tamed Beast" was evolving into a Divine Beast by the Skills' effects.

What's more, she could also feel the power her second body was gaining flow through her first one, their strength could be shared, as she was the same in both of them.

"T-This is...?!"

She looked at her real body's hands and then at her aura, constantly fluctuating, growing larger and stronger...

Elayne couldn't believe it, but it seemed like she found an incredible exploit on taming her own secondary spiritual aura body and then letting it evolve into a Divine Beast!

And once the evolution was done, her second body had almost doubled in size, looking larger and even more intimidating and beautiful.

"Oh wow..." She muttered.

"Uh, damn..." She sighed in her second body. "Oh?"

FLUOSH!

However, to her surprise, her second body suddenly glowed brightly, turning completely spiritual at will!

"Hey! It works just fine!"

And like this, Elayne obtained a new Tamed Monster...

Herself?!

Chapter 1592: A Second Body

After having used the combination spell [Summon Angelic Yggdragon Aura Manifestation] with the help of Katherine, Elayne was able to "summon herself" through such miraculous power. An extension of her own aura that gained its own independence to an extent, but that still containing her own mind, and an extension of her soul.

In summary, it was the same as the Yggdrasil Clones she had created in BNLO, which helped her at doing many things at the same time by dividing her own mind, or sometimes by giving them a direct task that they would do automatically.

With this, Elayne had the idea of using her Soul-Bound Skill [Sacred Spirit Queen Of Divine Beasts] and "tame" this clone of hers, perhaps to "keep it permanently" without realizing the consequences that such a thing would bring!

FLAAASH!

And upon using the Skill once and successfully creating a contract with herself, the Angelic Yggdragon Maiden Aura Manifestation Spirit was already evolving into a Divine Beast!

Not only did the contract using the [Sacred Spirit Queen Of Divine Beasts] Skill worked, but her new "Tamed Beast" was evolving into a Divine Beast by the Skills' effects. The appearance of her spirit changed, becoming more "real" and less "ethereal" which worried her, as she didn't want her to be physical, as it would attract the annoying bees and then thousands would come to swarm them.

However, as she panicked, not everything was bad, as she could also feel the power her second body was gaining flow through her first original body.

The strength of her clone could be apparently shared, as she was the same in both of them!

"T-This is...?!"

Elayne looked at her real body's hands and then at her aura, constantly fluctuating, growing larger and stronger. Her soul also became higher, and her maximum quantity of Mana and Spirit Energy grew larger, permanently.

The runes in her Magic Circle seemed to be also filling up with new Spiritual Runes related to her clone and the powers it gained through becoming a Divine Beast, and even her Physique was being refined, becoming physically stronger.

Elayne couldn't believe it, but it seemed like she found an incredible exploit on taming her own secondary spiritual aura body... or well, her clone, and then letting it evolve into a Divine Beast!

FLUOSH!

And finally, once the evolution was done, her clone had almost doubled in size, looking larger and even more intimidating and beautiful... Well, it still looked like a dragon, but a beautiful dragoness with a more feminine appearance than its gender-neutral appearance that all dragons shared between male and females.

It was as if her own "essence" had been infused into her clone through this evolution and the contract, giving her a sexier appearance... which was something a bit weird, there was no dragon with this look, unless they were dragon-kin, perhaps.

Well, although Elayne felt confused about her clone, or well, her secondary body's new look, finding it strange she turned into a sexy dragoness, Mark was enjoying it quite a lot.

"Damn..." His eyes widened, as his eyebrows twitched in disbelief. "D-Does this means I have two Elaynes for myself now?!"

"W-What are you talking about, dummy?" Elayne blushed with both of her bodies, glaring at him angrily.

"Ah! Sorry, sorry..." Mark apologized, lowering his head. "But I mean, your second body, or maybe clone? She looks amazing, and really strong! It's like you suddenly tamed a new divine dragon out of nowhere."

"Oh wow..." Elayne muttered, glancing at her clone. "I mean, you're not wrong... Yeah."

"Uh, damn..." Elayne sighed in her second body. "You're right... I do feel so much stronger too, the power this clone gained is also shared with me because we're technically the same person! Oh wow... Now this is what I call Skill Abuse... It's kind of awkward though, this form is overly... I don't know."

"In my honest opinion, you look really cute, I mean, both the original you and your second body..." Mark nodded, blushing a bit while giving her thumbs up. "Be more confident, you're a very beautiful dragoness!"

"E-Eh? Hmm... perv," Elayne glared at him while squinting her eyes, even though she was also blushing. "I didn't know you had such tastes, Mark..."

"Huh? But it's you...!" Mark muttered. "Are you going to be jealous of yourself?"

"Ah... I guess... not?" Elayne wondered. "It's really me at the end..." She looked at her scaled claws through her second body. "It's so weird, but I guess I'll get used to this."

"But there's a problem!" Gardenia said, interrupting their conversations. "Now your clone is physical! How the hell are you going to fly over the forest then?!"

"A-Ah! Right, I completely forgot..." Elayne sighed. "Can I do something about it? Can I turn ethereal if I try really hard?" She wondered through her clone body.

In her original body, she closed her eyes, fully concentrating her mind on her second body, as Elayne's draconic form overflowed with pink and golden light.

"Nnngghh...!"

As she concentrated as much as possible, her second body became strange, twisting, glitching!

For a moment, it felt strange, like the powers of BNLO's System were transferring to her in a strange, distorted way.

And then...

FLUOSH!

To her surprise, her second body suddenly glowed brightly, turning completely spiritual at will! Becoming phantasmal and ethereal, glowing with gold and pink colors.

She smiled, flying around happily!

"Hey! It works just fine!" She said happily. "I guess we managed to do it, Katherine!"

"I-I'm so happy, master!" Katherine said. "But master, I have another idea... Maybe with this we won't even need to go to Avalon at all!"

"Huh? What?" Elayne quickly descended to the ground with her second body, as she closed her eyes, and her original body opened her eyes.

