Chapter 291

A few women nearby came around, including Felicia, who spoke the loudest.

“How dare you hit her! Do you know who you've hit?”

Seated at the bar counter, Peter was waiting to see what would happen next as he sipped his wine from his glass.

He loved seeing the ludicrousness of women when they fought for him. It always amused him.

Playfully, he cast a side glance at Gwendolyn, whom he found attractive. She had captured his attention ever since he laid his eyes on her.

If she can beat them all down, I would like to have a try with her. I always preferred hot girls.

Gwendolyn shot a glance at Felicia calmly, noticing the latter was wearing that pale green skirt while acting innocent and naive.

Oh, she's behind the reason these people are finding fault with me.

“Felicia, do you think you can get Patrick back by doing so?” An amused look flashed across Gwendolyn's eyes as she spoke.

After hearing Gwendolyn's words, a few women near her recalled the text message Evangeline sent earlier that informed them that Felicia was a liar and she had broken up with Patrick.

They looked inquiringly toward Felicia, who had their attention at that moment.

Felicia's heart ached as she heard the coldness in Patrick's voice, feeling utterly wretched.

She kept shaking her head. "Pat, I didn't mean that. She was the one who said the necklace is from a flea market."

Felicia's voice was slightly hoarse. One could hear that she was trying to hold back her tears.

"You believe it's a fake just because she said so? What a fool," Patrick sneered.

He had no intention of disclosing that the necklace worth one hundred and fifty million. Then, placing his arm around Gwendolyn, he added warmly, "Let's go!"

However, the tone of his voice when he spoke to Gwendolyn was strangely warm. It caused everyone to think that the man who lost his temper in front of Felicia just now was not the same man who spoke warmly to Gwendolyn.

The latter sounded so gentle, and his voice was so soothing.

Patrick led Gwendolyn to a place not too far away with his arm around her. Then, he pinched her slim waist with his slender fingers.

"Don't run around next time."

Earlier, he lost her in the blink of an eye and had his bodyguards searching for her.

He kept looking for her on the dance floor, not expecting that she would go to the bar.

A faint smile crept on Estelle's face as she rolled her eyes at him. “I was just giving you a warning.”

Gwendolyn looked at Kevin and Estelle from the side. She could tell that Kevin liked his young girlfriend a lot.

Patrick stared at her intently. “What are you looking at?”

Following her gaze, he looked in the direction of where Kevin and Estelle were standing. Upon realizing that Gwendolyn was staring at them, he furrowed his brows slightly. “Do you like that girl?”

Gwendolyn retracted her gaze and stared into his deep eyes. “She's young and adorable. Also, she has quite a personality. I feel she looks like the old me.”

Her expression changed a little as she uttered the last sentence. It seemed like she was reminiscing.

Before she turned eighteen, she was the precious daughter of the Ashton family. Not only did her grandfather dote her a lot, but everyone else treated her well too. Moreover, she was also a capricious, stubborn young lady.

Unfortunately, after that incident, she had no choice but to endure everything she should not have encountered at that age.

Candace could not stand her daughter being wronged. She scoffed, “Fel, I'll go and see them tomorrow. Don't worry. Gwendolyn will disappear soon!”

Felicia felt better upon hearing her mother's promise.

Gwendolyn had made her feel so aggrieved that night, so she was determined to make Gwendolyn pay with pounds of flesh.

Meanwhile, Gwendolyn was feeling a little hungry after the dance. “Patrick, let's go and eat something!”

Patrick smiled. He wrapped his arms around her and patted her head dotingly. “Sure. What do you feel like eating?”

He was not a fan of cold buffet food. However, Kevin told him before that there was a restaurant near the buffet area where Patrick could order whatever he wanted.

Gwendolyn pondered for a moment before asking, "Isn't there a buffet?"

She could take some of each of the dishes. After all, she was not a picky eater, so she could eat whatever was edible.

The two walked over to the dining area. After pushing the door open, they arrived at a tiny restaurant.

Gwendolyn's face and ears reddened when she heard Patrick's words.

She shook her head and said, "Patrick, stop fooling around. We're eating."

Is it appropriate to talk about that while we're eating?

His smile grew wider, and his eyes were as bright as sunlight, making him look charming.

Just then, Rosalie came in, holding her mother's hand. A smile appeared on Rosalie's face when she saw Patrick from afar. However, her smile disappeared when she saw him holding Gwendolyn's hand.

Seeing Rosalie stop in her tracks, her mother asked, "Rosalie, what's wrong?"

Rosalie's mother, Rebecca, was joining the birthday party upstairs, but she was dragged here by Rosalie.

Rosalie told her there were a lot of delicious foods here, and they were prepared in Kevin's private kitchen.

At first, Rosalie thought she could enjoy a good meal, but she had witnessed such a scene.

She made Rebecca sit in front of the dining table and said, "Mom, you may order first. I'm going to have a few words with Pat."

Rebecca looked at Patrick and Gwendolyn, and she came to a realization.

