

Brand New 891

Chapter 891 The Druid's Resolve

-----

Crimson flames covered her view. The forest was burning, dying, and agonizing. Forces of darkness, Blighters from the far south, arrived when they least expected it. The damned sorcerers of evil, the traitorous druids observed them silently, for many years. And when they finally found the moment, they struck. Flames covered the forest. Their power rising as they killed a powerful Nature Soul, taking away her life with each tree that was burned.

"No... How did this happen?! NO!"

Janny cried, the druids screamed and ran away, the flames spreading everywhere. Not only threatening to consume the forest, but all of them as well. The wicked laughter of the Blighters echoed behind them, they were slowly moving towards them, evading the fire and hiding inside of shadows, like ghosts.

"Run, run away as far as you can... Run... my children..."

"No, MOTHER! I can't leave you behind! No, NOOOO!!!"

As Janny screamed in anger and horror, Jose grabbed her with the rest of the younglings, dragging her away against her will. Her tears flowing from her eyes, drying due to the heat of the forest burning. They were powerless to change everything. The Blighters employed their malefic magic, burning each tree faster than the water-wielding druids could protect.

"Please, everyone... You must... live..."

As the voice of the forest became fainter and weaker, the druids ran, and ran, and ran... Just like before. Just like when it all began. Her land, everything she built was taken away from her, and once more, she had nothing.

"Aria... where's Aria?!" Janny noticed that she was nowhere to be seen.

No druid knew where she had gone to. And the Blighters were tailing them from behind rapidly. They had little time to care about her, they had to run, and fast. Or they would all be slaughtered.

"Mother... Aria..."

As Janny cried and ran, moving from place to place, but never finding one to belong. The world moved on even if she hasn't. Decades went through, and she grew bitter and grumpy. She hated human society, and all the technology they brought. The pollution of the world was their fault, and that nature was diminishing as well.

Despite holding the power, she never protected them. She never cared about them, and with the new druids that followed her, they lived on isolation. Commuting with nature, and living tranquil, yet depressing lives. Now isolated from their sanctuary, the beautiful home they built together.

"Janny... Always remember to protect those in need, with the strength you have gained."

And she oftentimes recalled the Voice of the Forest's words.

"That strength will be useless if you don't use it to protect, if you don't use it to fight against evil..."

Yet she could not do as her mother asked her. She had been betrayed by everything, she hated everything... She had even thought that she hated the entire world for bringing her so many tragedies, so many injustices. Hating the world, something Druids would never do, Janny lost herself.

"What is the point of this life of mine, this long life... If there's nothing I can do?"

At some point, they were already in America, called by the new world and new opportunities, a place with much more nature and life than Europe, they braved these forests, and walked across ancient ruins, meet druids from south America, central America, and even north America, and settled down in the beautiful yet cold forests of Canada, away from everything.

She lived a life of misery and sorrow, never moving on from what has happened. And those around her were like her as well. They felt lost, alone, abandoned... Yet together, at the very least, they still felt like a family. They took care of one another, as much as they could.

Yet a revelation one day came, having ignored how the world changed at all, she only reacted when Jose told her something. That he had a dream, a dream where a new Voice of the Forest, a mother of nature and life, spoke to him. This goddess, this spirit... She called for his help.

Enlightened by her divinity, Jose had changed. He was more hopeful, he wanted to meet her. At the end, although he seemed similar to her, Jose had not lost all hope. And the old man, whom she had always loved, tried to give her hope too.

Although she didn't want to believe such things, she ended coming along. The entire family slowly arrived at the city where their goddess lived. They hated the city, the people in there, and the giant skyscrapers, buildings, cars, and pollution.

However, once she stepped into her Domain. Everything changed. Everything. She felt like she had once more stepped into the beautiful domain of the Voice of the Forest. That she was alive somehow, right here, right now.

Tears streamed from her eyes, as Janny felt the beauty of nature, the warm spiritual energy, and the love and emotions carried by the domain entirely. The love of a mother, the love of someone that would protect her children, and her family, no matter the cost.

Such a strong emotional aspect covered the entire domain, making it incredibly similar to the Voice of the Forest back in Finland. Since then, hope slowly grew back inside of her heart, blossoming, as she mediated and communed with nature.

However, she never thought she would be fighting demons and protecting the city and the people she hated. The ones that only brought pollution and destruction to nature, she was protecting them, just like the Voice of the Forest once asked her for.

"All that strength you have, it has a purpose, my dear child. You don't simply carry it without holding a responsibility now. You must use it to protect the innocent, not just nature."

"Please, be well... And always remember that I love you, my daughter."

"Mother..."

The giant white owl cried as her power shone the brightest. All the power she amassed; she released it now. Over two hundred years' worth of magic power, worth of runes, worth of spiritual essence.

"I won't let the same tragedy repeat itself... I have the power now, and I will use it as mother told me to. I will protect this city... this people!"

FLAAASH!

-----

Chapter 892 Elayne's Last Trump Card!

-----

As Elayne expanded her terrain, she quickly felt something stopping her from expanding it further. The demon blood seeping into the floor slowly infected it, turning it into miasmic domain. And her powers in Earth were nowhere near as potent as her BNLO Avatar, even as she could draw a part of its power towards herself.

Her domain could only expand so much before her roots were stopped by the all-consuming miasma. She gritted her teeth, trying to channel her holy and angelic powers, but her Celestial Essence was already running incredibly low, she had overused it in all those fights already.

The Great Spirit was already doing her best to expand her energy and essence, but this was also her limits! To make things worse, the demonic arms kept coming, and the aberrations were never running low on numbers.

"Dammit, do I have to use Pathway then?!" Elayne thought. "If I overuse it... I don't think this body can take the pressure anymore...! But if I don't everyone...!"

FLAAASH!

However, before Elayne could muster another word, a flash of light emerged from the skies. A white howl roared, a wave of purifying holy light surging from her entire body. The demonic aberrations were all burned, many were weakened and died. While a few others somehow survived, although barely.

"That owl! Was that another of the Druids?!" Elayne thought for a second, before sensing it. "The floor... the underground!"

It was all cleansed of miasma, completely clean! Her eyes flashed with determination. Five other potions were absorbed by her branches growing out of her shoulders, as she swiftly expanded her entire being down below.

She went all-out!

"It's now or never, Great Spirit!" She said, holding into Irene. "IRENE! NOW!"

"Alrigho, master!"

Elayne combined several spells together once more, a gigantic magic circle materializing in front of her. The ground trembled, everything was permeated by endless greenery. The helicopters all the way above the skies documented this live on the news. Endless flora expanded across the city!

FLUOSH!

Trees, plans, flowers, herbs, bushes, everything! A whole, gigantic forest was born. The druids glanced in awe, celebrating as the aberrations were quickly caught on the sea of green. A giant dome slowly started to grow, as Elayne's eyes flashed with draconic, divine power.

"[Divine Yggdragon's Nature Cage]!"

RUMBLE!

