Chapter 21 Warlock and Dragon Blood

Back to the Fairy Song Hotel, Henry bought three pieces of bread and six sausages on the first floor, as well as three bowls of cereal and put them on a large tray. After casting a mage's hand, the tray flew up into the air and followed him up the stairs. Back in the room, I saw Amy wrapped herself in a blanket and sat on a chair, with dirty clothes thrown in the corner on the ground. Robert was naked and was doing the final wipe with a towel.

"Put on the clothes and eat." Henry glanced at the clothes and shoes in his hands and put them on the  and said to the two brothers and sisters. "Bang" the tray was firmly placed on the table. The little girl stood up, barefoot and quickly picked up her clothes and put them on the blanket. The boy quickly dried his body and began to wear pants.

The girl puts down the blanket after putting it on and makes her eyes bright. She has long golden hair on her shoulders, emerald green eyes, small nose and thin lips forming a perfect face. A slim green dress with a pair of gray boots looks small and cute. Worthy of being a warlock with a charm of 17. Boys are much more ordinary in comparison. The same blond hair with his ordinary facial features is absolutely inconspicuous when thrown into the crowd. A set of black tights and boots have the aura of a senior thief.

After changing their clothes, the three people began to sit down and eat quietly, and the food was quickly wiped out. Henry stood up and said to Robert, "I'll take Amy out. You stay in the hotel first. If we don't come back at noon, you can go downstairs and buy something to eat." Then he threw him two gold coins. The boy dexterously caught and replied: "Yes, master." Henry turned and took the girl out of the hotel to the witchcraft grocery store.

Witchcraft grocery store is very close to the Fairy Song Hotel, only one street away. It was only when Henry came closer that he discovered that this peculiar round building, like the castle of his mentor, was a mage tower. Looking at this weird building, he thought to himself: "I really don't understand how these great masters built their homes so strange."

took the little girl into the front door and walked into the room. He found that the space inside was much larger than the outside. This was the effect of magic. On the outer walls, there are many containers with various potions, scrolls, magic weapons, rare metals, casting materials, alchemy materials, gems, and so on. There are descriptions and prices below each product. There are so many items that only a few people are watching carefully. Henry came to the very center of the hall, where a huge pillar stood and a counter was placed in front of it that said "Pay the money here." An apprentice stood there.

He walked to the front and said to the apprentice: "I am Henry from Fort Gaoli, Master Tyrantir asked me to bring a letter. I need to personally hand it to Master Habassah Delin."

"Please wait, I need to confirm." The apprentice replied politely. Then he cast a "communication technique" casually, and after getting a positive answer, he said to Henry: "Now you can go upstairs, Master Habassah is waiting for you on the second floor." After speaking, the circular ceiling suddenly dropped for a while. A staircase was formed, and the road to the second floor was opened.

took the little girl down the stairs to the second floor, here is a big alchemy real room. An old man is making medicine. Henry didn't make any sound, but just pulled the girl to the side and waited quietly. Ten minutes later, the old man finished casting the spell, and the refining of a bottle of advanced potion was completed. "I can see that you are very patient, and you have a pretty good quality. No wonder Tyranty chose you as an apprentice. Where is my letter?" The archmage turned around and said to Henry.

"Here, Master Habasser." Henry immediately took out the letter from the dimension bag and handed it over. Habasser opened the letter and quickly scanned it and said to Henry: "Your teacher sent you to me to let you study with me for a period of time. He also mentioned that your alchemy is good, but I am not very proficient in selecting materials. Point and point you. And who is this little girl next to you? There is no mention of her in the letter."

Amy saw the archmage pointing at her and was a little afraid of subconsciously holding onto Henry's long run. Henry touched her hair comfortingly and said to the archmage: "Master, she is an orphan I picked up on the road. I found out that the blood of a warlock in her body has not been stimulated, so I brought it with me."

"Oh, the blood of the warlock! Let me have a look." Habassah immediately became interested when he heard this. He faced the little girl and began to prepare spells. After ten seconds, the chanting was completed and the spell was cast. A strong light penetrated into Amy's body, and the archmage quickly grabbed her hand and gently pierced her finger with a needle. A drop of blood was squeezed out, exuding a faint golden color.

"She has the bloodline of the Golden Dragon, but it has been a long time apart. The ancestor is at least an elderly Golden Dragon in terms of bloodline concentration. Now only a small bottle of dragon blood is needed to make her a dragon vein warlock. After the archmage appraisal To be sure.

Henry heard the method that can make Amy become a warlock immediately and hurriedly asked: "Master, do you have dragon blood here? I can buy it at a reasonable price."

The old man shook his head and said, "No, but I know who has it. You can go to him and ask if you are willing to transfer. People live in the northern city, and there is a magic tower where a man named Ramesses lives. Necromancer. Although I don't like him, I have to admit that this guy does have some special channels to get some good things."

"Can the master introduce me to me, I think I can talk to him personally." Henry heard that there was a scene and said to Habassah hurriedly.

"Well, for the sake of your sincerity. I'll give you a letter of introduction." As the old man used a copying spell, a quill started to automatically write on a piece of parchment. The letter was written soon. Habassah printed his secret seal on the top, folded the letter and gave it to Henry.

After accepting the letter and putting it in his personal pocket, Henry bowed to the old man and said, "Thank you very much, Master Habasser. Please forgive my impatience. I can't wait to get the bottle of dragon. It's blood." He turned around and left after speaking.

