

Chapter 7301

Upon hearing Charlie's question, Zemer subconsciously frowned.

After a moment's thought, he respectfully replied,

"The Left Army Commander's headquarters has completed a major overhaul of all its elite guard posts."

"The scale of this overhaul is enormous,"

"Involving the relocation of tens of thousands of personnel."

"It has now been ensured that no elite guard or elite soldier can be stationed in the same location as their families."

"Such a relocation can only be achieved with the personal order of the Grand Commander,"

"And because it requires coordination from almost all departments,"

"The operation is too large to be kept secret from the wise ruler."

Charlie knew that Zemer wouldn't lie,

So he reasoned that piecing together tens of thousands of people who had been completely scattered would be an extremely massive undertaking,

And might even attract Victoria's attention.

Therefore, Charlie could only temporarily abandon the plan.

Whether to rescue these elite guards,

And elite soldiers would have to be considered later.

Now, there's no need for him to continue cultivating his relationship with the Left Army Commander's Mansion.

After all, he needs to wait for the Routhchild family to push oil prices to a new high,

Allowing the Left Army Commander's Mansion to make a fortune in this artificially created market.

As long as Rachel Getty becomes the Left Army Commander's Mansion's most trusted scholar,

There will be plenty of opportunities to deal with them slowly in the future.

So, he told Zemer,

"From now on, you must contact Rachel Getty once a day."

"If I have any orders for you, Rachel will relay them for me."

"At that time, you must do your best to understand."

Zemer respectfully replied without hesitation,

"I understand!"

Charlie nodded and instructed him,

"Now take me to the shore,"

"And then you can go back."

Zemer immediately complied and docked the ship at the nearest point.

After disembarking, Charlie immediately called Steve Routhchild.

Steve quickly arranged for an armored Cadillac to arrive at Charlie's location.

Once the car stopped, Charlie got in.

Maria, who was sitting alone in the back,

Asked with concern,

"How did things go, young master?"

Charlie smiled slightly and said,

"It's all taken care of. Didn't you want to go to Harvard?"

"Why don't we have Steve arrange a plane?"

"And we'll go to Massachusetts first?"

Maria asked Charlie,

"Is there nothing else to do in Miami?"

Charlie nodded.

"We'll have to wait a bit until Steve takes over,"

Charlie said.

Maria nodded gently and smiled,

"Since there's nothing else here,"

"I'll follow your instructions, young master."

Charlie took out his phone and called Steve,

Asking him to arrange a private jet and a hotel for him after landing in Massachusetts.

The Routhchild family's businesses are spread throughout the United States,

And Harvard, as one of the top universities in America,

It is naturally the cradle for the Routhchild family to cultivate the next generation.

They have deep roots in and around these Ivy League schools.

As Charlie expected, after receiving Charlie's call,

Steve immediately said to him,

"Mr. Wade, our family has a private club on the Harvard University campus."

"Ostensibly, it's a private club for high-end alumni,"

"But in reality, it's our family's property."

"There are guest rooms there."

"You two can stay there."

"The Routhchild family will take care of you."