The spectacle was watched live on tv. The people cheered for her more than ever. The savior of their city, once more doing her best to protect everyone! With the gigantic dome made of wood, even the demonic gate was isolated from the outside world. Light shone brightly from every leave of the wood. The countless demonic arms noticed they were entrapped by a powerful magic.

"GRUOOHH!"

They roared in unison, attacking the dome with their titanic strength. Yet the wood, although it looked normal, was tougher than metal. Each blow didn't even make it flinch! And that wasn't all. Elena and Monica noticed Elayne had disappeared.

"Mom?! Where are you?!"

"She did it! But where is she?"

As the two girls looked around, they quickly noticed that Elayne's presence was everywhere. Her entire body became the Domain. The wood everywhere, the plants, the trees. To the Druids, this was already something only a goddess of nature, a nature soul, a greater spirit, could ever do!

"I am here, girls. I am everywhere now." Elayne spoke, he eyes opening across the endless dome.

They resembled the golden and fierce eyes of a dragon! The countless demonic arms seemed to panic for some reason. Their giant eyes firing beams, and their enormous hands opening their jaws to bite and gnaw at the wood.

Yet...

"It's useless. As long as I am here, you will not pass."

As she spoke, a wave of spiritual energy and mana surged, coursing through her entire body. The nature inside of her dome constantly supplying her with spirits and mana. Her body shapeshifted; hundreds of draconic heads made of wood appeared.

Everyone gasped in awe at the scene. Rose and Albert the most, they were unable to comprehend just how strong was this seemingly normal mother that they had met once, and since then, had changed their lives forever.

"[Yggdragon's Spiritual Breath]"

Countless beams of golden Yggdragon flames were released from the draconic heads. Blasting the demonic arms and pulverizing them into ashes one after another. Explosions erupting and filling the entire visage with blood and flesh.

BOOM! BOOM! BOOM! BOOM! BOOM!

Elayne's attacks completely cleared the way. As she swiftly commanded them all to quickly move. The Demonic Gate was weakening as she killed and blasted out of existence so many demonic arms. But more were coming out anyways, and a weird black and red substance was pouring out of it now, a demonic miasma that the demons specifically began to pour out to destroy her domain.

"Hurry! Before it is too late! Gather around the gate and close it! I will help you too." Elayne said, her inventory was constantly pouring tons after tons of the wood from her BNLO body had gathered.

"Alright!" Mark roared. "Albert, come!"

"On it!" Albert said, his chains wrapped around many aberrations, and then burning them with his demonic fire.

"Elayne's just amazing!" Rose said. "With her, this feels a bit more realistic!" Rose said, flying in the skies while conjuring explosions of blood and tornadoes of crimson fire, combusted blood she manipulated and imbued with mana beforehand.

"Mom, leave it to us!" Elena roared, leaping from monster to monster with Monica flying behind her.

"Uwaah! I didn't know I could fly?!" Monica noticed half her body had turned phantasmal. Another one of her abilities have been awakened after overusing spells and consuming a lot of mana potions.

"Move! I'll cover your backs now!"

The reason why Elayne got so big was because she absorbed hundreds of tons of her BNLO avatar's Yggdrasil body wood. A technique so risky yet so powerful she had only saved for the moment where nothing else could ever work.

And as she absorbed her Avatar's rich wood, Mana and Spirit energy were being constantly recovered, although her brain and body was barely taking the pressure, by absorbing this wood, she was alleviating the enormous weight she had to carry over her shoulders.

However, as the team drew closer, the Demonic Gate began to tremble, and something was beginning to form from within.

-----

Chapter 893 A Demonic Aberration

-----

Although a few demonic arms kept attacking, most of them now started to strangely concentrate together into something else. Demons were strange and bizarre lifeforms. They were independent on their own and cannibalized each other too. But when it comes to Hell and its Ruler, they are one and the same. A swarm, a legion. Before his commands, they merge together, they do as their ruler wishes without questions.

And so, they did. Although they could not come out themselves. Their arms could. And that was more than enough. Dozens after dozens of arms melded together into a giant mass of hands, fingers, eyes, and jaws. Demonic Power constantly being poured into this abomination, as it swiftly separated itself from the rest of the arms.

A being of its own was born. If the demons could not bring themselves out, then they would combine and birth a demon that could go through the portal. A giant of over twenty meters, made of hands and fingers, and covered on crimson eyes and jaws. It spread out its wings, made of several combined palms.

Its body was long and slender, its legs and arms made of many fingers combined together, it had some sort of head, resembling a thumb with a single, spiraling red colored eye. A huge jaw opened vertically, from the thumb all the way down to its "stomach".

The moment this entity emerged out of the portal; everyone held their breath... The presence of overwhelming demonic power it released was otherworldly. The young demon glared at them, the ones that had massacred the arms of their father.

"You... death...! I... KILL."

It tried to speak, too young to develop a mind of its own. Mark was the first one to rush towards him, trying to bring the attention of the demonic aberration to him and him alone. He knew he could take a few hits at least, based on his gigantic body.

"Tree man..."

The demon glanced at Mark, suddenly, it moved. Like a blur of red color, it seemed as if it teleported across space, but it simply moved. It flew at such an incredible speed that it seemed as if it had skipped space itself!

FLASH!

Its two enormous hands reached Mark. The giant Treant swiftly wielded his magic dragon dagger, now turned into a giant blazing sword, four powerful slashes of fire were released. The demon didn't take any of them, they ended hitting the ground instead, as the demon reappeared behind him.

"You damn...!"

As Mark was about to attack with his wings, the demon's arms pierced his joints. His shoulders were destroyed, and both of his giant wooden arms dropped on the floor. The demon's sharp tail quickly pierced his head, destroying it into pieces.

CRAAASH!

Mark's entire body immediately collapsed on the ground; a loud tremor sent shivers down the spine of everyone that were moving towards the demon. The monstrosity glared at them with cold eyes.

"MARK!" Elena cried, shocked to see what just happened.

"You... NEXT."

FLASH!

It moved at lightning speed, resembling teleportation. The demon reached Elena next, its gigantic hand about to crush her to death if it wasn't because several bullets were fired towards its direction. The demon swiftly evaded them, moving faster than their eyes could perceive.

FLASH!

Rita's senses sent alarms all across her body, yet such senses were slower than the demon's speed. Its giant wings flapped as feather projectiles made of blood and darkness were fired towards her. Explosions engulfed her completely.

"Shit! What the fuck...?!"

BOOM! BOOM! BOOM!

Without wasting a second, the demon swiftly directed its gaze to the nearest foe, Rose. It pounced through the empty air and then reached her. Its arms suddenly calling into the blood of its surroundings. Rose was shocked.

"It has blood magic?!"

"Blood... Spear."

With a voice formed from countless voices together, the monstrous aberration attempted to impale Rose with the spear made of blood. The Dhampir barely managed to block with her own blood magic, touching the spear and instantly breaking it down to pieces.

Crack, crack...!

CRAAASH!

"YOUUUU!"