"Wait, bring this." The old man took out a shiny little stone from a dimensional bag and threw it to Henry and said to him: "This is a gadget I made. It only takes a thought near the grocery store. You can come in directly without taking the stairs. And there is a one-time teleportation attached to it, and the location is set on the third floor. Although I don't know what that gloomy necromancer will let you do, but I have a hunch that it will not too easy."

Henry nodded and said: "Thank you very much for your love, I must be careful. Goodbye Master." After he said that, a thought flashed in his heart when he took Amy's hand and left, and in an instant he and the girl appeared there. To the door of the witchcraft grocery store. After returning to the hotel with the girl, he renewed the rent for another month and left enough gold coins for the siblings, and then set off for the northern part of the city alone.

When he passed the northeast city, he saw the priest of the * of suffering Irmat was distributing food to poor women and children, and asked passers-by to donate. I saw Henry walking by a woman in a gray robe and said: "In the name of the crying god, I beg you to donate some gold coins to help these helpless people." Although Henry did not agree with this * in his heart. Doctrine of masochism. But still gave 200 gold coins. Although he himself is not kind, he is willing to put kindness on him as a good disguise. Because kind people are welcome and respected in most places, it is quite difficult for your enemies to mobilize the masses to besiege you with this coat. And there are unexpected people to help you when you are in trouble.

After receiving the thanks and blessings from Pastor Irmat, Henry came to a high tower. "I finally saw a normal mage tower." He muttered in a low voice. He walked to the front door and said to the door: "Excuse me, is Ramesses there? My name is Henry, and Master Habassah Delin introduced me to buy a bottle of dragon blood. "After speaking, take the letter out and hold it in your hand. After a while, the monster biting the knocker on the door said, "Come to the top floor." "After speaking, the door opened automatically.

Entering the tower, he found that it was not too big inside. On the first floor, there were some daily necessities such as chairs, dining tables and so on. Climb down the spiral staircase to the second floor, where a few jelly monsters are soaked. When he got to the third floor, he was slightly taken aback. The bottles here were filled with various soaked corpses and a few stitched monsters. The fourth layer is a call between. The fifth floor is the alchemy room. When he came to the sixth floor, he finally saw the necromancer.

A red robe, because of long-term touching of the corpse, it exudes a strange smell. Paleness should have nothing to do with not going out for a long time. He looked at Henry with a gloomy look and said, "Do you want dragon blood?" Henry handed him the letter and said, "Yes, Master Habassah introduced me, what can you offer in exchange?"

Ramesses frowned and considered for a moment: "Dragon blood can be given to you, but I don't need gold coins. I need an adult pterodactyl corpse for research. If you can bring one back, I will take the dragon. Blood for you. As for where pterosaurs are infested, I think you should go to the thieves' union in the city to find out. This is my communication token with them. Take this to a big house in the eastern city and say the code word "Fifehead "You can enter."

Henry took the token and found it was a small digit and then put it in his pocket and said to the necromancer: "Okay, then I will leave first. Next time I come, I will bring the body of the pterosaur to trade with you." After turning around, go downstairs and leave.

While walking on the road, Henry thought, adult pterosaurs have a huge body, can fly, and have poisonous hooks on their tails, which is not very easy to deal with. It seems that I need to find a helper to act together. While he was still considering who to look for, he had already walked to the door of the big house Ramesses said. After following the thief guarding in the shadows and reporting the password and handing over the token, the thief took him into the union. _____

Chapter 22 Thieves Guild and Animal Buddies

Henry and the thief walked into a room, and saw him pat a few times on the wall and a secret door appeared. The thief pointed to the secret door, motioned for him to enter and then turned and went out to continue the vigil. Henry passed through the secret door and entered a hall. There were many union members wearing cloaks and hoods, some standing in the corners, some squatting on the ground. The conversation between them was very small, and the others couldn't hear them.

Henry swept through the hall and continued to walk in. He was stopped by a dagger just as he was about to enter a room. "This is the boss's room. Unrelated personnel are not allowed to enter. Tell me what you are coming from." A thief with a face covered by the door said to him. He exposed his hands from the inside of his robe, put them in a conspicuous place and said that he was not hostile, and said, "I am here to buy a message on behalf of Master Ramesses."

"Sorry, please wait a moment for me to go in and report." After speaking, he turned around and opened the door to enter the room. A minute later, the masked thief came out and said to Henry: "The boss said you can go in." Henry smiled at him and said, "Thank you." Then he walked in and closed the door.

went into the room and found that there were only very simple furnishings, a desk, two chairs and a bookshelf. Sitting on the chair was a middle-aged man with black hair, who was in his thirties, with short black fluffy hair and a pair of sharp eagle eyes. There was a beautiful goatee on the chin. The man saw Henry walk in and stood up and said in an exaggerated tone: "Welcome, my little friend! Please relax. Put your weapons away. Don't be hostile. What news do you want to buy here? Oh, I should first myself Introduce me. You can call me Mr. Alatus." After that, he made a hat-off that he thought was elegant.

Henry smiled at him and bowed and said, "Hello, dear Mr. Alat. Master Ramesses introduced me to buy a message. I want to know where there are any adult pterosaurs recently."

"Adult pterodactyl? That's a monster that is really difficult to deal with. But we can always meet the customer's request." As he said, he began to look for a pile of parchment on the table. After looking for it for a while, I took out one of them and smiled and said, "Aha, I found it. If you want to buy this information, you need 500 gold coins. I lost two of the best players in the union to get this news."

