

Chapter 7310

This means Youngheart must obey him willingly.

To achieve this, neither coercion nor bribery will work.

Youngheart must first commit a colossal crime.

Since Youngheart dares to embezzle money behind Victoria's back,

It proves that Youngheart already harbors ulterior motives.

Based on this, by using huge profits to induce Youngheart to embezzle public funds,

Once he creates a huge hole, he is very likely to commit a capital crime.

Only by helping him at that time can we give him a chance to betray Victoria without hesitation.

Rachel didn't know Charlie's true intentions,

But she could roughly tell that Charlie's desire to control Youngheart was not just empty talk.

So, without hesitation, she said to Charlie,

"Mr. Chen, please feel free to give any orders."

"And I will do my best!"

Charlie nodded, took out his phone,

And called Steve, who was playing basketball.

Steve was playing basketball with Robert.

Actually, Steve didn't think much of Robert,

But in order not to arouse his suspicion,

He could only pretend to admire him and chat with him on the court.

Upon receiving Charlie's call, Steve stepped aside and respectfully asked,

"Mr. Wade, what can I do for you?"

Charlie replied, "Come here for a moment."

"I need to discuss something with you."

"Okay!"

Steve readily agreed, then walked over to Robert and said with a smile,

"Robert, your swing still has a lot of room for improvement."

"Practice it properly first."

"I'm going to the restroom."

"Remember, you must practice golf diligently so you'll have the chance to compete with the best players on the course."

Robert was only in his early twenties,

And since he wasn't a professional golfer,

His skills were naturally much worse than Steve's,

Who had been playing for decades.

Hearing this, he immediately said respectfully,

"Yes, Grandpa, don't worry, I'll try my best!"

Steve nodded with satisfaction,

Then turned and drove the golf cart back to the club's VIP area.

He jogged up to Charlie and, seeing Rachel there, respectfully asked,

"Mr. Chen, what are your orders?"

Charlie pointed to Rachel beside him and said,

"The oil price manipulation last time went very well."

"I want to increase the bait further."

"If I want the other party to earn at least a billion dollars,"

"What market conditions do you think are most suitable?"

Steve thought for a moment and said,

"If you want to earn a billion dollars in a short time,"

"The most suitable option right now seems to be cryptocurrency."

"The President has partnered with us to issue his own cryptocurrency,"

"But the market performance has been mediocre,"

"Mainly because we haven't really put in the effort to operate it."

"If you want Miss Getty's people to make money, you can tell them that we're planning to pump up the price of this cryptocurrency."

"After they buy in,"

"We'll start pushing the price up."

"Once their paper profits reach a billion dollars,"

"We'll manipulate the market down."

Charlie asked him, "In this niche market,"

"If you want to pump up the price and make them money,"

"You'll probably have to put some money into it yourself, right?"

Steve nodded casually.

He said, "The cryptocurrency market isn't like crude oil."

"Crude oil has a wide impact."

"So when the price goes up, buyers have no choice but to accept it all,"

"And then pass the increased costs on to people all over the world."

"Oil prices will rise, petroleum product prices will rise,"

"And airfares and taxes will also rise."

"Our profits from driving up oil prices are actually paid for by people all over the world."

"But cryptocurrencies don't have a global safety net."

"So for someone to really make money, someone else has to actually invest."

"During our price surge, some retail investors will definitely follow the trend."

"Then, let Ms. Getty's people cash out at the high price."

"And I'll take over with the retail investors."

"If he makes a billion dollars, I estimate I'll have to invest about seven hundred million dollars,"

"And the remaining three hundred million dollars will be borne by the retail investors who followed the trend."

Charlie nodded and said calmly,

"I don't care about the fate of the retail investors."

"I'll cover your seven hundred million."

"You're helping me, and I can't let you suffer losses."

Steve immediately became anxious upon hearing this and quickly said,

"Mr. Chen, why are you being so formal with me?"

"Are you treating me like an outsider?"