The roar of Albert reverberated behind the demon that seemed shocked Rose wasn't blown away. Golden chains surged from his body, seeking and chasing the demon which flew away at lightning speed. The creature quickly adapted. Its arms shapeshifting into cannon-like growths, harnessing demonic energy and firing two crimson lasers at him.

BOOOM!!

The smoke dissipated to reveal Albert exhausted. His body looked half-burnt, slowly regenerating bit by bit. But he noticed his regeneration had slowed down. Hellberos was getting tired. They wouldn't be able to keep fighting forever.

"Hahh... T-That thing is too fast! And what happened to Mark and Rita?! Are they okay?!" As Albert asked, a giant shadow surged from behind him. "Wha...?!"

"ROOOAAR!"

The mighty roar of a dragon reverberated. Forming itself out of shadows, Rita's gun transformed into a giant cannon, the tip resembling a ferocious blue dragon. A tremendous beam of pure darkness and void reached the demon, who swiftly tried to evade it.

"Not so fast."

Elayne acted in that moment, giant arms made of wood appeared above the demon and from below, trying to overwhelm it with countless punches. The demon evaded every single one of them while breaking her arms to pieces. However, in that time frame, Rita's attack finally connected.

BOOOMMM...!!

The demon was blown away. It protected itself with its wings and a barrier of demonic energy. Both broke apart and were pulverized in the process of the explosion, but the rest of its body remained alive...

"Strong! Must kill... FIRST!"

FLASH!

Even without wings, the aberration leaped into the sky, appearing above Rita on a split second. The woman's eyes could only shift upwards before two enormous hands tried to crush her like a fly.

BAAAM!!

The demon opened its palms to see Rita nowhere to be seen, only shadow spirits were left behind, exploding the moment it gazed at them, a few fingers flew off from its hands.

"GRRH! Where?!"

The Demon didn't notice that Rita melded with her shadows to escape barely in time. Only for golden chains to wrap around its lanky legs.

"Oi fucker, I'm not done with you!"

-----

Chapter 894 An Impossible Foe?!

-----

The Druids outside of the dome watched what Elayne had created, and quickly decided to help her. The SWORD Agents nearby could only glance in surprise at these people, as they started channeling their Mana and Spiritual Essence into the Dome, feeding her with much-needed energy.

"Don't falter! The fight is still ongoing inside of the dome!" Janny cried.

"Oh mother goddess, please take all my essence!" The squirrel raised his tiny hands.

"You can do this. We will give you all we have." Jose said.

"Please, stop the demons!" The hawk cried.

Countless threads of essence flowed into the dome. The news reporter documented this incredible sight. People saw many beings they never believed to be real as a daily basis since the first awakening, but talking animals was certainly not something many expected to see one day.

However, a flash of bright golden and white light surged from the night skies. The news reporters panicked as a powerful shockwave of winds reached the ground, as if something came flying from the skies and descended at an incredibly fast speed.

Nobody could see him, but they could sense his presence, a light of incredible brightness spread across the surroundings. A small silhouette could be seen by the Druids much sharper eyes. Angelic wings spreading out, and a golden halo floated atop his blonde hair.

"!-Is that...?!" Janny cried.

"That presence...!" Jose muttered. "Although we cannot see him properly... That is a being from a higher dimension. That's...!"

"An angel?!" The squirrel and the hawk cried at the same time.

"Big sis... I finally came! Sorry for taking so long!" The little angel cried, gasping for air.

He seemed very tired of having flew for such a long distance. Elayne had originally told him to stay back home because he was still recovering his power. But he simply couldn't hide while she was fighting the demons he was meant to defeat!

The angel ignored the druids completely, slowly phasing through the empty air and reaching the dome, touching it and then disappearing into a flash of bright light.

FLASH!

...

"Oi fucker, I'm not done with you!"

Golden colored demon-sealing chains wrapped around the demon's legs, pushing it down and then dragging it towards Albert. The abomination glared at the human with its countless eyes. Its jaws slowly opening as it started to absorb air.

"You lowly... human... undeserving... of... our... power!"

As it spoke with its monstrous voice, Albert suddenly felt weak. The crimson red demonic energy coursing through his veins began to be absorbed by the demon! His eyes widened as his chains broke easily, the demon swiftly growing a new pair of muscular arms made of combined hands and fingers and pummeled him with countless blows.

"Die."

BAAM! BAAM! BAAM! BAAM!

"Uuuuaarrgh!"

Albert was blown away, one of his legs twisted into the wrong direction while one of his arms was torn apart. Rose watched in utter horror as she could see his ribs piercing his own skin. His entire body fell down, collapsing on the ground, a bloody mess was the only thing left behind.

CRASH!

"ALBERT!"

Rose swiftly rushed to his help, noticing none of his wounds were regenerating anymore, and to make things worse, the essence of Hellberos had weakened to an incredible extent. The demon was forced to hibernate inside of Albert's soul.

FLASH!

"You... interesting... descendant of demon?"

The monstrous demon appeared in front of Rose before she could reach him. His twenty-meter-tall body towering above her, casting a powerful shadow over her body. His entire presence exuding an enormous aura of demonic power, all the strength it stole from Albert was now making it stronger.

"You bastard!"

Rose didn't feel any fear, her entire Blood Aura erupted at once. All the Blood Energy she had accumulated so far was unleashed all at once. The demon marveled as a gigantic wolf made of blood aura emerged from her body, clashing against him. This time, he didn't evade, he couldn't. Somehow, he felt slower after bloating himself with Albert's demonic energy.

CRAASH!

The gigantic crimson wolf roared, opening its maws and biting the demon's left arm off with a single strike, before kicking its chest and unleashing a powerful beam of crimson energy. Rose was floating inside of this giant fifteen-meter-tall wolf. This was one of her strongest techniques as a Dhampir.

"Hah... Hahaha..."

However, the demon only laughed. Rose felt a chill down her spine as the demonic arm she tore apart appeared behind her, moving on its own, and floating in midair.

"Wha...?!"

BAAAMM!!

Before she could do anything else, she was punched away, her entire Blood Aura Beast dissipated as she was hit directly, her small body pummeling down. She was much tougher than Albert, but instantly felt her left arm dislocating and one of her ribs breaking.

"F-Fuck!"

As she screamed, her Blood Aura transformed, the blood in her surroundings dancing around her, spiraling. The blood shapeshifted, becoming hundreds of spears of blood, and firing them at the vicious demon.

However, the demons smiled with its countless jaws, using its own arm as a shield. It took the hits easily before rushing towards Rose, attempting to kick her away!

CRAASH!

"Ggrrhh?!"

But the only thing the bastard kicked was a giant wall of wood surging from the ground, before countless spears imbued with holy light spirits were fired from the entire dome. Elayne wasn't wasting time, attacking as much as she could to stop the monstrosity.

BOOM! BOOM! BOOM!

However, although some of the spears pierced its body, most left no damage. The wounds regenerated quickly, the demon having drained Albert's regeneration factor and adding it as a part of its new powers.

"Me... invincible...! Me... unstoppable!"

