

Chapter 350 Kill Them All

When Xavier pushed open the door and went in, the first thing he noticed was smoke. There was so much smoke inside the office that he almost choked on it.

The lights were off. The whole room was covered in darkness. However, in the darkness, he could vaguely see a glimpse of fire.

When his eyes got used to the darkness, Xavier saw the man was sitting behind his desk and leaning on the chair. There was a cigarette between his lips. Taking a deep puff of the cigarette, he let out rings of smoke.

There was already an unknown number of cigarette butts shattering on the ground.

Xavier looked at the scene in front of him in astonishment. He could not believe his eyes for a moment.

Ryan was smoking? Since when?

Ryan never smoked. Let alone smoking, he would feel disgusted even if he smelled the smoke of cigarettes. Why would he suddenly smoke today?

Xavier felt that from the day Elena had gotten into an accident, Ryan seemed to have changed. He was doing things that he had never done before.

Smashing things, locking Elena up and now smoking, all these actions were very weird. This was not Ryan’s style at all.

It seemed that the misunderstand had not cleared yet.

Xavier sighed and went to open the windows to let the fresh air come. Soon, the smoke disappeared.

Xavier came in front of the desk and looked at man who was still smoking, “Mr. Monor, why are you smoking?”

The person who never smoked was now chain-smoking. Xavier wondered what weird things they had yet to see.

“What is it?” Ryan did not look at Xavier. He took out a cigarette from the packet and lit it. He then sucked it hard, letting the circles of smoke out.

Xavier frowned seeing the man’s actions. But he knew Ryan would not listen to him, so he just said the reason he came. “It’s about Clarence Hall.”

Ryan was about to lit another cigarette. He suddenly paused when he heard it. He had not heard this name for a long time.

Ryan raised his head and looked at Xavier. His eyes turned cold. “What did he do?”

Xavier turned serious, “After you fought with Clarence last time, he had been hiding in the Eastern Europe for a long time. However, in these few months, he had gathered some local mafias and machineries and made his power in Eastern Europe again. A few days ago, when we were importing a batch of raw materials, our people and Clarence faced up each other which ended up in a fierce battle. Some of our men are badly injured but we succeed in capturing Clarence.”

Xavier paused and looked at the man carefully. Currently, Ryan's personality was volatile. He didn't know which sentence would trigger Ryan and he would be punished later.

Ryan looked at Xavier calmly. He knew that Xavier had something more to say so he just waited quietly.

Xavier continued, “Clarence seemed to be a one-man army but looking at the situation there, I’m afraid that there is someone else who is helping him in the dark. Our men had found out that Clarence had been frequently meeting with a person before. As for who that person is, we had no idea about it.”

Ryan was silent for a moment before he sneered heavily. “Who can it be? It’s Adams Redmond.”

Xavier suddenly raised his head, “Mr. Monor, you mean. . .”

“He is targeting us.” Ryan interrupted Xavier. “He knew that we have taken some high-profile deals which needs to be fulfilled as soon as possible. If he attacked and stopped our imports from Eastern Europe, our supply chain will be broken which he can take advantage of later.”

KING had many businesses under its banner, but the most notable branch was its high-end jewelry.

KING was famous for its fine and exquisite jewelry. From famous movie stars, to wealthy businessmen and members of royal families, all wanted to possess the fine jewelries from KING.

For this reason, they had to import various precious gem stones from Eastern Europe. Other than these, they also had to import other industrial raw material for their various businesses.

Adams knew that KING had signed a few high-profile business deals, that’s why he was trying to cut their importing.

Once the importing stopped, they would not be able to meet the deadline, for which they would have to pay for the breach of the contract, which was quite a hefty amount.

It would eventually create an internal financial crisis, after which Adams could attack on Ryan directly.

The plan was very good. But unfortunately, Ryan saw through it.

“But it was Clerance who attacked as.” Xavier asked in confusion.

Ryan leaned back on his chair and moved his arms and legs. He did not move for a long time, and his whole body made cracking sounds. “Clerance is just a chess piece in his hands. Adams has never shown his face to the world.”

Xavier nodded and said, “When we interrogated Clerance before, he did not disclose anything. He just said he wanted to meet with Mr. Hall. He has something to discuss with Mr. Hall.”

“No need.” Ryan said coldly. Clerance had abandoned Jackson even before he was born. There was no need for him meet with Jackson now.

Xavier nodded and asked carefully, afraid of angering the man. “Then what about Clerance. . .”

“Kill them all.” Ryan spoke bluntly. Currently, he had no humanity, and there was no room for negotiation.

Xavier could not help but be shocked. He said, “But. . . But Clerance is Mr. Hall’s biological father after all. If we kill him, won’t Mr. Hall be affected by this?

"Don't I know what I'm talking about? I want you to kill them all." Ryan roared. His face was full of anger as he glared at Xavier.

“Yes, Mr. Monor!” Xavier nodded and turned around to leave. Ryan was too scary now. He was afraid that Ryan would beat him up in the next moment.

“Wait!”