"Here are 500 gold coins," Henry took out the gold coins from the dimensional bag and piled them on the table and said to him. Alatus glanced at the dimension bag and then began to count the gold coins on the table. After confirming that there is no problem, he said to Henry: "Our spies got news that pterosaurs were found in the depths of the cloak forest, and there are a lot of them. But there is the shadow druid's site, you know they are not very friendly, and they have taken the city Treated as a scar on the earth. Anyone who enters at will will be attacked by the druids and animals inside."

Henry nodded after listening, "Okay, the news is very detailed. In addition, I want to ask one more question, can you train me professional thieves here."

"Training thieves for you? How many? We must know that our training mortality rate is not low." Alters frowned and said.

"There is only one, but I need you to guarantee that he is alive. And there can be no irreversible damage or disability. Of course I will pay you satisfaction, such as this." After finishing Henry took out from the Qiankun bag and made him an invisibility ring Shook in front of Alatus' eyes.

The thief leader tried to seize the ring but failed. Henry held the ring in his palm and smiled at him and said, "How are you thinking about it? Mr. Alatus." The thief leader stared at his hand tightly and said, "No problem, now hurry up and take that one. Give me the magic ring."

Henry stood up and threw the ring to him and said, "I will bring the person tomorrow morning. Remember to keep him safe." After receiving the ring, Alatus hurriedly put it on his finger and stroked it gently. Suddenly he shouted at Henry, who was about to leave, "Wait, you haven't said the purpose of this ring." Henry turned around and smiled. He smiled so treacherously and said, "Look, I know you have some special channels. Can get some rare items and materials. I hope you can also provide me with this channel? Of course I will pay gold coins."

Alatus's face is quite ugly, obviously he has been badly pitted. After struggling for a while, he said, "Well, I agree to your request. In the future, you will see some special goods in person or by sending someone to the trade union. Now tell me what it does."

Henry gently took off the ring from him and put it on his hand, lightly touching the gem. A wave of magic flashed past him and disappeared in place. Then appeared on the spot again. "The invisibility ring, once a day, the invisibility spell lasts for 24 hours. It is activated by touching the gemstone with your finger, and you can use it again after 24 hours. I think you are not unfamiliar with the invisibility spell. I will not explain the precautions to you. He said that he returned the ring to Alatus and left the thieves' guild.

Walking on the way back to the Fairy Song Hotel, Henry was a little proud. A ring of invisibility settled the leader of the largest thieves' guild in Baldur's Gate area. Maybe in the affluent Amn area, magic items of this level are relatively easy to buy, but the value of this ring in Baldur's Gate area, where mages are scarce, can be doubled.

The next day, Henry asked the bartender of Fairy Song to take care of Amy and took Robert to the thieves' union. Seeing Alatus said to him: "This is my person, I want him to receive the most rigorous training. And you must ensure his safety." "Don't worry, I will train him personally. After all, you pay. The reward that makes my heart beat." As he said, he brightened the ring in his hand.

"Alright boy, you are ready to go to * in the next days." The thief leader threatened the young boy and said. Robert replied blankly, "I've been to hell, sir." Alters turned to look at Robert with bright eyes and said, "Oh! That's a good boy, what a cool word. Me." I didn't expect it. I hope you can say this tomorrow."

After watching the slightly funny performance of the two, Henry said: "Okay, I will leave him to you. Now I am going to hunt pterosaurs. Do you have any suggestions?" "Suggestion? I suggest that you better bring one. An army plus a giant crossbow guarding the city." After gritted his teeth, Alatus turned and took Robert to the basement.

"Big crossbow? That's a controlled weapon. I can't get it for the time being." Henry thought for a while and decided not to worry anymore. First go to the resident of the shadow druid to inquire about the situation, anyway, he is also a druid. After that, he went shopping frantically on the street. Food, salt, spices, flint and steel, sleeping bags, tents, stoves, marching pots, etc., were stuffed into the universe bag. After the purchase, he went to the witchcraft grocery store to say goodbye to Master Habassah and left the city.

Pass through the entrance of the Dragon Bridge and head south. Turn to the northwest after passing through the Digger Village and the Friendly Arm Coastal Avenue. After a few days of trekking, he finally came to the outskirts of the cloak forest. Henry looked at the sky and decided to camp here today. After all, entering the forest at night is not a good idea. He set up a tent and set up a campfire and he began to prepare dinner. After picking some non-toxic mushrooms under the tree, he took out the pot and simply washed it and put the bacon and mushrooms into the pot to cook slowly. Put some spices and chopped green onion when boiling. The fragrance floated out after a while.

I opened the pot, put some salt in it, and tasted it. It tasted just right. This is a brown bear suddenly walked out of the woods, slowly dangled to Henry's side, sat down and stared at the pot and began to drool. Henry was a little dazed, and when he came back to his senses, he hurriedly used the understanding animal on the bear, and then he realized that this large-looking guy was only eight months old. Mother was besieged by a few giant spiders. Although she fought desperately to kill all the spiders, she died of poison. He has hunted several times along the way and failed due to lack of experience. He has not eaten for three days.

