

Chapter 7262

Steve felt a little annoyed thinking about how he had just used the same words to get rid of the principal.

After all, the principal was still there.

And if he had heard it, he would have lost face.

But he naturally didn't dare to show any dissatisfaction with Charlie,

So he quickly nodded and said,

"Okay, Mr. Wade, please let me know if you need anything."

The principal was shocked and couldn't help but ponder the identities of Charlie and Maria.

It was already surprising that these two young people knew Steve Routhchild,

But he didn't expect Steve to be so eager to curry favor with them.

More importantly, they didn't seem flattered at all.

Instead, they felt it was all perfectly normal.

Steve, in his arrogance, thought that Charlie might have come to Stanford to bring the girl with him.

So he said to the principal,

"Come on, let's have a good chat."

"I have something to tell you."

Upon hearing this, the principal was overjoyed.

He wasn't worried that Steve would look down on him.

He was worried that Steve wouldn't even bother to look at him.

Now that Steve was taking the initiative to talk to him,

It proved that he at least had the opportunity to speak with the second-in-command of the Routhchild family.

So the principal quickly arranged for his secretary to set up a meeting place in his office,

And then respectfully invited Steve to his office.

On the way to the office building in a golf cart,

The Stanford principal cautiously asked Steve,

"Mr. Routhchild, what is your relationship with those two young men with Asian faces?"

Steve answered without hesitation,

"That young man is my boss."

"Boss?!"

The principal was dumbfounded.

How could a young man with Asian faces be the boss of the legal heir of the Routhchild family?

It sounded as absurd as Elon Musk,

The world's richest man, working for someone else.

Seeing his stunned expression,

Steve couldn't help but laugh, "What? Surprised?"

The principal nodded obediently and said,

"Surprised, very surprised and unable to understand..."

Steve said calmly, "There was no need to tell you this."

"But since these two have condescended to come to Stanford,"

"They might need your help in the future."

"Remember, Mr. Wade is my boss."

"From now on, his coming to Stanford is the same as my coming."

"Whatever he asks you to do, you have to do."

"Even if he asks you to demolish a building in Stanford,"

"Just arrange for people to do it."

"After you're done, come to me, and I'll reimburse you."

The principal was even more shocked and didn't know what to say.

Steve couldn't help but mutter,

"What are you standing there for?"

"Did you hear what I just said?"

The principal came to his senses and quickly nodded respectfully,

"I heard you clearly, I heard you clearly!"

"Don't worry, Mr. Steve, I will definitely carry out your orders!"

"That's more like it."

Steve nodded in satisfaction and said,

"By the way, Mr. Wade brought that young lady here this time,"

"Perhaps to arrange for her to study at Stanford."

"Remember, no matter who Mr. Wade arranges, you must immediately arrange the admissions process and provide the highest-level full scholarship."

"Furthermore, whatever college is picked, you must assign them the best professor in that college."

"Any negligence will result in you losing your job."

The principal quickly replied,

"Mr. Routhchild, since you've said so,"

"I wouldn't object even if I had to create a separate college for Mr. Wade!"

"You can rest assured!"

Steve smiled and said, "I'm very satisfied with that."

"Just remember one thing: at Stanford,"

"Seeing Mr. Wade is more useful than seeing me."