Although she could control both at the same time and everything, it was a bit taxing, so she preferred to leave one with the eyes closed to concentrate most of her mind and soul into the one of her choosing.

"Could you turn me into your Tamed Beast or something using that "Skill"? Perhaps that could help us overwrite the entire contract without the need for King Oberon's help!" Katherine said.

"Eh?! How didn't I think about it?! You're right!" Elayne gasped.

Chapter 1593: Divine Angelic Yggdragon Spirit Princess of Dreams

Elayne felt relieved that at the end, her new clone or second body was able to turn spiritual and ethereal at will, making all the effort not wasted. And above all, not only did she obtain a new clone to help her out in various things, but she even got stronger out of that.

"Hey! It works just fine!" She said happily. "I guess we managed to do it, Katherine!"

As she happily flew towards Katherine with her second body/clone, she could hear the voice of the World whispering inside of her very soul.

As Elayne's thoughts were in disarray after learning what she had become and more, she noticed the messages kept going without end! Not only did she inherited all of her clone's abilities and stats, making her much stronger, but also...

Elayne's eyes widened when she heard those messages coming into her mind... or well, her soul. Not only did she had all the Abilities, but one of them was chosen at random and evolved into a Divine Ability?!

"Wait... Wait a second, Divine Ability?! Spiritual Gate?! What does that even do? Sounds mysterious and strong though! Oooh?!"

However, she felt her Magic Circle spinning rapidly, as her eyes widened even more, a new ring had been formed! And above all, her Physique became mightier, stronger muscles, more flexibility, stamina, agility, strength, and so on.

[Because you and [Elayne (Clone)] are the same, you've inherited all of your Divine Spirit Beast's Magical and Physical Power, manifesting into additional Runes for your Magic Circle and Physique.]

[You have gained 2 Additional Physique Ability Slots within your Physique; you can now create even stronger Physical Abilities.]

"Oh wow... I-I think I became very strong and very cheaply, I almost feel bad... Could I abuse this again? I don't think it would work again though, perhaps all my clones are identified as "the same being"?" Elayne wondered. "I would have to try doing it again, but that spell was too complicated, I was lucky I could use it before without problems, I better not risk it for now, even less when it's not really necessary."

As Elayne thought things through and figured out that it was better to not abuse things and simply accept this as a nice thing and move on, she descended and reached the floor in her second body.

"I'm so happy, master!" Katherine seeing her master achieving her ethereal form, completely unaware of the mental turmoil Elayne was going through as she heard the Voice of the World telling her just how unfairly she had gained even more power by abusing an unintended game mechanic. "But master, I have another idea... Maybe with this we won't even need to go to Avalon at all!"

"Huh? What is it, Katherine?" Elayne wondered, using her original body to move now, as her second body remained in a sleep-like state, although Elayne knew she could even order it to turn fully spiritual and "disappear", becoming one with her soul or aura so it would feel like it wasn't even there until needed.

"I was wondering if you could turn me into your Tamed Beast or something using that "Skill" of yours? Maybe that could help us overwrite the entire contract without the need for King Oberon's help!" Katherine asked, as she looked at her master with excitement. "Perhaps that could work?"

"Wait... Eh?! How didn't I think about it?! You're right!" Elayne gasped. "Let's try that right away!"

As Elayne tried doing that, however...

She heard the voice of the world once more, this time, for some reason, she sounded grumpy!

[You are unable to create a new contract with a Spirit you've already contracted with using the [Sacred Spirit Queen Of Divine Beasts] Otherworldly Skill.]

[Please do not try this again, or you might receive backlash for attempting to overwrite the Contract of the Fairy King Oberon.]

"Uh... It doesn't work, sorry."

"Oh..."

Elayne realized that not everything would be easily resolved.

Chapter 1594: Behave!

At the end, when Elayne tried doing the same thing she did with her spiritual clone with Katherine to rewrite Oberon's contract and even evolve Katherine into a Divine Spirit or something, she was quickly greeted with a rather... angered Voice of the World.

It was as if whoever this voice truly was, got annoyed that Elayne was trying to "cheat" too much, and quickly gave her a stern reminder that nothing could be so easy.

[You are unable to create a new contract with a Spirit you've already contracted with using the [Sacred Spirit Queen Of Divine Beasts] Otherworldly Skill.]

[Please do not try this again, or you might receive backlash for attempting to overwrite the Contract of the Fairy King Oberon.]

"S-She sound really angry?! I'm so sorry World's Voice! I'll be better and not try to cheat...! Please forgive me! We're friends right?"

As Elayne begged mentally, suddenly...

[...Behave.]

She heard a personal response and not something "automatized"!

"Eh?! Wait, can we talk directly?! Hello?"

However, there was no longer any response anymore... It seemed that as much as the Voice of the World was willing to say, a single word.

Behave!

It was as if she was reprimanding an unruly child... Something she didn't quite like.

But technically, "Mother Earth" as she called her, was older than her, by a lot, so it wasn't like she was wrong in reprimanding her this way.

If anything, Elayne felt bad and wanted Mother Earth to forgive her...

"Uh... It doesn't work, sorry." Elayne sighed, lowering her head. "Mother Earth said no. She even told me to behave like I was an unruly child."

"Oh..." Katherine muttered. "W-Well, there's nothing to do about it then, right master? And... Uh, Mother Earth? You mean the voice you hear inside your head?"

"You can't hear her sometimes?" Elayne asked. "She's called the Voice of the World, the World's Voice, and I think she's the voice of Mother Earth, the Divine Soul of our entire planet."

"That's... You've talked with the Supreme Mother Of Life?!" Katherine gasped. "W-What?! W-Wait...! Wait a second, master! That's not normal at all!!! H-How are you...?! EEEEH?!"

"What's wrong? Is it bad?" Elayne asked, growing worried. "Am I going to die?!"