She finally understood that Rosalie had finished her class to come back earlier because of Patrick.

Gwendolyn remembered she never cared about her image while she was eating with Patrick back then. She would deliberately destroy her image by gobbling up the food just to make Patrick dislike her.

That time, she never thought she would become Patrick's girlfriend one day.

Gwendolyn was embarrassed with that memory.

Patrick put another big piece of mutton with bone on her plate.

Then, he cut the mutton gracefully with a knife and fork and fed it into his mouth. He looked great while he was eating.

Gwendolyn found it unfair. She did not understand why she had to use her hands to eat the mutton while Patrick could use a knife and fork.

She wanted to retort, but she knew Patrick would not give her a chance to do so.

Pursing her lips in dissatisfaction, she did not want to care about her image anymore since she had already lost her image. It was a slice of wild goat meat, and the taste was definitely better than what she usually ate.

Gwendolyn held it by the bone and started to savor the mutton with her hands.

Patrick's expression fell when he noticed that Gwendolyn's gaze had darkened.

“What? Have you never thought about marrying me?” he asked.

Patrick was very disappointed. Originally, he thought that Gwendolyn would be all over him when he managed to win her over.

But now, he knew that he had gotten his hopes too high. Gwendolyn had never imagined a future with him.

Feeling crestfallen, he raised the wine glass and drank all the wine in one gulp. The atmosphere in the restaurant instantly turned cold.

Even Gwendolyn felt the temperature in the restaurant decrease. She felt a little cold as a result.

“No, I didn't mean that,” she responded.

With that, she placed some food on his plate. Because she wanted to be with him, she asked that question.

“What do you mean then?” Patrick looked at her coldly. “I feel like we're just fooling around. Once we've satisfied ourselves in this ambiguous relationship, we'll go our separate ways. Gwendolyn, I'm not as casual as you are.”

The more Patrick thought about it, the angrier he became. If he was such a man, he would have been surrounded by women long ago. It was a wonder why he became celibate for so many years.

Sensing Rebecca was looking at her, Gwendolyn glanced over at the woman.

Rebecca was smiling at her. Gwendolyn also returned a smile in response.

Rosalie saw her mother's expression, so she turned her head to have a look. When she turned around, she asked, "Mom, aren't you emboldening her by acknowledging her like that?"

Rebecca snapped back to her senses. "I simply thought that she looked familiar. However, I can't seem to recall where I've seen her before."

Rosalie was eating the food. Initially, she was thinking that the food was delicious and that Kevin really knew how to enjoy himself.

When she heard her mother's words, she lifted her head up.

"Mom, did you say that you've met Gwendolyn before?" she asked.

Rosalie was a little curious. Will Mom bring up some bad things about Gwendolyn? If Gwendolyn's image is ruined, then I'll have to see if the Lowen family still wants her!

Rebecca shook her head. "She looks very familiar, but I just can't seem to remember where I've seen her before."

After Gwendolyn and Patrick finished their meals, the two of them left the restaurant and returned to the banquet hall.

Kevin walked up to them. "Pat, how is it? Does the food from my private kitchen taste great?"

Gwendolyn was stunned. "I've met her before?"

Patrick's deep voice sounded quite sexy inside the car.

He replied, "Yup."

Patrick narrowed his eyes and smirked while Gwendolyn was trying her best to recall if she had met that person before or not. His dream girl? Could it be Felicia? It can't be! If it's her, then I have to break up with Patrick!

Although Gwendolyn thought for a long time, she was clueless in the end.

She said, "If you won't tell me, then so be it."

Patrick absolutely adored her jealous attitude. She's so cute!

"It was when you entered my house for the first time. She was on my bed," Patrick stated. He then reminded her, "You told her that you wanted to make some clothes for her."

Gwendolyn's eyes instantly lit up. "You're talking about that doll on your bed."

The car suddenly swerved for a bit. Larry was so shocked that he hurriedly said, "Sorry about that, Mr. Lowen!"

Originally, Gwendolyn was feeling quite groggy. When she heard Patrick's words, her eyes suddenly lit up as she pulled her lips away.

“Y-You...”

His words made Gwendolyn feel particularly shy. This man will truly say anything that comes to his mind!

Patrick coaxed Gwendolyn softly. The two of them were speaking to each other very quietly. Larry, who was in front of them, could not hear anything.

“Silly girl, there's nothing to be shy about. Does this mean that you have feelings for me? You want Young Pat, don't you?” Patrick muttered.

Gwendolyn was stunned. Young Pat? That nickname is too cringy!

Her mind was already filled with the figure of Young Pat. She bit her lower lip softly and thought that it would be pretty good-looking.

Gwendolyn leaned closer to Patrick's embrace. She truly did not know anything about this matter.

Those nights six years ago were like a dream to her. Those moments felt completely surreal to her. She had no idea what happened.

Patrick had taught her everything she knew. What they did previously was probably the most daring thing she had done over the years.

She had always kept her distance from men. When she got together with Patrick, everything got out of hand.