The Demon laughed; all attacks seemed to become ineffective the more the monstrosity took them. Lily swiftly acted after channeling her mana, the ground around the demon shook. Countless walls of stone surged, completely gaging it inside a box made of stone, ore and crystals.

RUMBLE!

The demon instantly began trying to breakthrough the cage, slowly, cracks continued appearing across its surface as the entire box trembled. Pieces of stone and metal crumbled down. Lily would not be able to hold it back for much longer.

"Hurry! Go close that gate! Before it is too late and-"

Crack, crack...! CRACK!

CRAAASH!

However, it was already too late.

-----

Chapter 895 The Heavenly Spear of Divine Judgement!

-----

The Demon freed itself, in a flash, it approached Rose again, summoning a dozen spears made of its own blood and demonic energy. The Dhampir swiftly imbued her body with her powerful Blood Aura, evading the majority of the blows and then swiftly repelling a few others by strengthening her claws. However, the impact alone of the blows sent her flying. Unlike Mark or Elayne, she couldn't grow bigger and was an ant when compared to the size and height of the aberrant demonic entity.

"Kill... I will kill you and... Take back the power you inherited... From us demons."

The demon spoke with a menacing and threatening voice. Rose had never heard about Vampires descending from demons, so she couldn't help but feel shocked by the news. And this surprise was all the demon needed, extending its legs against her and kicking her a dozen times, she vomited blood, clashing over Elayne's wooden walls.

BAAAM!

"Rose!"

Rita panicked as she swiftly decided to go all out. A giant sphere of malic fueled her power, as she pointed her hands at the creature and harnessed all of this magic power, releasing it all at once through a giant, intricate magic circle.

Elayne wasn't the only one growing stronger and practicing. Although Rita had never revealed this, she had been training the usage and conjuration of magic circles since she gained her powers. And much like Elayne, she had figured the ability to combine runes together into even larger spells.

"Take this, my everything! [Abyssal Blue Dragon Summon]!"

Rita's mana and malice essence fused with her Aura and her equipment abilities, even her gun. She was quickly engulfed by a gigantic dragon made of shadows, which swiftly clashed against the demon. Her big claws, bites, tail strikes, and breath overwhelmed the demon, pushing it back.

However, the demon clashed back, constantly trying to regenerate more and more. Rita had become its equal only for a few seconds before the demon were to adapt to her fighting style and powers.

He swiftly stopped her tail blows, grasping her tail and then lifting her off the ground, slamming her into the floor. Rita's draconic aura slowly weakened, falling into pieces.

However, she relentlessly stood back up, punching and blasting the creature with everything she had, buying time!

"Come on, now!"

And in that very moment, six giant totems made of blazing spirit wood surged around the beast, releasing a domain which trapped the demon inside. Chains made of spiritual flames wrapped around its body.

"RAAAH!"

The demon kicked away Rita, trying to free itself, however, Lily attacked right again, her giant hands made of stone and ores grasping the giant, and keeping it on place. Elena and Monica attacked too. Monica's curse chains constantly consumed the demon's soul as she drank her mana potions. Meanwhile, Elena conjured her largest sword, firing it and piercing the demon's chest, and its soul as well.

"GRRRHHH!"

However, the demon was not going down, constantly spreading demonic miasma as aberrations rose, attacking everyone. In a battle of attrition, this monstrosity would always hold the higher ground. Elayne fired beams of spiritual essence, but nothing was working in the long run.

"Dammit! If only my Celestial Essence didn't ran out so quickly!"

As Elayne lamented, she suddenly felt a bright light coming from outside the barrier. Encompassing her body and fusing with her like spirits would.

"W-What?!"

FLAAASH!

The bright celestial light encompassed her body, her essence recovered quickly, as she heard the voice of Gabriel echoing inside of her mind.

"Big sis! I may be weak now, but please, take it all! Take everything I have!"

"Gabriel!"

While in tears of seeing the weak and young angel sacrificing his own essence to help her, Elayne swiftly fused all her wood into a single, gigantic spear, fusing into it Gabriel himself through her Spirit Fusion Spell.

[You have temporarily fused the Archangel Gabriel with your wood and holy light spirits, temporarily creating the [Heavenly Spear of Divine Judgement: Oblivion]!]

The gigantic spear flashed through the air, piercing the demon's chest with a loud explosion of light. The shockwave alone sent everyone flying away, as the demon stumbled into the floor, its entire body beginning to slowly dissipate into ashes!

"GRAAAHHH!"

It gave an agonizing scream as the spear completely destroyed it. If it wasn't for everyone's efforts though, the demon would have simple broken out of everyone's restraint!

However, what remained of the demon's tail suddenly moved on its own, trying to escape into the demonic gate! Elayne swiftly controlled the spear through magic, firing it into the tail's body and then piercing the entire demonic gate at the same time.

"Make sure to NEVER come back! Because you're NOT welcome!"

With a mighty roar, Elayne's spear exploded, the entire demonic gate was disrupted, slowly dissipate as the giant scar on space repaired itself by a supernatural power she sensed came from the very depths of the world's core.

BOOOMMM!!!

As everything ended, Gabriel fell into the floor, falling unconscious. Elayne popped ten mana potions to keep herself conscious, and slowly regenerated her body, emerging from the destroyed paved floor. She swiftly spread an aura of healing light, healing everyone, including the somewhat still alive Albert, he was more resilient than she imagined.

"I-Is it over? Oof..." Mark sighed in relief, looking into the surroundings. All aberrations that had spread were turned into ashes, with no more in sight.

"T-That was really exhausting." Rita sighed in relief as well, falling unconscious.

"Uuugggh... My body hurts like shit..." Jenny went back to her normal form. She had used her powers to restraint the demon too.

"Mom, a-are you alright?" Elena ran towards Elayne.

"Yes... Just very, very tired... Let's go back home now." Elayne said, her eyes filled with exhaustion and melancholy over all the destruction that happened.

The group swiftly fled through the skies, covering their faces with wooden masks Elayne made. The helicopters in the scene all glanced from afar, as Rose carried Albert with her. They all regrouped inside of Elayne's house, where they found Anna and Elisa with her bodyguard waiting for them outside the garden, and without even bothering to going back home, they all fell asleep.

This night would be forever remembered as the "Second Contact" where demonic beings revealed themselves to the entire world.

-----

Chapter 896 The Next Day

-----

In the depths of the blazing purgatory, a giant made of flames, with dozens of arms, legs, and five heads, glanced at the demons in front of him. There were a hundred of them, led by the one that had tried to hunt down Elayne. They were prostrating themselves in front of him, their souls trembling in fear and shame for having failed a direct request from him.

"We are deeply sorry for failing you, oh great lord of hell... We are not worth of your forgiveness."

"Please, give us another opportunity."

"Now that we've learned of her abilities, we could prepare for a counterattack!"

However, the giant made of flames squinted its twelve eyes, and remained in silence. It raised its hands, as chains made of fire were released from its body. The chains moved into the demonic souls, which had yet to fully revive into their demon bodies.