"No! It's not that it's just... Usually, only... Only beings at the caliber of my King could ever do that!" Katherine said. "To think she specifically speaks to you, and so much, almost every day! W-What in the world are you, master?"

"...Eh? Is it odd? But I thought..." Elayne had never thought about it too much, because her friends also could sometimes hear her when she granted them new things or powers or whatever. "But... don't you also hear her sometimes, Mark?"

Mark, who was looking at the conversations while drinking some wine, nodded.

"Yes, sometimes, not always... I think I only heard her thrice," Mark explained. "But it's Elayne the one that hears her all the time, and then she tell us what she said. We've been thinking she's like a System from the other world but... maybe there's something different about her."

"Of course it is, master Mark!" Katherine cried. "She is a Primordial Being! T-The Soul... the Personification of the... the entire world! There is no greater honor than to hear her voice, even once! It is said that those that can hear her voice are destined to become powerful Gods that govern the world and the realms for eternity! And such prophecy has come true all the time...! My King heard her voice once when he was but a little Fae, and since then, his growth has only helped him reach this far, to the point of creating an entire Realm and governing as the Supreme God King of Fairies, Spirits, and more..."

"I-I see?!" Elayne asked, trying to make sense of the situation. "Okay, calm down Katherine! I know you're surprised but there's no real reason for you to overreact..."

"Ah! Yes... I'm sorry," Katherine sighed. "Um, I'm very sorry..."

Elayne patted her head, sighing with a gentle smile.

"It's alright... For now, we should get going to the tree while we rest in here, the way there is pretty long, so we can talk more if you want," Elayne said.

"Sure, thank you, master," Katherine nodded.

"Can you take on a spiritual form?" Elayne asked.

"Yes, it shouldn't be impossible for me," Katherine quickly turned ethereal, semi-transparent.

"Amazing, then let's get going," Elayne nodded, using her second body, her clone, and flying into the skies.

Both as spiritual beings, they flew far, far away, until Mark and everyone else enjoying the moon and the night weren't able to see them anymore.

Before everything became a little mess, the original reason why Elayne and Katherine did all of this was to be able to quickly travel to the Dream Spirit Tree, which was glowing mysteriously under the night.

They didn't really know what it could even do, but Katherine and Elayne had a "feeling" that it might give them a clue on how to move to Avalon.

Above all, Elayne wanted to create a Portal using her [Spirit Tree Checkpoint] Spell, a derivative Spell created using her Avatar's Abilities capable of creating portals and moving from one place to another.

The plan was to place one of such portals there and then where they were, to help everyone easily teleport towards the tree without having to walk for days because they couldn't easily fly with the giant, overpowered and very abundant bees everywhere.

"So how are things going?" Mark wondered, as he admired the moonlight. "Been an hour right?"

"Yeah, nothing worth noting," said Elayne. "We've not been attacked though, so it is indeed safe when you're just a spirit. The bees don't even look at us, one of them even passed through our spiritual bodies without any problem."

"Well, that's a relief..." Mark yawned. "I think I'll go to sleep, and you?"

"Me too, let's go to our little cabin in the woods then~" Elayne nodded, walking to the cabin with Mark and resting over the comfortable bed she had brought along, one of the many purchases she did, preparing for the inevitable journey to another realm or something.

As she slept peacefully, Elayne's mind was able to fully focus on her second body...

Chapter 1595: New Abilities

A lot of things happened today, from coming to the Dream Realm, to fighting a member of the Black Hand and defeating them, and then moving to the Dream Spirit Forest, a "Dream Version" of Avalon, or a piece of it made out of the Spirits, Fae, and Fairies dreams themselves.

Then we hunted down Dream Spirit Beasts, took a bath in a magical spring, cooked food, ate as a big family, and I even built a bunch of cabins to pass the night in here... Although the first half of the day was excruciating and I hope I never get to fight a monster like Nakuna ever again, the second half, and the end of it, was very nice.

However, I wasn't exactly sleeping right now, or well, I was but at the same time I wasn't. I would call this an "out of body experience" for a lack of a better term, because it was technically that! Right now I was sleeping and now moving and experiencing the world around me out of my original body and into an spiritual and ethereal one.

Technically, out of body experience! But at the same time, not really, as this new spirit form of mine is a temporary transformation of my second body, and clone, which has... my same name, because its technically just me.

I had contracted my clone, and I even managed to turn her into a new divine beast spirit familiar! Ah, well, I turned myself into that. Pretty crazy when you think about it, right? But it worked! I wanted to do it again, but I think the World's Voice wouldn't like that, so I decided to leave it be.

After the contract and the evolution, things changed a lot around my spirit clone body. My second body/clone was finally able to turn physical, something that made me panic at first, but that ended up working just fine, as I can turn back to spiritual, as I am right now.

Second, the appearance change was... hard to process, I suppose, not something easy to get used to. I liked being just an intimidating dragon... when I had to of course! But suddenly I became more feminine, with wider hips, even breasts in a way? And an overall... curvier body, I even now have blonde hair in my spirit body, and the pink scales... well, I suppose they fit the whole "princess" motif?

Looking at it again through my phone, which I can summon to both bodies at will without problems, well, there's some interesting details.

[Divine Angelic Yggdragon Spirit Princess of Dreams: Elayne Clone (Tier 6) (Young Adult Divine Beast Spirit)]

A Spiritual Aura Body, an extension of a powerful being's soul and spirit power that carries their mind and soul, acting as a secondary body, which has been elevated to the status of a Divine Spirit Beast through the forced evolution contract created from a soul-bound otherworldly power that doesn't originate from this world or realms.

While evolving, the Spiritual Aura Body absorbed the Essence of the Realm, gaining the additional Element of "Dreams" on top of Heavenly, Angelic, Holy Light, Nature, and Life. Becoming even stronger, and due to her origins, crowned as a "Dragon Princess".

Of mysterious origins and with even more mysterious powers, this secondary spirit body has now become a full-fledged divine spirit beast, which still remains as a secondary body to their powerful master. As an extension of them, this being is not independent and is not separate from them, but a part of them, a fragment. Once their master dies, they will simply disappear alongside them as they are them.

