Bai Chen read the screen with satisfaction. He only needed 60 points more to level up. He was surprised about the fact that Mission 5 was really easy though. What a piece of cake.

The boy tapped to see more instructions for Mission 5.

[Mission 5: Take a night's rest.]

After reading through the details, Bai Chen smiled faintly. It appeared that this Life Changing System really did care about his well-being. He proceeded to check out the instructions for Mission 4 to see the whereabouts of the lady who was going blind.

---

[Mission 4: Save a genius young lady who is going blind.]

Instruction: A young woman, who is a computer science genius, is going blind. Her temperament is very gloomy right now. Vision is her life. If she loses her ability to see, the woman will have suicidal thoughts. If you give her magic glasses at Xing Xiang Park, she will be very grateful.

Reward for success: Win 30 points

Penalty for failure: Lose 30 points

---

He focused his attention to where the green arrow was pointing without sparing the mission details another glance because he had seen them before. After giving this lady magic glasses, there was nothing else to be done.

Just another easy mission like the rest he had completed.

Where the end of the arrow pointed was right in front of him. Bai Chen gazed at what was in front.

Suddenly, he saw a woman in a white suit. She was sitting on a long marble bench, appearing absent-minded.

Though the lady was several metres away, Bai Chen could clearly see that she had a flawless figure. Her legs were long and slender under black stockings. She wore a white skirt slightly above knee length.

Her face was so beautiful, like an angel in heaven. Her skin was pale and spotless. Her two eyes were a breath-taking caramel brown.

Her long hair was also brown and tied back. She was a beautiful young lady with a ponytail.

“Pretty...,” Bai Chen opened his mouth wide in astonishment. His eyes widened while staring at her with a dumb expression.

This woman made his heart beat fast. It was the first time in his life that Bai Chen had seen a woman this beautiful.

After a while, he returned to normal. The man exhaled a little. “She’s so beautiful.”

Bai Chen admitted that he had never seen such a breath-taking woman in his life. After he turned 18, his life was spent in prison. How could he have come across a beautiful woman?

He thought that anyone who got to marry this woman would be a very lucky man indeed. She was both beautiful and a genius. If the guy who would get to marry her was not called lucky, then it would be very strange indeed.

“Too bad we’re living in different worlds,” Bai Chen mumbled softly to himself.

Even though he had never fallen in love or dated a girl, it did not mean that he did not want to have a girlfriend or get married.

Back then, he was just too focused on studying to make his parents proud that he did not pay attention to this type of thing.

When he was in prison, the thing that he realised—which was one of the things he had regretted the most—was the fact that in this lifetime, he would never get to have a loving family of his own, like how his parents did and how he was born: As the outcome of love between two people.

What he uttered to himself was true. He and this genius lady really were living in different worlds. She was really out of his league, from economic status to looks. There was nothing that would make Bai Chen an equal match to her. This was the reason why he had sighed previously as well.

Bai Chen shook his head and chose to stop thinking about this matter. “Let’s get this mission over with and go home.”

He chugged down the rest of the cola in one go and stood up from the bench. Bai Chen threw the can into the bin and looked left and right for a bit.

When he saw that no one was there, he sent his thoughts to the white dimension ring that he was wearing on his index finger.

Suddenly, beautiful gold-framed glasses appeared in his hand.

It was clear that after Bai Chen had obtained the glasses, he had put them inside the dimension ring. The glasses were not in a transparent state anymore. They appeared right now as a normal object that anyone could see, like normal glasses through and through.

Bai Chen stared at the glasses for a little while. He put them in the sleeve of his jacket. The top he was wearing today was a long-sleeved black jacket over a t-shirt. His lower body was in black jeans. The net cost of his outfit today was only 300 yuan.

Bai Chen could be characterized as a normal 18-year-old young man with a slightly good-looking face.