Seeing this honest and poor Henry bear, there is absolutely no way to refuse to share food with him. He had to take out a basin and filled him with half a pot of soup and a dozen loaves of bread that had begun to harden. One person and one bear each eat their own food. Henry watched the brown bear while eating, knowing that this is not the earth brown bear can only grow to 3 to 4 meters. Brown bears on the Faerun Continent can reach 5 to 6 meters in adulthood. Some can grow up to 8 meters. The huge size gives them unparalleled strength. UU Reading Thick hair and fat form a natural armor. Ordinary arrows can only tickle them. However, even if this one is not an adult, it is more than 3 meters in size, and it is a bit thin. The hair color is not bright because of being hungry for several days.

After eating, Henry said to the bear: "Little guy, you need to do something for me after you eat my meal. How about guarding outside the tent tonight." The ability to understand animals accurately conveyed his meaning. The bear also understood it, clicked his head and hummed a few times, then squatted down at the door of the tent, closed his eyes and started to rest. Henry patted it on the head and went into the tent and began to sleep.

The sun was rising from the horizon early in the morning, and Henry felt it dawn and climbed out of his sleeping bag. Walking out of the tent, the brown bear's originally closed eyes suddenly opened. When he saw that it was him, he stood up and licked his hand to please. "What a likable little guy, why don't you come to be my animal buddy?" Henry suddenly thought that his druid career does not have an animal buddy. The brown bear nodded after understanding what he meant.

Then Henry made some breakfast to feed the bear and himself. Then let the Demon Louise out to be on guard. He and the bear started the animal companionship ceremony. After a whole day, the ceremony was successful, and now the bear is his partner. He gave the bear a mighty name called Ares, and Henry hoped that in his future adventures, the bear would run rampant like a * of war.

The tired person and the bear started to sleep together after eating a lot of food. After a day of vigilance, Piccolo also got into Henry's pocket to rest. _____

Chapter 23 Cloak forest

Henry stayed on the edge of the cloak forest for three full days, before moving on on the fourth day. But he has one more animal companion that he can rely on. Ares, a juvenile brown bear with a rough life experience. After performing a "pointing north technique" to confirm the direction, one person and one bear walked toward the west. Henry walked and thought: "From now on there is no ready road. I am afraid he will spend the next few days in the woods."

When the sun was approaching noon, he planned to find a safe place to have lunch and take a break. Just as he took out the pot to start a fire, several javelins came through the air. Henry's upper body leaned back sharply, and his keen skill helped him again. "Puff puff puff", all the javelins were poked on the tree behind him. He quickly got up and saw four green-skinned humanoid monsters rushing towards him. "Damn it, how come you meet forest trolls in such a place! Ares entangles them." Henry shouted to the brown bear.

The bear understood what he meant and rushed over quickly, and slammed into two of them with his body. Turning his head, he uttered a huge roar at the other three. Henry took the opportunity to prepare the spell. He knew that ordinary injuries were of no use to the trolls, only acid could prevent their wounds from healing. The flame can really kill their cells. A few seconds later, an entanglement technique was performed, and the two trolls fell to the ground and were * into rice dumplings by tree vines. The other three also began to struggle desperately. The brown bear was also implicated innocently, and it desperately bit the plant wrapped around its legs with its mouth. And get rid of it quickly.

“Aris, come back.” Henry shouted at the bear. The bear heard his yelling and turned and started to run back. Seeing his animal companion left the entanglement area, he closed his eyes and started preparing for the spell again. When Ares ran back, his spell was ready. “Fireball” with an explosion, five trolls were blown up and all became fire men. They struggled to put out the fire on themselves. After Henry used another flame knife, he carried the long sword formed by the flame and made up the sword one by one. After confirming that every piece of meat of the troll was completely dead, he began to direct Ares to help put out the fire.

After more than ten minutes of hard work, creating water, the brown bears rolled and slapped into battle. The fire was completely extinguished. Henry sat on the floor exhausted and panting. It’s so exciting, he doesn’t want to cook at all now. Ares walked over and arched Henry’s hand with its huge bear head, meaning to let him get something to eat. No way, because it performed well in the battle just now. Picked up the pot and set up the campfire, took out a large piece of bacon and threw it directly into the pot, put some water and turnips to stew slowly.

Ares stared at the pot with round eyes, as if that were all in its life. Henry touched his face and found that it was all black, and used magic to simply clean up his body. After a while, the pot opened, and the smell of the meat slowly floated out. The brown bear’s nose twitched a few times, and the saliva began to trickle down its mouth uncontrollably. “Foodies, the supplies I brought with me this time are not counted as your share. If you continue like this, we will start hunting in a few days.” Henry patted Ares on the head and took out the bread from the dimension bag. And the bear’s food bowl.

After lunch, I will continue to drive one person and one bear. As it was approaching winter, the grass on the ground began to turn yellow, and the trees also began to shed their leaves and accumulated a thick layer on the ground. Many small animals have begun to store food for the winter, and herbivores have also started to seize the time to grow more fat on their bodies. In the evening, two people came to the door of a hut, which was built by a druid or a ranger to rest the travelers passing by.

Henry walked in after confirming that no one was using it for a long time, preparing to spend the night in the house. As he started the campfire, Ares stood up alertly and stared at the door. Henry noticed the brown bear’s anxiety, and stopped moving as much as possible to keep himself from making any noise. For a while, there were footsteps outside the door and then someone started knocking on the door gently. “Is there anyone? I’m a passing traveler and want to spend the night here tonight.” A young woman’s voice said.