"You are indeed not worthy. I will take away your souls, your memories, and your powers. And new demons shall take your place. Failure is not tolerated."

The demons screamed in agony as their souls were broken into a thousand pieces and then absorbed by the giant made of flames, which slowly gained some power from it. And then, from its very flames, new Demonic Souls were born, slowly rising and then reaching the floor. As they regenerated fully, they kneeled before him.

"I will inherit you the memories of these fools. This is not the end, find her, kill her."

"Yes."

The giant made of flames seemed to hold some slight speck of personality, but it acted and spoke as if it were a force of nature more than an actual being, an individual, a person.

The demons disappeared from the scene on sparks of crimson and black flames, the giant made of flames remained immobile, not even blinking, as it watched its surroundings endlessly burn. The ruins of ancient civilizations, of an old world it devoured, surrounded his throne made of billions of bones.

.
. .
. . .

The morning sunlight felt nice, warmly bathing over my head. I slowly opened my eyes as the gentle morning breeze washed over my sleepy face. I looked around, finding myself sleeping over my bed, Mark was there... And Rita, and Gabriel, and Lily, and Rose and Albert were resting on the floor.

In the couch of the living room, my daughter, Anna, Monica, and Elisa were all sleeping while cuddling with one another. And I noticed Steiner being the only one awake at this hour, slowly washing the dishes and cooking something.

The smell of scrambled eggs, bacon, and coffee slowly woke up Mark at my side. But Rita and Lily remained asleep. Once I looked up into the ceiling, I noticed Jenny stuck there, half her back was made into a purple slime, sticking to the wooden ceiling...

"Ahh..." I stretched my arms and walked out of the bedroom, Mark was still trying to figure out what was happening, looking very sleepy.

"Muh... Guh? W-Wha... What happened? Ah... AAAH!" He screamed loudly as he saw Rita and Lily sleeping by his side, and swiftly leaped out of the bed like a spring.

"E-Elayne?! I-I... This is not what it seems!" He started sweating nervously.

"Don't worry, we couldn't even see where we landed when we fell asleep last night." I laughed. "Nothing like that happened, relax. Hello Steiner, good morning."

"Oh, Lady Elayne, Sir Mark. Good morning." Steiner greeted us with great manners. "I'm sorry for making some noise, but I wanted to repay you even if a bit for everything you did for us last night, so I started washing the dishes and cooking breakfast. I went to buy some groceries half an hour ago too."

"You really didn't have to, but thanks for your help, nonetheless!" I smiled gently. "A lot... happened last night, huh?"

"Saying that it was simply "a lot" would be an understatement." Steiner sighed, looking at the sleeping Elisa. "I really thought we would die back then. If it wasn't for your help, and even that of your daughter, we wouldn't had made it. I thank you deeply for that, with all my heart."

Steiner then bowed to me.

"Oh please don't go so far. It's alright. We have to talk a lot about everything though." I sighed.

"Hmm, why do I have such a horrendous hangover?" Rita yawned while looking alone. "Elayne? Lily...? Huh?"

"Please mommy, just five more minutes..." Lily cried, cuddling over the bed and resting her face over one of Rita's thighs.

"Hey, wake up already, Lily! My thigh's not your pillow!" Rita aggressively threw Lily away.

"Ouch! H-Hey why did you do that?!" Suddenly Rose woke up by Lily falling over her. "Ugh, you're so heavy! G-Get off me!"

"Huh? Hahaha!" And the first thing Albert did when he woke up is laugh at the situation.

SPLASH!

And as if things couldn't get messier, Jenny fell over the bed and splattered her slime all over the place. It was now full of purple slimy substance everywhere!

"Ugh this is the fucking worst, my body aches all over!" Jenny slowly restructured herself back to human form.

"So you are like a slime or something? I've never met a person that could become such a fantasy creature..." Said Rose. "Is she some sort of mutant? Or is that a hunter's awakened ability?"

"H-Hunter's Awakened Ability! Of course." I laughed nervously. "A-Anyways, everyone, let's eat breakfast. Alright? We can talk and discuss everything that happened as we do."

As everyone agreed and slowly stretched and walked to the table, including my daughter and her friends who just woke up, I suddenly heard the voice of the world once more.

[You have defeated a [High Ranking Demon: Aim], one of the [72 Demons of the Goetia]!]

[You have defeated a [High Ranking Mutant Demon: Furcas]!]

[You have closed a threatening Hell Gate.]

[You have accomplished an incredible feat; your Halo is resonating!]

[Your [Spiritual Angelic Halo (Rank 3)] has Ranked Up to [Spiritual Angelic Halo (Rank 8)]!]

[Your Angelic Halo has gained +500 Angelic Runes. Your maximum Celestial Energy has increased exponentially.]

[Heaven congratulates you for your efforts on defeating the Demons invading the Mortal World. You've received the engraved Angelic Physique Ability: [Angelic Spirit Fusion]!]

[You've received [Seed of Eden's Apple] x1!]

[Heaven is looking forward to your future feats.]

Huh...

-----

Chapter 897 There's A Lot We Need To Talk About

-----

[You have defeated a [High Ranking Demon: Aim], one of the [72 Demons of the Goetia]!]

[You have defeated a [High Ranking Mutant Demon: Furcas]!]

[You have closed a threatening Hell Gate.]

[You have accomplished an incredible feat; your Halo is resonating!]

[Your [Spiritual Angelic Halo (Rank 3)] has Ranked Up to [Spiritual Angelic Halo (Rank 8)]!]

[Your Angelic Halo has gained +500 Angelic Runes. Your maximum Celestial Energy has increased exponentially.]

[Heaven congratulates you for your efforts on defeating the Demons invading the Mortal World. You've received the engraved Angelic Physique Ability: [Angelic Spirit Fusion]!]

[You've received [Seed of Eden's Apple] x1!]

[Heaven is looking forward to your future feats.]

Huh, alright... So I grew stronger from it, makes sense. But why did I just get something else than an ability? An item? I got an actual physical item from Heaven?

But where is it- Oh.

I checked inside my inventory, and a seed that looked as if it were made of gold was sitting there, calmly floating in midair. It emanated a holy and heavenly aura.

Is this really the Apple from Eden that Adan and Eve ate? T-There's absolutely no way, right? RIGHT?!

Because if it is, then it would be quite useless because... Wouldn't I become hated by Heaven if I consume it as a mere mortal- Oh wait, I am considered something of an angel now.

So I guess it was always okay to eat the fruit for angels and god, but not for mortals, interesting. Alright, I'll check it later.

"And well, that's how things have went..." I said, finishing my explanations to those that were unaware of our powers.

Rose and Albert were around, so we decided to keep our lips tight about the whole BNLO is a real parallel world. As agents of the government, even if we made an oath, they could find ways to break through and inform this very precious information, which might disrupt the entire parallel world as a whole if it becomes widespread.

I might trust this truth to Anna and Elisa because they're very close to my daughter, but Stiner, Rose, and Albert aren't that trustworthy yet, and they don't play the game either, so they're not attached to it.

