Chapter 549

Chapter 549 Birthday Party Next Week "But Mom, no one has seen what Micaela Galbraith looks like. It's not so easy to find her."

Kailyn was happy, but at the same time, she was a little worried. "But what if Micaela Galbraith has already recruited a last disciple, or she doesn't accept disciples easily like Carroll Schultz...'

"How do you know if you don't go and have a look?" Allison suddenly heard footsteps outside. She whispered, "Be quiet.'

Seeing her mother sitting upright, Kailyn followed suit and straightened her back.

As the footsteps got closer and closer, the door was pushed open. Old Mr. Jason said with a smile, "I finally sent that old guy away. With him around, the atmosphere is embarrassing.'

Allison and Kailyn smiled at the same time, showing the manners of a rich and powerful family.

'I'm really sorry, Allison. That old guy is too stubborn. Once he makes up his mind, no one can stop him."

"Old Mr. Jason, you're too kind. Without your recommendation, how could we have a chance to meet Carroll Schultz in this life? You've helped us a lot. It's Kailyn who is untalented and ignorant. She didn't deserve Carroll Schultz's guidance. It has nothing to do with you."

Old Mr. Jason was touched by her words and said with shame, "Well, I know a Master Quinn of chess who is more powerful than Lane Gold. I'll introduce him to you another day."

"Old Mr. Jason, Kailyn has always admired your chess skills, but she is not fated to be your disciple. She thinks that Carroll Schultz is the only one in the world who can be compared with you. But now that Carroll Schultz has a candidate, Kailyn can't be compared to him..."

"No, no, no, you think too highly of me. Micaela Galbraith is the only one in the country who can compare with that old guy."

Micaela Galbraith never invited guests to dinner.

Even business tycoons and upstarts would have a hard time meeting her...

"Jason, you're so nice!" Kailyn suddenly took his arm and was very touched. "You're even better to me than you are to your own grandfather... If there's a next life, I really want to have a granddaughter.'

"Hahaha, you're getting better at talking..." Old Mr. Jason was amused by her.

But Allison said seriously, "Don't mess around, Kailyn. Put your hand down."

"No, I like Jason! If I can become his granddaughter in my next life, I will definitely burn more incense for god. I will also cook delicious food for him every day, accompany him to the places he wants to go, do what he wants to do, and take care of him for the rest of his life."

Allison smiled helplessly and looked at Old Mr. Jason. "This girl is cheeky, but she really likes and admires you... She has envied your disciple more than once at home and has the opportunity to get your guidance..."

"What virtue do I have..." Old Mr. Jason was embarrassed by the praise.

On the other side.

As soon as Carroll Schultz left the tea room, he sent a message to Paige.

This was Carroll Schultz's 60th birthday, and he planned to hold a big party.

Afraid that Paige wouldn't come, Carroll Schultz added, "If you don't come, I won't love you anymore. I'll be very angry. You can't calm down just by coaxing me. Let me tell you, the consequences are very serious..."

At this time, Paige arrived at the South Cathedral of the University of Chicago. The girls around her couldn't help but say, "Look, the auditorium is much more magnificent than that of the University of Illinois at Chicago."

"Don't boost other people's morale. The auditorium is not a big deal. Only those who have good students can show their ability."

"That's right. We must win glory for the University of Illinois at Chicago today!"

"Paige."

At this time, Bess Whitney and Leana Barker saw Paige and rushed over to hold her hand.

"You're finally here. Bess and I are next! I'm so nervous!"

For some reason, they suddenly felt at ease when they saw Paige.

At this time, Gideon Jonathan also saw them and got up to walk toward them. He did not forget to comfort the students behind Paige. "It doesn't matter. Just try your best. Not everything has to fight for the first place."

Those students were a little confused as if they didn't know what Gideon Jonathan was talking about.

"You've wasted so much time over there. Are you crying?"

So, Paige spent a lot of time comforting them...

Gideon Jonathan was well aware of the talent of the University of Illinois at Chicago.

They were probably crying because they had lost...

"You didn't embarrass the University of Illinois at Chicago. Don't blame yourself."

As soon as Gideon Jonathan finished speaking, a short-haired girl said, "Gideon Jonathan, we didn't embarrass the University of Illinois at Chicago. On the contrary, today, Paige's performance was perfect today, especially the students of the University of Chicago should feel embarrassed."

"Let me tell you!" A girl with a ponytail said first, "Kailyn thought that she was invincible in violin. After getting the praise of a group of judges, she suddenly asked Paige to compete on the spot. After Paige went up, her level of the violin was simply superior to everyone present. Those judges praised Paige and even rushed to accept her as a disciple. They hoped that she could participate in the international violin competition to win glory for the country!"

Gideon Jonathan and his professional students were all dumbfounded when they heard this.

Especially Leana Barker and Bess Whitney. They had known Paige for so long that they didn't know that Paige could play the violin.

"Also, Kailyn lost. She was unconvinced, so she went to compete in chess with Paige in private. Guess who it was? It was Carroll Schultz, one of the three internationally famous chess masters. Carroll Schultz personally found the backstage of the University of Chicago to play chess with Paige!"