Henry secretly breathed a sigh of relief, at least not a monster. The troll's surprise attack during the day made his nerves a little nervous. After asking Ares to step aside, he opened the door and saw a girl standing there. Purple hair is tied with some plants as decoration, pale yellow eyes and wide forehead, wearing an ordinary tight leather armor. A stick is pinned to his waist. Exudes a wild breath. There are no metal objects all over the body. Henry can immediately confirm that this is definitely a druid.

The girl looked at the brown bear standing by and said to him, "Good evening, I am sorry to disturb you and your animal companion. My name is Fado, and I am a natural avenger. Can I stay here for one night tonight?" Henry couldn't refuse the request of a young girl, and he didn't build this wooden house. "Of course, my name is Henry, an ordinary druid. It is very desirable to be able to explore the mysteries of nature with a beautiful druid girl." He then agreed and gave up a place by the campfire.

Seeing that there was nothing more, Aries went back to Henry and continued to lie down and close his eyes to rest. Henry continued to pick up the pot and began to stew potatoes and corned beef. He turned the pot and said to Fado as usual: "Is there anything wrong with a druid girl coming to the cloak forest alone?"

Fado wrinkled his nose and said, "The Archdruid said that the forest has changed recently. Let me see what happened." Henry frowned and thought for a while and said, "I know some information, the forest. Some pterosaurs have recently appeared in the north. And their numbers are growing very fast."

"What? Where did you get this news? If it's true, you must report it to the Arch Druid." The girl was surprised and said.

Henry looked at her with a panicked expression and said: "The news that I spent 500 gold on the thieves' guild in Baldur's Gate should not be wrong. Okay, don't think about it, eat something." He said to Sheng. A bowl of beef stewed potatoes, picked up a piece of bread and handed it to Fado. Then I gave myself another serving, and all the others were poured into Ares's food bowl.

The girl was silent when she heard the news. She quietly took the food and said thank you for taking a small bite. After supper, Henry got into his sleeping bag after giving the * to Fado. It is still very safe for the brown bear to block the door. Just as Henry was about to close her eyes and start sleeping, the girl opened her mouth and said: "Henry, can you return to the residence of the Shadow Druid tomorrow with me? This news is really important."

"Of course, every druid has the obligation to maintain the balance of the forest. Don't think too much, take a good rest, nature will guide us." He said to Fado. Anyway, I planned to go to the Shadow Druid residence to inquire about the news. It is better if someone leads the way.

"You are right, when the time comes, the great will guide us. Good night, Mr. Henry"
The druid girl nodded at him and lay down and began to sleep. The night is quiet, only the firewood occasionally makes a crackling sound.

The next morning, Henry was woken up by a bird in the forest. He got up and found that Fado was still asleep. Seeing a throbbing in the girl's peaceful face, he hurriedly washed his face with cold water. Standing at the door of the house, I gave a wry smile and thought that it seemed that this body had reached puberty, and I should pay more attention to it in the future. Don't accidentally be charmed by water fairy, lake spirit, succubus, succubus, these alien species, don't know. The cold air outside the house made his burning  quickly subsided. Dig out the potatoes that were placed under the campfire yesterday and start peeling the skins. This is today's breakfast.

Fado woke up soon, seeing Henry and Ares having breakfast, got up and blushed, made some water and started washing his face and brushing his teeth. After washing, I sat down and picked up a potato and began to peel the skin and said to Henry: "We have to return to the Shadow Druid's station as soon as possible. The fastest way is to go through the spider forest. But it is quite dangerous, all kinds of giant poisonous spiders. , Sword spiders emerge endlessly. If you are unlucky enough, you may encounter phase spiders. And because there are so many kinds of spiders that have spider webs everywhere, if they are accidentally glued, they will become their food reserves."

Henry frowned after hearing this and wanted to see that the giant poisonous spiders and sword spiders were a little better, and they all depended on toxins and fangs to hunt. Phase spiders can be a headache, UU reading , they can use a special talent similar to teleportation to directly pass through the spirit world and come behind the prey to launch a fatal blow. Usually when the prey finds them, they are already dead.

"Bless bark surgery when you are on the road today, at least it can make their teeth not bite through the skin and inject toxins." He proposed a fairly feasible method. Fado also nodded and said, "I only remembered one bark surgery today. How about you?" "I remembered two, and I will bless Ares with one later. It can be of great use when it is critical." Henry Talking and twisting Ares' round ears caused the brown bear to growl.

After packing up, Fado led the way Henry and Ares followed and quickly marched towards the spider forest. They must get out of there before dark, after all, there is no way to camp in a place full of spiders. After two hours of rushing, I finally arrived. Standing outside the towering woods, the druid girl said: "Here, let's start blessing the bark technique. After entering the forest, you must be careful with your feet, and finally use a branch to explore the way. Otherwise, you will die if you fall into the spider trap. "After speaking, she began to chant divine arts.

Henry also began to prepare. A few minutes later, the magic was blessed on the body. The two Yixiong, whose skin became as tough as a tree, entered the gloomy woods. Both of them held weapons in one hand, and picked up a long wooden stick in one hand and kept poking the ground in front of them. The more you go in, the darker the light becomes, and it soon reaches the point where you can no longer see. After casting two lights, it was slightly relieved. Ares followed Henry nervously, and the instincts of animals told him that this place was a bit bad. _____

Chapter 24 Spider Eite Monster

Fado and Henry walked forward as they explored the road, their eyes always watching the surroundings vigilantly. As long as there is a little turbulence, stop and carefully distinguish whether it is dangerous. After passing a river, they relaxed a little. Large spiders don't like water after all. Where there are rivers, they are unlikely to appear.