Abilities: [Angelic Yggdragon Princess Dreamy Breath] [Dragon Princess Charming Aura] [Illusory Dream Weapon] [Angelic Ward Of Protection] [Spiritual Transformation] [Dragon Princess' Spirit-Repelling Scales] [Ethereal Angelic Wings] [Soul-Tearing Angelic Dragon Claws] [Dragon Princess Authority] [Angelic Dream Wood Creation] [Spiritual Teleportation] [Angelic Yggdragon Princess Dreamy Domain] [Divinity Spark: Angelic Yggdragon Princess Of Dreams]

Oho, the description is really nicely detailed as well! I wouldn't say this is the pokedex though, that would be using the other function, but there's no point in using it on myself, I know my new secondary body is super strong!

After all, it is Tier 6, stronger than Blackie himself, and was also stronger than me before I ended inheriting all of its Runes and also Ranked Up to Tier 6 in Magic Circle and Physique.

And the abilities, now those are very interesting as well, so the Element of Dreams was added into the mix, making things very interesting.

The dream attack seems standard dragon stuff, but it has a somewhat odd naming as a "dreamy breath", perhaps it has a different effect... I'll have to test it on something first.

Then there's the charming aura? Yeah, I can tell that he worked right away with Mark, he fell in love with me all over again in this second body of mine! I don't know what to think about it... I knew he was kind of a perv but...

Ah, I shouldn't overthink this, I sound like an hypocrite when I also got my perv side... Yeah we all do, judging others like that is wrong when you have the same flaws, and I love Mark.

Anyway, is there the illusory dream weapon thing? No idea what that does, but it sounds interesting, maybe... weapons made out of illusions to trick foes or they're actually real and work fine? We'll see.

The ward protection... perhaps a type of buff to place on someone else, I think I can try this one right away on Katherine.

"Alright Kat, stay there."

"Eh?"

"{Angelic Ward Protection}!"

FLAAASH!

"Uwah?!"

As I moved my draconic claws up and down, a giant cross made of light encompassed Katherine, which then turned into an armor of light around her body.

It was barely visible, almost completely transparent, it also came with a tiny yellow halo on top of her head.

Chapter 1596: Visiting The Giant Dream Spirit Tree

"Oh wow! What's this? I feel somewhat protected?" Katherine wondered. "It's interesting... A new spell?"

"Something like that..." I nodded. "I seem to have gained a lot of new Abilities or Spells when this second body evolved into a Divine Spirit Beast, pretty cool right?"

"Yes... How many abilities?" Katherine wondered.

"Ah, uh, a lot... I think over ten?" I wondered. "I haven't counted them, but I am checking on them and trying to test a few. Anyway, do you feel protected now or something?"

"Yes, as I said before, it does give me a feeling of protection, I think this is a passive spell that grants physical and magical protection, this magic armor is angelic too, so it's even stronger," Katherine explained. "I don't know how much durability it has, but probably a lot... Thank you for using it on me, master! I feel safer now, somehow."

"Oh? Well, I'm glad you do then!" I nodded. "So it provides armor-like angelic protection... Alright, noted."

After that came the Spiritual Transformation... Ah no, that one is pretty straightforward, I am using it right now to turn into a spirit form after all... It's passive and only requires a portion of Mana when used, but I can remain this way forever without consuming Mana, it's handy.

Then there's the scales, the Dragon Princess' Spirit-Repelling Scales, they sound interesting, do they repel spirit power and energy? Spiritual spells or even spirits? I'll test that later...

Ethereal Angelic Wings... just create another pair of wings for me, I have no idea what they actually do, but perhaps they have some special function? Maybe trespassing through specific locations or flying even faster, maybe being able to go to Heaven? Nah, there's no way, right?

Then comes a simple one, Soul-Tearing Angelic Dragon Claws, claws that can tear souls and... yeah, nothing complicated or new about this, same old... But maybe pretty potent?

And now there's a weird one too, the Dragon Princess Authority! I don't have a single idea what that does... Imagining about it, would it give me the authority to rule over other dragons as a princess? It's just a speculation, whatever it does I have no idea.

Then there's something very interesting, Angelic Dream Wood Creation! I used it right away, manifesting little wooden branches from my ethereal hands, which were made of white wood with pink flowers growing on their branches. It seemed to be a new type of wood I can produce!

It contains Celestial Energy and Dream Power, so it's a potent material without a doubt... But also it could be used for fighting, improving or upgrading my other spells relying on wood.

Also, these abilities... I think they're stronger when I use this body instead of my original body to use them, naturally of course...

The other ability is Spiritual Teleportation, which evolved into the Divine Ability Spiritual Gate... I can't use it right now; I try but nothing happens? Perhaps there is the need for a trigger, or maybe I have to be on my physical form, or in a solid surface instead than in the skies, weird.

Almost at the last, there's the Angelic Yggdragon Princess Dreamy Domain... A domain, naturally. What it can do is a mystery, but if it has a "dreamy" effect, it most likely has to do with dreams themselves, or something derived from it.

And lastly... A Divinity Spark, it's the divine power that a divine beast has, everyone gets one once they evolve into a Divine Beast using my Skill, and so my second body, and I, got one!

And it's... well, the same thing as the name of this second body, "Divinity Spark: Angelic Yggdragon Princess Of Dreams", no idea what it can even do, but I am intrigued, I do feel this divine power dwelling within me. I think it'll grow stronger as I use its powers through battle or something.

"There's a lot of abilities to try, but we shouldn't really deviate from our route, let's hurry, Kat!"

"Yes master!"

With Katherine, we flew as quickly as we could, passing through the beautiful forest around us while enjoying the moonlight at high speeds.

As we drew closer, and closer, and closer to the tree, we noticed its beauty and majestic appearance. There was a lot of light particles flowing everywhere.

