

Chapter 7323

Charlie, Yun Rugo, and Song Ruyu had all already abstained from grains and no longer needed to eat.

Lin Wan'er already knew this and still extended the invitation, indicating that she genuinely hoped they could share a meal together.

Charlie, naturally not wanting to spoil her fun, smiled and said, "No problem, I'm fine with anything, it just depends on what you'd like to eat."

Yun Rugo and Song Ruyu also chimed in.

Yun Rugo smiled and remarked, "I've known Mr. Ye and Miss Lin for so long, but we've never eaten together. I've been wanting to for a while now."

Song Ruyu smiled and added, "I'm quite good at cooking, but this Nordic research station doesn't have the right cooking utensils or ingredients for Chinese cuisine. If all else fails, we can try to make a hot pot."

Lin Wan'er said happily, "That's what I was thinking too! It's freezing outside, it's polar night, and there's the aurora borealis outside the window. Eating hot pot by the window would be perfect!"

Yun Rugo smiled and said, "Then let's see what ingredients we have." "It's suitable for hot pot. We have enough ingredients here, but we didn't bring any, so we don't have any hot pot base or dipping sauces."

Lin Wan'er smiled happily and said, "I'm different from you. You're all cultivators who can live without eating. I get hungry if I don't eat for a meal, so I always bring food and drinks when I travel. That's why I have some hot pot base, dipping sauces, and water in my luggage."

Charlie smiled and said, "That's great! Wan'er, go get the base and dipping sauces. I'll go to the research station's kitchen to see what ingredients we have."

Yun Rugo interjected, "Mr. Ye, please don't go to the kitchen. I and..." "Ruyu, go ahead."

Song Ruyu quickly nodded in agreement, "Yes, Mr. Ye, leave the selection and preparation of ingredients to me and Sister Ruge. Please help Miss Lin out later."

Lin Wan'er suddenly felt a pang of regret: "Oh dear, I didn't bring a portable induction cooker. I only have a small stove for brewing tea. The heat isn't enough for hot pot. The Nordic research station probably doesn't have one either. If we want hot pot, we'll probably have to go to the kitchen, so we can't eat by the window."

"It's alright," Charlie said with a smile, "All you need is water. A little spiritual energy will suffice. Don't worry about eating by the window." "You can eat out in the freezing cold if you want, no problem."

Lin Wan'er's eyes lit up, and she said with delight, "I almost forgot that your cultivation can also be converted into heat. If that's true, I'd really like to try eating hot pot on the Antarctic ice sheet where it's tens of degrees below zero. Does what you said earlier count?"

Charlie smiled and nodded, "Of course it counts. There are only four of us within a hundred kilometers, so there's nothing to worry about eating outside. Here's what we'll do: once the ingredients are ready, we'll take them all out. I can protect the vegetables and other ingredients with my spiritual energy so they won't freeze."

Lin Wan'er smiled and agreed, happily returning to her room.

Yun Rugo and Song Ruyu also went to the kitchen at the back of the research station. The Nordic research station was quite large for four people. The kitchen was over a hundred meters away, and you had to pass through the station's work area, fitness area, and dining room before reaching the kitchen.

Charlie remained alone in the hall, gazing at the vast ice plains and the ever-changing aurora borealis outside the window. He suddenly recalled the mysterious entity that had guided him under the aurora.

It had not only taught him the Great Sun Tathagata hand seals but had even led him to that mysterious and vast underground city.

Charlie thought to himself, since it knew about that underground city, it must be connected to those advanced cultivators.

Perhaps, it might even be something they left behind.

But what exactly was it?
