

CEO Bride 482

Chapter 482

Over at Nash's side, Jupiter decided to summon Kai for interrogation at the station.

Angelica expressed her concerns, "Isn't Kai Walter Watson's grandson? Is it appropriate to just take him in like that?"

Jupiter replied indifferently, "Even the emperor is subject to the same laws as the common people. It doesn't matter that he's Walter's grandson. Even if he was the governor's grandson, we'd still interrogate him as necessary..."

Angelica fell silent.

It was not that she feared power.

It was because Walter was connected to several charity foundations and political consultative conferences.

Offending Walter could make things difficult for her and Chief Holt, especially since a few words from Walter to Chief Zink could ruin their future.

Nash noticed Angelica's apprehension and said with a smile, "Let's wait until the chip is fixed. Right now, it's just our speculation. It's indeed not good to arrest someone without sufficient evidence."

not an arrest,

"Let's wait for the recording to be restored, then.

phone on the desk rang.

with a smile. "Please excuse me. I take this call."

Well, we won't bother you any longer. Once the chip is fixed, you can let me know. I'll and shook hands with Jupiter. "Alright. Thank your trouble."

and Hera accompanied Jupiter and Angelica to Jupiter said, "No need to see us out. I'm not worthy of

was the company's was even more daunting.
them sending him off
we won't be sending you any then."

"Goodbye!"

waved to Hera, then closed the elevator doors.

Angelica asked in a low voice, "Chief Holt, do you think it was Kai who did better than we do. From his attitude just now, it seems unlikely he evidence currently points wants to frame Kai Watson?

meaningful smile. "The world of these wealthy people lip, then asked hesitantly, "Should we tell not ordinary. Although he was being sanctioned by Walter could potentially destabilize Jonford's entire world.

right now... Besides, Kai isn't a fool. He must know someone is Angelica said dejectedly, "I hope that chip can be repaired soon!"

Hera was busy dealing with company matters for her mother.

Nash, on the other hand, began to enjoy some leisure time.

"Hera, I'm going to the other branch for a bit. Later, the vice president from Innovate Collective is coming over. Can you receive their group for me?"

Lauren left some documents on the desk.

Hera picked up the files and glanced at them. "Isn't Innovate Collective also a chip company? What do they want with Baroque?"

Lauren replied with a smile, "Why else would a competitor come to us? They want us to do contract manufacturing."

Hera pouted. "Contract manufacturing has such low profits. Why are you still accepting these kinds of orders?”

Lauren gave a helpless smile. “We earn where we can. When we had no business, we couldn’t even find contract manufacturing work.”

After speaking, she looked apologetically at Nash. “Nashy... sorry for taking up your and Hera’s time today.”

Nash had just returned, and she had planned to let him and Hera rest for a few days, but the company’s issues were relentless.

Nash smiled broadly. “Don’t say that. Hera and I are still spending time together, aren’t we?”

After exchanging a few more pleasantries, Lauren hurried away.

About ten minutes later, the secretary came in and said, “Ms. Lewis, the people from Innovate Collective are here.”