"I can't believe you've been hiding from me that your mom was so strong, Elena! And you were also an awakened?! That's just crazy!" Anna said.

"T-This is too much to process..." Elisa sighed. "B-But that's fine, I mean, we all saw it and we experienced it firsthand so... Anna, why are you overreacting so much though?"

"O-Oh, ah, well... Hahaha, I like doing that sometimes." Anna laughed while apologizing a bit.

"Well, I think we should get going ourselves." Albert said. "Thank you for everything last night."

"SWORD will make sure to pay you well for your efforts." Rose smiled. "And putting formal speech aside. I hate having to go right now but our boss is going to kill us if we don't get there before 1 PM. We'll come pay a visit later though!"

"Yeah, thank you for everything, truly." Albert thanked me again. "Without all of you, I would have surely died... I never thought the demons would appear out of nowhere and- Ah, well, we can discuss this into more depth later. Goodbye."

The two of them finally left, followed by Steiner, after Elisa told him she would be staying here today. The butler and bodyguard nodded inwardly.

"Very well, I shall also be returning home, Lady Elisa. I will notify your parents of what has happened, and also tell them about Lady Elayne's feats, I believe they will compensate her efforts." The butler said, making his return to the limousine and moving back home.

"Well, with that out of the way, there's still a lot to talk about..." I sighed. "Especially of the Demons, and the Blighters, and the Druids! Honestly too many forces clashed last night, it was very hard to keep up with everything."

"You tell me that, mom..." Elena sighed. "I know that because Gabriel the demons might have come here or something, but what with the Druids?"

"I have tried calling to them, but they don't seem to be coming." The Great Spirit spoke. "I believe they might be very exhausted and are resting. But you shouldn't be afraid of them, they're the new guardians of your domain, they helped me a lot yesterday."

"W-Well, yeah, I have to admit that they came to help us too." Anna nodded. "So there are Druids out there... And was that redhaired gal a Dhampir?! And the guy was a demon vessel or something... Was this world always supernatural?"

"Kind of, with the first contact things only became even more supernatural, apparently." I sighed.

"From what I can recall of the Blighters, they're like evil druids. Types of Druids who felt betrayed by Nature or something and became corrupted. Not exactly necromancers or dark magicians. They still employ nature's powers, but the dark and rotten side of it, the side of nature that covers decay itself. Might be similar to necromancers in some ways, but at the same time, they're very different."

"Well, we took down two of them, but that bitch managed to escape." The Great Spirit groaned. "She was exceptionally strong! And was working with the Demon King of Death, no less. I guess that's why they targeted your daughter, they learned information from him."

"Wait, wait, there's a demon king of death?! Like in BNLO?!" Anna asked.

"T-That's crazy. Is he also a powerful sorcerer or a demon?" Elisa asked.

We looked at one another for a few seconds. Now that Rose and Albert weren't here, and Steiner made his return back home, we decided to just tell them the truth about BNLO and its connection to this world after making a oath of secrecy with the girls.

"T-That's... Honestly, I feel it is a bit weird I am not overreacting right now. Kind of always felt like that world was real, I always wished it was, hahah..." Anna took it surprisingly well.

"It makes more sense than I imagined... So what happened with the Demon King of Miasma, and then the Demon King of Death!" Elisa was fascinated. "T-This is incredible..."

"Wait, is it possible to awaken us like it happened with Elena through our Avatar's connection?!" Anna asked.

"Yes, we were thinking about doing that." I nodded.

-----

Chapter 898 Awakening Anna And Elisa

-----

After further explanations, Anna and Elisa accompanied us to the backyard, where we carried over the "Awakening Ritual" using compatible materials for their Avatars. Both girls successfully and quite easily awakened their own Magic Circles, although for Physiques, a bit more time would be needed. They need to do more exercise!

[Connection to [Otherworldly Avatar] has been successfully established.]

[You have awakened a [Magic Circle (Tier 1: Rank 6)] within [Anna]'s Heart!]

[The [Spirit Beast Summoner Magic Circle] has gained 600 Summoner Runes!]

[The [Magic Circle] has acquired the following Engraved Spells: [Summon Familiar: Green Wolf], [Mana Connection], [Summon Familiar: Shadow Crow], [Familiar And Summoner Connection], [Summon Familiar: Young Phoenix]!]

[1 Summoner Rune = 3 Fire, Darkness, Nature Runs (More Elements are added based in the contracted Familiars)]

Anna overflowed with an Aura of Mana encompassing her body. Just as I thought, she became a Summoner like in her Avatar of BNLO. And she already has three familiar summoning spells, no less. Very interesting.

"Woahh...! My body's overflowing with a weird energy! Wait, it's not that weird now?" Anna wondered. "I feel like I used it a lot back in BNLO... So this is Mana. Every time I used it back then, I was truly wielding it! And I am a Summoner, you said?!"

"Yep, why don't you try out summoning something? By focusing on your heart, you can see the information of your magic circle, the runes engraved represent your spells," I explained to the girl.

"I see! Gotcha...!" She tried but had a hard time focusing. "Ugh, this is harder than I imagined...!"

"Come on, you can do it." Elena cheered for her.

[Connection to [Otherworldly Avatar] has been successfully established.]

[You have awakened a [Magic Circle (Tier 1: Rank 6)] within [Elisa]'s Heart!]

[The [Golden Dragon Princess Magic Circle] has gained 600 Golden Dragon Runes!]

[The [Magic Circle] has acquired the following Engraved Spells: [Golden Dragon Scales], [Golden Dragon Claws], [Golden Dragon Wings], [Golden Dragon Tail], [Golden Dragon Fiery Breath]!]

[1 Dragon Rune = 5 Light, Fire and Earth Runes.]

As for Elisa, it was even more interesting, she gained spells that give her "parts" of her golden dragon form. Which is quite amazing by itself. I suppose that she'll eventually can combine them all to turn into a true dragon princess or something? I do remember her whole Avatar was about being a shiny, golden scaled dragon girl.

"What with these spells?! D-Did I seriously just get what my Avatar had without any flashy spell?" Elisa quickly tried one spell, conjuring it with much more ease compared to Anna. "[Golden Dragon Scales]!"

FLASH!

Her arms glowed gold as golden scales grew over her white skin, shining with pristine metallic light. She gasped, finding it... horrifying.

"Oh my gosh this is weird and yucky! I was fine with it in BNLO because it wasn't my body but... C-Can I change the spells, Lady Elayne?!" Elisa asked me desperately.

"Sorry, no refunds. It cannot be changed. If we tried to rewrite the magic circle... I think it might end up breaking down to pieces." I apologized.

"Yeah, you just keep what you get, sadly." Mark said. "I am still not too fond of becoming a giant tree man myself... I have yet to get used to fire coursing through my body too. Hahaha..."

"I didn't know! You were always looking so fine and comfortable like that." I laughed.

"What? Come on, I still like being humans! Hahah!" Mark laughed with me.

"Ugh, so I am stuck with this..." Elisa panicked.

"Come on, why are you panicking so much? You're still you, it's just magic spells." Elena said. "I also become a blue Oni and I don't mind."

