

Chapter 249 Bullied

Freya said and looked at Henry, who was sitting outside, and chatting with Ryan. She said in a low voice, "One time when I went back to Wright family, I happened to meet Linda who was coming downstairs at the corner of the stairs. I don't know if she was unhappy about something. But once she saw me, she came forward and pushed me. If I didn't react in time, I would have fallen from the second floor. "

"What? There was such a thing? Don't you plan to tell Henry?" Elena was shocked.

“Because you endure it again and again, Linda has become even more severe. This is not a good thing for you. The more you give in, the more Linda will bully you. You have to know how to fight back."

Elena previously felt that some things would pass as long as she endured it a little. But after experiencing so much, Elena knew that if she was wronged and did not know how to fight back, those people would only think that she was easy to bully and would think of even more ruthless ways to torture you in the future.

The Lewis family was the best example.

Elena persuaded Freya not to endure Linda again and again. One must have a bottom line in life. Some people who indulged her would only make them feel that doing such a thing was natural and they would not care about the feelings of the victims at all.

Unfortunately, Freya did not want to get involved with that woman. Freya always changed things from big to small because of Henry.

"Forget it. We will not have more contact with them in the future. Henry and I have our own house. The two of us will live outside." In Freya's opinion, it was better to avoid unnecessary troubles. She could tolerate these small matters. It was best for her and Henry.

Elena frowned when she heard that. "You can't say that. You are also a treasure raised by your parents. Why do you have to suffer when you marry into their family?"

“Furthermore, even if you lived outside, you have to visit their parents occasionally, right? What if Linda makes some move at that time? You can never avoid this trouble unless you tell Henry about this.”

Listening to Elena’s reasoning, Freya lowered her heard. "But. . . Linda is his sister and I am his wife. I don't want Henry to make things difficult for us because of this."

Freya was able to win Henry's heart because she had a very good personality. She could consider things from other people's perspective.

But to Elena, this was definitely not a good habit. It was a good thing that she could think for others, but she would be a fool to think for others everytime.

Elena was about to say something when she noticed a black shadow near the kitchen door. Because Freya was standing with her back to the kitchen door, she didn’t found anything. But Elena knew who it was.

Elena quickly changed her words what she was going to say previously and looked at Freya seriously.

"You always think for Henry, but has Henry ever thought for you? You two have been married for such a long time, but you have been holding back. Don't tell me Henry didn't notice it at all?"

"I. . ." Freya was going to defend Henry but was interrupted by Elena again.

“And you are still defending him. His sister tried to push you from the second floor! Do you know what could happen if you didn’t react at the mean time? Don’t tell me that you can be lucky every single time. What if Linda tried to do something more serious.”

Elena looked at the black shadow near the kitchen door and deliberately raised her voice. She wanted to let the person who was eavesdropping to know what he wanted to know.

However, when Freya heard Elena’s loud voice, she anxiously grabbed her head. “Elena, talk slowly. Henry doesn’t know anything. If he knows...”

"If I didn't come here, would you have never wanted to tell me?"

Before, Freya could finish her sentence, she heard Henry's voice from behind her. She was shocked. She turned around and saw Henry looking at her with a pained expression.

"I... I just. . ."

Henry did not wait for Freya to finish speaking. He went forward and held the woman in his arms. "I'm sorry."

Henry had always known that his sister was not easy to deal with, but only today did he realize that his sister had naturally done so many crazy things.

Elena stood at the side. The corner of her mouth curled up. "Now you know why I asked you this question. You always think about others, but you never think about yourself. Your husband is not a fool. You should learn to share your happiness, anger, and sadness with him."

Freya looked at Henry with tears in her eyes. "I don't want to affect the relationship between you and your sister because of me.”

"You have to remember that the person who lives with me is you. The person who will live with me for the rest of my life is also you. You are the treasure in my palm. I won't let you be bullied by anyone, including my sister." Since he had already decided to marry Freya, Henry would definitely protect her well.

At this time, Ryan also walked in and held Elena's hand. He looked at the two of them who were hugging each other and said, "Since the matter has been resolved, the knot in your hearts should be lifted."

A while ago, Henry had complained to him. He felt that he and Freya no longer had the feeling of being in love, because Henry knew that Freya had a very depressing life every day.

Henry even once suspected whether it was right or wrong to marry Freya.