The entire scene was truly... dreamy.

The forest became denser and the trees bigger as well, while the spirits that were everywhere became even more.

At some point, we were surrounded by many of them, constantly bothering us and poking at our faces cutely.

"We're getting closer, just a few more kilometers...! I think we can do this before morning breaks out! We have to find out what's going on with the spirit tree, master!" Katherine said.

"Ah, yes!" I nodded, getting distracted by the beauty, I wished I could just spend a whole month in here as a summer vacation just chilling, occasionally hunting, exploring, and just enjoying the nature and its mystical beauty.

The moon continued becoming bigger and bigger as we drew closer to the tree, and after several hours of flying and looking at the surroundings...

"W-We're here...! We barely made it...!" Katherine gasped for air, exhausted. "Master, let's hurry down to the tree!"

"Sure, let me carry you," I nodded, as I gently grabbed her with my claws and descended, turning into my physical form.

The gigantic Dream Spirit Tree wasn't alone, it was surrounded by a garden of pink, white, and yellow flowers, each flower was glowing brightly, and from within them, small spiritual lights emerged, slowly turning into tiny dream spirits.

"Fwah!"

"Bweh..."

"Hyaaa!"

They let out cute sounds while floating away, greeting us by the hundreds... Katherine and I remained there in silence, admiring such a sight.

"Wow..." I said.

"This must be... a Spirit Garden," she explained. "This is where Spirits are born... so they have one in here, this is where the Dream Spirits are born then... How beautiful, I wish we had more time to admire everything."

"I wish too," I nodded. "Let's go, Kat."

Chapter 1597: Killing Pests

"Yes, master."

Although the Spirit Garden surrounding the Dream Spirit Tree was beautiful, we couldn't waste our time watching it anymore, and we had to move on. Our destination was the tree itself, right in front of us.

Seeing it from close, we were able to see how tall it was... not a kilometer tall, but probably over five hundred meters, or a bit more, utterly enormous.

And this was only a "reflection" of the real deal in Avalon!

"Uh, so, Kat, this tree... there's another one back at Avalon, right?" I asked.

"Yes, master, it's really huge, probably twice as big as this one," nodded Katherine.

"So that means it is enormous, right... Is it an Yggdrasil?" I asked.

"You asked that question before, master... I don't know if its exactly an Yggdrasil, but it is connected to the entire Realm of Avalon, one could say it is the Realm's anchor," Katherine explained. "I believe it might be of the family of Yggdrasil trees, as they're the only type of tree capable of holding an entire dimension within their roots."

"Your King, I remember you said he had a seed or something?" I asked. "I don't remember well..."

"Ah, yes, he had the seed of the tree, which he planted, and it eventually grew into a big tree, which... I suppose that's how it turned into what it is now," she explained. "They're often known as Realm Seeds too. It's similar to how you create your own Domain, which is expanding its internal space over time... someday, maybe, it will become its own Realm, a gigantic world of its own, existing independently!"

"Hmm, that sounds nice~" I smiled. "But that'll be for much later, if it ever happens... So... where's the... is there nothing?"

We flew around the tree slowly, trying to find the "something" we came here for. The moonlight was certainly reacting to the tree, but maybe our suspicions were wrong and there's nothing here at all.

"Hmm, no, I can feel something... here."

However, Katherine led me down and then we reached a strange area, where all the roots of the tree intermingled into a giant maze of wood and plants, beautiful and dark, faintly illuminated by crystals, glowing mushrooms, or wandering dream spirits.

The colors of the plants were clear blue, purple, or pink, there were no green plants at all anywhere, it was really like a fantasy land of fairy tales...

"What's this place? Some sort of underground cave?" I wondered, walking across the roots with her by my side.

"Yes, I think so? I remember something similar in our tree back home..." She said. "I think we called this the... Spirit Tree's Great Root Labyrinth."

"I-It's a great labyrinth? We won't spend forever exploring it, right?" I wondered, feeling slightly annoyed.

"I don't think so, the energy I feel is down there, not too far! And even then, although it might seem big, we can turn spiritual and pass through most physical matter either way, so we can't really get lost," Katherine shrugged. "Now, come, master! Follow me!"

"Okay, okay... You remind me of a certain little sprite," I said. "Hmm, let's take some pictures while we are here, it's really beautiful."

"Pictures? Ah!" Katherine's eyes widened as I took a selfie with her, although when I looked at it, I realized I was in my dragon body, and it looked weird.

"We better take a new one with my real body..." I sighed.

"Master, such things don't really matter, you know...?" She said. "Anyway, here."

We walked through the wooden roots, quickly being chased around by Dream Spirit Beasts, there were a lot of them literally everywhere.

The most common of them were giant worms, or well, larvae of some kind of insect, caterpillars, which seemed to enjoy eating all the vegetation around here, or the roots themselves, which they drank the sweet sap from.

"SHYEEEEGGH!"

They were gigantic, over four meters of height, and were always in groups of dozens of them accumulated in a spot. They seemed chill, but the moment they spotted us, they instantly attacked us, shooting venomous acid from their jaws.

They were probably territorial.

SPLAAASH! SPLAAASH! SPLAAASH!

"Uwaah?!"

Katherine panicked, but she quickly realized nothing happened to us. Their venomous acidic spit was strong, but the armor over our bodies was stronger.

That's right.

"Don't worry, Kat, I got this," I patted her little head. "Remember?"

"Oh? OH! Right!" Katherine noticed her body being unscathed, the venom simply falling off her body into the ground below. "That ability!"

I was using the powerful new {Angelic Ward Protection} on the two of us.

It worked perfectly, and it was very strong, using Celestial Energy to conjure it wasn't that annoying either, I had a lot of reserves.

In a way, it was a simpler, weaker, but more cost-effective version of the Barriers I could create using the Guardian Angel Title Ability.

"SHYEEEH!"

They kept spitting more and more acid and venom as they slowly moved towards us, glaring at us menacingly with their sharp crimson eyes.