"I-I guess, but still- I... Well, I guess I have to just accept this and- Woah!" Elisa panicked as she grew dragon wings made of magic, making her fly into the air. "Uwaaah!"

"Uuugggh, come on, come out already!" Anna groaned. She had yet to summon anything.

"I think it'll take a while for these girls to get used to magic..." The Great Spirit seemed to lament at my side.

"I guess they won't do it as easily as with your daughter." Rita commented.

"W-Well, let's give them some time to breathe and learn well before anything else." Lily giggled.

"I would love to stay here for longer, but I want to get back home, to be honest. I think I'm going to sleep off for the rest of the day, for real." Jenny yawned.

"You're free to go, Jenny. Once SWORD calls, I'll tell them to make a deposit in your bank account." I said.

"Oh, right! Yeah! Do that, thanks Elayne." Jenny quickly walked away, jumping off the backyard's walls.

"Did she really had to go away through the walls?" Mark wondered, crossing his arms.

"Well, it doesn't really matter." I shrugged. "Anyways, a lot has happened, but we can't really sit down and relax yet. Should we go back to BNLO? I think I can complete Hephaestus Trial today; I got all the materials. After that, we should quickly get inside Cloudia's Fragment and get to the end of this mystery. After that, I suppose infiltrating the Magician Guild comes next, right?"

"Yeah I guess." Rita nodded. "I need to go back home too, I don't know if I'll log-in right away though. But I'll try."

"Same, I want to open my shop for a bit." Lily said.

"I guess everyone's busy, yeah, don't worry. I can do this on my own anyways, no pressure!" I winked at them.

"You've got me too." Mark said. "Let's do this together. Even if we are going against time. In the week we got left, I think it should be doable."

"Thank you so much Mark... I don't want to bother anybody with these obligations and all the things I've decided to do or that I've promised. I'm glad I've got you at my side though." I smiled, sighing in relief.

"Always." Mark nodded, as he gave me a gentle kiss. "We also got our friends back in Arcadia too! So don't worry, it's not like its exactly just the two of us."

"Alright! I got more motivated as well! Let's do all these annoying chores!"

-----

Chapter 899 Making New Weapons

-----

First of all, as it was still pretty early in the morning, I decided to give the girls... Weapons. Yes I know it is not right to give weapons to underage people, but right now they'll need them to defend themselves. I won't be giving the firearms or something though, just everyday items that I'll enchant with materials and spirits through Spirit Fusion, Spirit Infusion, and a Potential Cube.

Potential Cubes are still an amazing thing, with them I could pretty much give magical potential and abilities to any object, though I have decided to leave it as it is for now, I had considered using them around my body, on the walls and whatnot, to see what can change.

But that'll be for another occasion, right now I had to quickly decide which weapons would be better for my daughter and her friends. Monica included... They also need to meld with everyday objects so they can bring them along without being suspicious, or that can be small enough to hide easily.

"I could bring some weapons from my inventory, but that would defeat the purpose of stealth..." I sighed. "So, Elena, I think a knife that can grow into a sword would be good for you, like Mark's knife."

"A knife, huh? Does it have to look like a normal and small one?" She asked.

"Yes, a pocketknife that shouldn't look out of place." Mark said. "I got an extra one, so you can use this." He quickly gave it to her.

"Oh, well, alright." She shrugged. "I wanted something like an actual katana, but I can't just ask for that."

"What about me?" Anna wondered. "I usually just wield a staff!"

"Hmmm, well, I got a shovel for a staff..." I said. "How about that?"

"A shovel?!" She asked in disbelief. "Why not a broom though?"

"A broom! Right, how could I not think about that one?" I laughed. "And about Monica, what do you want? A shovel, a broom, or do you have something else in mind?"

"Um, can it be this plushie I have?" She showed me a black colored teddy bear. It looked all old and worn down, but it seemed to have a deep connection with Monica. It was small enough for her to carry it in her pocket, and until now I hadn't realized she brought it along.

"Is that a teddy bear? How can that be a weapon?" Asked Elisa, rising an eyebrow.

"I-I thought that it could be enchanted into a magic catalyst, isn't that what magicians use in BNLO? And it's considered a weapon..." Said Monica. "T-This Teddy Bear is... my parent's last gift to me. I got it as a souvenir from a trip we did together, when I was very little... I remember that back then it was bigger than my hands, but now, it is so small I carry it on my pocket to feel better."

"..." Elisa remained in silence after hearing that. "I-I see... My bad, I didn't know it had that much meaning to you."

"It's fine, Elisa. I know it is a bit weird..." Monica sighed.

"Sure! I can use that for a magic catalyst!" I giggled. "Now, Elisa! Hmm, what weapon did she even use in BNLO? I can't remember, honestly."

"Inside of BNLO I am a magic fighter, I use my strong dragon body and my magic to reinforce it further to fight. I usually switch weapons to whatever fancy and cool looking I find!" Elisa said as if proud of that.

"But I don't know, I suppose anything is fine..."

"Hmmm, which weapon are you better at using?" My boyfriend asked her.

"She's actually not that good using any of the weapons." Laughed Anna.

"Hey what?!" Elisa barked. "I am good with every weapon I ever wield!"

"But I've noticed she's better at close combat, using her fists, through punches, and her legs with fast kicks. She also uses her tail." Elena pointed out.

"Yeah that's right!" Elisa nodded, immediately nodding to my daughter. I can tell the preferences.

"Y-Yes, I've noticed she's good with fighting using her body, but I don't know, it might be harder using her real body than her Avatar, her Avatar is very tall compared to her..." Monica commented.

"Are you calling me small?! I am at least a bit taller than you, Monica!" Elisa cried. "Hmph!"

"S-Sorry I didn't mean to upset you, Elisa!" Monica panicked.

"Ahem! Anyways, I guess I can make her a pair of gloves that can give her more punching power, how about it?" I asked.

"Sounds fine... I approve of it." Elisa nodded.

"Alright! Then let's begin."

I first granted the items magic powers through a Potential Cube, and then used my usual combination of Spirit Fusion, Spirit Infusion, and the compatible materials to quickly enchant them.

I had not used Pathway through all the fight last night, just because I wanted to save up the energy, and because when overused, it causes a lot of exhaustion on my body.

So I decided to instead attempt to channel the Divinity that my Avatar is developing through my soul connection with it and bless the items myself.

And it actually worked!

[Greater Potential Cube (B Rank)] and several Dark and Phantom Materials have been utilized on [Expert Self-Defense Knife (No Rank)]

[The [Expert Self-Defense Knife (No Rank)] has evolved into [Phantom Shadow Knife (B Rank)]

[The [Phantom Shadow Knife (B Rank)] has acquired the Potential Abilities: [STR & AGI +22% (C)] [Phantom Slash Flurry (C)] [Great Elemental Resonance (C)] [MP & INT +23% (C)] [Vampiric Shadow Blade (B)] [Phantasmal Demon Katana Transformation (B)]

[The Weapon has received your Blessing successfully, gaining the additional Ability: [Graveyard Of Swords (B Rank)]

My daughter's weapon was the first to be done, overflowing with a dark and phantasmal aura. I had used many ghost-type monster materials for it, alongside her own Oni-compatible materials. And through a pre-established connection with her soul, the weapon's abilities shaped themselves to fit her even so slightly.

