

Chapter 336 Ryan's Mother

Marcus clenched the tea cup in his hand and threw it across the table. The cup instantly fell onto the ground and broke into pieces.

James, who was standing behind him, was shocked seeing this. “Dad, please calm down.”

“How dare he talk to me like this!” Marcus roared top of his lungs. He had never thought that one day he would be threatened by a young man in his own house like this.

James came to Marcus’s side and said urgently, “Dad, calm down. There must be some misunderstanding. . .”

“Misunderstanding?” Marcus glared at his younger son, “Do you think Leonardo Reynolds would come here personally if there is any misunderstanding? He is not a fool!”

Marcus paced around the living room angrily, "This Spencer actually dared to do such a thing. He kidnapped Leonardo Reynolds’s wife! Because of him, outsiders dared to cross our Foster family’s door and threaten me on my face! Isn't it shameful enough? Where is he now?"

Marcus turned to his younger son as he spoke. His two sons had a good relationship with each other and had been in contact with each other frequently. So James must have known Spencer’s whereabouts.

James lowered his head and didn't say anything.

Marcus walked to James's side step by step. His tone was cold. "It seems like that slap just now didn't wake you up. "

“Dad, you have already said it just now. This is Big Brother’s own matter. I hope you can let Big Brother handle it by himself." James spoke up for Spencer.

Between his father and brother, James preferred his brother more.

“You both have grown your wings now, haven’t you? You don’t put your father in your eyes anymore.”

James lowered his head and kept silent.

Marcus snorted coldly, “If you want the good of our Foster family, tell me where your brother is. Do you know how powerful that Leonardo Reynolds is?"

To be able to develop KING into the number one company in Western Europe all these years, his ability was definitely not simple. The power behind him was also inestimable.

Because of Leonardo Reynolds’s presence, the Foster family wasn’t able to develop like before.

James frowned. “Dad, Leonardo Reynolds’s real name is Ryan Monor. He is the second son of the Monor family from the Hai City. The Monor family is just a small family business. Why are you afraid of him?"

James had read Spencer’s files before and knew about Ryan’s background. He was just a small Young Master from the Hai City. He didn't have any other identity.

The only thing worthy of his appreciation was the establishment of KING RYN company. As for the rest, he wasn't afraid at all.

James found it hard to understand why his father would be so angry this time.

Marcus sneered hearing his son’s words. “You are still as stupid as before. Do you think that Ryan Monor has no other identity besides Leonardo Reynolds's? Do you know who his mother is? Do you think he has made a name for himself in Western Europe only by relying in his ability?"

“His mother should also from Hai City.” James was confused. What did Ryan Monor’s mother have to do with this?

“Layla Anderson.” Marcus’s expression turned serious, “She is Leonardo Reynolds’s real mother.”

When Marcus found out that Spencer and Ryan had become enemies, he had already started investigating his identity. He didn't expect his mother to be Layla Anderson.

Hearing the name, James was stunned to the spot.

Layla Anderson? Ryan Monor’s mother?

“How can Layla be Ryan’s mother? Dad, are you mistaken?" James found it hard to believe. Although he had never seen Layla himself, he had heard about her.

How come she was Ryan’s mother?

Marcus laughed coldly. “Do you think an eighteen-year-old boy can come all across the sea to an unknown country and build an empire in short of ten years just by relying in his own hard work and luck? Ryan Monor’s background is not as simple as you think. The reason Leonardo Reynolds or I should say Ryan Monor is so fearless in Western Europe is because Layla is standing behind him!"

The Andersons were like a mystery in Western Europe. No one knew their real wealth and power. And being the only daughter of a Andersons, Layla was even more unfathomable.

Marcus knew Layla. That woman was like a shadow, always staying in dark.

No one knew the reason why Layla, even after having such a wealthy and powerful background, chose to stay in dark.

James was shocked. “But if Ryan is Layla Anderson’s son, then why hasn’t she admitted his identity?"

If Ryan was really Layla’s son, then she should have admitted Ryan’s identity. But that was not the case. Ryan was not a part of Andersons.

Speaking of Layla, Marcus’s face turned cold. He snorted again. “Do you think Layla is as fool as you? If she admits her son’s identity, won’t it bring troubles for her son? Layla not accepting his son’s existence is a way of protecting him. She doesn’t want Ryan to be involved in her complicated background. But that doesn’t mean that she doesn’t care about Ryan. If not for Layla standing behind Ryan and cleaning the mess, Ryan would have been dead long ago.”

KING RYN’s development was very rapid. In short of ten years, Ryan had already monopolized the whole Western European market.

When KING started, Ryan was still a quite adventurous and vigorous young man. He had offended quite a few people in those days.

Those people wanted to deal with him. But whenever a person tried to make a move on Ryan, he himself would end up miserably.

Marcus, being in the high-class circle, had heard about those bizarre and puzzling deaths of many people. He always wondered who was this mysterious person behind Ryan. It was only a few years later he found out that those were all Layla’s doings.

James didn't dare to say anything more. The power behind Ryan was too great. If they offended Ryan, the consequences would be unimaginable.

“Were not you too proud just before? Why are you silent now?" Marcus turned around and sat on the sofa again. “Go back and tell that stupid brother of yours not to do things that he shouldn’t do. If I find out he brought that woman back, I will make sure that both of them will suffer.”

“No, no. Dad, don’t worry. Big Brother will definitely not be foolish enough to bring that woman to our Foster family.” James was so scared that his body turned soft. If Spencer was going to be punished according to the family rules, that would be very bad. The punishment of their family was not something an ordinary person could bear.

Marcus nodded. “It’s best if he doesn’t bring that woman here. But tell him to return that woman back to Leonardo Reynolds. That man is not easy to deal with and his mother is even more formidable. I don’t want Layla to be involved in this matter.”

Marcus knew Layla’s methods very well. He also knew what that woman was capable of.

Originally this matter was his son’s fault. If Layla got involved in this matter, it would be even more difficult to solve it.

"But Dad. . . Ryan is now tracking down big brother's whereabouts. If he finds out about it, big brother will be in big trouble." James was a little worried.

Since ancient times, the hatred of killing one's mother and stealing one's wife was the most infuriating.

Now that Big Brother had done something like this, Ryan had already been enraged. He wondered what the consequences would be.