Heng pulled the hanging spider web on his head with force. This sticky thing made him very uncomfortable. But he didn't dare to use magic in front of Fado. He understood the doctrine of the Druid Avenger, that is, all unnatural things would be eliminated. Quite brutal and violent, and they hate the town extremely. If you know that he is a mage, it is estimated that the probability of turning a face on the spot is more than 90%.

The druid girl who was walking in front stopped, turned around and made a hush gesture to Henry and squatted down slowly. Henry immediately learned to squat down and pulled Ares to his side. Looking in the direction of her gaze, she found the enemy. Four huge spiders are gathering around a hole and weaving a large web. Two of them are giant spiders in yellow and green, and the other two in black and white are supposed to be sword spiders.

"It seems that I can't go around. There are so many spider webs hidden around. God knows if I will touch them when I pass through. As long as I encounter these spiders, I will definitely come out." Thinking of Henry facing Fado He made a gesture of killing the past.

Fado was obviously taken aback, but after thinking about it for a while, he nodded and agreed. The two began to cast spells in a low voice, and without disturbing the spiders in front of them, each gave themselves a faith armor. This spell can form an energy stand to protect the caster and reduce physical damage.

After finishing the preparation, Henry motioned Ares to the front to attract attention. After understanding, the brown bear rushed out from his side and broke a lot of cobwebs along the way. The spider at the entrance of the cave spotted the brown bear and quickly chased it up. Henry began to hide behind the tree and began to chant spells when the animal companion rushed out. When Ares was about to be overtaken, a monster fixation technique fixed the four spiders in place. Henry picked up the scimitar and rushed up to pierce the abdomen of a sword spider, while Fado took a stick and slammed it on the head of a giant spider, bursting his brain on the spot. Ares didn't live up to its name, and raised a huge bear paw to pat the soft belly of another giant spider into meat sauce.

Just six seconds passed, and more than half of the four monsters have been solved. When the sword spider regains its mobility, only itself is left. Henry swiftly avoided the bite of the sword spider, swung a machete to cut off its front leg, and the druid girl smashed its hind leg from behind. The spider instantly lost its balance and turned on its back to the ground. Ares took the opportunity to rush up to bite its stomach. It gradually lost its life after it uttered a violent and rapid cry.

"It's really a fierce battle, your skills are admirable." Fado looked at Henry happily and said. Henry wiped the blood sticking to the knife and took it back into the scabbard and said, "Thank you for your compliment, but let's deal with the spoils and continue on our way." "The spoils?" Fado asked with some confusion. Henry pointed to the spider corpses on the ground and said: "It's them. These corpses will be good materials for spellcasting and alchemy if you get Baldur's Gate, and many people will buy them." "Take everything you need. No, I never leave the forest." Fado had a nonchalant expression on his face. After Henry put all the trophies into the dimension bag, the two continued on their way.

In the evening, the druid girl pointed to the distance and said to Henry: "Isn't there a waterfall in front of me? After there, we will be out of this forest."

Henry delivered a sigh of relief and said, "Then we can camp safely in a few dozen minutes. You see the sun is going down, I can't imagine how exciting this forest will be at night."

Fado laughed when he heard his words, and his mood was obviously relaxed. And began to hum an unknown tune. Henry began to look dissatisfied with Ares's promise because he was wrong for lunch, and he must have a double portion for dinner. As they walked, the ground under their feet suddenly collapsed, Fado screamed and wanted to grab something but it was useless, and the two began to slide down. Henry grabbed her foot and pushed her hard to the ground, while he slipped into the hole.

When fell to the ground, he realized that it was a huge sinkhole with cobwebs hanging in it. A large number of spiders came out of holes on the wall, and there were also many Eite Monsters mixed in. At this time, a cruel and cunning biped monster likes to make traps to attack passers-by. No wonder there is a sinkhole here, it turns out to be their masterpiece.

Fado saw Henry crying out surrounded by so many monsters, and wanted to jump down and help. Henry hurriedly stopped shouting: "Don't come down, go and report to the Archdruid. You still have important tasks to complete. I can handle it myself." After that, he turned and took Ares and ran deep into the cave. go with. It's not that he is so eloquent, but because he is going to use the fireball staff. With Fado, she wants to stabbing a knife in the back. The druid girl stood on it and struggled for a few seconds before turning around and gritted her teeth and left.

Henry quickly found a relatively narrow place deep in the cave and asked Ares to protect his back. Taking advantage of the large number of spiders and Eter monsters before they could catch up, he put a greasy technique in the open space in front of him and then took out a fireball war. A large number of spiders entered the line of sight first, and the Yitwei was far behind. When they entered the range of greasy magic spells, they slipped and fell, and the Yitguai behind took the opportunity to keep up.

Seeing that the time was right, he used the fireball staff. The huge explosion of "Boom" obscured the flesh and blood of the monsters in front of him, and the grease on the ground also burned violently. But the monster with low IQ did not shrink back, but continued to rush forward. "Fireball" X3, continuous explosions caused a large number of spiders and Eter monsters to suffer heavy casualties. In the end the spider died, and the cunning Yitguai began to turn around and flee.

Henry did not pursue, because he knew that he had only to leave this narrow passage. Those escaping monsters will immediately turn around and surround him and divide him. There is no other way but to walk down the cave to see if there is any other way out. Touched Ares's soft fur, after casting a bright light, he continued to walk deep into the cave.

