

CEOs Passion 4

Chapter 4

Meanwhile, Natalie headed backstage with her children.

All of a sudden, Connor lifted his head to look up at his mother. "Mommy, that bad woman was bullying you, wasn't she?"

There was even a hint of certainty in his voice when he said that.

Natalie was stunned at his words. She lowered her head to observe her son, taking in his furrowed brows. To her surprise, her son looked rather angry.

She didn't think that they would witness everything earlier. At the same time, she was amazed at how observant he was despite his young age.

It was true though - Jasmine was not a good person by any means.

However, that was between the two of them. There was in no way she would let her children get affected by this.

"No, she wasn't. She was just lost."

"You're lying." Connor ruthlessly exposed her lie.

He clearly heard the woman calling his mother a bumpkin earlier on, and he was not happy about it.

Natalie gulped. Her son was getting harder to deal with because he was just too smart for his relaxed when his mother came clean. After that, he did not bit of detail out.

Even though she was not quite sure what was going on, she still smacked at her two darlings with a smile, she felt the birth to these two years ago. That was one of while, they finally just entered the door when a round was a resounding success!" Her assistant and best friend, Joyce Rivers, was chosen the bouquet before walking to the front. She turned to face the staff members present thing. As long as you're willing

"Yeah!"

"Let's do it!"

cheered

eyes grow wet with tears after five years had taught her a lot about life, and the