"Alright... Might as well test these abilities and get this new body to do some exercise, right Kat?"

"I guess so! Let me assist you however I can, master!"

"Thank you, you're very kind."

I looked at my new Abilities, I wanted to test them all!

Abilities: [Angelic Yggdragon Princess Dreamy Breath] [Dragon Princess Charming Aura] [Illusory Dream Weapon] [Angelic Ward Of Protection] [Spiritual Transformation] [Dragon Princess' Spirit-Repelling Scales] [Ethereal Angelic Wings] [Soul-Tearing Angelic Dragon Claws] [Dragon Princess Authority] [Angelic Dream Wood Creation] [Spiritual Teleportation] [Angelic Yggdragon Princess Dreamy Domain] [Divinity Spark: Angelic Yggdragon Princess Of Dreams]

Alright.

Let's test the first ability, now that I have my prey closer.

"Here's what you've been waiting for!"

I opened my dragon jaws, as I gathered pink and golden flames from within, releasing them on an explosive wave against them all!

{Angelic Yggdragon Princess Dreamy Breath}!

Chapter 1598: Time To Go To Avalon!

{Angelic Yggdragon Princess Dreamy Breath}!

BOOOM! BOOOM! BOOOM! BOOOM!

The breath was as destructive as I imagined, the caterpillars burned in agony, many of them trying to escape, while others conjured giant nightmare bullets at us.

"Huh? Let's test this one...!"

I quickly remained where I was standing, as my scales began glowing with rainbow light, beginning to reflect the nightmare bullets fired at me!

{Dragon Princess' Spirit-Repelling Scales}!

FLASH! FLASH! FLASH! FLASH! FLASH!

All spells were easily repelled back at the monsters, bombarding them with their same spells and dealing constant damage to them.

"Now..."

I gathered my energies into my claws, and leaped towards the monsters, while Katherine stayed at my back, covering me for any incoming attacks.

"{Soul-Tearing Angelic Dragon Claws}!"

With a mighty roar, my claws slashed through the monsters, unleashing a consecutive barrage of powerful attacks everywhere.

SLASH! SLASH! SLASH! SLASH! SLASH! SLASH!

The monsters were cut down to pieces, their purple and gooey blood splattering over the floor and everywhere else! It was pretty gross, but it felt kind of nice... to be a bit wilder from time to time.

As I attacked them, I noticed a dozen more coming from behind, firing their venom and also threads made of their own webbings, attempting to stop my movements.

But that wasn't going to work!

"{Illusory Dream Weapon}!"

FLUOSH!

From my pink, dreamy aura, suddenly, illusions emerged, what I thought as weapons manifested, resembling... guns?!

"W-What is this ability?!"

The guns appeared one after another, then even missile launchers and gatling guns...

I was honestly shocked and a bit scared!

This has to be just illusions right?

"SHYAAAHH!"

As the insects approached, I quickly imbued mana into these weapons and...

BANG! BANG! BANG! BANG! BANG!

Countless bullets started bombarding them, piercing their giant bodies and leaving hundreds of holes, the missile launches were fired as well, exploding into larger explosions.

BOOOM! BOOOM! BOOOM!

"E-Eh? No way..."

They were rather potent, several of the giant caterpillars died after being bombarded so much, but half of them also still were alive.

However, upon use, the weapons trembled and collapsed, disappearing.

I see, so this works like that.

This Ability lets me temporarily create any weapon in my mind, their power and abilities will be loosely based on what I think they can do, although not completely.

They will be definitely weaker than my magic weapons and are more like powerful spells.

However, the versatility of this ability is not bad!

And if I use this other ability and combine them together...

"{Angelic Dream Wood Creation}!"

As I avoided a powerful blow from one of the caterpillar's claws and another from their tail, I quickly combined the two abilities into one.

Illusory, dreamy pink aura merged with wood, materializing into hard, pink and purple colored floating machine guns made of metal-like wood.

Oh yeah, this can be pretty interesting!

"FIRE!"

BANG! BANG! BANG! BANG! BANG! BANG! BANG!

The caterpillars were rapidly overwhelmed, constantly being filled with holes until they collapsed into the ground one after another, and then a huge explosion came afterwards.

BOOOMM!!

One of the caterpillars exploded, dealing even more damage to the rest... Whatever they had inside to cause an explosion wasn't good though.

Nonetheless...

"We're done!" Katherine said. "Nice!"

She used her Wood Magic to shape nearby roots into protective shields or crush foes, so she worked quite nicely despite her limitations.

And indeed, we were done, that was the last batch of caterpillars, these annoying critters will leave us alone for a while, I hope.

"Master, your new abilities are very strong! I didn't even know what sort of weapon you summoned before, but it easily destroyed them!" She said.

"You don't know? Those guns and the like are human weapons, but these at the end are still temporary," I sighed, seeing the weapons disappear. "But at least if I apply the wood ability, they can last for a bit longer, maybe another minute."

"Interesting...!" Katherine nodded. "Now, should we continue?"

"Yes... wait a bit." I said, storing the corpses that looked the best, and also their cores. "Done, let's go."

I could feel the light of the sun slowly rising from the other side, we had to hurry before the moonlight was completely gone!

We ran down into the caves, finding out the origin of what Kat felt before.

BBTTTZZZ...

It wasn't what we expected, but it was something.

"W-What is this?"

It resembled a small glitching crack in space. It was certainly not a complete portal to Avalon, but perhaps some sort of spacetime distortion that connected both places.

"I think it could be a spacetime distortion?" I asked her. "Have you never seen something like this before?"

"No, unfortunately..." She said. "But... a spacetime distortion! It does sound possible..."

"Yeah, now... I think this is fueled by the moonlight the tree is absorbing, once it runs out, it'll disappear..." I said. "So we can only try to get to Avalon at night..."

"W-What do we do now?" She asked. "I didn't think there wouldn't be anything... but this distortion, is it even possible to get through without being hurt or dying?"