As it gets farther and farther from the ground, the tunnel becomes wider and wider. When I came to the bottom layer, I found that this was a naturally formed cave with a small river flowing underneath. Seeing this, he felt a lot of peace in his heart, and the flow of the river indicated that he could lead to the outside world. Now he only needs to detect if there is any danger in the river. Turn off the light technique casually picked up a small stone on the ground and threw it into the river, then hid. Suddenly a huge spider-shaped monster crawled out on the wall next to the river. It was about the size of a large horse, with ten barbed legs. There are multiple eyes on the head and huge jaws on the mouth. This is a dead sting spider, Henry read about it when he was in the library. They are not actually spiders and like to attack in the dark.

It seems that if I want to go down the river, I have to kill this troublesome guy first. Taking out the scroll box, he found two scrolls for the skeleton trap. After using them, two magic skeletons were made to float towards the river. After the two skeletons arrived at the designated location, he began to stand up and chant a spell loudly. After hearing the sound, the death sting spider quickly climbed down from the wall. When approaching the river, two skeletons exploded. The huge magic damage blinded all its eyes, and now only half of the ten legs are left. "Ma Youfu Meteor Shower, this is a magic that can make multiple small meteorites in the hands of a mage and can be thrown out quickly, and each piece has considerable power. After Henry casts all the meteors in his hand, the Death Sting Spider Swallowed one last breath.

At this time, he performed a bright spell again and then beckoned, letting Ares out from hiding for a long time. After putting away the dead sting spider's body, he dove into the river one by one and swam out along the water. Less than 5 minutes later, he puffed out his head from below a waterfall.

climbed ashore, he realized that it was already night. Unlike the earth, Faerun's sky, moon and many stars always appear together. Unless a * falls, his constellations will disappear in the sky. Climbing ashore Henry hurriedly started a fire and caught some fish in the waterfall. After a simple roast, two were eaten, and the others were swallowed by the hungry brown bear. After checking to confirm that there was no one else around, he turned on the system.

Chapter 25 Shadow Druid

After the upgrade, Henry began to prepare tomorrow's spells and magic. After possessing a Level 4 God, he is more certain about this hunting of pterosaurs. After finishing the preparations, I got into my sleeping bag and rested. He got up early at dawn the next day. After washing, I had a simple breakfast with Ares, and started to drive in the direction pointed by Fado. Slowly climbing up some protruding rocks along the mountain, the brown bear followed him with his head against him to prevent the stone that he had caught from slipping and falling to death. It took them nearly an hour before they returned to the top of the waterfall. Standing on a big rock next to the waterfall, he could still see from a distance the huge black hole trap made by it. Sit on the rock and rest for a while, relax a little sore arms, get up and continue to set off.

After walking out of the spider forest, the surrounding forest was obviously more angry. Henry saw a lot of bears fishing, deer grazing and birds flying in the sky. There are also owls napping on the tree. At noon, he didn't stop to eat. After comforting the animal companion's complaint, he continued to march. He must rush to the location of the Shadow Druid as soon as possible. After walking for two hours, he gradually saw a path that had been stepped on, and he walked along for a short time before he came to a small river. There was a wooden suspension bridge over the river. Just as Henry was about to go up, a man walked out of the woods on the side and shouted to him: "Stop! I order you to stop! I need to talk to you."

"Who are you?" Henry asked as he looked at the people who came by.

"My name is Rasker, I am the protector of the cloak forest. What do you want to do when you come to our station?" The man walked over and asked.

"Hello, my name is Henry. I originally planned to come here with Fado to report to the Archdruid about the sudden increase of pterosaurs in the north of the forest. When crossing the spider forest, I was caught in the trap of the Et Monster and went away.

Didn't she come back? Henry was a little puzzled that according to the time law, more should have arrived before him.

Raskair suddenly realized: "Oh! You are the kid with her. But when she came back, she was full of tears and said that you had fallen into a pit full of spiders and had died, and for this, she had to prepare for your revenge. Well. How did you escape?"

"I didn't expect to be able to come out alive. Going deep into the cave, I found an underground river there. After swimming along the river, I was already under the waterfall on the edge of the forest. And I encountered a dead thorn in the cave. Spider, it was really a fierce battle." He calmly recounted the thrilling experience of last night.

"Dead sting spider! That is not a natural creature. You killed it! Can I see the evidence?" Raskair asked a little excitedly.

Henry poured out the huge body from the dimensional bag and said, "Look, it's this guy. I almost died in his hands."

Rasker looked at the huge corpse and said excitedly: "Good kid, you eliminated a huge hidden danger. This is a female! When she starts mating with other spiders, she can give birth to a lot of monsters. At that time it will be a disaster! The entire forest, not the entire Jianwan area will experience a catastrophe. Now report to the Archdruid with me, and he will give you a generous reward."

Heng used the dimension bag to reload the death sting spider and followed Lasker into the residence of the Shadow Druid. He watched here carefully. A few simple tree houses, a Stonehenge for ceremonies, and no other buildings. Life here is simple and primitive, and several druids are talking about something under the stone circle. After coming under a huge tree house, Rasker turned to him and said, "Here, this is the residence of the Archdruid. Be polite when speaking. Archdruid Amared doesn't like it. Someone interrupted him."