And the blessing worked as well, it gave her an additional ability named Graveyard of Swords! It looked to be pretty deadly.

"This is amazing...! Thank you mom!" Elena immediately transformed the knife into a long, demonic katana, swinging it around in the air. The weapon emanated an ominous aura...

-----

Chapter 900 Incredible Magic Weapons!

-----

After my daughter's weapon, Monica's teddy bear was also done. It had changed in appearance, now being completely black, with red buttons as eyes. It also stopped looking as worn down and seemed like a completely new plushie.

[Greater Potential Cube (B Rank)] and several Dark and Curse Materials have been utilized on [Worn Down Teddy Bear Full Of Childhood Memories (No Rank)]

[The [Worn Down Teddy Bear Full Of Childhood Memories (No Rank)] has evolved into [Cursed Teddy Bear Of Grudges Magic Catalyst (B Rank)]

[The [Cursed Teddy Bear Of Grudges Magic Catalyst (B Rank)] has acquired the Potential Abilities: [AGI & MP +25% (C)] [Curse Of Long-Lost Memories (C)] [Great Elemental Resonance (C)] [INT & WIS +23% (C)] [Mana Drain (B)] [Cursed Barrier (B)]

[The Weapon has received your Blessing successfully, gaining the additional Ability: [Phantasmal Guardian (B Rank)]

It had some useful abilities to complement Monica, such as a Curse that makes her foes slow down by making them forget the things they were doing a few seconds in the past, confusing them. The power to drain mana using phantasmal claws, a barrier made of curses that once touched, curses a foe, and lastly, the power to become a giant teddy bear guardian to protect her, because she was quite frail.

"W-Wow... You really became a giant teddy bear..." Monica gasped. "T-This feels more surreal than I thought..." She was having a hard time believing her eyes right now.

Moving on to Anna's weapon, I chose the broom she had talked about beforehand, and used compatible materials too. Beast Materials was easy to get in the BNLO Marketplace App, but the Summoner-type

Materials were a bit tricky, only some bosses and late-game mobs were catalogued as "Summoner-type".

The bosses were around Level two hundred plus, and the mobs were rare Level three hundred enemies that roamed abandoned temples in the Demon King Continent. Even then, their materials had little usage and demand, so even if they were from late game, they didn't cost more than a few million gold coins.

[Greater Potential Cube (B Rank)] and several Beast and Summoner Materials have been utilized on [Wooden Broom (No Rank)]

[The [Wooden Broom (No Rank)] has evolved into [Beast Summoner's Magic Broom Staff (B Rank)]

[The [Beast Summoner's Magic Broom Staff (B Rank)] has acquired the Potential Abilities: [STR & AGI +23% (C)] [Familiar Elemental Missile (C)] [Great Familiar Resonance (C)] [MP & INT +21% (C)] [Familiar Elemental Barrier (B)] [Spiritual Familiar Blessing (B)]

[The Weapon has received your Blessing successfully, gaining the additional Ability: [Summon Familiar: Steel Golem (B Rank)]

"Woow, with this I can summon a Steel Golem?!" Anna asked. "But I can't even summon the other guys yet! This is going to take a while- Huh?"

However, her staff resonated with her magic, as three magic circles appeared over the floor around her. A beautiful, green-furred wolf of over two meters of height materialized, then a giant crow of a meter and a half, and lastly, a "little" phoenix, of three meters of height.

"W-What in the world?! It worked now?! W-Woah, my summons! I got you guys IRL now! Holy shit!" Anna cried out of happiness, her Familiars tilted their heads in confusion but accepted her hugs nonetheless, the wolf licked her face and left her full of stinky drool. "Ugeeh, stop it! Don't lick me anymore, green wolf!"

As the girls laughed at the scene, I finished Elisa's weapon, which she had been patiently waiting for while crossing her arms and tapping the floor.

[Greater Potential Cube (B Rank)] and several Light and Dragon Materials have been utilized on [Simple Transparent Silk Gloves (No Rank)]

[The [Simple Transparent Silk Gloves (No Rank)] has evolved into [Golden Dragon Silk Gloves (B Rank)]

[The [Golden Dragon Silk Gloves (B Rank)] has acquired the Potential Abilities: [STR & AGI +25% (C)] [Lightning Fist (C)] [Great Elemental Resonance (C)] [HP & VIT +22% (C)] [Dragon Fist (B)] [Golden Dragon Aura (B)]

[The Weapon has received your Blessing successfully, gaining the additional Ability: [Golden Dragon's Wrath (B Rank)]

The gloves turned from a semi-transparent silk to a golden silk, and emanated a strong aura, despite looking so inconspicuous. Lightning Fist might be for striking quick punches, dragon fists might be a stronger, but slower punch, golden dragon aura could be a temporary boost to her powers, and lastly, golden dragon wrath could either be a rampaging attack or something else.

"Ohhh? How wonderful, the gloves are silky gold now! It truly fits me now." She smiled proudly, grabbing the weightless gloves and wearing them. "So pretty! I love them! And they... it somehow makes me feel much stronger by just wearing them."

"It is part of the weapon's effects! Try out the abilities, they're all fighting abilities to help you fight." I said.

"A-Alright!"

The girls started practicing their magic and new techniques, as I called over Elena and Monica, using the Magic Crystals we got from all the undead monsters we hunted and that they helped hunting, and decided to quickly increase their Magic Circle Ranks.

It was also about time they acquired their Physiques, both had been putting some effort into exercising these last weeks, so they were almost ready for them. So after their Rank Up of Magic Circles, which brought both to Tier 2, which granted them a secondary Circle, I used the materials I had purchased beforehand, and granted them new Physiques.

[The [Magic Circle (Tier 1: Rank 9)] within Elena's Heart has Ranked Up to Tier 2: Rank 2]

[She has gained +300 Darkness Runes and +150 Oni Runes.]

[1 Oni Rune counts as 10 Physique Runes.]

[Oni Runes won't increase her Physique Rank.]

[Elena has gained the new Spells: [Soul Eating Blade] and [Blue Oni's Wrath]

[Elena has undergone body evolution and has awakened the [Blue Oni Sword Master Physique (Tier 1: Rank 1)]

[Elena's [Physique] has acquired the following engraved Physique Abilities: [Sword Master's Body], [Phantasmal Reflexes], [Shadow Step], [Triple Slash], [Sword Hand]

"Only Rank 1 but I already feel the changes so much!" Elena said, looking at her own body. "I can now turn into a blue Oni without any mana requirement too! And switch back easily...! This is really useful."

And thanks to her "Oni Runes", her Physique could be as strong as one at Tier 1 Rank 5 already, it is indeed pretty amazing how strong she has grown now.