

Chapter 327 A Masked Nurse

Ryan had been running to the hospital for a few days.

However, each time he went, he was stopped by Mrs Baker every single time. Therefore, Ryan could only take a look at Elena through the glass wall.

“Mrs. Baker, please close the curtains.” Elena’s voice was cold, so cold that it was a little intimidating. She did not want to see that man’s face at all.

Mrs. Baker had no option but to follow Elena’s wish. In this way, all interactions between Elena and Ryan stopped.

Seeing the drawn curtains, Ryan went silent. A sore feeling rose from his heart, spreading his whole limbs and bones.

In just a few days, he had lost a few kilos of weight. His face was pale and eyes were scarlet. There were two big bags under his eyes, indicating that he had not slept for days. Mrs. Baker felt sad when she saw Ryan like this.

She also wanted to let him go in and explain to Elena, but Elena just had a surgery and her emotions were too unstable now. If she were to see Ryan without her will, she would definitely be stimulated.

The outcome would not be good at that time.

Ryan sat on the chair in the corridor and put his hand on his forehead dejectedly. No one knew what he was thinking.

Mrs. Baker could not see them like this anymore. She made up her mind and sat beside Elena, “Elena. . .”

"I know what you want to say. Ryan is like your son and you can’t see him like this. But I can't let go of the knot in my heart. I have already lost my child. I don’t want him to come and remind me of my lose.”

Elena knew that with their current condition, even if they met, they would not say anything. Even if they said, it would only lead to a conflict.

Mrs. Baker sighed. She held Elena’s hand and said gently. “I know you hate Ryan in your heart, hate him for betraying you and for breaking your trust, but there are some things that are not what you think. Actually. . . ”

"It's not important anymore.” Elena interrupted Mrs. Baker coldly, “No matter what the reason is, it doesn't matter anymore."

Elena turned her head and looked out of the expressionlessly after saying that. She did not want to continue this topic.

No matter what the reason was, would it give her child back to her? Since he had already made up his mind and decided to choose Amber, what was the point of coming here?

To show the world, how much he cared about his wife, whom he had just betrayed?

She was too naïve to believe his flourish words and actions before. However, this would not work on her anymore.

She had already seen that man’s true face now. No matter what he did, nothing would work on her anymore.

Elena had already settled her emotions in these few days. Now, she only wanted to quietly wait for Spencer to come and pick her up.

"Alright, I won't say anymore. You are not fully recovered yet. You should eat more. Otherwise, it will hurt your body." Mrs. Baker caressed Elena’s long hair. In just a few days, Elena had already lost a lot of weight. Mrs. Baker felt sad seeing her like this.

Elena turned her head and looked at Mrs Baker. "What's the date today?"

"It’s August Sixth, you have already stayed in the hospital for four days." As Mrs Baker spoke, she poured out the congee from the thermos and placed it in front of Elena.

"It has been four days. . . " Elena muttered softly.

Previously, Spencer had given her three days. If he did not receive her call in these three days, he promised to take her away.

Today was the last day she and Spencer had agreed on and tonight was the day she was leaving.

"What?" Elena’s voice was too soft. Mrs Baker did not hear her clearly and asked again.

Elena shook her head and looked at the porridge in front of her.

Mrs. Baker smiled and said, “It’s from the villa. Why don’t you have a taste and. . .”

Before Mrs Baker could say anything, Elena took the spoon and took the initiative to drink the porridge.

Mrs Baker was somewhat stunned when she saw this. She felt that Elena was a little unusual today. Before this, she had to persuade Elena for a long to eat something. However, today she took the initiative to eat herself.

Elena put the porridge in her mouth. The fragrant porridge tasted exceptionally bitter.

Elena expressionlessly finished the porridge and then lied down on the bed. She leaned her body to the side and did not speak.

Mrs Baker sighed and tidied up the things before going out.

The door was closed. Elena lied on the bed and crystal clear tears fell from her eyes to the pillowcase.

Outside the door. Mrs Baker handed the insulating box to Ryan.

"She ate it?"

"Yes." Mrs Baker nodded.

Ryan was a little surprised. Elena was so resistant that she did not even look at the things he sent over for a few days. Today, she actually ate it.

It was a little unexpected.

"This is a good thing. At least the young madam is slowly opening her heart again. As long as her emotions were stabilized, it will not take long for you to go in and see her." Mrs Baker consoled.

Before Ryan could say anything, his phone suddenly buzzed.

Ryan saw the caller ID and quickly answered, "What's wrong?"

Xavier's panicked voice came from the other side of the phone, “Mr. Monor, it’s bad! The babies. . . The twins. . .”

Xavier stammered again and again, not finishing his words. Ryan’s heart instantly jumped up, “Cut the crap! Tell me, what happened?!”

Xavier swallowed a mouthful of saliva and his voice was trembling, “Mr. Monor, Ian and Rayna have disappeared. We can’t find them!”

"What? Why did they disappear when they were at home?" Ryan was shocked. He had arranged so many guards and maids to take care of the twins at home. How could they disappear with so many people present?

“I... I don’t know what exactly happened. You should come back and take a look." Xavier was also shocked when he received the call from the maid. He rushed back and saw that the twins were nowhere to be found.

“I am coming back now. You better find my son and daughter as soon as possible!” After finished speaking, Ryan turned around and rushed out like a gust of wind.

Although Ryan did not tell Mrs Baker what happened, Mrs Baker could vaguely hear that Rayna and Ian had been disappeared.

They were still so small. Who would have taken them away?

Mrs Baker could not help but tremble when she thought about it. Elena had just lost a child. If she were to know that her son and daughter had now disappeared, she would not be able to handle it.

She made up her mind and decided not to tell Elena about this matter.

Mrs Baker stabilized her emotions and walked into the ward. When she saw Elena had already fallen asleep, she let out a sigh of relief.

Elena woke up after some times. She looked around and found that Mrs Baker had been sitting absentmindedly. She moved and tried to sit up on the bed.

Mrs Baker saw this and went forward to help her. “You are awake. Are you hungry?”

Elena shook her head slightly.

Knock! Knock!

There was knock on the door at this time. Mrs Baker went to the door to open it and found that it was a nurse.

Few nurses often came to check on Elena. Therefore, Mrs Baker moved to the side and let the nurse come inside.

The nurse had a mask on, only revealing her pair of eyes. She went to Elena’s bedside and quietly checked Elena. While she was checking, she was also observing the surroundings silently.

Mrs. Baker sat on a chair near the hospital bed. From the moment she had heard about the disappearance of the twins, she had been feeling uneasily and was absentminded.

Elena’s kidnapping last time had left a shadow in her mind. It was very fortunate that Elena and the twins were found at the right time. But would they be that lucky this time?

Mrs. Baker was lost in thoughts and did not pay attention to the nurse at all. The nurse took out an injection and prepared to inject in Elena’s arm, while glancing at Mrs. Baker’s direction.

Seeing the old woman not looking here, the nurse leaned forward and whispered something on Elena’s ear.

The whole conversation lasted for a few seconds. Seeing Elena nod, the nurse took her things and went out of the ward.