Henry nodded when he heard it, and then the two walked into the tree house. After arriving on the second floor, Rasker said to a man: "Dear Amared Drew, I brought the child that Fado said yesterday. He did not die, and he also killed one. An unnatural monster. A female death-stab spider. Henry took out the body of that monster and asked the Archdruid to identify it." Hearing Raskair's words, Henry took out the dimensional bag without a hassle and would take the corpse. Poured out. The Grand Drew of Amared took a few steps back, the huge corpse made the house that was not very spacious at first become more crowded. After he squatted down, he checked and said solemnly: "It is indeed an adult female death sting spider. I even saw her ovaries gestating eggs. You will get a rewarded child. I just saw you seem to be using it. Magic items! Don't you know that magic is an unnatural product?"

Henry feels bad now, he is the first to be questioned like this when he grows up. I was very upset in my heart, but it didn't show it. He was so hungry for power for the first time! I thought that if I had the ability to cast spells like Master Tyran Tier or Master Habassah, would this so-called Archdruid dare to speak like that even if I stood here and shouted that I was in front of the mage? It turns out that power still speaks in this world! The civilians without power are slaughtered by the merchants, and the merchants do not have enough power to be slaughtered by the nobles. The nobles may be killed by powerful mages, warriors, warlocks and other professionals at any time. Even if the * does not have enough power, he will be dragged into the star realm into eternal sleep.

Henry calmed down and bowed slightly and said to Amared: "Honorable Archdruid, I used to be just an ordinary town resident. I followed my mother to bake bread and deliver goods every day. Until one day passed by. The druid told me that you are very talented, and then he taught me a lot of natural doctrines and knowledge. I only became a first-level druid at the beginning of this year. I have not been systematically taught these things so Please forgive my ignorance."

The arch druid looked at him and nodded and said, "I forgive you for your ignorance this time. Remember that all unnatural things are the enemy of the druid. Since you haven't studied systematically, you don't need to act this time. Be held accountable. This is the reward you deserve. Don't let me see you using magic items in the future. Now let's talk about the Northern Forest. Fado says you have the news that the number of pterosaurs in the Northern Forest is increasing rapidly. ! Where did you get the news?"

"The largest thieves' union in Baldur's Gate. According to the information provided by the leader, their people were chased by pterosaurs after tracking some mysterious people into the north of the cloak forest. For this reason, they paid two good hands to divert the target. Send this information back." Henry replied.

The archdruid thought for a while and took out a staff from the table and handed it to him, "This is the reward you deserve, now you leave. I need to calm down and communicate with the forest spirit to see if I can Get some other information." After receiving the staff, the two turned and left.

Henry left the tree house without expression. After the incident, his senses to the arch druid were extremely bad. If you hate magic, you can kill those legendary wizards and organizations such as: Ilminster, Kelben, Seven Sisters of Magic, Arcane Brotherhood, Red Robe Mage Organization, Masked Mage Guild, Ghost City. Some legendary masters can kill you. People who only threaten the weak are destined to become weak.

Rasker patted him on the shoulder and said, "Don't be angry, the Grand Drew of Amared is like this. Almost all the druids here have been reprimanded by him. I heard that he hated magic when he was young. ."

"I'm fine, thank you for your kindness. Can tell me where I can find the Fa and how much, I think I should go and talk to her alone." Henry said with the staff.

“You don’t need me to take you there? Oh oh oh! There are things young people don’t like to mix with us elders.” After speaking, Rasker looked at him with an expression that I understand.

“The relationship between them is just simple friends, not as  as you think.” He explained quickly.

“No, no, you don’t need to explain to me that I am not Fado’s father or relatives. Go along this path, and the wooden house with a bamboo tube hanging on the door is Fado’s home. I wish you this evening. Have a wonderful night.” After finishing speaking, he waved to Henry and left.

Henry waited for Rasker to walk away before he began to observe the staff in his hand carefully. The whole staff is made of oak, and its body has been applied with divine spells to resist fire damage, death spells and toxins. Holding the staff tightly, a burst of energy entered the body, and the skin began to become as hard as a tree. It seems that this is another special ability holder permanently blessing the bark technique. This is a wand dedicated to the druid, and the sacred oak ensures that only the druid can trigger the special effects of the wand. After UU reading got the necessary information, he started walking towards Fado’s house. It took less than five minutes to follow Rasker’s direction and I saw Fado’s cabin. A bamboo tube carved with a beast hung at the door. He walked to the door and knocked on the door lightly. A few seconds later, Fado’s voice came out: “Who is it? Please leave me alone.”

“Oh my God! Wait a minute I’ll open the door for you.” After Fado finished speaking, he heard a loud noise in the room. It didn’t take long for the door to open. The girl rushed out and gave Henry a hug and said: “It’s great that you’re okay. I locked myself in the room and blamed myself for a day. How did you escape?”

Henry felt the girl’s care and smiled and told her about his experience. After listening, Fado said with emotion: “You are really amazing. I only heard the death sting spider in the story. By the way, come in and take a rest. You must be very tired after such an intense adventure.”

“No, I’m going to go north to hunt pterosaurs right away. The Shadow Druids make me feel a bit extreme and it doesn’t suit my path. I’m not welcome here.” Henry doesn’t want to stay with these Shadow Druids anymore. Together, once they find out that they are still a mage, they might be arrested and killed.

Fado was a little sad to hear Henry say this, but he nodded and said, “Well then, I wish you a good journey.”