"Hmmm..." I rubbed my chin, thinking. "Yes, there should be a way. Maybe if I try this..."

I pointed my hand at the spacetime distortion, as Kat flew behind me for safety.

"{Spiritual Gate}!"

FLAAASH!

This time, the ability actually reacted!

I knew it, it needs something like this or something similar to react and activate.

RUMBLE!

The spacetime distortion began swirling and consuming itself, distorting and growing larger, spreading cracks a bit more.

But at the same time, it transformed into a beautiful, multi-color gate, leading to a lush green forest, where Elayne could hear the chirping of many birds.

"T-This is... Oh wow, it worked?!" Katherine asked. "T-This is... a portal! A portal to my home, master! You did it!"

"It really worked..." I muttered. "Was it really random that I obtained Spiritual Gate?"

It felt a bit too coincidental... Whatever higher powers decided which ability I obtained "randomly" they must've known I would need it in some way or form.

I guess it must have been Mother Earth, or the World's Voice assistance.

Thanks a lot... for everything.

We finally did it!

Now, I simply open a portal here using Spirit Tree Checkpoint, and I can bring everyone else with the other I left near the cabins.

"Alright everyone, let's hurry!"

I had already woken them up with my original body and then brought them here as they walked sleepily.

"Time to go to Avalon!"

Chapter 1599: The Realm Of Fairies And Spirits

I felt kind of bad I had forced everyone to wake up out of the sudden, but it was necessary! It was now or never, and this strange pseudo portal that I opened into a complete portal could only last for a few more minutes before the "day" came back to this forest.

And then we would have to wait a whole other day for the night to arrive, and we couldn't have that! So we hurried up, running into the lush forest past the spiritual portal. This new Divine Ability I obtained from turning my own clone into a Divine Spirit Beast was amazing, and it felt almost like destiny I obtained that one in specific.

Perhaps it wasn't completely random, and the ability I obtained depends on what I need the most? If that was the case... No, well, it doesn't matter actually!

"S-So this is Avalon...?!"

As I heard Mark's words of surprise, I stepped into the forest myself, nodding after everyone managed to get through the gate without exception, and then saw the gate quickly close.

And indeed, this was Avalon! It was enormous! We landed right above some sort of cliff, near a small hill, and there, the beautiful blue sky, the morning sun slowly rising from the horizon, the forest-covered mountains with snowy caps, surrounding us was an endless forest of enormous trees, colorful giant flowers, and all sorts of magical places.

There was a forest of purple trees, then to the distance a lake surrounded by rainbow-colored crystals, then to the other side we saw a giant garden of titanic flowers as big as fifty meters each, rivers of colorful, magical water that seemed like they were juice or wine, and more.

This place... it was even more shocking than the Dream Forest.

"This is... This is Avalon..." I muttered.

After having heard so much about this place all this time, I was finally here! I could hardly believe it now, and I did it all for Katherine... or did I?

Although that's the case, a part of me really just wanted to do a trip like this, to journey into another place I've never been, one as wonderful as this one.

Avalon, the Land of Fairy Tales.

I only ever fantasized to see such a place one day, a world full of magical creatures even more than even Arcadia, full of life, magic, and spiritual energies.

Where the King of all Fairies reigns as their benevolent King, and the father of all Fairies, Fae, and Spirits...

"Welcome to my home, everyone. This is Avalon, the Land of Fairies."

Katherine smiled, feeling relieved, as if she was right back at home, and well, she was. The surrounding landscape was already a thing of beauty, but as she saw everything, the entire world around us illuminated even more, her own aura resonated with the land. This world, this realm, it was alive, and it was welcoming her, one of her children.

"T-This is like, straight out of a Disney Movie or something for real!" Jenny said, looking around. "No wait the recent ones have been pretty boring and lame, but like, the old ones!"

"Yeah, the place is beautiful..." Lily said. "I am in awe! I want to go see those crystal forests and mine some of those and maybe go drink that river with wine! Is it wine right?"

"I don't know if its wine, and it might be better if we don't drink it..." I said. "But yes, it's really beautiful... Rita, what do you think?"

"Eh, it's... it's beautiful yeah who am I kidding?" Rita tried to act like it wasn't that special for her. "I tried to think that after what we've seen in Arcadia that this wasn't that impressive, but isn't this pale even more fantasy-like than even another world? This shit's crazy! The only place that would slightly compare is the new Forest of Beginnings that you created by fusing that domain into it."

"Oh that! By now it should've permanently merged with it too," I nodded. "I never imagined that I could create a whole new forest and evolve the previous one that had taken so much damage into something entirely new... It even became so enormous, and even now, the space and time essence that the domain had is now merged into the real land... the Forest of Beginnings it is turning into a mystical space or dimension of its own, in a way. Huh, I never considered that until now."

"Eh?! Really?" Elisa asked. "Wow, that's amazing, Lady Elayne! I wish I could go visit that forest and then compare it with this beauty! But oh well, we might as well enjoy our stay here, right? I assume we won't stay here for too long though."

"Yeah, a day or two at most," I nodded. "But I know everyone is still sleepy, so shall we sleep for a few more hours?"

I asked this question because I knew they were still sleeping and everything... I don't really need to sleep that much right now either way, so I think I can push through until we get to the King.

But maybe that's not the case for everyone else.

"Honestly I'm good to go," Mark nodded. "Don't worry too much about that."

"Yeah, if anything I'm hungry, we could have something to eat on the go at the very least," Rita said. "But that's about it, don't worry."

"Yep, I agree!" Nodded Gabriel said. "I don't need to sleep too much anyway! I can spend weeks without sleeping! And Avalon is so pretty! I want to explore it!"

"I-I think I can go," Monica nodded. "Please don't worry."

"Yeah! After seeing this view, we're all pretty awake," Elisa said with a nod.

"I'm ready mom, I want to explore too," Elisa said. "I agree with little Gabriel."

"Yawn... Wait, what? So I'm the only one that would rather go to sleep? Yeah the place's beautiful but... I can't appreciate it with this exhaustion," Anna yawned again. "Sorry..."

"It's fine," I said. "If you're feeling too sleepy, you can always enter this place."

I quickly summoned a floating Dream Realm.

Chapter 1600: A Wondrous Realm

I quickly summoned a floating Dream Realm.

"This is a Mini Dream Realm, you can sleep here for a while without problems," I explained to Anna.

"Anybody else feeling sleepy? Be honest."

However, nobody other than Anna, who looked like she would take a nap over the grass at any moment.

"Alright... I won't turn into a dream or something, right?" She asked.

"Don't worry! You'll be alright," I said with a confident nod. "This dimension is big enough for you to sleep comfortably, Anna. And it won't start affecting you physically unless you spend a whole week there. I modified it to have a cozy bed inside and even snacks and a bathroom."

"Wow, it's true! How is this possible?" She asked.

"Well dreams are dreams, they aren't too hard to modify," I said while shrugging. "But once you're inside, you experience them as real and solid objects but bringing them to reality is impossible like that. So using Dream Magic and Morpheus over here, it is possible to modify and edit what you see there."

"So the food in there and the bathroom really work or not?" She wondered, yawning again.

"They do, the food is stuff I bought previously, the bathroom... well, the waste will turn into dream essence after some hours," I said with a nervous smile. "Hahaha..."

"I guess it's a bit funny, fine... I'll come back in a couple of hours Elena... sorry," Anna sighed.

"Hm, it's fine," Elena nodded. "Sleep well." She kissed her forehead.

After Anna went to sleep, we resumed our journey... It was a pity she was so sleepy, just what was she doing that she slept so late?

"She was probably in her phone..." My daughter said, as we started slowly walking down through the hill we appeared on. "When I went to sleep she was still checking her phone..."

"Oh... Maybe turning everyone's phones into special relics that work anywhere wasn't that good of an idea if it would fuel an addiction," I sighed. "Sorry..."

"It's fine mom, don't worry," she smiled. "It wasn't your fault, it's Anna's fault... I'll make sure to reprimand her more later and maybe tell her a few things about overusing her phone and then having no sleep at all because of that."

"Yeah, you tell her!" I nodded. "I am rooting for you!"

As we discussed trivial things like that, we finally walked down the hill, greeted by an enormous, gigantic, and slightly dark forest, illuminated by giant mushrooms, little spirits everywhere, crystals, and even glowing fruits and flowers.

"So we're here, we were in a hill before, but this is where our journey begins for real!" Said Katherine. "We currently are... I think we're in the Great Tree Forest. It's a forest made out of Great Trees, which are gigantic in size! to the northwest is where we should move. We'll pass through a few other places before getting into the capital, but we luckily landed pretty close to it. The journey is not endless."

"Oh that's a relief then!" Mark nodded. "So where should we go then, the northwest?"

"Yes, follow me! I'll lead the way... Also I would recommend using mounts like before. Flying is also an option, but that's usually exhausting, right?" Katherine asked.

"Hmm," I nodded. "Not wrong, you're right. And I'm slightly tired, maybe flying so much had left me exhausted beyond belief..."

"Hahaha, I wouldn't go as far as beyond belief!" Katherine giggled cutely.

"Anyway! Belle! Silver! Goldie! Come here!" I called them, as they rapidly flew to my side, they had come with us and were also sleeping just a few minutes ago.

"Alright everyone, these guys are pretty huge so they can fit everyone in their backs like before," I said. "Let's go!"

We quickly rode their backs, as Belle, Silver, and Goldie started their journey, while Katherine, sitting on top of Belle's head, gave me instructions.

Our journey there wasn't going to be easy at all, but we would try to make it as quickly as possible, moving across the giant tree forest, we ended up finding quite the wild assortment of living beings.

Beautiful, colorful fae shaped like flowers, flying around and then digging underground. They're the most carefree of them all too, disappearing one after another into plain sight.

We also encountered small ponds of crystalline water, packed full of little spirits inside, which, once we touched the water, would glow brightly as if by stimulation.

The giant mushrooms were also beautifully big, we could climb one and even stand on top of their cap without problems! Although I had no idea about their taste, and I didn't want to find out.

And lastly, how could we ever forget the inhabitants?

We ended finding all matter of Fae and Spiritual beings, although no fairies at all. The Fae and Spiritual Beings varied in shape and size a lot and were always guarding a certain area of the forest.

For example, when we walked around large empty areas of dirt and precious stones, little Gnomes, with their big noses, beards, and small bodies appear, digging shiny jewels they liked to have to make things with them.

Then there were the little bee fae, which were cute bee-like fae with tiny hands and legs, and humanoid upper body, they gathered in big colonies, forming large nests where Spirit Honey of the highest quality is gathered. Katherine was tempted to grab some, but in the end she didn't want to waste time.

And while we walked near the giant luminescent mushrooms, we also noticed some adorable Mushroom Fae, they resembled all sorts of colorful mushrooms but with little legs and tiny eyes. They were among the shiest Fae, hiding behind mushrooms whenever they spotted us.

And we journeyed across this mystical land over our mounts, I could feel the refreshing air slowly making me feel much better, almost at home.

The light, the spiritual energy, everything was rapidly beginning to encompass my entire body, giving me great strength, it was as if being here alone made me stronger.

By concentrating and closing my eyes, I could sense the Mana and spiritual energies flow inside my body automatically, the more I absorbed, the more I could refine, and the stronger my body, soul, and magic circle became.

"Oh wow, what's this?" I gasped. "Do you feel it too, Elena? Mark? Gabriel?"

"I do feel something..." Nodded Mark. "Like energy is constantly being absorbed without us realizing. Makes me feel refreshed."

"Hm, I don't feel anything," Elena said. "Maybe it's just you two?"

"Perhaps... it has something to do with our Nature Element," I said. "Gabriel? Anything?"
